Propaganda Idea No. 1 - POSTAGE STAMP

The above is a reproduction of the postage stamp (actual size, one and three quarter inches by one inch) released by the Argentine Government, at the request of prominent Spiritualto commemorate the one hundredth anniversary of Modern Spiritualism.

Several of these stamps were presented to leading Spiritualists and Spiritual organizations by Victor Cerezo Butler, during his visit to the States as a delegate to the World Centen-mial celebration held recently at Rochester, Toronto, Buffalo and Lily Dale.

Providing the supply of these stamps is sufficient to meet requests, interested persons may state their desire for single stamps in a letter to Mr. Butler. (See address to the right).

ADVENTURES IN SPIRITISM

A Theological Look at

Psychic Phenomena

Thomas F. Opie, D.D.

Founder and President

"Outside Aid" for Patients in Mental Hospitals, Great Barrington, Massachusetts

All of life is by way of phenomena - observable and unobservable, so far as man, in his present limited power, goes. A blade of grass is a phenomenon.

If there were only one blade of grass in the wide world and if that one blade were kept under the scientist's glass-enclosed scrutiny (and could survive that scruand that confinement!) that little green ribbon would be phenomenal — that is to say, something to cause wonder.

But surely the multiplicity-toinfinity of the grasses does not reduce the wonder. It is only our own casualness and our own fa-m'liarity with the phenomena that do that!

Fire, in primitive aboriginal era, was a phenomena. But now that it is so familiar, it no longer speaks to us of God, its originator. An eclipse, in the olden times, was definitely a phenomena. It is only our sophistication and our "smartalecism" that reduce it to something less than phenomena.

And so it is with all of life. Familiarity breeds, if not actual contempt, at least utter lack of awe and wonder.

I have just read, from a thoroughly reliable source, about the e of a sixteen-year-old girl, under mediumistic-trance aegis, materializing out of the beyond and sitting at a piano and playing for her father who was present, in the flesh, together with six other persons at a private seance

If and when this sort of thing happens, as a matter of course

(and there are thousands of cases of materialization on record), we shall lose our scepticism, as many have already lost theirs-and then it will no longer be regarded as something phenomenal! (*)

Well, Moses and Elijah, according to inspired writing, in the gospel stories, materialized out of the beyond, up on the mountain. Jesus materialized, according to the accepted Christian story, on several occasions, after his demise. He actually became body at will, and the doubting Thomas of the disciples, examined his hands and his feet and side — according to reliable testimony.

Propaganda Idea No. 2 - POST CARD

The above is a reproduction of a postcard, sponsored by Spiritualists of South America and adjacent Latin countries. It was printed by the Victor Hugo Society Homage, Miro St., 163, Buenos Aires. Over half million of these cards, in color, were circulated and mailed to Spiritualists the world over. Liberal donations from Pan-American Spiritualists defrayed the tremendous cost of this propaganda project.

In the lower left hand corner are the words: "Primer Centenario Del Espiritualismo Moderno, 1848 Marzo 1948" meaning First Centennial of Modern Spiritualism, 1848 March 1948.

On the other side of the post card, to the right is the usual space for the address. To the left are the words:

My Daughter Lives!

The Evidential Survival of My Little Dona Faye

How I, in a series of seances, came to know that my own daughter lives. How she was able to manifest and prove her own everlasting existence.

PSYCHIC RESEARCHERS Why They Fail

By

Harry C. Gardner

Donna Faye Gardner, granddaughter, was born in El-mira, N.Y., New Year's Day, 1943. Lovely as a baby, she seemed to become lovelier with each birthday. As character began to torm, she became charming and somemischievous; sometimes quite a tease; usually happy and bubbling over with laughter and

I read people's eyes, and Donna Faye's were sparkling, alive, full of light and never dull. She won her way to nearly anything and and everything she liked, with those knowing and expressive those knowing and expressive manding, searching;—her eyes in-varibly expressed her mind far better and oftener than her better speech.

We had been privileged to enjoy her earthly presence with us for three and a half years, when she passed to the land of Spirit, by drowning. The flood laid waste much of the city of Elmira on that Tuesday in May 1946. Her family did not know of their loss until the next day. When her body was found three weeks later, there was a lovely funeral service.

Preconceived Ideas

For nine years, I have delved deeply into the whole subject of psychic phenomena,-much more than just the question of survival of bodily death. These years have brought me a wealth of experience in many phases of mediumship. Following each bit of experience, I formed opinions like everyone else; but being sincerely interested, I kept constantly seeking more and more experiences. Time after time I found myself wrong in one opinion or another.

Finally I had to admit I really knew nothing about the subject,that I had much to learn, that I had to be born again as Jesus told Nicodemus,-that my mind had to become like a little child's, that I had to accept phenomena as reality at Spirit World's valuation, and that I had to give that World plenty of opportunity to prove that reality and that valuation.

I tried, after that, to follow a certain method of my own. I tried to open the way for every bit of phenomena which might be possible or of value to me. To add to my knowledge and better under-standing, I recorded much of this. I checked, re-checked, studied, thought and compared. Finally I began to build a structure of Truth end Fact, pebble upon pebble, stone upon stone, rock upon rock: with the result that there is evidence that I, too, am unfolding several phases of mediumship. Others can follow in this same path and do likewise, some much faster than I.

Direct-Voice Mediumship

I have been very critical and skeptical toward my own judgment and my conclusions as to anything psychic. I do not enjoy having and expressing opinions, and then to find out later I have been wrong,—although that does not seem to bother some people.

Some years before this, when I first became certain of the reality of psychic phenomena, I often wondered at the contradictory opinions of Spiritualists regarding their own demonstrations. And I still wonder.

I frequently hear people talk about the prevalence of wrong-doing among mediums. It is especially disturbing and confusing to find that beliefs in off-color physical mediumship is wide-spread among Spiritualists. For years I tried to learn how to overcome this, and now I believe many of the problems can be solved.

In line with these thoughts, I feel this Donna Faye Record of 1946, can show interested persons, especially Spiritualists, conduct their own quest for truth and facts.

Within these same nine years, Donna Faye was the first of my immediate family to depart from this world. I soon knew she wanted to talk to me, and that I should make it possible. fore, shortly after her passing, I phoned Rev. Margaret Lewis, 55 State Street, Rennselaer, N. Y. I asked for a private trumpet seance appointment. I chose her not only because I could easily reach her home city which is only a few miles from Albany but also because, on the same trip, I could spend some time with friends in Schenectady.

Materialization

Mrs. Lewis answered: "Yes. come right over . . . you may have a voice seance . . . do you know Bertie Lily Candler? She is here and we'll have materialization Saturday night and Monday night . your friends from Schenectady will also be here."

I replied that I knew Mrs. Candler and that she could count me in for both meetings. I did not mention Donna Faye.

At the first meeting, I knew perhaps half the sitters. not seen Mrs. Candler since sit-ting in two of her meetings sev-eral years before.

Perhaps half-way through the meeting came the materialization of Donna Faye. This was naturally a new experience to her, and she was not quite sure of herself, -so far as her actions were concerned. She appeared about three and a half or four feet from the medium's cabinet and stood directly in front of J. Gilbert Wright of Schenectady . . . so close she could have touched his knee.

Various Conditions

I knelt beside her, so she was plainly visible between Mr. Wright and me. In fact, all present were able to distinguish her features. No one there, except Mr. Wright and me, knew of her passing or anything-at all about her.

Furthermore, she could not be mistaken for any other child, especially by one who knew her so well as I, for she was an out-and-out individualist from the time she started to talk. Moreover, she herself identified me and called to me and what she said was indeed most evidential.

I may say at this point, because of the following record of events, that I have never sat in any materialization seances, where a child was among the sitters. All I have ever sat with were adults except a few young people in the teen-

My Son Convinced

The next day, I had a directoice seance with Mrs. Lewis, and Mrs. Chandler sat with us. Among many others, Donna Faye talked remarkably well inasmuch as this was her first experience in using the trumpet.

At the second seance, besides Mr. Wright and me, the sitters included only a few who had been present Saturday evening. Donna Faye materialized again, as plainly, as lovely and as evidentially as at the first seance.

On the way home, someone men-tioned that there would be a materialization medium at the Freeville Spiritualist Camp in another week. Mr. Wright, Mr. Leon Huguemont of Schenectady, and I agreed to meet there the following Saturday. We arrived at the camp the evening before and had severWILLIAMSPORT SPIRITUALIST al voice seances, a materialization seance and many discussions.

Donna Faye talked to me at the trumpet seance, and again appeared in the materialization seance. There were over thirty sitters.

As soon as I reached home, I phoned the child's father, my son Donald, about my experiences. He had never been interested in the subject before, but now he was open to it, and wanted to go with me the next Saturday. phoned my oldest son, Norman, at Williamsport, Penna., and he said: "Wait for me Saturday, I've got to be there, too."

Iona Brandt

Norman arrived early Saturday with one of our friends, Mrs. Ruth Carson, a medium living at Williamsport at that time; and with them Don and I went to Freeville.

We had a trumpet seance together (Don's first psychic experience, at which Doing Faye talked very touchingly to all of us. Then Don and I had a voice seance, which was still more intimately touching and evidential to Don.

In the materialization seance that night when Donna Faye materialized, everyone present could see and feel and know that here was a little bit of heaven come back again to earth, even though it was for just a few minutes.

The medium on this occasion was Rev. Iona Brandt of St. Louis She was at Freeville July and August of 1946. I have had many public and private sittings with her, and I know her mediumship genuine, evidential, systematic, in some ways satisfying beyond what anyone could ask. I once told her Guide. Rose Marie, she must be an Efficiency Expert.

Obstacles to Surmount

Mediums are all different, one from another; and their Guides are equally individualistic. two of them do their work the same way, or with the same ideas. That is why there are differences in the materializations of various mediums. Each materialization medium is an artist, for mediumship is an art in its own right.

You cannot know your loved You cannot know your loved ones exactly as they really are in the Spirit World; but you can come the closest to it by frequent contacts with them through the art of many different mediums.

Read that sentence again, get its meaning into your mind; and when you really understand it, you will see the difference between opinions and knowledge of psychic phenomena.

From enough experiences, you gain knowledge and the Truth, and because of that you are free from the ignorant prejudices of opinions based upon one or a few experiences.

Ethel Post-Parrish

A week later, Norman, Don and with our friends from Schenectady, witnessed another materialization of Donna Faye at Freeville. Later in Williamsport, Pa., I made arrangements for a trip to Camp Silver Belle at Ephrata, Pa. Our little girl talked to us separately in several private voice seances; and at the materialization meeting that night, she came out seven or eight feet from the cabinet, pearing as lovely and evidentially as ever. The medium was Ethel Post-Parrish, with whom I have had many sittings since 1942.

Saturday, August 24th, 111, oungest son, Delbert, was to come home from Syracuse University for a few weeks vacation. Norman and Don went to Syracuse for him and brought him to Freeville, where I had appointments made for all of us.

Delhert knew nothing of our seance experiences until the boys told him. In fact, the whole sub-ject was new to him; but because of Donna Faye, he too became seriously interested. Three of our friends from Schenectady, all scientists, were there for their last Camp visit of the season.

A Rare Privilege

In the afternoon, all seven of us had a materialization seance of an instructive, scientive nature. We tried out several different lighting ideas, having first had the approval and interested cooperation of the medium and the Guides; and we also took a series of special photographs.

This was a very rare privilege in our experience; for seldom are the seance room conditions of such a nature as to permit scientific ex-periment, for an hour or more.

At the evening meeting, Donna Faye did one of those unpredictable, evidential things that only an active-minded child would do. When she appeared, the three boys and I knelt in order to be nearer We had all many times to her. knelt beside her or sat on the floor with her, when she lived with us. And this made it possible for everyone in the room to see her, and hear more plainly.

Donna Faye said: Daddy. I want to play with that kitty, the one with the straps on its back. Please get it for me." This was a kitten seen every day around the Camp, wearing a little harness.

Don answered: "Well, Honey, I

But she started to cry, saying: "No! I won't talk to anybody but you, 'cause I want that kitty. When I try to play with it and pick it up, it runs away. I don't want any other one."

And that was that! She dema-teriaized, still crying. With other things, that individualism and determination were certainly characteristic of her.

Margaret Lewis

On Saturday, the last Camp materialization seance of the season, the three boys and I were there, and she appeared again in our midst. We also talked to her in a voice seance the next day.

After the Camp closed, Mrs. Brandt went to several cities before returning to her St. Louis home late in September. On Sept. 14th, at a mountain cabin of cur friends "The Carsons," in Central Pennslyvania, Donna Faye appeared again.

On Monday, Sept. 16th, she appeared for us at a meeting in El-mira, N. Y. And once more, for me alone this time, at a meeting Friday night, Sept. 20th, in the church of Rev. Margaret Lewis. This was the last I saw of Mrs. Brandt's work in 1946.

Eleven times I saw little three and a half year old Donna Faye materialize, all within twelve weeks in 1946; twice in Mrs. Candler's meetings, once in Mrs. Parrish's meeting, and eight times in Mrs. Brandt's meetings.

I do not have a record of all the mediums through whom she talked to us in voice only, but I can re-call the following: Margaret Lew-is. Dorothy Maxwell, Lily Dale, N. Y.: Bertha Eckroad, Mary Ful-ton and John Reese of Camp

Silver Belle, Ephrata, Penna.; and Mae Merritt of Binghamton, N. Y. As for messages,—separately, and in meetings, and in readings,has given many to me through dozens of mediums who never knew anything about her.

Various Techniques

I have been in a great many materialization seances. Numbered in the thousands, now, are the people who have experienced death, and who yet have proven to many in the group seances I have attended, by a temporarily materialized body, that they never stopped living even for an instant, and that under these certain circurrestances they can return for a short visit.

Most of them have appeared alone, one at a time; yet on many occasions I have seen two or three and, a few times, four at once upthe floor outside the cabinet. In one meeting I saw about twenty who were taller than the medium or any of the sitters.

Most people treat these meetings as very solemn occasions; yet I was in one nearly three hours long, in which there was so much laughter that only three or four songs were sung all evening. For most people singing is necessary to maintain best seance room con-ditions; but the laughter of sincere hearty good humor is, in my opinion, better than singing.

Appeared 11 Times

I have seen spirit people dressed various ways. I have seen in various ways. I have seen many of those closest to us and to some of our friends, materialize many times through three different mediums, — very convincing and evidential proof, like "cross-correspondences" in voice or mes-

But I have never known of or heard of any record more over-whelmingly evidential than the frequent and almost identical ap-carances of our Donna Faye,—a little girl less than four years old.

She appeared in meetings where no children were present as sitters. It would have been impossible for her to be mistaken for anyone else than her own self,—through three different mediums, in six differ-ent locations, Albany, Freeville, Ephrata, Elmira, the mountain cabin 30 miles above Williamsport, and again at Albany.

Remember she appeared eleven times in twelve weeks; in the presence of a total of over three hundred people. It seems that anyone should admit that this is enough material to form a sound basis for fair judgment.

Unsound "Belief"

It is important for the reader to realize that any single sitter, who was present at only one or two of the "Donna Faye" seances, could have easily persuaded himself that the appearance of the child which he witnessed, was in some way fraudulent and not gen-uine. He could easily believe that I was just gullible. But if he could have been present with me at all those meetings, he would have found it impossible to maintain that belief; for he would soon have realized that his "belief" was unsound, and that the facts as realities were totally against him.

The subject of survival is important to each one of us. We have to depend upon leaders in most lines of human activity and interest. We expect leaders to recognize and appreciate the responsi-bility of their positions. Now then, when these leaders, so-called make statements, they should realize that their statements are going to be accepted as authoritative and authentic. With this in mind, they should be careful to avoid the expression of inaccur-acies and misjudgments. They REV. MARGARET LEWIS AT HER DESK whole truth, and nothing but the truth; not opinions or prejudices, either my own or those of anyone else; just the truth.

It seems to me, that this "Donna Faye Record of 1946," shows one good way for sincere and serious investigators to learn the truth for themselves. "Ask and ye shall receive; seek and ye shall find; knock and it shall be opened unto you.'

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall set you free." Free from what? From prejudice and ignorance and other mistakes of character, and their consequences.

"Agree with thine adversary quickly, lest he destroy you." Who or what is your adversary? Why, ignorance if you have it and hold to it; or knowledge if you have it not and do not welcome it.

And the third error is the common mental habit of judging from an insufficient number of experi-ences, sometimes called "jumping to conclusions."

Either of these two-maintaining your ignorance, upholding yourself in ignorance, and knowledge in someone else's hands or which you do not have and do not seek-can be embarassing, troublesome, can "destroy you" in a man-ner of speaking, if in pride and vanity you permit it.

DONNA FAYE LIVES ON! Donna Faye lives on! Her star has set To rise upon that fairer shore, Where, bright in Heaven's jewelled crown, 'Twill shine forevermore.

She is not dead! The forest leaves Convert to life the viewless air; And rocks disintegrate to feed The hungry moss they bear.

We cannot die! The dust we tread Must change, beneath the summ showers To golden grain, or mellowed fruit, Or reinbow-tinted flowers.

Life never stops! The leaves will fall And flowers fade and pass away,— They only wait thru wintry hours The sweet, warm breath of May.

There is no end! The choicest gifts

That Heav'n hath kindy lent to And ever first to seek again
That fair land of their birth.

For all things that—for growth or joy—
Are worthy of our love and care,
Whose loss has left us desolate,
Are ever treasurer there.

The Life become a desert waste, We know its fairest, sweetest We know its flowers,
Transplantd into Paradise,
Adorn immortal bowers.

That voice of childish melody That we could miss and mourn so Can now blend with angel choir In everlasting song.

Donna Faye lives on! She has but passed Beyond the mists that blind us here, Into the new and greater life Of Heaven's greater sphere.

She has just dropped her robe of clay To put new shining raiment on; She has not wandered far away— She is not "lost" nor "gone."

The disenthralled and glorified, She's often here and loves us yet; The dear ones she has left behind She never can forget.

And sometimes when our hearts grow faint, Amid temptations fierce and deep, Or when the wildly raging waves Of grief or passion sweep,

We then may feel 'pon fevered brow Her gentle touch, her kiss of balm; Her arms enfold us, and our hearts Grow comforted and calm.

For, ever near us, the unseen, She'll walk and play and laugh and run;— For all Ged's boundless universe Is everlating life.—Donna Faye lives on!

The doctors of medicine mostly do not believe in a soul so they neatly and grossly-ignorantly supply the word mind in its place. They play fast and loose with the original psyche, which had always meant soul (the essential self), until modern times, when "smartscientists got to bat. They could not locate the soul, the self, in their laboratories, so they eliminated the word and the thing from their thinking and supplied mind, though in fact they not got that pinned down to a nicety.

Take Your Choice

No psychologist, no psychiatrist, no sedic can deprive me of my soul. But they have apparently done just that to millions, until it has become the thing in smart circles to decry the soul and to give it no terms. It is a pity. It is a pity. It is a pity. It is sheer tragedy,

What about a sense of God? seem not to have it, but this is because have smothered it. What of sense of color? It outruns a mere sense sight. And what or a southern? It greatly transcends a mere rhythm? sense of sound.

Then there is the sense of honor the sense of right and wrong. Too, there is a sense of heat and cold. These are definitely physical senses. Then we also have a sense of upness and down-

Our Limitations

We have a grand sense of exhilaration, over against another and a tragic sense of depression. Next to appetite the sense of sex is considered the most urgent and potent known to biology. Then there is a sense of willing-to-be and to do. There is a sense of thinking and a sense of not thinking.

We all have a sense of rebuff, of frustration. We have a sense of time and place. Extending these, many of us have a sense of timelessness eternity. And we have a sense of being in eternity now. That gives us a sense of spirit-perspective—which many seem to lack in toto. They live in a peanut shell of consciousness and seldom rise above animal-reaction.

When we stop regarding ourselves as mere bits of dust or mud, or as worms groveling in the swamps, and wake up to our divine potentian, we shall realize that there is really no numerical limitation to our sense perceptions-either of physical or of spirituality.

This brings us to consciousnesstotal awareness. My feeling is that w human beings, depending as we do almost solely on our five puny physical senses for reaction to reality, conscious of one million-billionth of allness, of universe-totality.

Total Awareness

Jung, the wise psychologist, makes reference to a collective consciousnessoutside of man's individual consciousness on this plane. Many hold that death ends individual consciousness and that there remains only total con-sciousness—that man loses his personal identity in a sort of race immortality. dividual? H there be race without in dividual? How a macrocosm without the microcosm? How a whole without parts?

I have definite feeling that man's consciousness is by way of plugging in with this collective consciousness. I believe that the subconscious transcends the conscious (for man) about as an ocean transcends a drop of water-as infinity transcends the tick of a clock.

Man becomes conscious of certain aspects of reality here, contiguous and coterminous-and he would seem to imagine that this segment contains all the reality there is. That is gross mis-comprehension. Can a thimble encompass the sea?

Sophistication has lost to moderns a vast deal. The Christian writings of old are full of reference to angels, for .But show me anyone today instance. But show me anyone today who really and truly believes in angels. can no longer believe in angels with human form and composition, who move about this vast universe on wings.

But I can and do believe in beings not of this physical world-beings of great power and wisdom who flit through space with the rapidity of thought, faster than light—God's messengers, if you please.

Guardian Angels

Iesus had to do with these things on several occasions. The gospel stories tell of these visitations and add that he was strengthened by them. The Acts of the Apostles tells of an angel who visited Peter in prison and effected

Jacob, of Old Testament times, was visited by an angel; and also the prophet Elisha and others. Jesus spoke of children's guardian angels.

That varying forms of celestial be ings, no less than other discarnate beings, especially earth's people who have passed off this plane, do exist throughout the universe is coming more and more to be recognized and admitted.

One of America's foremost physical scientists has been quoted as express-ing the belief that there are grades of civilized beings in existence, as far above us in wisdom and culture as we are above the single cell-and he adds, because they are so much older than our own civilization. Of this I have no slight doubt.

Why Do They Deny?

It by no means follows that because we are unable, by physical faculty, to detect the presence of these beings-of-the-astral, they are not around. There is infinite spirit-reality impinging, of which we may not be aware, because we lack sensitivity to pure spirit-but we can cultivate it. Many reputable witnesses, whose word is quite reliable, claim to have contacted these entities.

I myself make such a claim.

What would you think of an infant just learning to talk denying the facts of astronomy, say-or of medicine or any abstruse field of higher culture?

would you think of a farmer, who had spent his entire time attending to agriculture, denying the findings of archeology, of paleontology, of anthro-pology? Well, I feel that you would be greatly surprised at these de-

In another field scholars, researchers, psychics, sci entists and plain spiritual-minded folk ave been telling us of phenomena all about us-of trance-perception, of spiritcommunication, of automatic writing, and other matters in the realm of pure spirit.

Actual Experience, Nil

All but a limited school discredit their findings and ridicule their clusions and will have none of them. But to give assent to the latter-this is on a parity with acceptance of kindergarten denial in the realms mentioned

Why discredit those best qualified to speak on matters spiritualistic-quali-fied by investigation, by long observation and study, no less than by imme-diate experience—and side with those who have hermetically sealed their interests and their mental meanderings away from the subject? It does no up rightly.

This writer has never sat in at a mediumistic seance of any kind. I have never consulted a medium. So far as I know I have never done what is called automatic-writing. But neither have I gone, personally, into medicine, into Egyptology, into archeological research, or even into advanced relativity, nor into electrical engineering-yet I accept

In addition to her duties as minister of the church for the past years, Rev. Mollie Bauer con-cts a regular Friday evening ducts a re class for spiritual unfoldment which includes instructions for psychic development for advanced students as well as those newly interested in the science, philosophy and religion of Spiritualism.

Rev. Bauer is a lecturer, teacher and mental medium. She has given radio talks not only on behalf of her religion but also to raise "dimes" for infantile paralysis.

This is the norm, with practically all of the common run of the laity. It by authority that we accept about ninety-five percentum of acquired knowledge, accepting dictum and acting accordingly.

No fanaticism can possibly be attached to my own slant as to the verity the veridicity of spirit-phenomena. to the verity and have looked into the records and I accept the findings of reliable searchers on the same grounds that I accept advanced chemistry, higher mathematics, any learned conclusion in other fields. This is truly scientific—not fanatical.

Anything else is arrogant, unworthy, unscholarly.

Professor Bach

Books by the score, brochures, magazine monographs and features; added, certain recent motion-picture offerings of a startling nature—all bearing on the fact of life's persistence after the dissolution at the grave's threshold, have come to public notice within the past decade or two.

To ignore this cumulative evidence, as many people do; to belittle it; to discredit it, or to close one's mind to it—this is the way of ignorance and nit-witism-nothing less. ly not the way of the inquiring mind. In an address before a civic club in Rock Island, Ill., as reported in the daily press, Professor Marcus Bach, Ph.D., department of religion, University of Iowa, startled his hearers with this statement: "In a seance I conversed with my sister, Paula (who had been dead for twenty years). She answered my questions satisfactorily."

his book, "They Have Found In his book, Faith"s which I have just reviewed for the press, he devotes a full chapter to Spiritualism. There are four pages which deal with this episode. He asserts Paula appeared; that she called erts that name and spoke to him at length; that he recognized her features. "It was Paula returned," he writes, without qualification or quibble.

Opinion Not Biased

Certainly this is not news to many who have been following psychic re-search of late years. But it definitely is news when a teacher of religion in an accredited state university comes right out with such avowals and makes o apology for his conclusion.

Personally, I feel that this is one of the most persuasive and significant events that have transpired in the field of spirit-phenomena in our generation. It is bound to carry conviction to and for all who have an open mind-and who are not biased to a degree unjusti-fied by the mounting evidence of the repeated and rapidly accumulating ords.

During the past hundred years, and more especially within the present gen-and they are protected by such laws, under the Bill of Rights, granting religious freedom.

How Old Is It?

This protection was evidenced not long ago in New York state, when a Spiritualist minister, a woman, was charged with fortune-telling, which term she repudiated. The judge not only found her not-guilty, but read a scholar-ly and extended decision dealing both with Spiritualistic data and the rightsof-religious-belief and practice.

These churches are found from Alabama to Texas and Washington and Wisconsin states. There are also in-fluential churches of this religion in Canada and England. They have their own regularly trained and ordained minmany of whom are accredited ms -- some direct-voice and some mediums trance mediums of unquestioned integ-Some of them are healers. are clairvoyant (clear-seeing) and some clairaudient (clear-hearing).

The honest fact is that Spiritualism is as old as the Christian church itself —indeed, much older. Just why the orthodox repudiate, almost to a manand to an editor!-the whole category af things mediumistic, including more particularly communication with discarnates and excarnates (folk who were once earthians-in-the-flesh, and are now out-of-the-flesh-this is not at all clear.

What the Bible Says

It must be assumed that they have refused to hear the evidence, or else hearing it, they are too timid or too fearful of public opinion, to accept it. This frankly is unworthy of Christian leaders, both in the pulpit and in the editorial sanctums.

The First Book of Samuel (chapter 28) contains an undisputed account of spirit-communication. This reference is probably the oldest and most reliable of communicating-with-the-dead that we have in all literature.

Here King Saul seeks out the Woman of Endor-a MEDIUM. She is not referred to in the text as a witch—but as the Woman of Endor, be it repeated and be it remembered! She was undoubtedly what we of today would term a medium.

The Bible has it that she was a woman "with a '/amiliar' spirit"—that is to say, a person conversant with Spirit, or with THE SPIRITS. We are told in another connection that Jacob wrestled with an angel—that is to say, wrestled with a spirit-being.

Jesus and Peter, James and John, the Mount of Transfiguration, had definite psychic experience—if we are to accept the gospel writings and give any coherence or understanding.

If the appearance of Moses and Elijah long time deceased and discarnate from earth and earth's affairs as we under-stand these, did not on this occasion constitute psychic phenomena—then I low white from black-then

The Veils Are Falling

YOU CAN SEE INTO THE BEYOND

There are those who are looking into unseen worlds. Not many can hope for such rare gifts, but to one and all there is given the one talent . . . TO LOOK AHEAD!!

No one is without a guide. None are ever lacking even in God guidance.

Dortch Campbell

The veil is indeed wearing thin in places, according to the gifted Sir Oliver Lodge. Or, as Shaw Desmond said more poetically, the Veils are falling! You can see into The Beyond. There are those who are already looking into unseen worlds. Not many can hope for such rare gifts, but to one and all there is given the one talent to look ahead in this mundane life, for none is without guides, nor lacks even in God guidance.

"Higher spheres," said Shaw Desmond, in his book titled "Love After Death," take the place of clammy reason and brain... Those of us who habitually use this intuition, 'taking no thought for the morrow,' find that it is as partly in a light of the morrow. nearly infallible as anything earth-ly can be. All planning." he added, "but not all circumspection, is foolish-at least for the intuitive man and woman. Our plans almost invariably come to naught, or when they mature, often do so at a terrible cost to ourselves and

Wise Men Observe

What should we do when we do not know what to do? That is a question which oft faces every man and every woman. Dilemmas are certainly not infrequent. Situations constantly arise, whether small or important, involving choice of direction. The alterna-tives seem equally valid, one not more satisfactory than the other: both appeared vague and obscure. Which shall it be? Which shall it be? Shall I or shall I not? On the surface the alternatives' seem to be no different, each equally conclusive or inconclusive. There seem to be angles both for and against each decision.

The wise man or woman ob-serves, "I shall weigh the differ-ent courses against the other. I shall assemble facts; map my course; proceed in accordance with commonsense."

Is It Intuition?

But what is commonsense? You do not know; I do not know; neither knows prophet nor seer. For what is sense in one instance is lack of sense in another and it is certain that the wisdom of this world is often foolishness in the sight of that which is celestial. es, what is commonsense? Is it clammy reason? Or is it intuition? Is commonsense a part of reason and partly intuition? It seems there is a sense common to all that is déeper than reason.

Perhaps a minor incident in my own life may somewhat clarify as to what we should decide and how the decision should be made when we are not certain as to a course of action. A newspaper editor years ago, I was invited to participate in a symposium with many others to predict as a New Year approached the outcome of events, political and otherwise, in the making.

All right! I would be glad to do that, for the ego of every newspaper editor is stimulated by the chore that involves prediction. We all like to think we have the commonsense to look ahead; the ef-fort would be interesting and illuminative. Besides, playing with life, experimenting with life at any angle, always appeared to me to be most profitable. I accepted the challenge to try to prove myself a prophet; more, I decided on a scientific experiment that I might learn more as to divine guidance.

Coming Events . . .

My first step was to get all the facts possible that related to each event coming up in the New Year; I analyzed each detail; I used reason and commonsense. I used my mind to think out what should logically happen; I was thorough in my study of each event. My work was a treatise of logic; it was methodical, convincing, ra-tional, impressive. I put down the reasons why each event should happen in a certain way, preserv-ing a copy of what I had written. Then I laid my material away and tried to forget what I had written. I got away from analysis and commonsense and logic.

Coming events that were casting their shadows before were turned over to my subliminal mind. I awaited the time when I felt that I should again predict. That time came one afternoon when I was immersed in daily newspaper duties just before the newspaper for which I labored was going to press. The demand was insistent that I prepare a new forecast. I harkened to the urge and let all else slide.

Blind Ideas

I wrote what was given to me. I made no attempt to reason or censor. This ego of mine had nothing to do with my conclusions: I was an instrument for some higher power. The conscious mind was in complete abeyance. Each event was predicted as I was instructed and not as logic decreed such should be, even in the most complete detail.

I kept a copy of this document, laying it away with the treatise of reason. Months later all events had transpired and the document that was in accordance wth common-sense and logic was untrue, but that which was written not by me save as the instrument and by a higher power was as true and accurate as though all had been writ-ZOTOTOTOTOTOTOTOTOTOTOTOTOTOTOTOTO

LEADERS OF THE FIRST SPIRITUALIST PAN-AMERICAN CONGRESS, At Buenos Aires, Argentina

We are children of Spirit far ore than flesh. There is much more than flesh. There is much that we can find there, not possible in flesh and blood.

None is certain now as to how true knowing, this looking ahead, the proper decision of the right or wrong of a course, is brought about. Probably when we do know more than we do now shall discover that we are guided in a very simple and even what the world would call, when it knows more, extremely scientific fashion.

The world scoffs at everything it can not see and hear and taste and touch. Certainly then you can not expect a world wise in its own conceit to say that we are guided by Deity or even Guardian Angels. It prefers rather, this world of ours, to ascribe to the subconscious mind all phenomenon it can not weigh and measure.

But I am prepared to dispute such a silly conclusion. Much more plausible is the belief that one of us has his or her guardian angel who helps us to get our messages to the Almighty. The guardians are always with us; they are doubtless related to us

They by spirit in some fine way. They are actually, I think, linked with us in every way. They guard us; they help us; they act as guides. Perhaps my own Guardian Angel helped me write my little piece that was so flawless and so sure. At any rate, I feel there is danger in taking too much anxious thought not only regarding the morrow but as to the way we should go. For intuition can really be cultivated until it becomes infallible. Our plans almost invariably come to naught, as Shaw Desmond said, or when they mature are often thrust upon us at a terrific cost to ourselves and others, if perchance we reason the way rather than trusting to a higher guidance.

SPIRITUAL HEALING

ONE OF THE GREATEST BOONS GOD HAS FOR US

By

Irma Gustafson

R. R. 1, Box 24 Mt. Morrison, Colo.

Somewhere in this there is a healer whom I want to thank, with abject apology that I am nearly eighteen years late. Even if she does not see this, my story will show just how stubborn a soul can be in recognizing the works of God.

would never have admitted doubt of the Bible which cites many cases of healing, but like millions of others, I positively had no patience with religions which claimed healing of any kind. I relegated them all as neurotics, and was certain that their cures only of hysterical persons whose illnesses had been in the mind.

My story begins the last week in August 1930. Years of poor health and nervous exhaustion had been climaxed in June by a hemorrhage and after X-Rays a specialist had told me I had tuberculosis. He pointed out the spots on my lungs, but it was the first time I had ever seen an X-Ray so it was all Greek to me.

What They Told Me

I was impressed, however, by the fact that the main spot was exactly where a clairvoyant had indicated over a year before when I'd had my fortune told. She had told me that I would go to a west-ern state for my health.

A long rest cure was needed so I made application for admittance to a large sanitorium in Colorado. When the time came I made the trip by bus. I had had other trip by bus. I had had other slight hemorrhages, but was not in advanced stage of the disease so I thought I could do it. I made two changes. One at St. Louis, and the other at Kansas City. When I first tried to recall meeting this remarkable lady I thought it was at Kansas City, but, on further thought, I believe it was at St. Louis.

The Power of God

Anyway, while in the waiting room of the bus station I became aware of the scrutiny of this woman. She was possibly in her 30's, had soft, dark brown hair, rather round face with olive complexion, and the most arresting dark brown eyes I had ever seen. I supposed she wondered at a my age and health traveling alone, and was not surprised when she came over to talk to me.

I told her what was the matter and where I was going.

When she asked me if I believed in the power of God to heal, I mentally catalogued her "One of those nuts," and answered somewhat warily for I could see that she was sincere, and I didn't want to hurt her feelings. Putting it in another way, she asked if I believed in prayers being answered.

Absent Healing

She sort of had me there, for any Christian likes to feel that prayers are sometimes answered. But, I still held, I did not believe in healing. She asked then if I minded if she mentioned me in her prayers. I was genuinely touched by her simple faith.

I envied her. But I did not share it. I humored her out of kindness and respect for her sincerity. This and subsequent cases which I could relate, prove to me that faith by the patient is not necessary for healing.

In the course of the conversation, she told me that she was a Spiritualist, and asked me if I knew about Spiritualism. I had only the vaguest idea, and did not know that it embraced healing.

Toronto's Britten Memorial Church Welcomes Federation's World Centennial Delegates REV. MAE POTTS MEETS

Picture above shows capacity attendance in the Britten Memorial Church during the World centennial services. The life-size oil painting gracing the wall at the rear of the church is that of Rev. M. S. McGuire, founder of the church. She was, during her life-time, one of Canada's foremost mediums,-loved and now honored by all who knew her.

She looked at me so intently-I think she knew that someday would be deeply interested, but that was not the time.

"I am on my way to a Spirit-ualist Camp," she said... "In the next few days there will be big next few days there will be a healing services. There will be a lot of power. I want you to give me your name, and I know you will be helped." I gave it to her, and she gave me her name too. am so sorry I have forgotten it.

What the X-Ray Disclosed

It was Thursday evening, August 26, 1930, when I reached the sanitorium. I had slept most of the way on the bus, and actually felt more rested than when I started. Having a history of hemorrhage, I was made a bed patient at once, but I was not X-Rayed and examined until the first of the next week.

When I entered the doctor's office for my examination he was studying my X-Ray. He examined me thoroughly, going over and over my chest. Finally, shaking his head, he said he couldn't understand it. My history gave every symptom of tuberculosis, the doctor in Indiana had diagnosed it as such, and his X-Ray report was of active lesions in my lungs. My present X-Ray showed only healed scars. He pointed them out.

I .did not understand X-Ray, but it was the same locations. Surely the other doctor should be able to distinguish between active and healed tuberculosis, and it does not heal quickly. It takes months and years. And what months and years. And what about the hemorrhages I had had? They would X-Ray again. They did. Again and again.

My Interest Grew

Other specialists were called in. The symptoms quickly vanished. I gained twelve and one-half pounds the first six weeks. Never pounds the first six ween, another trace of hemorrhage, another trace of lady? Yes, I thought of her. I thought of her at once. Could it be? But I pushed the thought from me. It didn't make sense. I preferred the conclusion which the doctors finally reached-that the Terre Haute doctor had mistaken symptoms of nervous breakdown for tuberculosis, and that the scars had been on my lungs since childhood. So I repudiated a wonderful healing.

It was fifteen years before I became interested in Spiritualism. In the meantime I had taken nurses training, and was more confirmed than ever (if possible) against healing cults of all sorts. When patients praised me, and sometimes said they felt better just in my presence, I thought it a compliment to my personality. a compliment to my personant, I was no longer nursing as I had married and my little daughter Selma took all my time.

The first time I attended a Spiritualist Church in 1945 I knew here was the place for me. The only part I felt no sympathy for was the healing service. I thought, "Why do they have to include that." When I entered a class for development and Rev. Maria A. Sykes' (Los Angeles) teacher told me my gifts were clairvoyance and healing, I was happy about the clairvoyance, but passed over the healing even when was told that it was developing rapidly. I was convinced only by an instant healing of lumbago.

Miraculous Cures

One day Selma, suffering from an infection of abdominal glands, came to me saying, "Mary Alice says if you would just put your hands on my tummy it would be better" better.

I did so to appease her, but I am ashamed to say I felt a little foolish. Habits of thought are hard to change. When she claimed to feel better I thought it another "Mother kiss and make well."

The very next time I went to church I was told in a message, "You have put your hands on someone here" (indicating the abdomen) "in healing, and they domen) "in healing, and they want you to know that IT DID HELP."

Since then, I have been the instrument for healing a number of times, and while I am no longer unbelieving I am always somewhat amazed. I can not but believe when I see the results, and have experienced, against my skepticism, undeniable healings. I said that the cure of a severe case of lumbago convinced me. Yet I got to thinking of the power of mind, and about decided that maybe my mind had blocked out the pain in some way. That perhaps my faith was stronger than I thought.

There followed the cure of a badly sprained thumb and I saw the discolored area caused by broken blood vessels fade out and return to normal in a few hours time. That I couldn't get around. To cinch it, I was then favored by the removal of a stye overnight, and when scalding water struck me on the face one day I felt only the first sharp pain-there was no burn or blister after.

I do not know myself just why I have ben so favored, but while I am thankful for each healing, I am most thankful that my eyes have been opened, that I can truly appreciate this, one of the greatest boons God has for us.

ADVENTURES SPIRITISM

the whole record of this "Festival of the Transfigured" must be discredited!

Jesus and his three intimates say and heard. It was something out of and heard. It was something out of this world—that is, out of this physical manifestation of an inherently spirit-world—transcending the time and space relation normally associated with earth's experience.

Stephen saw the heavens open and Stepnen saw the heavens open and witnessed, by psychic faculty, action on the Celestial planes. Paul refers to one caught up into the heavens, who heard voices, etc. Because of Jewish ceremonial or other reason, these were supposed to be unlawful to repeat, but the meaning seems to be that the spiritual impression was impossible to de-scribe. Unlawful is not exact cognate.

Spiritual Amanuensis

John was in the spirit on the Lord's day. He was in a trance, whether you like it or not—and he got psychic im-pression without end. He undertakes to make it interpretable in the Book of Revelation. Just how well he succeeded must be left to the reader's judgment and I dare venture the opinion that this will be determined by said reader's insight into things of the spirit, or the phenomena of the psychical.

"The Seven Spirits" indicated as speaking to the churches, plainly were using the writer, John, as a medium of expression. Any other interpretation than this leaves much to be questioned—and much to be desired. Here was automatic writing of a first-class order, ith a vengeance.

The writer was a sort of spiritualist amanuensis, inditing not his own, but another's thoughts. I do not regard this as "GOD" speaking. It may be a coterie of spirits, individual celestials, or a of spirits, individual celestials, or a group of higher intelligences—any of the Invisibles.

On one occasion, I myself was addressed in some such manner. It was own beloved departed mother were talking to me in sweet whispers. But I had no reliable evidence that it was she-only the impression that it

Technique of Communication

Someone said to me (out of the infinite) as definitely and as certainly as that I write: "You have always been taught, from infancy, that God is your heavenly Father. That is the bes. alogy we have for you. You cannot fully grasp the idea of God, nor have we terms in your thought-reach that will define Him. But this symbol will hold. It is the best that we can give you. Hold on to it. God is your heavenly Father.

And, friends, I hold to the fact that God is the All-Father. That He has ways and techniques of reaching us, by we name natural means and also by what he denominate spirit-phenome na, or via mediumistic channels, psychic methods. I have no more doubt than that we ourselves, over aeons of time in the remote past, gradually developed means and methods of conveying thought, wishes, impression—even before we had a technique of vocalized thought, of orderly music, of any exact system of converse.

Some of us are now in the way of developing a technique of communica-tion with loved ones gone ahead—and with the Almighty and the heavenly Your (possible) denial of the validity of this does not dissuade usnot a whit more than would a maid's discouragement of our infant attempts at speech, when we first undertook to

There are many intelligent folk who, while not denying the possibility of spirit-communication, assert glibly that they are not interested—since all of the alleged communication is so trivial. "It has no significance," they tell me.

How little these persons know about it! If the material that I have read, by the millions of words, in personal let-ters, in full-length books, in magazines and periodicals of many sorts, be trivia

It has a foreword by William Ewart Gladstone, also out of the etheric: "I give my hand and word on the level that this house have word on the fact that this book has been Shelley's work alone, save for two or three named exceptions."

This book has an inspired thought, of a religious, a philosophical, a poetic purport—for every day of the year. It appears that a coterie of Invisibles gathered, on the occasions of its pre-sentation to Shirley Jenney, a clairaudient medium-and that they were witnesses to its transcription.

Cayce would put himself to sleep, at any time day or night, in the presence of witnesses, always with a stenographer at hand to record what he might say, verbatim. While in a trance-induced verbatim. While in a trance-induceus sleep he would diagnose remote cases of illness, which had baffled the doctors, and do it with professional skill and amazing finesse. This, although he had never studied medicine and his formal schooling did not extend to college

One incident that is apropos here recorded in extenso. The writer tells of a case of a man with running sores on his legs. The medical men had been unable to clear up the festering places. The man presents himself in person to Edgar Cayce.

Strange Remedies

In a trance of sleep, Cayce diagnoses the sores and the patient's general meta-- blood-pressure, haemoglobin, circulation, etc. All this as if in a professional clinic, using medical terms, the very words of which he, per se, was not familiar with.

Then while still in trance he pre-scribes treatment: "Oil of Smoke." "Rub the sores with oil-of-smoke," he says. He is then awkened. "What did I say to do?" he asks of the stenographer, who took down his dictum to the word.

and indicates the dilemma. He is told that "there is a bottle of oil-of-smoke" in a designated drug-store "in Louisville, Ky."! They wire the store. There is such a druggist in the city!—but he wires that he "never heard of the remand did not have it in stock.

Mr. Cayce goes to sleep again and the message is repeated. They are to tell the druggist to "look once more"in some old stock, back on the dusty shelves. They wire. The druggist complies—and he actually finds a single bottle of the preparation, which he immediately sends to Virginia Beach.

For the Record

The man's sores were rubbed with this oil over a period, as I recall, of three weeks. A cure was effected. This is the story. Deny it as you will—it is authentic and "in the records."

I accept the sane, the creditable testimony of one who was there in person one whose fitness to testify naturally transcends that of any and all who were somewhere else.

Mysticism

RELIGIO

We can only comprehend religion and its vital significance when we practice it, by introspective methods of the mystic.

To believe because one knows is the sign of power.

By
MINOCHER K. SPENCER
Spiritual Healing Centre
Coimbatore, India

What is metaphysics? It is an attempt to convince and explain the world as a whole, by means of observations and inward feelings. There are people who are rationally minded. To them nothing appeals so much as scientific thought. Newton and Darwin not to speak of various other scientists, made great scientific discoveries.

Their zone of observation was the world, in its outer expression. They subjected everything to rigid classification. They analyzed and probed things to their very depths and ultimately derived satisfaction by proclaiming to the world, certain physical laws like gravitation, electricity, material evolution and so forth.

But these laws however applicable they be to forms, fail in their purpose when applied to life. Physical knowledge thus is of a limited nature.

Physics and Chemistry

Burnett Hillman Streeter, in his book, "Reality," which is a synthesis of religion and science and a fine critical study of the problems of life, says: "As we ascend in the scale of life, any generalizations we can make, any laws we can observe, will necessarily be, not less true, but less complete and exhaustive statements of truth; and the higher we ascend the more does the relative importance of what they leave unstated to what they succeed in stating continually increase

In the realm of Physics and Chemistry, the generalizations of science fit the facts as exactly as spare parts fit a standard bicycle. When we go to Psychology, though we can still make classifications and discover general laws, they fit the individual case only approximately like a pair of boots ready made.

"Just as the boot manufacturer tries to secure a better fit by continually producing fresh intermediate sizes, so science is always refining and perfecting its earlier classifications. But to this process there is a necessary limit; at the point where an individual becomes the sole member of his class, the purpose of classification has disappeared."

Inward Perception

We reiterate physical knowledge is incomplete. Its limitation is inherent. Life is not a substance that can be classified or analyzed or seen under a microscope. Life cannot become an object of knowledge. It is not an entity, that we can compare it to an electron or a molecule. It is a ceaseless evolution. More scientific knowledge is therefore incomplete. Life is both architect and workman, planner and laborer combined.

What does that mean? Science gives us the knowledge of the mechanism of the universe or things in life. But that which unveils the mystery of nature is man's own intuition or the inward perception. The mystic is the architect, who gives us the design of life's goal and purpose. He unveils to us, the God's plan, the nature of the soul, the laws of the spirit, thus the relationship of man with the universe and gives us a picture of the journey after death.

Prophets have come to the world and have given their messages from time to time, revealing God's Plan and which is the spiritual heritage of mankind. They have shown the way. Zoroaster, Krishna, Buddha, ...Moses, Jesus, Mohamed and others have spoken to men, the same truths though in different garbs.

Religion in Practice

Religion is man's best safeguard. It is his greatest consolation in life. It is the pillar, the anchor, the life-buoy in the stormy sea of life's journey. But religion to the ordinary man is based on mere tradition. It is a matter of faith, not experience.

How many are tempted therefore to discard religious truths, owing to the absence of any tangible, provable existence? If there is a God and a life hereafter, what is the proof of it? Mysticism supplies the place. It is religion in practice.

God to the mystic is not an entity, that is merely philosophized and talked about by theologians and philosophers. He is a living entity, who can be felt, seen and understood by everyone, only if he and she wishes to do it. Mysticism is the science of the soul, by means of which God can be realized and understood in this very mortal body of flesh and blood.

The "Unwalled World"

It is very curious, that though God is infinitely high and measure-less, He can become so small as to occupy the small cave of a human heart. It is the heart that is the seat and source of all divinity. It is the seed of divine inspiration. When the heart's strings are strung, a symphony of music is created, the vibrations of which fill the universe.

When we are seized with an intense feeling and desire for God, when we think of God and God alone and intensely desire His presence, His guidance and His inspiration, we realize Him. We have only to open the portals of love and the Great Being floods our heart and mind and soul and spirit, with the infinite waves of His holy joy, transforming us into, as if it were, celestial beings. It is

It was Tennyson who once said, "More things are wrought by prayer than this world dreams of." If in your life, or in the lives of those you love, there is something missing let me help you through the power of prayer.

God is Eternal Bliss. The Vedas call Him "Sat Chit Ananda" (Absolute Existence, consciousness, Bliss).

"I am the Goal, the Sustainer, the Lord of Witness, the Abode, the Shelter and the Friend, the Origin, Dissolution and Stay, the Treasure house, the Seed imperishable" (Bhagavad Gita Chapter XIV-18).

The Hidden Mysteries

Just as a man does not become a musician by merely studying the history of the musical instrument but only when he uses it, no one can become an occultist or a mystic by merely reading books on occult literature. God has given to man, a most wondrous instrument —his body—and the human soul, is the musician, the composer, who has to work this instrument and create music out of it.

It is the mystic and not the theologian who through this profound love of God can unveil the hidden mysteries of Nature and realize God. Spiritual evolution can not be attained by the mere studying of religious books.

God is infinite love. Love is the omnipotence of the Ideal. "To love is to live, to love is to know, to love is to live, to love is to be able, to love is to pray, to love is to be the Man God." This is what Eliphas Levi in his beautiful book, "The Paradoxes of the Highest Sciences," says. Love is the very essence of religion. It is the pillar of the mystic's heart.

No Outside Authorities

We can not define God. To define Him is to dethrone Him. Faith without understanding is weakness. We can only comprehend religion and its vital significance when we practice it, by introspective methods of the mystic. To believe because one knows is power. To believe without knowledge or understanding is a fruitless and faulty thing.

Jesus said, "And Ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free." (St. John Chapter 8-32) "Where there is the Spirit of God there is liberty." But we can only achieve truth and liberty by following the mystic's path.

There are potentialities and powers latent in us. We can rise to transcendental heights by the application of our own consciousness or the divinity within us.

The mystic does not rely upon any outside authority. He relies upon his own efforts to reach the transcendental. The burning love for God, the great, deep longing for the Infinite, the intense desire for the Eternal—this is what the mystic feels.

The Dean of St. Paul considers mysticism to be a scientific form of religion.

Realm of Mysticism

Religion for the ordinary man as we have said, is based on mere faith. But in the mystic, this faith is transformed into knowledge. Mysticism is based on the testimony of consciousness. Mere teaching of religion by word of mouth can give no assurance of the existence of God or lead to the transcendental knowledge. The mystic's mind is so full of God, that he feels His presence.

Ordinarily, there are three kinds of consciousness, which prove the existence of the external world—the bodily, the emotional and the mental consciousness. But in the mystic, there is the fourth consciousness—the consciousness of the divine within him. He is as if it were enrapport with the Divine, which fills his mind, heart and soul with a sublime feeling of joy.

The realm of mysticism is the realm of the Spirit. Religions give us only a part of spiritual knowledge. But the mystic, when he realizes God and thus obtains immortality, finds the door open to the portal of all knowledge. The hidden book of spiritual lore opens out to him. He realizes the unity of life. He gets Cosmic conscious-in us at some time or the other, so beautifully described by Tennyson in the following verses:

"Moreover, something is seen or seems, That touches one with mystic gleams Like glimpses of forgotten dreams— Of something felt, like something here Of something done, I know not where; Such as no language may declare."

Sometimes, even by mechanical means the state of joyous self-forgetfulness is obtained, such as when man is intoxicated with wine or he is given some drug like nitrous oxide and other sufficiently diluted air. But such experiences should not be mistaken for the mystic's true state of inward joyousness. They are a degraded type of consciousness.

Psychic Experiences

There are some records of mystical experiences with chloroform. The following statement of experience by a patient would be of some interest.

"All the choking and stifling had passed away, I seemed at first in a state of utter blankness; then came flashes of intense light, alternating with blackness and with a keen vision of what was going on in the room around me, but no sensation of touch. I thought I was near death, when suddenly my soul became aware of God, who was manifestly dealing with me, handling me, so to speak, in the intense personal present reality. I felt him streaming in like light upon me—I can not describe the ecstasy I felt.

"Then as I gradually awoke from the influence of the anaesthetic, the old sense of my relation to the world began to return, the new sense of my relation to God began to fade. I suddenly leaped to my feet on the chair where I was sitting and shrieked out, 'It is too horrible, it is too horrible'—meaning that I could not bear this disillusion. Then I flung myself on the ground and at last awoke covered with blood, calling to the two surgeons (who were frightened) 'Why did you not kill me? Why did you not let me die!'

Impressions Forgotten

Only think of it. To have felt for that long dateless ecstasy of vision the very God in all purity and tenderness and truth and absolute love and then to find that I had after all no revelation but that I had been tricked by the abnormal excitement of the brain." (The varieties of Religious Experiences by William James Page 391).

The above experience of the patient should not be considered as the result of any "abnormal excitement of the brain." In fact, the patient himself corrects this mistake, by further proceeding to say: "Yes, this question remains—Is it possible that the inner sense of reality which succeeded, when my flesh was dead to impressions from whout to the ordinary sense of physical relations, was not a delusion but an actual experience? Is it possible that in that moment I felt what some of the Saints have said they always felt, the undemonstrable but irrefragable certainty of God." (William James, The Varieties of Religious Experiences, page 392).

What we feel is, that in the anaesthetic stage, as in sleep, the soul leaves the body and makes an excursion into the "Other world." Generally the impressions of such excursion are forgotten when the soul returns to the body, in its waking stage. But in some extraordinary cases the impressions are not forgotten and the above cases quoted is of that latter category. The patient was able to remember his excursion into the astral world and was naturally sorry to have come back to this physical mundane plane.

PHENOMENA KEALING

This article is being written to give you, children of the earth plane, a better understanding of how the spirit forces help the material body to recover from physical ills.

Most of you are familiar with certain rather elementary factsthat there are spirit doctors who frequently become attached to those still on the earth plane-mediums or students interested in Spiritual development. But they may be, and often are, attached to others interested in healing-medical doctors, surgeons, dentists, etc., who perhaps deny Spiritualism, as such, but are never-the-less aided in their work by these Unseen Helpers.

The first question asked by the inquiring mind might well be— Who are these spirit doctors? these spirit They are discarnate spirits inter-ested in the art and science of healing, spirits who may or may not have been physicians when they were on the earth plane. We know that there is little immediate change in the individual when he passes through the door called death,-so naturally, if a physician wishes to continue with his work after he has passed over, he has a head-start on another who did not have opportunity to study medicine while on the earth plane and who wishes to become a doctor in spirit.

"God Is Love'

Both may have the same abilities, but the one who was a physician can use his earth experience to advantage and progress more rapidly-though both must resume their studies and go to school on the higher planes. Many tests must be passed and long interne-ships served. In order to become full-fledged spirit doctors, they must learn, and always continue to grow in the under-standing of those three little words—"God is love."

Their only reward is the satisaction that comes with the privilege of helping to alleviate the suffering of humanity. In spirit they study not only physical manifestations of health and disease, but the mental and spiritual causes as well. With the advantages afforded by their position as spirits, and with the resources of the Universe to draw upon, they are able to help in ways that often seem miraculous to those still on the earth

The next question might be How do they find their patients?

There are many ways in which the contact may be made. The individual has but to pray help is forthcoming. However, the degree of help received depends to a great extent upon the degree of faith with which he prays. While no prayer goes entirely unanswered, one who prays with stronger faith and awareness and understanding of the workings of spirit will attract stronger forces than one who prays with less.

Does Denial Hinder?

Another example of the lawlike attracts like. Anyone can ask for this help by praying to God for alleviation of suffering or trouble. This prayer often opens the way for the patient's guides to send out a call for help if they are unable to handle the problem themselves. This sets into motion the vibrations which attract the spirit doctors, who then proceeds to minister to the earth child. Of course, in most cases, the patient entirely unaware of the complicated process set into motion—a process which is naturally denied by those who deny Spiritual-

Fortunately, this denial does not entirely hinder their being helped by spirit. The spirit doctor who responds first is usually a general practitioner. He diagnoses the illness and in many cases is able to alleviate it. If the situa tion is complicated, he may call on a spirit specialist or specialists. For example, he may call on a spirit specialist or specialists. For example, in the case of an in jured eye, an eye specialist would be called; for heart trouble, a heart specialist — just as on the earth plane. The doctor and spe-cialists then hold a consultation and determine upon the course of treatment to be followed.

Universal Mind

To understand the course of treatment, an understanding of several things is needed. There exists in every human being a certain force which is known as magnetic energy. Magnetism is an energy or force which is generated accumulated in the human It is not necessary to discuss here the real nature of this magnetism, enough to know that really exists and may be used in the healing of disease.

The most advanced scientists know nothing of the real nature of electricity, yet they are able to make wonderful use of it, and to understand its laws of operation. Magnetism which is found within man is accumulated in his body from a definite source and in a definite manner. Man also has a mental source of energy, whereby he draws to himself energy from the great reservoir of Energy, of the Universal Mind.

To understand the real nature and origin of this magnetic energy, one would need to know the real nature and origin of the Uni-This Magnetic or Vital Force flows throughout all space and all around the Earth and enters into every living thing. It flows in through the left (negative) side of the body, and flows out again through the right (positive) side. A certain amount of it is accumulated and retained by the body, but it reverses itself and begins to pour out through every cell of the body, thus creating the Foundation Vibration of the human aura.

This magnetic energy is detect-ble by delicate instruments, able by in measurable quantity, and has a definite effect upon the life of the individual so far as regards his health, energy and even his power of thought. The magnetic energy which is inherent in man is found in every living being, but is not to be confused with animal magnetism. The magnetism of which we speak is an energy or force in many which is just as necessary to his well-being as his blood or his heart.

A person who is ill is depleted of this Energy, and will regain his normal condition when it is restored. Therefore, it is the spirit doctor's first concern to bring about this restoration of Magnetic Energy, directing a special amount to that portion of the body which is particularly ailing —the stomach, liver, or whatever it may be. In this way prompt relief may be brought to the sufferer, and the cells in the affected area are stimulated and aided in their work of correcting the condition.

The spirit doctors believe that any means which brings relief to the patient is of value. cases immediate relief is neces sary and a little time may needed to correct the condition. Therefore, it is perfectly logical for the patient to call on and employ both material and spiritual aid. The spirit doctors often work hand in hand with doctors of the earth plane-though the later may or may not be aware of that help. Both are working for the same goal—the patient's recovery.

About Our Ills

Drugs given to the patient by a doctor on the earth plane may be supplemented when necessary by chemicals or rays or compounds available only to spirit doctors. Many are familiar with cases where the patient's condition has been regarded as hopeless, and then an unexplained change took place and the patient recovered. Or of cases where a surgical operation seemed necessary to save the patient's life, and the patient recovered without it. These re-coveries are recorded by doctors on the earth plane, but how many dare accept our explanation?

However, we do not worry about that. We are concerned with results, for actions speak louder than words. We know that sciand spirit can work gether, and eventually the lion will lay down with the lamb.

Since all ills are the result of disobeying nature's physical or spiritual laws, no healing can effect a permanent cure unless the patient will endeavor to live in accordance with these laws. For this reason, after the patient has been given relief from pain, the next and greater concern of the spirit doctor is the patient's mental attitude. If the patient is to remain healthy, the thought of health, and healthy thoughts must be impressed upon his mind. this is usually a more difficult

Proper Expression

Mental causes of bodily ills are eadily proven by the well known effects of fear, anger, envy, worry and other passions and emotions upon the physical organism. A well known writer, Dr. Tuke, in his book on emotional causes of physical ills, lists as among the direct products of fear-insanity, idiocy, paralysis of various mus-cles and organs, profuse perspiration, jaundice, sudden decay of First Spiritualist Church of Gary, Indiana teeth, fatal anaemia, skin diseases, erysiplas and eczema. Passion, wrong thinking — all press for bodily expression.

The First Spiritualist Church of Gary, bove) 230-32 West Eleventh dedicated last May by Rev. Mable Riffle and Rev. Fanchion Har-wood. The secretary of the church is Reba Schallon who resides at 228 Ellsworth Ave. in the city of Gary.

Only because the process gradual and complex, do we fail to observe the connection. Mind translates itself into flesh and blood. How can we rid the patient of morbid conditions pulled upon him by years of chronic fearing, selfishness, anxiety? Only by divine, harmonious thought. These conditions cannot be forced out by mere wishing, but Truth and ideals can displace error. Physical ill can serve to goad the consciousness, in order that may mount to higher levels, and become aware of the Divine Power, of the Divine Love.

And if, when the spirit doctor is trying to change the patient's mental attitude, he is also able to sow the seeds of spiritual awareness, or to bring about a greater awareness, then truly his efforts will be his reward in the satisfaction that comes from a task well done, and done for the glory of our Father

Highly Developed Mediums

It might be well to explain at this point another way in which spirit doctors work with and through those on the earth plane. As stated earlier-anyone in need of help can ask for and receive help from Spirit. But the degree of help often depends on the degree of development or understanding possessed by the person asking. Now — the more advanced and skilled spirit doctors are naturally attracted to the more advanced and more highly developed mediums on the earth plane, especially those who are interested in psychic healing.

These mediums, when contacted by people in need of help-are in turn able to contact the spirit doctors and enlist their aid for the one in need. The highly developed medium will be able to work with the spirit doctors in restor-

Healing & Spiritual Help

Neither time nor space can stop the flow of Divine Power! If you sincerely need me, I will help you as I have helped thousands. Write to me today and tell me your problem (enclose stamp). I will answer you personally. Love offering only.

ing the patient's magnetic energy and by helping to change the patient's mental attitude. If the medium possesses an unusually high degree of development or spiritual unfoldment he or she will be able to aid also by allowing the light of his or her higher mentality to pour forth upon the mind of the patient, bathing him in a wave of high thoughts and lifting him to a higher plane of being, until he becomes conscious of that higher plane and seeks to main-tain it for himself. This can be done even though the patient may live on the other side of the world. Time and distance do not interfere.

The work of the spirit doctors is greatly aided by those all too few, highly developed mediums understand how to combine the three forms or phases of psychic healing - magnetic, mental and Spiritual. Such a medium is Rev. Edward L. Thorne, who long has been acclaimed for the wonderful part he plays in psychic healing, and who has recently or-ganized the World Wide Circle for Healing and Spiritual Help.

People May Write

The nucleus of this Circle is Rev. Thorne's Church and in his Development Class. The Spirit-Physician-in-Charge is Dr. Montague, a member of Rev. Thorne's band. Working with Dr. Mon-tague and under his direction are many other spirit doctors, rang-ing from either specialists to spirit internes who are attached to the spirit bands of various students in the Development Class. This nucleus of spirit doctors and earth plane members work together to form a whole-and what powerful whole it is.

People in any part of the world may write to Rev. Thorne for help and become members of the World Wide Circle. Names of persons requesting help are placed on the special prayer list and special prayers are said for their particular needs.

Every Sunday morning at 11:00 A. M., there is held in the United Spiritualists Church, of which Rev. Thorne is pastor, a regular worship service. During this service, there is a period de voted to silent prayers for healing -with lights dimmed and a back ground of soft inspiring music from the Hammond Organ, one can feel the living, vital force, the

But such types of anaesthetic revelations should not be mixed up with cosmic consciousness which is of the superb type and which leaves a permanent impression on the mind and creates a feeling of mystical joy of a transcendental order. Cosmic consciousness is not merely an expansion or extension of the conscious mind.

It is consciousness of the cos-mos, of the life of the universe. It elevates the soul and places it on an exalted level. It fills the mind an inexpressible feeling of delight. It enhances much powers. It brings a sense of im-It enhances intellectual mortality--a consciousness of eternal life. It gives a feeling of unity of life—the oneness of God with His entire creation.

God is absolute transcendency and mysticism is an endeavor of the human mind to grasp the ultimate Reality, to probe the essence and secret as of the cosmos and to enjoy transcendental bliss even when in physical life.

What We Might Learn

Can it be possible that, after two thousand years, intelligent investigators and we common folk "will not be con-vinced," even though one "rose from the dead"? Are we forever to be tied down to disbelief, by our blind-guides? Are we forever to go on discrediting credible witnesses, simply because a matter of everlasting concern to the human race happens to lie outside the periphery of our own personal experi-

But what?-you ask, does all this come to? What might we learn from the spirit-world that we do not already know? In part, that query has already been answered in this paper. There is wide consciousness which immensely ex-ceeds our own. What do the celestials tell us?

THEY TELL US:

- (1) That they are alive (not annihilated; not inert; not asleep, not "harp-playing"; not merged into "cosmic soul," with no identity and no personality-but active, alert, progressive, ever developing-individuals.)
- (2) That death actually ends nothing, except our temporary sojourn in a cloak-of-the-flesh, which at dying, we lay aside as we would a top-coat in coming in out of the weather. (These facts are related as FACT—not as hope or belief, but as fact.)
- (3) That at the dissolution there are, hardby, Spirit-Beings to meet us in the beyond and to aid in adjust-ment to a new country.
- (4) That death does not usher in perfection or complete knowledgethat there are planes or strata-of-vibra-tion to which we gravitate or are led, tion to which we gravitate or are led, where we shall find kindred souls, of like development in spirit-culture in character, en rapport with us. development in spirit-culture and
- (5) That there are seven or more Astral Planes, and then Celestial Heaven, awaiting us—towards which we gravitate or develop, through the ages (but not on the method of timing).
- (6) That we shall find cause and effect, and an existence so similar to our own that some do not even realize that they have died.
- (7) That there is suffering and struggle over there, especially on the struggie over there, especially on the part of emigrants utterly untutored in the graces of pure spirit; that there is even darkness, for those who have no spirit-insights—for vicious, selfish souls arriving by death—which is really birth into a different sphere.
- (8) That we are encompassed by both good and evil (disintegrating) spirits about us here on earth—that we must try the spirits, whether they be of God or not (as we are instructed in the Christian's Bible).
 - (9) That the celestials themselves

October, 1946 marked the beginning of what may prove to be a greatest single factor in the propagation of Spiritualism in the Latin countries. On this date, delegates from many Pan-American countries assembled in the hall of the Society Constancia in Buenos Aires, Argentina (See picture above) to celebrate the first Spiritualist Congress of its kind in the history of South America.

The following countries were represented: Brazil, Uraguay, Argentina, Chile, Puerto Rico, United States, Mexico, Cuba, Paraguay, Bolivia and Costa Rica. American delegates, unable to speak Spanish, were given every consideration . . . translation and general information being supplied by Mr. Aydecce, an Argentine Spiritualist who possessed an amazing knowledge of Spanish, Portuguese, French and English.

For details relative to the forthcoming Pan-American Congress to be held in Rio de Janerio during the month of October, 1948, see Page 1.

move about through unobstructed space and time by thought—quick as that— not by the propulsion of wings but by thought-process; that they clothe themselves by thought-process. They will themselves to be among us of the earth, and there they are!

(10) That they have techniques, tasks, vocations—very much like their earth-occupations, carrying on on ether-ic planes—in art, in language, in the sciences and in social services.

(11) That the eternal element of the universe is LOVE.

(12) That they see and hear us when they visit the lower planes, though we do not see nor hear them.

"To be is IMMORTALITY . And the ecstasy of love is the Great Immensity"!

From "Pageant of the Living Dead" I quote:

"Arise, my son -- thy time come - thy day not ended but

The service thou hast NOW to give is greater far than that which on earth was meted out to thee:

'Tis now thy duty, boy o' mine, to walk beside the stricken, linger-ing spirits of the lately-risen dead - and urge them on, my

Give them good cheer them the way . . . tell them the higher worlds do bid them leave the earth and come . . . GIVE THEM THE KEY."

(13) They speak to us of beauty, of music, of transcendent light and life and love, in respect to which our own "sense" world is primitive, heavy, backward and leaden.

(14) They tell us that there are Intelligences hard by us who would guide us in the veriest details of daily living, if we would let them in.

(15) That conversation with them is by way of solid thought-transference, rather than by words and sentences—

There are one or two observations to be made before the subject of spir-itualism is to be dismissed Either the hundreds of mediums, devotees, advocates, researchers and others who have plunged into the subject are under hallucination, some form of insanity or self-delusion, or else they are plain self-delusion, or else they are plain cranks, crooks, or charletans—IF matters psychical are to be discredited.

Prof. James Hervey Hyslop

They would therefore not be reliable witnesses; they would be unworthy of our credibility. But this could not be concluded from the names and the ac-tions and the daily lives of the men and women who have been indicated in these pages-to which list thousands of other sane and reputable and reliable names might be added.

When a professor of logic and ethics of a great institution such as Columbia University—the late Professor Hy-slop, after a competent and thorough study of the subject, can devote the closing years of his brilliant life to the propagation of Spiritualism — there there simply must be something to it. Lesser minds and smaller brains to the contrary!

William James

When a balanced and trust-worthy orthodox Christian minister, such as the late Rev. Dr. Russell Conwell, of "Acres of Diamonds" fame, can take up the pen and the rostrum in favor of serious consideration of psychic find-ings and of spiritism in general, it would seem to be time for liliputian oband small quibblers to be silenced.

When America's most distinguished psychologist, the late William James. can accept the presidency of the mo learned psychic organization in the world, the British Phychic Research Society—surely the minor and the less intellectually superior among us can at least no longer turn our mental backs on the whole matter and try to deny its validity.

Phenomena of HEALING

Divine Power - that fills the Chapel. Even the uninitiated or those who enter without doubt in their hearts cannot deny it or help but realize how it can and does penetrate through and to every human being who may need it, in any part of the world, if that one will but ask, and open himself to receive it.

Order of Service

Following the silence, which lasts about ten minutes, the names are read of those who have written in requesting special help and asking to have their names placed on the list. After that, those present who are in need of Special Prayers for Healing come forward, and stand two at a time, at the altar before Rev. Thorne; with hands held a few inches above each head, he asks a special blessing for each.

The healing period is followed by a hymn and the regular sermon or lesson-read exactly as it has been given to Rev. Thorne from Spirit. Then another hymn and the closing benediction. What a privilege to be present in that on Sunday consecrated place morning to see and feel and learn that it is still possible in this troubled world to come so close to God. Would that there were more such places—there would be less heart-ache and suffering.

No Request Unanswered

If one cannot be present in person-it is now possible to benefit from this spiritual experience by writing to Rev. Thorne and stating the condition or problem with which you need help. Then open your mind to receive and know that when it is eleven o'clock on Sunday morning in New York City, the Vital Force or Energy or Divine Power — call it what you may — will be directed to you. Neither time nor distance can stop the flow of Divine Power.

Names of those needing help are kept on the list for four weeks at a time. If help is needed longer, it can be had by asking. Those desiring an answer by mail are requested to enclose a stamp. There is no charge for this service, but Love-offerings are accepted and greatly appreciated — for as long as they are on the earth plane mediums and Spiritualist Churches do have expenses and bills to pay-even as you-dear reader.

However, lack of material resources need not keep you from availing yourself of this help. No request goes unanswered and already letters have been received from all parts of the world telling of the marvelous results obtained by members of the World Wide Circle.

The World Wide Circle for Healing and Spiritual Help is an outstanding example of how spirit and earth plane can work together to accomplish results which one could not obtain without the other. Anyone can contact spirit help directly—"Ask and it shall be given unto you" — but it is through groups such as this that the most effective work is done - "With faith, all things ARE pos-
