UFO & THE 3-4-5 RELATIONSHIP OF RIGHT-ANGLE TRIANGLES

THE MOON ISN'T SO DEAD AFTER ALL

WITH two nations now committed to putting a man on the moon, it is interesting to find that recently there seem to be at least two authentic cases where a certain amount of outgassing, or volcanic activity, has been observed on our satellite.

We had come to think of the lunar surface as a silent, dead world where nothing happens but the inevitable change from light to dark and from very high to very low temperatures, in a period of 29½ days. But new observations have changed the picture.

The latest word comes from the Lowell Observatory at Flagstaff, Arizona.

This observatory has long been famous for important discoveries, particularly in solar system astronomy.

ERUPTIONS

Eruptions have been seen near the crater Aristarchus. This is lettered B on the accompanying drawing of the moon, shown approaching the last quarter, the present phase.

Aristarchus is not difficult to locate as it is the brightest spot on the moon owing to some property of the local soil or rock.

The feature appears to the left of a very prominent crater, Copernicus C, and well below the semi-circular Rainbow Bay, Sinus Iridum and the black crater Plato A.

This latest lunar activity was seen first on Nov. 27 when an eruption lasting 85 minutes was noted.

Three more, lasting about 20 minutes, were observed two nights later.

PHOTOGRAPH

These observations from Lowell Observatory seem to support the announcement by the Soviet astronomer N. A. Kozyrev that he saw some type of bright vapor rising from the crater Alphonsus on Nov. 3, 1958. He actually took a photograph of the vapor's spectrum.

Alphonsus, D in the drawing, is a fairly prominent crater seen to the right of Copernicus. It is the centre of a row of three craters.

Other prominent features on the moon, as seen during the next few nights, are Tycho, F; Clavius, G, and Grimaldi, E, another black crater.

These new observations have not been achieved by chance.

They followed several years of careful and painstaking search, watching the lunar surface night after night.

See Saucer, Sir?

By the way, what in heck ever DID happen to all of those flying saucers? It seems to me it's been years since I've heard any reports of them being sighted—even in a busy restaurant at lunchtime or during a hot domestic argument.

The thing that got me to wondering about this was a 1956 movie called U.F.O. I watched the other morning on television.

It was on Channel 7 on the Late, Late Show.

The initials U.F.O., I found, stood for Unidentified Flying Objects and in The Globe and Mail television section the movie was referred to, rather haughtily, I thought, as "science fiction." However, it turned out to be one of the most fascinating things I've seen on either a movie or a television screen for some time and if it pops up again, as it probably will, I advise you to stay up and have a look at it. First of all, it makes the flat statement, both at the beginning and the ending of the movie, that all of the incidents portrayed are true ones. And it does set out, in what certainly appears to be an objective fashion, to provide a documentary film on some strange and still not fully explained events which took place in the late forties and early fifties.

The narration is by a former U.S. Air Force press information officer who worked in the special Pentagon unit set up to deal with the flying saucer reports.

It is admitted at the outset that of the thousands of these reports which were investigated, about 80 per cent turned out to be hoaxes or phenomena which could be attributed to natural causes. But the remaining 20 per cent provided some baffling mysteries.

In the film, expert testimony is given that although still photos of flying saucers would be easy to fake in the darkroom by an amateur, movies would be difficult to treat in this way without elaborate equipment. It then shows two movie segments, taken by amateur photographers, which clearly show what appear to be glowing discs or balls speeding through the sky. One of these movies, taken in Utah, was made by a U.S. Navy aerial observer and photographer with 20 years of service.

It is also stated that on at least one occasion 14 of these objects were clearly observed hovering over Washington, D.C., both from investigating aircraft and on the radar scope of an airport control tower.

Mention is also made of the U.S. Air Force jet pilot who mysteriously crashed on the West Coast after reporting to the control tower that he had a strange, disc-like flying object plainly in view and was closing in on it. This was his last communication with the ground station.

Among the numerous trained observers who are referred to in the film by a U.S. general as "credible" is an airline captain with years of experience who describes a huge object which flew with such terrific speed that it actually circled his craft while it was in flight.

Yet, such reports have ceased to appear. Is it because a strange session of mass hallucination has finally died down? Or does the absence of such reports indicate that, for a period, such flights did take place and that they, not some mere hallucinations, have ceased?

EARTH ELDORADOS

By
Sungma Tenzing Lama

The past has an uncanny way of projecting itself into the future via the present as if to say: "I bought a bit of yesterday, on the terms of today for the benefit of tomorrow!" There exist mystery cities, above, and below Earth which could have their origin in colonizers not from this planet and in which their descendants managed to survive to this day and age, secluded, protected, by a scientific existence, which will not be equalled by earth science for hundreds of years to come.

Both the descendants of Tiahuanaca, Machu Picchu, Peru, and cities within the Brazilian jungle and Matto Grosso, which strongly hint the existence of Atlantis, could well have survived all over South and even North America by integrating with such inferior-to-them earth humans, since indeed their science in erecting these edifices, now abandoned, in the knowledge of having come from somewhere in space, eons in the past and have believed themselves to be "Children of the Sun" or sons of a Sun God!

There is Agharta in the Tzangpo valley, Tibet, merely another underground terminal city of great age, connected by a subterranean, suboceanic tunnel system, not dug by earthlings, with such cities in Antarctica as Rainbow City, Kadath, now ice free, who in turn are connected with the now submerged Poseidonic, capital city of Atlantis and such sunken cities in the Pacific of a continent named MU or Lemuria. All of which were the colonial properties of Martian scientists, having been here a million years in the past and came in contraptions now dubbed "Saucers" to check the progress if any, of this sluggish animal called man.

Today these descendants of colonizers, which cannot show you a birth certificate, of having been earthborn, but who could be sitting close to all the other delegates of terran origin within the Assembly Hall within the UN, in convenient earth bodies, but with Martian or even Venusian mentalities, listening in on the queer notions and antics of earth representatives, who are convinced that they should be the ones, which unraffle the riddle of why men have as yet not solved the solution of living in peace with one another.

My former associate, the Great Sachem Sa Hihushu of New York, often spoke of other Eldorados, mentioning Mt. Shasta and the caverns beneath Shasta, leading into tunnels that reach out into such caverns, of mountains, submerged within the Pacific, belonging to Lemuria. These tunnels connect Micronesia, Polynesia, going from there to Asia, which would support the sighting of strangely-clad people, emerging from the foot of Mt. Shasta, who apparently seem to celebrate some ancient ritual, hoary with age, so as to commemorate events that must have taken place when Lemuria was still above the water, when the Devil Bird Pterodactyl fed on early man, when his leathery wings and evil appearance was still about, something which the priestclass of this day and age has given another name, Satan! Such mysteries, weird in their appearance, unreal, take place every day, but are not noticed, since man, a materialist animal, is too busy investigating these reports and in his senseless search for imaginary fountains of youth, his madness to amass fortunes, has blinded himself in the glare of gold, to the reality that all this has been ages in the past and man is still far from peace, tranquility, immortality!

Ufologists must have noted these many idiotic, asinine viewpoints men hold when it comes to "Saucers" and from whence they came and with what sort of weirdies as their crew. Man, often of the various scientific varieties, claim that Saucers are aberrations of overworked, perhaps diseased mentalities, that they are hallucinations, figments of erratic imagery, that Saucers could not possibly come from any other world, having such intelligences as to "visit" us here. The arrogant earthling could not be convinced were a Martian Spacecraft to land right in his backyard, he would come up with a "made-in-Hollywood" explanation, until he felt a Martian disgun pressed to his ribs!! Man in his ignorance, to him the pearl of great price, does however believe in an "Invisible Deity", who has told him that he must not see his face and live. For such an extraterrestrial, man has fought his religious wars, waded knee-deep in the blood of such as rejected his belief, has committed genocide, exterminating whole races and cultures of people and are still willing to live and die for a faith in some THING alien and from a "Throne in Heaven". (No planet was ever mentioned where this throne was supposed to be located.)

It would disgust a true Martian to hear the diversified ideology of what earthlings hold as their Gospel truth, such beliefs in horned, hooped, tailed and winged entities, he's never seen, but was brainwashed to believe in.

In his blind faith, of which Mark Twain said: "Faith is believing what you know is not so", earthlings will fight anybody his size, antagonize, persecute such as do not accept his asinine dogma's to worship an invisible Being, whom he calls his God.

But to believe in Saucers and in little Mars creatures, as the crews of these spacecrafts, is in his biased opinion absurd and such as actually witnessed a sighting shrug it off, as having been the reflection of a star, something the ancient vedas called Devas. It should be an amazing survey if we ever get around to it, asking every little man walking this planet for his birth certificate, to have him identified, collected, detained, brain washed, who after a failure to produce an earthtype birth certificate, points up to Mars, Venus, and who after psychiatry has declared him sane, explains that earth is not his home, but that to him it is merely a visiting piece of real estate and not a good one at that!

This is something certain dumb earthlings should remember, that any person which can produce a terran birth certificate, certifying him to be an earth-dwelling-citizen thereon, can never be regarded an alien, merely because political leaders within the different earth Governments have divided, subdivided, parts and portions of this planet, have envisioned "parallels" as dividing lines for earthborn humans so as to add confusion, infusing calculated inferior complexes or superior notions, as to who should and could by right of force if necessary, declare an earthling an alien, who in his quest for the pursuit of his own happiness, overstepped imaginary or artificial frontiers new to him, believing, that all earthlings are entitled to all this planet has to offer, of which he is a part and which is his sacred birthright. Thus this Lama believes that "We are World Citizens here, that aliens will have to come from Mars or beyond", something expressed by Sun Yat Sen, who said: "The world is for ALL" and Thomas Payne, who said: "The world is my country; to do good, my religion."

Thus we must wonder, of why the Eldorados became desolated ruins, from Anghor, to Macchu Picchu; from Tiahuanaca to the ruins of and on Olympus, of why the earlier, not terran colonizers abandoned Rainbow City, Kadath; of why Lhasa has become an abode of unclean elements, perpetrating genocide for the glory of a new philosophy, also drenched in sacrificial blood of the victims, as it was in the days of Kullucan, Quetzalcoatl, who according to 'legend', arrived in a spot now called Vera Cruz and in a strange winged ship, nobody knows from where, but I do suspect from Venus. It is not recorded by the Aztecs of those days if Quetzalcoatl was ever asked for a birth certificate, or if he was unable to land with his winged craft anywhere on this planet because he was unable to pay his taxes or his birth certificate was made out on Venus, thus an alien from another world! ■

Scientists Studying 85-Pound Meteorite

Thirteen years after it blazed its way across the Ontario sky, one of the largest meteorites ever found in Canada is being studied by University of Toronto scientists.

The 85-pound chunk of nickel and iron was found near Lake Manitowabing last fall by Philip Johnson, a Parry Sound furniture maker and part-time prospector. Of the 25 meteorites known to have been found in Canada only five are larger.

University officials believe it is the remains of a fireball seen near Windsor in 1949. At that time its approximate path, plotted at the David Dunlap Observatory, led to the Parry Sound area.

Because of their high metal content, meteorites are generally much heavier than a rock of comparable size. Mr. Johnson said he knew he had something unusual when he tried to lift the rusty specimen, 12 inches long, nine inches wide and six inches deep.

When word of the find reached Professor P. A. Peach and D. H. Gorman of the university's geological sciences department they arranged its purchase through Prof. G. B. Langford, head of the department. Funds were donated by the Shell Oil Co. of Canada Ltd.

Because of their rarity, meteorites are considered to be worth a minimum of $100. This would be for one about the size of a pea; the price goes up according to size. They are recognizable by their unusual weight, and a black fused surface, often with elongated pitting.

Canada's largest meteorite is a 386-pound giant from Alberta. It is owned by the university's Victoria College and is on display at the Royal Ontario Museum. Most larger meteorites, like the one which is believed to have caused the two-mile wide New Quebec Crater in Ungava, explode when they strike the earth. No fragments of that one have ever been found.

Intelligent Beings Exist on Millions of Planets in Milky Way

By DAVID SPURGEON

Globe and Mail Reporter

New York, Jan. 23 — Intelligent beings undoubtedly exist on millions of planets in the Milky Way.

A $10,000,000 program involving 20 highly trained technical personnel for 30 years would make highly probable the detection of radio signals from one of these other races.

But two-way conversations between our planet and theirs would take millenia.

These statements were made today during a session on extraterrestrial intelligence at the 31st annual meetings of the Institute of Aerospace Sciences.

Dr. Lloyd Motz of Columbia University's Rutherford observatory, said that most scientists take it for granted that life exists beyond the solar system, even though there is no direct evidence. He estimated that there are in fact 600,000,000 planets in the Milky Way with life as we know it.

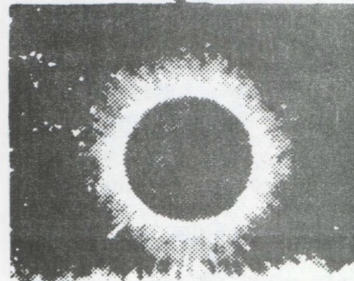

Astronomers know that there are millions of stars similar to our sun in the Milky Way, Prof. Motz said. Recent developments in the theory of stellar evolution, now confirmed by observation, show that all stars with the same general characteristics originated in pretty much the same way and have evolved through the same stages. When such stars are born, a planetary system also arises.

Biochemists have demonstrated that the complex organic molecules necessary to life are synthesized spontaneously if physical and chemical conditions are right, Prof. Motz said. Thus it must be concluded that life in some form exists throughout most of the galaxy.

Prof. Motz estimated the galaxy contains 200,000,000 stars similar to our sun. "If we suppose that the stars we are considering have planetary systems like our own, we have, on the average, about three planets per star as abodes of an intelligent form of life.

"It is true that in our solar system the earth appears to be the only planet with a highly developed form of life, but both Venus and Mars could support an intelligent form of life under slightly altered conditions," he said.

"We must therefore assign about three life-supporting planets to each star in accordance with the data in our own solar system."

Dr. F. D. Drake of the U.S. National Radio Astronomy Observatory, said scientists have now worked out the formula for calculating the optimum frequency for interstellar communication. Writing the formula on the blackboard, he said: "It is rather fascinating that this is one of the key equations in the galaxy."

What he meant was that any other intelligent beings whose civilizations had advanced far enough for them to have developed radio, would come up with the same formula, regardless of the state of their technology. For the formula gives a frequency which is dependent only on the limitations of the forces which bind molecules together, which are the same throughout the galaxy.

The formula gives an optimum frequency between 3.7 and 9.3 gigacycles (thousands of megacycles), Dr. Drake said. Scientists know how to use this frequency and could reach out to distances of 1,000 light years to listen for signals from other civilizations.

There are several million stars within this range.

It would not be simple to conduct such a search because complex equipment and many man-years of effort would be needed, he said. But there would be a high probability of success with a $10,000,000 capital expenditure on a program involving 20 key men for 30 years.

Dr. Drake estimated there would be 1,000 light years' distance between civilizations, so that radio signals would take 1,000 years to reach us, traveling at the speed of light. Therefore unless a civilization existed for more than 2,000 years it would never receive an answer.

Dr. Drake said rockets serve many useful purposes for space travel within our solar system, but the only thing we can send across interstellar space is information. This must be done by radio or light waves because freight by rocket would be too expensive.

To send the Encyclopedia Britannica to Alpha Centauri, for example, would require a rocket with the power of 1,000 battleships which would orbit Florida upon launch. Yet to send the Encyclopedia by radio would cost only a cent a word.

Dr. Drake conducted the first short search for signals from other planets about two years ago. It was known as Project Ozma, and listening was done on 21 centimetres — a wavelength not calculated by the new formula.

One of the biggest problems in receiving other-world messages would be scanning all the stars from which one would likely originate, according to Dr. Bernard M. Oliver, vice-president of research and development for Hewlett-Packard Co.

Within a radius of 1,000 light years from the earth there might be 10,000,000 stars, with 1,000,000 candidates among them, supporting 1,000 races, he said.

Many races which reached a high state of technology might have destroyed themselves with nuclear weapons, he suggested. But if they got over the hump and learned to prevent nuclear annihilation they probably existed for a very long time.

Dr. Oliver said that if a 10-megawatt radio signal could be generated at the proper frequency, one symbol could be sent every second. Thus the sending rate would be slow, but there would be lots of time because it would take a millenium for the signal to reach a distant star and another for an answer to return.

Complex codes could not be sent. It would have to be a binary code, in which the signal goes off and on. This would severely limit the information that could be sent or received.

But, said Dr. Drake, it would be worth $100,000 scientifically if we only could detect the presence of another civilization, even if no information were obtained about it.

The End Of Venus

My neighbor Frisby's wife wants to know why if U.S. scientists are happy that the Venus shot went only 250,000 miles off course, he should get so mad because she missed the garage by six inches.

Frisby apart, many a man waits fascinated by the journey of the Mariner II. Since the decline and fall of the burlesque house, we have to get all the charge we can out of the chance to peer behind the veils of Venus. Hot dog. As says the song about Kansas City: "They've gone about as fur as they kin go."

The spacecraft will report its findings by radio impulse. Sort of a beeping Tom. It is scheduled to come within 10,000 miles of the provocative planet, which you chaps who have been to Paris will recognize as roughly equivalent to the upper balcony of the Folies Bergere.

Success of the Venus shot depended on hurling the spacecraft towards the pinpoint in space where the plant will be during the second week of December. Hundreds of mathematicians worked on this problem of hitting the target, but the actual launch was handled by Johnny Unitas. The Baltimore quarterback ensured that Mars would not intercept the long ball.

The primary mission of Mariner II will be to establish whether or not Venus is capable of supporting life. If the answer is "yes," another spacecraft will be dispatched immediately, equipped to emnierce the plant with 50 cola signs and land at least one branch manager of a chartered U.S. bank.

To make things more interesting during the interval before bets can be paid off I shall state that Mariner II will not only discover life on Venus but will be directly responsible for ending life on Venus.

How this will happen is like this:

The Venusians are divided into these two power blocs, see. There are the Red Blobs, dominating half the planet, and the Red-white-and blue Blobs, holding sway over the other half. There is also a smattering of minor Blobs — chartreuse, polka-dot, paisley, etc., but they exert no real influence on the tide of events.

The two big opposing camps of Blobs hate and fear each other because the Red Blobs believe that a Blob should be all one color, whereas the Red-white-and-blue Blobs believe that being restricted to one color is tyranny, even though they must intermarry to preserve their stripes. "Better wed than Red" is their watchword.

As Mariner II approaches Venus, both sides are fully armed with devilish missiles capable of destroying all Blobs of whatever color. Their super-sensitive antennae range the sky, alert to sneak attack.

Suddenly, there it is! A strange, unidentified craft orbiting Venus, seeking information classified as top secret by Blobs of both sides.

"It's not one of ours!" glub the Red Blobs.

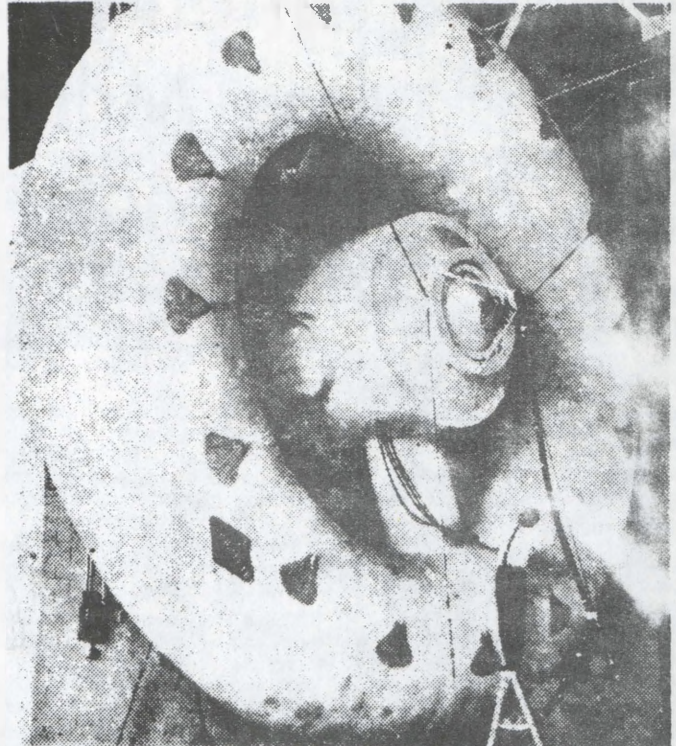

"It's one of theirs!" glub the Red-white-an-blue Blobs.

And Venus dissolves in gigantic explosions.

All the U.S.'s fault, you see, for not equipping Mariner II with a means of showing friendly intent — showing out some beads and pipe tobacco or something. You mark my words.

Moon surface green, black basaltic rock

MOSCOW (UPI) — Tass quoted Soviet scientist Victor Tefel as saying the surface of the moon consists of rocks resembling basalt, which is black tinged with green or brown and has a volcanic origin. Tefel said he drew his conclusion after studying the color properties of hundreds of sections of the moon.

WILBERT B. SMITH

THE PHILOSOPHY OF THE SAUCERS

Possibly one of the most interesting aspects of the study of flying saucers, beyond the realization that they are real and extraterrestrial, is their philosophy. What manner of creature build and fly them? What do they look like? How do they think? Are their ideas and ideals similar to ours? Could we understand them? All these and many other questions plague the serious investigator.

If we are to rely on sighting data alone we are bound to get a rather one-sided idea of these creatures. For example, we see saucers travelling at terrific speeds and then suddenly stop or change direction. Under our concepts of physics no creature of flesh, blood and bone could withstand the terrific forces which would be associated with such actions. Therefore, we are likely to assume that the Saucerians must be either some manner of robot or a creature the like of which we have never encountered.

IF TABLES REVERSED

Again, it is hard to understand why any race of creatures having the tremendous power at their disposal which we see demonstrated by the saucers, should be content to fly rather aimlessly over our globe, without doing something more definite. If the tables were reversed, we most certainly would. After a very brief reconnaissance we would land and announce to the natives that we were taking over. The fact that the Saucerians have made no such move appears to indicate that they must regard us in the same general category as the other flora and fauna native to this planet, and to them our civilization is so primitive as to be indistinguishable from that of the lower animals and insects.

We could go on speculating in this manner for quite a while without coming anywhere near the truth. Fortunately the people who come to us from elsewhere in flying saucers have been fit to make contact with people of earth, and to impart as much information and understanding as the contacts were capable of assimilating or passing along to others. There have been many published instances of contacts between these people from outside and people of earth, and a very great many more which have not been published. As is always the case in any new and romantic field, there are those who exaggerate, but it is not too difficult to establish that the vast majority are honest and authentic. For instance, when a dozen or so independent contacts having no common connection, and each alone believing that he or she has been favored above all others to receive this message, all tell the same message, even to names and descriptions which tally perfectly, one has little choice but to believe that they are telling the truth.

MAGNIFICENT PHILOSOPHY

Furthermore, when the material given to us through the many channels is all assembled and analysed, it adds up to a complete and elegant philosophy which makes our efforts sound like the beating of jungle drums. These people tell us of a magnificent Cosmic Plan, of which we are a part, which transcends the lifetime of a single person or a nation, or a civilization, or even a planet or solar system. We are not merely told that there is something beyond our immediate experience; we are told what it is, why it is, and our relation thereto. Many of our most vexing problems are solved with a few words; at least we are told of the solutions if we have the understanding and fortitude to apply them. We are told of the inadequacies of our science and we have been given the basic grounding for a new science which is at once simpler and yet more embracing than the mathematical monstrosity which we have conjured up. We have been told of a way of life which is utopian beyond our dreams, and the means of obtaining it. Can it be that such a self-consistent, magnificent philosophy is the figment of the imaginations of a number of misguided morons? I do not think so. (Con't. on next page)

If the only evidence we had was philosophical, we might justifiably suspect it, but when coupled with the reality of the observations, thousands of them, we cannot dismiss it so easily. This is especially true when we consider that the science which has been passed to us from these people from elsewhere explains in a manner which we have been quite unable to do why the saucers behave as they do, and how it is that they can do things which to us are virtually impossible. The science and the performance check perfectly!

Again, we have been told where our scientific ideas are wrong, or inadequate, and experiments have been suggested and carried out, and in every case the alien science has been vindicated.

YOU CANNOT MAKE HIM DRINK

We may ask, if all this is known, why has it not been publicized, why are not these matters being studied instead of atom bombs? The answer: it has been publicized. Books have been written and hundreds and thousands of copies sold. There are available many periodicals containing this material which may be had for quite a nominal sum. Reports have been prepared by serious investigators and presented "through proper channels." But it is truly said that one can lead a horse to water but one cannot make him drink. Those who are in control of our society are satisfied with it the way it is and will resist any attempt to change anything which is likely to disturb the equanimity of their lives. There are those who can't be bothered to get the facts and make up their own minds; they would rather dismiss the whole matter as nonsense, because someone who holds their respect says it is nonsense. There are those who fear for their social security, and will therefore have no part of anything which might place it in jeopardy. There are those who say our science works and gives us many things which we would not otherwise have. What's wrong with that? Why discard it? There are probably as many private reasons for not facing up to the facts as there are people who refuse to do so. However, it is consoling to realize that, through the humble and often criticized comic strip and science fiction stories, the younger generation is being conditioned to accept the reality of people from elsewhere, and when given the opportunity to do so avidly assimilate all they can get on flying saucers and the people who fly them.

THE FUTURE

The question may well be asked, what of the future? This question has been posed many times, and to the people from outside. The answer: we don't know for sure but we are aware of trends. We ourselves are also aware of trends, but considering our limited means for gathering data we must of necessity do a vastly inferior job of predicting events. Our experience has been that when they choose to do so, the people from outside can be quite accurate in their predictions.

We may summarize the entire flying saucer picture as follows. We have arrived at a time in our development when we must make a final choice between right and wrong. The people from elsewhere are much concerned about the choice which we will make, partly because it will have its repercussions on them and partly because we are their blood brothers and are truly concerned with our welfare. There is a cosmic law against interfering in the affairs of others, so they are not allowed to help us directly even though they could easily do so. We must make our own choice of our own free will. Present trends indicate a series of events which may require the help of these people and they stand by ready and willing to render that help. In fact, they have already helped us a great deal, along lines which do not interfere with our freedom of choice. In time, when certain events have transpired, and we are so oriented that we can accept these people from elsewhere, they will meet us freely on the common ground of mutual understanding and trust, and we will be able to learn from them and bring about the Golden Age all men everywhere desire deep within their hearts. ■

ROBERT GRIBBLE pointed to his map of the United States showing where unidentified flying objects have been sighted.

Tom Robbins Interviews

ROBERT GRIBBLE

WHEN a Boise businessman landed his private plane on June 24, 1947, to report excitedly that he had seen nine "saucerlike" things flying in and out of the high peaks around Mount Rainier, he added a new phrase to the world's vocabulary and a new dimension to Robert J. Gribble's life.

Saucers are Gribble's cup of tea.

Actually, he prefers the term "unidentified flying objects." "Flying saucers are identified with the screwballs," he explained. Gribble is sober and scientific in his approach to the mysteries of space.

Fifteen years ago, if anyone had asked Gribble, "How are things?" he would have answered, "Looking up." He was an amateur astronomer who spent a lot of time with his nose in the air. Today, he is so busy evaluating the things others see in the sky, he seldom has time for a squint at the stars.

AS A DIRECTOR of the National Investigations Commission on Aerial Phenomena, he is a one-man data-processing center. When not attending to earthbound tasks with the Seattle Fire Department, he constantly is analyzing the material on U. F. O.'s that overflows from five filing cabinets at his Findlay Street home.

Because of their relationship to astronomy, the first outbreak of "flying saucer" reports in 1947 gripped Gribble's imagination. It was ten years later that he really "saw the light."

It was a "huge glowing light" that moved across the sky at high speed and appeared just to miss a passing air liner. He and two companions were camping near Auburn, observing a new comet, when the object suddenly appeared above them.

At that moment, Gribble's interest in U. F. O.'s lost its academic aura. "It was my first sighting and naturally I was excited," he said, "but it was the one this year that really shook me up."

On July 31, 1962, at 10:45 o'clock at night, Gribble walked out into his front yard on a now-forgotten errand. The conditioned reflexes of a long-time stargazer were in operation; he glanced up at the heavens. "There was a white light in the western sky," he said, "At first it was sharply defined, but seconds later it flared up. It was very brilliant. I thought a plane had exploded, but it continued across the sky. In less than 20 seconds, it had assumed its original shape and disappeared."

GRIBBLE had not seen the light alone. It was viewed by weather observers and from the control tower at Seattle-Tacoma International Airport, as well as by hundreds of private citizens. It was sighted from Seattle south to Medford, Ore. The Weather Bureau reported that, in three North-western cities, the object caused a mysterious momentary change in barometric pressure.

"I stood out there and couldn't believe what I was seeing," Gribble said. "I went in and told my wife, 'Now I know how the others feel.'"

If he had any doubts about how the "others" felt, Gribble had only to check his files. He began collecting data on "flying saucers" soon after the Idaho pilot coined the phrase. He subscribed to a New York news-clipping service and founded a magazine about U. F. O's.

By 1955, he was the recognized saucer expert in this area and was interviewed on television. For days after the program, Gribble, the fireman, answered the bell. "Everyone from serious scientists to first-class nuts telephoned me," he said.

FLYING-SAUCE reports had an immediate attraction for fourth-dimension metaphysicians, do-it-yourself devil worshipers and California cultists. Interested engineers and scientists seldom voice their opinions for fear of being grouped with the Los Angeles-style loonies.

"In this field we have the 'saucerites' and the 'ufologists,'" Gribble said. "We ufologists limit our activities to research and analysis. The saucerites will believe anything they hear, no evidence needed. They carry fantastic stories from place to place and unfortunately, they are the ones the press plays up. The so-called Spacearama encampment at Marysville in August was saucerite and the tales that came out of there about trips to Mars and 350-pound Venusian dogs speak for themselves."

Does Gribble believe that any earthling ever has had intimate contact with the crew of an unidentified flying object? "With the exception of one man in Brazil, there is considerable doubt in my mind," he said.

"That man is a renowned university professor and a devout Roman Catholic. He has a high station in life, a spotless reputation. For nearly a year after his experience, he would not talk about it. Finally, a close friend coaxed him into reporting it to the government.

"The professor claimed that a spaceship landed near him on a deserted beach. Its crew communicated with him telepathically, then took him for a short ride. The Brazilian government paid rapt attention to the professor's report and the president of his university repeatedly vouched for his integrity.

"I've come to believe a lot of things I used to think incredible. I'm not so quick to doubt anymore. But most of the contact reports, as we call them, are nothing but a third-rate science fiction. And I pay little attention to science fiction, I'm too busy."

WITH MORE than 100 sources feeding him data from around the globe, Gribble is busy indeed.

"I analyze each report that comes in," he said. "How thoroughly I investigate depends on the spectacularity of the sighting and the qualifications of the witnesses." If the witness is a professional pilot or has a scientific background, Gribble will usually contact him personally.

Each sighting is plotted on a map (pins sprout in profusion from the Seattle area, where there are consistently two sightings a month). Then, before the report is placed in his chronological files, Gribble subjects it to a series of tests. "What we are looking for are common, systematic patterns of behavior," he said. Like Madison Avenue admen, the ufologists track down trends.

"For example, we tried to learn if there is a tie between U. F. O.'s and sonic booms. Sonic booms were common long before jets, you know.

"We've found somewhat of a correlation between U. F. O. sightings and disasters. They quite often are seen before or after earthquakes. And there are several dozen cases where U. F. O.'s were seen in areas where aircraft accidents took place.

"When Mars comes in on a close approach to earth, there is a definite increase in sightings. In 1957, when we had our most spectacular 'flap condition' (a period of numerous sightings), Venus was very close.

"Sightings are heaviest in industrial areas and around military installations, but they're often reported from remote regions."

GRIBBLE paused and when he spoke again, his voice had an ominous ring. "The sightings of U. F. O.'s began soon after we began to test nuclear weapons." He looked at the floor. "This could have something to do with it, but I cannot say that it does."

The heightening of international tensions, however, has no jamming effect on saucer traffic.

Gribble feels so strongly that there is "something to" U. F. O's that he has devoted all of his free time for 15 years to the study of them. What exactly does he think there IS "to them?"

Gribble, a tall, lanky man with close-cropped dark hair and heavy-lidded brown eyes, looked across the room at Gloria, his wife, and cocked an ear toward the cacophony upstairs where his five children were preparing for bed. He was slow to answer, but when he did it was without doubt.

"I am convinced that they are interplanetary," he said.

"There is a mountain of evidence to prove it. The government has more information than I, but they won't release it. Our leaders believe that if the public were told the truth about U. F. O's, there would be a mass panic.

"The persons behind the censorship appear to hope that if they can prevent the public from taking interest, spaceships may forget about us and go home.

"The people should demand information. I have faith in them. If we can keep the street-corner fanatics off of their apple boxes, I don't think many average persons would panic. The sad part of this thing is, America is missing a real bet. If we could establish contact with these beings, who undoubtedly are thousands of years ahead of us, it would be of great benefit to the free world.

"The fact that they have shown no deliberate hostility must mean they don't want to take us over. They have more fear of us than we of them. The Air Force admits that its planes have fired on U. F. O.'s. Whenever one has appeared on our radar screens, as they did in the widely publicized events around Washington, D. C., in 1953, our warplanes have gone up after them. In the past few years, they have restricted their activity to darkness, and when they come in low, they are very low . . . below our radar."

Since so many of the reported U. F. O. sightings have come from pilots and law-enforcement officers, Gribble feels that it would be relatively easy to contact our benevolent brothers in space.

THERE should be a standard recognition signal," he suggested. "If they hear the same signal each time they approach one of our planes or radio cars, they will soon realize we are trying to communicate.

"During the 1957 'flap condition', they made mass attempts to communicate with us. All over the world, strange signals were heard on the same frequency."

Gribble will not speculate on the outcome of the U. F. O. question. He has no more theories to offer. He will just go on investigating — objectively, he hopes. He finds it increasingly difficult to scoff, even at tales of little green men.

"After all," he said, "if one believes in evolution, four arms are not impossible."

It is possible to leave Robert Gribble's chartroom unconvinced that we have cousins in the cosmos. But after two hours of conversation with Seattle's sincere saucer man, one can never look at the sky quite the same way again.

Gribble said: "Hundreds of top scientists are concerned about U. F. O's, but they stay far in the background. Conversely, the crackpots are quick to speak up and THEY get the headlines."

THIRSTY SAUCERS

By
Gryzik

The great flying saucer hunt of 1960, over Lake Michigan, went off as scheduled in October of 1960. It was spurred by eyewitness accounts of unidentified flying objects setting down in Lake Michigan north-east of Chicago, and at the Guantanamo Bay, Cuba. "Spacecraft, commonly called flying saucers, are using underwater as a rendezvous place," explains John Otto, Chicago patent engineer and space enthusiast.

A group of 75 members of the Great Lakes Identified Flying Objects Assoc., armed with special electronics apparatus, set out from Waukegan aboard fishing tugs in a serious attempt to make contact with such craft.

The group, led by Norman Jack Maynard of Waukegan, was sparked into action by a chief petty Officer from Great Lakes Naval Training Center, Charles V. Dillon, who observed "the phenomenon" in Cuba first hand.

Dillon, 36, an 18 year veteran, made public his experience for the 1st time at a meeting of Maynard's group in Waukegan.

He said he was in charge of a watch at Guantanamo Bay on July 21, 1959, when he and his men observed "an orange glow" on a hillside. He said they approached close enough to observe "two large orange things, like eyes" but he advised his men to go no closer.

"I investigated it myself the next day," he said. "There were no hoof marks or any other tracing of animals on the ground whatsoever, but the grass was bent down like something slid over it, right down the slope into the ocean. It was like if you take a huge dishpan, about seven feet wide, and just slid it into the ocean."

Dillon said his impression, subjectively speaking, was that the ground impression was caused by a UFO. "It came from somewhere else, as far as I am concerned. Where, I don't know, the universe is very large. I believe it came from another world."

Maynard, who claims about 50 positive sightings, said he has observed

UFOs over Lake Michigan for 6 years.

"On Christmas Eve of 1954, I saw an object come up from the lake and go off into space so clearly that I even saw the spray from it," he told the UFO group.

"My latest sighting was a few weeks ago while driving along the toll way. I saw a cigar-shaped craft, very large...you could even see the port holes...going down into the lake."

The results of the "Flying Saucer Hunt" were not released...and two attempts to contact the group by mail, were without reply. The last I heard the group had disbanded.

In the past few years there were many reports of aircraft...that seemed to have vanished into the lake. No debris or oilslicks were ever found. But more baffling, no reports of any aircraft as being reported missing.

On February 13, 1963, a helicopter from Glenview Naval Air Station and a Coast Guard cutter, the Raritan, searched Lake Michigan off Evanston at dawn after a Northwestern University student reported seeing what appeared to be flares and then an explosion on the lake. All the operators of the cutter and helicopter could find in the area were a small fishing vessel and a Sinclair Oil Co. tanker, both of which reported nothing was wrong.

On another occasion, a glowing ball of flame that seemingly disappeared in Lake Michigan was sighted by many Chicagoans on the night of April 21, 1963. It is believed to have been a large meteor.

- While along about the same time a shock wave was felt in a three state area. Was it an airplane crash? A meteor? Experts were baffled by a mysterious shock wave that was felt in various sections of the Midwest, including parts of Illinois, Kentucky and Ohio.

The unexplained blast, about 7:30 pm, was especially strong on Chicago's far southeast side and in the Indiana suburbs. Because of the wide-spread reports, authorities were undecided whether more than one disturbance occurred, or if all queries stemmed from the same incident.

Sgt. Wm Kacak of Whiting police said he was nearly "knocked out of my chair." (Con't. on next page)

Scores of residents reported rattling windows and other seeming shock wave effects.

Once unconfirmed rumor was that the shock was caused by the dumping of slag into Lake Michigan near the Indiana industrial area. Oil refinery officials said they knew of no explosion. The Air Force said the shock may have been caused by a meteor that passed over about the time the shock wave effects were felt.

A report from Canton, Ill., Fulton County, that an airplane plummeted in a "ball of fire" into a strip mine area apparently proved false.

A report that a plane has gone down on June 25, 1963, in Lake Michigan had a happy ending, so the report goes.

The alarm set the police department, fire dept., Navy and Coast Guard into a flurry of activity. But no plane was found, and officials were able to mark the report erroneous.

The excitement started when a phone call came into the Central Police Station from Victor Walters, 61, of 1207 W. Jarvis. Walters told a police dispatcher he has been watching a plane through binoculars from his third-floor apartment. The plane went down into the mist hovering over the lake and did not come back up, he said.

Walters said the plane, which he estimated was several miles out over the lake, appeared to be a 4-engine jet.

Four police boats, three Coast Guard cutters and several private boats raced to the scene. A helicopter was also dispatched...after more than an hour, in which not even an oil slick was found, the search was called off.

Tower operators at O'Hare Airport and Meigs Field said none of their planes was missing. Similar reports came from Glenview and from Bunker Hill Air Force Base at Peru, Indiana.

Many so called "sonic booms" have startled Chicagoans in the past few yrs. Some were explained as those caused by aircraft breaking the sound barrier... others still remain a mystery. The "red glow" sometime seen in the southern part of Chicago...are explained away as "reflections from steel mills in Gary, Ind." The blue flash, seen mostly in winter months also remains a mystery. Its origin seems to be from the south of the city. Is Chicago and surrounding area, including Lake Michigan, host to the curiosity of the UFO???

EDITORIAL

I feel that an explanation is necessary to those who wrote in asking why the December SS&S was delayed. Copy was sent to the printer at the beginning of October for a November 15th delivery date. Nothing was heard from the printer until after, saying the "blanket" of the printing press had broken and needed repairs before the job could be completed. Well, the Christmas rush had soon come upon us and that meant even more delay in the mails, something we were trying desperately to avoid. The printed matter was mailed to me the 1st of December, under ordinary circumstances it would have arrived here some 4-5 days later. Most of it came a few days before Christmas with the exception of 4 pages. I waited, hoping for it to arrive any day. The days grew into weeks. The printer sent a letter with the forwarding address torn off the parcel with the missing pages. It got lost in the mail. He was extremely upset about all this, and said he was printing the missing pages over again and sending immediately to me so I could get them in the mail to my readers as soon as possible. You have by now received your December issue, which by the way was our 6th Anniversary Issue of saucering, and I hope the contents made up for any inconvenience it may have caused you, if none other than not getting it in time. We sincerely hope that this sort of thing will not happen again. In trying to keep SS&S more readable, there will be no more purple print pages, all will be done by the offset process from now on. We want to keep SS&S as one of the foremost flying saucer magazines available anywhere. But in order to do this, we need clippings, articles, photos and any other outstanding items you may come across. Some of the contents of future issues will be an article on "Fireballs, Meteors, or What?"; An excerpt from the book "Homecoming of the Martians"; "Was This a Spaceman's Visit in 1823?" More by Wilbert B. Smith. Additional copies of the 6th Anniversary edition are available for 50¢ each by writing to the editor. Tell your friends about SS&S and ask them to subscribe! We need them!

TO THE EDITOR

Dear Sir:

A businessman in Victoria, B.C., saw a UFO when in Bermuda. He was awakened by a brilliant light in the bedroom, and glancing out of the window, saw a huge cigar-shaped object streaking across the sky. He awakened his wife, but she was too late to see it. He telephoned the Air Force, but there were no planes up at that time. In the morning paper he read an account of others who had also seen the strange object.

Years before we had ever heard of UFOs, my daughter was walking along a deserted street in Victoria, when they saw a luminous object the size of a football undulating about two feet above the ground ahead of them. As they watched it, it seemed to dissolve. Coming up the lane to the house, they saw a much smaller one on a fence post, it also dissolved.

A short time ago, a man coming home to Victoria, saw a strange shaped cloud, while watching it, brilliant lights flashed and appeared to dart from the center. This was about ten miles from the city.

Dear Gene:

Thank you for the lovely illustrations in FLYING SAUCERS AND THE FATHER'S PLAN.

Interestingly enough, the one of Orthon in female attire...looks surprisingly like him!

Dear Mr. Duplantier,

Happening to look out my bedroom window facing south last night (July 3, 1963) shortly after going to bed, I saw a bright orange light in the sky moving from north to south. It was much brighter than any star or planet, of a light orange color, and seemed to be moving forward by fits and starts, and also wavering slightly from side to side, reminding me of the so-called "falling leaf" motion which I have seen used to describe the motion of saucers. The light was not blinking but shone steadily with no change in color.

It was in sight for perhaps 15 or 20 seconds, after which it passed behind a tree. I checked the time right after it disappeared; it was 11:28 pm, EDT. There was no sound, although the windows were open, and the background noise was at a low level at the time. It was not an ordinary aircraft, due to the absence of sound, and the orange color, which was quite different from the ordinary aircraft with landing lights.

Dear Gene:

I'm too searching in secret for the other side of UFOs. I have discovered a guy (a poor fellow indeed--he's a bricklayer) who claims, though not publicly, he has been in contact with a being from underground; he says such a being is a little man with a big head who emits from all of his body a dangerous radiation. Such a being--claims the mason--knows what UFOs are!!! My hero lives in a far distant district of this city. I have been at the house of this man; around it there are isolated spots, it is located at _____, near a huge reservoir. He promised me to put myself and three others, friends of mine, in contact with that strange being he names a gnome. Am I dealing with something like Shaver's theory? Or is it all nothing more but mental aberration and ignorance from that bricklayer...I don't know, but whenever anything comes re UFOs, I'll be there with a cold-livered reasoning.

SEEING THE INVISIBLE

By Homer Schaefer

The late Meade Layne, former director of Borderland Science Research, many years ago felt that our world of reality is surrounded by an invisible world, which from time to time in history has intermingled or crossed and brought about such things as U.F.O.s (ether ships), apparitions, unexplainable happenings, miracles and visions originating from the 4th dimension.

Peter Kor in one of his many articles, had this to say "Translated into plain language, there are two fundamentally different types of existential "stuff" in the universe. What to us is empty space is actually a sea of tightly packed particles which are invisible to our physical senses and instruments, and which comprise a kind of mirror-image existence with respect to ours. The stuff which our world is constructed of, overlaps but does not interpenetrate the extra-ordinary world... like two co-existent dimensions separated from each other by the divergent qualities of the stuff which they are made of. Furthermore, in the experimental discovery of the extraordinary world of "matter" and the psychic world of the unconscious, man has reached the boundary where things "physical" and things "mental" converge or blend into one another. Here then if I am right, is the long lost domain of the saucers, the caves of the dero, and the hiding place of the devils and gods. It is a hidden place and it will remain hidden even though the secret is out. For their world surrounds ours and our overlaps theirs. Why and how certain individuals encounter their world and others do not, is an equally fantastic story. These people know the answer to the saucer mystery, for they have directly encountered the reality behind it and are therefore removed from the conflict of having to evaluate contradictory experiences."

George D. Fawcett, well-known lecturer and researcher and believer of hostile spacecraft says, "It may be a matter of "two forces" both good and evil involved in the UFO mystery today. We must be dedicated in our zeal that the conspiracy of silence may not suppress news of phenomena of the highest importance, with consequences which may be incalculable for the whole human race." "Ridicule", he says, is a bad way to suppress truth about anything, UFOs included and in a democratic society an individual's right to know the truth should never be denied. For the most part the danger of panic from the fear of the unknown is continuing to grow in the world. Many people began to ask in 1962, "Not is man ready for space, but rather is space ready for man?"

Mr. Bender who had been silenced for many years, because of his weird experiences has tried to warn the public of this great menace, He has said that "until a day arrives when we will all know the answer, cruel as it will be."

The Air Force long ago suspected the "etheric" nature of the phenomena and preferred to drop a blanket of censorship upon the whole matter, rather than admit the aerial phenomena to be psychic. In my case, the blanket of censorship was also dropped to cover up what I possessed in the way of photographic proof, taken on April 23, 1962. (See June '63 SS&S; also Dec '63 SS&S, page 3 for photo and drawing relationship. G.D.)

Another witness, a Mr. Watson of Aurora, Colorado, gives a perfect description of the object, identical in every detail to my sighting. He says that on May 29 at 2.15 am, he was scanning the heavens when he saw this indescribable object. "This object stands so far apart from anything we know, there is absolutely no mistaking it with anything else. The eerie glow is not bright as might be expected, but more of a greyed cobalt blue, which seemed to give a contradictory impression...first the solidity of the object and at the same time something of an ethereal effect. I hope I am making myself clear as it is very difficult to find adequate words to describe what I saw and the strange impression this object gave me, the shape appeared crescent because the pale glow illuminated the object in that shape like vast semi-circular wings. The rear being quite dark against the night sky. Also the object (Continued on page 20, col.2)

BOOKS

THE STRANGE CASE OF DR. M.K. JESSUP

Gray Barker in his introduction to this book says "This book does not attempt to unravel the mystery of the researcher's unfortunate passing. Instead, it is content with presenting a great many facts, along with some speculation."

One of the oddest things to have happened was a specially marked-up copy of his book "The Case for the UFO", called the Varo edition, which was known in government circles, including the military. The introduction of the gypsy, Carlos Allende, and the resulting "Allende Letters" all help to give us a first class mystery, not including the sudden demise of the author attributed to any one of the following causes such as suicide, death by hypnotic suggestion mixed with 'white sound' on tape, or foul play at the hands of Communists. It was once said by another researcher that towards the end, Jessup started to delve into the psychic side of the saucers and this was his actual undoing. Nobody will deny this is a very risky thing to take on when the person involved usually doesn't know how to combat these unseen forces when attacked by them.

The Allende Letters indicated much secret knowledge, including the Navy ship that dematerialized while experimenting with Einstein's Unified Field Theory. The men would appear and disappear at the oddest times ending up insane sooner or later. The new data presented in this book should be in everyones library who earnestly is seeking out every facet of the flying saucer mystery. Much of the material in this book was gained from Borderland Sciences Research Assoc. who have made a most complete study of Jessup. Price $3.00

THE FLYING SAUCERS by Rolf Telano

The real name of the author was actually Ralph M. Holland who lived in Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio, until his death in 1962. He was a professional engineer by trade who became interested in flying saucers and related phenomena. Mr. Telano received messages from one or more beings in space but it is not known exactly how he did this.

This book up-dates everything that was originally released by Borderland Sciences Research Assoc. in California back in 1952 for limited circulation because of the material it contained. The why, who, what and where of flying saucers is given by the space being as fact and to the reader sounds very believable although you will learn of more kinds of spacepeople and their means of travel. There are four pages of drawings of spaceships with their explanations. Your editor is also pleased to see that an illustration done by him some years ago was used on page 26 of this book.

The "other side of the veil" in the personage of the Yada Di Shi'ite and Lo Sun Yat through the mediumship of Mark Probert, give their opinions on the material presented. Both etherian planes and the cavern world are discussed in an enlightening manner. The races of Atlantis and Lemuria is also dealt with at length. Price $2.00

UFO WARNING by John Stuart

Pretend that you, the reader, is John Stuart. You first became interested in flying saucers in 1948, and started an organization in 1953 to be known as "Flying Saucer Investigators". You had a lovely lady friend as an assistant. You worked together nights figuring out the riddle of the saucers. A mysterious phone call impressed your mind to stop meddling but you kept on. Little did you know what was in store for you. If you had even an inkling of the horrors to come, you would have given up, you had no wish to hurt yourself or your friend. Then in 1954, because of warnings which went unheeded, "they" struck! And there but for the grace of God could have been you. To know what evil was to befall you very soon because you had stumbled on the answer, would most likely have stopped you in your tracks.

One evening you mark all the recent sightings on a map and make a startling discovery! This was destined to bring terror (continued on Page 20)

A UFO LEAVES MANY MARKS

By Rev. Guy J. Cyr, S.M.

Mrs. Claire Ducau has a farm in Cerons, France. July 17th and 18th, 1958, M. Jean Marthiens and her other farmhands mow and harvest some of her hay. Saturday morning, July 19th they return to finish the job. "What happened here?" they thought as they walk through the field. The thing wasn't there when they left Friday night. Right there in front of them is a strange 35-foot circle with a perfectly clear edge.

In view of these and many more extraordinary marks Mrs. Ducau judges that this is so serious she must call upon the mayor to investigate. Unfortunately he is absent. So she wastes no time and calls in the mayor of a neighboring town, Barsac. His name is Jean Bernadet and he happens to be an engineer. He and many other well qualified people and in authority rush to the spot to investigate thoroughly and get scientific, objective, firsthand information while the scene is still fresh. Here are the details as published mainly by OURANUS, July 1961, a magazine about the ufo edited by Marc Thirouin who is assisted especially by Jimmy Guieu and Aime Michel.

Inside the amazing above-mentioned circle are three others, and all four are concentric. In the center, common to all, is an egg-shaped zone, which is approximately 16 inches by 8. In this central and well defined area covering roughly 1 square foot, the grass has been completely pulled out and the soil is pressed hard in such a way that the oval is inclined downward in the direction of the longer axis. Closer examination reveals small ridges in it. At the higher end of the oval, i.e. in the center of the circles there is a lovely conical hole, 3.9 inches wide and 4.8 inches deep.

The edge of each circle is constituted by a clear and well bounded crown about 2.3 inches wide. The grass in the three inner crowns is pressed clockwise and covered with soil-dust. But, the grass in the outermost crown is clipped at about an inch from the ground. Between the crowns, however, the grass is normal with dew on it as elsewhere in the meadow.

Moreover, on the third crown counting from the center, there are about 50 little holes or depressions about 2.5 inches wide and approximately 3/4 inch deep. They are all regularly spaced about 15 inches apart.

A few armchair pundits explained away the whole mystery with a few strokes of the pen spelling out: HOAX. These savants, of course, did not duplicate the "hoax" because they simply can't do it if they take into consideration ALL THE FACTS with their circumstances.

On the other hand, the above-mentioned qualified investigators, who made a long and complete, on-the-spot-check with the things and people concerned, agreed that sometime during the night of July 18-19th an aircraft with a circular base landed on the field and that at least parts of it revolved clockwise.

Was this aircraft a ufo? A meticulous inquiry was made among the people, and as far as this writer could find out, no one mentioned seeing and/or hearing a ufo in that region at that time. However, it's entirely probable that someone has seen it, either local residents or autoists on the much travelled and nearby highway Number 113. Perhaps for fear of ridicule or losing their job or any of several probable reasons, they won't talk.

However, when one puts together the colossal amount of very reliable information gathered in this particular case and in the hundred of thousands of ufo-cases over the globe, from time immemorial especially since the last winter of World War II, 1944-45, one is bound to conclude that a ufo did at Cerons what so many others did elsewhere, the only difference being that this time, no one, as far as we know, saw it come and/or go. ■

THE UFO AND THE 3-4-5 RELATIONSHIP
OF RIGHT-ANGLE TRIANGLES

By Kenneth Larson

This is a discussion of an interesting article written by Dr. Dan Q. Posin in the September, 1963 issue of SAUCERS, SPACE & SCIENCE. The title of the article was "Can We Communicate With Distant Planets?". The article concerned the possibility of communication between inhabited planets in the galaxy. Dr. Posin suggested that intelligent beings in nearby solar systems might utilize an elementary, introductory type of communication pattern. He said: "Perhaps many solar systems have planets sending out such elementary contact-establishing pulses right now... pulses that by your count would find to be grouped in this way: 9-12-15, 12-16-20." Posin elaborates on the 3-4-5 relationship of right-angle triangles, so that if one makes the square of 3 by 3, 4 by 4, and 5 by 5, the areas of the first two squares together add up to the area of the third square. For example, 3 x 3 equals 9, 4 x 4 equals 16 and 5 x 5 equals 25. Thus, 25 equals 9 plus 16. An intelligent race, he suggests, might use these simple mathematical patterns for communication between worlds.

- Commencing in January, 1960, I started a technical analysis of certain unusual UFO reports over the American continent between 1896 and the present time. These UFO reports involved geographical features such as mountains, lakes, harbors, coastlines, etc. At the conclusion of this analysis...an analysis involving mathematics, geometrical designs, maps and literary research of UFO reports...I had come to the reasoned conclusion that these UFO reports indicated a mathematical, pre-determined long-range and scientific program of operations. This program involved the mathematical design of the USA West Coast and of the Planet Earth by a Designer. Furthermore, these UFO reports seemed to be closely connected to the record of the Old and the New Testaments, the Dead Sea Scrolls caves the Rosetta Stone site, the Book of Mormon plates, the Great Pyramid design and location, the first atomic test site, and the concept of extra-terrestrial life. Basically, there appear to be regular or equal units of measurements between certain outstanding UFO reports on the American West Coast. These UFO reports extend from 1896 to the present year...but the most important UFO dates and sites appear to be as follows:

- (1) San Francisco, California:
11-24-1896 and 1-18-1961
- (2) Red Bluff, California:
11-24-1896 and 8-13-1960
- (3) Los Angeles, California:
2-25-1942
- (4) Mount Rainier, Washington:
6-24-1947
- (5) Salt Lake, Utah:
7-2-1952 (also Washington, D.C.)
- (6) Levelland, Texas; White Sands, N.M.;
Salton Sea, California:
11-3 and 4-1957
- (7) Red Bluff, California:

These UFO report sites have been plotted on a standard library map folio of the western USA. They appear to be positioned in such a way that the sites become part of a mathematical and geometrical design. This mathematical design is the chief feature of the plan and side views of the Great Pyramid of Gizeh in ancient Egypt. The plan view is shaped like a square, with the apex or top-stone in the center of the square. The Great Pyramid is approximately 481 ft. high and 755 feet long at the base. It was first forced open by the Arabs in 820 A.D. ...after being constructed around 2600 B.C. The Arabs dug into the side of the pyramid and discovered an ascending passage (which had been blocked or hidden from view for thousands of years by a granite block) leading up to the King's Chamber. This King's Chamber was of a high degree of perfection in design. It reportedly contained only an empty red granite coffer. This coffer did not have a lid or any inscriptions. The Great Pyramid was the world's first ancient Wonder...and it is the only remaining First Wonder. Professor C. Piazzzi Smyth of Scotland and David Davidson, the first an astronomer and the latter an engineer, concluded that the Great Pyramid contained highly technical mathematical designs and a graphical message addressed by the designer to a future race of the Planet Earth. They concluded that the designer of the Great Pyramid was also the designer of the Planet Earth.

The technical drawing portrays the UFO reports between 1896 and the present. The mathematical units are based on a basic unit of 68.1818 miles. These mathematical units appear to involve the 3-4-5, 6-8-10 and 9-12-15 relationships of right-angle triangles. In other words, these geometrical relationships were superimposed over the western USA land surface...so that these UFO report sites and year-dates become a logical part of the mathematical design. These UFO reports and the mathematical design make clear the intelligent design of the USA West Coast and other geographical features. They also involve the diameter and circumference values of the circle...known as π (1:3.14159). Piazzì Smyth pointed out in his book OUR INHERITANCE IN THE GREAT PYRAMID that the π factor was designed into the Great Pyramid. The height of 481 feet and the base of 755 feet become part of the pattern: 1:3.14159::481:755x2. The top drawing shows the areas of the squares. The area of the largest square (25) is equal to the sums of the smaller two squares (9 plus 16). Other ratios are 6-8-10 and 9-12-15. These relationships appear to become a mathematical part of the bottom drawing. The USA West Coast is to the left, and North is at the top. The seven Levelland, Texas, UFO's of 11-3-1957 appeared at point 8-A (lower right-hand corner). Point B is 11 units west of Levelland. Since each unit is 68.1818 miles long, this distance of A to B equals 750 miles. At point B, a vertical line extends north to point G. This point represents the site of the Great Pyramid on a map of ancient Egypt...except that the USA West Coast Quadrant of the Circle (or quarter-circle) faces west instead of north as at the Nile Delta.

Point C represents the 9 UFO at Mt. Rainier, Wash., on 6-24-1947 (count the sixth unit northwest from Salt Lake). Point D represents the San Francisco UFO of 11-24-1896 and 1-18-1961. Point E indicates the Red Bluff UFO of 11-24-1896 and 8-13-1960. Point H represents the Salt Lake UFO's of 7-2-1952. Notice the five-year intervals between 1942-1947-1952-1957 and the 10-year interval between 1947-1957. Point J represents the Los Angeles UFO's of 2-25-1942. The angle B-A-C equals 45 degrees. Levelland is 8 units of 95.45 miles each southeast from Salt Lake (H). Mount Rainier is 6 units northwest of Salt Lake...so Mount Rainier is 14 units northwest of Levelland. Point H (Salt Lake) would also correspond to the Great Pyramid site. The 3-4-5, 6-8-10 and 9-12-15 patterns can be applied to the Levelland-Salt Lake-Mt. Rainier straight line. Levelland would become point 8 of the 6-8-10 pattern ... as would Salt Lake. Mt. Rainier becomes part of the same pattern. Note that the square 3-3-3-3 is centered on Salt Lake. This square has an area of 9. In the same manner, the square 4-4-4-4 has an area of 16, and the square 5-5-5-5 has an area of 25.

The circle is centered on Point G, and the radius extends from G to G (Mt. Rainier). Notice how the circle extends from Mt. Rainier through points 3 and 3 of the 3-3-3-3 square. These points 3 and 3 (when multiplied) form the area of 9. In the same way, larger circles...when centered on G ...cut through points 4 and 4, 5 and 5, etc. This can be continued on so as to form the areas of larger, exploded-view squares.

The dotted curves point to the patterns of 3-4-5, 6-8-10 and 9-12-15. These patterns extend along the diagonal lines of the square 10-10-10-10. This square forms the plan view of the Great Pyramid of Gizeh, with the center at Salt Lake. In the same way, square 8-8-8-8 forms the Great Pyramid plan view. Thus, Levelland (point 8) becomes a corner-socket of the Great Pyramid plan view. It is interesting to note that the Salton Sea (at point B) is about 755 miles west of Levelland (point A). The Great Pyramid base length equals 755 feet...and this would equal one foot to each mile. On 11-3-1957, the seven UFO's appeared at point A. Then, on 11-4-1957, a flashing UFO appeared at the Salton Sea and blinked a powerful white light eight times in succession. Notice that the Salton Sea is 11 units west of Levelland...and this accounts for the 11-4 date. Levelland is 11 units east...so we have the 11-3 date. The interesting point is that on 4-11-1963, another UFO appeared at the Salton Sea and blinked a powerful blue light 7-8-9-10 times in succession. NOTICE HOW 11-4 AND 4-11 CAN BE INTERCHANGED. The Salton Sea is 4 units east of point 7 in the lower left-hand corner...so that the Salton Sea site is both 11-4 and 4-11 (1957 and 1963).

The straight line extending from Mount Rainier (C) to E and D forms an angle of 76 degrees 17' with the Levelland -Salton Sea base line. The apex angle of the Great Pyramid is also 76 degrees 17'. The angle B-A-E equals 26 degrees 18'10". This angle is found within the Great Pyramid, since it is the angle of slope of the Grand Gallery leading up to the King's Chamber. The King's Chamber is on the 50th level of the Great Pyramid and it is 19 ft. high. It has 7 stones in the top 5th layer of stones in the walls. Notice how 19-50-5-7 becomes part of the Levelland-Salton Sea UFO dates of 11-3-1957. Another Great Pyramid researcher...Morton Edgar... pointed out that the angle extending from the Great Pyramid to Bethlehem (the birthplace of Jesus Christ) and along the latitude 30 North line also forms the angle of 26 degrees 18'10".

"In that day shall there be an altar to the LORD in the midst of the land of Egypt, and a pillar at the border thereof to the LORD." (Isaiah 19:19)

"Where wast thou when I laid the foundations of the earth? declare, if thou hast understanding. Who hath laid the measures thereof, if thou knowest? or who has stretched the line upon it? Whereupon are the foundations thereof fastened? or who laid the cornerstone thereof? When the morning stars sang together, and all the sons of God shouted for joy?" (Job 38:4-7). "Who hath measured the waters in the hollow of his hand, and meted out heaven with the span, and comprehended the dust of the earth in a measure... (Isaiah 40:12 KJV)■

Seeing the Invisible -(Conclusion)

seemed to live in the sky as though that element was it's natural habitat. At the center of the arc in the lighted areas was a smaller brighter spot of blue (scout craft). But bear in mind nothing was real brilliant but rather ethereal and that is as close as I can come to describing the lighted section of the object. It seemed to cut a swathe through the sky or perhaps a better word, atmosphere.

The object was real and yet a quality of unreality or ethereal... hard to explain."

This huge craft which suddenly appeared above me, without a sound as if it had emerged from the invisible world taking on matter, so as to become visible long enough to be photographed. I also experienced the same feelings that Mr. Watson had when he witnessed the object. One felt that this object knew without a doubt it was on a definite mission. You knew that it knew where it was going, what it was doing and above all why it was doing it, and for what good reason!■

and fear into your hearts. Bender, Shaver, Jarrold, Barker, all have their place in this book. Theories are mullled over giving the serious ufologer food for thought. If you are a sensitive person, I would not advise reading this book. You will be nervous for days after reading it. Should you decide to buy it, you won't be able to put it down until you've read every spine-tingling word. One more word of caution---don't read it alone in the house.."they" may be observing you as their next victim, and your calls for help would go unnoticed. Not that it would do any good against these superiour aliens because you couldn't go on anymore without being "silenced". If you have a weak heart, don't take the chance of "knowing too much" it's easier to quit now. Illustrations in the book were done by Gene Duplantier. Price $3.00

UFO REPORT BY GEORGE D. FAWCETT

Worldwide skies in 1963 were flooded by reports of renewed flurries of sightings of UFOs.

Mr. George D. Fawcett of Easton, Pa., UFO investigator for the past almost 17 years, stated that these sightings of strange, mysterious unknown flying objects are increasing and have been for many years a serious worldwide problem. A documented 128-page "UFO EVIDENCE REPORT" to be published by NICAP in Washington, D.C., in 1964 will prove UFO censorship and reality and spark probable 'open hearings' in Congress.

"The U.S. Air Force policy is to continue to deny the existence of UFOs on one hand and to openly tell credible witnesses not to talk about them on the other", stated Fawcett. The record of a few of the many UFO encounters in 1963 indicates a real and a serious problem. Let's take a close look at some of them.....

Jan. 26, 1963--Livron, France. Two farm workers said they saw a luminous object in the sky yesterday for 30 seconds. It appeared round and flat and revolved in the skies.

Feb. 16, 1963--Willow Grove, Australia. Dairy farmer Charlie Brew reported a 'thick disc' that frightened his horse and herd of cows into panic. Brew described the object as "battleship grey" in color with a band of glass or plastic around its circumference and a number of protrusions which looked like scoops.

March 9, 1963--Crystal Lake, Montana. Mr. Amos Biggs spotted a "strange contraption" that hovered and landed on frozen Crystal Lake. It was silver in color, saucer-shaped on the bottom with a slight oval compartment at the top. It stayed on the lake for around 10 minutes, during which time a door was seen to open and to shut with no one getting on or off the object. When the door closed the object took off with a slight buzzing sound.

April 23, 1963--Hurohoro Bluffs, N.Z. Alwyn Green heard a "real weird swish, whooshing noise" and saw something like a round black sphere coming towards him. It then stopped, momentarily, then took off with a loud swish.

May 12, 1963--Oncativo, Argentina. Yolanda and Miriam Curas of Cordoba saw an elongated brilliant object with streaks of green, red and yellow cross their car road at high speed ahead of them. Later they noticed the strange object sitting beside the road, "a reddish hut-shaped thing" with windows or portholes evident.

May 19, 1963--Lake Michigan. Rev. Father R. Dean Johnson and his wife saw a huge circular object with two rows of square lighted windows near a road. They estimated that the object was about 80 feet wide and 15 feet high and around 200 feet above ground.

June 21, 1963--Chicago, Ill. An object with five small individual lights or windows, spinning like a top and in tight circles was observed by Miss Janice McKay and her friend Paul. They both reported sharp manoeuvres by the object.

June 25, 1963--Quincy, Mass. Reporter Richard Pothier of the Quincy Patriot-Ledger took a time exposure photograph of an orange and white-lighted UFO using a tripod mounted 35mm camera. Dozens of sightings that night were reported from all over the state of Massachusetts of a similar object like the one photographed.

July 20, 1963--California. At 7 a.m. Bob Renaud got two snapshots of a saucer with a dome on its top by using an inexpensive Ansco Pioneer camera on Kodak 620 Pan Film.

July 26, 1963--Edinburgh, Scotland. Mr. J.G. Ben Oddotte, a student at Edinburgh University watched "an object with a flat base and a round top", silvery-blue with a rotating base for 3 minutes. It was like a saucer with a cup on top and upside down.

July 31, 1963--Philadelphia, Pa., Numerous Philadelphians reported a strange reddish UFO with a "flashing red and white light" and a red tail that hovered over Philadelphia for a long period of time. The object was also seen by observers at the Tower of the Philadelphia International Airport and radar contacts were made by both the International and McGuire Air Force Base, New Jersey. Three UFOs were picked up by the radar shack at the International Airport and were later confirmed by visual sightings by the Tower. Pilots confirmed the sightings from the air and radarscope photographs were taken from the ground. The UFOs manoeuvred with a series of twists, turns and loops.

August 5, 1963--Fairfield, Illinois. Ronnie Austin and his date Phyllis Bruce reported a UFO that pursued Austin's car for almost an hour. The orange-lighted UFO came within 100 ft of his car and appeared to be the size of an auto. His radio went wild with static on his car and his motor sputtered, as his car raced at 120 mph. Austin was placed under sedation.

September 17, 1963--Copley, Ohio. Mr. E.J. Diehl, Fire Insurance Inspector of the Ohio Inspection Bureau sighted two brilliant hovering UFOs in the N.E. sky at 11:30 pm. One took off West, stopped and hovered again. The other took off East and disappeared rapidly over the horizon.

September 26, 1963--Sunnyvale, Calif. A disc with a small off-center bright spot was seen at 4:15 am to 4:20 am by observers in scattered locations. Police officer Galen Anderson described a straight line flight, a sudden turn and an edgewise view during his 45 second observation.

October 4, 1963-- East Hartland, Conn. State Rep. L.B. Martin sighted a triangular UFO at about 1:00 pm. The UFO sped over at an estimated 2,000 mph and trailed a fire-like exhaust. Martin said the details were sharp, including a row of black dots near its forward edge. The object flew with the base of the triangle forward.

November 12, 1963--Port Huron, Mich. Deputy Sheriffs Robert Baker and Merle Clark at 5:15 am, chased a low-flying UFO at speeds up to 75 mph. At times it seemed to have a big divided window on it, Baker said. It flashed a red light and moved away to the N.W. making a motor-like sound.

Many area residents reported a similar object on the same night.

November 20, 1963--Neché, North Dakota. Two high school girls reported that a bright orange oval-shaped object circled their car at night while they were enroute home. The girls, Nita Kain and Cheryl Kelm, were driving on Hwy. 55 east of town when they first saw the UFO. It appeared to be surrounded by a light haze. The glowing object sped across in front of the car and circled around the side before disappearing to the southeast.

December 2, 1963--Grand Rapids, Mich. A motorist stopped at a traffic light about 9:30 am. noticed a strange object "glittering in the sun." Mrs. Wayne Elliott reported that, as she watched, the UFO tipped up on edge (showing that it was a disc) and quickly sped away to the southeast. She described it as looking "like a pancake".

In the meantime, 1964 continues to see increased sightings, pilot pursuits, radar trackings, photographs & movies, background radiation increases, electro magnetic interference reports, landings and near-landings, angel hair falls and fragments. 1964 should open a 'new era' of serious UFO investigation.

Advance Orders For UFO FORMS OF COMMUNICATION.

This is an announcement concerning a new booklet by the editor. It is the author's conclusion that certain significant UFO reports between 1896 and the present make clear an intelligent, predetermined, mathematical, scientific and religious program of operations. These UFO operations involve the mathematical design of the USA West Coast and simple mathematical forms of communication techniques. These are the UFO reports:

- (1) San Francisco, California: 11-24-1896. 10-10-1956. 1-18-1961. 3-1962.
- (2) Red Bluff, California: 11-24-1896.
- (3) Los Angeles, California: 2-25-1942. 11-11-1957.
- (4) Mount Rainier & Puget Sound, Washington: 6-21 and 24-1947.
- (5) Salt Lake, Utah: 7-2-1952.
- (6) Washington, D. C.: 7-20-1952 and 8-13-1952.
- (7) Levelland, Texas: 11-3-1957.
- (8) White Sands, New Mexico: 11-3-1957.
- (9) Salton Sea, California: 11-4-1957. 4-11-1963.
- (10) Red Bluff, California: 8-13-1960.
- (11) Phoenix, Arizona: 7-10-1947. 8-11-1962.

These UFO reports apparently involve these things: (1) The design and location of the Great Pyramid. (2) The Old and New Testament records. (3) The Dead Sea Scrolls Caves. (4) The Rosetta Stone site. (5) The Book of Mormon records. (6) The first atomic test. (7) The mathematical term of Pi (1:3.14159). (8) The concept of extraterrestrial life in the universe. In order to clarify and integrate this data involving articles, maps, drawings and analysis, the author is making plans for the future publication of a booklet containing extensive material and 18 technical drawings. This booklet has been typed and is being readied for printing. Two separate plans are available to UFO researchers:

- (1) The mailing of orders for each booklet
- (2) The mailing of small free-will donations in order to meet present and future printing costs. The name and address of each donor shall be printed in a special section of future issues of the UFO WORLD SCOPE 57. The donors shall receive a copy.
