" Truth is like a great picture puzzle - a mosaic, as it were, and each man's individual expression is a part of the total composition. The mature individual realizes life as a succession of duties to be performed. Because there are diversified concepts of life does not mean that only one can be correct. No, all are true. Whatever is conceived in the mind of man is true to him for the moment just as every act of nature is true whether it be of creation or disintegration. Man's ideas may be used unwisely because he has not enough knowledge to use them constructively in relation to other truths, but that does not mean that the results establish a fact.

Our purpose in life, then, is not to personally judge between the true and the untrue but to so coordinate our own being with nature that we may unite the knowledge of Cause and Effect. "

On page sixteen of "Flying Saucers Farewell", George Adamski states..." Other signals seemed to be coming from open space, an unexplainable and unbelievable state of affairs, unless one took space vehicles into consideration. Not only did these signals continue for several months, they are still being received!" - The skeptics laughed the world over. And then, in 1964, and again in 1965, the laughs were drowned out by an announcement from Russian astronomers, that radio signals from another civilization in space had been received! ...Mr. Adamski gave a little smile and quietly said..."I tried to tell you, but, you would not listen".

In "Flying Saucers Have Landed", Adamski told of having met a man from the planet Venus. The skeptics laughed. But not for long. Because, in November of 1959, scientists discovered water vapor in the atmosphere of Venus! In February, 1960, Dr. Edward G. Pendray, founder of the American Rocket Society, said: "Venus may turn out to be a wonderful place to live. We don't know much about its surface, because we cannot see it. But it is about the same size as our Earth and nearer to the sun. It may be like 'Florida', all over." In December 1964, a team of astrophysicists from John Hopkins University stated that the clouds surrounding the planet Venus are composed of water in the form of ice particles. (like Earth)

Jos Ferriere

The team, headed by Dr. John Strong, concluded that the latest data confirmed earlier measurements by Dr. John Strong showing the surface temperature to be close to minus degrees fahrenheit, with only a few degrees difference between the light and dark sides of Venus. When asked about the Mariner II space probe and its reported findings that the surface temperature of Venus was 800 degrees fahrenheit; Dr. Strong stated: "Interpretation of radio telescope waves as an indication of temperature has neither been proven or universally accepted." The possibility of a source of oxygen and a previous discovery that its atmosphere contains carbon dioxide, indicates the likelihood of life existing on Venus. - - - ...Mr. Adamski gave a little smile and said..."I tried to tell you; but, you would not listen".

In "Inside The Spaceships", George Adamski stated that the inhabitants of the planet Venus enjoyed a healthier and longer life span than people on Earth. Well the skeptics laughed again. Then - in January of 1960, Dr. Vincent Askey, then President-elect of the American Medical Association told his colleagues that it might soon be possible to control evolution. He stated that within 50 years, it might be possible to develop man into a being with perfect health, high intelligence and a life expectancy of 125 years. The skeptics quieted down, and...Mr. Adamski gave a little smile and quietly said..."I tried to tell you, but, you would not listen".

When George Adamski stated that the moon has an atmosphere., you could hear the laughter of the skeptics...until 1959. In that year, a Russian rocket landed on the Moon and radioed back information that it is enveloped by a belt of low-energy ionized gases. It was suggested by the Russian scientists that these gases resembled an atmosphere. John Townsend, of NASA, said: "The detection of an ionosphere at a relatively high distance from the Moon means that the Moon has a definite atmosphere, a condition that a few scientists could only guess at before". - - - ...Mr. Adamski gave that knowing smile; quietly said: "I tried to tell you, but, you would not listen!"

Mr. Adamski and I

The skeptics had a field day when Adamski said that the space people had informed him that our solar system has twelve planets, rather than nine, as previously believed. The laughter resounded the world over by skeptics. But in February, 1960, astronomers (Russian) announced that they confirmed the existence of another planet (10) beyond Pluto, which was previously supposed to be the 'last one' in our solar system! One down, two to go. Again Mr. Adamski smiled and said..."I tried to tell you, but, you would not listen".

From "Inside The Space Ships", again, the space people tell Adamski that "in numerous large craters of the Moon, which you see from the Earth, you will notice some very large hangars".

See Talbot Moore Statement too

In the January issue of Sky and Telescope (1958), a statement is found on page 138. "In recent years, amateur astronomers have been paying increasing attention to lunar 'domes', small rounded 'hills' that are being observed in increasing numbers". These domes, white and symmetrical, have appeared in the craters of the Moon increasingly so that over 200 have now been charted! Adamski shook his head and worried for he tried to tell us but we would not listen.

In describing his first look at outer space, while riding in a Venusian Scout Ship, Mr. Adamski stated: "I was amazed to see that the background of space is totally dark. Yet, there were manifestations taking place all around us, as though billions upon billions of fireflies were flickering everywhere, moving in all directions, as fireflies do". (page 76 of 'Inside The Space Ships').

Laugh, skeptic, laugh. And they did! Needless to say they were shocked when John Glenn made his orbital flight and radioed down to Earth that he was literally surrounded by 'fireflies'. Once again the skeptics were silent, for they had been told by George Adamski!

And so it goes, new discoveries in space continue to verify the many claims of Adamski. Only now, he no longer smiles and says; I tried to tell you, but you would not listen..... Yes, he knows now, that there are some who took the time to listen. Took the time to try to understand...and...loved him as a brother.

I rather think that now he smiles quietly, saying: At long last, they have begun to realize and recognize the truth! I think they are going to make it now. It has not been in vain..... (Let Us Not Forget!)

GEORGE ADAMSKI'S APPEAL TO THE FUTURE LEADERS

George Adamski was a man with a purpose. He, most of all, realized that if ever we are to straighten out the mess we have created on this planet, we must take the youngsters into our confidence and impress upon them not only the need to work towards the goal of making this earth a better place in which to live, but also to guide their steps toward the achievement of that goal. And so, as we knew he would, he took the initiative. While he was in this area, he lectured to a group of grade school students in the greater Boston, Mass., area, leaning more towards the importance of education as a means of bettering our present way of life.

He emphasized the importance of learning more about ourselves, what we are and why we are here. Of paramount importance, he declared, was the need to understand the biological mysteries of the functioning of the human body, so that we may then know how to coordinate our senses, thereby achieving a harmonious relationship with nature and the universe.

These youngsters, the builders of the future, gave him reason to believe that brighter horizons lie ahead. It was with a great sense of satisfaction that he noted not only a complete lack of skepticism, but a truly sincere desire to learn and benefit from the teachings being handed to us by those intelligent beings from other mansions, who have long since passed our present stage of moral and spiritual degradation.

The questions put forth by these youngsters were of an extremely high intellectual quality and it is obvious that today's adults would do well to emulate their younger counterparts. One would expect that these young people would be interested primarily in hearing about the space ships. Rather, they wanted to know what they could do to bring life on this planet to its ultimate goal.

When one really stops to think about this, he cannot but wonder at the love and compassion that our children feel for us. We, who have taken them and led them from the beauty and innocence of their mothers' womb to the stark horror of a world of seemingly intelligent adults, bent upon destruction and total annihilation. We have given them the means to render our mother planet a veritable Hell; and they in turn, forgive us this damnable perversion and seek to correct the wrongs we have wrought. Do we dare deny them a small measure of assistance in attaining their divine birthright? Mr. Adamski thought not.

SPACE SHIPS AND SAUCERS

The people from Saturn, Venus and Mars
 Have true understanding of planets and stars.
 They have older records than we have on Earth
 Though we may deny it, this is of great worth.
 - - They believe, they believe - -
 That by doing good they God's blessings receive.

Of late Flying Saucers disturb people's mind
 And many get overly fearful we find.
 But Space Ships and Saucers have brought us no harm
 The fact is some earthmen are pleased with their charm.
 - - They believe, they believe - -
 That by doing good they God's blessings receive.

The Space Ships for Saucers do storage provide,
 On long trips they snugly are sheltered inside.
 But when they are nearing a planet or moon
 The Saucers are shelled out with a humming tune.
 - - They believe, they believe - -
 That by doing good they God's blessings receive.

They hover about in a lazily way
 Some are near the Earth both by night and by day.
 The Mother Ships pick up all Saucers for flight
 From planet to planet their course always right.
 - - They believe, they believe - -
 That by doing good they God's blessings receive.

If fear of the Saucers does trouble your mind
 Remember the people who fly them are kind.
 They do not molest human beings on Earth
 But they bring us messages of greatest worth.
 - - They believe, they believe - -
 That by doing good they God's blessings receive.

No warring is practiced on planets out there
 In peaceable dealing each planet does share.
 No outlay for hellish machines they expend
 But in greater knowledge they yearly ascend.
 - - They believe, they believe - -
 That by doing good they God's blessings receive.

Their people are free as the water that flows
 Therefore in intelligence everyone grows.
 No taxes, no outlay to hamper ones life.
 By fairness they truly have overcome strife.
 - - They believe, they believe - -
 That by being good they God's blessings receive.

No one on those planets has fear of a hell
 But all of them in peace and happiness dwell.
 No fear does molest them, as courage is strong,
 They overcome trouble by singing their song.
 - - We believe, we believe - -
 That by being good we God's blessings receive.

How to know a spaceman, if you see one ...

by GEORGE ADAMSKI

Reprinted from the September 1962 issue of Cosmic Science News Letter

This is in answer to the many inquiries in regard to this question. It is not an easy question to answer as the people of other planets are images of the same Creator as we, and look no different than we do.

When it comes to knowledge they are far ahead of us in relationship to things in the cosmos that we still have to learn. Only by talking to them can one tell if they are of this or another world. Even then it is hard to make a decision since we are learning so much about space. Unless one has understanding and is truthful to himself and his Creator, interested in the welfare and betterment of people in this world, he could easily be fooled. Here is an example:

One evening while living on the mountain (Mount Palomar) we heard a light knock on the door as we sat around the dinner table (it was raining very hard at the time). When we opened the door a tall fine looking man stood there asking for me. He looked no different than any other earthman. He was asked to come in and sit with us at the table. No car was in sight, how he arrived I do not know. His opening question was the type anyone would ask and from there, we proceeded with space discussions that went on for at least an hour. From his conversation we concluded he was not an earthman, for some answers he gave could not have been read in any earth literature about space.

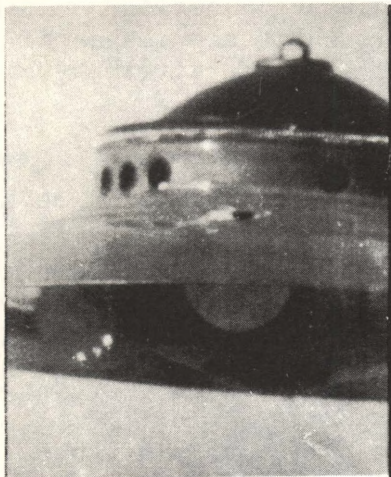

Towards the middle of the conversation I felt he was definitely a spaceman, however others present later expressed doubt. At a recent meeting with the "Brothers" I met this same man and learned he was in charge of the schedules on which ships from Saturn arrive. He reminded me of that evening and this is what he said:

"The reason you identified me at that time was not so much from what I said but because your soul and your mind were as one and it was your soul that recognized my soul. This was consciousness recognizing consciousness and not the mind recognizing the mind. The others present judged me with their minds and questioned my identity and purpose, thus failing to blend with my soul for the truth they wanted. Some always ask for spoken verification which will never be given. If we say who we are they will not believe it. We are not permitted to identify ourselves in the manner which you people are expecting, by saying we are spacemen from so and so. Intelligent people would not accept that, and we would only be satisfying the curiosity of the ego. This we are not here to do.

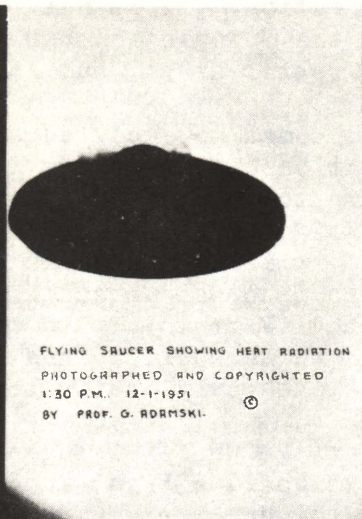

Others ask for miracles; magicians can perform those. Only one answer exists to the recognition question. That is a blend of consciousness as you did with me that evening. For in consciousness we find truth and not in the mind.

As for taking people for a ride in our ships, that is desired from a curiosity standpoint rather than a sincere desire for knowledge of the truth. This is of no value for the service which we need. Only occasional ones qualify for a number of reasons. Most human bodies of earth could not endure extended journeys for there are very few who can blend their consciousness with the Cosmic Consciousness. You know that is required for a pleasant journey, yet how many do you find who are willing to blend their consciousness with All-Consciousness? Not many, for this involves a sacrifice of ones personality or ego (sensemind) unto the dictates of consciousness where the mind is servant unto its Creator. It cannot be unto itself as it is in your society.

You have had an example of that in your own group, individuals asking for personal contacts and instructions from us before they will go on working for the betterment of mankind. They should learn to blend their soul consciousness with the Cosmic Consciousness. You did it by faith, as we do; everytime we take a trip to your planet we must have faith for many hazards exist in space. Without faith truth shall never be known. The mind that has no faith shall never know true life or happiness. Consciousness is the real man and not the mind. Consciousness is the father and mother of all things including the mind. When the mortal mind tries to operate only in behalf of itself, it is opposing the Supreme Consciousness.

The Supreme Consciousness knows no fear as does the mortal mind, for where there is truth there is no fear and the only truth there is - is in consciousness.

Anyone who wishes to be of help to us will have to learn, at least to a small degree, to blend their soul consciousness with the Over-Soul of the cosmos. Then they may recognize us when we meet. Many from earth have already met us unknowingly."

So, my friends, you now have the answer as given directly by a space person. Do not forget, for you cannot learn this by yourself without instruction.

are parts of the same grand plan

On page 28 of OAHSPÉ our 20th century sightings of flying saucers were foretold 60 years before they became common. There, paragraph 16, it says: "My ships will be seen by mortals of that day."

Pages before we get to this prediction, it is made clear what sort of ships is meant. On p. 15 it says: "The light above us descended fast toward us, like a ship of fire it came nearer and nearer..." Statements concerning the occupants of that ship follow, with a hint as to where they came from, who sent them to the earth, and why.

All through OAHSPÉ you will find references to fire-ships, ships of light, starships, ethereal ships, and arrowships (rockets). Their shapes, as given in OAHSPÉ, may be globular, oval, egg, crescent, lens (saucer), and cylindrical (cigar). At a distance they look like stars; closer up, like meteors in flight. Some of them can change color, or be illumined, or made invisible so as to appear and disappear suddenly (p. 24-9; 29-2; p. 52-34; 186-4; & many others). Some of them travel "between the stars and over and under and beyond the sun." Voyages of a million years are mentioned. Most of these references help clear up some point regarding these ships. In most cases too, the words used neatly describe current (1965) sightings of flying saucers (UFOs).

Those familiar with saucer reports will readily recognize the following, from OAHSPÉ, p. 24-9:

"When the ship of Sethantes came to the city of Uloo, mortals saw it high up in the air and they feared and ran hastily to consult the prophet. So Sethantes caused the ship to be made unseen, that fear might subside on the earth."

Or this from p. 28: "Upward raised the ship of Sethantes, and now, taking course still west, sped on above the mountain tops, like a meteor hurled from heaven... But ere the ship had made half its journey, an approaching light (ship) came from the far west, radiant and laden with the hosts of Dis... And they turned the ship of Dis and lashed the two together even as they sped on."

Or this from p. 35: "And they built a ship and the ship was loaded and on her course through the vault of heaven... Soon the hosts of the much-loved Etsiyai were seen in a smaller craft, highly polished and swift... They slacken speed and near each other, till they touch and are joined by skilled workmen. Yet onward move the ethereal ships, majestic and meteor-like, steadily taking course to the new earth."

Many have witnessed the above described maneuvers, and more. Daily the connection between flying saucers and OAHSPÉ becomes more obvious. The one is visible evidence of the reality, scope, power, and seriousness of the intentions of the other. Together they add up to something out of this world united to us by a strong bond.

In their book OAHSPÉ our space brothers explain this bond. They explain why we resemble them, why and how we are related to them, descended from some of them. Beginning with that day 79,000 years ago, when Sethantes and his hosts came here and caused the earth to bring forth a new race of primates, like themselves, having flesh bodies with immortal spirits, they give us a history of their efforts on our behalf. They explain the confusion of races and religions that followed, how the earth became a melting pot of men and Gods.

They explain, too, their own work, their government, religion, and entertainment; their successes and failures, their ships and travels, as well as their present aims and how they intend to accomplish them. As with their ships they display superior knowledge, power, and ability, so also do they to a considerable extent with their book OAHSPÉ. But, they do not claim to be infallible, nor perfect, nor to know all, or to reveal all, leaving nothing for us to do. They reveal, mostly, those things we need to know now and would have difficulty discovering without help. Most of OAHSPÉ will delight you, exceed your expectations, but some parts may not.

George Adamski

By Desmond Leslie

Printed with permission from the

COSMIC BULLETIN
GEORGE ADAMSKI FOUNDATION

Of all the people in the flying saucer world, George Adamski stands alone as its most controversial character. Many others have claimed contacts and been treated with tolerance, belief or amused contempt, but George had only to open his mouth to bring down a storm of abuse, praise and wonderment.

Perhaps I came to know him as well as anybody, I stayed with him several times and discovered facets in his character seldom revealed in public. Underneath the talkative, colorful exterior lurked a very great human being. Some quirk in his nature often took pains to conceal this and present instead, as his public face, a far more shallow person than he really was.

Who was he? Certainly no ordinary person. Physically he was Polish with, I think a touch of Romany. Immensely strong, good looking and with burning black eyes. Spiritually he was more than one person. There was the George of public lectures — the one I liked least for he tried to say too much all at once. Then there was the relaxed, naughty George with a keen eye for a pretty face, and a pluckish delight in shocking the profaned and prudes.

Then there was another George, beautifully spoken, wise, kind, and deeply aware of the importance of his task. Through this George, I several times glimpsed the presence of a Master, and I was always sorry when the curtain came down again and the worldly mask obscured him.

I often wondered why he should have been singled out as the prime prophet of saucery. He believed that he had reincarnated from another planet through karmic reasons to give his teachings, and I find that idea quite acceptable. He believed that others, greater in the world's esteem, had also been contacted and given the same mission, but that for various personal reasons had refused or failed. He saw himself as the 'lame the halt and the blind' who were called to the King's feast after the chosen guests had made excuses not to come. He felt he was a broken reed, but alas the only reed willing to try and play their tune. So with all his might, with his inability to write and speak good English, and the innate difficulties of being the character that he was, he set out undaunted by criticism or abuse to give the message as best he saw it.

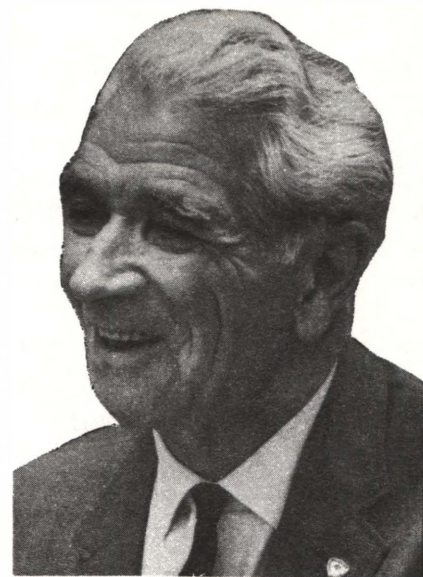

This to me seems most probable, even a wise move on the part of the Brothers. To choose a great and respected person would be too easy for us to accept, or too difficult for that person who might be demoted and declared mad. Again, in George Adamski were all the virtues and failings of this planet, slightly over-lifesized. So that one could recognize an aspect of oneself in him and judge from a more personal basis.

To assess the validity of his claims is still difficult. I am personally completely satisfied that his photos and early contacts are completely authentic and will in time be proven by later events. Some of his claims take a lot of swallowing. But just when you had decided to write him off as a babblers, something turns up to substantiate them. For instance, when I first visited him in 1954 he spoke of the Van Allen Belts, and the 'Fireflies in space' as later seen by the cosmonauts. Neither of these were known at the time. The last time I saw him he calmly announced 'I saw Pope John yesterday.' Well, as it happened I was able to get independent confirmation that this was true. John gave him a beautiful gold medallion effigy of himself which as far as I know has never yet been released and is only given to the most special people. George claimed to have given John a sealed package from the Brothers with advice for the conduct of the Council. Certainly the way the Church has behaved since then is very much in line with the Brother's policies.

That was the maddening thing about George. Just as you thought you had at last caught him in a whopper, something would turn up to substantiate his claim.

I remember two occasions on successive nights at Palomar when I saw a tiny golden remote control disk leave rapidly. On the second occasion we were talking on his patio just after dark when I got a tremendous feeling of being watched. I turned around just in time to see a tiny golden disk not more than fifty feet away, as it shot upward in a trail of light. George laughed, and I said: "Thank God our conversation has been clean the last twenty minutes."

He refused to ask me on a 'contact' with him and at the time it peevd me greatly. But I realized later that I was in no fit spiritual state for such an experience and had I been taken aboard a saucer I doubt if I'd have been a very successful prophet afterwards for my ego is highly susceptible to spiritual aggrandisement. Many who have had genuine contacts have gone very odd, forming new religions and in fact doing everything the Brothers desire least. I doubt I would have been any exception.

One thing I liked about George was his utter down-to-earthiness. I don't think he ever suffered from spiritual pride — from abuse, from strain, from many other things yes, but despite the warring human factions which grew up among his followers, there was always a great modesty and sense of his own unimportance in a scheme of such vastness and splendor.

I don't suppose he will mind me telling this, now that he has cast off the fine old body, but he once showed me the most extraordinary birthmark. His navel was not like a human navel at all. It was a huge solar disk with deeply cut rays extending out about six inches all around it, from waist to groin. What this signifies I have no idea — unless it is truly the sign of a 'Child of the Sun.'

Anyone who knew him grew to love him immensely. Our first contact was so strange. I had 'Flying Saucers Have Landed' being rejected by publisher after publisher, when I heard through a friend of the first desert contact a week previously. I immediately wrote to George asking if he would let me see and possibly buy his photographs for my book. He replied by sending me the whole remarkable set of pictures along with permission to use them without fee. I thought, what an extraordinary man. He takes the most priceless pictures of all time and wants no money for them. Later he sent me his manuscript humbly suggesting I might be able to find a publisher for it. By this time dear Waveney Girvin had accepted my book and was perturbed that if we used George's pictures and synopsis of his story with our own, George's book wouldn't stand a chance; and after much soul searching suggested a joint publication. We wrote off to George who cabled back the following day before receiving our letter, "Agree to a joint publication." Here indeed was telepathy at work! And so the amazing relationship developed. When we met again physically we were old friends, as if in some former life we had been very close. His devoted friend and housekeeper Alice Wells was also an amazing lady. You never had to tell her or ask anything. She knew. She'd pick up your thought and answer it in advance.

George claimed that many thousands of more mature souls who'd once lived on the Earth were returning both in flying saucers and by rebirth to help our planet through its time of trial. It seems very likely that George was one of them, and that he was chosen to confound the intellectual and the arrogant and the know-alls, just as the prophets in the past have been chosen whose very simplicity and humble birth has made them better vehicles for a spiritual message than those whose reasoning powers have clogged up their spiritual channels.

We shall miss George. Miss him very much, but I cannot feel sad at his going. He gave his utmost to the work and the world will never be quite the same place again, richer for his coming, a little poorer for his going. But I don't believe by any means that we have seen the last of him. If he is reborn on another planet he has promised to come back and contact us when possible.

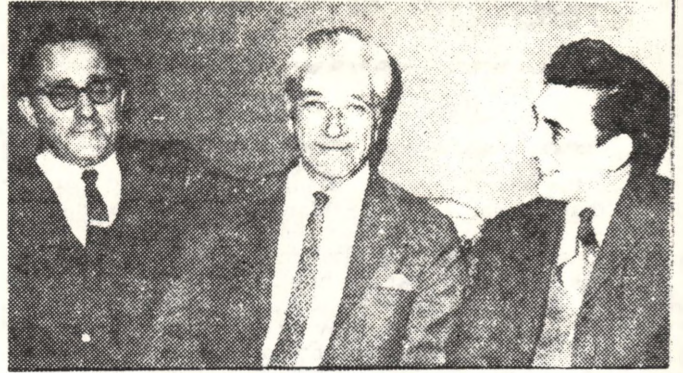

With George anything could happen. And usually does!
Dear old space man — Go in Peace!

The photograph at the right which appeared in the newspapers was taken on the evening of Mr. Adamski's visit to Woonsocket, Rhode Island on April 1, 1965. (photo by - Samuel S. Reynolds)

The informal meeting was held at the home of Mr. & Mrs. Ovila Larochelle - 163 Beacon Ave., Woonsocket, R. I. Present were: Mrs. Alice B. Pomeroy, who made this meeting possible. Mr. & Mrs. Samuel Reynolds. Jr. Mr. Tibor J. Csapo, Mr. Lionel Renaud Sr. Mr. Lionel Renaud Jr., & ye editors - Joseph Ferriere - Armand Laprade.

The following letters were written to us after the meeting. They relate their views of Mr. Adamski, and his impression upon them.

O. Larochelle - G. Adamski - J. Ferriere

Lionel Sr

I found Mr. Adamski to be a revered gentleman - a man who can and does have the ability and wisdom to explain complicated matters and simplify them to their proper perspective, so that the ordinary person can understand. He is not short on answers. In fact - he gives a quick answer, and that, to my belief, is due to the fact that the man knows whereof he speaks. Else he would hem and haw. Rather, one can feel his knowledge. My meeting him was both pleasant and enlightening. It is not the question of belief or dis-belief in Mr. Adamski's theories pertaining to a variety of subjects, or his expression of his personal experiences that suffice for a pleasant evening, or tete-a-tete on a face to face basis.

The man himself, has the capability of holding one's interest on whatever subject he may be discussing.

In my short encounter with Mr. Adamski, I found that he relates only things that are good for all men., and while it is an old story, it's a story that is always good to hear again. The telling of a better way of life can be told in diverse ways, or inter-related to things that are new or strange, but that does not detract from the true facts, and the true facts lie in the goodness of the words spoken and the sincerety of the man himself.

Whether messages direct from him or in-direct from other sources, messages of true good will towards men are in a state of short-coming today. So, from whatever source such messages may come, they should be adhered to and practised by all. The world is in dire need of constructive practises, and has been for too long.

...As for UFO's - the hypothetical diversifications of various sources: The explanation put forth by this knowledgeable, yet, simple man "which is the impression that one obtains of him" are the most readily understood, and seems to me, to be of a nature practicable.

The impression Mr. Adamski left upon me will remain for as long as I believe in sincerety. Sincerety, there is the most fitting word to describe George Adamski. You can detect it in every claim he makes. Although we are all "seeing is believing" type of people, we must all realize by now that many things that we do believe are not visible to all of us. Such is the case with atoms or distant planets or galaxies. We believe that they are there only because we have accepted the word of science, whom we place our trust in because they are sincere in what they believe. And although scientists very seldom agree with one another, we tend to believe all of them; though we may never see what they claim is there...

So is the case with George Adamski. He is sincere. Let us not ridicule him simply because we were not fortunate enough, and may never be, to have experienced something which is (or might seem to be) abnormal to our way of life. Let us at least give him, or anyone like him, as long as they are sincere, the benefit of the doubt...until they either prove their claims...or...we prove them fools.

All that Mr. Adamski is trying to do, is prepare us for the unexpected; and in so doing, has discovered the ignorance of man. I need not quote examples wherein recognition of greatness has come about only after death....for such cases are indeed numerous. Too often we have laughed at and ignored great minds and talents that..later..we could not get enough of; for, that greatness and talent had come to pass. I am not saying that George Adamski should be considered as possessing greatness, or even that he should be admired for his belief in his claims. I merely suggest, that he be treated as a sincere person with information that could lead to a better understanding of life, as it should be lived.

Everyone has a purpose in life! Mr. Adamski discovered his in 1946 when he first sighted a UFO. Since then, has felt it an obsession to further investigate this phenomenon and forward such information for the benefit of mankind. This must be a very difficult task and an extremely discouraging one. Only a few of us are willing to accept the existence of UFO and the possibility of them being intelligently controlled by inhabitants from distant planets. Even our government will deny their existence, but yet, will take the time, along with the taxpayers money, to investigate each sighting or landing thoroughly. It seems then, that the government must accept the sincerity of the witnesses and their claims, along with the fact that there is something there. We believe our government to be sincere and they, in turn, believe this of the people.

I consider myself very fortunate in having met and spoken to Mr. Adamski on two occasions. The first being at a lecture held in Worcester, Mass., and the second at an informal gathering in Woonsocket, R. I. It was at this second meeting that I fully realized the reasons behind the man. Because of his love for mankind, along with the knowledge gained through outer guidance, he stands on a strong foundation of confidence and faith in his fellow man. How else could he withstand the resistance and ridicule...yet still take the time to answer any and all questions asked...whether they originate from an intelligent... or...ignorant sources? How else..could he, when asked a question, answer that one and also the one that you were thinking of asking next? Everyone of us wondered why the other sat so quietly? We later drew the same conclusion! ESP! - And why not? He does claim to practise this quite regularly!

All in all...Mr. Adamski has proven to me to be a very fine gentleman...filled with love and understanding for his fellow man. And, above all, a sincere person with one thought in mind...the preservation of individual belief without contamination, so that eventually, and with a combined effort from the people, we may someday have a better world to inhabit!

DO NOT BE SAD - "Those who stay, are sad, for they feel left behind"- so I heard the saying., which could not be more true than it is now.

The cold grip of sudden loneliness sunk its sharp claws into the hearts of those who respected Mr. George Adamski and heard of his untimely departure, from us. We feel left behind, and, deserted. I knew Mr. Adamski personally. But, those who never had a chance to meet him in private, probably will never know of his far-reaching interests and ever increasing knowledge. To me, he was a discoverera spearhead of a new interest in human knowledge. His ideas proved too much and were too high for the present world he lived in...not too long ago.

He fought his way through the rejecting mass of mind of people who always looked for sensation and excitement. He expressed the qualities of a discoverer in his boldness when presenting his ideas, and by his invincible convictions in those ideas.

As it happened, through history so many times previously, he too was rejected by men including the ignorant and the learned ones. He was made to look ridiculous in the eyes of the public by the very fashionable way of this so-called civilized twentieth century., when people are not judging the values with the dignity of a noble soul, but discriminating with the brain of a puppet....repeating popular slogans of sheer emptiness to satisfy their own perverted conception of distorted truths.

In our age of false values, it was scientifically analyzed just how big is the nose of a space man, but, never what he said. People are taking great pain to get the exact measurements of a space ship and wanting "material evidence", but never seriously admitting that other civilizations, far ahead of us, really would not be welcome here. Their presence would turn our "greatest civilization ever", with all its scientific achievements, into a small pile of dust. That it would turn our present exalted and worshiped way of living into a bitter shame of darkness.

Mr. Adamski reached far into the future...when man will be interested in reasons and motivating powers...and merely as it is today...only in effects and results...- - To him, the existence of other worlds was just another fact. But what that knowledge opened up for him was more tremendous than the reality of space ships, for the people of this planet.

He saw the limitations of our world which originates from ignorance. By trying to break through the dense wall of ignorance, he was giving the greatest gift to the world. That gift was 'wisdom'. For it is not enough to have knowledge if there is no wisdom to use that knowledge.

Today, we are proud when looking back into the dusty rooms of history, and compare our present knowledge with the old. But history will also judge us; how we used that knowledge; if there will be any history written; because of lack of any wisdom...?

The greatest tribute we can pay Mr. George Adamski is to step on the same road and carry on where he, so unexpectedly, left one of the most interesting of adventures in our history. It is a hard and lonely road, not popular by any present standards, but the most rewarding will be in time. Only those who have honesty, courage, and nobility in heart, have the right to enter the road.

Those who stay must not be sad, for they will reach greater heights. May, 1965 Mr. Csapo.

looked to my right because I expected him to be admitted through the gate where the Swiss guards are posted. Yet George walked to the left where I noticed for the first time a wooden door, some hundred metres away from where we stood. This door was slightly ajar and the figure of a man was standing beside it, apparently looking out for someone. He wore dark clothes but not a priest's robe. On his breast I noticed some kind of coloured shining stuff, either part of a silken vest, or a metal plate of some kind. The colours were red and green. There were crowds of people between us. But this is what I saw.

May and I went into the Dome and afterwards to a Café. We felt excited although we knew that George's admittance to the Vatican did not mean that he would really see the Pope. The morning papers had carried bad news about his health condition. I made a mental note, however, that his being received at a gate other than the usual entrance would mean that he was not going to be registered on the daily visitors' list. I thought this was interesting.

When an hour later we met George again, all doubts were due to vanish. His face was radiant with joy, and his brown eyes shone like two precious topazes. I shall never forget this. "I have seen the Pope," he said slowly but triumphantly with his deep voice. "He spoke to me, I gave him the message, and he gave me his blessing. So you see, after all, we have accomplished something.

The interview had lasted only a few minutes, he told us, but afterwards he had spent a considerable time with the man who had received him. I asked him if he was a spaceman. He said: "Yes, I think so, at least I got the impression". He seemed to be a close associate of the Pope, a kind of grey eminence, he said, and he knew a lot of things. George also stated that the Pope was not lodged in the rooms indicated to the people in the press, facing St. Peter's square, but that his bedroom windows went toward the Vatican gardens. He added confidently: "The Pope is not a dying man if you ask me. He is very weak to be sure, because he can't eat, but his skin has a fine texture like a child's, even a tiny bit rosy. I have seen people dying of stomach cancer. Their skins looked very different. And they did not yet even try and operate on the Pope. He is not too old for that. Harry Truman underwent this operation when he was eighty."

That very evening the Roman papers told about the good day the Pope had had, and they even mentioned his improved colours. The first news on Saturday, however, was worse than ever.

When the first excitement had passed away I asked George how he felt about lunch. He heartily agreed and we went to a nice restaurant. George ordered a steak with onions, but none of the waiters knew this English word. And as neither May nor I could remember the Italian word it took us quite a time to fulfil his wish.

It was at lunch the next day when George suddenly took from his breast-pocket a kind of plastic wallet, very small and with a most singular inscription beneath a transparent insertion. It was written with a pen in letters I had never seen. They were certainly not Roman, nor Gothic, nor were they Russian, Chinese, Japanese or Arabic. Beneath this inscription was the date of the interview, written with roman block letters in English.

When George opened this wallet we sat spellbound. A most beautiful golden medal with the Pope's head on it was embedded in the modest wallet. It looked like an ecumenical coin to me or it might have been older. I took it in my hand and was astonished at the weight of it. It was certainly in pure gold, at least in 18 carat, if not in 22. (Being a goldsmith's daughter I know exactly what I am talking about.) This coin would cost between 200 and 300 Swiss francs at least. George could certainly not have bought it. He never carried any money around and he did not even know the difference between the currencies. And he had never been in the streets without us.

When I left him at the airport in Rome the following day he was still in his happy mood. The photos we made of him show it clearly. I knew that probably I would never see him again, but the fact that I had been of some help to him in order to bring about this meeting made me happy too. And for the first time it dawned on me that George Adamski was a missionary of some kind although he had never introduced me to his innermost secrets.

It is not for me to judge if he was able to fulfil this mission completely, and if he kept to the standard set by his specific task until his very end. But I do know that he was expected, and received by John XXIII three days before the Pope died on Whit-Monday, June 3rd, 1963. And I am therefore inclined to believe that there were other important meetings, in other important buildings, as he had told me.—(Miss) Lou Zinsstag, Gerbergasse 45, Basle, Switzerland.

We took him there in time. When we arrived at the stairway leading up to St. Peter's. George looked around and within a few seconds he said: "I can see the man, wait for me on the same spot in an hour's time." And swiftly he walked away from us, through the crowd, towards the left side of the Dome's entrance. I had

I would like to say something about the latest Moon shot. Out of 7,500 pictures that were taken - they only showed a few and I am sure they were not the best, for the ones shown on TV were out of focus, making it more than a little hard to pin-point anything of a distinct nature. Some of the authorities said that the latest shots indicated that the lunar surface may be covered with a deep layer of dust, yet the explanations given were far from logical.

If the surface of the moon is as soft as they say, (and the moon does not stand still in space...it is moving faster than...we realize) and even if it were moving at only 60 m.p.h. it would create an airflow around itself. That airflow naturally would pick up the dust or whatever would be on the surface (soft) of the moon, and keep blowing it away. The moon, to put it simply, would become smaller and smaller instead of staying as it now is. The dust from the lunar surface would fall on the Earth in great volume. So, their explanation is very weak. It doesn't make sense.

But, what can we expect from people who profess themselves as "authorities" in the astronomical field, without ever having set foot on any body in space? Do you think that they would be willing or big enough to admit that previous statements of theirs were wrong? There are very few people, once in the seat of authority, who would admit their errors; for none of them want to "lose face". This is the thing that we have to contend with in almost all fields where such authority has been exercised. They issue definite statements without personally examining the body itself. This problem shall undoubtedly prevail until we can get our authorities to walk over the surface of the moon, and other planets.

Most of these "experts" are like psychiatrists, and we know of cases where psychiatry has done more harm than good, especially to some of our pilots who have encountered space ships while in flight. On some occasions, pilots have been delayed in their flight plans by space ship activity. When these pilots returned, they had to answer and explain the reason for their delay. Not only to their superiors, but to psychiatrists who were invariably called in as soon as the pilots told what had happened. What I would like to know is: how can anyone judge another's experience when they themselves have never had a similar experience, and in some cases, have never even been up in the air? Yet, these professed "experts", who may never have been in an aircraft, pass judgement on a man who has experience that they never had. They discredit a man whose information could be of great help in saving time and money in this new field of space exploration. This has been going on for some time and will continue as long as these people exercise their power over others.

If an experienced man's word cannot be taken, why then, should another man's word be taken? I am positively certain that we have a lot of good information! But, will those in authority and with power be willing to reveal it to the public at this time? I doubt this. It seems that when you talk sense to the people of authority, they look upon you as an unknown creature. They do not wish to understand the simple language. Truth is unknown to them. Yet, in my 70 years of life, I have seen this nation grow in the most simple ways. And while I am for education I do not believe in exalting the ego. The educated person without an exalted ego is the most valuable person in the world.

We did not have the massive school system we have today, in the early days of this nation, but we had men and women with constructive ideas for the growth and development of this nation. These were simple people! Yet...should any of them appear before the so-called "learned ones" they are immediately asked what schooling they have had. If their schooling does not meet their standards...they are ignored.

According to history, when a nation goes so far as to ignore the simplicity of life and exalts its ego beyond reasonable boundaries, it seldom survives. With what little knowledge we have of Atlantis, and other lost civilizations, it is clearly indicated that the exalted ego was the cause of their destruction. And just as we can serve two ways, for progress and growth, or disintegration; so our technical advancement can serve to build the greatest civilization on this Earth; or annihilate us as the present instruments of war can do!

Faith sees the invisible, believes in the incredible, and, receives the impossible.

When in Buffalo on June 1st Mr. Norman Weis of the Buffalo Understanding Unit related these stories to me regarding Mr. Adamski. It seems that G.A. told him, "I have the feeling that I won't be up this way again". And in Detroit, after his Buffalo visit, where friends had a 75th. birthday celebration for him, G.A. blew out the candles on the cake and it was said that two of them mysteriously re-lit themselves. This was taken as a sign and GA said: "I think this means I have 2 days, or 2 weeks, or maybe 2 months to live". Two weeks later, the prediction came true. A memorial service was held in his memory by the Buffalo Understanding Unit, and, some strange things happened at the time...

Mr. Paul Weast, president of the club, felt a hand grab him by the shoulder for a portion of the service, but no one around him had touched him in any way whatsoever. A Mr. Raus, who is a psychic and attended the service, said he saw Mr. Adamski standing at the front of the room with the speakers and that he was dressed in white garments similar to those worn in a hospital by patients. When the service ended, the apparition disappeared.

as to the influence of men such as George Adamski. In metaphysical studies and the reading of similar material we become familiar with the word of the Adepts, Masters, Teachers, or whatever they may be called - those who are operating on a plane beyond the comprehension of the average human - and who exert their influence upon receptive humans in an effort to get a message across to mankind. It would appear to me that George Adamski was one of the more receptive of the channels used to disseminate the knowledge of the Space Age, particularly in connection with the assistance being proffered by the visitors from space.

Because of the very origin of the advice it is often scoffed into oblivion, possibly having intrigued the interest of a very few - but there is a Plan for this Universe and it works according to the Law of the Creator, and those few are the ones who are able to spread the Word, teach the philosophy, make available to everyone interested the blueprint for progress.

Very infrequently the Masters are manifested on earth, but usually they remain in their own sphere of activity and operate through a person here who is spiritually developed to the point where he or she may be used as a "conductor" for the message.

It is not necessary to cite the Messiahs who we believe to have been the Great Ones, who have joined us here, nor is it necessary to list the names of those who have been messengers and have given us, as received through various channels, the words of illumination and leadership. To those who believe, no proof is necessary; to those who wish to believe, the Words alone will be sufficient; to those who prefer to scoff, no proof offered would be adequate.

As in so many instances in our lives, proof is only relative - so often results are our only proof and the actual workings and laws of the force in question are not tangible and so not open to proof for the skeptic.

With the advent of "saucers" came a new idea - spatial science - above and beyond our own scientific attempts to conquer space, which are in their infancy. We commend the men who have enabled us to commence our crawl to the stars, and who will eventually lead us on to walk, to run, and then to fly to our destination - but we still have to acknowledge that there are those who are already "flying" through the skies at a pace that is incomprehensible to us.

So we look to those who have been given a message for man-on-earth from our Brothers of other worlds, and we bless them.

Adamski constantly met high-ranking officials of other countries, as related in the following instance

I never got any reaction from the head man of British Defense when I lunched with him. He didn't say that they weren't there. He said they were. They all tell you that; but they don't tell that to the public. And I think it's about time that the public be informed.

He was greatly disturbed at the Air Force attitude and as an example told of a talk he had with an AF officer..

So I asked him; I said "You fellas been shooting at these guys?" He said - "Why of course". "Why do you shoot at them?" He said "We don't know; they may be playing possum". I said - "They been playing possum for a long time. If they wanted to do something they would have done it already. And we have no defense against them. So, why do you want to shoot?" "Well, after all, we're military men, we defend the nation, we're sworn to that". I said - "Supposing God was coming in one of those ships...would you still shoot at Him; if He told you He was God?" He says, "Of course...Any damn fool can say he's God!!" ...That's the way they answered me. And, "if he's God, our bullets won't hurt him". So that's the attitude, you see.

Mr. Adamski commented on the beliefs, religious and philosophical, of the space people he has met

As far as religion is concerned, what you heard in the introduction, well, it's neither here nor there. You can leave it or take it. But they do actually live what we have failed to live. We have the label of Christianity but we do not live the Christian Doctrine. If we had the world over, the world would not be ready to destroy itself, or the people, would not be ready to destroy themselves. So they do live, because they respect humanity as a divine manifestation. We say divine because what we call God or a Creator, created all of us. Created all that we know, and probably things yet to know.

MR. ADAMSKI WENT ON: - What would we be thinking about a man that would build thousand homes, and live in one and let all the others go empty? We'd think somethings' screw up here. Are we going to think that way of our Creator or God., whom we call God? He surely did not create them just floating around there and shining like stars at night for us, not in the day and just at night. NO! They're well inhabited.

In support of his views, he told the people of a statement made to him by Professor Hermann Oberth

So, whether you believe in them or not, like Professor Oberth that used to be with the Bell Aircraft Company here in Buffalo New York; he's now retired, living in Germany. He says...."George, we can't take the credit for our advancement in the field of science. - We move too fast. - To be going suddenly as fast as we do, we can't take no credit for that. We got to give credit to the people that come from the sky".

That's what he said. - And they are here!"

"Seeing them doesn't mean anything...But it's the message that they bring to us, that once we employ the message in behalf of ourselves is where we get the help. Anybody can set a table up for people to eat; but the people must eat if they're going to profit by it.

It was said, 'my teachings'. They are not my teachings. We have blended it with the understanding of the world...But the teachings, are more Cosmic or Universal. And they are for the benefit of each individual regardless of color, race or belief.

No matter how many space people will come, I don't think there was anything better or finer than the teachings that Jesus have left behind, and had we applied them, we as a society would have been lot better people and less in danger than what we are today.

Some people say, 'well, you can't live this kind of life that he taught, because you're in this kind of world'. Well, you can't live it, so long as you don't try it. And if you can live the harsh life that we have been going through, why, we can live the other, as well; by applying it the other way.

The space people brought to us, some new knowledge in reference to ourselves and our relationship to all life. And unless we put it to work, it wont mean a thing, no matter how beautiful it is...So the spacecraft that people are interested in, is not the answer to our betterment in this world. Especially, to the saving of this civilization. But the knowledge which they have given us, and also the knowledge of where we might even destroy ourselves, through ignorance, is valuable.

The bible tells us, man know thyself, and ye shall know all things. Man is a unit. The only unit in a form known, that has the potential of his own Creator. Every concrete form, regardless what it be, has a cause behind it. And the cause has a reason for it's being. And unless he lends himself to the cause, he shall not know himself.

They have cultivated that sense-mind in a way that they coordinate each sense. But you got to have an understanding to coordinate the senses, so they may work as a unit rather than as strangers or individuals of different opinions and begin to fight one another.

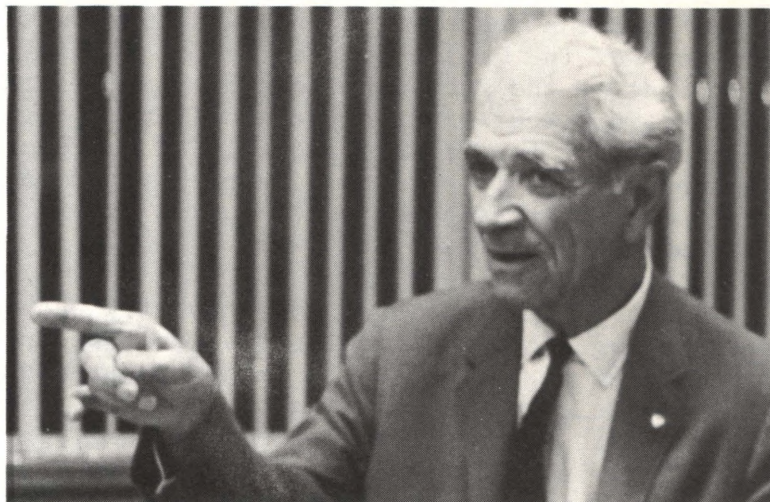

Let me say here; -we're moving into space. You know Galileo moved into space with the first telescope. And because he didn't find God, where God was supposed to have been, he was, right away, criticized and condemned by the Church of the day. Now we're going even further. We're going to other planets. And, probably explore the whole system and all the planets within it. And then we'll go probably to other systems. And no matter how far we go, the type of a God that's been promoted to us, we will not find. But what will we find? We've got that yet to face. Yet, you would say, 'then in this case, the people won't believe in God'.,- as we been taught God to be. I will say that they will believe more than ever. Because they have learned that there are forces out there, intelligent expressions out there, that is all beyond us at present day. And they must admit that matter cannot fashion itself on to a form, or the essence of matter cannot become matter until something guides it, unless there is some form of intelligence that is really directing it. Regardless what you call it. So, seeing that, they'd become real, you might say, believers, instead of believing because it is right to believe. Because society believes so.

The natural man knows the ways of the spirit; an un-natural man knows not the way of the spirit, and we became quite un-natural, habitual zombies, living on earth, moving about, pushing each other around, and half the time we don't know what for. It's about time we try to learn something about ourselves, and learn just what we are, who we are, and what purpose we're here for. But we'll have to go back to the natural cause. Because no matter how much, or how far we'll go, we will still have to go to nature for the ninety-nine percent of our existing life.

We are so equipped in our total make-up, that we actually have the potential of our Father, the Creator. And we should be able to understand it, know something about ourselves in relation to this Creator, or the Father, and we too, should be able to say right now, as Jesus says, 'I, as you see me, representing the Father. But I do nothing, but it's the Father that worketh through me'.

Some people say, I want to go to Venus, this world is in an awful mess, It's a hard place to live in. But who made it hard? It is you and I. We failed to recognize the Holiness, if you want to use that word, that already waited us when we entered. For the Creator could not create anything lesser than himself. You worship God, but you don't worship the house he built for you to live in. I might have a strong feeling that I can build a palace. So, one day I have a chance to do so, and I have built that kind of a palace. All I wanted to create the palace for; to prove to myself that I could do it. Now, I have no use for it. I equipped it with all that palace calls for, so it's really the finest palace that you'd ever want to see. But it's a shame to let it empty. Brand new building, brand new furnishings, everything. And I don't want to live in it. So, I go along the street and I find a little shack there that was chicken-coop one time. And I walk into that shack and I see a young couple, just starting out in life. And I say 'pardon me, but I just built a palace, I've got my rewards, I need no others, no thanks or nothing, and I don't think it would be right to leave that palace empty. Would you take it if I give it to you?' 'We'd be glad to'. So I give it to them, and they move in. Two years later, I'm coming back and I want to see how they're getting along. And it's to my surprise, I see them living still the chicken-coop idea. Why? They never learned how to live in a palace!

We are living in a Heaven and we have never recognized it so we made a hell out of it, but it's still a Heaven°.oooooooooooooooooooo

Mrs. Madeleine Rodeffer's U.F.O. Lecture

On December 3, 1965, the editors attended a lecture in Westford, Mass. The speaker was Mrs. Madeleine Rodeffer. Mrs. Rodeffer told of her association with Mr. Adamski and how she has assisted in his work since 1963, when she first made contact with him.

Mrs. Rodeffer has continually attempted to induce government officials to release some greater measure of information about the UFO situation, showing her films to various people in high positions. Throughout the lecture, she kept urging the people to write to their congressmen, displaying the great amount of public interest in space ships and requesting more information on the subject of interplanetary visitors.

She explained that while she was a former government worker, she in no way represented the government and, that she was in fact representing the Adamski Foundation and, in an indirect manner, the interplanetary people who are coming our way.

Mrs. Rodeffer said that while she had not been inside a space ship, she was introduced to some of the space people by Mr. Adamski. In light of the fact that she has taken some of the very best motion picture films of the space ships in action, showing an unusual amount of detail, it would appear that she has indeed been selected (amongst others) to carry on this important work.

Many people throughout the country have been brought to the realization that we are not alone as a result of her many appearances on Television. The showing of her film, as well as the films taken by Mr. Adamski, are usually viewed with utter silence and the public is invariably at a completeloss for words, so startling is this evidence for the reality of space visitors. If you have seen the films then you are in a position to appreciate the indignance of the viewing audience at having been mislead and misinformed by the U.S. Air Force in particular, and the government in general.

Madeleine Rodeffer is a sincere and very dedicated woman who has taken up where Mr. Adamski so unexpectedly left off. It is our humble opinion that the space visitors have again displayed great wisdom in selecting this fine woman to carry forth their message to the inhabitants of this troubled planet. We feel sure that George Adamski would agree.

The same ship, but now with the force-field on. The distorted side, indicates some type of force that is unknown to our present day science.

On the evening of April 23, 1965, a call came from Silver Springs, Maryland, that George Adamski had been rushed to the hospital with a heart attack, that I would be called as soon as his condition was determined. The call came and the Doctor said they had given him every emergency treatment but he did not respond and he was gone. This did not come as a complete shock to me for I had been forewarned that this might happen and George Adamski had told me exactly how he wanted his body cared for after he no longer had use for it.

On the morning of April 24th I flew back to Washington D.C. to carry out his wishes. His mortal remains were cremated as requested and the essence of his Earthly form was placed in an Urn and interned in Arlington National Cemetery, Arlington, Virginia. He would have preferred to have his ashes scattered but this is no longer permitted by law. There was no funeral, just a simple graveside service with Chaplain Capt. David F. Tate, from Fort Myer officiating.

This prayer, which had been handed to the Chaplain, was read with deep feeling at the conclusion of the service.

We gather here in humble gratitude to the Creator of all forms for the privilege of knowing and working with so great a servant of the Divine Father.

As the essence of the mortal form returns to the Earth from whence it came we reverently dedicate our lives to the Cause for which George Adamski so nobely lived.

We ask our Heavenly Father for the wisdom and the courage to continue to bring to mankind the understanding and the beauty granted to each individual and so simply taught by His obedient servant.

Our lives are richer for knowing George Adamski, the man, for he shared his understanding of Cosmic Intelligence with all who would listen. And now, as he lives in a greater field of service, may we as mortal be ever mindful of the symbol of Life for which he so unselfishly lived and died.

His name is a symbol of hope, of understanding in the midst of confusion, a promise of happiness and Life Eternal when Nature's Cosmic Laws are obeyed. Amen.

The Science of Life Headquarters here in Vista, California, will continue as before. There will be no break in the handling and distribution of G.A.'s work. We have a strong unit of cooperation throughout the world, determined to carry on the work he so nobely started. I will act as coordinator of the George Adamski Foundation, under the guidance of G.A. and the Brothers.

The Cosmic Bulletin will continue, issued every three months. Subscription by donation.

Sincerely

Alice K. Wells

BIG SEARCH FOR SAUCER NESTS The Sun-Herald...Sydney, Australia...1/23/66

● ● ● ● ● TOWN AGOG ————— VIA - GLADYS FUSARO

Tully, Queensland...Saturday - Two more "flying saucer nests" are reported to have been found in the Tully district. The three "nests" discovered are circular clearings of dry reeds, surrounded by green reeds. Hundreds of sightseers have flocked to the spot. Police and local officials are baffled.

The first "nest" was found in a swamp by a 27-year-old banana-grower, Mr. George Pedley, who reported seeing a vapour-like saucer take off from the spot on Wednesday. - The second and third were sighted by Mr. Tom Warren and Mr. Hank Penning when walking around Horseshoe Lagoon. Mr. Warren is a cane farmer of Euramo, and Mr. Penning is a Tully school-teacher.

HIS STORY....The first nest is about 30ft. in diameter. The reeds are all flattened on a clockwise direction, and surrounded by healthy green reeds. Police say that if some machine which travels on the ground had made the discs, it would have left traces in the surrounding scrub. But the scrub is untouched. Mr. Pedley today told me his story of seeing a flying saucer.

"Had anyone asked me five days ago if I believed in flying saucers I'd have laughed and thought they were nuts", he said. "But now I know better; I have actually seen a spaceship. No one will ever convince me that I was imagining things. I was driving the tractor through a neighbouring property on my way to my farm about 9 a.m., on Wednesday when I heard a loud hissing noise above the engine noise of the tractor. It sounded like air escaping from a tyre. But the tractor tyres seemed O.K.. so I drove on".

"At first I ignored the sound, but suddenly I saw a spaceship rise at great speed out of a swamp called Horseshoe Lagoon about 25 yards in front of me. It was blue-grey, about 25 ft across and nine feet high. It spun at a terrific rate as it rose vertically to about 60 ft. then made a shallow dive and rose sharply. Travelling at a fantastic speed, it headed off in a south-westerly direction. It was out of sight in seconds. I saw no portholes or antennae, and there was no sign of life either in or about the ship". Mr. Pedley said he decided not to say anything because he thought no one would believe his story.

"But on my way home to Tully that night I met Albert Pennisi, who owns the property where I saw the saucer. He believed me straight away and told me he had been dreaming for a week that a flying saucer would land on his property. He said that about 5:30 a.m. on Wednesday his dog suddenly went mad and bounded off towards the lagoon". Mr. Pedley said he drove to a service station and told three people there what he had seen.

"Then the fun started. They were convinced I was crackers and told me so". Mr. Pedley took them to the spot and pointed out the strange circle and decided to call the police. On Thursday two sightseers, Mr. Tom Warren and Hank Penning, took a walk around the lagoon and discovered the second of the bird nests. One appeared to be some days old, but the other, only a few feet away, seemed reasonably fresh. They were about 25 yards from the first one, but hidden by dense scrub. The fresher one is only eight feet across. The reeds were flattened in an anti-clockwise direction. In the first disc they ran in a clockwise direction.

All the reeds were dead. But they had not been scorched or burnt. One other mystery has turned up. A patch of couch grass about four feet square, and about three feet from the perimeter of the first disc, has been clipped at water level. The R.A.A.F. has asked police to collect samples of grass in the area for tests. (see Probe, issue #II, for photo and story of similar event which occurred in New Jersey. Eds.)

This strange aerial phenomena was photographed by a young girl, in the Geants Mountains north-east of the Boheme. The 'flying saucer' appeared above the Polish sector of these mountains, hovered still for half an hour, then disappeared. The Meteorological Institute of Prague gives the following explanation: It would be a cloud of the type 'alto-cumulus lenticularis' which was - formed above a mountain range of the side which is under cover of the dominant wind.

Cette soucoupe volante a été photographiée récemment en Pologne

Cet étrange phénomène aérien a été photographié par une jeune fille dans les Montagnes Géantes, au nord-est de la Bohême. La « soucoupe volante » apparut au-dessus du secteur polonais de ces montagnes, flotta immobile pendant une demi-heure, puis disparut. L'Institut météorologique de Prague en donne l'explication suivante: il s'agirait d'un nuage du type « alto-cumulus lenticularis » qui s'est formé au-dessus d'une chaîne montagneuse du côté qui se trouve à l'abri du vent dominant.

Stuart Whitman, movie star, said two flying saucers pulled up outside his hotel window during the New York blackout. He said the occupants of the saucers admitted they were responsible for the blackout. He heard a sound like a whippoorwill whistling outside his 12th floor window. One saucer was orange and the other was blue. They gave off a luminescent glow. They spoke to him over what sounded like a loud-speaker. He doesn't know why he was contacted, but will swear on a Bible that he saw the saucers and that its occupants spoke to him!! They asked him to do what he could to fight malice, hate and prejudice; then they took off.
