What to do if.?

What can you do if you see a flying saucer and don't know who to tell about it?

You have seen a flying saucer and would like to speak to someone about it:

What to do if you see a flying saucer?-like this one supposedly photographed from a Brazilian Navy survey ship near an island off the coast of Argentina.

Copyright, 1975. The New Atlantean Research Society. We are now presenting a monthly lecture series on the mysterious world that surrounds us, the Old Continent, and other related topics. Our goal is to investigate the UNknown, the UNexplained and the UNexplored. Our Journal will print all data relating to the above fields, and we pledge to give and present BOTH sides of controversial questions, giving each full and equal opportunity to express their viewpoints. Subscription rates: $4.00 per year, quarterly - $1.00 Extra for the Hotline Newsletter. Until September 1st. 1975, when we will charge $5.00 per year for the Journal. Overseas subscriptions: $6.00 per year, for the Journal.

FACT: " DOCTORS TESTING DRUG THAT ERASES MEMORY" - Washington (AP) - Doctors are experimenting with a memory erasing drug that can rid a surgical patient of recollections about the operating room. Called lorazepam, the drug still is experimental and available only for medical research. When administered before surgery, a patient can remain awake in the operating room under a local anesthetic and not remember the experience... (Source: St. Pete Times - 10/16/74)

FACT: The most common denominator among 'contactees' is their memory loss, their loss of comprehension of time, space and dimension, their inability to function in our 'reality' -- once they have experienced the above effects.

FACT: When one examines the 'contactee' legends, reads the many books dealing with their trips to Venus, Mars, Saturn and Beyond, one again finds a common denominator -- they all either drank 'nectar', or a 'sparkling amber liquid', or in the case of the latest 'contactee' in Wyoming, took four pills (just because the 'spaceman' held them out to him and he couldn't "resist") -- and when they returned (if indeed they even left in the first place) they were totally changed. Their personalities were different, their former religious beliefs were left behind in the dust of their new found Cosmic Awareness. This is NOT to say that Cosmic Awareness cannot be found, but it can be found within ones own self, not in a space ship taking pills or drinking nectar.

Controversy within the UFO field has gone on for years as to the validity of these 'trips' to Outer Everywhere. In one case years ago, the person said he visited the Moon, Venus, Mars and Clarion - then went into our Earth and visited there awhile. All the time receiving instructions, knowledge, etc. He then was deposited in a downtown area of a large California city..... All this within the space of 3½ hours! Of course, he also had much to eat and drink on his journey.

FACT: SOMETHING obviously happened. They are, in the most part, NOT liars. They simply relate, to the best of their limited ability, to tell you what they FEEL occurred, where they went, what they say they BELIEVE. They are not consciously deceiving. In some cases when hypnotic regression recall has been administered, the 'story' becomes a totally different one than the 'contactee' remembers within his own conscious mind.

FACT: Any research organization, or any individual researcher who fails to take the 'contactee' seriously because of the controversial nature of the problem -- is totally remiss in bearing the name 'researcher'. What happens, happens, and if we don't LIKE what happens, what possible bearing can this have on truth? I don't like the atom bomb... but this does not mean that I can stick my head in the proverbial sand and ignore it -- or its implications. Somebody or Something OutThere is manipulating Earth minds-- and if we do not find out Who or Why -- prepare to be 'manipulated' yourself... JOC

 A Federal Trade Commission judge has ruled that four Pacific Coast travel agencies have made false and fraudulent claims to sell tours to the Phillipines for "psychic surgery." Psychic surgery is a supposed form of treatment by which the body is "operated upon" without surgical instruments, using only the bare hands. The order requires the firms to stop promoting such tours and give a written notice to persons who have taken or contemplate taking such tours, warning of the serious danger involved... In his order, the judge said that "psychic surgery is pure and unmitigated fakery." The order is not final and may be appealed, stayed or docketed for review. (St. Petersburg Times - 3/30/75)

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Enclosed is $4.00 to continue my subscription to The New Atlantean Journal... I find the articles about 'contactees' most informative, and hope more people who have this experience will find your publication so they can recognize this experience for what it is, and not think they have lost their marbles. I was very happy to hear about the existence of metapsychiatrists, and wish them luck in eliminating the bottleneck to the recognition of this experience and proper evaluation of this which bottleneck is caused by skeptical psychiatrists... I doubt that there are any metapsychiatrists in this state. Keep up the good work. Respectfully, Sylvia Berl, Ca.

Dear Sylvia: There must be at least ONE metapsychiatrist in your state! Hopefully he or she will come forward. JOC

Please find enclosed $4.00... My interests are anything Science refuses to admit as fact - Vortex physics, UFO propulsion systems, materializations and dematerialization principles, Pyramid energy, etc. and would like to correspond with anyone, scientifically trained or otherwise, (scientific background preferred) regarding these various topics. Yours in the great Search, Don Reed. PS... Saw your ad in the "Pyramid Guide". My address: 94 Midwood Ave., Wolcott, CT 06716.

Greetings! What a fantastic Journal! I've re-read it three times and I've only had it for a day... What can I say... "That's The Way!" ... * Michael Talbot has it on the button... Much Light, TAL.

Dear TAL: Thanks for the kind words about Michael Talbot. As for the Journal -- We try hard! Your contributions have enriched us in many untold ways, and in told ones, too! Your beautiful cover drawing will grace our next issue! JOC

I mailed my subscription for the Journal, I'd hate to miss even one issue... I've written to the Enquirer for the addresses of a few Psychics. They sent me Ron Warmoth. Ron wrote to me and explained that he can not locate treasure or buried money. There are just a few that might. I would like to get in touch with them, can you help me? ... I would appreciate any information. Sincerely, John Davis, 14231 South Union Avenue, Orland Park, Ill. 60462.

Dear John: I have trouble just finding myself in the morning! Really couldnt do a thing for treasure - buried or otherwise! However - if any of you New Atlanteans out there know a psychic, or have other info to share -- write John... JOC

Glad to hear from you and also to continue to receive your Atlantean Journals. Keep 'em coming. Talbot's references to the Brothers of the Shadow - psychons - are of value to us in making additions to our own talk on "The Dweller on the Threshold"... My opinion of the continuing butchering of pets and livestock for highly selective portions of the carcasses is that this is the work of UFO elementals, who like meat delicacies as much as most of us humans do! About all we have on it here was in the Jan-Feb 1968 Journal, in the article "The Gruesome Etheric Border Patrol". This you can reprint, too, if you like... Yours, Riley.

Dear Riley: I like! I also will give the rest of your comments hard thoughts! Your BSRA Journal has always been widely read and highly respected in our field, and over the years your consultations have always had a ring of truth in them! The article is in this issue, and I am sure that you will be glad to answer any questions from our New Atlantians! JOC

... There seems to be a wave of disappearances in Sweden at the moment, and the funny thing is that people, mostly youths and kids, seems to vanish in our UFO-Window areas. Yet I got too little material to prove that UFOS is to blame. But there is several funny things surrounding the most mysterious disappearances, for instance: SUNDAY is the day of the week when most people disappear. And when I was checking some old foreign cases I found that Sunday was the disappearing-day there as well.

In many cases the police have found clothes at the same spot as the missing person was last seen - and yet it has been similar clothes as the missing person was wearing when vanished it was not his or hers according to the police! In April this year I personally investigated a case of a missing 13 year old boy by the name of Paul Virtanen. Paul disappeared off an island in the same inexplicable way as 13 year old Alvar Larsson, who Keel wrote an article about recently in FATE. Alvar Larsson disappeared on April 16, 1967 and Paul Virtanen on March 16, this year. When we scouted the area, guided by the police-inspector in charge of the case, we found a sweater close to the spot where Paul was last seen. And yet he had a sweater on when he vanished -- it was not his.

And no matter how remote areas people are disappearing in, there seems to be people wandering around in it - people that report they have seen a little boy or girl, a man or a woman resembling the disappeared person. Later when the missing person is found either alive or dead, it has been proven that he or she was never near the place where his or her "double" was observed! So who are these people observed wandering around and never identified? If you have studied the enigma of disappeared people maybe you have found similar oddities in USA? Jan-Ove Sundberg - Motala, Sweden... Dated September 19, 1974...

Editors Note: I reprint this letter from my files in the hopes of bringing forth additional cases of this nature. All comments welcome.

BIGFOOT RECORDED LIVE?

by A.R. Berry

"The sounds are definitely primate.
The question is: what primate?"

Dr. William Mason,
primate behaviorist,
Davis, Ca. 1973

SONORA, CA. -- Ever heard strange "people" voices in the woods even though you were quite certain that no other people were around? What was it like, a muffled conversation? Chatter? Gibberish of some sort?

Something in the whiskey, no doubt. But maybe not. Just maybe it was Bigfoot, a gigantic man-like creature said to inhabit various forests across the country, especially those of California and the Pacific Northwest.

For the first time ever, vocalizations and sounds tentatively attributed to several Bigfoot creatures have been captured on tape. They are mighty sounds. They are mighty weird sounds, sounds that raise the hair with their flesh-and-blood resonance yet provoke smiles and wonderment with their primitive character.

They were first recorded in 1971 by several deer hunters who maintain a camp in a remote, rugged and seldom-traveled region of the middle High Sierra east of here. By the time this reporter came on the scene in October 1972, the men had encountered the creatures more than a dozen times and had collected several hours of the raucas, sometimes terrifying and sometimes tantrum-like sounds on tape.

Except to appeal for scientific help, the men had kept their story secret. They feared ridicule. They also knew that if the camp's location were ever publicly disclosed, the area would be overrun by curiosity-seekers and trophy hunters. Today, they still fear ridicule and justifiably want to keep the seasonal Bigfoot retreat secret. I was tipped to the incredible story inadvertently, after the men had sought help from NATIONAL GEOGRAPHIC, anthropologists at the University of California, and, finally, a professional group devoted to the study of scientifically unexplained phenomena. My source, adventurer-journalist and now fulltime Bigfoot hunter, Peter Byrne, had felt the story was too far-fetched to pursue.

I took it on in a non-serious way, almost as a lark, never suspecting the hunters guilty of more than an imaginative if somewhat complex jest. "Good offbeat feature material," I told my smiling Colleagues and friends. But then one day the hunters suddenly decided to take me to their camp, and I was there, and everything they'd recited was happening in my presence.

...At the scene there was a camp shelter, a beaver lodge sort of affair about 8 ft. high and 15 ft. in diameter made out of logs and branches. We slept inside it when sleep was possible, and when sleep wasn't possible, it became our fortress. It was on my second trip that "Biggie" came around. I was still convinced that the hunters were taking me on a grand snipe hunt, and I was playing along in my jolly best, bent on having the last laugh. The sudden presence of the thing, unseen but heard in the darkness just outside the shelter, was a heart-stopper. My knees trembled so violently that even long after I'd recovered my voice, which had cowered somewhere down in the throat, I could barely get up off my sleeping bag to have a look outside.

It had begun with two hard sharp whistles, spaced about a minute apart. Then, like a nightmare come alive, there was an enormous, thoroughly awful-sounding voice carrying on a short distance away uphill. It was a wild, almost human sounding gibberish interspersed with long, drawn-out but emphatic snarls. One of my companions was calling out, incredibly, in a calm voice, "Aw, come on big fella, that's not nice!" To me the thing frankly sounded like it was going to storm the shelter, and I wondered what in God's name had ever possessed me to get involved with these people and their weird tale. They carried guns, and had insisted that I carry one, as well. Now the reason why seemed all too real.

... They were emotional sounds, even humorous, some of them, with rapid fire delivery. Some of them seemed to be uttered as the breath was inhaled, a humanly difficult feat. Some of them were uttered with speed I felt certain was humanly impossible. Yet they were human-like overall. So what was it? What was out there?

As the minutes wore on and the thing refused to leave (there were two, actually, a "big" one with a smaller voice and a 14 inch long foot), some of my courage returned along with my native skepticism...About this time, however, the thing hurled a few sour-sounding epithets, then suddenly roared and slapped its chest. My God, I could hear its jowls shaking and the hollow reverberations of the chest being slapped! That couldn't be any man! ...

Editors note: The remainder of this article is quite amazing and fascinating. I only wish we had the room in this issue to complete it, but we will conclude this in the September one. I would like to mention here that Mr. Berry has gone to considerable lengths to verify each and every detail of the tape and his subsequent record, and has submitted this evidence to many, many people. I have the record, and I can certainly attest to the fact that the sounds are totally terrifying. They seem to strike a fearsome chord within your very soul. The shock that goes through you when the sound first comes through _____ indescribable! JOC.

THE ATLANTEAN FIRE CRYSTAL IN THE BERMUDA TRIANGLE

From a talk by Dr. Daniel W. Fry

BSRA JOURNAL - Jan-Feb 1975

By special permission of Mr. Riley Crabb, Director.

POB 548, Vista, Ca. 92083

Today, many scientists, pursuing various paths of scientific inquiry, mutually engaged in the attempt to advance and rediscover the art and science of crystallogology that was lost to earth man during the last great collapse of science and civilization many thousands of years ago.

From those records of the lost civilization that are still available we can learn something of the tremendous powers that are inherent in the crystal. In our own laboratories we are working, sometimes almost feverishly, to rediscover and to put into operation the powers and abilities that our ancient ancestors used so wisely and so effectively. Our present Laser systems are one of the tangible results of such efforts. The output of the ruby crystalin, a laser system, is probably quite similar to that of the Vrill stick about which so much has been written in the ancient records. Except of course, that the Vrill stick employed a somewhat simpler and more compact system than any of those which we have yet been able to produce; although, with our rapid advance in miniaturization, we will soon begin to approach the results obtained by our ancestors.

In the hands of the supreme ruler, who was the only person to possess or to use the Vrill stick, it represented total authority; since it contained the power of life or death through the laser-like beam which it emitted.

The crystals produced by present day science are quite limited in size. Their shape is determined almost entirely by the nature of the electrical fields within the molecules of which they are composed. The Atlanteans, however, had no such limitations. By growing their crystals within an area of precisely controlled exterior electrical and magnetic fields they could cause a crystal to continue to grow almost indefinitely, and to take on any one of a number of predetermined shapes. These huge crystals they then incorporated into devices and systems which, while they were relatively simple compared to present technology, were still capable of performing functions which would certainly cause our present scientists to stare in awe and wonder, probably mixed with a certain amount of ego-saving scepticism of that which they were seeing.

Tremendous forces, acting over great distances, could readily be produced. When we bounce our tiny laser beams off the surface of the moon and record the signal after its 480,000 mile round trip journey, we are taking the first, few, child-like steps in the re-development of the Atlantean art. Substantial changes could be brought about in the electrical, the magnetic and the gravitational fields over large areas, and significant changes in the time fields could be created in local areas by the huge, crystal controlled systems of the Atlanteans.

THEY CONTROLLED THE HEAVENS

In his manuscript, Timaeus, or Theory of the Universe, and in his brief, twenty two page paper Critieas, the Greek philosopher Plato described the history and culture of this long-submerged island continent, its amazing people, and some of the incredible science with which they could control even the heavens at will.

He named the continent Atlantis, which is simply the plural form of Atlas, the titan of Greek mythology, who was said to stand at the western extremity of the earth, near the islands of the Hesperides, holding up the heavens with his shoulders. There is no evidence however, that even Plato realised that the very mythology of the Titans from which he borrowed the name Atlantis, was in fact the unwritten history handed down through the centuries of the race of all powerful Titans of the continent of Poseidon and with forces so great that they could indeed control the heavens at will.

We cannot fail to note, however, that the western extremity of the known earth was at that time about what we now know as the center of the Atlantic ocean, and from which the continent of Atlantis once rose. We must also remember that Poswidon, the brother of Atlas and the God of the sea, was said to dwell in the locality in a huge and magnificent palace at the bottom of the sea, from which he occasionally rose to vent his wrath on those who defied or ignored him.

WHAT SAID EDGAR CAYCE? In the late Edgar Cayce's book on Atlantis mention is made of the powerful crystal systems. On page 86 we find the following words: "In Posiedia the entity dwelt among those that had charge of the motivating force of the great crystals that so condensed the Light and the forms of activity as to guide the ships in the sea and in the air." Again on page 87 we read: "In Atlantean lands, at the time of the development of electrical forces that dealt with transportation of craft from place to place, overcoming gravity itself, through preparations of the crystal, the terrible, the mighty crystal. Much of this later brought destruction."

Apparently some of these systems made use of energy accumulators coupled to natural energy sources, and were designed to operate automatically when triggered by some specific and predetermined stimulus. They required no human control or maintenance and were practically immune and impervious to time or to the conditions of their environment. At least two, and probably more, of these periodically operating devices are apparently still in operation and still performing their design function after some thousands of years of immersion in the Atlantic Ocean.

WORKING WITH THE NATURAL LAWS. When the continent of Atlantis, or Poseidon, descended into these depths it took with it not only a whole nation of people but also some of the most remarkable technology ever created upon this planet. Because they worked with the natural laws instead of using one to oppose or overcome another -- we have fallen into the habit of doing -- their systems were, on the whole, somewhat less bulky and cumbersome than ours; and yet they were capable of producing results which we are not yet able to duplicate, or in some cases even to understand.

Not only was this civilization aware of the many huge space ships which had, for countless generations cruised the Galaxy, but it had established firm commercial relations with the Galactic Foundation. The sale or barter of material and supplies to those ships whose course took them near to the earth had become one of the nation's most profitable industries.

The transportation of these materials and supplies between the earth and the space ship did, however, present some problems and difficulties because of the intense resonating fields produced by the propulsion systems of the huge ships, and the tremendous degree of ionization that would be created in any atmosphere through which they moved, it was not practical for them to approach closer than a few hundred miles to the earth's surface. And no matter how the lifting was done the earth's gravitational field still exacted a tremendous toll of energy from the transfer operation.

To solve this problem several crystal-driven and controlled systems were developed which were capable of creating the effect of an almost complete warp in the space between the earth and the space ship, when the ship was directly above the system. The electrical and magnetic fields present were not greatly affected, although their direction was changed, but the time and the space factors between the craft and the earth became practically zero. Material and supplies placed within the conveying chamber or area could then immediately be transferred to the hold of the ship. (Here the reader should be reminded of the Transporter Beam Technique on the Star Trek television series. RHC.)

While this concept may at first be somewhat difficult to grasp or accept, and while it may appear to be in violation of several of our currently cherished laws of science, it really is not at all. In the change of location the energy of position offsets the gravitational loss and all laws of conservation are upheld and satisfied.

WE MUST CHANGE CONVENTIONAL THOUGHT HABITS. We have been too much in the habit of assuming that if an object is to change from one location to another, that is if it is to cease to occupy point "A" and instead occupy some other point, "B", it must, in the process, occupy momentarily all possible points between the two. ... Somewhere off the coast of Florida, under many fathoms of water, one of these Atlantean crystal driven systems apparently still exists and still performs at least some of its original functions. Fired by accumulators drawing their energy from natural sources and unaffected by time or its surroundings, it still springs into action when triggered by a specific impulse signal, and still goes through its design task of transporting any solid-state matter within its range from its original location to some, unknown to us, and probably remote point "X".

Since there are no detailed descriptions of this device available to us, we can gain more knowledge of it only through a careful and complete study of its performance, and its effects upon others during those brief but fateful periods when it comes into operation and thereby manifests its properties and its effects to us. Since there have been many demonstrations which are well documented, some of them in precise detail, and since they continue to occur at relatively frequent intervals... a fairly sound basis for study...

The records fill a number of folders in my own research file, and the specific data continues to accumulate. It covers a period of more than 150 years and involves the area commonly known as the Bermuda Triangle. Although it is usually defined geographically as being roughly square, bounded on the north by a line stretching from Bermuda to the Virginia coast and on the south by the islands of Cuba and Hispaniola.

This stretch of ocean, dotted by a few islands which are the only visible remnants of the Atlantean continent has been the scene of more unconventional and inexplicable disappearances than any equivalent area on earth. In the last century alone, 42 ships and 27 planes, for which well documented records exist, have sailed into this area and simply vanished without warning and without a trace. Ships or planes lost to storms, fires or other normal hazards are not included in this list. They are all cases in which no distress calls were sounded. The weather was moderate, and in spite of the widest possible search and rescue operations, no wreckage, no debris, no survivors and not even an oil slick was ever found. (Here Mr. Fry lists some of the better-known ship disappearances starting in 1866, including the "Cyclops" in 1918.) Similar disappearances have occurred every two or three years since then and will undoubtedly continue to occur in the future unless the exact location of the event can be determined and those spots avoided...

PERFECT HEALTH by Dr. Herman Bergins PART I of a new series

Perfect health is Mans (Womens) greatest gift. To attain such health is the purpose of this article. In my 40 years practice as a naturopathic Physician, I found that to attain perfect health one must develop the three departments of his life.

The Psychological
The Mechanical
The Material

Each department will produce a degree of health - but not completely. It has been said, "As a man thinketh, so is he". The Bible goes a step further and says, "As a man thinketh in his heart so is he." It has also been said, "Man is what he eats." That is also true to a point. One can eat the most perfect food, but if his mind and emotions are in a turmoid, he cannot digest his food properly and therefore cannot enjoy perfect health. The same applies to the mechanical, only to a lesser degree.

Let us start with the psychological. The mind and how we use it. We must remember that thoughts are things. You cannot send a thought out into space and have it return void. It will accomplish the purpose for which it is sent. If you want good to come into your life, you must send out good thoughts. You cannot send out negative and destructive thoughts and expect positive results. Sending out thoughts of hate will return to you in kind. Why not send out loving and generous thoughts. Love begets love and hate begets hate.

Eliminate from your mind all hatred, malice, envy, jealousy and fear and substitute love, kindness, courage and a desire to do good and life will bless you. I could go on further, but I believe I have made my point. Now, lets go to the second phase.

THE MECHANICAL

That deals with all physical activities. All forms of exercise are good. If you are in the habit of playing tennis or golf, by all means continue them. But the finest exercise for middle age and elderly persons is walking. A daily brisk walk of two or three miles will do wonders for you. Especially if you practice deep breathing. Abdominal breathing, if you will. Most people breathe with the upper part of their lungs and the lower gets little air and has little opportunity to empty itself of all the old stale air. Of course, those who can afford a daily massage (the lazy man's exercise) or make use of the various physical gadgets available will benefit. But there is nothing compared to a brisk daily walk in the open. I do it and have for years.

NEXT ISSUE we will probe deeply into the mysterious realm of nutrition and your health. Please send any questions concerning this article to Dr. Bergins, in care of the Journal, and they will be forwarded on to him. JOC

BOOK REVIEW

THE MOTHMAN PROPHECIES by John A. Keel. Saturday Review Press/E.P. Dutton & Co.
201 Park Avenue South, New York, N.Y. 10003. $ 7.95.

This book includes Everything you always wanted to know about Gruda's - and were afraid to hear! On December 15, 1967, the seven-hundred-foot Silver Bridge spanning the Ohio River at Point Pleasant, West Virginia, suddenly collapsed, sweeping scores of people into the water and killing thirty-eight. The facts behind this tragedy form a real life horror story.

Until then 'The Mothman' cases were practically unheard of, and I personally remember the first time I saw a clipping from that area. "Bird-like" creature chases car with 110 MPH speed"! I groaned, wondering how in the world I could ever reprint this in my publication SAUCER SCOOP, without incurring the wrath of the 'purists' in the UFO field. HOWEVER, 'IT' was UNidentified, Flying, and an Object!

In the months before the bridge disaster, Point Pleasant had been haunted by strange monsters and apparitions, and mysterious aerial lights had traveled silently over the little town on a regular schedule. Homes throughout the area were plagued with unearthly noises and ghostly manifestations. Author and UFO expert John A. Keel spent a year in Point Pleasant investigating the many bizarre events and his report on the so-called Mothman, a primeval monster with blazing red eyes and a pair of batlike wings, is a true tale of gothic mystery.

For thousands of people in the pastoral Ohio River valley who were haunted by Mothman, they lived in surrealistic horror for thirteen months. Haunted by the fearsome demonic "Bird" and besieged by legions of strange beings who seemed to spring from the fires of hell, this account is stranger than most science fiction. Keel has investigated the entire phenomenon, including the mysterious "Mib", or "Men in Black" who also were traversing the Ohio valley during this period of time. His report investigates the possibility that the collapse of the Silver Bridge is related to the eerie manifestations that preceded the disaster. The Mothman Prophecies will jolt your placid preconceived notion of the nature of the universe and those who might visit it. John Keel is the author of three previous books, his most recent being Operation Trojan Horse. He is an acknowledged leader in the field of UFO investigations.

This book must absolutely be read by anyone NOW in the paranormal field, or who even feels that someday they might be! The type of knowledge that John Keel imparts is essential to all fields of investigation. To be forewarned is to be forearmed. And --- that is NOT just an old cliche. Winged Weirdies are on the wing -- so beware, the Mothman just might cometh again!

THE GRUSOME ETHERIC BORDER PATROL

or RAW MEAT ELECTRONICS by Andrew Hardie

Editors Note: Reprinted by special permission from Jan-Feb 1968 issue of the BSRA Journal. Mr. Riley Crabb, Director, Box 548, Vista, Ca. This was sent to us in connection with the cattle slaughters and constitutes one of the many theories that surrounds the still continuing mystery deaths.

... When Marion was here in October there were some broadcasts via radio and news stories about the Colorado woman who found that her pet horse Snippy had been slain. The blood was all drained from it. Some of the flesh was taken and the hide used to wrap up the remainder. Even the brains had been extracted. There was also their experience with a UFO that chased her son till he had to escape from it by running his car between two trees and fleeing on foot to his home.

We heard that Prof. Condon of the University of Colorado sent an investigator to review this matter. A horse doctor told this woman that it was ordinary hunters that did the job. This didn't explain the radioactive burn she got on her hands and arm from picking up one parcel of the flesh still wrapped up. This was in a space that showed plainly that some strange machine had landed there for the trees were crushed down. So we were curious to find out from Myron or Hanford (channels) or somebody, what the real truth was concerning this and here is what we got.

"Many would like to know the real truth about what these UFOs are up to in their pursuit of men and animals. What really happens would be too great a shock to mortals who dwell in the safety of materialistic logic. It is perhaps unwise to go into great detail as to what actually happened in the horse incident in Colorado; but I wish to let you into an area of understanding of this type of happening," wrote Myron through Marian.

"To begin with, we are not dealing with the Christ Forces or entities that share our Laws or motives or actions. We are dealing with an opposite quality, one which you would term evil. These small beings are vampirish in nature. Though of the low 4th Dimension they find both human and animal blood to their liking. It is with great haste and precision that they stun and kill animals in an open and accessible area, not too close to humans who they do not wish to utilize. These, in this instance wanted a large quantity of flesh and blood, if possible, without attracting attention to their activities.

ETHERIC "LASERS" IN OPERATION — "The dissecting of the flesh is done with rays from their ships, and these hunks of meat are often raw or are used in experimental labs of which they have many. This is not the only instance where they have been caught redhanded so to speak. They often prey upon wild animals in areas where they are free to carry on these experiments on the ground without interference from 3D mortals.

"The rays that are used to dissect these beasts are the same that are used to stun and skin. This is where extensive radioactivity comes in in these cases. These forces are becoming increasingly bold and they draw much added energy from the violent outbursts that humans all over the earth are subject to. As this momentum accelerates these evil forces shall be manifesting in all manner of fiendish ways. It is with great urgency that we stress the importance of all humans to align themselves with the Christ Light and learn to use it. This is your only defense against this evil." MYRON, ASHTAR COMMAND...

... ARE THESE CREATURES RICHARD SHAVER'S DEROS? "The people or should I say creatures that are doing these fiendish deeds come from both the inside of the earth, and from bases that they have set up on the moon. Just as your earth has many different activities and kinds of entities moving about on it, so does the moon." (Which moon is Myron referring to, the visible one we all know and see? Or the dark moon Fowzer, mentioned in the space messages received by Ric Williamson and his group in 1952? RHC.)

"This has to be cleansed away and put into a new spiritual frequency. While the moon is not to have the same type of cleansing as the earth, it too will be a part of the New Heaven. There is constant negative activity going on under the earth. Large caverns are being used as hiding places for this type of negation."

(We wonder if the Sicilian earthquakes of Jan. 15-16-17, 1968, might be an example of Cavern cleansing activity? Western Sicily, where they have occurred... The jolts disturb the stability of the crust above the caverns, the top falls in, wiping out the Cavern and it's inhabitants. The earth above settles or falls in a destructive displacement. RHC.)

"Believe me they come in almost any size -- shape -- color. We monitor them at all times from our Stations and their efforts are expanding as the human level of emotions becomes more and more uncontrolled. This whole thing is going to burst like a balloon and those of you who have heard the spiritual call shall be truly blest. Stand in the Christ Light and claim your spiritual heritage." I Am Myron, Ashtar Command...

EDITORS NOTE: If you wish to have more of the Ashtar material, reprinted from the BSRA JOURNAL, please let us know. It is wonderful to look back on the vantage point of time in relationship to these messages received in 1968!

THE "ROADMAP OF TIME"
TELLS US WHEN A NEW WORLD WILL BE BORN

by BRAD STEIGER

There is something within man which seems to drive him to find law, order, structure, and pattern in his world, his universe. Man's science is founded on the repeatability of experiments. His religion is built on the promise of plan and order.

Although on an intuitive level man knows that Time is cyclical and unwinds in a spiral, he persists in attempting to structure a linear history — Time that proceeds in a straight line devoid of revolving patterns and returning seasons. Such things as stock and commodity prices, industrial production, wars, depressions, civil riots, stock-market crashes are considered blights which occur without structure, without demonstratable pattern.

Recently, our experts on energy, agriculture, population, and world economy have predicted bankruptcy, social breakdown, and starvation for as many as one billion people within the next twelve months. Some thirty nations, mostly in Africa, South Asia, and the Central American-Caribbean area, will be among the first to be affected in what will soon be global famine.

According to a study conducted under the aegis of the United Nations, more than 700 million people in less-developed countries are suffering from a malnutrition. For the past eight years, the United States has provided 84% of all food aid to underprivileged nations, but now both the United States citizens and politicians are beginning to feel a bit less generous toward their own dwindling food supplies.

"Survival requires that we adopt the ethics of the lifeboat," Dr. Garret Hardin, University of California Professor of human ecology, told Ronald Kotulak for Chicago Tribune Magazine. "A lifeboat can only hold so many people. There are more than two billion wretched people in the world -- ten times as many as the population of the U.S. It is literally beyond our ability to save them all."

Dr. J. George Harrar, president emeritus of the Rockefeller Foundation and principal architect of the "green revolution," the research work that developed hybrid grains exceptionally responsive to fertilizers, foresees massive world famine if the U.S. should suffer one or two major crop failures.

Financial experts are predicting a market crash that will make 1929 seem mild by comparison. Unrestrained inflation is forcing men and women to spend so much on the necessities that luxury and leisure items are becoming dregs on the market. Increasing scarcity of raw materials and inexpensive food will keep prices arching upward and continue to fuel cost-push inflation. There is a terrible economic crunch coming, these financial theorists warn, and everyone is going to be affected. Productivity and profits will decline together with the work ethic, and the economic growth of the United States is going to come to a screeching halt.

Although enormous and terrible problems loom ahead of us in the next 25 years, there does exist a valuable and extensively surveyed "Roadmap of Time" that can guide us. The roadmap to which I refer was charted by two brilliant scientists, Dr. Selby Maxwell and Dr. Raymond H. Wheeler. Cyclomatic Engineering Incorporated of Glenview, Illinois, has enabled me to then share this information through my book The Roadmap of Time (Prentice-Hall, 1975).

John Cejka, formerly a farmer of Laurens, Iowa, and now president of Cyclomatic Engineering, began to follow the work of the old Weather Science Foundation, Crystal Lake, Ill., in the early 1950's. In 1973, Cejka and several associates purchased the formulas to the Maxwell-Wheeler Weather Energy Cycle and began to build an organization that would effectively disseminate the cyclic knowledge which had previously been known only to a select clientele list. Professor Wheeler who was head of the psychology department at the University of Kansas, invested over twenty year's time and the efforts of a staff of over two hundred to compile incredibly detailed records of 3000 years of weather and the cycles that run through them. Wheeler was able to chart types of governments, human achievements, wars, and shifts in cultural styles from one extreme to another and back again. He was able to isolate definite patterns of human behavior, as men and women reacted to climate changes.

He discovered a 100 year cycle, which is divided into four almost equal parts, that demonstrates that man has behaved differently -- but -- predictable -- during periods of warm-wet, warm-dry, cold-wet, and cold-dry weather. Wars, depressions, revolutions, cataclysmic events -- together with tases in architecture, musical expression, and the length of hemlines -- have occurred at evenly spaced intervals. Wheeler's monumental research provides us with demonstratable bases for predicting what will happen in the years which lie ahead.

... Wheeler says that this cyclic reversal, falling as it does during the present cold-dry period, will be "difficult to live through." If the history of climate as outlined by Wheeler should repeat itself, he warns that the 'transitions will be accompanied by an increase in the severity of the earthquakes and the vulcanism that attended the lowering of the continental altitudes, with marine invasions on the upswings and mountain building on the downswings." In other words, Wheeler has given us a portrait of the last 25 years of our century which is very much like that revealed in the "Earth Changes" material of the psychic Edgar Cayce, the American Indian prophecies of a Time of Great Cleansing, the warnings that Flying Saucer "contactees" have been relaying from alleged occupants of UFOs, and the interpretation many fundamentalist Christians are placing on apocalyptic passages in the biblical book of Revelation...

Note: We are sorry that our space doesn't permit us to print more of this most fascinating article. Please watch your local bookstore for Brad's new book -- The Roadmap of Time -- and continue reading about this interesting study of Man, as a race of beings, and the Weather, which seems determined to sway him to and from eternity. And -- we thought WE controlled our destinies! Apparently the weather does it for us.

PYRAMIDOLOGY!

BURIAL VAULT DEFIES SCIENCE AND TECHNOLOGY!

CAIRO --

After baffling explorers and archeologists for 4,500 years, King Chephen's giant pyramid at Giza has turned back man's most sophisticated attempt to find the kings burial chamber.

An expedition of a dozen American and Egyptian physicists, hoping to use short range radar waves to see through the pyramid's sides and spot the suspected hidden chamber, gave up the hunt before the expedition reached it's halfway point.

They found that the radar signals, transmitted by a 30,000 volt "sounder", -- DISAPPEARED after travelling only a few feet because of the pyramid's unexpectedly high moisture content, said an official of the American Research Centre in Egypt.

"They've gone back to the drawing board," he said after the Stanford Research Institute Ain Shams University expedition's abrupt breakup. The group hoped the pyramid's desert location about five miles southwest of Cairo would be a dry and friendly environment to test the revolutionary technique of using radar waves to probe solid objects. Not all Egyptologists agree that Cephens' burial chamber is missing. The Italian explorer Giovanni Belozoni in 1818 rediscovered a chamber and empty sarcophagus which many claim is Cephren's only burial vault. But - others think it odd that Cephren would settle for a single, easily accessible vault after his father, Cheops, had built several interconnected chambers inside his pyramid a few hundred yards away.

The mystery is a tantalizing one, for if Cephren's tomb does exist and has not been robbed, its treasures would certainly surpass the rich and now famous treasure of Tutankhamen, a far less powerful king. Egyptian authorities are anxious to make use of advanced technology in hunting for and making sense of Egypt's Pharaonic Greek and Islamic past. There is talk of using infra red aerial photography to chart ancient sites and of using remote controlled minicameras to photograph Cephren's tomb -- if it is ever found.

A team of physicists from the University of California at Berkeley successfully used "nuclear fingerprinting" to determine exactly where the Colossi of Memnon were quarried. But they could only guess how the 1.5 million tons of hunks of stone were transported 420 miles from Cairo upstream to the ancient city of thebes.

Despite the Stanford Ain Shams group's failure to make the new radar technique work, the head of the expedition, physicist Lambert Dolphin, is convinced his theory is sound. He envisions a more sophisticated model of his signalling device, coupled to a computer and receiver and mounted on a golf cart, travelling over unexcavated sites hunting for the walls of ancient temples and tombs...

ANNOUNCEMENTS AND NOTES

ANNOUNCEMENT — For those of you who have asked for the name and address where they may obtain the three books that I (Editor) have co-authored with Brad Steiger— Write: 235 E. 45th St. - NY, NY. TITLES: "FLYING SAUCERS ARE HOSTILE", "THE ALLENDE LETTERS: NEW UFO BREAKTHROUGH", "FLYING SAUCER INVASION: TARGET EARTH". It seems strange, but I still receive mail from all three of these books -- at my old address! Last week I heard from Australia, and had two letters from England, plus other mail from the States. Also, as new researchers come into the field, they want to obtain all the old books and UFO magazines. I did this myself when I first became involved --- 11 years ago!

I have had so many requests for back issue of SAUCER SCOOP, and I have so few of the originals left, that I have decided to put together very special volumes of "THE BEST OF SAUCER SCOOP". Volume I will include many articles by well known authors, that were original with my own publication. It is impossible to obtain them elsewhere, and they are as totally relevant today -- as they were then. Such is the sad state of Ufology. Progression is almost nil.

The titles of some of the articles in our BEST OF SCOOP: "Mystery Men Flash Government Credentials", by John Keel. "Brooksville: The Third Time Around!", UFO Characteristics" - International Dateline: by Robert Stiff, which has our original investigation reports of hostility cases, radiation burns, etc., "Cattle Rustling UFOs", by Ron Calais, circa the late 60s, "Special Report From South America, by Dr. Walter Buhler, "Open Letter to all UFO Researchers", by John Keel (dealing with the Men In Black cases) and many other news items!

We will have this Volume I ready for sale in JUNE. Price $2.00. If we find that there is enough interest in this type of reporting, we will continue on and print Vol. 2. In this one we will have more articles by John Keel, Otto Binder, Brad Steiger, and many others well known in the field. We will be printing only a limited number of copies, so if you wish to reserve yours now, just write me and let me know. When the issue is ready in June, you will be the first on the list!

I am very much indebted to Mr. Tom Stone, of Dade City, Fla., for his valuable help in collating those articles from SCOOP. He was one of the very first of the old Scoopers! As was Jean Chapman, who is now our Secretary for The New Atlantean.

SAUCER SCOOP POLICY: To print all pertinent data relating to the UFO field in general, regardless of any Organizational affiliations. To present BOTH sides of any controversial subject, giving each full and equal opportunity to express their viewpoints. To give full name and address credit, plus source, dateline, and witnesses in all data printed -- whenever possible. To maintain the best of research equipment and the best manpower available in order to assure correct analysis of any report submitted to us... This was true THEN, and it is NOW. The New Atlantean Research Society, and its Journal, reaffirm the above tenets. We have new people, new equipment, and a new name -- but our beliefs are firmly the same now, and will never change.....

NOTICE NOTICE NOTICE NOTICE NOTICE NOTICE NOTICE

We are sorry to have to announce that our subscription rates WILL go up in September. Last issue we cut back on the number of pages, and got complaints about wanting more news, etc. We also went to a hard cover to make storage easier, which in turn raised our cost. We expect the postal increase by October, and the only way we can keep afloat and pay our expenses is to increase our subscription price by one dollar. SO- if you want to renew your present subscription at the old rates, please send it in BEFORE September 1st. After that the regular price will be: $5.00 per year quarterly, $1 extra for the Hotline. And $6 per year overseas, $1 extra for the Hotline. We have held the line now for as long as we can. Our paper costs have trippled, our ink has doubled, but the final blow was the proposed postal increase. In this issue we are up to our full amount of pages and we will keep it this way. JOC...
