CANADA - CONFEDERATION

EDITORIAL

Back in November, 1957, we printed our first issue of Saucers, Space & Science. It was done on a spirit-duplicator which sufficed for a relatively small audience of ufologers. Since then, we have graduated to a combination of offset and mimeo processes to incorporate photographs and diagrams pertinent to the information contained therein.

The number of readers has also increased into the hundreds. We had no idea at the inception of this venture that we would be printing SS&S ten years later. But since we are, we are celebrating this decade of growth with this very special 10th anniversary issue, featuring many articles which we think will be of interest to you. This issue also coincides with the 100th birthday of Canada's confederation, its emblem is shown on the cover.

Since we are also starting our second decade of publishing UFO material relating to Canada, we also redesigned the cover of the magazine in one of the latest typefaces, Optima.

We sincerely hope you like our "new look" and the choice of reading matter you are about to read. Comments regarding this 46th edition of SS&S will be welcomed.

EDITOR'S NOTE

Something we felt is needed for serious ufologers is a directory of flying saucer publications and organizations and where to get in touch with them. We've made such a list available in this magazine. We will admit that not all groups are listed, as new ones form overnight like mushrooms; others fold up without informing anyone; and another group change their names as often as a chameleon changes its colors. But the list will give you a fair sampling of worldwide activity among the various clubs.

Whenever possible we have listed the name of the organization first, next the club bulletin or magazine in CAPITALS, followed by the address. Under the name 'Great Britain', all clubs are in England unless otherwise stated.

As in regular editions of Saucers, Space & Science, we always like to add a little entertainment to our reading matter and this one is no exception. We hope you'll like the little section on space humor.

A whole raft of UFO articles appeared in national magazines on the newsstands in 1966. A list of these articles and the names of the magazines in which they appeared is an added extra to this anniversary issue. This feature appears frequently in regular editions of SS&S.

COVER ILLUSTRATION: This is a drawing of an object Sheriff's deputy Dale Spaur, on the morning of April 17, 1966, chased for a distance of 86 miles. Police Chief Gerald Buchert of Mantua, Ohio, saw the craft and photographed it. Deputy W.L. Neff rode with Spaur during the chase but won't talk about it. The chase ended near Pittsburgh, Pa., when the patrol car ran out of gas. Spaur saw the object a second time while working for the sheriff's department. Patrolman Frank Panzanella saw the chase end in Conway, Pa., where he works. He saw the saucer. H. Wayne Huston, a police officer in East Palestine, Ohio, saw the saucer pass above him in the night.

THE YEAR OF SAUCERS

by George D. Fawcett, P.O. Box 298, DeLand, Fla. 32720, U.S.A.

1966 proved to be the year of saucers in many ways, both internationally, nationally, area wide and locally, a former Easton, Pennsylvania UFO researcher for over 20 years stated recently.

Flying saucers have finally taken on a respectability that is not questioned after 20 years or more of repeated appearances worldwide. LIFE MAGAZINE finally broke its silence of over 12 years by printing proof (in the form of excellent photographs, both black and white and in color). LOOK, READERS DIGEST, POPULAR SCIENCE, TRUE and other magazines joined the parade with various saucer articles.

CBS TV devoted a full hour to this phenomena with veteran newscaster Walter Cronkite moderating "UFO...Friend, Foe or Fantasy?" Many other networks followed suit, but not in such a questionable way.

Three authors wrote saucer books that became best sellers overnight. Two newsmen, Frank Edwards and John G. Fuller wrote "Flying Saucers...Serious Business" and "Incident at Exeter" respectively. Fuller was a 1931 graduate of Lafayette College in Easton, Pa. French astronomer and NASA consultant Jacques Vallee penned "Anatomy of a Phenomenon."

False explanations attributed to saucers were a dime a dozen and included Moon dust, swamp gas, the planet Venus, sodium vapor clouds, and ball lightning. College students in California, Ohio, Maine, North Carolina and elsewhere sent up balloons with flares to add to the confusion of eyewitnesses and serious researchers and investigators.

Evidence of saucer censorship was uncovered in 1966 when it was revealed that Air Force Directive 200-2 prohibits disclosing UFO information unless "it has been positively identified as a familiar or known object." A Joint Chiefs of Staff directive - JANAP 146-B, threatens prosecution under the Espionage Act to military personnel, commercial pilots and merchant seamen who discuss sightings in public.

Reports of saucer sightings and saucer landings (some of them complete with occupants) became as frequent as day to day weather reports and public interest began to grow by leaps and bounds, both in this country and overseas.

As tension increased, House Republican leader Gerald Ford of Michigan formally demanded a congressional hearing and investigation of flying saucers. He of course was backed by Marine Major Donald E. Keyhoe, director of the National Investigations Committee on Aerial Phenomena in Washington, D.D. Ford's demands were met, when limited open congressional hearings were held by the Armed Services Committee and Air Force officials on April 6. As a result of this meeting the AF contracted with the University of Colorado recently to investigate flying saucers for $300,000 for the next 18 months.

In the meantime, Arthur Godfrey, Sammy Davis, Stuart Whitman and Johnny Carson revealed their UFO experiences before nationwide audiences.

And even as radar trackings, background radiation increases above normal and photographs and movies of the saucers were beginning to indicate a real phenomena beyond the shadow of a "reasonable doubt" the George Gallup Poll discovered that 95% of Americans are familiar with the flying saucer phenomenon (only 86% ever heard of Lyndon B. Johnson) and no less than 5 million Americans claim to have seen flying saucers.

Some disclaimed saucers such as astronaut Walter M. Schirra, Jr.

who said, "that he nor any other pilot he knows has ever seen a flying saucer" (contrary to recorded sightings by many of his fellow astronauts Cooper, McDivitt, White, Borman. McDivitt got photographs of one over Hawaii.) Sir Bernard Lovell, Director of Jodrell Bank Observatory in England said in Massachusetts that saucers "were incredible nonsense" and in California that the saucers "were strictly an American phenomena." (At a time when over 541 persons in Warminster, England were reporting that they had not only seen one, but photographed one on several occasions.) Newsman Walter Cronkite, in the CBS TV UFO program stated "that there had been no radar trackings or photographs of flying saucers." (Dr. J. Allen Hynek, Chief Air Force UFO consultant has recently stated that AF reports include both unexplained UFO photos and radar trackings.)

Hynek now realizing his "swamp gas" folly states that "no true scientific investigation of the UFO phenomenon has ever been undertaken despite the great volume of hard data."

Dr. I.M.Levitt, director of Fels Planetarium in Philadelphis said "he believed in UFOs, but thought the Air Force should stop its investigation of them."

It has been learned from various reliable sources that recent flurries of flying saucers over Russia have caused a religious revival there. After telling them for years that the saucers don't exist, the recent sightings combined with the fear of the unknown have resulted in many persons returning to the church in Russia, which is exactly what their government didn't want in the first place. In this country the many blackouts have been blamed on flying saucer appearances. Although this has not yet been proven, it is a known fact that many blackouts have occurred in this country and overseas under similar circumstances in previous years.

Representatives in Argentina, Canada and England asked for new investigations of flying saucers in 1966, but what happened after these requests is yet unknown. Chile and the U.S.A. made similar requests.

Colman VonKeviczky of the United Nations, Office of Public Information proposed in a memo to U Thant that a special department be set up at the UN to investigate worldwide UFO encounters and furthermore that the UN be the only authorized group to openly contact their occupants. At the same time, Knut Hammarskjold, nephew of the late Secretary General of the UN, revealed during an otherwise routine speech at a convention of the Aviation-Space Writers Association in New York that "he believes flying saucers exist and come from outer space."

The Air Force next admitted that they tested an AVRO saucer in Canada (which used air ducts) in 1960 and that it crashed after the U.S. taxpayers had invested over $14 million for its development. The taxpayers after investing millions of dollars to investigate saucers, now found that our government along with others were hard at work trying to duplicate saucers. Without knowing his motive, Mayor Barry Ivers of Brewer, N.H., had erected a city signboard which read "Welcome UFOs...Landing Sites Available." This overture was quickly followed by three saucers that chased Governor Haydon Burns of Florida private plane 6,000 feet over Ocala while flying through the state on a political campaign.

Saucer congresses and conventions were held in 1966 in Missouri, Utah, California, Arizona and Ohio and drew a large number of participants.

Things that became common knowledge in 1966 were the September 1953 Air Force Intelligence Manual 200-3, Chapter 9, page 3, which showed official flying disc (or "flying saucer") illustration - NEVER MADE PUBLIC BEFORE. This was followed by the 1958 drawings of two types of Unidentified Flying Objects that were illustrated and authorized to be posted in radio room and on the bridge of all ships by the Secretary of the Navy, This document entitled OPNAV 94-P-3B and told what to report over the MERINT RADIOTELEGRAPH PROCEDURE for early warning in defense of the North American continent. And the final document, one which indicated a change in the attitude of many towards the saucers was the December 24, 1959 order issued by the Inspector General of the Air Force to every Air Base commander in the continental United States. It was issued to all AF Operations and Training Commands and was entitled "UFOs...Serious Business."

And though it couldn't be proven, rumors continued to exist and become widespread that extra-terrestrial saucers had crashed and been captured with their pilots many years ago in the U.S., in Mexico, Norway, England and elsewhere.

LOOK magazine with its October 4 and 18th issues ran a series of articles entitled "Aboard a Flying Saucer" and told the story of Barney and Betty Hill, who were captured and given physical examinations by humanoid beings in New Hampshire in 1961. It sounded like "PROJECT APOLLO" in reverse to many.

A long playing record on UFOs, produced by Century Records in Seattle, Wash., was on the market and was entitled "File 733-UFO." A contactee oriented UFO color documentary movie entitled "Phenomena 7.7" was produced in California at about the same time. Currently America's teenagers were dancing to "Blues of UFOs" and "Hey, Mr. Spaceman!"

Feeling that "flying saucers, little men and ray guns" were as real as "Project Gemini, the astronauts and the laser ray" Fawcett predicted a big flurry of flying saucer sightings to occur in the spring of 1967. He felt more large blackouts and power failures would occur soon in conjunction with the UFOs and that sooner or later "flying saucers" would become a major item on the agenda of the United Nations. Saucers he contended were serious business and deserved a sober scientific probe on a worldwide scale.

Full play has been given to the saucers in 1966 by all news media...TV, radio, magazines, books, newspapers, movies even down to the daily comic strips.

Perhaps the most startling of many of the varied reports have come from local policemen and state patrolmen from over a dozen states. Some of these involved car chases and sightings below treetop levels.

A close study for patterns reveals that 1966 continued the trend of the large number of "saucer landings" and "saucer occupants" being reported worldwide since 1964. A total of 125 landings have been reported from every corner of the globe since 1964, with 41 in 1964, 43 in 1965 and 41 to date reported in 1966. And this list is far from complete with 85 landings reported from America and 40 landing reports from overseas.

So far as the small "humanoid occupants" are concerned, 30 of these occupants were observed during this same period of time, with 19 encounters in the U.S.A. and 11 from overseas. Seven encounters were reported in 1964, sixteen in 1965 and seven in 1966 to date. The most recent one in Pennsylvania occurred at Erie, on July 31.

Persons desiring a copy of hearings conducted by the Committee on Armed Services of the House of Representatives on "Unidentifed Flying Objects", which were held on April 5, 1966 may obtain a copy of it by ordering Number 55, from the U.S. Gov't. Printing Office, Wash.D.C.

On November 1, the American Space Tracking Systems finally announced that they have been tracking three "UFOs" on their radar screens since 1958. These objects remain "unknown" even to this date and no country has been able to find an explanation for them.

The Cocoa Beach, Florida Chamber of Commerce dedicated a 300 by 1,000 foot UFO landing station at Fisher Park in June, anticipating that this may be the first landing place for UFOs from outer space. Joe Morgan, president of the Chamber said that in the event a UFO landed at the station he would lead a welcoming committee. A week prior to this William Van Horn, the Hillsdale County Civil Defense Director issued a 24-page report challenging an Air Force investigator's conclusion that "swamp gas" caused sightings there in March. He said that the records show that it was too windy and too cold for "swamp gas" to form, that the eyewitnesses were familiar with this phenomenon and that markings and background radiation above normal were found in the area where the UFO landed.

UFO photographs and movies and radar trackings and sightings by scientific personnel have been reported in large number in recent months worldwide. Both the photographs and radar trackings by military personnel became "classified" information according to AF policy 200-2 and cannot be released to the public for any reason.

A top University of Arizona scientist, James McDonald, senior physicist at the Institute of Atmospheric Physics, recently told more than 200 U.S. faculty members and students that UFOs are most likely extraterrestrial probes. While studying UFO reports at Wright-Patterson AF base (home of Project Bluebook") McDonald discovered a report, entitled the Robertson Report, which was completed in 1953. It showed that the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency had ordered the AF to "debunk" stories on UFOs and it was signed by a CIA agent named Phillip G. Strong, and was issued because such UFO reports were clogging intelligence channels. McDonald further stated that AF Regulation 200-2 makes it a crime punishable by up to 10 years in prison and a $10,000 fine for any air base official to give out such information.

In many sections of the world many people gave up "overnight campouts" due to UFO encounters which badly frightened them. Many persons are staying up late at night in hopes of seeing a UFO land before their very eyes. The same can be said for Wanaque, N.J., and Warminster also. Some people in other localities are afraid to drive their cars out after dark, because of strange objects in the skies that follow their cars and even sometime land on or near various highways.

Mel Noel of Hollywood, Calif., a former AF pilot who, while on duty with the AF was assigned to a group of four F-86 jets to hunt down and photograph UFOs, recently announced that they were able to get pictures, thousands of frames, but were never allowed to see the results. Noel says that after being released from the AF he remained silent during the 10-year statute of limitation, which ended recently and since then he has been lecturing on UFOs since 1965.

"Flying saucer" sightings seem to occur not only in 26 month cycles of time, but also every 5 years and every 10 years...such as has been reported in 1947, 1952, 1957,1962 and it looks like 1967 will be another big year too.

Flying saucers are a very complex problem and one which must be solved as soon as possible. It is an emotional, military, political, scientific, social and spiritual problem and as such is a challenge to science, religion and society on an international scale.

I feel that the "tree-top level" and "landing" reports should be studied carefully by scientists for these puzzling cases are less likely to be anything else but "visitations" from beyond our planet. And of course they can never be confused with jets, satellites, balloons, mirages, clouds, meteors, swamp gas, planets, ball lightning, moon dust and sodium vapor clouds or reflections...even by the so-called "untrained eye."

It is also my firm conviction that these many unidentified flying objects and their occupants reported worldwide over the past 20 years and more should be given the urgent attention of the United Nations for a global probe of these phenomena.

UFONAUTINES

By REV. GUY J. CYR

Among the hundreds of ufologists, Michel, engineer and mathematics professor, towers over most of them. He, with his compatriot, Jimmy Guieu, another very thorough and trustworthy investigator, reports the following incident:

October 9, 1954, at 6:30 p.m., Gilbert Calda, 12, Daniel Hirsch, 9, and his 5-year-old brother Jean-Pierre were roller-skating in the little village of Pourney-la-Chetive, (Moselle), France, 6 miles south of Metz where the next night thousands of Exposition visitors including 15 technicians, plus commander Cottel, were to see a 150 foot UFO hovering for three hours at 30,000 feet altitude in a cloudless sky.

While those three boys were playing, they saw a "round shiny machine come down from the sky very close" to them. Out of it came a little man dressed in a black robe that reminded them of the kind the Pastor wore. The ufonaut had shaggy hair and big eyes. He spoke to the youngsters, but they could not understand. They ran away, but soon stopped and looked back. As they did, they saw the craft going up and "very fast". Another villager of Pourney, a man, said he was several hundred yards away from the boys at the time and saw the craft climb rapidly skyward.

When I take into consideration the above-mentioned details along with many others reported elsewhere by those who researched thoroughly into this case, plus the tens of thousands of other well-authenticated sightings over insignificant planet-3, a grain of sand in our solar system-Z, I find myself intellectually obliged to believe at least the substance of this account.

If we judge by our standards, which should no longer be considered as universal, this particular ufonaut, like so many others well authenticated by Lorenzen, Michel, Guieu, Marc Thirouin, etc., is very small. I like to call them 'ufonautines.' That physical characteristic (smallness) alone has caused much silly laughter and 'sure proof' for the skeptic that this and that story is not true. However, in view of the already large number of well documented cases in ufolore and also when the latest scientific discoveries are considered, those who are really objective will be convinced of the possibility and even of the actual existence of the ufonautines.

Indeed, several teams of experimental scientists have discovered that a high gravitational field causes various animals to be smaller, when mature, than those in the control groups. This consideration, plus the realization of many other startling and demonstrated effects of gravity on living beings, led me to the conclusion that, among the extraterrestrial intelligences visiting us, some of them should be queer and even weird according to our geocentric, narrowminded criteria.

Wishing to share my delight with as many fellow ufofans as possible, I mimeographed these scientifically established facts with my own conclusions regarding the sizes of ufonites, and, at the end of May 1962, mailed a copy to 71 editors of ufozines. As some of you know, the article was published by a few. Briefly, gravity markedly affects the eventual SIZE, SHAPE, STRENGTH and ABILITIES of the animal as a whole and especially of certain selected organs.

Here and now, I shall consider only the SIZE. Dr. Charles Wunder, with his coworkers, and several other separate teams of scientists, have found among other results, that an organism exposed to a gravitational field higher than 1 (1 being terrestrial gravity), it will be smaller than those in the control group. This effect, within certain limits, is proportional to the intensity of gravity and its duration, plus the size of the organism at the beginning of the exposure. This reduction in size is interpreted by the researchers as one of the various effects brought about by the plant of animal effectively adapting itself to the increased gravitational stress. For example, changes in size, shape, strength and weight of the tissues concerned were actually brought about. This, of course, can and does cause corresponding changes in the whole organism. Now the size or volume of an animal is constituted by three dimensions. Note well, however, that in this study HEIGHT is the most important of the three since that is the one especially against which the muscles must work in order to procure food and circulate it properly throughout the body.

As far as I know at this writing, the experimenters have not yet applied these particular tests for HEIGHT to upright animals. It is obvious that the circulatory system of animals with an erect bearing has to spend more energy in its struggle against gravity than a 'horizontal' animal of comparable size. Furthermore, 'vertical' animals are bipeds, and, therefore, they use more energy trying to keep their balance while sitting, standing, walking and running. Also, man being intelligent, works, and while doing so uses his arms and hands a great deal. Now, everything else being equal, a SHORTER man is better adapted than a tall one for the efficient circulation of his blood, for lifting, etc. The researchers agree that the above-mentioned anatomical changes brought about in animals exposed to high g's, were all for a better adaptation to the greater stress due to gravity.

The hampsters, mice, rats, chickens and other animals which were centrifuged for high g's were already born and somewhat developed at the beginning of the experiment and, in general were not kept under this artificial stress for the rest of their life. And yet, what differences between them and their littermates! Now, on planet-X, where the surface gravity is say, 3 g's, humanoid Bill would be adapted to that stress from the very first moment of his conception, for at that time he would receive his genes of adaptation handed down to him from a long line of ancestors. Naturally, he would continue from there and build himself a body which would continue to adapt itself to that particular gravitational field. So, he would have to be small, short, muscular and otherwise strange according to our narrow standards.

UFO MATERIAL FOR TRADE

Would like to trade UFO slides, photos, tapes, books, articles, for other UFO material. I have many UFO tapes with such speakers as Major Keyhoe, Earl Neff, Frank Edwards, George van Tassel, George King, and many others that I will trade for other UFO tapes, photos, slides, etc.

Correspondence from people that do not have much to trade is welcomed. Arrangements can be worked out to trade articles as they appear in your papers.

I am looking for people that do any kind of taping of UFO programs and are willing to trade them for other UFO tapes or other material. I have the facilities to do both the copying of your tapes and mine.

IF YOU WERE ONE OF THEM

By Brinsley Le Poer Trench

Flying saucer enthusiasts have often read contact stories about human beings meeting entities from other worlds. They have learnt what the reactions and thoughts of contactees were at the moment of confronting space people. There has also been the occasional article speculating how the reader might behave if he, too, was to come face to face with an extra-terrestrial in similar circumstances.

Now, let us reverse the situation. It is quite an interesting game to play. If it is entered into in the proper spirit, the result may be a broader understanding of a gradual process that I believe is taking place now on a greatly intensified scale. Eventually most people on this planet may have to accustom themselves to the idea of general contact with extra-terrestrials.

Many years ago writers and thinkers such as Jules Verne and H.G. Wells, using the medium of fiction, described numerous scientific developments that have since become commonplace today, although at the time they were written about were considered fantasy. I think that one of "things to come" will be open communication with with extra-terrestrials.

However, before such a tremendous event can occur, it will be necessary for humanity to communicate and live peaceably with his own terrestrial neighbours. This is no easy thing to suddenly achieve. There have always been wars and tyrants on this planet, at any rate for thousands of years. It is a huge task for the races of this world, consisting of all shades of colour , numerous nationalities, diverse religions, cultures and customs, to get together in some degree of harmony and co-operation. A start has been made. The peoples of this earth are communicating as they have never done, but the way has been strewn with violence and prejudice, as anyone can see from a cursory study of his daily newspaper.

Obviously, the business of establishing communication with a completely alien race or races from other spheres beyond the earth is a much more complex affair. At least we know something about the customs and peculiarities of the conglomeration of humanity on this planet, regardless of the differences and temporary misunderstandings.

Let us then, play games, just as we used to enjoy "Cowboys and Indians" and "Cops and Robbers". It did not really matter which side we were on - Indian or Cowboy - but we entered into the spirit and fun of the game, and played each role with enthusiasm. I think, too, that like a good actor becomes completely absorbed in his part, so when we were young, games of this nature took on considerable reality to us.

Imagine then you are an extra-terrestrial, someone from off-planet. You have been dropped here from a space-ship at night on a lonely mountainside, The ship has left you alone on a strange world to accomplish whatever it is you have to do. It will be a little while before you can go "home" again. Probably, the people back "home" have made a long study of the customs and strange ways of this planet and you have been carefully briefed. You may even know the local language. The advanced technology of your own civilization may have enabled those back "home" to monitor Earth's radio and TV programmes, or through many such visits over a long period of time languages and many other useful things may have been acquired.

Now it is quite possible that your thought processes as an extra-terrestrial are quite alien to those of human beings. We all know that most human thinking is based on reaction and feeling. As an extra-terrestrial you may have a different way of thinking. You too, may have emotions, but they may be something you manage, and do not allow to dominate your whole thinking pattern. You may realize that your emotions are valuable but not the predominating part of your mental-makeup. If as an extra-terrestrial you use both your creative and analytical-synthetic sides of your mind more than your emotional, then right from the start you are going to find the behaviour of the human beings on this planet Earth very strange. However, you may have been given some idea of their peculiarities before you came on your journey.

Provided you look more or less human, you should be able to get by without exciting undue notice from the natives. After all communication between the countries of the earth is steadily improving. Negro, Arab, Korean, Chinese, Japanese, Indian, White man, mingle together in the streets and parks of the world's big cities.

Where you would have to be careful is in actual contact with humanity. Not so much a matter of pronunciation of the language is important, but more a matter of attitudes. It is true there are a number of exceptional people on Earth, they inevitably cannot help but draw attention to themselves. In their cases it does not matter. In yours it could be a disaster. You are not stepping out of a saucer for a five minute chat with a contactee and taking off again into the blue beyond. You are here for a six months' or year's stay, and you have to watch points. You do not particularly want to be known as the remarkable gentleman who speaks ten languages fluently, walks through walls and knows the secrets of the universe. You have to play it quietly and at the same time learn to live with an alien culture which works off only one or two cylinders, instead of four.

You will observe that I am assuming that the extra-terrestrials are more advanced than humanity on most levels. The evidence, if it can be accepted, that their Sky Ships have been visiting Earth all through its recorded history surely indicates that they must be fantastically ahead of humanity. All our much vaunted technology has come in the last 200 years. If the Sky People have had theirs for thousands of years and the ability to travel from other worlds all that time, and for possibly much longer, just imagine all the other marvels they may be able to perform. Things which would be regarded by humanity as fantasy now (like television and radar 200 years ago) would be normal everyday procedure to those from Elsewhere.

What have been their motives for consistently coming here? Why have they not openly landed among the natives? Perhaps many thousands of years ago before recorded history began they put humanity here. Perhaps they have populated many worlds in a similar way. Perhaps there was open contact between two races of mankind, one off-planet and one on-planet. This could have happened during the time of Atlantis. Or perhaps after some catastrophic event on the earth (and scientists tell us there have been many) the survivors may have had to take refuge in caves and for a long period of time may have had to live like animals. General open contact could not have been renewed. Humanity had to grow up all over again.

It could be that humanity is "coming of age". Perhaps in the not too distant future he is going to be given the key to the door, the key to co-existence with his brothers in space. Quite obviously a tremendous amount of preparatory work would be necessary and numerous advance missions carried out over a long stretch of time before that Great Day. Therefore there could be many reasons for you (as an extra-terrestrial) to visit Earth.

Let us suppose your mission concerned one particular human being it was considered important to contact. One of humanity's characteristics is its diversity. One can receive his ideas in one way, another quite differently. It might be necessary to reach "John Brown" personally and in such a way that he would not consider for one moment that he was being contacted from outer space. Your job is to meet "John Brown". He is employed in a firm of publishers as an assistant to the editor of a magazine. You somehow make his acquaintance, quite unobtrusively. It may be necessary for you to become an advertisement representative on the same journal, or you may find a means to meet him socially. In some way it will be done. Before long, John Brown will find himself giving out some new concepts or adopting a slightly different approach to life. However he will not realize that the changes have emanated from you. Nevertheless, he will be aware that he has recently met a very interesting person, but it is part of your assignment not to make yourself too intriguing. It might prove awkward.

It is very probable that many such unpublicized contacts are taking place discreetly, and with this idea in mind it would be appropriate to conclude with the words of the biblical injunction: "Let brotherly love continue. Be not forgetful to entertain strangers, for thereby some have entertained angels unawares." Hebrews xiii. 1-2

FLYING SAUCERS

AN ANALYSIS OF AIR FORCE BLUE BOOK

SPECIAL REPORT 14 by LEON DAVIDSON

Contains every word of the text of the famous Project Blue Book Special Report. Also contains the full February 1, 1966, BLUE BOOK REPORT (8 pp) as currently issued by the U.S. Air Force.....This new edition enlarged to the extent that it now contains over 20 added pages of rare U.S. Air Force press releases now said to be unavailable in the Air Force's own files....Also, extremely revealing in that the book contains the long-suppressed report of the panel of five top American scientists that was convened in 1953 to study flying saucer reports.

THE UNIVERSAL FAMILY

By Ronald Anstee

In 1953 when I joined the British Flying Saucer Bureau, it was said that religion would be kept out of our discussions and research. That was all very well in the initial stage of study of the sighting reports, but if our studies are to continue along the natural path of progress and learning, then the sightings in themselves can only be the initial step to the future.

At the start sightings showed us the existence of life beyond the boundaries of this earth. To those of us who are aware of the existence of life on other worlds, the sightings have served their purpose. As to the general public, sightings do keep the interest alive, and now it is only spectacular sightings that keep alive and increase the interest.

Even if George Adamski had never been born, the implications of final large scale contact between life on earth and life on other planets are so great as to stagger the imagination. Those people who stop at the sighting level are either, one, afraid of what is implied or, two, silenced by those who are opposed to universal unity and mental freedom of the human race or, three, just afraid of their own inability to rise to the demands on them under such circumstances, for, let us make no mistake about it, earth man will have to adapt himself to completely new situations.

During the past two decades it has become even more apparent that this earth is but a tiny member of a vast universal family, whose development may range from the very low to levels as yet undreamed of by even the greatest fiction writers. We on this earth (speaking generally) have long considered ourselves as the supreme centre of the Universe. There are still those who consider themselves as members of a family solely confined to this earth no matter how large or extensive the Universe may be. Such opinions are as outdated as the dodo.

Man on earth as a member of the Great Universal Family has to open his mind to things far greater than he has ever contemplated before. It seems that throughout the world there are many who will go so far as to accept not only the existence of life on other worlds but also visitation to our atmosphere, yet, are suddenly taken aback by any suggestion that any physical contact between us is possible. Can it be that some people regard themselves as being more suitable for contact with our space brothers?

Man on this earth does not live by Universal Law, that is the unwritten but everlasting law of the Creator, but by man-made laws. Why is it that the doctrines as expressed by some contacts are so repulsive to so many people who seem to resent such doctrines? After all the idea of brotherly love and a free thinking mind is not new at all.

There are those unfortunately who are not only unable to think for themselves, but also are forbidden to think for themselves. This is a fact, a deplorable one. Another article giving ample evidence of this could be written. But I say this, that the facts concerning this could be very embarrassing to those demanding details of such.

As members of a great and vast Universal Family we have to learn to act according to Universal Laws, whether we like it or not, and sightings of flying saucers or craft from other worlds are, whether we like it or not, indications that we are members of that family.

THE BIG HUM

by Mary Weare, England
via Rey D'Aquila, Holland

This report is based on facts, which cannot be disproved and is now presented in view of the spread of a phenomenon first noticed in 1942 as a faintly localized "hum" heard in London and other British cities which had endured heavy German bombing and sustained aerial bombardments since September 1939.

In reality this HUM has long since ceased to be just that, it is ever increasing in areas of hearing and in intensity, and for many months now it has become a terrific vibratory force, which effects the ears and cannot be ignored. Its physical and mental effect is serious. Its victims suffer nervous breakdown or are driven to consult a doctor and psychiatrist in an effort to find relief. It seems at one and the same time to emanate deeply from the bowels of earth, and yet to pervade the air. People hearing it, have bought and worn earplugs, such as were made available during bombing raids earlier, but to no avail.

Hitherto this noise has been heard mainly at night, owing to the fact that the noises associated with modern living tended to mute it by day. Not so now, it is pressingly insistent and can be heard plainly above the noises of the day, but it is of course correspondingly worse at night when all is comparatively still.

It is therefore established, that this thing first became evident at a time that thousands of tons of TNT had rained on Britain for many months, and when there had been continuous high explosive and cannon fire at fairly high altitudes in air battles. Air raid wardens and nightworkers were the first to hear it, and on reporting, were told by authorities it was a very "hush-hush matter" and they should forget about it.

Then, modern warfare enveloped a worldwide sphere and became so inhumanly savage that the very forces of nature were tampered with and unleashed from the air as a legitimate weapon, and so a chain reaction began which has never, and can never be stayed.

August 5, 1945 the first atom bomb was exploded over Hiroshima, the second one was exploded 4 days later. Today, 21 years later, the chain reaction from these crimes in human suffering, still continues, as does the result of man's interference with the balance of the universe. Having done this, scientists found there was no turning back, no stopping the devil's work, the pursuit of atomic development on a more vast and grim scale had to continue because it was argued that other powers would of necessity also develop this force, so the mad and deadly race was on.....Man had then merely learned to take apart a few of the bricks of which the universe is built, the atoms of URANIUM.

Since then frightful experiments have gone on, the A-bombs unleashed on Japan in '45 are mere toys compared with the horrific Hydrogen Bomb and others of the ilk now stored ready for "instant use" all round the globe. These are POTENTIAL WEAPONS of WORLD ANNIHILATION. As an example of what happens when a burdened plane crashes in mid-air the Palomares (Spain) incident of January '66 is referred to.

At this point, and before stating the cause of the "BIG HUM" which is part of such chain reaction, it is necessary to explain a little about the atom itself. It has been established on scientific grounds, that the atom contains within its nucleus vast stores of energy not otherwise obtained on earth. Such energy in nature is subject to violent release as in volcanic eruptions and major earthquakes, both beyond the power of man to alter or control. (Japan 1945: temperatures of millions of degrees were created, too great for us to understand. People and animals "vanished" without a trace or remains, in a split second, but the heat was so fierce that their image remained reflected in stone as in a photograph. These were the temperature of the sun, but these, at a distance of some 93 million miles from us, are moderated to a degree which makes it bearable to life on earth. Created ON earth, it was a force to disrupt the universe at close quarters.

Since then atomice tests have continued, there have been explosions of verying intensities high up in the atmosphere, deeply below the oceans and into the core of our planet by underground detonation, Such tests have been held all over the world: under the Pacific and above it, in the salt flats of New Mexico, the Sahara and the icy wastes of Siberia, in Woomera, Australia and various other places, and recently in China. All these explosive "tests" have injected forcibly radioactive matter, atomic particles into the earth's centre, its ocean floors, its atmosphere, thereby upsetting the balance of nature.

A few years ago the greatest crime of all was committed by exploding 200 miles up in space over JOHNSON ISLAND (Pacific) a hydrogen bomb equalling more than 1 million tons of T.N.T.

This caused an artificial rainbow visible from Hawaii 750 miles away, and New Zealand 4,000 miles away. At these distances the sky was "on fire" from horizon to horizon, turning night into day (11 p.m.)

At those distances people could read out of doors (11 p.m.) and the blast of hot air travelled these distances bringing the tang of salt seawater to people on land. A fireball remained brighter than the sun, in every imaginable color for some 10 minutes. When it faded the clouds still had haloes and the stars had disappeared. Across continents radio communication went out like a light. The Van Allen radiation belt, a natural atmospheric and protective barrier round our globe at high altitude was destroyed. Later efforts were made to create an artificial one in its place by the sowing of millions of copper needles in space and other devices, all to no avail. Man cannot supercede creations of the universe.

Above ground atomic dust does not fall or disperse IMMEDIATELY, it remains in suspension for long periods, affecting the atmospheric layers around the earth, altering their composition. It is upon this composition the stability of earth and all the other planets, inside and outside the galaxy, depend. Such upper layers of our atmosphere are connected with earthquakes. The moon controls the tidal system of the earth's waterways.

I will now show by comparison that a chain reaction HAS been set in motion, IS gathering momentum and could well take this planet out of the struggle for survival among the members of the celestial sphere. Now for effect.

Earth and the universe, are controlled by a FORCE we call GRAVITATION, and ENERGY. Energy drives things out, force pulls them back. A volcano by a terrific upsurge of energy throws up boiling lave or molten rock, force immediately pulls it back to earth. Water always rolls downhill, fire always burnes. All motion in the universe is produced or destroyed, quickened or retarded, increased or lessened by these two indestructable powers of OPPOSITE NATURE; force and energy.

The earth has abt. seven motions. Naming three: it revolves on its axis (or spine) once every 24 hours bringing day and night. It revolves round the sun once every year in a fixed orbit to bring the seasons. It moves ever onward in space WITH THE SUN. Since it is ever moving along in such vastness and these 3 and other motions of earth are controlled by these two powers (force and energy), the moon falls around the earth once every 28 days at a certain rate, they control all that exists in nature, rain and rivers, volcanoes and earthquakes, tidal waves and floods, life and death. The movement of earth hitherto has been so true to this law of nature, it alters only one second in 186,000 years. It is a law inherent in creation of all matter...

BUT...in the last few years, since 1957, a mysterious "force" is putting a strange pressure on earth, compressing it at its poles, exerting colossal disruption with these hitherto stabilized motions. Earth has been tilted on its axis by this pressure and is gradually slowing down in its rate of spinning. Radiation at the poles has become so concentrated, it is compressing our planet as one squeezes a lemon, these last 9 years anyhow, this tilt and slowing down has continued. Our "day" is slowly lenghtening and the magnetic north pole in 2 years has moved 20 miles (See Headliners - SS&S #42) farther north and 4 miles east.

ATOMIC CLOCKS: in 1955 a new system, geared to atomic clocks, was introduced into a worldwide network of radio-communication by 9 countries including Great Britain and the U.S.A. These were destined for use in navigation, satellite track and astronomical observation. The clocks themselves were so constructed, they were guaranteed not to gain or lose a second in 3,000 years, yet, as far back as 1.11.63, the whole network of atomic clocks had to be altered because of the critical gap caused between their normally accurate time-readings and the slowing down of the daily rotation of earth.

At that time it was stated that a satellite near earth travels at approx. 25,000 miles per second, and if the warning time-factor established by such clocks was out even 1/10 second, any intercepting missile sent up would miss its target by half a mile. Now, further, it is a universal principle, that, if the earth ever altered her speed of rotation and/or tilted on her axis, the following events would occur as surely as night follows day; the problem being one of mechanics, points on the outer layers of the rotating globe (especially near the equator) move at a higher linear velocity, than points on the inner layers but at the same angular velocity. Consequently if the earth were suddenly stopped or even slowed down in its rotation, the inner layers might come to rest, or their rotational velocity be slowed, while the outer layers would tend to go on rotating.

This would cause friction between the various liquid or semi-liquid layers, creating HEAT. On the outermost periphery the solid layers would be torn apart, causing mountains and continents to rise or fall.

This is already happening and it is this terrific upheaval deep in the bowels of earth, and high up in the atmosphere and around us, which is the cause of the terrible "hum" or vibration we are immediately concerned with.

The past rate of atomic explosions has already caused the mean heat of earth to increase. It will continue to increase at the rate of 0'3 oC each year. By 1977, continuing at the present rate, it will have increased to 6' C. (or disaster may strike sooner) and this is the cause of the melting of the polar icecaps already firmly established.

Earthquakes are on the increase all around the world far beyond the typical quake area. So far in 1966 there have been already tremors of varying severity recorded at the following places and others up to this date. New Guinea, Agadir, U.S.A., Athens, Bulgaria, France, Italy, Belgium and England (the third in 3 years). With reference to England, tremors in October 1963 the sea off Portsmouth appeared to be the epicenter of a severe earthquake which shook also the counties of Hampshire, Sussex and Surrey, etc.

Then recently on July 23, another rocked the Devonshire coast and the Scilly Isles, the epicenter of this one too appeared to be undersea. Undersea maps (Life issue) show the Biscay abyssal plain to lie almost under or too close for comfort to this spot, so that sliding in a SW direction would seem fatal.

In November 1963, just after the undersea volcanic eruption off Iceland, the sea boiled for days, clouds of steam preventing observation from land or air. After the sea had cooled off, a new volcanic island arose and proceeded to grow.

Huge glaciers in the Siberian arctic regions are on the gallop, as are others off Ellesmere Island, and elsewhere, huge icebergs, some 5 times the size of London, are adrift in other navigable waters.

Moving mountains are reported from Austria, Greece, Wales and Italy. Landslides and avalanches are frequently reported in various European countries as are terrific floods and tidal waves, etc.

An even more startling statement: ENGLAND appears to be in grave danger of submersion under the sea. I have referred to 2 severe tremors in the last 3 years, very close to the SW shore under sea and affecting several counties strongly inland. In the last few months reports have come in of houses losing 25 feet of garden inside two years along the coast. Over and above the normal rate of erosion inland railway and river bridges have collapsed leaving gaping miniature ravines in the earth below. Down here in BUCKINGHAMSHIRE it is even more evident since last December '65 the vicinity of my home is markedly "sinking", including the area of my garden and that of the neighbors.

Neighboring houses built at the same time have sinking foundations causing terrific cracks in walls and even the garden. The roads serving the estate are also sinking. Water, gas, electricity or underground telephone installations are disrupted and constantly under repair.

Nearby a high hill (chalky soil of the Chiltern Hills) the ground has dropped alarmingly since last December '65. Not far away, a windmill, for centuries a landmark, is no longer a landmark: it has moved too far from its normal position! Houses in the lower area, formerly only having roofs and upper parts of walls visible, are now clearly visible down to the lower parts. All over the world, if fact, it seems there are similar upheavals going on, the rising of the Atlantic floor and the "surfacing" of gas belts being but two pointers to this fact.

It has been mentioned earlier that any tilting of the earth angle or the slowing down of earth's rotational spin, would have dire results on the seasons and the weather patterns. The very "breath of heaven" would be out of harmony. Spring follows winter and autumn follows summer, because planet earth rotates on an axis inclined towards the plane of its revolution around the sun. Should this axis become perpendicular to that plane, there would be no more seasons on earth. Should it change its direction, the seasons would change their intensity and their order. "Winter is come instead of summer". Is not this very evidently happening today?

The fact, that in our present age five major planets together with the Sun, the Moon and Earth have entered in the sign of Aquarius, is an event which signifies the greatest change ever recorded in the history of manking, and this event is in the process of taking place now. The last occasion when earth entered the sign of Aquarius was in the time of NOAH. In the light of this knowledge we can interpret the Lord's own prophecy regarding events these signs are pointing to. "As in the days of NOAH so shall also be the coming of the Son of Man".

The Aquarian age signifies upheaval on the earth and in the solar system.

Mrs. Mary Weare's prophecy in 1962 (February(was made public and she has seen already the first of the events foreseen. All those interested please write to her personally: 55 Layters Close, Chalfont St.Peter, Buckinghamshire, England.

FEATURED GUESTS WILL INCLUDE:

KENNETH ARNOLD, who will come all the way from his new home in Australia to commemorate the twentieth anniversary of his famous flying saucer sighting, near Mt. Rainier, Washington. It was Mr. Arnold who, on June 24th, 1947, coined the term "flying saucer."

GRAY BARKER, author of "They Knew Too Much About Flying Saucers" and "Gray Barker's Book of Saucers."

ART FORD, the famous New York radio and TV personality, who will show his exciting documentary motion picture about the six Navy planes which disappeared mysteriously off the coast of Florida in 1945.

GORDON EVANS, the well-known lecturer and political scientist whose sensational UFO book is now in preparation.

LONG JOHN NEBEL, the popular New York radio star, presently with WNBC, the flagship station of the NBC radio network. It was he who introduced Howard Menger's saucer contact story to the world nearly ten years ago.

HOWARD MENGER, author of "From Outer Space to You."

JAMES MOSELEY, Editor and publisher of SAUCER NEWS, one of the several UFO publications sponsoring this Convention.

RAY PALMER, publisher of "Flying Saucers" Magazine, founder of Fate Magazine, and a leading light in the UFO field for more than twenty years.

JAMES RANDI, magician, escape artist, and radio & television star.

STEWART ROBB, America's leading psychic researcher, and author of the forthcoming book "Reports from Beyond."

IVAN SANDERSON, the world-famous naturalist, radio and TV personality, and author of countless books including "The Abominable Snowman."

The fabulous 1967 Congress of Scientific Ufologists will be held at the Hotel Commodore in New York City from June 22nd through June 25th, 1967. There will be four sessions open to the public, each approximately 2½ hours long, and each featuring at least two of the personalities on the above list. The public sessions will be held on the evening of Friday June 23rd, the afternoon and evening of Saturday June 24th, and the afternoon of Sunday June 25th, 1967.

The Hotel Commodore is a luxury hotel located at Lexington Avenue and 42nd St., (opposite Grand Central Station), right in the heart of midtown New York City, and only minutes away from Times Square. Since all Convention sessions will be held at the hotel, out of town guests will find it very convenient to make the Commodore their home while visiting New York.

If you wish to make reservations at the Commodore, please use the following procedure: Send your name and address, together with the cost of one night's lodging ($9.75 for a single room, or $16.50 for a double) to Anthony S. Morelli, Banquet Dept., Hotel Commodore, Lexington & 42nd St., New York, N.Y. 10017. Indicate exactly which nights you wish the room to be reserved for you. The above is a SPECIAL WEEKEND ROOM RATE - unusually low for a luxury hotel in New York City - and even includes a free breakfast! This bargain rate is effective only on Friday, Saturday, and/or Sunday night. The Commodore's regular rates ($14.70 for a single, or $19.95 for a double) will be in effect on all other nights.

No reservations will be accepted without a deposit, and the deadline is May 15th, 1967. Because many out-of-towners are expected, we urge you to get your reservation in as soon as possible. Please do not send any money to us for hotel reservations; but if you do intend to make a "firm" reservation, check the first box in the form below and send the form to us, so that we can keep our own records of how many people are coming.

"CLOSED" SESSIONS: On the afternoon and evening of Thursday June 22nd, and on the afternoon of June 23rd, there will be Convention sessions not open to the general public. Whereas the public sessions will be held in the Grand Ballroom, seating more than 2,000 people, these "closed" sessions will take place in a much smaller hall, and will be open only to authorized representatives of legitimate UFO organizations. The purpose of these meetings is to discuss and vote on matters of importance to organized Ufology. The format will be similar to the closed sessions of previous Congresses, which were held in Cleveland, Ohio, in 1964, 1965, and 1966.

SPECIAL RATES FOR ADMISSION TO PUBLIC SESSIONS: If you pay at the door, the cost of admission to each of the four public sessions of the Convention is $2.00. However, all those who wish to pay in advance by mail, using the form below, will receive a special pass at a cost of only $7.50. The saving in money is not as great as the saving in time and annoyance at the Convention itself, as there will undoubtedly be long lines at the ticket counters. Pass holders will enter the hall quickly by a special door, and will thus obtain choice seats.

SPECIAL RATES FOR MEMBERS OF THE S.A.U.C.E.R.S: If you are a member of our club, or become one before the Convention, you can receive a pass for only $5.00. Members who choose to pay at the door will be charged $1.35 for each public session.

FLYING SAUCERS AND STABLE SUPERCONDUCTING WHIRLS OF PLASMA - by Hans Lauritzen

During recent years research on magnetohydrodynamics has provided humanity with a great number of discoveries of new physical phenomena. It has not been possible to predict these phenomena. We find ourselves at the beginning of a startling development, whose consequences are of immense importance to the future of humanity on planet Earth.

When a plasma is compressed by very strong magnetic fields it has a tendency to form special shapes (plasmoids). The shapes assumed by plasmoids are unexpectedly rich and have provided information considerably in advance of the ability of theory to predict. A commonly observed hydromagnetic property of plasmas is the tendency of the plasma spontaneously to form shreds or thin filaments. These filaments often form spirals in the container or magnetic bottle, in which the plasma is accelerated.

When a plasma with high electrical potential is compressed by a very strong magnetic field, and when at the same time a very strong magnetic field is created inside and along the axis of the column of plasma, the particles of the plasma will move in tight spirals around and along the magnetic lines of force. Associated with this corkscrew movement are two important qualities; the number of revolutions per second (gyro-frequency) and the radius of the spiral (gyro-radius). When the magnetic fields are enormously strong, and the plasma density is so high that the number of distant-encounter collisions per second exceeds the gyro-frequency, the corkscrew motion is thwarted. A short cut takes place so to speak transforming the extremely tight spirals into a great number of ring-shaped plasmawhirls. These ring-shaped plasmawhirls are superconducting. As the electrical potential in them is enormous and now does not encounter any resistance, very powerful hydromagnetic shock waves are emitted.

For many years superconductors were thought of simply as substances whose electrical resistance vanishes below a certain temperature. This concept met with a number of minor but significant difficulties, which eventually led to the realization that superconductivity represents a state of matter in which a large number of electrons are in a coherent state of motion. Such a state can persist indefinitely in flagrant violation of the classical law that a circulating electron must lose energy by radiation.

A typical property of supcerconductors is their impenetrability for magnetism. As the ring-shaped whirls of plasma are superconducting, magnetic fields cannot penetrate them and they are actually imprisoned in their own magnetic fields (and those of other neighbouring whirls). That is why a ring-shaped current can remain stable indefinitely and at the same time emit powerful hydrodynamic shock waves without supply of energy. These ring currents of superconducting plasma present certain analogies with the ring currents created in superfluid helium (below 2,2° K) when bombarded with alphaparticles and with smoke rings.

Because of these dramatic macroscopic quantum effects exhibited by the superconducting ring currents they can under certain conditions pave their way through the containers and escape from the laboratories without interruption of their coherent state of motion. They will then follow magnetic lines of force.

In a separate paper I have mentioned that such ring currents are created in the magnetosphere due to the interaction of ionized particle waves from the sun and the geomagnetic field. Earth's magnetic lines of force trap the waves of charged particles and cause them to move in spirals. Under certain conditions the spirals become so tight that huge stable superconducting ring currents are created. When the superconducting ring currents consist of trapped low energy protons they cause electromagnetic radiation at frequencies of about one cycle per second. And ring currents of trapped electrons give frequencies in the audible range, which is from 20 cycles to 15,000 cycles per second. The luminous phenomena are also called "HASER", an acronym standing for Hydromagnetic Amplification by Stimulated Emission of Radiation. It is to be remembered the [illegible] particles are in a coherent state of motion in the ring currents.

A great number of ring currents are often combined in huge luminous cigar-shaped fields, but they can also separate and appear as smaller oval shapes or quite small luminous balls. Due to perturbations of the magnetic lines of force they can move nearer to the surface of Earth. Such strange bright lights (UFOs) have been seen by millions of people. The shapes reported correspond very well to the shapes of superconducting ring currents. As they are very sensitive to magnetic lines of force, they have often been reported hovering over or moving along powerful electric current wires. When following the magnetic lines of force of Earth they will often move in spirals - to an observer on Earth the path will look like a zigzag line. They will also tend to move along certain geographic lines because of deviations of the geomagnetic field due to deposits of magnetic material in the earth (orthoteny).

UFOs are often changing colour when changing speed. In the superconducting ring currents the light is emitted by electrons that exhibit coherent wave properties over macroscopic dimensions. And a magnetic field is capable of varying the energy of quantum levels and hence the frequency of the emitted light, as well as reducing drastically the threshold for the onset of laser action.

Many other strange phenomena accompany the UFOs. The strong hydromagnetism gives magneto-optic reflection and absorption, so that the ring currents can look solid and metallic. Also magnetoacoustic effects are common. In the superconducting ring currents the electrons are in a coherent state of motion thus producing coherent electromagnetic waves as well as hydrodynamic shock waves with the same frequencies as acoustic waves. Like sonic and ultrasonic shock waves the hydrodynamic shock waves are capable of giving rise to compression and rarefaction of particles. The free electrons in a current will thus change their density. Now, the behaviour of electrons in a metal follows the rules of Fermi statistics, according to which the energy of electrons is always related to their density. Thus when the density of the electrons in a metal is disturbed the distribution of their energies is also disturbed. Electric currents will be stopped causing black-out of electric-powered machine and instruments. To re-establish the equilibrium distribution a certain relaxation time is required. Then the electric-powered devices will reassume their function as if nothing had happened. Such black-outs are some of the most reported effects during close approach of UFOs.

Two theories have been put forward in order to explain the enormous amounts of energy released by hydrodynamic plasma. The first one says that there are hidden or uncounted extra positive and negative charges and hidden or uncounted magnetic movement in the plasma. The second theory says that the energy is released when the hydromagnetic whirls of plasma assume the same geometric dimensions as the electrohydromagnetic threads appropriate for an elementary particle. The Mach principle taken into consideration the self energy of any elementary particle must be described within the framework of the universe as a whole. The universe is considered as a transient stage in which a transient latent universal potential is transformed into quantized active local energies by processes inside elementary particles. Now

TO TELL THE TRUTH

by Joan Whritenour

In view of the facts which have just recently come to light concerning the 'public' and 'open' hearings before the House Armed Services Committee, I feel that it would be in order to elaborate upon the existence or non-existence of the Unidentified Flying Object. This subject seems to throw the 'experts' who were called in to sit upon the panel.

Seemingly it all depends on the 'eye of the beholder' whether or not the UFO does exist. Firstly, "They do not constitute a threat to our National Security." This would imply that the UFO does exist, but it is merely a fly-by of the Tourist Bureau of Outer Galactic Societies which has been in the process of sending its summer vacationists on the Economy Flight Tour through the balmy skies of its dear friend and neighbour Earth.

It has also been implied that UFOs exist "because we want to believe in them" and that "they are figments of our collective imagination brought on by the strains and frustrations of modern-day world." Fine!! This answer certainly goes far in quieting my frustrated mind but it does not quite explain how a 'frustrated mind' can show up on radar! I think that the machines in use today are simply marvelous insofar as they can put exactly what we are seeing within our minds and project it directly upon the radar screen! Will wonders never cease?

There are many members of our organization (ufology) who have very long memories. Their experience in this field goes back a long time. I will ask them to examine the contents of the general 'contactee messages' that were given out years ago. Upon examination they will find that certain prophecies did occur as was predicted, namely 'the fireflies in space' and certain features of the moon. We have had floods, fires, earthquakes and adverse weather conditions. On the other hand many predictions did not ring true. And if you will examine any Farmer's Almanac of years ago you will find that we had our share of catastrophies then too.

Consider the following which is conjecture on my part. Is it possible it's an extra-terrestrial hoax? A space age practical joke? Could it be possible that the 'caught up' earthlings are being fed deliberate mis-information? That the 'sweetness and light' messages are but camouflage to mask and hide the real intentions of our 'visitors'?

The majority of the messages keep expounding on the central theme that "We are here to save you." How did that save Capt. Mantell? "We are protecting you from yourselves." How did they protect James Flynn of Ft. Meyers, Florida, when they shot a beam of light at him that left him unconcious for 24 hours and left him partially blind? "We come to teach you our ways of love and universal understanding." How and what did Rivalino Mafra da Silva understand when he was forcibly kidnapped by two strange ball-like objects on the morning of August 20th, 1962, in front of his house? "I called father to see those strange flying objects. He came out of the house, still praying and asking what those things could be, his eyes locked on them. He warned me to stay away and walked toward the objects. He stopped at a distance of two meters. At that moment the two big balls merged into one. There was only one now, bigger in size, raising dust from the ground and discharging a yellow smoke which darkened the sky. With strange noises that big ball crept slowly toward my father. I saw him enveloped by the yellow smoke and he disappeared inside it. I ran after him into the yellow cloud which had an acrid smell. I saw nothing only that yellow mist around me. I yelled for my father but there was no answer. Then the yellow smoke dissolved. The balls

Mr. Peter Norris, president of the Victorian Flying Saucer Research Society, released a photograph of a UFO taken from the garden of a Balwyn home. Mr. Norris said the object was snapped by a society member at his home at 2:21 p.m., on Saturday, April 2, 1966. The member, whose name is not available because of business reasons, said he was using color film in a polaroid camera.
"It was a warm, clear day, and suddenly the whole garden became lit up. It was like a reflection from some huge mirror being shone on the garden," he said. "I looked up and saw an object, bright and shining, coming towards me. It would have been between 20-25 ft. in diameter. It was about 150 ft. up in the air. "It seemed to float down towards me. It resembled a big mushroom with the stalk pointing towards the earth. Then it spun through an 180 degree angle on its vertical axis to take up the position in which I photographed it. Then it turned slowly through another 180 degrees on its horizontal axis, to bring the stalk part facing me. From an almost stationary position it shot off northwards at terrific speed, accelerating to what seemed to be hundreds of miles an hour in seconds."

UFO Sightings Boom in Mexico (Upper right)
One convincing photo appeared in the English language magazine Mexico This Month. Anita Brenner, editor, wouldn't divulge the name of the man who took the photo. "He gave us the picture on that condition. The gentleman is a businessman of sound mind, who took the picture from the window of a perfectly sound commercial airplane. He was on a business trip at the time, and just happened to be looking out to starboard when his UFO hove into sight.

Boy, 14, Photographs UFO (Lower left)
Brazil, Ind. Ronnie Thurston, brought to the Brazil Times office a camera he had won in a newsboy's contest and asked to have the film removed and developed. He might, he told editor James L. Coudret, have a picture of an unidentified blue-white object that he said hovered over Brazil for 20 minutes. Coudret developed the film himself, more than doubling the usual time because of the 9:30 p.m. exposure, and found it showed an object like an upsidedown handleless cup.
Two other members of the boy's family said they also saw the object, which appeared to be about 100 feet above the ground and two blocks away. It vanished abruptly without observable movement. Ronnie said he made only one shot because he was uncertain about how to advance the film.

Dorchester Girl Terrified by UFO (Lower right)
An 11-year-old Dorchester girl was terrified by a UFO early Sunday a.m. which she said banged against the house and rocked her bed. Judy Kalnicki of 1284 Dorchester Ave., an honor student in the sixth grade at Mather School, woke up screaming for her mother, who has six other children. Then the youngster sat down and sketched the "flying oval." The object was spotted twice by the Kalnicki family, and two blackouts of electric power occurred almost simultaneously in the Dorchester area. Police also received calls that UFOs were spotted off Boston's Logan Airport, over South Boston and near Belmont's Waverley Square. Shortly after 4.a.m. Judy was awakened and saw "this thing" outside her third-floor bedroom window. "It was so close I could almost touch it. It banged against the house as we watched it. I was sitting on my bed, and it rocked the bed back and forth. Then the lights in the house went out. It was about the size of her brother's 1955 Lincoln.

A REAL FLYING SAUCER, at least that's the claim, shows clearly in this photograph taken by a businessman during an otherwise routine trip in Northern Mexico. It was one of dozens of such sightings during a 2-month period.

PHOTO INFORMATION

(Upper left) - Earle C. Shelley believes in flying saucers. What's more,he contends a lot of other people do too. Mr. Shelley has devoted 11 years to the study of unidentified flying objects and has presented about 700 lectures on the subject.
The retired Ingersoll District Collegiate Institute language teacher, who lives in Thamesford, also believes it's about time the Canadian government admits flying saucers exist.
He said he believes confirmation has been withheld by the government because officials "fear mass hysteria".
"I think the government will admit them with enough pressure," he said. There is such pressure now in the United States after the most recent flood of UFO reports.
"Russian people are told life more highly developed than our own may be on other planets," he said.
Mr. Shelley said that he had believed flying saucers existed before he and his daughter Pat observed what they believed to be one, seven years ago. "It was silver in color," he said. "It may have been (a saucer) or it may not," Mr. Shelley said.
"I have talked with people who say they have seen them (people from outer space)," he said. "People from other planets are far ahead of us," he said.
Recent sightings, he said, according to previous photographs of UFOs would be scout ships about 36 feet in diameter on the average, which come from a mother ship.
Mr. Shelley said he is preparing a book based on research material from other books, reports and through talking with people about the unidentified flying objects.
He is a member of 20 organizations studying UFOs reported around the world. (The London Free Press, March 31, 1966)

As a result of curiosity, an investigator for "Saucers, Space and Science" on UFOs took it upon himself to pursue more information for the aforementioned magazine.
It was seen first on Tuesday, Feb.15, at 6 a.m., and on Thursday, Feb. 17, at 5:45 a.m.
The first sighting consisted of two witnesses, Mr. & Mrs. David Brock. They mentioned the sighting to their neighbors and they said if it happened again to give them a call.
The second sighting was witnessed by 12 neighbors plus a man, Norman Ryder of nearby Norwich, Ontario. Mr. Ryder had in his possession a high-power telephoto lens on his camera and also a pair of binoculars. All those present viewed the object through the high-powered binoculars and all concurred that the disc-shaped object wavered.
What seemed an odd coincidence was that on the night before of each sighting, Mr. Brock, who is a ham radio operator was tinkering with his short wave set and got strange sounds or signals and couldn't make them out.
On Wednesday night after thinking about Tuesday's episode, Mr. Brock thought he would try his short wave radio set again on Wednesday and see if there was any connection between the radio and the sighting. On Thursday the UFO showed up again. The UFO on both occasions was hovering near a drug company's plant. It stayed over the trees about 45 minutes both times. The trees are about 100 feet high and the UFO was about 100 ft. above the trees. The object was about 12-15 ft. wide and a red glow emanated from the top of the disc.

MAMMOTHS FORETELL WORLD CATACLYSM

By Hugh A. Brown, E.E.

The mammoths have provided us with the first reliable forecasts that the South Pole Ice Cap is growing and that it is not the remnant of an ice age of some 30,000 years ago. They are being found buried alive in Siberian tundra, with stomachs and teeth full of grasses which grew in a warmer climate; one had an unchewed buttercup on his tongue. They are perfectly preserved "quick freeze - deep freeze" edible animals. Speculation on what caused the extinction of the mammoths has led to the impetus given to researches in Antarctica.

A young engineer wrote his former college professor, Dr. R.S. Woodward, who had become president of The Carnegie Institution of Washington (the year was 1913), alerting him to the cause of the destruction of the mammoths and suggesting that their conditions, as found, could be accounted for only by the earth rolling around sideways to its direction of rotation. He reasoned that the stamping grounds of the mammoths had been rolled around, from a warm climate up past the North Pole, at the same time that a great ice cap, which had grown at the North Pole, rolled around down to the tropics on the opposite side of the globe; and he showed that the great dent in the earth, known as the Sudan Basin of Africa, was a geological tell-tale of the great weight of that former ice cap; also that the World Flood of the days of Noah gave a historical record of that roll-around of the globe.

No polar ice cap, however large, could capsize the globe without the motive power which is developed as follows: The earth is wobbling, like a spinning top, before it falls over on its side. The wobble eventually puts the centre of gyration of weight of the oversize rotating ice mass too far off centre from the earth's Axis of Spin. An earth-wrecking throw of eccentric centrifugal force is then developed which causes the cataclysms of the roll-arounds of the globe with World Floods.

The first proofs and publicity of the growth of the South Pole Ice Cap is contained in a 32-page treatise entitled "The Great Deluges of the Earth" distributed in 1941 by Hugh A. Brown, engineer. In 1948 he circulated a 72-page pamphlet "Popular Awakening" concerning THE IMPENDING FLOOD. Both are on file at the Congressional Library in Washington.

Dwight D. Eisenhower, then president of Columbia University, received a copy and acknowledged it with thanks. Admiral R.E. Byrd, who also received a copy, replied that he recognized the writer as a real scientist, but that he personally must withhold announcing whether the Ice Cap is growing or waning, until all the evidence being gathered during the International Geophysical Year, which ended on December 31, 1958, had been collected and studied.

It is surmised that President Eisenhower's vigorous support of Admiral Byrd's Antarctic researches was influenced by his knowledge of the contents of Mr. Brown's pamphlet. Both men knew that if the Ice Cap was found to be growing, then the forecast of a World Flood was reasonable.

Academic vindication of the earlier analytical proofs of the growth of the Ice Cap was delayed until Russian, Australian and French polar scientists reported the rate of growth of the Ice Cap during the Symposium on Antarctica, held by The International Union of Geodesy and Geophysics, at Helsinki, Finland, during the first week of August 1960.

Action will follow if individual readers understand the peril we are in, and are willing to endure the fatigue of supporting their own convictions. Cooperation for corporeal salvation may well be to inform their Congressional Representatives of the threat to extinction by a World Cataclysm and Flood, if the Ice Cap is allowed to grow much larger, and urge them to have resolutions immediately introduced and passed authorizing the Department of Defense to initiate the necessary measures for controlling the Ice Cap's further growth.

TO TELL THE TRUTH - concluded from page 21

were gone. My father was gone. Source for above story is APRO Bulletin, 3910 Kleindale Rd., Tucson, Arizona. How much understanding and love do you think Mr. da Silva gained from the yellow mist?

I could continue onward at great length concerning the very much hostile elements which have occurred. I am positive that our readers are familiar with them. It is unnecessary to recount the many 'accidental' burnings, kidnappings, accidents caused by UFOs chasing cars and running them off our highways. THIS is going to help us help ourselves?

These messages do not even approach anything resembling the facts involved in the field of ufology. Some may want to play at being teacher but, I guarantee you, will not teach the facts. They will ignore the fact that the 'saucers' are not just appearing over some self-styled prophet's meeting hall, but also over our power sources, disrupting, causing untold misery upon those unfortunate enough to vitally need electric current to supply their life-saving equipment such as an iron-lung. Most private homes do not have emergency home power as fortunately hospitals do. In most cases phone equipment is dependent on some form of electricity. Did you ever stop to think that your water cannot be pumped to your faucet if the electric current is suddenly not there?

Check your recent UFO reports and you will find that the most recent target for visitors is over reservoirs, water pumping stations and lakes which feed the water to millions of people, power stations, power lines. They have given up making pretty patterns in the sky and are getting down to business.

There is very likely an answer to some of the questions I have raised. It is possible that we are being visited by more than one type of visitor. It is possible that as our old Earth gets older it is getting to look pretty good to some of them out there in Never-never Land. Or could it be possible that we are just the booby prize in that great big floating crap game in the sky? With winner take all? No holds barred? They may want to help us help ourselves but -- then again, they just might want to help themselves!! To us!!

It is for me impossible to even consider that all contactees are liars. Some are quite sincere in their beliefs. So I conclude that they actually do believe what they have been told. But who is to say positively that they have been told the truth behind their experiences.

when we know that the energies are released during a superconducting state of plasma, the first theory can be ruled out definitely. The second theory is still valid. The superconducting state of electrohydromagnetic threads in particles and of coherent whirls of elementary particles present us only with the information on how infinite amounts of energy can be released, but it does not provide us with any information on why and from where the energies are coming. Any hypothesis saying that the superconductivity in itself possesses self-energy infinities must be considered as irrelevant. The theory on a transient latent universal potential has considerable conceptual merit inasmuch as it also conforms to cosmologic concepts and to universal constants.

WHAT HAS CAPIC DONE FOR YOU LATELY??

To tell you the truth, CAPIC has done nothing for you lately. Why? Because CAPIC was only recently formed - that's why. A better question to ask would be "What have you done for CAPIC recently?" I imagine the answer would be about the same. It seems that Canadians are very conservative in their approach to the UFO phenomenon. We are not 'joiners' either.

CAPIC was recently formed from the old IIOUFO International of Canada. We discovered that one man could not run the entire organization and so we elected a Board of Governors. We decided that being associated with IIOUFO in Oklahoma City had its advantages (such as their official publication THE UFO ANALYSIS REPORT - which members receive 6 times yearly), but it also had many disadvantages. These disadvantages were that the name of IIOUFO, the Interplanetary Intelligence of Unidentified Flying Objects, led many people to believe that IIOUFO was a contactee-type group and not a group of serious researchers. IIOUFO realized this too and changed their name to International Investigations of Unidentified Flying Objects. But, the damage has already been done; the old name still scares away serious people. To conquer this, we decided to change the name of the Canadian branch and to not mention our association with IIOUFO: thus CAPIC was formed.

CAPIC is a Canadian organization: operated by Canadians, for Canadians. Our members receive the benefits of dual membership in CAPIC and IIOUFO. Through this, they receive an official IIOUFO membership card and six editions of the UFO ANALYSIS REPORT. Is that all? No, it certainly isn't!! You also receive an official CAPIC membership card and four editions of our publication, THE CAPIC REPORTS. This must cost a fortune, right? Wrong!! The cost of membership is a mere $3.00 per year. We feel this is very little to invest for the amount of information you will receive.

CAPIC intends to, and will, become the strongest UFO organization in this country. But we need your help. You can help by becoming a member of CAPIC.

SPACE HUMOR

Walter Schirra, U.S. astronaut, on looking down at all the equipment, dials, etc., in his space capsule, and then down at all the people on the ground below before his orbit into space, thought - "I wish all this equipment wasn't assembled by the lowest bidder."

Another American astronaut, John Glenn when lecturing German students in Hamburg, on a week-long tour of the country told the one about the Martian who landed his flying saucer and addressed a gasoline pump: "Take me to your leader." Getting no reply, the Martian said, "Maybe you'd hear better if you took your finger out of your ear."

A Martian who had landed in Las Vegas was passing a slot machine when it whirred noisily and spilled out a jackpot of silver dollars. "Tch, tch," said the Martian to the machine, "You're silly not to stay home with a cold like that."

Moe: If an athlete gets athlete's foot, what would an astronaut get?
Joe; Missle toe?

Two Russian astronauts, on their last scheduled circle of the earth, manipulated the switches for re-entry, but to their horror there was no response. After frantically trying everything without results, No.1 said to the other: "There is no hope, we are doomed."
"Our only hope is to pray," advised No.2.
"Pray! What is pray? I don't know how to pray!"
"But I know," said No.2. "For six months I lived next to a church in New York and I learned how to pray."
"Then you must pray for both of us," pleaded his friend and intoned: "Under the B, 6; under the N, 31: under the O, 67 -- BINGO!"

The three-men-in-black are actually underground (mining) agents.

The two-foot tall Martian landed his flying saucer in the middle of a nudist camp. The first woman to greet him was a tall and curvy blonde. Wide-eyed, she said, "I suppose you want me to take you to our leader?"
"To heck with your leader," leered the little Martian. "Take me to your ladder."

1st Dero: Who was that lady I saw you with last night?
2nd Dero: That was no lady, that was my lunch.

Comedian Bob Hope who visited Russia some time ago, said, "I just had my first drink of real Russian vodka. Now I know why they got their Sputniks up first. I'm surprised the whole country didn't go straight up years ago!"

A second grade teacher in Oswego, N.Y., reported that during class construction of a space-ship, she saw a boy pupil crying. He blurted, "The girls want to put up curtains in our space-ship!"

At the Stork Club they were talking about the flying saucer that landed in Paris. A little man with big eyes jumped out and said: "Take me to Brigitte Bardot -- and to heck with your leader!" You see, these space people are not so dumb after all.

Mrs. Scientist: "Darling, what a lovely moon!"
Mr. Scientist: "For Heaven's sake, let's not talk shop!"

7-year-old: (Walking by a marsh with her mother) "Mommy, what are those funny noises I hear?"
Mom: "They're only the Martians, dear."

A reporter who saw a saucer land, interviewed the 18" creature from the cosmos. "Where are you from?"
"I'm sorry," replied the creature, "space does not permit me to answer."

Salesman: "I think a couple of my clients today were Martians."
Boss: "Why do you say that?"
Salesman: "Well, they certainly didn't know anything about what's going on down here."

Our Martian was in town yesterday and stopped at a local bar for a snort. The bartender said he was surprised to see him as he thought the Martian had gone home. "You kidding?" said the Martian, "Your rockets are worse than your subway!"

A Venusian walked up to Elia Kazan, the Hollywood movie producer and said, "Take me to your leader!" Kazan replied, "Very good, a little tense though, but with a little experience we should be able to make you into a movie star."

"You've got to get away every so often and open up the skies and look out so you can see the new stars." Herb Shriner.

A saucer landed near Agincourt, Ontario, and four little green men got out and started wandering up Highway 401. An Ontario Provincial Police cruiser stopped near them and the officer said: "What are you little green men looking for?" They replied, "Little green women, of course, what else?"

The Russian scientist in charge of the launching of the successful Venus-bound spaceship returned home to Moscow from Siberia for a brief visit. He was met at the airport by a Pravda reporter. "Well, comrade, now that you are back home, what is the first thing you're going to do?" The scientist replied, "I'm going to make love to my wife." A little embarrassed at this answer, the reporter wanted to change the subject so he said, "Tell me, what is the second thing you are going to do?" "I'm going to take off my skis!" replied the scientist.

HO-MAR the Martian says -- Russia's Cruise-chef is always cooking up a stew for the heads of governments, trying to make them swallow things that give them A-tomic ache!

The X-15 pilot was unable to reach out and grasp that piece of paper he saw floating in outer space. Any veteran husband, however, can tell him it said, "Call your wife."

A drunken saucerman approached an Earthman after imbibing too much on our happy-juice and lamented that he could not find his parked saucer. "Why don't you take a bus?" the stranger inquired. "No earthly use, old boy," replied the little green man, "It wouldn't go in my garage!"

A science teacher asked his pupil what would happen if a hole was blown in Van Allen's belt. His pupil replied, "His planets would fall down!"

Wernher von Braun, scientist says, "There is just one thing I can promise you about the outer space program, your tax dollar will go farther."

Visitors from outer space have repeatedly come here to find out if there are more screwy people than square ones. They've heard that some smooth operators have well-rounded personalities, whose main interest is to get around people.

The three top tunes of the astronuts by a recent poll are: "How High the Moon; Racing to the Moon; Moon Over Miami."

Two Venusians were looking at a calendar or time machine and discussing the population of Earth. "By the year 2000 the population of the Earth will have doubled," says one of them. The other thinking about our atomic progress says, "No doubt, by then it will either be double or nothing!"

UNEXPLAINED FLYING OBJECTS

By Armand A. Laprade

What is a UFO? The best explanation I have ever heard about this enigmatic phenomenon came via a Japanese movie(I do not recall the title). "We have identified the UFO!! It is an unidentified flying object!" I do not know if this was the Japanese wording as the English voice was dubbed in probably. I laughed, as you may well be doing now, but...have you a better explanation? Oh I forgot, some of you prefer the term "flying saucer", even if it is cigar-shaped, banana-shaped, round, a light or even out-of-shape (I'm no expert).

Eventually the UFO will be explained by some governmental forces when and if they ever succeed in building one. Then you will know they have been responsible for UFO sightings all these centuries. You're laughing again! T'aint funny!

Have you not been told that the aeroplane is responsible for ice falls? Even though they have been recorded for centuries! Modern day ice falls, but no planes in sight, you say? Simple, say some experts...high winds keep them up there for awhile, then...plop! Even on a hot summer day mind you!

How many of you remember Countess Zoe-Wassilko-Serecki? Some UFO magazines published her theory quite a number of years ago. Her theory...UFOs are space animals! There you go, laughing again...but here it is anyway. Some UFOs seem to dance, play tag, follow the leader, play hide and seek with planes (even swallow some - according to radar). Not so funny now, is it? Miss Serecki theorized that these types of UFOs (being animals or some other life forms) feed on enery, pure energy, in space, beyond our atmosphere (the outer limits?), where many forms of raw energy are available (cosmic rays, photons, etc.), down here on hydro electric plants, atomic plants, etc. Attracted by the explosion of A bombs and H bombs, they visited this planet more and more. Hogwash you say! No, says she. They could be vast and empty except for bladders of tenuous matter, of silicones in a special form, adopting spherical, pear, cigar-shaped or other forms that are almost automatic in a liquid or gaseous environment or space. Being filled with pure energy would account for their glow or aluminum appearance at times. Whacky?

Consider the following account. ..which supposedly occurred in 1925. "Four of us were flying old "Jennies" (OX 5 MOTORS) over the Nevada desert. One plane was a two-seater (the one I was in). We landed on Flat Mesa, near Battle Mountain, Nevada. The Mesa is about 5,000 square feet and the walls are too steep to climb, unless a lot of work is done. We wanted to see what was on top of this place. We landed at 1 p.m.

While walking about the top of this place we noticed something coming in for a landing. It was about 8 feet across and flat like a saucer. The undersides were a reddish color. It skidded to a stop about 30 feet away. We walked up to the thing and it was some animal like we never saw before.

It was hurt and as it breathed the top would rise and fall making a half foot hole all around it like a clam opening and closing. Quite a hunk had been chewed out of one side of this rim and a sort of metal looking froth issued. When it saw us it breathed frantically and rose up only a few inches, only to fall back to earth again. It was moist and glistened on top. We could see no eyes or legs.

After a 20 minute rest it started pulsating once more (we stayed 10 feet away). So help me, the thing grew as bright as ali get out, except where it was hurt. It had a mica-like shell body. It tried to rise up again, but sank back again.

Then we saw a large round shadow fall on us. We looked up and ran. Coming in was a much larger animal 30 feet across. It paid no attention to us, but settled itself over the small one.

Four sucker-like tongues settled on the little one and the big one got so dazzling bright you couldn't look at it. Both rose up and were out of sight in a second. They must have been travelling at 1000 miles per hour to get so high so fast. When we walked over there there was an awful stench, and the frothy stuff the little one had bled looked like fine aluminum wire. There was more frothy stuff in a 30 foot circle where the big one had breathed. This stuff finally melted in the sun and we took off. So help me this was an animal. This animal would be one big 30 ft. light if seen at night." How 'bout that eh? Not convinced?

How about the Maury Island incident? Well, you dig that one up yourself, it's not too old and many saucer zines carried that mystery tale! Not to mention the well-known Flatwoods Monster! But then again some of you prefer them to be like science fiction novels which you no doubt have read or seen on movie screens, metallic saucers with other world insignias. Science fiction?

I'm afraid you would have a hard time convincing Lonnie Zamora, policeman, that he did not see one land in Socorro, New Mexico, that Friday of April 24, 1964. This story made headlines in many newspapers as well as UFO zines, and to this day has not been disproved by the many who questioned him.

Since then landings have been on the increase as are sightings. Many skeptics are changing their minds...including a horde of scientists who no longer agree with the military explanations, which get more ridiculous to the point of calling its citizens hallucinated fools. Not in those words mind you, but if the planet Venus is on the other side of this earth, as has been the case, and they told you that is what you saw. Not a UFO!! Oh I'm not against the military mind you, after all they are the protectors of our country and if they want to chase non-existent saucers...that's their business! Whereas science, according to the dictionary, is the investigation of the unknown. Yet many scientists will tell you they are weather inversions, rather than investigate beyond their dogmatic cloak. Of course you have dogmatic people also, your neighbour may be one... or possibly members of your very own family.

Some scientists will not be convinced until they take a ride in one of those gol-durned contraptions! We even have two experts on this subject who wrote a book called "The World of Flying Saucers". No, no, they haven't been there, that's merely the title of the book. Matter of fact if you read the book it turns out that they've never even seen a flying saucer. Do they see stars? Of course they do. Any intelligent being can see stars... and they are definitely there...ask the two experts on saucers. I will not name the two writers of this supposedly objectively written yarn but will give a little background music in the stead.

One is an astronomer in Massachusetts who is just plain anti-ufo. He sees stars and that's all he wants to see methinks. The other is a woman, a science fiction writer. She believes in Jonathan Swift but not UFOs. I highly recommend this book to all dogmatists. What does dogmatic mean?..Well, look it up as I don't want you to think that I imply it is someone gone to the dogs.

On the other hand some scientists think they should be looked into objectively. One such person is Jacques Vallee, astronomer and mathematician, who has dared to look beyond the stars long enough to write a book on his findings (not merely on his opinions of such). He is the author of "Anatomy of a Phenomenon" and consultant to NASA on a Mars mapping project. Interested? Not yet?

The Air Force is...John Glenn Jr. is. The Harvard astronomer?

Last time I heard this astronomer was on the air over a Boston network, speaking on the phone to Rev. Guy J. Cyr who was discussing UFOs. Said astronomer was still stuttering and stammering as he hung up! (Have this on tape too!)

Then there are some who theorize that the UFOs come from the interior of the earth. Ah again that laughter. Desist. Bring a native into this country from Africa or any other remote place and tell him that you and he are going to ride around underground for a few hours. He probably would point his blowgun at you and let you have it right between the eyes. He has never seen a subway train! But what if he did not question but rather was eager to take that ride? Ah, has he ever ridden in some type of underground vehicle before, or seen same in the wilds of the jungle? Hardly, but then again are you sure? What did two modern day coal miners see a few years ago? Still laughing?

Contactees! Oh boy...stop it! Stop laughing at your space brothers! No such thing you say. Well. I don't blame you if...you think they are space animals or other such things as monsters or if you are dogmatic. But if you think they are intelligently controlled by occupants or from a master space ship or space station, then it is possible that some earthlings have come in contact with them. How, where, who? Buck Nelson? Van Tassel? George Adamski? Reverend Stranges? Daniel Fry? Bob Renaud? Take your pick! There are others also, whom you may prefer...can't think of them all at present. I will not go into detail exposing or exploiting any of them. I shall leave that to the so-called experts. Rather, I shall single out a person whom I had the pleasure of meeting informally here in New England. Not for just one day or a single evening, but a few days. Personally meeting this man (now deceased) was not one of my ambitions, but when he left here, not knowing he would not return, my ambition was to meet him again. Did he convince me? No one knows whether he did or not...not even my family or closest friends. I won't admit anything, you say! Well I'm not laughing either...am I?

To inject a bit of humor into an article is not the same as laughing at people...I even recommended a book I would not buy myself because I am not dogmatic. I recommended the other book, I buy, because I am open-minded. Wonder? Some people in high places are still wondering how Adamski could have described the heavens as totally black yet manifested with an array of colored particles resembling fireflies...as described later by our astronauts.
Is life on Mars possible? Scientists still disagree. On Venus? Disagreement. Jupiter or some of its moons? Who knows? Vas you dere Charlie? Mercury? Nein, too hot! The devil you say. But one thing is for sure...We Are Not Alone!!
