INDIVIDUALS, MANUFACTURERS EXECUTIVES, PROFESSIONALS

See how you can barter for your products and services . . . medical and dental services . . . auto repairs . . . restaurant and bar bills . . . motel and hotel accommodations . . . television sets, furniture, real estate and condominiums, jewelry, cars, carpeting, clothes, food . . . anything you can think of!

MANUFACTURERS often misjudge and overproduce, or see the public's taste suddenly change — or want a clean sweep for new lines. Barter is so effective that some companies purposely generate surpluses so they can use barter as another sales outlet!

Barter is the time-honored practice of swapping goods and services rather than buying or selling for cash and is TODAY'S FASTEST GROWING MERCHANDISING TECHNIQUE, according to U.S. News & World Report, with 20% of the $1.2 trillion annual world trade bartered!

EXECUTIVES in today's world must consider all alternatives. Trading is a viable way to use the corporation's goods and services. You can barter for such necessities as advertising, office furniture and supplies, airline tickets, cruises, restaurant and hotel rooms, vacations, computers, car rentals, etc. keeping your hard cash in your own pocket!

PROFESSIONALS today earn big money when they are busy, but high overhead eats into profits making idle time "expensive." By bartering your services this "idle time" can be turned into many of the needed services and products you would otherwise pay hard cash for!

Letters to the Editor

Dear Joan:... And she gave me permission to use her name, Theola Duncan, and to send this story to you. It was a warm night of 1918 in Big Fork, Arkansas... We were going to the schoolhouse located catty-corner across a field from my house to borrow books. The book shelves were built into a corner of the schoolroom, the lowest shelf was about 30" from the floor... I was eyeball to eyeball with a small creature. It had a human-type face with a pushed in nose. The body was covered with dark brown hair. Not fur. I felt no fear as we stared at each other. Then the other girls spotted it and began screaming. The creature walked upright like a person, across the room and out the door. We ran home and told my mother... No footprints were found. The men concluded that the creature was a bear cub...Mae Belle Minerich, Healing Hills Chapel - Hot Springs, Ark.

Dear Joan: I just received the Summer issue of your fascinating Journal and I have a hunch I'm due for another year. To be on the safe side I enclose my check for $5.00. Since I'll be 87 on Sept. 29th, and living on the California (my home state) 'time bomb' according to the article by Soltec - maybe I won't be around next year, which, I might add, is OK so far as I'm concerned. I'll come back another day after this lovely planet has had its needed bath. California's internal disturbance reminds me of the recent news re: sudden deep holes appearing in people's gardens overnight! And, what about my cement walks, cracked across --- one side pushed up an inch or two! Were I younger, I would "try" another state, but at my age, I'm staying put! Yours truly, Ethel Bolch, Alpaugh, CA.

Dear Editor: I have come across another article about the AURA of gold ... Just south of Temple, TX lies a fabulous buried treasure worth billions. Ten mule loads of gold and silver were buried in 1834 by Karl Steinheimer - just before he and his two companions were killed by Indians. Many people have searched but it has not been found.

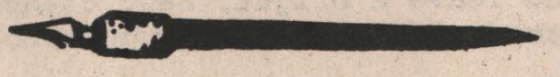

It was buried near what is now Temple, TX, where three rivers come together, the Leon, the Lampasas, and the Salado, to form the Little River which runs by Temple. Near where these three rivers come together there is a light about the size of a basketball which moves and stops and then disappears. This is a classic example of the 'gold aura' in action. This light has been seen for more than one hundred years. I would like very much to hear from anyone who has seen this light or has heard about it from someone who has seen it. This light is trying to show where gold is buried... Ernest Bellam, Scottsville, NY.

Dear Editor: ... I would like to hear from any reader that may know something about Albert McDonald and his Hollow Earth Society newsletter that he published 10-15 years ago. Also would like to hear from anyone who may have a copy of the complete and original "Hefferlen Manuscript" -- NOT the abridged version put out by B.S.R.A. or others. I need many issues on inner earth books for my collection and will buy or trade other books and magazines on this subject. They must be good, clear copies. Will be looking forward to your next issue as I enjoy reading them from cover to cover and back! Frank Brownley, 29 McCall Road, Rochester, NY 14615.

Dear Joan: ...She and her 10th grade son were out watering the flowers at midnight on Aug. 6th, '81, and saw what they believe to be a brilliant orange UFO...the size of a plate, which went down to the size of an eyeball in a short time...After checking over your mag. Julia thought what they saw was like the picture on pg. 48-Vol.9, #2,Summer'81 edition.... The Way Out World, by Patrick... Grants Pass, Oregon Area Reporter --- Enid Irwin, 650 Three Pines Rd.

* Dear Enid --- Many thanks for the report! We are most grateful to all of our Area Reporters for sending in the information..... I will keep your full report on file here..

OPEN LETTER TO ALL READERS! If you would like to barter, sell, trade, or exchange any items of general interest, please tell us and we will print your requests here on these reader pages. Just between Readers, please, no commercial accounts. Personal items only. We want to be of service to all of our subscribers. We would also like to request of our Area Reporters to send in any data concerning EarthChanges in their local areas (of course, keep sending in the UFO reports as well).....

THE CYCLES OF LIFE

Birth-Happiness-Growth-Sorrow-Greed-Hate-Lust-Gentleness-helpfulness-Pride-Ego-Selflessness-Murder-Suicide-Evolution-Love-Pain- Knowledge-LIFE!

Man cannot learn any lesson, until he LIVES it. No one can 'tell' you of Pain or Sorrow, you have to FEEL it. No one can describe Joy and Love, you have to Sense it. One who has never been in the deepest depression can ever begin to know the despair of the injured soul..... Why do I speak of this? Because -- there are those who would tell you that your physical Earth shall cease to exist. That it shall be no more. That Mankind will never walk the surface again... This is NOT to be.....

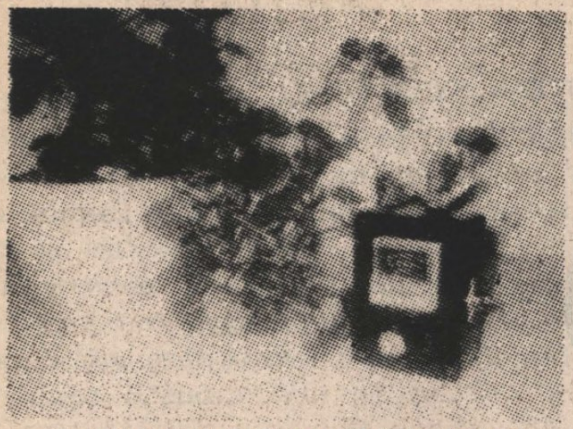

Earth was created for a purpose. And, that purpose will be fulfilled -- forever. What purpose, you ask? That purpose is: LIFE, in the Human physical form. Only in this form, the 'heavy' form, can physical feelings actually be felt, lessons learned in the concrete form and not the abstract form. These type of 'lessons' in the School of Life, MUST take place on a dense, physical planet. Once the lessons ARE learned, then that soul has no need of a physical planet. But, there are many souls still in need of Learning and they need a physical place in which to learn. So -- there is a NEED for our Earth NOT to 'pass away'.

Shall 'we', as humans, always inhabit this planet? Not 'we', who are reading this now. We are trying to learn our 'lessons' and to 'graduate' from this school. There are other dimensions of learning, other dimensions of Knowledge, there are a billion/billion Universes out there for us to explore! To see them and feel them to touch upon them! This can happen ONLY when we have learned what we have to upon THIS planet, Earth. There are myriads of other souls who have never had an Earthly experience, so it MUST be prepared for those to come. It must be now cleansed for them, the new 'guests'. And - so they, too, will learn! As we did, to hurt, to ache, to love, to happiness to LIFE! To ..... Knowledge!

And, in this present scheme of Life, there is a Plan. One that will require many of us to be present, physically, on this planet Earth, to teach the new 'children' when they arrive. And - after we leave - they in turn must also teach the children new to them! The Knowledge and the Wisdom of the ages, the timeless Past, the Ultimate Now,will never perish. For, if 'it' does - 'we' do. How do you learn about inner Life? Outer Life? LIVE IT! And leave a bright, new, clean and fress classroom for those new guests to come!

A HOUSEPLANT "SCREAMING" IN FRIGHT!

DID YOU KNOW YOUR PLANTS CAN

READ YOUR MIND!

They may even be "talking" to you right now!

Many people talk to their plants, but did you know that the plant can not only hear you . . . it responds to what you say — and think? That's right! Now there's proof that your plants can even read your thoughts! (Sometimes you may even scare them to death!)

Years ago researchers accidentally stumbled upon the discovery that plants react almost exactly like humans to a galvanometer or lie detector. Today it doesn't take highly expensive equipment. This little portable unit weighing less than ½ lb. will enable you to communicate with any plant on your property . . . from trees to terrariums.

Prove it to yourself. Attach the electrodes to a plant, threaten to cut off a leaf and watch the plant PANIC!

In recent tests in our laboratories, we subjected these same plants to both Alpha and Theta brain wave analyzers. Alpha/Theta are brain wave frequencies of between 3-15 cycles per second generated by the human brain when in a relaxed, meditative or psychic mood. The startling discovery we made was that our plants seemed to be emitting short bursts of Theta frequency! The effect was especially pronounced when a leaf was touched by a human!

The tests are not conclusive, but they do bring up exciting possibilities. Is the wave indeed generated by the plant, or is it perhaps, acting as a "conduit" for the human mind? Why is Theta frequency generated when the plant is in physical contact with a human? If the plant can perceive thought — can literally "read your mind" — can it also detect and react to "spirit thought," thus acting as a bridge to the beyond?

These questions and more desperately need answering in man's quest into the unknown. Plant consciousness research is not yet being carried out on a large scale, giving YOU the opportunity to become, perhaps, the first person to hit upon a great new scientific discovery!

The unit comes postpaid and ready to operate for just $24.95 (battery not included). Powered by a 9-volt transistor battery, it requires no special skills to operate . . . simply clip the electrodes to a leaf, adjust a dial . . . and start thinking. The unit also works on humans and pets, and comes complete with all instructions.

THE ANKH AS AN ATLANTEAN SYMBOL

by Charles T. Weatherford, Jr.

Early on in my researches into the early Sumarian civilization I ran across an ancient goddess called Ishtar. She was a central figure in the legend of Guilgamesh, a warrior of great repute. The legend, carved on tablets found in the archeological digs at the city of Ur of the Chaldees and dated around 2100 B.C., was said to be ancient even at that time. The legend mentions the sacred sandal strap of Ishtar which upon investigation turns out to be the symbol the Egyptians called the Ankh. A cross with a loop at the top, later to be called the Crux Ansata, served both the Christian and Coptic churches. The Cross has also been found in early Christian graves and was adopted by the Coptic Church of Egypt.

The Early Egyptians called it the Cross of Life and the symbol serves as the heiroglyph for the word "Life". In reliefs it is often shown being held by one of the neters or gods to the nose of one who is dead. It is believed by some, since the symbol was one of life or the breath of life that this indicated the breathing of life into the corpse. It seems much more likely that it symbolized the continuance of life after death on the earthly plane. The Ankh is often associated with the Goddess Isis because of her search for and restoration of life to Osiris. One predecessor of Isis was Ishtar who was said to have descended into the earth, shedding a piece of her clothing at each of the Seven Gates until she arrived naked in hell to rescue and restore life into to counterpart Tammuz.

The last pieces of clothing shed by Ishtar were her sandals, and, as was mentioned earlier, the cross was referred to as Ishtar's sandal strap. It is her sandals, which raise her above the earth and give her special elevated status, that she saves until the last gate. It is the sandal strap which secures the sandal in place, and the sandal which separates the wearer from the mundane cares and concerns which must be overcome in order to conquer earthly life. Without the strap to secure it, the sandal will not serve its intended function. The meaning of the symbol now becomes clear.

So the line progresses: Ishtar to Isis to Astarte to Venus, each sharing the same general characteristics, each associated with the same symbol. It is a symbol which represents the planet Venus to the astronomer and astrologer and the female to the geneticist. Esoterically the cross is the mighty Tau or "T" the destroyer/creator, the great restorer of existence surmounted by the "0" or circle. The circle of course contains all, the infinite, the life and power of the nine digits. In other words all the vibratory emanations which are the sum of existence. These ideas in no way contradict the use of the symbol in the Suramian or Egyptian cultures.

The real mystery is encountered when an attempt is made to match up dates and ages to see where the Ankh comes from. Did it originate with the Sumarians or Chaldeans or possibly the more ancient Akkadians? Or was it originated with the Egyptians? I believe the symbol to be much older than any of these cultures.

Let us turn our attention for a moment to a set of Egyptian writings describing a nomadic, border-raiding tribe that existed on the perifery of the well organized Egyptian culture sometime before 5000 B.C. This pantheon worshiping group was called the "Ha Bay Roo." It is reported that they suddenly disappeared for a period of years and were thought to have wandered into the desert to the East. Some generations later the Egyptians reported the return of the Ha Bay Roo but with some changes. Somewhere in the desert the Ha Bay Roo had become monotheistic. They worshipped a god called "Yaway" and possessed an alphabet and literacy said to have been given them by their god. They had indeed undergone a strange metamorphisis. This miracle simply added to the reputation which the mystical East held for the Egyptians, who called this mysterious area the Land of Punt. Few except priests had ever ventured far into the desert in this direction. It might also be noted that even at the time of the birth of Jesus the Wise Men were said to have come from the East. 620 miles due east of Suez lies an area sometimes called the Cradle of Civilization.

The ancient cities of Ur, Nipur, and Uruk stood along the banks of the Euphrates River. Still standing today in the country of Iraq, on the site of what was once the city of Uruk, are the walls of that city and the beautiful gates of Ishtar. It is not a far stretch to assume that the "Ha Bay Roo" of the ancient Egyptians are the Hebrews and that the god "Yaway" is merely the Egyptian pronunciation of the sacred four - letter name of God "Yod He Vau He", referred to in the Qabala of the Hebrews. It seems at least possible that the Hebrews spent several generations in the land of Punt and that this land was located along the banks of the Euphrates River. Here the Hebrews learned the roots of their culture.

There is another curious element of the Qabala which is, I believe, the most important fact along the path we are following. The main written work of the Qabala, the Sepher Yetsira, or Book of Formation, describes the Tree of Life. Ten beautiful lights or emanations are placed on this Tree in such a way that they form none other than the Looped Cross. In recent books such as "The Tao of Physics" by Fritof Capra, the similarity of modern particle physics and Eastern mystical thought has been explored. When several physicists looked at the Tree of Life they agreed that it was a valid and even useful way of looking at the phenomenon with which they were working in the field of particle physics and quantum mech anics.

The civilizations of the Sumarians and the Egyptians do not show evidence of a high level of technical science. Atlantis, however, does. The Cayce readings and many other sources seem to point to the extensive use of emanations or radiation for purposes of power generation, flight and of healing, etc. The Cayce readings also name Egypt as one of the colonies of Atlantis. I submit that the area of the Tigris and Euphrates Rivers was also a colony and that the Ankh or Looped Cross was in fact an Atlantean symbol of the energies and emanations of which all is made. When passed on by the colonial Atlanteans, the symbol was regarded as sacred. The structure of the Qabala was woven about it and in the Egyptian colony it was incorporated into the written language as the Symbol of Life. Ishtar's sandal strap is the reminder that the forces of this material world mere bind us to the spirit which is the cause of all. It is a map of the energy flowing down from God which uplifts and sustains us in our present form. The Looped Cross has traveled a long way from Atlantis, its meaning clouded but still intact... ... ...

What is BLUE, has a "long tail", and a head like a "crown", makes noises like "ten trucks" put together and destroys scores of houses and build - ings in its path? Well - 'it' showed up over small villages in Senegal on Sept. 9th! UFO? That's what they are calling it, as they cannot put it down to a weather phenomenon or otherwise! * In December, arount the 10th, bright glowing objects showed up over the beaches in Carvoerio, Portugal. They reportedly got tired of just wafting around and began chasing cars along the highway there. * Six fishermen "got into a panic" when a "bright phenomenon" with a strong light, "appeared" on the surface of the water at Pererias, Azores! Since it stayed around for three hours, I guess it was panicsville.* HOWEVER -- there was NO panic in the Soviet Union in Feb.,1981 when two scientists made the grande pronouncement (!) that after studying 250 UFO reports, they were "real phonemena". (So Are Ghosts!) SO - YOU tell me: WHAT IS A "PHENOMENA"? (THIS is a "study"?) * A Robot was seen exiting a UFO in a small town near Madrid, Spain, on the night of Feb. 13,'81. (Ho Hum, another One?) "The night was dark, we heard noise. it was a cubic-shaped robot... it was like metal....He made a noise like dogs do, but in a lower rhythm." HE? How sexist can you get? * (Come to think of it I DO know a few 'he's' who are robotic!) Meanwhile, in France, a police "Coronel" spotted a saucer-shaped object emitting a blue light on Feb. 26, '81, and another Strong Light was seen in the sky of Foucherans for more than one hour. IF 'it' had been a robot (which it wasn't) I'll bet you Ze Frenchman would have called it a "she" ! * BUT --- What do ABU DHABIANS call UFOs? Two police officers, one a Col., and Commandant-in-chief of Dubai Police, the other a Major, a Director of the Emergency Force (?), reported seeing a "huge shining object about 200 feet off the ground, and ½ kilometer away! They saw a part of the object separatefrom the main body, change color to dark red, and part of the way down -- it disappeared! (How rude can you get?). This took place in March, '81.* (Was this a He and a She - or - an it?) * He also tried to radio his headquarters-- NO radio. No workee at all! Until AFTER the object had split the scene. The brightness of the object was so intense it was not possible to form an idea of its exact size.... Maybe this object was a 'she' - and it had a veil!!! **********

Ark of the Covenant: an electronic device from "another dimension"?????? A California minister believes this - and - he wants to put his money where his belief is - to the tune of $28 MILLION dollars! This is what he figures a reproduction of the Ark and the surrounding tabernacle will cost. He believes the early Jews heard the 'voice of God' through this instrument. (Who said talk is cheap?) *Something ELSE is going to happen in 1984 (besides Orwell's predictions!) a man-made comet, a new 'light in the sky', made in West Germany and launched from Cape Canaveral, Fla. This only costs $44 million, and it will study the "solar wind". It also will have a 'tail' that is blue and green and will be tens of thousands of miles long, and will disappear within an hour..... SUCH a tale it might tell - or- will it be as a farce in a (solar) wind storm? *Many new reports of "Huge, Triangular, etc" UFOS ----- spotted in different places across the country, one such report was from New Hampshire, in April, '81, and was said to have taken on the appearance of a "huge triangle" with red lights, a high intensity white light on the leading edge, and looks similar to "five B-52s on a low altitude dlight, flying in a staggered V formation." It was flying LOW (!) "lower than the hills" and passed over a motorists' car... Really now ..... NOthing that large should fly THAT low with NO sound??? * MEANWHILE - in Danville, Pa. in May, '81, the "FUZZIES" were seen ----- falling -- from "saucer-shaped objects", "exploding" or "hatching" in front of the sun! These particles or fuzzies or falling cobwebs then proceeded to disintegrate as they fell to earth. A typical "Angel Hair" report! * NOT an 'Angel' though was seen in a case from Greensburg, Pa. in April, '81, it was described as coming in an object that was at housetop level, with three white light forming the points of a triangle and just above the lights was a transparent window! To the left and right of the front pane, separated by metallic-like partitions, were two windows AND 'beings' "Very large heads, oriental-like eyes, gill-like ears and two holes instead of a nose." Also seen was a control panel - with various knobs, levers, etc... electrical blackout also occurred... The 'beings' were operating the controls...! WHATTAWAYTOGO! **********

THE PHAESTOS DISK:
AN ARTIFACT -- OF ATLANTIS?
BY THE CHAPEL OF AQUARIA....

Following Sir Arthur Evans' Scripta Minoa classification system, we have:

"Marching figure of a man etc." The outer, aware, conscious mind of man marches through the sunny, waking hours of the day.

"Head of a man in a close-fitting helmet." ____ or Mohawk Indian head. Being an Englishman, Sir Arthur did not recognize the Mohawk-Iroquois haircut. Being an American, I say this is the classic head of a Mohawk Indian. Edgar Cayce tells us that the indians of the 6 nations were among the last, direct descendants of the people of Atlantis. The 2.Mohawk head symbolizes the deeper, inner, militant soul of man, always on a 24-hour alert, always judging, always evaluating. It is our inner soul that speaks to us in waking life and dreams.

"Head of a man etc." ____ or priest. Most of our most prayerful decisions are made in the evening. Thusly do the 8-cycles whirl. Note the "8" priestly earring.

"Naked man with his arms bound etc." ____ bound mentally in the I4.Manacles. As the day wears on, we become more and more chained by our thoughts and we are all victims and prisoners of our own convictions, for better or for worse.

"Naked male child." The body tissues start to renew themselves at midnight. One is reborn.

6  "Woman etc." ____ symbolizes the spirit. Man is reborn from the spirit. Note the umbilical cord tourniquet. The flow of spirit in all its forms is more intense at dawn, noon, sunset and midnight. The astrobiologists of Atlantis saw the moon as a woman. The Phaestos "sun" Disk chakra depicts the start of the fourth day of the waxing moon. The two opposing woman-figures move out to the cardinal points-fish niches and the two opposing fish move back into the moon-chakrawing niches formerly occupied by the two women. We know it is the start of the fourth day of the waxing moon because two women stand at dawn and sunset and four unmarked ships have already replaced the marked or ashen-light ships of the waning moon. The rest of the figures in the chakrawings move out in the same fashion to their niches on the circumference of the chakra, two each day. After 14 days the moon starts to wane again and the process is reversed. The 45.Aquarius water-figures on the chakrawings do not move. The moon shines by the reflected light of the great spirit-sun.

7  "I have taken this sign to represent a woman's breast." The renewal-flow of the milk of the spirit is indicated. St. Paul touched on this subject when he wrote, "I fed you with milk, etc." in I Corinthians 3:2. The breast stands for the positive aspects or renewal-form of the 12.Shield and the 24.Pagoda.

8  "Fist bound with cestus, etc." The fist also shoots the bow. The human mind and body take a beating in the afternoon as fatigue sets in.

9  "This sign has every appearance of being a kind of tiara."

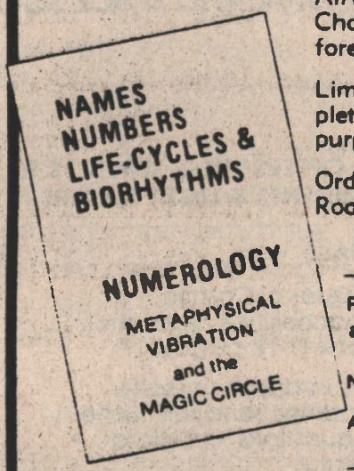

The 3.Priest puts the 9.Tiara-hood on his head when he passes judgment in the last eight-section of the chakra.

"Arrow". The 43.Triangle-arrowhead fits on top of the IO.Arrow. The arrow shoots and the 43.Arrowhead becomes the 34.Moth-butterfly. Lacking an Atlantean dictionary, all kinds of obvious psychological and philosophical idea-associations are valid.

THE LIVING THINGS!
by Charles A. Marcoux

Editor's Note: Here are some of the most extraordinary photos! We appreciate very much Mr. Marcoux sharing them with us, and we do also apologize for the reproduction of the photos on this type of paper... They are much sharper and more clear in the original photos.... He has kindly provided sketches to help us see them better... ... ...

The first two pictures were taken beside a cave on Oct. 13, 1978, in New Mexico. There were other old mines in this area, also. That - "THING" is not a bush or a shrub, but it came right out of this cave, as well as #16, which shows a UFO with letters or symbols upon it. The mines and the caves are directly involved with the UFO and and the being, or whatever you wish to call "them". The last two pictures were taken near Black Mountain in the Superstition Mountain range in Arizona. A "THING" or "BEING" showed himself to me in an area where I suspect there is an entrance. That exact spot could be probed or entered right there. Many UFOs, which I have photographed, enter there.

These pictures show that "BEINGS" are everywhere, and also, UFOs, and they are involved with the struggle in the cavern worlds, below and above, the earth, as well as ON earth. These "BEINGS", which I term "THE THINGS" do fly in fire-ships (UFOs), and it does not mean that they are deros or devils -- but -- only a different form of Life, like the "living things" as mentioned in the Scripture.

All four of these pictures were taken at an entrance to the Underworld. Their 'portals' or 'doors' are inter-dimensional and can't be seen or felt, except as a solid wall. The "BEINGS" are BOTH solid and inter-dimensional, and they can transfer back and forth from one world to the other... ... ... NOTE: NEW! Mr. Marcoux has a new book out which shows many of the photos of this strange world, and we urge all our readers to obtain this. I don't have the details here, but if you will write to us at the Journal, I will forward all requests on to Charles...

Riddle  of 100 UFOs

SOURCE: "DAILY STAR" - London, Eng. - 5/13/81 - A probe has been launched into more UFO sightings in an area where there are two nuclear power stations. In the same area (the Scottish Borders) 12 people have died in mystery plane crashes. Mary Watson and Joyce Byers, both of Annadale Rd, Moffat, Dumfries, have logged the series of UFOS in a diary provided by Eskdalemuir Observatory. They are convinced the Moffat Hills are a 'base' for flying saucers and they believe there is a link with the fact that two nuclear stations are not far away. "We have noted everything - from swirling saucer-shaped objects to orange and red triangles..."

The big HUMMMM

SOURCE: STAR, Shropshire, England
July 16, 1980.....

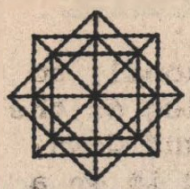

BRUCE SANDHAM

on the mystery noise that is baffling scientists

At first you think there's a car ticking over in the street outside. Or- perhaps the plumbing has developed a hiccup. Maybe the washing machine is on the blink. Or - it could be the phone... WHATEVER it is, that low and rhythmic throbbing sound will drive you mad if you can't find the cause. And, what the scientists have nicknamed "THE BIG HUM" has, over the past FIVE years, developed into a major international mystery! Now the World Health Organization has been brought in to investigate. Its scientists are currently carrying out studies in over 20 countries where the hummmmm has been heard. In Britain, experts are concentrating their researches on the West Country where the hummm is most insistent. One scientist told me: "We have heard it on the beach in Cornwall -- a low pitch monotonous throbbing noise." "It seemed to come out of the air, but was not carried by the wind. It was most pronounced in still, calm weather." In London, householders in the SW suburbs recently left their homes in alarm as a deep hummm reverberated through the neighborhood, it lasted for several hours and then faded. Similar noises have been heard in the Austrailian desert, the Middle East, the Caribbean and the Arctic... Reverberations have even been picked up by NASA spacecraft headquarters in Houston, TX, and by radio telescopes in Australia.

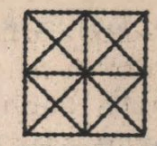

Recently, it's also been heard in Washington, Moscow, Pekin and Rome. French president D'Estaing has shrugged it off as the "English malaise" but you can hear it in Paris, too! Millions of people around the world now say that the mysterious humming disturbs their lives. Usually, it's a low throbbing sound that's only just audible ... but... intensely irr- itating. In some cases, the hum has been diagnosed by doctors as tinnitus a medical condition that leads to noises within the head, and which can, in severe cases, cause extreme anguish. But this is rare. The vast major- ity of the cases involve something that everyone can hear.

When reports of the hummm first arrived at the WHO's Geneva headquarters project leader Dr. G. Sachs says they were puzzled, even a little amused. "But when you get reports from Alice Springs in Australia, and from the Arctic, as well as Chinese fishermen, there must be something."... "We know it is there because our sound-measuring devices had picked it up. But where it comes from is something we would like to know." So would the Environmental Health Dept. in Bristol, which has 30,000 pounds worth of equipment seeking the source of the hummm that is currently plaguing the city.....

SEARCH AND DISCOVER -- THROUGH DOWSING

by Hank Smyth

How would you like to have a "psychic radar system", with miraculous "ESP Machines" that could, within seconds, locate everything from buried treasure to lost dogs and missing car keys, and which could give you an accurate and instantaneous answer to any question that you asked? Does the idea seem far-fetched, or too good to be true? The system exists today, costs nothing, and is being used by thousands of people all over the world. It's called Dowsing, and it's not just for water witching any more. Moreover, it has been established that anyone who really wants to can learn to dowse, including you.

Today's dowsers, in addition to locating well sites, use their skills in such diverse activities as treasure hunting, oil and mineral prospecting, missing person searches, nutritional analysis, medical diagnosis and in healing, past life research, and the exploration of inner space, or the hidden depths of man's consciousness. The uses of dowsing are limited only by man's inagination.

What are the fantastic "ESP Machines" of dowsing, and how do they work? They are dowsing rods (three varieties) and pendulums, and they work by providing "yes" and "no" answers to specific questions, according to the manner in which the dowser has "programmed" them. You can make a dow - sing instrument yourself in a couple of minutes, and chances are that you already have the materials lying around your home.

A dowser's pendulum is a small weight suspended from a short length of string or chain. A 1/8 ounce fishing sinker attached to a 3-inch piece of string will do the job just fine until you can come up with a better one. The three basic dowsing rods are the Y-rod, or forked stick, the L-rods, or angle rods (normally used in pairs); and the straight wand, or "bobber".

The easiest to use are the L-rods. These are 15 to 20 inch lengths of wire, each of which is bent into the shape of the letter 'L'. Hold one in each hand, by the short leg of the 'L', in the manner of an Arizona gunfighter. Movement of the rods - swinging out or swinging in - is considered to be a "yes" response, while no movement means "no". If you don't feel like bending wire, use two wire coathangers - as is. Hold one in each hand, by the long bottom portion, in the up and down posit- ion, with the hooks pointing away from you. The hooks will swing in or out to make the dowsing response.

The Y-rod, or forked stick, is harder to use, but it's traditional, so most dowsers take pride in being able to use one. Grasp one leg of the rod with each hand, with your palms up; hold rod straight up and down, with the tip at eye level, and roll it gently forward, till it is in a position at which the slightest stimulus would make it snap downward. Again, movement means "yes", and no movement means "no".

For the straight wand, try a 36-inch length of wire. Hold it in one hand, pointing away from you, and "program" it, so that an up-and-down bobbing motion indicates "yes", while a side-to-side motion means "no". Now - try it as a direction-finder. Face any direction and ask: "Am I facing in the direction of north?" If you get a "no" response, start a slow turn to the right or left, and continue turning till the wand changes it's swing from side to side into the up and down mode. When the swing changes, stop. You are now facing north, and you can check it out with a compass if you are so inclined.

Remember the pendulum? It's the most useful of all dowing instruments, and it's small enough to carry in your pocket or purse. Hold it in the hand with which you normally write. Grip the end of the string or chain tightly between your thumb and index finger. Now "program" it to show a "yes" response by swinging out away from you and back, and a "no" response by swinging from side to side.

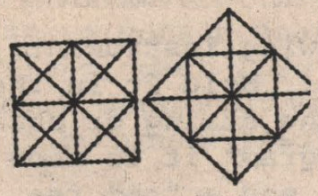

The key to accurate dowsing is sensible questioning. Be precise in the formulation of your questions, and remember, they must be such that they can be answered by "Yes" or "No". "Is she coming?" is not a well-worded or precise question. "Is Jane Smith enroute to my house now?" is clear and precise. Your subconscious, which is what makes dowsing work, takes the wording of your questions literally, and responds to what you say - which may not be quite the same as what you mean.

If you are treasure hunting, and you ask your dowsing rod to respond when you are facing the greatest local concentration of silver coins, it will probably point in the direction of the First National Bank, since you did not specify that you were looking for buried coins along the beach.

To locate buried treasure, missing persons, and the like, try your hand at map dowsing. It's weird and uncanny, but it works. Let's say that your dog has wandered off. Spread out a map of the area on your kitchen table, and take up the pendulum. First question: "Is my dog, Rover, located in the area represented by this map?" (Don't ask: "Is Rover located on this map?", because he isn't. There isn't anything on the map except perhaps, your coffee cup and your pencil!) If your pendulum says "Yes", take a pencil and divide the map into four equal squares. Holding the pendulum above each square, ask: "Is my dog, Rover, located in the area represented by this square?" When you get a "Yes" response, hold the pendulum directly above any corner of that square. Ask" From the location depicted by this corner of the square, along what line of direction is my dog, Rover?". Watch where the pendulum swings, and draw a pencil line along its path, extending the line all the way to the opposite edge of the square. Now hold the pendulum over any other corner of the same square, and repeat the process. The intersection of the two pencil lines -marks the dog's location -- at that moment.

Learning how to dowse, like learning to drive, takes a bit of practice - but it's easier than most people think, and the rewards are well worth the effort. Think of your dowsing practice not as water witching, but as activating your personal psychic radar system. With it you can search for, and discover, the Universe... ... ...

INTERDIMENSIONAL COMMUNICATOR -
THE "STONE" OF THE KAABA!
by Patrick O'Connell -
President, The New Atlanteans

The most sacred shrine of the Mohammedans is a flat-roofed, cube-shaped building in the center of the Great Mosque of Mecca. But - little is now known concerning the sacred Black Stone that is located in its south - east corner. Called the "HAJAR AL ASWUD", is is said to have originally been a ruby which came down from heaven, but as tradition has it, is now blackened by the tears shed for sin, by the thousands of pilgrins which visit the Kaaba each year.

The seemingly fanatical devotion which Believers exhibit toward the sacred stone may somehow be related to some researchers' belief that the stone emits a compelling force, perhaps an "etheric" wavelength or hypnotic message which maintains the fierce devotion of the Mohammedans throughout the centuries since the stone first appeared on earth.

It is well known that crystals, and in certain combinations and arrangements, will transmit messages (acoustical, and reportedly mental)... Therefore, it is not surprising to learn that the black stone is seem - ingly composed of a specific arrangement of crystals - or - stones! The CENTURY DICTIONARY AND CYCLOPEDIA (copyright 1899) states that the stone "... is an irregular oval about seven inches in diameter, and is composed of about a dozen smaller stones of different shapes and sizes."

As our Journal readers will note, this is not the only 'talking' stone or 'sacred' stone on earth! Other articles in this magazine have mentioned sacred stones discovered in both North and South America... ... Perhaps - when the Lost Hall Of Records is found, there may be similar 'lost' sacred stones rediscovered!

THE KINGS AND QUEENS OF EGYPT -- IN STUNNING COLOR!

WE HAVE NOW LOCATED
ONLY 12 MORE SETS!!

Back in the 1920's, an archeologist named Brunton was often involvec in the first opening of numerous Egyptian Tombs. Because his daughter, Winifred, was an artist and frequently accompanied her father in his work, it is now through her paintings that we have some idea of how the early Kings and the Queens of Egypt actually looked. She would compare the mummys and the wall frescoes of each rules and then do a painting that incororated the composit features.

A very limited number of her paintings were put into cheaper colored prints and from an old stock of these beautiful prints there are sets of 12 now available! King Tutankhamon, Haremhad, and numerous other noted Kings and Queens from many ers are represented. These prints are not only beautiful - but they are rare. You can obtain all 12 of them by sending only $10.00 per set to: NEW ATLANTEAN JOURNAL - 5963 32 Ave No, St. Petersburg, Fl 33710...

ANCIENT UFOs ARE RESPONSIBLE FOR THE BERMUDA TRIANGLE ***
by Dr. Ronald P. Anjard

There are still many speculations concerning the Bermuda Triangle. Some question if there really are resulting phenomena. Others have theorized that there is a similar Triangle in the Pacific. Still others describe a complete set of Triangles or other similar shapes that cover our entire planet. But - few have tried to determine what has caused these weird effects.

The answer goes back into antiquity -- into Times lost. Contrary to popular belief, mankind has long been on Terra. The secret Hopi legends are that they have existed here as Hopi for over 250,000 years. In the early years, many Pyramids were built in various parts of the world --- primarily as energy collectors.

In the ancient Sanskrit writings of India, research has shown the existence of 'space ships' somewhat similar to present-day air ships. In published Hopi legends, men are described as using flying war 'shields' to attack other cities and those people retaliating by attacking in their own flying war shields.

The Pyamids were an ancient means of power collection and redistribution. The concept, design and fabrication was primarily conducted through the direct aid of "ancient astronauts" working in close conjunction with mankind as it then existed. Pyramids were built in various parts of the world as a "total" earth energy system. But the energy generated could not be adequately controlled. As a result, fantastic energy was dis - apated through the skies and caused pole shift(s). Enormous cataclyptic land changes then occurred. New Lands were born; some old lands sunk into the sea. The submergence of Atlantis was a direct result of these calamitous earth shifts. In fact, the surviving Atlanteans went either to Egypt or east to the Americas. The latter is substantiated by careful analysis of the legends of Native Americans.

Having realized that they had been ineffective in working with earth - men to harness energy, the ancient astronauts attempted to de-activate all the Pyramids. The numerous reported energy effects, spirals and other unique analyses at the Pyramid of "Cheops" is just a small indicat - ion of the power present at this location. The problem, unfortunately, was that several Pyramids could not be de-energized.

One is buried in North America... some speculate that it is in the Grand Canyon area. Another "Lost" Pyramid had been an important part of Atlantis before it sank. The Bermuda Triangle effect is caused by energy being dispursed from a sunken Pyramid that was at one time a part of Atlantis. As water conducts electricity and energy while earth and sand function as insulations, this may explain why the lost North American Pyramid hardly has been suspected.

Many recent investigations and reports clearly show that the history as we have known it, is too simplistic and needs correction. There are many unusual sites, skills and phenomena still unexplained by conventional scientists. Certainly, ancient astronauts and ancient Atlantis are not accepted by all. But in a recent survey, it was reported that over 50% of the American people believed in UFOs. Ancient astronauts are plausible, and much work is still being conducted to find the Lost Continent of Atlantis. When Atlantis is conclusively found ---------- a Pyramid will be found too..... Submerged in the sea, but still Alive! NOTE: If you would like to contact Dr. Anjard, is address is: 906 Bellevue Place, Kokomo, Indiana 46901... ... ...

THE HIDDEN CITY OF CHIHUATLAN ©1981
by Charles A. Marcoux
Part One.....

Somewhere in Old Sonora, Mexico, near the state of Chihuahua and not too far from Sinaloa, is a canyon with tall steep walls. This leads to a small valley which is in view of the Sierra Madre Mountains, where small washes go into the Rio Diero O Chinipas. There, within these canyons, is an entrance to the "underworld" that goes to the "Citadel", which is sometimes called the "Hidden City of Chihuatlan". The "Pit of Momiclte" or "Quetzlcoatl".

After Cortes captured Mexico City, he set up Montezuma as a vassal, in order to keep the Mexican people at ease. Yet during and after Cortes' conquest of Mexico City, the Aztecs continued querilla warfare against the greedy Spanish Conquistadores. The Noblemen and rich Aztecs, along with the Priest class, hid many of their treasures, books and wealth, in southern Mexico, and Central America. Meanwhile, the Priests and the rich land barons, who knew of the 'underworld' and its ancient Elder Sciences, took their families and wealth into Old Sonora, where they re-established their kingdom within the 'underwordl' at the old Lemurian city of Ketch --- now called the "Citadel".

In 1539, Coronado and the Jesuit, Fray Marcos, left Mexico City in the search for Cibola, the seven golden cities and the 'fountain of youth'. This was in order to wrest the treasures from the Azetecs and the Toltecs, and to punish them for their indiscretions. Many poor Aztecs who had seen the activities of the Priest class and whose families had placed sacrifices upon the altars, were left with a hatred against the rich land barons and the sadistic Priest class.

The Spaniards did not conquer Mexico, it was the Azetec class that overthrew the rich and the vicious Priest class. Coronado had hundreds of Aztec followers during his adventures into Sinaloa and Old Sonors ---- where he set up his camps in pursuit of the Hidden City of Chihuatlan. But - the Aztecs had already sealed the entrances to the cavern world -- and removed any natural signs that would reveal these entrances. Coronado sent a large group of Aztec trackers ahead to try to locate the Aztec Noblemen and the Priests, which they believed were hidden in Cibola, for they did not know of the lost Lemurian/Azaltan city of Ketcha. The trackers traveled an average of 25 miles a day by horseback. The trackers found a large canyon, not too far from the present-day location of Alamos, Sonora, Mexico.

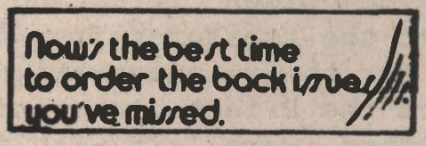

They sent runners back to Coronado which arrived within five days after they departed. On the fifth day, runners came in with news of a large cross, which meant that they had located the city of Cibola, a City of Gold. On the seventh day, a second runner came in with a tale of horror.

The tracker said that all the other trackers were slaughtered near a large cave, in a valley, that led to a high canyon pass. This runner had been far behind the other trackers when they neared this cavern. As they did so, the runner claimed, he saw strange anilam-like men attack from out of nowhere. Most were killed in a few minutes, and a few others appeared to be picked up and carried into the cave.....

SACRED CAVES AND LOST CITIES OF THE ANCIENTS!

by Patrick O'Connell, President
The New Atlantean Research Society

Throughout the length and breadth of South America, it has been rumored that there are many "Lost" cities and caves in which the Ancients' took refuge after one catastrophe and then another. For example, the cataclysm which sank Atlantis and, more recently, perhaps, the Spanish conquest of South and Central America. The eons of time have not dimished the legends of the Indians which relate to these caves, mines, tunnel - passageways, and cities being 'haunted' by evil spirits! Is there a reality to these traditions of sacred caves being "Thought-Guarded" by the ancient priests? Could there be any connection between these 'legends' and the long history of UFOs being seen in these areas containing the un - derground tunnels? Even as long ago as 1893, in T.F. Thiselton's book, "The Ghost World", there is an account of a haunted emerald mine near Los Esmeraldos, Peru, which is reportedly guarded by "...a dragon, which did pour forth thunder and lightning on those who dared to ascent the river." Perhaps this was really a UFO!

Desmond Leslie ("Flying Saucers Have Landed") tells of a strange legend concerning the mysterious Cuchulain, a hero of Irish mythology. The blasted and fused stones of the prehistoric stone hill forts of Ireland suggest that the Ancients possessed weapons of great destruction. For example, Leslie related that Cuchulain had weapons called the "Thunder Feat" of 'an Hondred, of Five Hundred or of a Thousand'. That is, the weapon could be adjusted to slay 100, 500, or 1,000 people! These weapons seem to parallel the Sanskrit text's description of "Indra's Dart" and the Brahma weapon or the "Mishmak". Other similarities arise between Cuchulain's two chariots called the ¼Scythe Chariot" and the "Enchanted Chariot", when compared to the Vedic manuscripts' descriptions of the Vimanas (UFOs).

After one of the great battles of Cuchulain, legend has it that the survivors fled, not to one of the Celtic strongholds of Ireland, but to the "City of the Three Peaks", a fabulous mountain fortress which figures largely in many South American traditions as one of the great latter-day Atlantean capitals, and which some writers have associated with the "Tripple City" of the Mahabharta which was destroyed by the so-called atomic bolt, or "Mismak" or the "Brahma Weapon"! A description of this mysterious city appears on numerous Mayan and Toltec inscriptions. It's image (the Tripple Mountain) is depicted on many ancient coins, dug up on pre-Inca sites.

A clue as to how the Ancients built their cities is provided in John Freeman's "Suppressed and Incredible Inventions", available from A. Fry, 22511 Markham, Perris, Ca 92370 at $7.95 ppd.) Another example, South American explorer Col Fawcett claimed that he once stumbled by accident on a plant whose juice could soften the hardest rock! He is also supposed to have descended into subterranean tunnels which penetrated for miles under the surface of the earth! Numerous accounts, from other writers and explorers tell of similar smooth walled tunnels under many lands across the globe. ... ...

OPEN LETTER TO ALL OF OUR READERS: From the Editor ... ...

WE ARE NOT RAISING OUR PRICES!

HOWEVER! We are all going to participate in the Universal Law of Compensation - otherwise known as The Law of Sacrifice! You and I both are going to sacrifice eight pages of The Journal in order not to sacrifice any more of that paper-stuff in our (thin) wallets!

Within the next few months our postal rates will be raised, not only the 1st Class mail, but the Bulk Rate as well. Since we pay by the Pound --- you can see the handwriting on the proverbial wall. If we cut back on the weight, we can go merrily through the next weight adjustment/rate/increase, etc. at the same price. Instead of our bill increasing. But-less weight means less pages and less pages mean fewer articles. This situation was subjected to a lot of thinking, and I hope that you will agree with me that your money is as tight as ours! This is my solution to the problem.

I apologize to you, our readers, and to you, our authors. Some articles will be run full length - BUT - they will have to be broken down into several issues. Some features we will have to drop, or spread around and used in every other issue.

In the past few months I have seen several New Age publications totally go by the board - zapped by the high costs. This is also true for many groups who tried to maintain 'centers' with their high overhead of paying the rent, utilities, etc. The difference between them and The Journal is that they tried to make their readers/members pay an increased rate. And, they found out that they didn't have the money either..... But, they were not willing to sacrifice their buildings or their slick paper or their color-printing. We are... And, we thank you in advance for your patience and understanding. We care... Because YOU care.....

'Luminous beings squeezed my head'

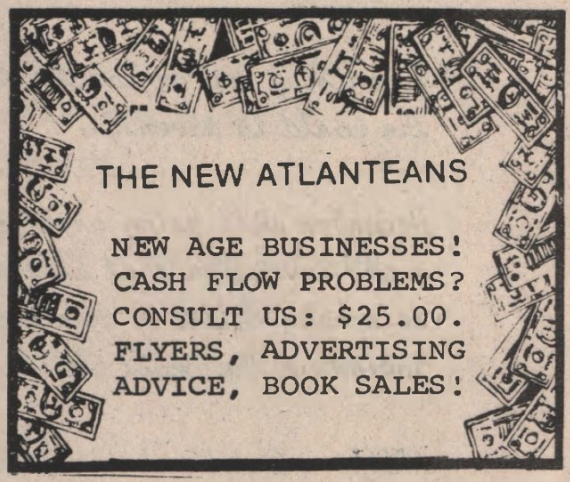

SOURCE: "HERALD" Buenos Aires, Argentina - 4/24/80 - A man was attacked by two "strange luminous creatures" according to his own declaration to the police here. The man, Nelson Sayago, was hospitalized, apparently suffering from a nervous crisis. Sayago said that the car he was driv - ing suddenly stopped due to some mechanical problem which he could not explain. He was immediately approached by two 'luminous creatures' who squeezed his head until he passed out. When he woke, he was 10 blocks away from the spot where it had occured. A passer-by led him to a near- by hospital, where he was admitted with a severe nervous breakdown, and the doctors who received him said afterwards that he hadn't been drink- ing...

NEW INSIGHT INTO THE NATURE OF REALITY ITSELF!

Colonel Thomas E. Bearden, a research scientist in the fields of military intelligence and nuclear weapons for over 23 years, has written a definitive book that vastly expands our understanding of paranormal phenomena.

THE EXCALIBUR BRIEFING

With the incisive power of the Excalibur sword of legend, this book cuts through the morass of confusing paranormal happenings and provides highly credible and technically sound explanations. The Excalibur Briefing is written for the entire range of paranormal "enthusiasts" -- from amateur to the most expert.

Part One discusses specific paranormal phenomena, such as UFO's, mystery lights, free energy devices, crystal skulls, thought photography, spacemen, cattle mutilations, psychic surgery, and ghost rockets. All of these phenomena are then explained by the fascinating theories presented in Part Two. Part Three contains a wider message, of immense significance to us all. Colonel Bearden clearly demonstrates the dangers inherent in Soviet psychotronic mind control research. What may well become classified data is here revealed with a strong sense of urgency--the West must wake up to this danger before it is too late.

The author of numerous technical publications, Colonel Bearden is widely respected in the field of paranormal studies both as a teacher and as a writer.

BIGFOOT'S PORTAL!
by Virginia Louise

It seems highly possible that Bigfoot, a world-wide, uncaptured mystery, must inhabit two planes of existence which he enters and leaves in somewhat the same way as seals and turtles plunge from land to sea at will. Most sea-dwellers, knowing that they cannot rise beyond an invisible barrier above them, watch other creatures go thru that barrier and out into another world. A patient photographer can record them in BOTH worlds. Not so with Bigfoot's unpredictable visits! Endless research and study of seriously reported sightings seem to clearly indicate that the catalyst in ALL sightings is: water.

Nothing, absolutely nothing, can hide forever and certainly not monster-size Bigfoot. A native Indian, schooled in the old, traditional ways of tracking will sit motionless in a location of his choosing to listen and observe for as long as it takes his quarry to appear. To my knowledge, no Indian will attempt nor can be induced to use this method with Bigfoot, to use just one of the many names of this human-like creature - seen all over America and the world. Indians, and probably other natives , carefully avoid a direct encounter with it; being attuned to nature - they know WHERE this creature will appear because it seems to have definite portals between the two realms of its existence. Indians know this, as they do know the purpose of each definite and measured portion of earth - invisibly divided into plots which are suitable for various uses: corn planting, etc. Now, in modern times, this knowledge has been rediscovered, expanded and publicised by Capt. Bruce Cathie in his excellent books on the harmonic grids of the earth.

My book, "Night-Side of Gold" was written from hindsight remembrance of encounters with Bigfoot during an 8 year mining venture in the Santa Lucias along the coast of southern California. Now, in the Lagunas around Julian in San Diego County, I have been actively pursuing reports of Bigfoot in these mountains and the Anza-Borrego Desert below, and most particularly within a certain Indian Reservation. In February, 1981, I happened to be at the right place at the right time to meet a young Indian who talked openly of his interest in Bigfoot and said he had seen him on his reservation and knew the location of the caves where Bigfoot hid, and he would take me there - now!

He guided me up a fearfully storm-wrecked road. My ancient van was not designed for such, nor my senior years to cope. Once started, there was no turning back. Disaster seemed certain but I would die TRYING! We reached a small flat. "Park here," my escort said. "Now we hike down a canyon." He hiked ahead rapidly and I eventually caught up with him -- napping under a bush. Below him, a small stream followed a darkening canyon around a bend. I had parked in bright sunshine and in less than a mile we had descended into sunless gloom. "The caves are over there - But I an NOT about to go there."... Until my guide refused to enter a taboo area, I had not really believed his story. I knew that no money or incentive on Earth will induce an Indian to enter taboo ground such as Mt. St. Helens. "Okay, now we wait. Have a seat." I said to him, "What are we waiting for?" He said, "To watch. He comes out this time of day and walks around. He drinks from those old rock-troughs I showed you by the road. Sometimes he hangs out by that wrecked house where the road loop starts." "You in a hurry?" I told him no, but that I am not about to drive down that road in the dark. We hiked back to my van which was now completely concealed in the brush until you reached the road..... It was dusk when I drove out of the Reservation... ... ... NOTE: In our next issue Virginia tells us what happened when she went back! And, a special thanks to her for sharing her experiences... ... ...

MYSTERIOUS INTAGLIOS

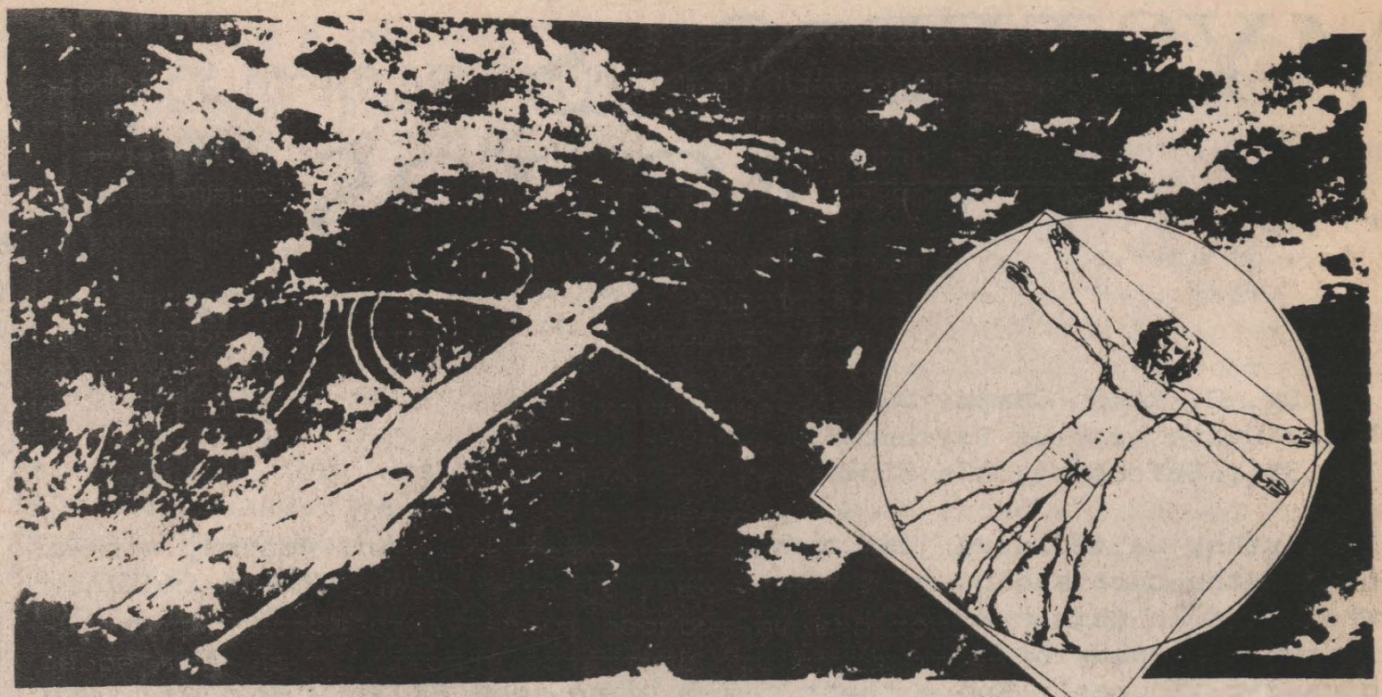

By Dr. C. Ralph Campo, DD
Dean: University of Psychic Sciences
POB 555, Ehrenberg, AZ 85324

In Blythe, California, just a few miles from downtown, you may witness one of the outstanding mysteries inherited from some unknown Indians who lived in this area during pre-historic times. Actually, archeo - logists are playing a guessing game to figure out who did design the gigantic figures. And - these can only be seen if you fly over them!

The MYSTERIOUS INTAGLIOS OF BLYTHE are clearly visible. Some of them in the form of a human shape or spirals, and four-legged creatures with long thin tails, ball-like feet and with wide open mouths. Their meanings or origins are obscure. There is a great resemblance to the Intaglios in Peru's Nazca desert, that won international fame in the controversial fildm "Chariouts of the Gods". These are possibly the best collections of Intaglios in North America, and this is including Mexico and Alaska plus Canada! These giant figures lie not too far from the Colorado River, the carver of the incredible Grand Canyon. Fortunately, some concerned citizens have decided to keep these giant figures protected by building a wire fence around them so that they can be preserved with a great care.

There are several theories about their origin, but perhaps the most logical one is the one shared by some archeologists, they feel that they may have been a part of the YUMAN speaking Indians and the pictures are related to what they believed was the Creation. The animal could be a NUMETA, considered a supernatural being created at the beginning of the globe. MUSTAN-HO, the Creator God, invested a great power to NUMETA - in any form - but who took the form of a human-being and a cougar. These figures are consistently paired at the Blythe site. The lucky Indian who dreams of NUMETA, in any form, was believed to gain great physical and psychic power as well as great hunting skills. These Indians, who traveled to the west coast, offered a rock in a symbolic manner, forming a shrine that grew with each Indian who passed by. These small cairns are visible near the Blythe figures. Unfortunately, some moronic motorcycle drivers have tried intentionally to destroy these monuments. Some of the figures are 200 feet long!

It looks like a flying man. Compare to the Michael Angelo's perfect man drawing intentionally inserted. CHARIOTS OF THE GODS may have had nothing to do with making the design above, but "chariots" of man did! Off road vehicles have damaged 80% of the known INTAGLIOS along the Colorado River. Some of the damage was accidental; some, as above, was deliberate. Note wheelscuts in and around the man-like figure. This figure, near Blythe, is nearly 200 ft long. New Attempts Made to Save The Blythe Intaglios

WHEEL CUTS in the same intaglios, located about 14 miles north of Blythe. The figures are clearly visible at ground level, indicating attempts to destroy the ancient Indian art were deliberate. (Photo by Dr Charles K. Davenport.)

PENTAGON-SHAPED fence enclosed the human figure. The animal, right center, believed to be a mountain lion, also is fenced. This protective effort took place in the mid-1950's with the aid of Blythe's Palo Verde High School and businessmen of the city. Subsequently, attempts were made without success to knock down fences with vehicles (Photo by Joe Dahilig, Bureau of Reclamation)

THE LATEST work to protect the intaglios was done over Washington's Birthday weekend by 25 volunteers from Ventura, Orange, San Bernardino and Riverside Counties. Half of these people responded because of an article in SUNSET MAGAZINE. The article also resulted in more than 100 letters from others anxious to help. (See story on next page.)

The precise location is from Freeway 10 -take the Intake exit and drive north on 95, about 17 miles. There is an inconspicuous road sign marker that reads:"GIANT DESERT FIGURES", and as you turn left or West on a dirt road, then about ½ mile to the first turnout. The finest Intaglios can be found if you drive West a short distance and you will find a rise. From here, you must walk ½ mile South from the road, crossing a desert wash and then up a small Mesa. Only 10 acres remain of the 18 acre Topcock Mesa, which is also known as the MYSTIC MAZE. It is not actually a maze, but it is comprised of parallel windows - 3 to 4 feet apart and about 6 to 8 inches high. They are built in several directions and they meet, sometimes, on certain angles.

It played an important "purification" role for the living as well as the dead, in the Mohave culture, and perhaps also in the Yuman's tribes. The Nohave Indians were quite powerful and numerous. They travelled a great deal and their stanmina is legend for they could run 120 miles a day to visit friends and to trade goods. It was their custom, upon returning home, to "purify" themselves in the Mesa, for they considered their land as Holy Ground. They practiced cremation. They strongly believed that all departed souls, should pass through the 'maze' to purify themselves from earthbounding conditions and material possessions, before they would be allowed into the next world. If you decide to come to Blythe to see the Intaglios in person, the best way to really enjoy them is by air! There are air services in this city as well as in other adjacent communities. It is advisible to make reservations at least one week in advance. Here are some names and phone numbers of the air services.

BLYTHE AVIATION: Phone (714) 922 - 6125
HESS AVIATION: P. O. Box 1169 - Bullhead City, Arizona 86430 - Telephone (602) 754 - 2444
LAKE HAVASU AIR SERVICE: Box 2125 - Lake Havasu, AZ 86403 - (602) 855 - 4945
QUALITY AVIATION - Box 35701 - Lake Havasu, 86403 - (602) 855 - 6739
AERO INTERNATIONAL - 2095 East 32nd Street, Yuma, AZ 85364 - (602) 726 - 4715

Be sure to ask the pilot if he knows exactly where the Intaglios are located, for many of them may not know if they exist! This information was gathered by the friendly people of the Blythe Chamber of Commerce as well as the very cooperative Public Library personel... ... ...
COMING IN OUR NEXT ISSUE: Dr. Campo relates of a UFO sighting that he and a friend witnessed --- right over the Intaglios! With a drawing!

ATLANTIS AND MYTHOLOGY
BY JON DOUGLAS SINGER, M.A.

The possibility that Mythology contains clues to the Atlantis Legend was first suggested by two British scholars, Harold Wilkins and Egerton Sykes. Recently, I have found some more clues which they don't mention and which may possibly tend to verify their theory. Wilkins wrote that the aboriginal inhabitants of Trinidad in the West Indies told legends about IERE, a great land rich in gold that sank thousands of years ago. Interestingly enough, people could travel overland by means of a great road to South America. Wilkins added that the Iereans didn't work but used slaves. Also, they had a plate-like flying machine. *1 (footnotes)

Another legend of IERE comes from Grenada, also in the West Indies. Wilkins reported that a cook by the name of Adela who lived in the back country, danced a traditional dance surprisingly similar to the Irish Jig, and she also told of the drowned IERE. She said that people feared a golden serpent, perhaps an idol, and used golden knives. She believed that Trinidad had been connected to IERE and that its people had come from the east. Adela claimed IERE sank into the sea when the land broke up. *2

Still other tales of IERE were told to Wilkins by the mixed people of the inland regions of the West Indian Islands, those who had Indian as well as black African ancestors. An old black native from the uplands of Grenada said that there was a golden road from IERE to South America. Also, the land was ruled by Great Kings. He, too, mentioned the slave stories. He told about a volcanic eruption which destroyed IERE but some people, the Caribs' ancestors, escaped to Grenada. *3 Yet more tales of lost IERE from a Carib Indian settlement in the island of St. Vincent. An old Carib woman told a lady friend of Wilkins' about a Big Country which sank into the sea after a violent earthquake. She noted that Trinidad, Barbados, and St. Vincent were all part of IERE but were separated from it after it had gone down into the sea. She added that the people of St. Vincent had funeral wakes which came not from the Irish settlers but from the lost Big Country. She claimed that the Caribs came from IERE, and were more advanced, technically, in the ancient times than when the Spaniards met them. For example, their King had a golden crown, and some could fly on "golden plates". *4 I wonder if these were a form of 'flying saucer' or UFO such as are now supposedly seen in our skies.

Another tradition said that the land was submerged but not before a benevolent prophet from the east saved some of the people who had not fallen into evil. *5

Wilkins pointed out a startling resemblance between this legend and that of the Irish of Galway. They believe in a land called Eire located in the remote west but which is NOT the present land of Eire (which is Gaelic for Ireland). The earlier Eire sank beneath the sea thousands of years ago. *6

Egerton Sykes, Britain's dean of Atlantis scholars, believes that the Caribbean Isles were once linked together into a single landmass called Lykontia. That name was taken from an ancient obscure Greek text called the Orphic Argonaut of which there are no modern English texts. *7 Lykontia was destroyed by asteroids and giant meteors which hit the Caribbean around 4,000 B.C. There are supposed to be petroglyphs and Indian sculptures in caves in Haiti which, Sykes believes, illustrate the sinking of Lykontia by the meteorites. Sykes also theorized about people who migrated from the Sahara region to Cuba and who merged with the ancestors of the warlike Caribs of Cuba. Sykes' writings are too detailed to be summarized here but his evidence is based on comparative studies of mythology, archaeology, and anthropology. *8 There is in - deed geological evidence for a land link between the islands of the Cari bbean. Michael Craton's book, A History of the Bahamas, *9 has a map depicting a vast sunken land-mass which extended from the Bahamas down to Cuba. In 25,000 B.C. that group of islands was part of a great plain larger than Florida. As I noted elsewhere, divers have reportedly sight ed sunken cities north of Cuba and also far to the west, off the coast of Yucatan.

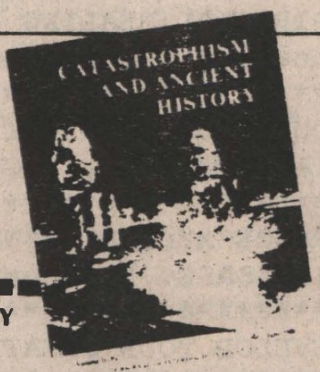

In a book entitled Divine Horsemen, Voodoo Gods of Haiti, *11, there is a tantalizingly brief mention of the Island Below The Sea, on which the loa or dieties live. There, also, dwell the souls of the dead. The God Agwe lives on the island of Minfort, also below the water. It appears, then, that there is a recurring theme about sunken islands and magical cities which may verify the Atlantis Legend. A study of Caribbean myth- ology and folklore could yeild new clues to the sunken ruins which have been sighted there from time to time. Perhaps these tales are remnants of an ancient tradition which goes back in time thousands of year ---- to the Lost Continent...
