The Vancouver Area Flying Saucer Club, (G.P.O. Box 720, Vancouver, B.C., Canada) have sent me a most interesting incident which allegedly took place on Lulu Island on February 24, 1958. It was witnessed by Grahame Langton, a boy of 12, and his account which they received by mail, follows.

Grahame Langton, 778 Montana Road, Richmond. Age: nearly 12. Time: approx. 9 p.m. Monday, Feb. 24/58. Weather conditions: Moonlight, slightly cloudy, stars visible.

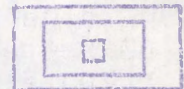

Upon returning from a Scout Meeting I noticed a bright light in the sky. This appeared to be coming from an object like a full moon which was situated in the South (the actual moon was in its first quarter and was in the West).

About 50 yards from my house, which is at the corner of Blundell and Montana, I noticed that the back garden appeared to be illuminated with a red glow as though a fire was burning there. I then proceeded up the drive at the front of the house and upon turning the corner at the rear of the garage, came face to face with an object.

This object appeared stationary, approximately three feet off the ground and was about ten feet in diameter, and approximately seven feet in height. It was whitish grey in color with a dark red centre light about three feet in diameter. This centre piece, although it was round, appeared to be in four sections. At the precise time that I turned the corner and saw the object, a car was going along the road and the red light appeared to be concentrated upon the car, following its progress along the road. At this point, the section of light directed upon the vehicle was brilliant, while the remainder of the centre piece remained a dull glow. I tried to creep past it to get into the back door, and kicked a stone on the path, whereupon the light shining on the road, immediately became dim and the section facing me became extremely bright. The light was so brilliant that I could hardly see. Then, the whole centre piece went dark, a few seconds elapsed and it became bright again and at that instant the balls on the ends of the projecting arms started to buzz in a signal-like fashion. These balls appeared to have lines on them. Then with a swish which seemed to come from the funnel like piece, it took off at a slightly tilted angle. I watched it approach the moon-like object in the sky, then the red glow faded and the moon-like object also seemed to diminish.

During the afternoon of Monday 24th February, when walking across the garden, I noticed a funny buzzing sound on the ground. At first I thought it was an insect but the AREA OF GROUND AFFECTED was too large. The day after, Tuesday, I told my parents about this and we wondered if it was in any connected with the episode which occurred later. This object appeared to be right over the section of ground where this sound came from, and the buzzing seemed to be identical. The windows in the outer circle of this object seemed to be in square sections.

On the evening of Tuesday, Feb. 25th, an R.C.M.P. Constable paid an unofficial visit to our house and I related my story to him and he said he could find no reason to disbelieve my story and yet he could not give any explanation, also later that evening my mother and dad told a gentleman from the R.C.A.F. who was visiting here, my story. He agreed without doubt, that I had told the truth.

Following receipt of the above letter two members of the Executive of the Club visited the Langton home on Mar. 14th and interviewed Grahame. Their impression was that the boy was telling the truth, as, if he had been put up to it, it would have been extremely difficult for him to have related as much detail as he did.

In the July-August issue of FLYING

SAUCER REVIEW, (1 Doughty St., London, W.C.1., England - $3.75 annually) an account is given about a Mr. Pedro Zilli and Joao Ernani who both saw some saucers at a distance of about 200 metres. But before discovering the machines, both had heard a low buzzing to which they paid no attention, because at the time they had thought it was caused by the wind. Later on, they found out that other people had seen the discs while some only heard the strange buzzing in the air.

And from North Burnaby, British Columbia, comes this report which was sent into the Vancouver Area Flying Saucer Club. A club member wrote in asking whether what he had seen was the same UFO that was in Grahame Langton's backyard. "I found the April report especially interesting because the incident happened so near home. But it was several days after the report came before I suddenly realized that perhaps I had shared the viewing...I was drawing the curtains across the living room window when I noticed what appeared to be the full moon in the south. It looked very bright and metallic and seemed to hang out from the sky a long way, and it was unusually low. It was so brilliant I stood still to watch and admire it. As I watched I was astonished to see a streaky cloud pass behind it and come out the other side. This did amaze me so I stayed to watch other clouds come up and do the same thing. I then went out of the front door and saw the same thing happen from the top step. Even then I did not connect what I saw with the flying saucers. If I had done so I would have watched longer, of course. I puzzled about it a lot for the next few days but was on the wrong track figuring I had seen some strange optical illusion. It was several days after I had received your bulletin that what I had seen suddenly flashed across my mind...that it was not the real moon at all.

In reply to an ad requesting information regarding recent landings in the Galt area, Homer Schaefer, area reporter for this bulletin received the following reply. "I live on the East side of Galt. I didn't see a flying saucer land in March, but I'll tell you what I did see. Around the middle of March, (I'm sure it was a Friday night) I saw a strange object real low in the sky, around 10 p.m. It was almost round in shape and was a real bright color. It never moved an inch until about 11.P.M. Then it took off out of sight."

On Saturday April 12, the Kitchener-Record mentioned that Sputnik might pass over Kitchener on its last round before falling to Earth. Homer Schaefer was in the house at the time, but something drew him to the window to have another look. Sure enough, he saw a small speck in the sky to the west with a short vapor trail. He rushed out with his 20X binoculars and called his sister Stella to come and see it too. As it came closer, Homer said, "I noticed two small vapor trails, one just ahead of the other, perhaps a mile or so. I recognized it as the nose cone or rocket carrier. They were both travelling at the same steady speed so that we could observe them for about seven minutes until they were out of sight." Phoning the Kitchener-Record he got no answer, so he phoned the local television station, but they were not the least bit interested. (Of interest to me were the two lights following Sputnik - were these two scout ships recording the final hours of the artificial satellite? - G.D.)

Nov. 6/57 - A week ago Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. George Himes, son Norman and Miss Donna Hunter were motoring east on Eagle Street, Preston at 5.p.m., returning to Galt. Approaching the Drive-In Theatre, Norman said, "Look dad, what's that?" All watched a weird circular object flashing across the heavens. George said it was the size of a soccer ball and was a pinkish ball of fire as it streaked across the heavens high in the sky. It was visible for 2 to 3 minutes. Then it rocketed into a cloud bank and vanished. It travelled in a southerly direction. It was perfectly round and faster than any plane could go. It was said that Galt radio and T.V. enthusiasts at that time were receiving strange, unexplainable signals on their sets.

Mrs. Ellen Fairclough, 1st woman to hold a federal cabinet post in Canada, said she believes her sex may be the 1st to pilot spaceships. She agreed with Willy Ley, who predicted that women (because of size and adaptability) may get the nod ahead of men when the age of spaceships arrives.

BOYS BUZZED BY SAUCER - as told to Jack Stephens. While going to a friend's house on the evening of June 29, Richard Gammon, 16, of Galt, and a friend experienced an unusual event. He told me he and his friend were going to the show, apparently his friend lived out in the country as they were going into Galt on the West River Road. As told to Jack by Richard, he saw a bright light in the sky to the north. He estimated it to be about 3000 feet up. It was passing over the river when it stopped and hovered over the river for a few minutes and then with great speed came straight toward them, passed over their heads at about twelve feet high, toward the bush. They watched it go over a hill and out of sight. He said the ship was about 10 feet in height and about 35 feet in diameter. It had colorful lights all around the outer edge and a very bright top light.

SENT INTO SPACE - CLAIM RUSSIAN DEAD

(By Walter Skol) Soviet scientists fired a man into space but he did not survive the trip, a well-known Canadian scientist, who does not want to be identified, has revealed. He said the "guinea pig" in the experiment evidently was a volunteer and the firing took place several months ago. His information was that the man was housed in the nose cone of an intermediate range ballistic missile (1500 mile range). While the volunteer evidently survived the rocket's tremendous acceleration at take-off, he died in the tremendous heat encountered on the missile's re-entry. The scientist said the volunteer must have been housed in a refrigerated capsule within the nose cone but that the cooling system could not offset the more than 3,000 degree temperature generated by the nose returning into the atmosphere. (Toronto Daily Star - July)

April 14/58 - (CP) A flaming object, about the size of a shotgun shell, was reported to have fallen last night on the land of farmer Claude Smith, of North Hatley, Quebec, 85 miles east of Montreal. Mayor Clifford Reed of N. Hatley said R.C.M.P. officers took the object which fell at 7.45 p.m. EST and they told Smith that it would be sent to R.C.M.P. laboratories for examination in Ottawa. There was speculation it might be part of Sputnik II.

When Central Intelligence heard that Russia had a cement shortage they started spying around. The intelligence agents discovered that the Russians have been building underground missile-launching platforms all over the Soviet Union. Hundreds of these platforms have been built in the last few months which is why there's a cement shortage. Boiled down into cold facts, it means that the Reds are prepared to launch H-Bomb missiles from beneath the ground. The platforms cannot be spotted from the air. Russia, therefore, could agree to disarm and still keep secret these small bases that could be used for defense or offense. (National Enquirer)

April 14/58 - Del Krauel, 201 East Ave., Kitchener, Ontario, said he saw a "silvery, sparkling object about 10 times the size of a star" in the sky east of his home last night about 10 p.m. He watched it until it disappeared, leaving a "halo" in its place. This too vanished a little later.

April 14/58 - George Tomesch, 55 Ellis Ave., Kitchener, Ont., noticed a strange light in the sky as he was entering Galt on Hwy. 7 & 8 en route to Kitchener from Hamilton. He observed it again near Freeport. He said it was a white light and "pulsating." His wife also noticed it.

OWEN SOUND (CP) An explosion heard Sunday at Wiarton, April 13, 13 miles N.W. of here, on Georgian Bay, may have been caused by an aircraft breaking the sound barrier, authorities here said today. Residents reported a sharp blast accompanied by a white puff of smoke high in the sky east of the town and followed by a shock wave which rattled windows. No planes were visible but it is believed the plane could have been too high to be seen. There was no confirmation by the RCAF. A spokesman at RCAF Training Command, Trenton, said no airforce planes had been reported missing. The University of Toronto's David Dunlap Observatory said it wasn't Sputnik II's disintegration. An official said the explosion may have been a meteor or fireball.

Mr. & Mrs. W. Evans of Waterloo, saw a "ball of fire" in the sky last night (Apr. 13) They watched it for 2 minutes from 9.55 to 9.57 before it disappeared. (The Kitchener-Record, April 14/58)

AIR PHENOMENON APPEARS AGAIN

Almost a year ago, a strange and curious sight was observed by a number of people at Cranbrook who was startled late one night on seeing a large, brightly lighted object speeding thru the sky and coming to a sudden halt above Mount Baker for about an hour and then disappearing.

Several days later a similar object was sighted by the Cival Air Patrol at Kalispell and created a great deal of excitement among the scores who witnessed the sight there. Five Starfire jet interceptors were sent at that time to sight the object but were thwarted by low clouds.

A similar incident occurred in Fernie, one day last week when Percy Starr accompanied by his son Duane, and Ed Gotzy sighted an identical object crossing the valley beyond Hosmer.

Mr. Starr said he at first thought that what he saw was a large butterfly outside the car window but suddenly realized that it was a large object in the air some miles distant. The three watched the object disappear behind Hosmer Mountain and reappear seconds later to the west of the mountain where it hovered for several seconds before rising directly upwards at terrific speed and disappearing from view. The phenomenon as described by those who witnessed it was identical both as to appearance and action to the objects observed last year, which are now admitted by scientists and governments to be more than mere figments of imagination.

From information gained from witnesses in many parts of the world the term "flying saucer" aptly describes the objects except that the "saucer" flies upside down and has been estimated to be about the size of a small automobile. OOOPS! - In the Mar. issue of this bulletin I reprinted an article about George King, editor of Cosmic Voice. The article said in part that Mr. King was a London doorman. In a letter received from Mr. King he says, "I am not now nor have I ever been a "London doorman". "Two yrs. ago I did work in an office of a large Oil Company and since that time I have been wholly employed as Editor of Cosmic Voice."

IT'S DISAPPEARING LAWN HOSE TIME AGAIN!

Have you checked your garden hose lately? It's out in the back garden, you say, where you left it last night. Don't make any bets on it because it's that time of year again. Disappearing hose time. Nobody knows for sure when it all started but every spring for the past several years there have been reports of perfectly tame garden hoses suddenly running amuck and burrowing their way into Mother Earth.

Stan Senkrow, of Etobicoke (suburb of Toronto) - G.D.) reported the first case so far this year.

His boys, Russ and Larry, left the hose running in the garden for a minute or two. When they came back they caught it in the act of tunnelling into the ground. The boys pulled at it, so did their mother and so did Stan but they finally had to cut it to keep it all from disappearing. Next day, Mr. Senkrow and a neighbor tried to salvage the 15 feet of hose still buried in the ground but they couldn't budge it.

Some blame leprechauns and gremlins, others of a more scientific bent explain it away in terms of vacuum, suction and physics. But whatever it is the end result is the same. Comes the dawn the hose on the lawn is gone.

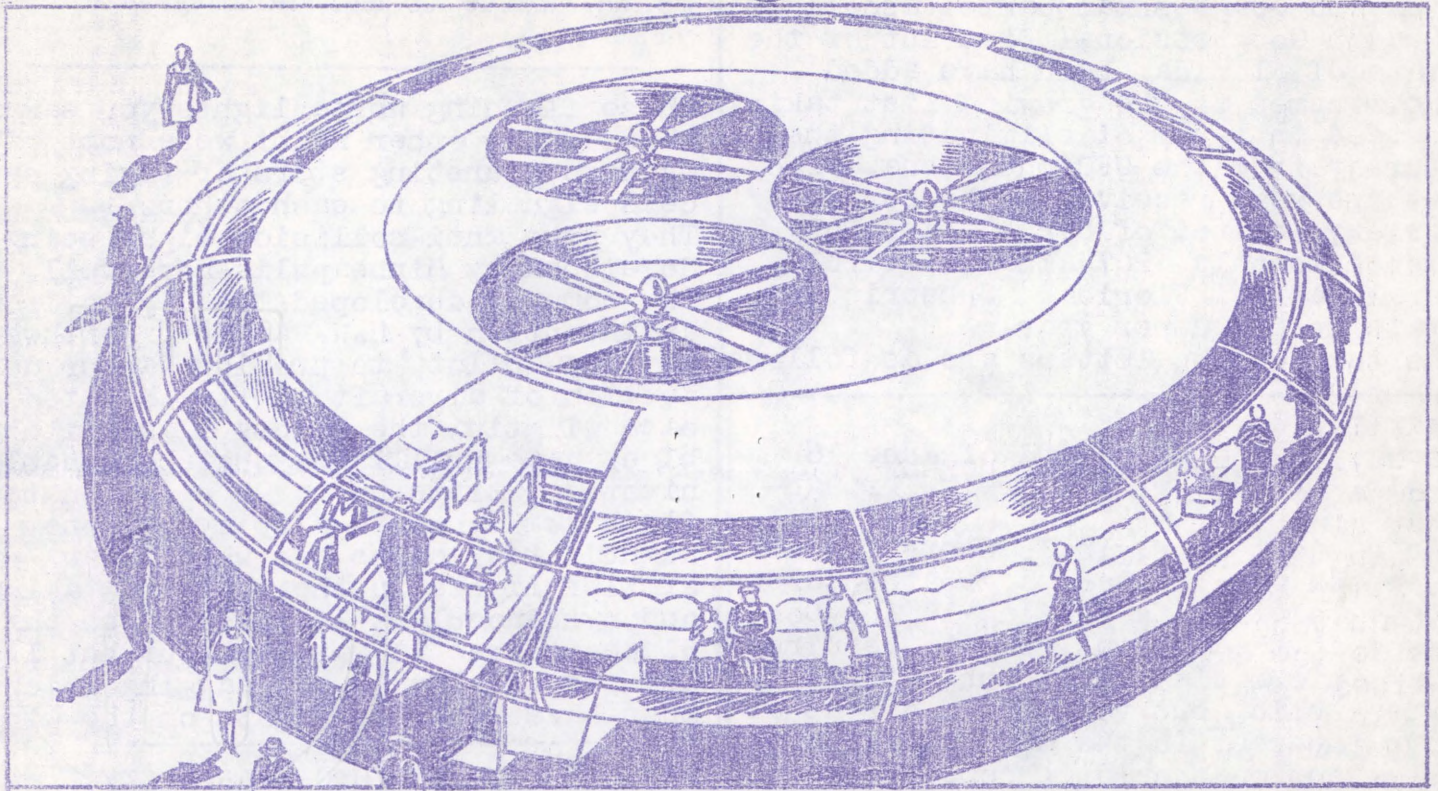

People who study such things as disappearing hoses say it's all very simple. The jet of water from the hose digs a little hole in the ground. The hose slips into the hole and water keeps hollowing out a space in front of it in the earth. Most of the water is absorbed into the ground and leaves a partial vacuum around the nozzle. The result: suction which pulls the hose deeper into the hole as it draws outside air into the vacuum. It's still easier to blame it on the gremlins. (By Mike Steers, The Telegram, June 5/58)

1,000-Passenger Saucer?

Flying Saucers may be brought from the fancy of space speculation to the facts of passenger craft. A British report says the U.K. government is studying a plan to build 1,000 passenger saucers. This is designer George F. Miller's (redrawn by your editor -G.D.) conception of a saucer as an air-bus to whisk commuters to work at 175 m.p.h.

LONDON - (Reuters) - The British Gov't. is financing the study of a plan to build "flying saucers" capable of carrying 1,000 passengers, the London Daily Mail says. It adds that the idea of the inventor, "whose name is being kept secret," would open up the prospect of a real flying saucer - a machine which could weigh as much as a cargo ship yet fly just off the ground as fast as an airliner. It would take off and land on water.

"The inventor's basic discovery, which makes government scientists believe that flying ships up to 15,000 tons are feasible, is being kept a close secret.

"But it is believed that the aero-liner is supported during takeoff by downward thrusting jets which raise it out of the water.

"As it gathers forward speed it skims over the surface, at heights no more than 50 feet, riding on the high-pressure cushion of air built up between its flat underside and the sea.

"In theory the machine could also work on land. But at present it is only envisaged as a sea-cruising vessel which could carry a great weight of cargo between the world's capitals at high speed and low costs.

"The only bar to land operation, even following prepared paths such as railway tracks, are hills and high structures which would interrupt its path.

Mr. X, the inventor, stumbled on his discovery while working on the theory of speedboat and hydroplane hulls. He realized that if an object could be lifted on frictionless wheels of air it opened up an entirely new concept of travel.

"He built a six-foot long model and it worked." (Toronto Telegram -May 21/58)

U.S. SENATOR & CONGRESSMAN FAVORS
LIFTING VEIL OF SECRECY!

Senator Smathers of the State of Florida and Congressman Dante Fascell of the 4th Congressional District of the State of Florida, both have added their names to the growing list taking a stand in favor of eliminating the secrecy from the UFO phenomena. Two letters were received by Norbert F. Gariety, editor of S.P.A.C.E., Published monthly, 267 Alhambra Circle, Coral Gables, Florida. Subscription rate is $3.00 per year. The text of the letters are as follows:

Dear Mr. Gariety:

Thank you for your card of June 16 urging my support of "Break-Through-Day."

The subject of flying saucers is one in which we all share a great interest. No legislation is pending in the Congress at the present time to require that information on the subject be made public, but you may be sure that your interest in the matter will have my attention should it come before the Senate.

With best wishes, I am,

Sincerely,

George Smathers
(Signed)
United States Senator

Dear Mr. Gariety:

As a member of the Government Information Subcommittee for the past 3 years, I have been fighting vigorously for an end to federal censorship of information concerning our government that the American people have every right to know.

If there is any factual truth known concerning this subject, it should be made available to the public.

Thanks for contacting me.

Sincerely yours,

Dante B. Fascell (Signed)

Member of Congress

Quoting from a previous letter Mr. Smathers says "I am very much opposed to secrecy in government except in those instances involving our national security and defense. The public should have knowledge of all facts affecting the government."

May I add that all those wishing to receive an excellent publication every month, write to Mr. Gariety.

Those flashing white lights you saw in the sky the other night were not meteors, bursting stars or flying saucers signaling to each other. They were anti-collision lights being developed by Minneapolis-Honeywell. The company developed the lights from an invention by H.W. Atkins, Northwest Airlines pilot, to provide faster detection of aircraft aloft. Mounted on each wingtip, the lights flash with blue-white brilliance that has enabled night sightings up to 90 miles on test flights. I had to stop my car one night a few months ago when I saw similar lights in the sky, and taking out my binoculars I couldn't see the plane because it was dark out but I did see the lights zig-zagging which must have been the lights on the wingtips.

STRANGE OBJECT PLUNGES FROM SKY

Dawson Creek, B.C. (CP) - A search is underway in north-eastern British Columbia for an unidentified object seen falling from the sky near Charlie Lake 40 miles north of here, early Sunday. (Prince George Citizen - March 3/58)

RED FLARE SEEN OVER LAKE HURON

A red flare early this morning was believed mistakenly identified as a distress signal from a vessel. A report from an Ontario Provincial Police cruiser patrolling near Grand Bend at 1 a.m. brought a U.S. Coast Guard crew from Port Huron to investigate the sighting. The OPP officer, reporting by radio to headquarters, said he saw the flare arch into the sky west of Grand Bend leaving a trail of red light then plunging into the water. The Orderly officer Lieut. W.A. Smith of Camp Ipperwash said the flare did not come from the army camp. No manoeuvres were carried out at the time. In addition, he stated, the range of the army red flares is not great enough to carry over Lake Huron. (Sarnia Observer - May 24/58)

VERY MYSTERIOUS CREEPIC-CRAWLIES INVADE HOME

Goteborg, Sweden (AP) - Bugs, defying all biological classifications, have moved in on a 67 year old woman and her 35 year old son. The house has been fumigated 4 times, but the creepy crawlies are still in possession. Plans by the board of health to give the 2 victims a rubdown in the public baths were loused up by municipal authorities as they claimed it was too risky. (Vancouver Province - May)

CAMPERS DISCOVER NON/FLYING SAUCER

Kirkland Lake, Ont. July 28 - (CP) A saucer-shaped flying object discovered 500 yards from the Northwood camp for crippled children on Saturday gave youngsters at the camp 20 miles north of here a thrill. But camp officials said it was a hoax. They said the so-called saucer was designed and made at the camp and has never taken off from the ground. (Toronto Daily Star-July 28)

BOUNCE RADIO SIGNALS OFF MOON

Bonn, May 21 (Reuters) Bonn University observatory last night picked up for almost two hours a continuous radio signal bounced off the moon from a United States Army transmitter in New Jersey. The significance of the experiment is that it pointed a way by means of which television might be transmitted over vast distances.

MOON ROCKET FIZZLE TOLD

Rome (Reuters) - Agenzia Continentale, an Italian news agency specializing in news from Communist countries claimed that a Soviet attempt to send a rocket to the moon failed on May 2. Fuel in the first stage of the rocket exploded at the moment of launching at a secret Siberian site called Sputnikgrad.

Central Intelligence heard rumblings in Moscow that a spy system inside the US is set up to kidnap or execute almost every key radar scientist in the US if war is declared. That's why all key radar men were placed under 24 hours a day F.B.I. guard only a week ago! (National Enquirer - July 27/58)

In a noon time telephone call placed by President Eisenhower to Prime Minister Macmillan in London, it was agreed that the U.S. and Britain will support each other 100 percent in the event of a World War. It also was agreed that atomic and H-weapons would be used and that the U.S. would supply Britain with everything from H-bombs to atomic cannon. ....The U.S. is working on the most revolutionary super secret project since the H-bomb. It is classified top-secret but it is said to deal with outer space, and will give the U.S. a new and startling advantage over Russia.... The latest classified CIA report reveals that Russia would be able to declare and WIN a full scale war against the U.S. and its allies in 1963. That will be the peak year for the Reds. The decline will be almost immediate after that year because at that point a majority of the Russian weapons would become obsolete. The only means of brightening this dark picture would be an all-out effort by the U.S. in research and development to surpass, not merely catch up with, Russian military achievements....The U.S. Army is ready to launch a 3-stage-missile sister to the Jupiter. The new missile is known appropriately as Juno and will provide the final test of instruments the U.S. is planning to use to get to the moon....The first space ship destined for the moon is being finished right now at Convair in Southern California... The latest Red Sputnik contains a cabin that will help them assemble the final facts on how to send a man to the moon - and bring him back alive....The U.S. Air Force has been filming all of the Soviet Union for the last 6 months. Unknown to the Reds, USAF has been using new, secret robot reconnaissance planes carrying a precision camera capable of taking motion pictures from altitudes of more than 100,000 feet. ### SLIGHT ERUPTIONS ON JUPITER

Chicago-July 13 (AP) - Volcano-like eruptions may be creating a relatively hot time on the cold planet Jupiter. In any event, astronomers have detected unusual atmospheric disturbances on the largest planet in the solar system, now some 446,000,000 miles from Earth. They believe the outbreaks, the first observed in more than ten years, are caused by the release of large amounts of heat energy on the planet's surface. The sightings were made by Gerard P. Kuiper.

NO NUCLEAR WAY TO PEACE

Since the devastation in Japan of Hiroshima and Nagasaki with atomic power, the world has been and still is creating bigger and deadlier weapons, slowly but surely drawing toward complete annihilation with hydrogen bombs. The three major countries involved in this race to build the biggest and most powerful weapon will be the executioners. Thousands of scientists have written petitions against the testing of nuclear weapons, but the business men feel that money is more important to them than the preservation of humanity. God created the law, thou shalt not kill. But man goes right on killing, and in order to make it legal and get paid for it he creates an illusion of reasons to make war.

These few men are now telling us they have to test nuclear war machines to preserve the peace. The very weapon they are making bigger and better will some day destroy the whole planet, let alone a few countries. Then we will all be at peace. The damage that has been done already with these tests will take generations to pass away. The children in Japan are now marked and maimed, and more are being born in the same condition. Children for generations to come will be crippled because of the Japanese bomb attacks. What happens when our own children begin to get these symptoms? Will we then begin to back the attack against nuclear tests? Or should we do it now while there is still time?

If we all worked together, neighbor with neighbor, country with country to stamp out nuclear tests, we would all be working as a united world helping each other to preserve humanity and our world from complete annihilation. It would be the first time in history that man will have a mutual and peaceful understanding. (Hamilton Spectator. Written by DeWitt Lee, President of The Interplanetary Ship Sighting Research Association, Hamilton, Ontario.)

YELLOW DYE RIDS BODY OF STRONTIUM

San Francisco, April 16/58 (AP) - A harmless substance which can remove radioactive strontium from the body was described to chemists today. This material could be the forerunner of a series of compounds to rid humans and animals of other dangerous fallout products. Conceivably these things might be built into the diet as a kind of insurance against radiation damage. The anti-strontium compound was described in a paper given before the American Chemical Society by Arthur Lindenbaum of the Argonne National Laboratory at Lemont, Ill. Lindenbaum and two colleagues developed and tested it. Radioactive strontium, the most feared element in fallout, is considered dangerous because it makes its way into the bones and can give off radiation for scores of years afterward. It is a possible cause of cancer and other diseases. The compound which can pick this hazardous element out of living bone and other body parts is a tasteless yellow dye called rhodizonate. It latches onto strontium atoms and the two substances together form an insoluble compound which can be eliminated in body waste.

FIND WAY TO TURN A-WASTE TO PROFIT

Washington, April 12/58 -(UP) - The AEC has found a way to turn deadly radioactive "wastes" into a bonanza. It is too early to appraise the dollar value of this bonanza but there are those who believe it will soar to billions annually in years to come. By converting the radioactive waste products of atomic fission into powerful tools for medicine, industry and research, the commission simultaneously has found a safe way of "disposing" of some of the dangerous materials that until now were considered obstacles to development of a big-scale atomic power industry. A new plant at Oak Ridge, Tenn., will transform once wasted products into precious materials, starting operations this summer.

SAUCERS ARE SNATCHING OUR CITIZENS

The weird disappearance in the past 5 years of thousands of persons is increasingly credited to spacemen in flying saucers who seek Earthlings for scientific study. Hovering over the Earth, they are believed to use rays that exert reverse-gravitational pull which literally lifts its victims off the face of the earth.

This incredible revelation explains the increased number of disappearances (See P.100 Col. 2.-G.D.) since the advent of flying saucers that defy and baffle efforts of seasoned sleuths in Missing Persons Bureaus who seldom fail at least to find a trace of missing people through income tax, social security, automobile, and charge account records in every state.

Many persons have been reported missing while crossing a street or an open field, and even from their locked homes. In a few identical cases, charred remains in an otherwise unburned home evidence a cruel potshot by a perhaps drunken saucer crewman carelessly using a disintegrator. Children whisked away from cribs, oldsters from hospital beds, and many automobiles with passengers are reported vanishing into thin air, to be studied and in some cases cosmically brainwashed and returned to us to prepare for the Coming of the Spacemen. NEW MONSTER SPOTTED IN CAMBODIA JUNGLE

Saigon, Vietnam, June 3 - An "Abominable Snowman" - without snow, has been seen in the jungles of Cambodia, a wild game hunter claims in a letter to one of the biggest newspapers in Saigon. The hunter, writing to the French language Journal de l'Extreme Orient, said the creature was nine feet high, and was accompanied by a female nearly seven feet and a child five feet high. The creatures were hairy, had prominent jaws and jutting canine teeth, huge feet which left footprints like the Himalayan yeti, and walked like gorillas. "These creatures had the appearance of primitive people of a prehistoric period," the hunter said. "I am not an anthropologist and I can't say whether it was a man or a monkey, but in the 30 years that I have been a big-game hunter in Indo-China, Thailand and Burma, I have never seen a creature like that."

SUBA, Fiji: - A party of Pitcairn Islanders who came on six skeletons in a cave on uninhabited Henderson Island, in the South Pacific, believe they have stumbled on the solution to a 2-year-old sea mystery. Four of the skeletons are those of men, one is that of a woman with hair still on the skull. The 6th is that of a child. Laboratory examination in Fiji of the hair on the female skull has established the fact that the skeletons are probably those of Europeans, tho' Polynesian sources cannot be outruled. Despite the contrary views of some mariners, the Pitcairn Islanders are convinced that the skeletons are those of passengers or crew of the ill-fated island trader Joyita, which mysteriously disappeared on an inter-island run in 1956 and was discovered adrift and abandoned several months later miles off course. The mystery of what happened to those on board has never been cleared up. (Toronto Telegram-July)

FANTASI ARISE! Soviet science-fiction writers are the latest section section of the Soviet cultural community to receive a sharp prod from the Government. Apparently they aren't being fantastic enough to satisfy the authorities. The official Union of Writers of the Russian Republic recently held a worried conference on the subject, and concluded that science fiction was lagging far behind the plans and achievements of actual science. Soviet physicists, it was reported, were working on such projects as rockets with the speed of light, artificial suns, alteration of the earth's climate and the like, but it was only last year that the professional dreamers started writing about trips to Mars. Most of the "fantasi" as the Russians call the writers, are alleged to be dull earthbound creatures, who spend their time writing spy stories. Now the order has gone forth: Get up into space - or else. This is one field, at least, in which the West is unquestionably ahead. Our scientists may have their problems with rockets and satellites, but our science fiction writers have no difficulty visiting the outer galaxies or peering two to three million years into the future. STARDUST is the latest substance to be considered as a propellant for space travel. (The Financial Post - July) Vast amounts of stardust fall to earth yearly.

On May 4, 1958, the National Enquirer published the following letter:
 "My husband dissolved into space in front of my eyes in our Brooklyn backyard three years ago.

"I'd sent him out to climb to the top of a clothesline pole to rescue a shirt that the wind had blown off our washline. Herman yelled that it was stuck on a rusty nail. As he reached for it, his hand seemed to disappear. Then, before my dumbfounded eyes, he was sucked up and faded altogether. I was too horrified to scream.

"I told the police but they laughed at me. The only person who believes me is a kind, elderly man in our neighborhood who studies such strange phenomena. His theory is that my husband disappeared into an invisible atmospheric floating dimension. He says more things happen that are stranger than this. Human beings would never believe them all. He says that man is still learning and knows little about the mysteries of the elements.

"I am writing this because I read in the Enquirer that mysterious planetary forces are snatching up men with the purpose of studying them. I fear now that if they ever release Herman he would never be the same husband I knew. Perhaps he would be an enemy.

God have pity on him. Even if my neighbours eye me strangely I can only pray and hope that they will understand and believe my story some day." - Mrs. Geo. H. Wales, Brooklyn, New York City, N.Y.
