In the broad sense, the 'occult' means all that is hidden to the given level of consciousness which is taken as the base of reference. Thus, to the simple consciousness of the animal, the egoistic consciousness which underlies our familiar culture and civilization is occult. A few of the higher animals, such as dogs, do show signs indicating adumbrations of values characteristic of egoistic consciousness, and thus they are reaching to the morning twilight of the latter level. They occupy a position similar to that of a partial initiation into an occult domain. They are instances of devoted aspiration on the part of the less evolved consciousness, and the induction from it of the superior consciousness.

Within the egoistic field, there is a relatively wide range, from those individuals who have just sufficiently established their base here to be called men - such as the Bushmen of Australia - up to the highest evolved consciousness which yet falls short of the higher Awakened Consciousness. In a secondary sense we may say that the higher cultures are occult for primitive man. . . But when the term occult is applied in this connection, it is not employed in the strict sense, for the latter implies a radical shift of base.

With reference to the preponderant portion of humanity, the 'Occult' means that consciousness which is realized when the Awakening has come. None of the knowledge which is the common possession of this higher level can be understood by the purely egoistic man. . . Even though a man is functioning on both levels, he cannot effect a really correct cross-translation in his own consciousness. He is, in a sense both the circle and the square .. but neither domain is any longer occult in the strict sense, however much remains occult in the sense of not having yet been mastered. . .

(Franklin Merrell Wolff; Pathways Through to Space)

The Etherians attach many relationships to their senses, which is probably as difficult for us to understand or imagine as, for example, what kind of consciousness the bee has in the use of its phenomenal eyesight. . . Besides the five sense known to us, there are seven others used in Etheria. What they are, how they function, and to what purpose I have been unable to explain to anyone. I know, but I cannot explain, because we have no standards of ideas or objects that I can use for comparison. These twelve sense principles are connected with twelve vibrations in twelve zones of thought or substance, and there are 12 Gods or Authorities who are somewhat like our planetary Logoi. In other systems there may be as many as 48 or 148 vibrations, senses, and Gods

SIGNS IN THE SKIES

(In my opinion, as a student and novice of occultism and the physical sciences, this is the most important material of its kind which has yet appeared in Borderland Science publications. I shall not try to evaluate it here, but I hope that whoever feels the faintest stir of interest in this subject matter will read it twice, or three times twice, until its implications bear fruit in his mind.

(Because of the great urgency of the situation now confronting all races on our planet, we devote the larger part of this issue to this single subject. Gerald Light, better known to our readers as Dr. Kappa, will be remembered for his singular and unhappy adventure with Etherian visitors (described by us three years ago - Transcripts IV & V, 1950). He is a man of rare gifts and unquestionable integrity, and in my opinion a very great occultist.

(Here we have, in the NOTES and the Brochure named above, the sketching of a cosmological scheme which deals specifically with the Etherian worlds, and which is given to us by Etherian communicators - who are not incarnate humans. This representation I believe to be new to occult thought.

And here for the first time we have a psychological perspective, subtle and difficult though it may be, on the mentality of these highly evolved Etherian races. If, as seems certain, we shall have to deal with them at first hand, such knowledge is of incalculable importance.

(For the first time, the role of concentration with reference to density is given emphasis and logical exposition. By this means a great number of obscurities in occult theory and practise are clarified. Until now, neither spiritualism nor occultism have met the problems of the coming of the Guardians.

(Gerald Light is well aware through past experience, how violent the reaction to his statements will be in certain quarters. Nevertheless, this seed must be sown. First the blade, then the ear, then the full corn in the ear - unless indeed all such knowledge withers and fails into nothingness, as turns the Wheel of human destiny). (ML)

ETHERIC NOTES OF GERALD LIGHT(First Letter)

. . . To reach into the heart of the Etherean proposition immediately & somewhat technically, I am forwarding you the enclosed sketch and a few lines of commentary on it. The sketch is the best I can do at the moment, but may serve to explain what seems to me the fundamental concept of the nature and locale of Etheria.

(Note: It is impracticable to reproduce this sketch in color, on a mimeographed page, but the enclosed page may convey the basic idea. ml.)

The colored circles ABCDE are to be understood as the traditional divisions of the "Inner planes", according, of course, to the ancient Oriental or Hindu conceptions, and thereby including most of the Theosophical, Rosicrucian and Illuministic groups, not to mention the many incidental groups (Swedenborgians, Mormons etc.

These Inner planes must be distinguished very exactly from the circles numbered 1-2-3-4, which are "the Etheric".

The jagged lines are the mountains of our globe, rising as you see into the Etheric, and descending into the central circles A-B-C.

It will be observed promptly, and possibly with a certain exasperation, by those even casually acquainted with the traditional hypotheses of Theosophy and its sister societies - that our metaphysical universe has 'gang aglee'. So, according to this chart (one for which I hold the deepest respect and veneration - according to this map of the inner planes "heaven" is at the center of the globe, rather than straight up, as we have all been planning to go eventually. (If Christian consistency really demands a place for the devil and his tribe, I can only offer my private opinion that he will probably be found in the dark blue circle "A", which is our physical plane. The Etherians seem totally ignorant of this gentleman and his kingdom, and up to now I have not had the temerity to ask Them about him).

Seriously however, this simple feat of reversing the age-old alignment of the invisible zones instantly unravels a thousand riddles, answers as many more questions, and brings a magnificent sense of clarity into the musty labyrinth of occult theories and postulates. . . Anyone who is aware of the endless ramifications of occult maneuvering in the various hierarchies of the Illuminati, can understand how personally shattering this radical change in the "cosmic system" has been to me. To be obliged to cast overboard conceptions gained through a half-century of study, is no simple and easy thing. . . Had I known nothing of these transcendental kingdoms of thought and emotion, the mental surgery would have been quite painless... As it is, I shall henceforth talk to the laborer in his vineyard, if I can interest him in a few elementary aspects, essential if he is to escape the animal panic that will fill him when he sees the Etherians landing in his pasture-fields. . .

Frequently, when I am speaking to groups which feel themselves entitled to a scrutiny of my academic credentials, I am challenged with the question: "By what authority do you present these ideas?" etc. There may be many in your BSR group who will be inclined to make the same query, I can give no references, of course. I can present no proofs - as yet. I can only declare that the Etheric kingdoms exist as I have indicated on the chart.

There are several conditions that must be explained, and I believe I can do so satisfactorily in the latter paragraphs of these notes. The Etheric planes DO penetrate to the center globe marked E - but for all practical and effective action they must be regarded as terminating at the point I have marked F. The condition in this case, stated as simply as I can, is that Circles E-D and part of C constitute the area of Universal Mind, or that part of the Planetary Logos which is undifferentiated, unindividualized. No entity, either human or etheric, under normal activity, is able to function in these Zones unless highly illumined and intensified in its sense of Individuality.

The dimensions of the Etheric Circles should be much larger on the chart.

There are a number of points which, at first hearing, sound very unlikely, or at least strange. For example: from the chart the Etherians would seem to be living upside-down, since their highest mountain summits touch the greatest depths of our oceans. This is no stranger, however, than the fact that at Cape Horn, and in some parts of New Zealand, one would, by viewing a globe, seem to be walking upside down and defying gravity. But these points can be clarified easily enough when there is time to do so in my notes.

Upon our highest mountain peaks one finds, according to the mystics, a much greater atmosphere of astral or other-world qualities. In view of the place into which the mountain tops project (the Etheric world) it would seem logical enough to go along with the Yogis in their statements that the snowy peaks contain a "greater amount of God". Certainly the legends which the primitives, living at the base of these mighty mountains, associate with the summits, suggest an instinctive recognition of this truth.

Turning to the other direction, that is the bottom of our oceans, the greatest heights of the Etheric mountains are to be found in the deepest part of our seas. That part of the chart marked F finds its actual correlary in the Mariana Trench, near Guam; the Philippine Trench, and the Japan Trench, all around 35,000 feet in depth. (Reference to the unusual mental and emotional experiences of such deep-sea explorers as Dr. Beebe and Dr. Picard provides much material for conclusive thought relative to the influence of these same etheric vibrations, but at ocean depths rather than mountain heights.

Note: The age-old preference of Yogis and mystics for mountain heights was not merely a desire for solitude... The descent of the "flying saucers" into the sea, and such phenomena as the great luminous wheels within the sea, now become at least partially intelligible.

ML

These heights and depths are at all times points of great sensitivity between the so-called Inner and Outer planes. Most psychics and sensitives seem to prefer the mountainous solitudes, and the reason is now apparent. The fact that Mark Probert is near the Catalina shelf, which sinks to around 5000 feet I believe, is to me of much interest, for it is undoubtedly one of the main reasons for his superior contacts with the etheric planes - superior certainly to the usual mediumistic contacts and information. Also, there is a potent relationship between the impressionable contacts made by the "mental mediums" and Mark's deep trance, together with the lack of all harmful effects. The great age of several of his Controls is also highly meaningful. I mention this because the connection between an enduring consciousness on the astral planes and these points of Etheric-earthly contact are important.

There are four basic vibrations or forces with which, I am told by the Etherians, our mankind and most Etheric kingdoms in, on, or near our globe must contend. These, in a completely crude and hasty summation, are: Fire, Air, Water, and Solids. In each of these elements there are great tides of substance moving in perpetual motion around and through the globe. The mountain ranges, both above and below the waters, have great importance together with the various magnetic currents that surround the earth.

My instruction is: There are four basic kingdoms, each one built in, of, and upon a particular vibration or element which we, for the time being, will have to identify as earth, air, water, and fire -completely misleading terms in themselves (and I am NOT getting involved in the various elemental kingdoms of the Devas, Nature Spirits etc.

Another point which I must mention while it is before me, though perhaps somewhat out of place here. I am constantly being badgered by those who ask why there is so little information coming to mankind from the spirit-world concerning the Etherian worlds and people. A glance at the chart will show why spirits know nothing about Etheria, except in extremely rare instances demonstrated by Mark Probert and his informants. The etheric planes and their inhabitants lie not only out of range in time and space, but also out of the range of the consciousness the average spirit possesses in the astral zones.

There are other kingdoms, it is true, twelve in number so far as we are in any way concerned with Etheria. But in order to keep the instruction as simple as possible it is thought wisest to use only the four with which our earthly students of cosmic matters are more or less familiar. These vibrations or streams of energy are in reality streams of life, densely peopled with living, self-conscious forms, all of which are not necessarily recognizable as human - but nevertheless highly individualized in a way, perhaps, that only the great Gurus of the Orient understand.

It has been noted by alert observers that any great national excitement is shortly followed by disturbances in one or more of these Elements. Contained in each is something I can only call sensation - the clue to Etheria and our only hope of escaping extinction.

ETHERIC NOTES OF GERALD LIGHT

Second Letter

"I shall now try to struggle through the elusive fields of Etheria and catch enough of its essence to distill as realistic, and as potent, an elixir as possible.

"Perhaps the most fundamental distinction between ourselves and the Etherians is that of density 'if any fundamental can be modified by a superlative). This is probably a very simple statement, but actually it is capable of an almost unlimited exposition--for this term of "density" concerns practically everything that makes up our own life, as well as the life of the Etherians.

"Let me say it this way: We are a very vague people compared to the beings of the etheric levels. We are vague, of course, because our consciousness of every aspect of life and nature around us is also vague. And our consciousness is vague because the substance of our instruments, our bodies, is so rarefied. We are actually light in weight (compared to Etherians) because we are so vague in our conscious reaction to the stimuli of natural environment.

"It may be remembered that in various testaments of the Yogis it is claimed that when the Ego is deeply, intensely, concentrated upon a single idea, there is a great increase in the actual weight of our flesh body. I can recall a number of instances in my own early instruction with Swami Jadrup, a marvelously intelligent Ph. D. at Calcutta University, in which he gave definite indications of understanding much of my recent instruction from Etheric Sources. This idea of weight, of intensity, of condensation (not necessarily crystallization) I can see NOW was the very basis of his Yogic secrets. Yet, in spite of these hints, given ever so casually, I fell into the usual mistake of most chelas and misunderstood his use of these remarkable ideas. I misunderstood density to mean impurity, heaviness in the sense of lethargy, and weight in the sense of a shadow, or darkness.

"Actually to go into "the planes of light" was to suffer a corresponding loss of density, intensity, and also conscious awareness of my self, and all things. The closer one gets to "God" in the "highest spiritual plane", the less dense, the less aware, the less "real" one becomes. Our recently outmoded system of tabulating the "inner planes" and assigning certain zones as the places, or "heavens of the Masters" is responsible for an enormous retrogression in the development of many students. This was certainly true in my case.

"The eastern insistence upon killing out all desire, desiring not even the splendid goal of spiritual attainments amounts, if persisted in, to literal and complete suicide; utter annihilation of the individualizing ego.

"My instruction from the Etherians is the exact reverse of this oriental idea. I was advised immediately to intensify, expand all of my senses--if I hoped to ever attain true freedom, and immortality (as a specialized consciousness). Rather than regard this physical-chemical world as maya, illusion, doing my best to forget or ignore its many attractions--and so, eventually return to my "Source" freed from all matter, purified of all desire, etc.---I was most emphatically instructed to achieve "at any price" a highly concentrated and controlled awareness of everything my senses contacted. At no time was I advised to become sensual, or wallow in the mire of physical reactions. (Those who had fallen victim to their own sensuality were as repugnant to my Etheric Friends as were the million of earthlings who are hardly aware of the possibilities of their sense-mechanisms).

"From the outset my instruction was slanted toward an ever increasing density (intensity, "condensity") of consciousness---which would, I was assured, result in a greater solidification of the substance of my body. This was the first step I was to accomplish. And I was to do this by using my five senses, hour after weary hour as if my very life depended upon it!

"In as actual and literal a degree as we can understand the word, the Etheric Kingdoms are kingdoms of SENSE. Instead of money, politics, religion or any of the other standards which we use to distinguish between our people, SENSE (or possibly AWARENESS is a better word) is the great element that determines one's destiny in Etheria.

"According to the degree that a being in Etheria can taste, see, smell, touch, hear---and seven other "senses" which I simply have no words to describe---is this being great or simple, rich or poor, strong or weak, wise or stupid, and also loved, respected and admired, or pitied and despised.

"If we think of the animal kingdoms on this globe (that is the four-footed ones, those with tails, horns and other bestial appendances) the distinction may become more emphatic. And speaking of animals, we might as well face the situation now: there are Etheric Kingdoms populated by forms which our earthlings would immediately regard as bestial----and therefore damnable and inferior.

"The Etheric Kingdoms, that is the "lower" ones in the first four levels, have one element of sense in which they specialize.

The development of this "sense" constitutes the fundamental element of their evolution. Consider the incredible development of the eye of our honey-bee, with about, I think, 25,000 segments, or lenses, which enable it to "see" a tiny flower that is ten miles away, and to "see" comparatively, a bigger area than we get in "Cinerama", the trick movie device that makes some faint away as the various dimensions are thrown on the screen.

"In each of these Etheric Kingdoms there is a fundamental vibration which we would probably call a number (One, Two, Three, etc.) There is a color vibration. And then there is what I will have to call a "symbol-vibration"---a Square, Triangle, Circle, Spiral, etc. (I know that we have had these ideas in our earthly systems of occultism and philosophy. But they have hardly ever been more than purely theoretical, providing the basis for endless intellectual speculation and a vast amount of mystical nonsense.)

"Then we must consider the chakras or psychic centers in our spines, the celestial flowers of the Hindus (about which there has probably been more absurdity and nonsense than any other feature of technical occultism.) Most of our earthly systems give these centers as the ultimate areas of sense reactions; that is, Smell is supposed to reside in the Root Chakra, at the base of the human spine; Taste in the Spleen Chakra; Sight in the Solar-plexus, etc. There are some important modifications of this system, according to the Etheric systems, but I won't go into it now, except to say this: To the Etheric Being, Smell is a Principle, rather than a faculty. So is Taste and the other senses, as we call them.

"And as absurd as it may seem to some of our earthly "scholars" Etherian standards are based upon these "Principles" rather in the same way that the idea or principle of Love, Faith, Courage, is admired and respected here (on earth). Great Teachers, Messiahs, Avatars, have come to the people of the Etheric worlds laying down a system of ethics or morality based on what we would call "sense". The saints, the holy-men of Etheria are those in whom the highest development of these Sense-Principles has been achieved. They have no "Masters", no "Christs" who are symbols of love, humility, virtue, etc., as have we of earth.

"One more point which I must mention is the relationship of these Sense-Principles to a certain organ in their bodies. There have been a few highly veiled references in some of our esoteric manuscripts about this occult connection between our physical organs and certain principles, ideas, or virtues, but very, very little information has been given us. I know because I have searched patiently through hundreds of these old manuscripts wherever I could find them.

"In the Monastery of Mt. Sinai, run by a handful of moth-eaten monks (Coptics) we were allowed to copy a very ancient parchment which indicated that the author of the secrets it contained had some knowledge of this sense-principle-organ idea, or perhaps duplicated it from some source that did understand the hidden meanings. In the esoteric scrolls of the European Illuminati I have found absolutely nothing of this idea except in one manuscript of Robert Fludd. He draws a face, with radiating lines, over the part of the chest just above the liver--an etheric center of great importance to the group of beings who move or evolve through the liver-principle (which we call instinct, as opposed to intuition, in the heart).

"This Etheric idea of sense is vastly more developed than among ourselves. They, the Etherians, attach many relationships to their senses, probably as difficult for us to understand, or imagine, as for example, what kind of consciousness the bee has in the use of its phenomenal eyesight. Might we not say that the idea of flight, or motion, is automatically a part of the function of sight as it operates in the bee. Certainly color and, evidently, smell form basic associations that produce what we probably must term instinctive reactions. If I remember correctly the shape of a cell in the honeycomb is a six-sided figure, and I believe the separate cells of the bee's eye also form a six-sided figure. Then there is our own occult reference to Venus as being the homeland of the bee; and the number six is, in many systems, associated with Venus. These same ideas of flight or motion are intimately connected with those Etherian beings who are evolving on the ray or power of six. Their entire civilization is founded upon the Sixth Idea or Principle.

"The idea of a sense giving us the ability to function intelligently is not such a strange notion after all. There is the case of the dog (which someone has called a smelling machine on legs). This creature seems unable to recognize people, animals and objects without the associations which, somehow, come to him through his sense of smell. And there are authentic cases of dogs going insane when they lost their ability to smell.

"Our human animals are often as strangely constituted. For example I discovered that many primitive tribes cannot recognize a picture of another human unless it is in profile. (At least this was so with my black and white shots). Even when I tried pointing out the features of a face, taken in their presence, they could not see it for what it was unless it was a profile shot. And how often does our own civilized sight fail us when we are unable to make out a picture until our eye, or consciousness, recognizes one part; then instantly the whole picture falls into place and we "see" it.

"Besides the five senses known to us, there are seven others used in Etheria. What they are, how they function, and to what purpose is a matter which, up to now, I have been unable to explain to anyone. I know. But I cannot explain how or why I know, simply because we have no standard of ideas or objects that I can use for comparisons.

"These twelve sense-principles are connected with twelve vibrations in twelve zones of thought and substance in Etheria (or that part of the etheric planes which are related to our system), and there are twelve Gods or Authorities Who are somewhat like our planetary logoi. In other systems, I am told, there may be as many as forty-eight, or 148 vibrations, principles, senses, and Gods. The Pleiades, for example, has 144 vibrations, etc.

"To return to the idea of density, I was instructed to begin expanding my consciousness by "densifying" my body. This was to be achieved by 'intensifying' my senses and thus causing my awareness of objective forms to be amplified, or centered, as They called it. This was not a completely new practice for me, since off and on during the years of my residence in the Orient I had dabbled with Patanjali's system of mental control. How often had I tried to control "the modifications of the thinking principle" as he called it, Lord above! and failed. But this Yogi system was designed to eliminate all thought from the mind after learning the various characteristics of mental activity. There was certainly no "densifying" in those famous sutras of the medieval mystic, and all emotion was to be ruthlessly crushed and annihilated.

"The force we call 'emotion' is understood by Etherians, but it is used in a much different manner than most earthlings ever dream it could be used. It is divided into twelve aspects (and these in turn have twelve divisions, making 144 elements all told. And again I perhaps should point out, twelve only insofar as our solar system is concerned.) These, for lack of any other words, I will call The Twelve Chemicals and their combinations, since they are concerned with substance--having of course, atomic foundations. I am here reminded of Paracelsus who, apparently in jest, spoke of salt, sulphur, gold, silver, etc., as actual beings, even personages.

"The Etherian technique for achieving 'immortality' (relative, of course) is reasonably simple in the early lessons, and possibly quite enjoyable to some since it has to do with eating and drinking and use, generally, of all our five senses. (A treatise upon the senses can now easily be written; and not one in a million suspect the enormous significance of these "senses".)

"That which ye do, with your WHOLE heart, WHOLE strength, WHOLE MIND and SOUL, shall ye do it." From the Bible, in case one hasn't read it recently. In these words, supposedly uttered for the first time by the Man of Galilee, lies the secret of the incredible power and consciousness of the Etheric Races.

"Briefly, my instruction on this point was to taste every bite of food as though my future life depended upon recognizing all of the separate flavors contained in the food.-Smell, the same way. - Look, see, in the same attitude. Then, listen and hear with the same intense concentration of a gossip with his ear at the keyhole. It sounds very simple. But try it! Try only hearing the television and not see it, even though you are looking at it. Or taste and not smell. There will be fools aplenty who will promptly declare their ability to do these things readily. But I am referring to an absorption in sense-awareness that is something few human beings have ever approached.

"Let me refer you to Gurdjieff, that strange and mysterious man (and one greatly maligned) who attracted so many unusual people to his college at Fontainebleau. He was famous for his ability to consume tons of food, and not get unusually fat. His office was lined with shelves crammed full of exotic and peculiar delicacies which he nibbled on constantly. His ability to analyze substances by their taste and smell was phenomenal. He used to say he could smell a person five miles away. Asleep, his body could be lifted by two men; awake, a dozen of us could not budge him. To this day I carry a scar on my left wrist, the result of his hand being laid casually over mine. The pressure, inert weight, was so great it burst the tissues and skin of my left wrist. I have seen Gurdjieff crash through benches and chairs that would surely have supported the weight of an elephant. This used to infuriate him, since almost always he was lost in thought as he sat down, automatically.

"Gurdjieff was loved and feared and hated, often by the same student. And the violently unusual nature of his instructions has confused many of his students and friends and "interpreters". But, with some understanding of the Etheric system of mental and emotional intensification through the senses, one is able to gain a much more lucid comprehension of the work of some of his students, for example: Katherine Mansfield.

"I gather that the usual experience of an earth person, following these methods of increasing the density of his consciousness, is to first put on weight. This becomes more and more solid, and may remain so; but eventually there should come a transformation in which the body retains the heaviness, but loses the appearance of great bulk. (There are thousands of fat yogis!)

"Not being particularly interested in foods, my exercises were based on the faculty of sight and sound. I have gone through, as you may recall, some very painful experiences with my eyes, losing the sight of physical objects almost entirely at times. But today my vision is phenomenal. I can read newsprint at fifty feet if I have just eaten, or am in pain, or am in some way highly aware of my body. Intense emotion promptly increases all of my sense-faculties, and also is now adding a little to my bodily weight.

"Fortunately in my youth I was given a substantial training in music, and today I am able to touch harmonic combinations that I could never have understood otherwise. In perhaps eight out of ten times I can get absolute pitch. These are but items that indicate the results of my Etheric training.

"The feeling of heaviness or great density is, I think, a more or less common experience with certain meditative systems. I have frequently had the sensation of turning into solid stone when I was concentrating intensely; my body seemed to have become like lead. It never occurred to me to weigh myself, and in those times when a teacher was available he dismissed my questions by saying that it was a normal reaction of prana. But in this, like so many other points, the yogis miss the tremendous significance of meditative forces.

"One evening at Shanti Niketan, Tagore's college in Bolpur, a group of us were cooling off on the porch when a yogin, a woman, approached and offered to demonstrate her powers. A heavy cart stood near the steps and it held several trunks and many pieces of luggage. This woman took a sharp iron rod, used by the gardner, and placed it against her forehead with the point just between her eyes. She plucked a marigold (highly odoriferous flower) and smelled it with a dreamy look in her eyes. Then putting the blunt end of the metal rod against the cart she began to push it over the rough mud road. After shoving this heavy wagon with the point of the metal against her head about twenty feet, she stopped and bowed to us. Then, abruptly, she dropped down on the grass, saying that her head was very heavy. One of the students, more out of curiosity than compassion, went down and laid his hand on her head. "It is very cold!" he exclaimed in astonishment, for the weather was almost unbearably hot. "Or maybe it is very hot," countered another student, "its hard to discern heat from cold." And immediately there ensued a typical Hindu pow-wow in which the poor woman was felt, pinched, pulled and pummeled in order to discover just exactly what her symptoms were. The majority agreed that her head was very heavy and very cold. (Most yogic techniques send great streams of blood to the head and cause much heat, and a sense of lightness and fainting.) I am sure smelling the flower had much to do with intensifying or solidifying the membrane of her forehead."

"I have much more to tell than I could tell in this first public approach to the tremendous matter of the Space-People. As the weeks pass I hope to be able to get more chapters ready and in printed form of some kind, but when I cannot say. What I have done here had to be done between daily lectures, classes, consultations, phones, and the eternal business of just living, feeding, and if possible resting a bit

It is an old, old story, this eternal fear mankind has always had of that which it does not understand. And what mankind does not understand, it rejects. We will believe only that which we want to believe - but events are very close at hand which will compel us to accept certain new and strange things whether we wish to believe them or not . . .

"The modern, highly successful New Thought groups are today, in every sense, as intolerant and bigoted and orthodox as ever were the old-fashioned Churches. In the words of one of their leaders "We have become even more orthodox than the churches of old; we have become more bitter, hostile, intolerant and vicious than Nero himself". . .

"If you are not informed of the situation which has seriously concerned our government officials, I assure you that for your own personal good you should immediately learn all you can about this very crucial and serious development - unquestionably the most important matter to come before the attention of our humanity in all recorded history...

"The flying saucers are real, they are truth-in-action. The skies are literally teeming with beings from other worlds; swarming with instruments and machines carrying living beings as real and vital as ourselves (and in some cases a thousand times more vital). And we must prepare to meet them at once! ...

"I wish to go on record as saying that at this moment responsible men and women in positions of governmental authority are often near to nervous collapse with the terrible knowledge which they are endeavoring, for good reasons to withhold from the public ... but they do not know WHY these strange creatures in their strange craft are here - nor what they plan to do to our earth. Nor does anyone else -- unless they are willing to listen to sources of information which are of a spiritual nature" (i.e., mental, psychic, metaphysical, not religionistic in the usual sense of that word. ML). Yet many students of metaphysics, and many mediums, mystics, and clairvoyants refuse to listen, as well as the multitude who will not consider any happenings which may be personally unpleasant to them.

..."Science tells us another interesting thing - that we are moving through a state of matter as dense as steel or granite or concrete - yet we know nothing of it. Right now you are looking at this page through a substance more solid than metal ... Many of the thinkers who are aware of this are also aware of the Saucer Beings and accept their presence.

... (Encounter with one of the Higher Etherians): "This Being bore but slight resemblance to a human man. A single, solitary eye blazed in his forehead. It pierced me to the quick of my soul. The 'eye' was more than an eye. It is the one thing I remember most clearly about this astonishing personage from worlds beyond our own, This Eye, which seemed almost a composit brain in itself, was perfectly round and divided into hundreds, perhaps thousands of facets or surfaces, somewhat like a multicolored jewel. Surrounding this eye, which rested in the center of a large forehead, beautifully shaped and bordered with a kind of hair which looked more like fine metallic wires than ordinary hair, was a vivid circle of delicately contrived muscles. These were automatic in their action, similar to the pupil of a cat's eye, expanding or contracting according to the requirements of the light. This Being stood easily twelve feet in height, yet the body was not as large as our standards of proportion would expect. He was slender, almost to the point of delicacy, yet for some reason I sensed that his weight was enormous. I had the impression that I was observing a man of granite or lead, rather than of flesh and blood . . . And in a manner I cannot try to explain here, I knew that he was the embodiment of the principles of Uranus, the planetary Power traditionally said to govern the Sign Aquarius and its cycles. He was the Aquarian-Uranian, the Power to Come."

(NOTE: The reader must keep his perspectives. Gerald Light is not intimating that occupants of aeroforms such as have landed and have been observed at close hand, are necessarily Beings of such magnificence. Or, whatever appearance they may assume in their own far habitations, they may take on what form and appearance they see fit for the meeting with earth people. Also, it is probable that these Etherian visitors include Beings of various types and races, and even that many of them walk our streets unrecognized - and have done so for decades and centuries past... Yet it is believed from of old time that the government of the Universe is Hierarchical, and the Great Ones exist and take cognizance of us. Never in human history (it is most likely) have generalizations and simplifications been more stupid and less wise. ML)

GEO-PHYSICAL SIGNS OF THE "NEW ERA"

by - Ralph M. Holland, BSRA
Electronics Engineer

Claims that the world is entering a new cosmic era may be verified by many strange things which seem to be happening to our earth. Facts on the subject are scarce. Scientists and government authorities are unwilling to admit that there is anything unusual. Any data which would indicate otherwise are rejected as "erroneous". But it is suggested that all BSR Associates keep their eyes and ears open for facts confirming the possible trends mentioned.

(1) There was a report several months ago, apparently quickly suppressed, that a scientist had detected an increase in the frequency (or vibratory rate) of the cosmic rays. This, if verified, would confirm the claim that our solar system is entering an area of higher vibrations, and that this earth and everything on it is gradually rising to a slightly higher plane. If this is true, it might explain the apparent increase in psychic phenomena. It may be that the general range of perception is higher, and that people can now see things which were beyond their reach before.

(2) When a hollow sphere, or approximate sphere, of electrical conducting material is rotated, it will create a magnetic field. A dynamo, or generator, works on this principle, its coils of wire forming an elongated hollow sphere. The earth acts in the same manner, as a natural generator. The focii of such a rotating field, known as the North and South Poles, will be on the axes of rotation. Connecting the two poles will be an infinite number of magnetic meridians or lines of force, running in a straight line from one pole to the other, above the surface of the object.

The earth, however, does not exactly follow the natural laws in all respects. Its North Magnetic Pole is officially listed as being off the northern coast of Canada, about 40 degrees south of the Geographic Pole, or axis of rotation. The magnetic meridians, instead of running straight from one pole to the other, meander widely. Variations of 45 degrees east or west of a straight line exist at some places. Both of these indicate some electrical unbalance in the earth, but no one ever seemed to do any official worrying about it. They merely recorded the variation at different places, and published tables of magnetic declinations so that surveyors could make the necessary corrections in their compass readings.

Five or six years ago one observer reported that the magnetic pole had shifted northward, and was then only about 20 degrees south of the geographic pole. A more recent report placed the magnetic pole only about 5 degrees away, and apparently still moving northward. About the same time, a few surveyor friends told me that the Declination Tables were no longer correct, and that they had to "shoot the sun" to get the correct direction. This would indicate that the magnetic meridians are also straightening out, and that the unknown disturbing force which previously existed is diminishing.

Just what will happen when, and if, the magnetic pole assumes its correct position is a matter of speculation. It might "lock in" very quietly and unnoticed. On the other hand, judging by the behavior of various man-made electrical apparatus, it might cause some heavy surges, resulting in severe electrical storms.

(3) The earth is quite definitely warming up, despite weather bureau statistics attempting to prove that everything is "normal". The winters here in Ohio are getting more "open" every year, and reports from other parts of the U.S. tell the same story. Glaciers in Alaska are receding further each year. Sub-tropical birds and animals are constantly extending their habitat northward. This trend would not seem so strange were it not for the fact that the world ought to be getting colder at the present time. The Babson Institute made a very extensive study of tree rings a few years back. They examined specimens from all over the world, including ancient structures and petrified wood. From these, they were able to reconstruct the weather record for the world for almost 2000 years back. They found that warm and cold weather came in several major and minor cycles, which by modifying each other, would produce still other cycles. By projecting these cycles, which have run true to form for 2000 years, the world should be well into a very cold period at the present time.

While most sensible observers now agree that the atomic bomb does have an effect on our weather, this effect seems to be a "short term" one, followed by a compensating reaction in the other direction. Our present warming trend is apparently due to some other external cause. This article does not attempt to arrive at any conclusions on this, or any of the other subjects introduced. It simply calls attention to the fact that many strange things seem to be happening, with the hope that other members may perhaps collect enough additional data to permit the postulation of some reasonable conclusions at a later date.

Concerning the northward shift of the warm zones and related matters, much data is to be found in Today's Revolution in Weather, W.J. Baxter ($1.00), and in the Lectures of Dr. John Eason (Monthly, $1.00). The M.P. Controls have asserted for years that there is an increase in cosmic ray radiation, seriously affecting our planet - and now say that the Sun is NOT diminishing in size and activity, but on the contrary is likely to flare into a super-Nova - an event which would probably destroy all planets within the solar system. Further events of even cosmic scope are involved in the "red shift", long known to astronomers and often referred to by the "Inner Circle" and in the BSR publications.

CORRESPONDENCE OF PATRICIA SHERRICK
(Reg. Director, BSRA)

. . . . Speaking of Clarion, have you ever come across the reference to it in Vol. iii, Secret Doctrine (the one published by Besant after H.P.B.'s death)? On page 562 & 563 is as follows: "There is now a planet, the "mystery planet", behind the moon, and it is gradually dying. Finally the time will come for it to send its principles to a new Laya Center, and there a new planet will form, to belong to another solar system, the present mystery planet then functioning as a moon to that new globe. This moon will have nothing to do with our earth, though it will come within our range of vision.

"I have wondered, if this be the case, if these people from Clarion could be inspecting Earth, with thought of future residence. The ones not in interplanetary nirvana could possibly be desirous of leaving their dying planet soon. I would be interested in receiving any information you might have regarding this.

"The 'great separation' or day of judgment could be coming up soon, rather than in the Fifth Round. From the book 'The Solar System' I find: 'The Fourth Round being especially destined to the development of the desire-principle in man, it is only in the next or Fifth Round that man is intended to devote himself to the unfolding of intellect. Owing, however, to the stimulus given by the Lords of the Flame, the intellect has already been considerably developed, and we are therefore a whole Round in advance of where we should have been but for Their help.

"It tells how after the 'great separation' the surroundings will be specially adapted for the rapid progress of the more advanced egos, and wholly unsuitable for entities at a much lower stage of evolution.

"This all ties in with the Bible, too. I find in St. Luke: Chapter 21; 'Nation shall rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom: And great earthquakes shall be in divers places, and famines, and pestilences; and fearful SIGHTS and GREAT SIGNS shall there be FROM HEAVEN. And there shall be signs in the sun, and in the moon, and in the stars; and upon the earth distress of nations, with perplexity; the sea and the waves roaring; men's hearts failing them for fear, and for looking after those things which are coming on the earth: for the POWERS OF THE HEAVENS SHALL BE SHAKEN. And then shall they see the SON OF MANCOMING IN A CLOUD WITH POWER AND GREAT GLORY. And when these things begin to come to pass, THEN LOOK UP, and LIFT UP YOUR HEADS, for your REDEMPTION draweth nigh."

(""I believe I mentioned in my last letter, the possibility that the man Jesus had joined THE MESSENGERS OF THE PLANETARY LOGOS, and the second coming, in that case, could be actual.")

"I suppose you have considered the possibility also of the Star of Bethlehem, being an 'aeroform'. St. Matthew: Chapter 2, Verse 9 --- 'When they had heard the King, they departed and lo, THE STAR, WHICH THEY SAW IN THE EAST, WENT BEFORE THEM, TILL IT CAME AND STOOD over where the young child was.'

"To go back to the 'judgment day', Dr. Brunton (who I feel to be an Adept) says that what is to take place has not been equalled since post-Atlantean times and that after this series of events have taken place and the climax of the violence ceases, materialism will sink exhausted and the mystics of the world will come forth to take their place. (This all points to the day of 'separation' predicted for the Fifth Round, but stepped up to this, the Fourth Round.)

"In 'The SolarSystem' I found something that ties in with your theory. 'Before our solar system came into existence there existed the ultimate root-matter, the substance out of which will be fashioned every type of matter of which we have any knowledge. This root-matter is what scientists call the ether of space, and what has been described in Occult Chemistry under the name of koilon (Greek Koilos, hollow).

"This must not, of course, be confused with the etheric matter which composes the finer part of our physical world.

"To every physical sense, the space occupied by koilon appears empty: yet in reality this ether is far denser than anything of which we can conceive. Professor Osborne Reynolds, the originator of the celebrated theory, which agrees with occult investigation, defines its density as being 10,000 times greater than that of water, and its mean pressure as 750,000 tons to the square inch".

(Excerpts from correspondence of above Associate, Patricia Sherrick:)
 -----"December 10, 1953 -- 6:30 P.M. on, until 1:00 A.M., I saw many objects which I think were 'Saucers' in the sky. My husband, mother and daughter also viewed them. About 9:00 o'clock a group flying in a V - formation went over, the rate of speed was faster than any jet, and there seemed to be at least twenty-four in the group. The solo 'Discs' seem to begin cruising about, around 6:45 P.M., for I have seen them several times, pass about that time. Perhaps they become more visible after it has grown dark, otherwise I would see them before that time. It appears that they have two yellowish lights and two red lights that seem to flicker. When they move they have absolutely no sound; when they move rapidly they appear greenish in color. I have only seen one over Columbus up until December 9th, but December 10th I must have viewed at least fifty.

"Lockbourne Air Base is situated near Columbus; they have recently gotten in cameras that are capable of photographing them. This could have something to do with their appearance in such numbers."

"Have you ever read the book 'A Dweller On Two Planets'? The last few pages of it could most definitely be connected with what is to come soon. On page 417 it reads: '.....But as the Poseid age was stricken, this one must also be which has just passed. Shall America, the Glorious, together with the rest of the world, meet similar woe? Alas, worse, though not by water but by fire. Shall all be wiped out of existence, leaving a planet in ruins? Unto the end of full obedience and the coming into harmony with divine law shall the lash be applied; words may not portray the scenes. This is the Message of the End of the Age.'

'The day of vengeance is in mine heart, and the year of my redeemed is come nigh'.--Isaiah. 'Behold, the day....that burneth as an oven.' ---Malachi.

'The Hour hath struck. And yet in all of this there is no mystery, no supernatural penalty, no capricious infliction by an offended personal God, and nothing of 'Man's necessity, God's opportunity". It is all of man's own doing. He hath wandered from the Way, and hath for the God-nature in him, which he should have revered and nourished, substituted worship of Self and of Mammon; hath cast out Love, and placed violence, lust, greed, and all the riotous animalism in him in command of his life. Man is his own judge and executioner, etc.". . . .

(to continue from correspondence of Assoc. Patricia Sherrick: --)

"I wish to quote now from 'The Solar System' by Arthur Powell - p.96-) 'Just as every general officer has, quite apart from the regular officers who hold various commands under him, a special set of officers who form his staff, whose duty it is to be in personal attendance upon him, and to be ready at any moment to do anything that he may require, or to fill any vacancy that may occur, so the Solar Logos also has His staff---a number of Adepts who are not in the service of any particular Chain, yet are ever prepared to be sent to the aid of any who need assistance. Members of the staff thus give themselves to the immediate service of the Logos, to be used by Him in any part of the Solar System, His servants and MESSENGERS, living but to carry out His will and to do His work over the whole System which He rules.

'To join the staff is one of the seven possibilities open to man who has "Reached the further shore". It seems to be considered a very hard path, perhaps the greatest sacrifice open to the Adept, and is therefore regarded as carrying with it great distinction.

'A member of the General Staff has no physical body, but makes one for himself by Kriyashakti ---the 'power to make'---of the matter of the globe to which he is sent. The Staff contains beings at very different levels, from that of Arhatship upwards'.

"Regarding Release "12-A-52"- Comments by the Mark Probert Controls-- where Natalli says: 'With proper instruments you can cross the wave lines at the high point of the wave. All waves are moving in curved lines. When you do this, you can move a ship or any object in space at the speed of light, or at any other speed desired, greater or less.' ---- This had something to do with the dream I had in which I seemed to know so much about this instrument called the 'declachron' ----It also had to do with what The Secret Doctrine calls the LAYA centers. I believe these Laya centers could be the high points referred to, and this declachron (could be) the instrument that is capable of measuring for Laya centers. (I could be entirely wrong, of course.) -- Perhaps you could ask Natalli.

"Page 203 Adyar edition "The Secret Doctrine" --- I find: '..... A 'neutral center' is, in one aspect, the limiting point of any given set of senses. Thus, imagine two consecutive planes of matter; each of these corresponding to an appropriate set of perceptive organs. We are forced to admit that between these two planes of matter an incessant circulation takes place; and if we follow the atoms and molecules of, say, the lower in their transformation upwards, they will come to a point where they pass altogether beyond the range of the faculties we are using on the lower plane. In fact, for us the matter of the lower plane there vanishes from our perception --- or rather, it passes on to the higher plane, and the state of matter corresponding to such a point of transition must certainly possess special, and not readily discoverable, properties.'

"These neutral zones are the Laya centers. This could be the key to the fourth dimension. Going back to the point from which the line of the first dimension is formed the point could become the (laya center). Of course this is just an idea. I am only scratching the surface of occultism."

CORRESPONDENCE OF ROLF TELANO - THE FLYING DISCS.

(Note: "Rolf Telano" is an electronics engineer resident in the Middle West. He has long had personal contacts of a psychic nature but has never publicised them except through BSR publications and under a pseudonym. A brochure by him, under our title "Release 1-B-52," was published in mimeo. in January 1952, and awakened much interest by its detailed description of the types of aeroforms used by the Nors, or planetary Guardians. We believe that the following excerpts, from a recent letter by R.T., are of equal importance. -ml).

Rolf Telano ... This is partially in reply to your letter concern - to BSRA Di- ing the proposed booklet about the aeroforms, and rector M.L. the same cautions apply here as in the case of the material printed by you in 1-B-52. That is: any statement must necessarily be incomplete and over-simplified, since the possible exceptions are without number. What has been attempted is to present a reasonably correct typical picture. The descriptions of the craft have been limited (with the exception of the circular lunar fliers) to the craft used by the Nors. Since they are the assigned Watchers or Guardians at the present time, their craft are the most numerous and the nearest typical. However, there are countless other varieties of other craft which come here occasionally, for various reasons. If their intent is not detrimental to the people of this planet or the general welfare of the whole, they are permitted to come here and freely carry out their plans.

I fear that I have nothing of special importance to add at this time, but I do have a description of the "jet engine" used in certain varieties of these craft, which you may use if you see fit, though perhaps it is too technical to be of general interest. It can be released without reservation - for the reason that our planetary scientists cannot duplicate either the ray or the material from which the reactor is made.

To explain how the reactor is made, I shall have to begin by pointing out, that by subjecting any material to an external vibratory force (or ray) of the right frequency, the cohesive properties of the atoms are temporarily broken down - thus converting the material into pure energy. This energy can be transported to any distant point and allowed to "rematerialize" in its original pattern, in which case you have a "teleport". Or it can be shorted out to ground, in which case you have a very destructive weapon - a Dis Ray. Or it can be 'packed in' to some other material, and allowed to rematerialize in the form of the "pattern object" - thus producing a material of any density and any desired physical or chemical properties. The "reactor" is made by this method. A pattern is first made of some easily worked material & the energy of other materials is then packed into it until the desired properties have been obtained. Obviously, due to possible uses of this technique for evil purposes, it is not likely to be taught to Earthlings for some time to come.

Some may ask why they use such a crude method of driving their craft if they could be driven by properly applied thought energy -- as they can be. Perhaps this could best be answered by asking why the average American will jump into his car and drive a block to the store when he could walk quite easily -- in other words, mere habit. There are some ancient races which make a fad, in fact, almost a cult, of doing everything possible by mental means alone. However, the Nors have usually gone in the opposite direction and use mechanism whenever possible. It is their belief that such a course leaves their mental powers more free to use when it is necessary -- that is, for things which cannot be done mechanically.

Drives of this type are used for comparatively short journeys, of course. For very long trips a form of teleportation would be used; either with or without inter-plane conversion, as required. Due to the very great speeds which these craft can attain, a trip to Luna, or Venus, or Mars is a comparatively short journey. They are not, as scientists here believe, limited to the speed of light. Some day, perhaps, some bright scientist will discover that when he eliminates the "mass" factor from his acceleration formula, he has eliminated all limitations, and an infinitesimal force will produce an infinite velocity.

Since communications, supposedly from the "Disc People" are now coming in from all angles, it might be well to add the caution to evaluate them carefully before accepting them at face value -- and to not take what is said too literally even if the source is believed to be reliable. You have noted that when they tell some one that they come "from Venus, it is not necessarily so. They may have come from Venus or Mars in their material form, since both are convenient and much used bases, as is also Luna. Or they may merely be giving an answer which they think will be acceptable to their listener, since it would get too involved to try to explain the real facts in detail. The same applies to many other things. They may be speaking the literal truth, or they may be merely giving what they believe to be the most nearly accurate analogy which would be understandable to their listeners.

There seems to be a great deal of confusion on all points, even when coming from very good sources. For example: the 'planet behind the moon, with conditions similar to those on earth'. There is definitely no planet behind the moon at the present time, either on the material or astral plane. There could be one on some intermediate plane, of course, but I have not run into any evidence in support of it. However, there are inhabited areas on the 'far side' of the moon which might be described as 'behind the moon' which we can see. Also, conditions are maintained, by artificial means, about the same as here. It seems likely that this is what the communicator meant. Since natural conditions on Luna are not favorable for physio-chemical life, none of the aboriginal inhabitants remain there. Several groups, however, maintain bases and other installations there, for various uses. These are usually fully manned, and although the crews are usually rotated at stated times, you would find quite a sizable 'population' at any time. The original Lunians are among the groups which came to earth in pre-historic times... But that is another story.

"FLYING DISC REACTOR, or "JET ENGINE".

Simplified cross-section.

A very small stream of fuel is injected into the reactor thru the port at the left. At the focal point it is acted upon by a disintegrator ray which breaks down the inherent cohesion of the atoms of the fuel. This causes a very great volumetric expansion and a very high pressure within the reactor. This escapes at the opposite end and gives the reaction thrust. The action is controlled both by the amount of fuel injected and the strength of the Dis ray. The fuel injection pressure must, of course, be higher than the pressure within the reactor, which however is very high in terms of "pounds per square inch". However, the fuel stream is microscopic in diameter, so that the actual power required is very small.

Actually, any material which can be reduced to a liquid or a sub-microscopic powder can be used as fuel. Certain elements, of the "heavy metals" group, are avoided due to the fact that they produce long-lived radioactive end products, thus resulting in atmospheric contamination. Air, compressed to a liquid, or water are the favorite fuels when available. Certain light metals are used when these cannot be secured. In actual practice, almost any fuel will produce a small amount of radioactive end products (due to impurities), but these are absorbed by adding a small amount of colloidal copper to the fuel. Mercury could be used, as described in Leslie's "Flying Saucers Have Landed", but would produce some very undesirable end products. However, this form of drive is very ancient, and mercury might very possibly have been used by some of the earlier (and less ethical) peoples. It has the advantage of being already a liquid, and has a very great inherent energy.

The reactor itself is made of a very dense material, by methods which scientists on this planet could not duplicate at the present time.

"TODAY AS IN THE DAYS OF NOAH"

Excerpts from letter of Harriet P. Foster
Reg. Director, BSRA.
re
the Warn Translation

I want to ask if you are familiar with Dr. Charles Lathrup Warn's translations of Genesis, Exodus, and the New Testament prophecies, from the original unpointed Chaldean scripts, before the Pharisees, or "Masorites" had made the first Hebrew translation - inserting the vowel signs they wished in order to make their own version hold water? And that's literally what they seem to have done in the case of "Noah and the Flood" - for Dr. Warn's new translation from the Codex Sinaiticus makes it quite clear that it was a "rain of fire" or atomic destruction that came from the heavens when Noah (or the Inca - High Priest, or Illumined One, as his translation has it) repaired to the Ark (High Altar) of the Temple (not a boat) to join with others of occult knowledge in the use of mantrams, prayers, affirmations etc., when the "harmonious vibrations" of Earth had been destroyed by the use of atomic power for destructive purposes.

Today as in the Days of Noah is the title of Dr. Warn's little book, and he makes a strong case for the the thesis that we are approaching a similar crisis and probable cataclysm as that described in Gen. 6 and 7 - rain of fire, 'quakes, etc. - if we persist in turning cosmic power against our fellow man. In that day, as in ours, there were "Great Teachers and Ambassadors from other worlds, who came to aid all men of goodwill in combating the poisonous vibrations and escaping from these conditions that shall come to the atmosphere around the earth" (new translation of Matt. 24:31) . . . Perhaps all this is familiar to you, but to me it is enthrallingly interesting and significant. Also significant at this time, it seems to me, is the fine article on the historicity of the Atlantis 'legend' in the October issue of The Atlantic (by Robert Graves). This corroborates the Warn translations, the writings of "Phylos" in "A Dweller on Two Planets", and much of the sayings of the Inner Circle (the Mark Probert Communicators).

H.P.F.

The RR Editor is sometimes asked, why we do not pay more attention to "prophetic material". Certainly there is wide-spread interest in the "shape of things to come", and this interest is natural and legitimate. And correct prediction of the future certainly takes place, and has taken place many times. This is an obvious inference even from the data of psychical research, and is incontestable on historical grounds. But all this evidence lies in retrospect. The errors of would-be prophets are innumerable, and have caused much distress in the world. The complicating factors are very diverse and cannot be detected in advance. So, altho here at BSR Hdqrs. we hear 'more bad news than anybody' (about the future), we do not publicise it very much - the ground is too shaky for more than tiptoe venturing. -- This does not depreciate the very interesting paragraphs above, from our former assistant editor, Harriet Foster. The Warn translations should be read, as well as the other material she mentions. For information, address her at 485-So.12th.St., San Jose, Calif.

THE CELLULAR COSMOGONY

Letter from Assoc.

Wayne Trubshaw. . . . It must be realized that Cellular Cosmogony has never been disproved (the book can be purchased for $1.00 from Guiding Star Publishing House, Estero, Lee County, Fla.). The opening to the inside of our planet is at the North Pole and has been explored.

There are 6-700 small planets called asteroids inside this earth, and these are inhabited. These come very close to the earth's inner surface at times, shutting off the sun in some cases, dropping fish, frogs and other matter from outside lakes and ponds (v. books of Charles Fort). There are different forms of human life inside these asteroids, and on some occasions due to a certain polarity some of these forms have materialized here, with no clothing and speaking no known language. Vice versa, humans have disappeared in thin air here and materialized in some asteroid. Visits are recorded here of very small forms and also giant forms.

Air travel is very advanced by the people of some of these asteroids. The machines used have chiefly two kinds of action. The air being similar to a solid in travel at high speeds, there is an auger-bit action for the long slender-shaped ships, and an eggbeater sort of action for the round shaped ones. The auger-bit shaped screws are in cylinder housings that pass end to end through the body. These vessels are powered by induction motors. This motor is known here but is suppressed. Its principle of action is that of crossing wires, like in long distance telephoning; this crossing of wires in a motor, the core one way and the shell another, sets up an influx polarity field and electricity flows in from the air with terrific force. Motors must have large outflow channels or a way to break the polarity field condition, or they will burn up. This has happened with experimenting inventors. The motor has to have a small starting motor and a direct current charging of its wires.

We live inside this planet but know little of what life exists here besides ourselves. Held-back information will be released soon. Be a little careful about using astronomical light year figures. Our so-called science of astronomy will be exploded. W.T.

(Mr. Wayne Trubshaw can be reached at Box 502, Rt. 1, Lake Stevens, Wash. The book referred to in para. 1 is interesting and suggestive & should be read - especially by those who disagree with it. ml.).

"Space-Man" Gossip - maybe correct: That the Visitor interviewed by Mr. Adamski on Nov. 20 last was a kind of "visiting tourist" and not one of the "Guardians", hence the speech difficulty (which presumably would not exist with a member of the latter class or status.) The Mark Probert Controls are not responsible for this comment, but it comes from a source much esteemed by the BSR Director.

MISCELLANEOUS:

WHAT IS SCIENTOLOGY? It can best be described as the science of "knowing how to know". It contains within it complete codification of the data on the anatomy of the Beingness of Man. It is concerned with increasing this beingness and is dedicated to making the "able more able."

Certain of its techniques are designed to increase the powers and awareness of individuals, enabling them to achieve goals heretofore envisioned, but seldom, if ever, reached through occultism, mysticism and other esoteric fields. These techniques may be used on an individual or group processing basis.

As a Roving Scientologist I am interested in meeting individuals or groups, or addressing already existent groups. I will be happy to answer questions, or lecture informally before any gathering, large or small. Address inquiries to
