"FIRST PROOF OF HUMAN ENGINEERING IN THE BAHAMAS..." Dick is sure he has discovered the long sought for Fountain of Youth. FOUNTAIN OF YOUTH REDISCOVERED?

Dick Wingate, Baltimore, Maryland, explorer expects publication soon of his extraordinary account THE FOUNTAIN OF YOUTH BREAK-THROUGH. He says the healthful, rejuvenating font does indeed exist, a short distance from the island of North Bimini in the Bahamas, not far from a massive set of buildings lying in twenty-five feet of water off the island's east coast.

"Building stones and columns can be seen in the water," Wingate writes, "near the white house on the old Lyon's estate. The fountain flows a short distance away in fifteen feet of sand," he goes on. "The remains of a thirty-foot square bathing pool surrounds the bubbling, highly radioactive, mineral rich water."

Wingate took up the quest in 1954. Then in 1970, 'Gory O' Loughlin, president of the Southern California chapter of the American Society of Dowzers got Verne Cameron and Dick Wingate together. The master Dowzer with his Aurameter divined maps for Wingate. One was a nautical chart of Bimini. Cameron selected a point in a cay close to a mangrove swamp, where he was sure the mythical Fountain of Youth could be found.

Cameron at the time wasn't aware of Edgar Cayce's earlier prediction that such a fountain would be discovered at the site of an ancient temple, close to Bimini, and that it sank beneath the sea some 12,000 years ago; nor did Cameron know that Miami museum curator, Manson Valentine, previously found what appeared to be the temple in 1968, exactly as Cayce had predicted.

THE LATE VERNE L. CAMERON, MASTER DOWSER-REMOTE LOCATOR...(photo was taken about 1950 on the shore of Lake Elsinore, Calif.) Cameron's map Dowsing and on-site findings correlated in large measure with Edgar Cayce readings and other knowledge Dick Wingate had on hand. Cameron's uncanny, Dowsing abilities led to the discovery of the fabled, Fountain of Youth Issuing from a sub-sea, walled enclosure.

CAMERON-WINGATE FIND VITAL SPRINGS OF LIFE

When Spanish explorer, Ponce de Leon visited Florida in 1513, Arawak, Lucayan Indians described a certain magical fountain to him. They said the spring so rejuvenated one Indian that he fathered several children in his old age. "The Fountain of Youth could be found on the island 'Bouica' (Agnaneo), many leagues from Spain, where lies a running spring of marvelous virtue, when drunk, maketh owld men yonge againe." Unfortunately for Ponce de Leon an Indian arrow pierced his lung ending his life and the search in 1521.

Dick Wingate, writes of Melanie Freeman, a woman pilot who claimed she found the lost fountain in 1925. Melanie supposedly tasted fresh water coming up from within a walled area near the shore in Bimini. She said the wall was constructed of peculiarly inscribed stones. Dick believes covering layers of sand through the years have obscured the fountain's obvious location, eluding the eyes of seekers down through time.

A short time after Wingate and Verne Cameron arrived in Bimini, they surveyed the general locale in a motorboat. Presently Cameron, aurameter in hand, leaped from the boat into shallow water and began to zero in on what he described as a forcefield of energy, registering on the instrument as a thirty foot square area. "It's the true fountain," exclaimed the shouting Cameron. He observed fresh water coming up in the sea from what he described as a series of jagged, sub-strata fissures running in North and South lines. Cameron said drilling into the marked location would yield fresh 81° to 96° thermal water. The Dowsing mentor also delineated the boundary of a rectangular building, referred to by Edgar Cayce in an earlier reading. Wingate and a friend, Trig Adams, later lowered a testing mechanism into the sea, obtaining a fresh water sample, which after analysis showed great promise.

Frances Farrelly, talented Florida Dowser, a psychic mentioned only as "Bob," and Verne Cameron, comprised the team leading Dick to the fabled fountain. Edgar Cayce, according to reports, said Bimini in the Bahamas, forty-two miles off the coast of Miami, was one of the highest points on the sunken continent of Atlantis; and that the Lost Fountain of Youth with its healing waters rejuvenated Atlanteans in ancient times. Wingate's research turned up several well-known seekers, among them, Thomas Jefferson, who valued Virginia's White Sulphur Springs so much he asked the state to purchase the healing, hot mineral site for the good of the people.

SHADOW PYRAMID appears from one point of view in camera closeup shot of Dr. Ray Brown's Bermuda Triangle, Subsea Pyramid Crystal, [see Pyramid Guide #18 July-August '75 article]. The mysterious artifact, believed of ancient — possibly Atlantean — origin, has attracted worldwide interest since revelation of its discovery was made by Dr. Brown in March 1975.

CRYSTALS AND PYRAMIDS, A CURIOUS CONNECTION

THE MITCHELL-HEDGES, CRYSTAL SKULL was found in Honduras near a pyramid in 1927.

Dr. Derald Langham, Ph.D. (GENESA), of Fallbrook, Calif. sees the large-scale, tubular, open-frame pyramid, and similar geometric forms as step-in-to crystals, resembling those where living energies spiral through in natural growth patterns. Rev. Tony Benik, of Los Angeles, Calif. recently reported an expeditionary discovery of a giant, eleven room pyramid found in 10,000 feet of water on the Atlantic ocean floor. He described a huge pulsating crystal mounted atop the massive stone monument. The group search also produced an opaque crystal tablet discovered in the vicinity. When a light was beamed through the tablet some mysterious inscriptions immediately became visible.

Frank Dorland, Santa Barbara, Calif. bio-crystallographer says: "The crystal itself is like a radio that hasn't been plugged in: It needs an owner-operator." Dorland notes that clear, transparent crystals are of electronic quality. "Crystal is alive, it can be grown," he says. The crystal expert recalls an incident he encountered with the Crystal Skull. "It would turn cloudy with certain people around," says Frank, "and later on, after they left, the skull would clear up again." Dorland says it's extremely sensitive to vibrations. "Crystal has a computer storage quality memory. It can be a programmed conductor-retainer. Glass doesn't do this," he adds.

Dr. Ray Brown, Mesa, Arizona, Naprapath: "The pyramids inside my crystal ball (see photo above), are like grids and appear to be directional plates or tuners for thought transmission."

THE WONDEROUS RIFE MICROSCOPE

Royal Raymond Rife has made a significant contribution to the world of seeing. Through his perceptive work with circular, wedge-shaped, quartz crystal prisms he has been able to polarize light in such a way as to produce the visibility of micro-organisms beyond the range of electron microscopes.

Rife's understanding of the "hetrodnying" of light enables his device to see far into the extreme, so-called invisible infra-red (left) and ultra-violet (right) ends of the color (light) spectrum. The use of a revolving control permits any one facet of a prism to bring light into a special, "fine tuneable" frequency, with all the ease of turning a radio dial. In this way, the Rife microscope captures light passing through a particular prism not ordinarily visible to the naked eye or the fifty-thousand diameter, magnifying, electron microscope.

In the "hetrodnying effect" light from two vibrational frequencies interplay to establish two new frequencies. This medium of transposing light allows the Rife instrument to re-create bands of light running into the several higher, invisible octaves of the ultra-violet end of the scale. By contrast, visible light (color) embraces scarcely a one octave range. Thus Rife's microscope joins ultra-violet beams with other oscillations to manifest light in the eye of the viewer, otherwise lying beyond the realm of visibility.

The Rife microscope permits scientists to observe the living virus and other micro-organisms without the need for stains. Invariably when used, the electron microscope, stains, or both immediately kill tiny life-forms. Necessary study of the active germs can be easily made with the Rife equipment, of great benefit in modern laboratory work.

Most microscopes hold light rays in parallel movement for short distances. The electron microscope can't separate the beams indefinitely and ultimate distortion begins to occur. With Rife's instrument the rays remain parallel without convergence, thus demonstrating incredible feats of high magnification.

In Rife's work, he discovered that all bacteria or virus maintains its own frequency vibration. Later he found a certain strain of cell life could invariably be tuned into by a prescribed setting. Rife's unusual microscope made visible virus found in poliomyelitis and cancerous tumors, previously invisible through any other microscope. Since these type micro-organisms thrive in the range of radiowaves in the electromagnetic spectrum their progression can be observed changing from one harmful chemical state to another less threatening and poses the possibility that some vibrational producing instrument could be employed to control their growth and behavior. It's interesting to note that the once believed, colorless bacteria and virus do generate hues which can be translated from the seemingly micro-invisible world into our "seeing" rainbow light spectrum.

PYRAMID HARMONIZES
RUNNING AUTOMOBILE
Part II

At the time I placed the 8" x 8" wire frame pyramid on the dash of my 1970 Volvo, I was confronted with a major transmission overhaul or replacement. The stick-shifting mechanism was stiff and uncooperative. A very disturbing sound of gnashing gears drowned out conversation with passengers. Approximately 109,000 miles showed on the speedometer. Within two weeks the transmission noise had subsided considerably and shifting became somewhat improved. An alert mechanic later called my attention to a scraping and metal on metal sound, saying: "You may have helped smooth the transmission problem with the pyramid but now you can hear the differential acting up." He said the differential noise was probably there all the time but the transmission whine and roar just drowned it out. He also predicted an early repair would be due on both.

Well now, the Volvo has 151,256 mile on it at this writing and the transmission is quiet and operating nicely. The differential is a little improved and there's never been any major motor work done on the car during its six-year life. Except for a small oil leak, the car gets very good gas mileage and idles beautifully.

Friends who have put small wire frame pyramids near the windshield in the driving compartment of their car now say after six months to a year of testing that their autos generally run smoother and have sustained relatively trouble free performance.

I don't wish to make any hasty claims or guarantees, but hope to share a strange bit of circumstantial evidence with 'Guide readers. Of course a friendly pat on the front fender every morning and a faithful response to the cars immediate repair needs helps a great deal. I will be very interested to hear from any subscribers who may have a similar experience to report. Watch for a future article describing a spherical, crystal, psychical gas mileage enhancer. A young Frenchman claims the device really performs. B.C.

PSYCHOTRONICS REPORT FROM MONTE CARLO

Eighteen countries were represented at the Second Bi-Annual Congress of the International Psychotronics Research Associates in Monte Carlo last July. The event provided another milestone in the rapidly increasing worldwide interest in Psi.

The opening general session readily indicated the need for unification among all speakers.

Dr. W.H.C. Tenhaeff, the first person to hold a chair in parapsychology at Utrecht began his own work 50 years ago. "We must all strive together toward a humanistic psychology and parapsychology," he said, reporting European interest in funding a university of Psi in Luxemborg.

Dr. Stanley Krippner, well-known Psi researcher, stated that matter, energy, and consciousness are interconnected. "Any science that doesn't include all three is inadequate." Dr. Krippner made the highly significant comment; "It is the developing sense of self that is important, and this discipline seems to produce information that brings this about."

Dr. Montague Ullman, an honored American parapsychologist, pointed out that since Psi has developed in different countries we don't have a common terminology. "A definite need exists to facilitate communication," he explained.

Dr. Salvideo of Italy reported there are four associations in his country with a major division of interest. The newest is the Italian Association for the Study of the Paranormal. "The group recently held a conference and is attempting to bring about cooperation between factions," he said.

Dr. John Hubacher believes interest in Poland is greatest among young people, especially among psychology students. Later in the Congress the Polish delegation presented an excellent film showing a 12 year old girl demonstrating dermo-optic vision (skin sight).

Dr. Terry Burrows represented The Canadian Academy for Psychotronic Research. He declared emphatically that "psychotronics" and "parapsychology" are NOT synonymous in Canada. Burrows said: "We are here to build Psychotronics, one of the most important emergences in science." He went on to say we need a new approach to ourselves. Then he closed his presentation with the comment: "The world is full of phenomena, we must get on with the use of it."

Dr. Derald Langham of the U.S. Fallbrook, California, geneticist of 30 years research, said he is impressed by work being done in both Canada and the U.S. He calls his own system GENESA, meaning: "Unity of Energy and Consciousness, and the Maintenance of Life."

A Brazilian engineer, Jarbas George Marinho, said the younger generation is showing a great interest in Psi. "Everyone accepts poltergiests in Brazil, and everyone knows that reincarnation is the way of life." Marinho believes success can only come with international cooperation.

The final four days of the Congress included excellent films, displays, demonstrations, and hour upon hour of research reports, not very much new for anyone who keeps up on the literature. However, a few outstanding reports along with the conference enthusiasm felt and expressed, left most participants with the impression that significant progress is being made.

Hazel Denning, Riverside, Calif.

"Psychotronics is the science which, in an interdisciplinary fashion, studies fields of interaction between people and their environments [Internal and external] and the energetic processes involved.

"Psychotronics recognizes that matter, energy, and consciousness are interconnected. The study of this interconnection contributes to new understandings of the human being, life process and matter in general."

We [The Parapsychology Association of Riverside], have a beautiful colored film on poltergiests and haunted houses, taken in Canada by a professional film maker. It is the best of its kind I have seen. PAR is willing to rent it to groups who would like it for programs. It is really very outstanding. Brown's unique crystall ball actually magnetized knives and forks in a Long Island, New York test last August.

UFO expert, Dan Fry, founder of Understanding International, speaks of the Atlantean Fire Crystal as part of an apportionment system. "Tremendous forces acting over great distances could be readily produced by the device," he says. Fry believes the fire crystal may be the basis for the so-called Bermuda Triangle mysteries.

...And Edgar Cayce readings refer to the TUAOI Stone, a six-sided, cylindrical shaped crystal, (a power unit with a pyramidal capstone), which apparently overcame nature's forces, becoming infinite to finite energies, and thus establishing communication. The TUAOI Stone, according to Cayce, produced an impelling and levitative energy source capable of driving ships in the air, on land, sea and beneath the oceans and warming the homes of Atlanteans. The sun's rays and intense beams of fiery starlight presumably focussed through the "terrible firestone" in laser-like fashion. As these forces were tuned to high by the Atlantean high priests the disruptive power brought about the continent's sinking and final destruction.

John Garton, Lomita, Calif. channel says: "Crystals have their own personalities, specific unto themselves." The crystal's shape apparently determines its reaction to sound. The Cosmic Clock has been labeled a seed crystal, an agent of precipitation with its positive and negative ends vibrating on a certain frequency. Uncut quartz crystal at its six-sided, pyramid-like tip seems to attract energy as seen and sensed by clairvoyants and clairsentient people. Rev. Robert Short, of the Blue Rose Ministry, Joshua Tree, Calif. channel and planetary researcher reports: "The Great Pyramid is one of the holiest objects of ancient times, referred to in the sound, light and thunder; containing a numerical and sound code system, and a steady pulsation rate." According to Rev. Short's contacting intelligences, "there is an as yet undiscovered secret chamber, 12' x 12' x 9' and contains a generative source now sealed." "The crystals there will only be discovered by those who are in attunement with the devices and will harmonize their aura where all will be placed in motion."

Medilum, Elizabeth Bacon, Ohio housewife, recently channeled the following: "Dr. Ray Brown's crystal was brought from the central island of ATLAN, 30,000 years ago. It was magnetized, (this she reported before the earlier described, Long Island, crystal magnetizing incident), by ancient priests and brought forth an oracle. It brings to conscious awareness a kind of light," she went on, "and is a communicator. Dr.

Brown's crystal ball can scramble and unscramble language faster than one can think. It is impregnated with the wisdom and essences of the Hierarchy and tuned to all planets."

Stonehenge is also believed to be a highly magnetized site, as are the Great Pyramid, Serpent Mound and Sphinx. They may have been erected to help stabilize our earth in its ancient spin and orbital movement. If astrologers, mediums, mediators, psychics and knowledgeable esotericists are correct, Michigan channel, Irene Rucinski, says, "Dr. Brown's crystal is one of six, and two more are yet to be found." "His crystal ball," she says, "was used as a directional beam to make contact. There are Beings, not in your dimension, or on your planet, who have been waiting eons for contact; waiting to bring forth great knowledge to those on earth; to those who are in evolved states of consciousness and will apply it for humanitarian purposes."

VITAL SPRINGS OF LIFE

Hot Springs and Spas throughout the world have been used for healing and rejuvenation purposes by humanity. Their recorded use dates back into ancient times, the Druids in Great Britain, Greece, the Roman conquests, Alexander the Great and throughout countless generations of North and South American Indians. "The Fountain of Youth flows from within too," says Wingate.

ARTHUR MATTHEWS... Canadian Protege of the late electrical genius, Nikola Tesla.

To Bill Cox,
Enclosed you will find the colour slides — they have been many places — photographed by Mr. W. Smith in 1959. He was at the time appointed by the Canadian government to head the department for investigations of UFO activity.

Up to the time I produced the paintings, I knew nothing about oil painting. But during a Bible study, I was urged to paint a set of pictures, of places mentioned in the book of "Acts," which hold the key, not only to St. Paul's teaching, but also to unlock the mystery of Nikola Tesla's inventions, which so far, our engineers have been unable to develop. These include sending electrical power over a great distance with less than two percent loss, without wires (wireless transmission of energy); the voice operated typewriter and a thousand others. Apart from doing the brushwork, something appeared in the pictures which were beyond my control — the key to Tesla's inventions.

Sincerely,
Arthur Matthews, electrical engineer,
Lac Beauport, Quebec, Canada

DR. NORMAN EMERSON [R]... of Toronto University, a pioneer in the field of intuitive archeology with Bill Cox (L) Guide, Editor-Publisher. Photo taken in Clearwater, Florida, April 1975, where both men lectured at the Psi International Conference. Dr. Emerson has written several papers on his important studies and field work locating archeological sites and gathering previously unknown information through the assistance of psychically developed individuals.

PSYCHIC ARCHEOLOGY

Intuitive Archeology: A Psychic Approach

Dr. J.N. Emerson, Dept. of Anthropology, University of Toronto, in his recent papers describes his own first-hand experiences with psychics, as follows:

"It is my conviction that I have received knowledge about archeological artifacts and sights from a psychic informant who relates this information to me without any evidence of the conscious use of reasoning.

"This paper holds that intuitive or psychic knowledge stands as a viable alternative to the knowledge obtained by the more traditional methods of science."

Emerson's paper evaluated by Dr. J.B. Rhine, retired, of Duke University, goes on...

"Intuitive Archeology does not seem to be based upon a learning process. It seeks to bring the descriptions of archeology and parapsychology together into a meaningful study of human pre-history.

"My friend, George McMullen could 'psychometrize' artifacts holding an object in his hand, concentrate upon it and then relate details about its history and the circumstances surrounding the object.

"It is my conviction that we are on the verge of a new, human revolution — one which may proceed further than any of us yet fully realize. We've had glimpses of it throughout human history; it has been manifested in the lines and utterances of great men, prophets, seers, sages, scientists, musicians, artists and world leaders...

"The revolution is the merrgence of two great historical traditions — the wedding or welding of intuition and science.

"I believe that as we pursue such studies we will encounter new forces which will draw us outward into the galaxies of infinite time and space to a new understanding of man in the mysterious, beautiful and as yet unexplained scheme of things. I commend such studies to you with enthusiasm, caution and humility."

EXCITING !!! INFORMATIVE... Watch for future issues of the Pyramid Guide, illuminating many new and previously unpublished articles on... Pyramids and Pyramidology, Life, Pyramid and Form Energies, Crystals as Telepathic Communicative Devices, Mind Controlling Matter, Ancient Initiations in the Great Pyramid, Levitation, Dowsing, Alchemical Transmutation, Personal Portraits of some of the Most Knowledgeable People in the Spiritual and Ancient, Esoteric Sciences; Music and Color of the Spheres, and a wealth of carefully selected, reported interviews and higher sense perception research, most beautifully illustrated, hopefully, to bring a greater measure of awareness and joy into the lives of our cherished, Pyramid Guide readers.

THE MEANING OF THE GREAT PYRAMID.

The Pyramid is a statement that a former civilization solved problems we ourselves now face and have not yet solved.

It is quite clear the entire pyramid is a repository of knowledge and wisdom. Built for the express purpose of communicating to Beings at some later time the results of that civilizations' effort to understand the nature in which it lived. For those who hold to reincarnation as "fact" we might conjecture these people who built the pyramid "knew" they would return at some later time, and would reacquire the information they had attained at a prior time. If reincarnation is a truth, then we may be the people of that former time and can now claim our prior product.

THE LANGUAGE OF THE PYRAMID.

The language of the pyramid is the simplest possible form of communication. In geometry it is the ratio of length to width as giving the tangent and cotangent, sine and cosine, of precise numbers which relate to angles, cycles, values and derived inferences as values coalesce into meaning beyond the context of the idiom.

THE PRIME INDICATOR, THE "COMMON CUBIT" OF 20.6

The common cubit of 20.6 inches is only one of the values of the cubit as an instrument. The cubit is similar to a "probe". When a precise length or width, or repetition is discovered in the pyramid, the number of 20.6 may be divided into the number or length, or it may be multiplied by the common cubit number.

APPROXIMATE RE-CREATION... of Howard Menger's self-destruction energy device with flying disc.

Articulatedly described in his 1959 book "From Outer Space" Menger invited scientists to "detect," if possible, "a key" capable of discovering some type of free primary energy which emitted "a spinning, bluish light." A second attempt to reconstruct the model failed to produce the original levitative effect.

At a later date, Menger said he was able to duplicate the original test without movement, however he claimed, "the disc produced a glow."

As though controlled or directed, Menger said he spontaneously built the first instrument which would, when completed, rest within the shape of an imaginary pyramid. Once he made the final hookup, the aluminum plate was surrounded by a bluish, spinning light, immediately rising from the plywood base, ripping through a ceiling of aluminum paper, deflected off the rooftop and returned to its original position in the wooden platform with a heavy thud. At the same time it nearly destroyed the assembly. Menger suggested "space people knew of this power," permeating all fields around us, "waiting to be tapped."

Dear Bill,

...I also enjoyed very much the article on Gib Milne, Canadian, amateur Horticulturist. However, there is one sentence in that article that I felt I just had to make comment on. Quote "Healthier plants can be expected to attract more pests." It is really amazing to me that people working so closely with nature do not understand her laws. The law of nature is survival of the fittest. Bugs only attack unhealthy plants--they do not attack healthy plants. Organic gardeners have known this for many, many years. When the soil is built up using only natural fertilizers and compost, then it contains everything the plant needs to be healthy, and a healthy plant does not attract the bugs and pests which are nature's scavengers. I was delighted with his work using the Pyramid. Undoubtedly the Pyramid energy gives the plant the same energy as a good healthy soil does. This is just fantastic. At times I am awed that I live in this age when such marvelous truth and light are again being given to mankind. Thanks again for your exciting Newsletter. I look forward to every issue of Pyramid Guide.

Margaret Osburn,
Hyrum, Utah

Dear Sir,

I have enjoyed reading the many fascinating articles in the fabulous Pyramid Guide. Though some of the articles are pretty deep for me to understand. I do have the patience to try comprehending things so some of it is bound to rub off. So far I have erected a ten foot pyramid in my enclosed patio and find it beneficial for my wife, her sister and myself when we lie under the form on the patio divan as we rest and meditate. I look forward to future publications with expectation. Thank you.

Dear Mr. Cox,

I am very grateful to be able to write to you, may I add because of the kindness of Mrs. Betty Moseby--who sent me your address. It was with great interest that I read about the Pyramid, because old Egypt has fascinated me for years. But I have never had the good fortune to be able to go--I have longed to go--ever since I had a dream some years ago. I was flying in some strange craft (this was during the last war by the way.) I should mention first of all I could hear my name being called, and it was still being called as I was falling through what I can only describe as a vortex! The next thing... I was flying in this small, queer little thing although it didn't seem unusual in my dream. A man sitting by my side was driving the vehicle. He was smiling and I remember I was very happy. His clothes were unusual very bright colours. I could see colour. We passed over a native bazaar, I could see Bedouins in their flowing robes. I knew where I was being taken--we headed straight out to the desert--to the Pyramids. I reached the Pyramid, and stood by it--with a key in my hand in front of a door--and then I woke up! There was no reason for this dream--at the time nothing was further from my mind. I had never dreamt anything like it before--nor have I since. But--I have never forgotten it and as the years have past I have been drawn towards them; almost as though they had some message to give or at least some link. I know that countless people yearly, go and view these silent sentinels, with mixed feelings maybe--but to me they are not just ancient monuments. I believe they have something to tell--maybe wisdom such as we have never known, and those who have their minds closed will never know. I have felt for years, there was something I should know, well I have been seeking and learned things, and then I learned about you and your Pyramids! Can you teach me to build a Pyramid? ...I am not a mathematician, if it takes one--but I am sure that it is more than mere chance that I should have read about you. And if for some reason I couldn't enter (pyramids) then-- I feel the time is right for me to do so now! I put the whole thing in your very capable hands. I'm sure you can advise me, and maybe bring a dream into reality. Whatever the purpose of it was then--maybe I shall find out. Sincerely hoping to hear from you. I am yours faithfully, Mrs. Eileen Craven, West Yorkshire, England

Dear Mrs. Craven,

You might be interested in joining our May 1-17, 1976 expedition-tour to the Great Pyramid. We live in exciting times, an era of extraordinary ancient re-discovery. The Newsletter puts us in touch with numerous people having metaphysical interest or experiences associated with the Great Pyramid and model representations. The quantity and quality of as yet unpublished information ready for future issues of the Pyramid Guide promises a definite reinforcement of the theme of your dream. You are not alone in this urge to explore the deeper meaning of your visions. There are thousands of us, you may be assured. With kindest regards, Bill Cox

JUST RETURNED FROM BRAZIL... Dr. T. Galen Hieronymus, presented a month-long series of higher energy workshops with engineer, Mauro Pinheiro and Bill Cox, 'Guide editor. The tour included appearances before parapsychological groups and interested individuals in Brazil's major cities of Rio, Sao Paulo, Belo Horizonte and others. The large turnouts indicate a growing intensity of interest in parapsysics and the esoteric sciences in South America.

SWAMI BUA... Often referred to as the "Human Pretzel," demonstrates some super-human contortions at the Long Island, N.Y. Festival of Esoteric Sciences and Yoga. The Swami performed a twist-around physical feat, that gives one the illusion his shoulder sockets and wrist joints are gyrating on swivels. Swami Bua, truly eighty years young has the physique of a well developed thirty-year-old man.

THOUGHT AFFECTS PLANT GROWTH

by Jack Pettet Painesville, Ohio

On the farm where I was raised, we planted according to astrological signs but never thought of cosmic influences in relationship to people. The idea anybody can be anything they desire to be was embedded in my logic. "We have free will," was our family philosophy.

Then I read a book of serious experiments conducted by Dr. Franklin Loehr.

I set up an experiment to determine if directed conscious thought energy could indeed affect plant life. This involved the application of directed mental thought daily to one tray of green bean seeds, with no thinking directed for or against the seeds in the growth control tray.

One limitation implied that anyone who thought of the experiment could affect the course of its outcome. Apparently, distance or a Faraday cage cannot insulate this type experiment from outside interference.

Another variable was my limited ability to concentrate and control various emotions. This was compensated for, prior to the experiment, by concentration exercises.

A third variable not controlled completely, was the variance of nutritional value in each seed according to its individual genetic composition. This effect was reduced to a minimum by the use of a large number of seeds: Sixty were chosen as uniform in size, shape, texture, and color as possible.

The equipment used: a plastic watering cup; two light pale green trays two inches deep by eight inches wide and thirty inches long; four mats of sterile cotton all cut from the same package; and sixty green bean seeds.

Cold tap water ran for at least 15 seconds prior to filling the first cup of water to clear any minerals or particles that may have settled in the water line. The trays were watered at 10 p.m. on an alternate basis. One night the control group was watered first; the following night the experimental group received first watering. Both trays were given exactly a cup of water daily. I poured the water by dribbling it back and forth across the cotton.

To be certain nutritional residue of any type was not adhering to trays, I scrubbed both with soap water and rinsed well. In both trays cotton mats were layed in the bottom and up along one side of the tray where the seeds were placed. After the green bean seeds were positioned along one side of the cotton they were covered by another strip of cotton. This was done to insure that the seeds received no soil or external nutriment other than nourishment in the water, with no fertilizer used.

I flipped a coin to decide which tray to mark for the experiment and the other for control. Since both trays were identical in color a mark was placed on the experimental tray, (a small round band-aid) to aid the experimenter in keeping his concentration directed to the right container.

The trays were placed side by side on top of the refrigerator. I rotated them each day to keep the differences in atmospheric condition at a minimum. The experimental group received my concentrated mental thought energy 15-30 minutes daily, each morning at 6:30 a.m. with both trays present. The experiment lasted 11 days.

Before I sent mental thought energy to the seeds, I first attempted to generate or build up energy in myself, first trying to completely relax my entire body. I followed this process by taking approximately fourteen deep breaths, at the same time holding the thought or image of my body preparing to receive energy. Next, I tried to generate love energy by thinking about my children, recalling when one of them exhibited affection by hugging me and saying, "Daddy, I love you!" When I built up this warm feeling of love, I switched my thoughts directly to the seeds, visualizing the energy leaving my fingertips and going to the plants, encouraging them to grow hardily. Whenever I felt the warm feeling dwindling, I would again think of the child love expression to bring it back, communicating positive mental thought energy to the green beans. I never allowed negative or doubting thoughts to enter my mind.

CONCLUSION

When the test of significance was applied at the .05 level, higher than 1.684 was required to be significant. When the test was applied to the experimental group, the seeds rated $t = 3.58$ with 29 degrees of freedom.

The seed growth in the experimental group was so highly significant that the percentage probability that this could have happened by pure chance are less than 5 out of 10,000. I have to conclude in the case of this experiment, seeds were significantly affected by some form of invisible energy.

However, the experiment still leaves many questions unanswered. How the energy affects the plants is not known; if emotion of love, the conscious thoughts directed to the plants, or combination of the two caused the effect. Whether the conscious thought generates or attracts the energy to the person. Could it be that emotion generates the energy and mind directs it? The experiment indicated that energy can consciously be directed.

GREEN BEAN, PRAYER EXPERIMENT... Control group (L), note radical difference Jack Pettet's love prayer produced in growth of bean sprouts in the experimental tray (R). Unloved controls barely get started by comparison.

MORE ON THE TESLA-SCOPE AND ENERGIES

by Don Reed

Tesla's "Cosmic Ray" (the Truth), is itself the prime function of Universal (etheric) Principle. It is similar, if not identical to Wilhelm Reich's "Cosmic Orgone Energy"; immediate energy derivatives and higher vibratory modulations of the "Truth" and forms the basis for Baron Reichenbach's "Odic Light". It corresponds to all so-called "Psychic Phenomena" and "Form Energy" effects. These energies are also present in the pyramid, cone and other geometric structures.

The grossest vibratory de-modulations of Truth result in electrical and magnetic energies, light (incandescence), and finally in cosmic rays. They also precipitate atomic and sub-atomic particles.

J.R.R. Searl, applied these principles in his operational "levity disc," where cosmic (free energy) provided the levitational potential developed in the craft. Also, see the highly technical but inspiring The Principles of Ultra Relativity by Shinichi Seike.

9. Head (Q-glass filter).

Tesla scope, modified, smaller version of the original built by Tesla and Matthews in 1918. Matthews built the second of three such instruments in 1938, then rebuilt it in 1947. The latest design, constructed in 1967 per illustration shown here, adapted the use of microminiature parts, reducing the scope to a 6' long, 4" diameter size. The device is energized by cosmic rays. One message received from "Beings" in space said: "You cannot receive our message on your regular radio systems, but we hope others will give due honor to Tesla, and succeed in building his scope by means enabling us to pass on our vital message in the dark days ahead."

FIVE HUNDRED FOOT-HIGH PYRAMID SHOW-PLACE... to be constructed near the Great Pyramid on the Giza plain near Cairo, Egypt. The artist's rendition on the left has been labeled a "Golden Pyramid," made of glass and seven stories high. A monorail will lift visitors up into the interior apex area, revealing different periods in history at various stops and along the gradual climb. The three-hundred million dollar project is a joint venture between the Egyptian government with Triad, the Saudi conglomerate owned by Khashoggi and Sunnyland. A nearby trade center and related development runs this particular project's cost to $700 million. The adjacent complex includes an airport, casinos, nightclubs and a large hotel. But most exciting is the plan to recreate in miniaturized form the Nile River and perhaps the world's greatest museum inside the Great Pyramid model representation.

MODERN DAY MAN'S PLAN... to construct a model likeness of the Great Pyramid among the Giza pyramids. Developers in cooperation with Egyptian authorities call for an agreement to build a $460 million dollar tourist city. Southern Pacific Properties Ltd., a Hong Kong based company have drawn plans for five hotels comprising 1,800 rooms, tourist villages and villas, public parks, artificial lakes and a championship caliber golf course.

At the same time, the Egyptian government is proceeding with a project labeled Jolliville, a $4.6 million village near the Egyptian pyramid site. It will be built, starting in March, if present plans evolve, on a plateau in the vicinity of the ancient pyramids. Jolliville will be managed by the Swiss hotel chain Movenpick.

There seems to be some mixed feelings about the proposed developments by Arabs, who cherish the presence of the Giza plain's antiquity. Developers have assured them the planned project would be far enough away from the pyramids to preserve its open space mystique.
