HE WALKED THE AMERICAS

BY
L. TAYLOR HANSEN

$6.95 plus 25c
postage & handling

Almost two thousand years ago a mysterious white man walked from tribe to tribe among the American Nations. He came to Peru from the Pacific, He traveled through South and Central America, among the Mayans, into Mexico and all of North America, then back to ancient Tula, from whence he departed across the Atlantic to the land of his origin. Who was this white Prophet who spoke a thousand languages, healed the sick, raised the dead, and taught in the same words as Jesus Himself?

These are true Indian legends, gathered during twenty-five years of research by L. Taylor Hansen, archaeologist, from many different tribes all over the Americas. By consulting museums, libraries and experts on folk-lore, it has been possible to correlate the findings into this fascinating book, backed up by the spades of the diggers into ancient ruins, and by all the sciences with which L. Taylor Hansen is familiar. This is a book that will back up the New Testament of the East, with the Christian Indian legends of the West. In this book is proof that the Savior came not only to one continent, but to all the world. This book will strengthen your faith as no other could!

So you are an individual; independent; a small business man; able to take care of yourself and willing to assume the responsibility for your own present and future welfare? Well, now you're going to get it! Run for your life!

Maybe you've noticed something different in SEARCH this issue? You MUST have noticed! The paper, for instance; the number of pages. Let's take the paper first: you've been well aware (from your newspapers and newscasts) that there is a gasoline shortage. . .but did you know that there is an even worse paper shortage? You've heard how the big oil companies are driving the independent gas station out of business. Thousands of independents, individuals like you and me, have been forced to close down their corner stations because they have no gas to sell, or are getting such a meagre amount that they lose money on every gallon they sell. Well, what about small publishers like ourselves, and small paper companies?

Are you a sportsman? A trout fisherman, perhaps? Then it has disturbed you to read about pollution of rivers and streams and lakes. Maybe you've even risen up in wrath, gone to your congressman, and demanded that those monster corporations (like the paper companies) stop polluting your trout stream. And maybe you've been very gratified that the DNR (Department of Natural Resources) has ordered those companies (and such polluters as municipal sewerage plants) to "clean up or close up". But before you get the idea that Ray Palmer is against cleaning up the environment (he's been fighting against pollution all his life!), bear in mind that he believes that until every one of our streams runs crystal clear and fit to drink, he will fight all pollution. But this is not a matter of pollution at all. . .there is something else involved. It has to do with those two words "natural resources". Do you remember how many times we've told you of the "conference of nations" that was held in South America some twenty-five years ago was held for the purpose (the LOFTY purpose) of devising some way that the "natural resources" of all the world be made available equally to all the world's people? Why should one segment of the population be denied the right to iron and oil and coal and water (or whatever else) necessary to their well-being and happiness and comfort while another segment monopolized it and grew wealthy by profiteering in them? So, they passed a resolution to protect the rights of all the people of the world to those things of nature that God placed on this planet for man's use. One of the outshoots of this "plan" was the DNR. It operates over and above "local government". And rightly so, you might say. That is, if their purpose is really what they claim it to be. So, when they ordered the paper companies to clean up, they set up standards. The average anti-pollution installation necessary to maintain the standard set up for paper company waste discharges costs about six million dollars. Fine and dandy—the paper companies are making billions of dollars (the big ones, the corporations, which are really owned by little people like you and me who may own stock in the company and thus share in the profits). So, they can afford it—and they are doing it! Right on! Maybe it's just incidental that all farmers are part of this "clean up", and have to prevent animal wastes from seeping into streams. Here again, the cost to the big farmer is the same as to the small—but the small farmer won't live long enough to get enough profit to pay for the installation, so he has to go out of business, sell out to the big farm. In a similar manner, the small paper manufacturer has to sell out to the big paper manufacturer. One example—a pulping mill in Wisconsin, employing 127 people. They grossed $100,000 a year profit.

The anti-pollution plant needed to meet DNR standards, which had to be put in in a specified time (18 months) cost $6,000,000.00. The company would have to work 60 years just to get their money back! So, they had to close down. No alternative. A small business man out of business, 127 workers out of a job. Yet, the pulping business goes on, except that now the logs are transported (at far greater cost) to the giant corporation pulping mill in the South. We have achieved our goal—the stream is clear and paper manufacturing goes on as usual. Only one problem—now there is no competition, and paper has more than doubled in price!

In Wisconsin, in May and June, 1973, giant Weyerhaeuser bought out four small paper mills, converted their machines to making "non-polluting cardboard" instead of the "polluting offset paper" we use in our magazines. They still make the offset paper, in their giant mills which already have pollution abatement systems (costing six million or more dollars). So, they doubled the price of the paper, with no competition. All four of our paper sources cut off! Which would be all right, if they would sell us paper from their giant mill. But along comes the government, and because of the high prices, places a "freeze" on those prices. And what does the paper company do—it stops making "cheap" papers, and customers like us, the little guy, must either buy expensive paper or go out of business! Of course, if we buy expensive paper, we go out of business anyhow. Pollution cleanup is progressing, and has not been harmed by putting us out of business, but the intent of that conference in South America has been achieved—a few more “independent” individuals have been forced into a dependency on the government, into a welfare situation, into that total goal they are aiming at—world socialization under one world government under the control of the “secret hidden government” that causes such belly-laughs when it is mentioned to the “free” citizen who belongs to a strong union, owns his own home, and fishes in public trout streams while camping in his $10,000 mobile camper. Remember what the goal is—to make the world’s natural resources independent of national boundaries and private ownership; and in order to do that, the private ownership right as guaranteed by the constitution of the last nation on Earth where such rights exist, must be destroyed. That is directed explicitly against the American citizen. His personal property must either be taken from him, or control of it must be vested in such agencies as the DNR (all in the guise of “equal rights for all”).

You don’t believe me? Then how is it that every time these wonderful and lofty goals are worked for by these organizations—when our government, or other governments act to “better the lot” of the citizen, and “protect” him against himself, and “provide” for his well-being and security (until death do him take!)—the result is destruction of his ability to TAKE CARE OF HIMSELF!

One day all our lakes and streams will be pure again—but you and I will have to have a permit to approach within 300 feet of those lakes and streams. You will all be “equal”, except for that “elite” minority who will have special privileges because they are our rulers, our dictators, the owners of our very souls, the masters of our freedom and our fate. And most of us will never know what it is we have lost! We’ll live in a “pink” world of delusion. think about it as you stare at the paper in this magazine—the reason we used it is because “they” forgot we might get around them just this once by using the only thing left available to us! But they’ll put a stop to that too! What they want to do is to print our magazine themselves, with its contents dictated by them “for the common good of all, and according to the normal pattern of thought”—with us still doing the work, but as part of their giant ant hill socialistic world in which no single ant can have a thought (or act) of his own that will not “conform”. —Rap.

"hungry for long pig"

A STORY OF HUMAN FLESH EATERS! _____ BY I. DAWN

Officer, I have a problem, drawled a young man who had been stopped for a minor highway violation. The officer questioned: "Yes?" This highway was the coastal entrance to Big Sur, a rather narrow road, cleft between the gargantuan cliffs of rock and the ocean.

Looking up from his pad, the Patrolman again asked: "Yes—carry on". The man shifted his feet uncertainly. "Well, I have a problem, I like to eat human flesh!" At that moment one of the forest rangers from a divisional park, stopped to ask if the Highway Patrolman needed help. We will never know if he did, after the appearance of the Ranger, the two men in the stopped car submitted to the frisk without trouble.

Truth of the man's declaration of cannibalism was the evidence of some human fingers hacked off near the wrists, with marks of teeth bites that were found in the coat pockets of the two. Later they confessed to the murder of the victim, who was a salesman who had given them a lift in his car. Then lured (or forced) him to a lonely area, killed him and chopped off parts of the body to eat.

A few years ago in the southern states of the U.S. one of the papers reported the arrest of a portly Negro woman. It seems this woman had a boy friend, black, who visited her almost every day. The neighbors were aware of his comings, as well, and goings, when one day they noticed he did not come out of the woman's apartment. After about four days, of not seeing the boy friend entering or leaving, someone called the police, which instigated a search of the woman's premises.

Inside they found the body of the boy friend in the bathtub—decapitated! Parts of his body had been cut away, and according to the confession of the woman, had found their way to the pot! "I just got hungry for some "long pig" (a term for human flesh in the dark continent) so I ate parts of the body". She had killed her lover after drugging him, and gorged for at least four days on "long pig".

Thousands of people become lost, and are never found again. How many have been scuttled into the pot? Gruesome thought? There has definitely come to light an increase of this criminal practice.

An English motion picture released in the United States during the 50's had for its mystery plot white cannibalism! Fiction of course—but so realistically portrayed, so cleverly written, it had the quality of a documentary. It seems there was an exclusive men's club in the heart of London, that was famed for its menu. Members were wooed into the club through friendships of other members. A great deal of hush-hush surrounded the qualifications of becoming a member. The elite who kept the club booming were the core of members relishing the many exquisite dishes served. They were also in concert about the procurement of the extra fine quality of meat—each had an interest in constant supplying the chef cooking materials. Those requirements were human bodies!

An interesting part of the story, of course, wove around the method of snatching bodies, which could be anybody's disliked acquaintance, a cab driver, or other flotsam of the streets of London. Horrible, but humorous, was the delight in menus of various dishes, all human flesh. Certain members met their untimely end in the pot also, but for this they were honored with a large portrait in the club room, and a reasonable cause of their death was always recalled.

Back to ugly fact, in the fall of 1846, about 90 people with 20 wagons headed west—California was their goal. We remember them as the Donner wagon train. Crossing the high Sierra they were trapped by the intense cold and snow. Unfortunately, that year there was an early snow, around the end of October. Why they travelled an unknown trail is not clear, but weeks were lost reaching the Great Salt Desert, and supplies were low when they sent a relief party on to Sutters Fort, now in the middle of Sacramento.

That party met them with some beef and flour, at a point that is now Reno. Additional mules were also brought. Wending their way to what is now Donner Lake, as viewed from Interstate 80, they were trapped in the unusually heavy snowfall. In fact the trails and all travel had to be suspended because of the snow. They were but a few miles from the summit of what is now Donner Pass, that would have been their salvation yet even on foot they could not reach it.

They found an old cabin, and there the party rallied. Food ran out and even the rawhide which they boiled for a glue-like breakfast. The following April a rescue team found them. Out of 90, there were 11 survivors. Babies were born on the trail and we cannot tell how many were eaten, how many died, or whether people died and then were eaten, or were killed to be eaten. The rescuers said, they found a woman's body (Mrs. Graves) and two children. Most of the flesh was stripped from her body, and little more than bones remained on the children's frames.

Today we have a late report on cannibalism. From Santiago, Chile. A plane with 45 persons aboard crashed in the Andes Oct. 12, 1972. Most of the passengers were players of a Rugby team, though there were some fans among them. A strange story of destruction comes from the survivors which number 16.

The survivors told the rescuers that 18 were killed in the crash, or died of injuries afterwards. 8 more were caught in an avalanche Oct. 29 and the last three died in November and early Dec. of injuries and lack of food.

No mention was made how they were fed during the two months; however Cesar Charlone, the Uruguayan charge d'affaires in Santiago, said the survivors had made a serious pact to say nothing about how they survived until they got back to Uruguay. There they planned to make a joint statement.

Several survivors spoke out when approached about the cannibalism (evidences?) that it was as valid to survive on human flesh as transplanting a heart, for the survival of a patient. Another compared it to the sacred communion. The evidence presumably is recorded in the Chilean Air Force report. Tempers were flying around the Chilean tragedy. Some claim there could not be cannibalism. Others are sure there was, and the question always comes up; were the victims sacrificed still living? Or did the survivors partake of the pieces of dead bodies, from the plane wreck, or did they avail themselves of the members who were injured, though still alive? Somewhere buried within the dark memories of the 16 survivors who walked away from that mountain ordeal, lies the truth of what they fed on for two months to keep alive.

Of a necessity our human culture cannot condone cannibalism. If this practice came into prominence, no one would be safe from the ravishing appetite of cannibalistic eaters. It could upset the civil structure.

Morally, of course, it is grotesque. From time immemorial it has been a crime; and human sacrifice was always performed in utmost secrecy. Strange Occult ceremonials have used blood in their rituals. Blood needs to come from a body, so ritual murder is involved. Bloodless corpses have been recorded found in many instances. There the mystery dwindles.

We know what our civil laws are concerning cannibalism. In the Scripture according to the Law of Jahweh God of Moses and older Prophets in Psalm 78 through verse 50 writes of the wrath of God because the Children of Israel during the Exodus asked for "flesh food" after God had supplied them with fresh water and Manna the perfect food for their sustenance. (18:) "And they tempted God in their heart by asking meat for their lust." in (29:) "So they did eat, and were well filled: for He gave them their own desire." (30:) "They were not estranged from their lust. But while the meat was yet in their mouth, (31:) The wrath of God came upon them, and slew the fattest of them, and smote down the chosen men of Israel."

This Psalm gives quite a report on the situation of eating flesh. It is assumed it is animal flesh God is wroth about. Many other places in the Scriptures refer to the same situation. Eating flesh foods carries an alien blood into the persons own blood stream. This seems to be especially abhorant to the Lord!

1 Corinthians 6: 12-13 also verified this. The Acts 15: 18, 19, and 20, express similar Laws. There are many other references in the Bible about flesh eating, all negative. This opens a whole new realm of thinking pertaining to flesh, whether it be human or animal.

Had the Donners maintained their FAITH, would God have showered Manna on them for food? He did it for the Israelites crossing the desert. Would he have done likewise for the Santiago survivors had they avowed their faith instead of devouring those bodies, alleged to have sustained them? Survival is a miracle in itself. The method of it may determine the Blessing.

YOU CAN'T SKIP SCHOOL

by Ray Palmer

Every day we learn something! And every day we learn more and more. At least that is the claim of those who point to something called "progress". From the days of the caveman to the day of the astronaut, historians can catalogue the development of man's learning, and show how he had "come a long way, baby!"

But let's look at that concept from a realistic viewpoint. Is it really true that man is so much further advanced now that he has reached the moon, over the caveman who couldn't even comprehend the wheel? What would happen if we reversed the roles, and placed one of the astronauts back in time in the cave of his prehistoric ancestor, with nothing but a broken tree branch in one hand and a sharp fragment of stone in the other? Other than his unfamiliarity with his environment, and lack of knowledge of what beasts might attack him, and what flora was edible, it is reasonable to assume that he would, in time, do as well as the caveman, and succeed in finding food, shelter and clothing and to protect his mate and offspring. Each day he would become more proficient in the use of his club and throwing stone. He would learn where to find food, and what was edible. He even might find time to sit and think about the world around him, how it came to be, and what he himself really was. In his life span, he might arrive at a philosophy, fashion a religion, and come to a set of behavioral rules designed to bring some order to his relationship with his family and with the families of neighboring cavemen.

Now let's assume that the entire population of the present were placed back in those days—with one restriction: no books would be transported with them. Let one of them, their leader, issue an order to place a man on the moon within ten years. You will need only a moment to reach the decision that it will not happen! No single man knows enough about the total problem of reaching the moon to bring it about. And without his vast libraries, and without his computers, he could not achieve his goal. More importantly, he would not have the time in which to do it. With the lack of an already existing network of communication he could not even pool his individual knowledge to recreate the total comprehension of the method of reaching the moon.

In fact, he would discover very soon that as an individual, he was no further advanced than the caveman, not one whit "advanced" or "superior" or "progressed". And why would this be? It would be because his life span is a mere 70 years, and in that short time, he himself could not possibly learn all that it is necessary to know to reach the moon on the basis of his own personal knowledge! In order for him to say that he was "advanced" to the stage of interplanetary travel and all the "science" that implies, he would have to acquire to himself the "life span" totality of our entire civilization. That would be advancement! That would be "higher education"!

Man's present philosophy has developed to the point (not original, of course, because the caveman also had his "gods") where he has a concept of "life after death". It is in such an on-going existence that he can "advance" perpetually in knowledge, and have "enough time" to learn and retain all the knowledge necessary to achieve space travel as an individual.

There are two possibilities as to how man could attain that knowledge—either in a continuing existence beyond life, or in a process of "reincarnation" where he would return to "school" again and again. The latter concept cannot be true, because it is a FACT that among all humanity there is not one SINGLE person who already possesses the complete personal knowledge of how to get to the moon. And because time is not finite, such persons would necessarily exist because the "time" necessary to go through billions of lifetimes DOES exist.

In the concept of a continuing life after death, we can understand that many persons exist who know all about how to get to the moon. Space travel, and many more incomprehensible activities, must exist in such a civilization unlimited by lack of "time". It is in such a framework that we can understand that, given such a thing as "psychic" contact, the "kindergartner" of the human race, man on Earth, can get the necessary inspirational organization "from the top", to "reach the moon" and thus learn the most needed single bit of knowledge—that life DOES go on. And to realize that he doesn't "skip school", or "skip grades", but learns, in an orderly progression over an eternal span.

BLOB CREATES A FUROR

"The Blob" is dead, but while it lived for three weeks in Marie Harris's backyard, the whole world wondered what it was. Headlines appeared in newspapers all over the globe telling the story of this strange mass discovered in Garland, Texas.

Briefly described, "The Blob" was a mass of living matter which grew and pulsed. Twice it was sliced into pieces and once it was poisoned with nicotine spray. They even crushed it. Each time it survived these assaults and appeared again, larger than ever! Then, on its own, "The Blob" died and withered away.

Television and radio networks were deluged with calls from curious or slightly edgy people. At this time no one has the answer. Perhaps, by the time this appears in print, someone will have discovered what "The Blob" is, or where it came from.

AN ALIEN IN A TEXAS GRAVE?

Ninety-two year old Mrs. Mary Evans of Newark, Texas recalls the exciting days when a flying object crashed in Aurora, Texas. She says the date was April 19, 1897. She says she was 15 at the time but her parents did not let her go along when they went to the crash site. When they returned home they told how the "airship" had exploded and the pilot had been killed in the crash. They said the men of the town had gathered up the pilot's shattered remains and buried him immediately in the Aurora cemetery. They said he was a small man.

Mrs. Evans says: "That crash certainly caused a lot of excitement. That was years before we had any regular airplanes."

One other lifelong Aurora resident has given identical information as to the location of the grave. When this area was checked by metal detectors by Earl Watts, an investigator for the Midwest Unidentified Flying Object Network, he found that the grave gave off the same decible signals as the pieces of light metals found at the crash site. Strange coincidence.

Samples of metal found at the crash site have been sent to the laboratories of a large aircraft company. If the reports show any indication of alien origin, a court order will be sought asking for the exhumation of the pilot's remains.

Dr. Tom Gray, a physics professor at North Texas State University also tested a piece of the metal and said it was 75% iron but lacked many of the properties common to iron. He said it was not magnetic and was not brittle and dull like iron, but rather shiny and soft. "That much iron being not magnetic stirs my curiosity as a scientist," he commented.

BANK ROBBED BY THREE-PERSONALITY MAN

A man who admitted through one of three separate and very distinct personalities the commission of a Reno bank robbery in December 1972 was found innocent by a U.S. District Court jury.

Visibly shaken and weeping when the verdict was read, Jack Paul Faulkner, 52, no given address, was ordered released from federal custody by Judge Bruce Thompson.

The following is a report, in part, of the courtroom proceedings of this strange case:

"Under questioning from his attorney Fred Pinkerton, Faulkner portrayed two personalities which psychiatrists say he displays. Faulkner had related details of his life, noting long blackout periods. He said he did not remember coming to Reno.

"Are you guilty of this offense?" Pinkerton asked him.

"No sir, I am not," Faulkner responded.

"Why aren't you?" Pinkerton asked.

"Because I couldn't and wouldn't go into and rob a bank." He said all he would have to do is pick up the phone and he could get money, so he would not need to rob a bank.

After Pinkerton asked if he could talk to John, the second personality identified by psychiatrists, the man leaned forward, took a drink of water, tilted his head back and said, "Yah, yah, you can talk to him."

Under questioning by Pinkerton, the man answered in a more direct manner with more nasal intonation to his voice during the period he portrayed himself as John. He held himself loosely erect in his chair, looking directly at Pinkerton, a contrast to the frequent dropping of the head and emotional upset portrayed earlier in the day by Jack.

Pinkerton asked John if he had been with Jack in the hotel room prior to the robbery.

"Sure I was with him, who do you think tried to keep (him) from going out through the window?"

Pinkerton asked why Jack was trying to commit suicide.

"He's trying to get rid of me. He's soft. He's weak."

Pinkerton asked him if he was going to beat Jack.

"Beat him? I beat him all his life."

When Pinkerton asked Jack to bring forth a third personality identified by Dr. Allport as "Monka", Jack said Monka is always present but he speaks in thoughts and therefore Jack must act as an interpreter.

Pinkerton asked again to speak to Monka, Faulkner tilted his head back slightly and after a few moments of quiet, Pinkerton asked if Monka was present.

The man tilted his head back and in a monotone voice, answered "I am Monka."

"I am the spirit who at one time was flesh who now does not reside on your planet. I observe. I am an observer only."

MYTHICAL TITANS BECOME CREDIBLE

Heretofore, Aztec legends about a race of men who were giants and invincible have been considered purely mythical.

Archeological excavations in Panama, however, reveal a civilized race, who were exceedingly tall and well formed. Their physical features are considered to be unlike those of any other race on earth.

JEANE DIXON PREDICTED "WATERGATE"

A wiretapping scandal was predicted by Mrs. Dixon in the Washington Daily News four years ago. The following is quoted from that paper:

Oct. 21, 1968.

"A wiretapping scandal which I have predicted previously is yet to come. It will involve Richard Nixon, but will show him as a sincere man and will help his public image. I saw a ball going round and round in what seemed to be a roulette wheel; the ball seemed always to stop on a double O. It seemed to indicate a name or names which I could not interpret. A tall, dark man also appeared to be involved. The entire matter will affect Mr. Nixon favorably and would seem to put him in a position to right a great wrong, which would be for the good of the image of the United States."

Psychic Jeane Dixon

June 29, 1970.

"Mr. Nixon will continue to have problems within his circle of presidential advisers."

Tells of Later Dream

"I also had a dream, in which I saw two agents of a foreign power working against Mr. Nixon and our nation in the Watergate affair. In the months ahead, this will also come to light.

These agents are enemies of the President and out to discredit our country—they are people who would like to see America downgraded throughout the world. Their purpose is to make as many people in America as possible dissatisfied with our government.

White Feather

THE CELESTIAL SISTERS

(An Indian Legend)

-contributed by

GLADIE BILLS

How true are legends—or—when is a legend not a legend? In a very olden book entitled “Wild Indians and their Daring Deeds, War Dances and Strange Customs”, one legend strongly suggests “space visitors”. As now there are found rings in grass, left by the “Flying Saucer” where it had settled on the ground of earth. It may be this story, or legend, was told from one Indian generation to another, and in the beginning there could have been a spacecraft, and an actual happening. The Indians not knowing what else to call it perchance just thought of it as a “basket”—G.B.

Waupee, or White Feather, was a young Indian man living alone in the forest; but he was a very good hunter. On one of his hunting trips he went further than ever before and came to a beautiful prairie. There were many flowers and tall grass on this prairie the likes of which he had never seen before, anywhere.

Here upon the prairie he found a ring formed in the tall grass, as though made by many feet treading around and around; but the tall grass was straight around the outside of the ring. This amazed Waupee, as there was no trail leading to or from the ring. So he decided to hide and watch over the ring. He soon heard sweet music; but far away. Then he saw a tiny spot in the sky and it grew larger until close enough he could see it was a basket. In the basket were twelve sisters, and very beautiful. The youngest even more beautiful than the others. As the basket touched the ground they jumped out into the ring to dance. Waupee watched them for awhile; then jumped out to catch the prettiest one of the twelve sisters. They were far too quick for him, jumping into their basket, ascended into the sky and lost to Waupee's sight.

The following day at the same hour Waupee went back to the ring to await; but disguised as an opossum. Staying near the ring he nibbled on the grass while he waited for the basket to appear.

Soon the basket came down and he again heard the sweet music; the twelve sisters saw him and quickly went back up to their home in the skies.

The next day Waupee changed himself into a mouse hiding in a stump amid other mice, beside the ringed circle. The twelve sisters came down as before to the ring, saw all the mice and killed all but one, which vanished and in its place was Waupee in his right form. He grabbed the youngest sister. The other sisters escaped in their basket. Waupee took the beautiful sister to his home for his wife.

In time a son was born with his father's strength and his Star Mother's beauty.

In time the Star Mother began to yearn for her home in the skies, and in secret made a willow basket. Then she collected earthly things she wanted to take to her father. One day she took her little son to the charmed ring circle, entered the basket and sang the magic song.

Waupee heard her song and came running to see the distant speck before it vanished in the blue sky.

The Star Mother forgot her earth husband, but the son could not forget his father. The grandfather told the Star Mother to go back to earth to ask him to come to their Star home to live, with them; but to bring with him one of each kind of beast and bird that he killed in his hunting.

Lonely Waupee heard his wife's magic song and rushed to her. They soon gathered earthly things, then holding hands with his wife and son he got into the magic basket and ascended to the star with them.

All the Star people welcomed them, and Waupee told them that each could choose one of the earthly things, brought back with them. They took the gifts and were changed into birds and beasts. Waupee, his wife, and son chose White Hawk feathers. Perhaps you will see their kind; birds with brightness of stars in their eyes and freedom of the star world with their wings.

So the earth has birds which spend part of their time in the forest and the rest in heaven above the forest."

Dr. Ann Wigmore

There is a great interest now in nature's methods everywhere. Just last week I had a call from a medical doctor from Florida. She said that she is sending me 2 patients who need help desperately. One is a girl, a 17 year old, with psoriasis. This girl had been treated by this doctor for two years. As the doctor pointed out, the condition was getting worse. Being with us for less than a week, her problem began to finally diminish. I never saw a person more overjoyed than she since it is the first time which she could understand what to do for herself. She will return to her home in two weeks where she will be examined by her doctor who will see the results. I think that this is a splendid idea. If there could only be more open minded doctors like this one!

Dear Doctor Ann

OVERWEIGHT VEGETARIAN

Dear Doctor Ann:

Do you have menus available for non-cooked foods? I am a vegetarian and am interested in a completely non-cooked diet. I have a tendency to gain weight on the simplest of diets (perhaps because I snack on sunflower seeds and nuts).

Could you recommend a good basic diet for maintaining my present weight?—E.L.K., Twain Harte, Ca.

Blessed One: It was heartwarming to receive your letter. I can understand that even vegetarians often do experience confusion regarding health. The problem with which most health minded vegetarians are confronted is that they cook their food. Cooking food means the elements are destroyed. This is the reason for the failure to maintain health generally present in many vegetarians.

You spoke of balancing the weight in your body. Of course, if the body is healthy, maintained by the proper nourishment, that is uncooked, one does not ever need to worry about weight, or sickness either. You will be amazed at the value of raw foods and its ability to maintain the proper weight of your body frame.

The people on raw food, uncooked, generally, once their health is gained, can maintain their necessary weight. If they are overweight, they will lose and if underweight, they will gain weight. This is because when the body is healthy, it normalized all conditions. Overweight is simply a deficient condition which indicates an unhealthy body. As a matter of fact, any problem in the body, is manifested as an unhealthy body.

The material which I am enclosing should help you to become a healthy vegetarian.

May God bless you to your well being in every way, physically, mentally and spiritually.

NEVER HEARD OF WHEATGRASS

Dear Ann:

I have read in the "Search" where a reader wrote to you regarding "Wheat Grass" and its use in curing Diabetes. I am a mild diabetic and take oral medication. Your answer to him indicated you were going to send him a sheet on diabetes. Could you send me a sheet also? I never heard of "Wheat Grass". Tell me more.—J.E.B., Dayton, Ohio.

Heartfelt Greetings: I was pleased to hear from you and to learn that you are interested in nature's way to health. We have a program in which any kind of problem can be taken care of by the body. When the body is given the proper nourishment and becomes balanced, then the body has the ability to heal the condition itself.

The sheet on "Diabetes" is enclosed. Also enclosed is other material to help you to undertake and to understand how to help yourself, to become your own doctor.

"Search" magazine has been a wonderful medium for teaching folks nature's way to health. I am very, very happy that this is possible.

Do let me hear from you. Let me know how you are making out. You must remember that there is definite need for you to make the effort. Rest assured that the results will be forthcoming.

READERS: Send in your questions to DOCTOR ANN, SEARCH magazine, Amherst, Wisconsin 54406. Please enclose a large, self-addressed and stamped envelope.

"KILL NEITHER MEN, NOR BEASTS"

BY ROY LANGFORD

But they answered Him: "Whither should we go Master, for with you are the words of eternal life? Tell us, what are the sins we must shun, that we may nevermore see disease?"

Jesus answered; "Be it so according to your faith," and He sat down among them, saying:

"It was said to them of old time, 'Honour thy Heavenly Father and thy Earthly Mother, and do their commandments, that thy days may be long upon the earth.' And next afterward was given this commandment, 'Thou shalt not kill,' for life is given to all by God, and that which God has given, let not man take away.

For I tell you truly, he who kills, kills his brother. And from one Mother proceeds all that lives upon the earth. And from him will the Earthly Mother turn away, and will pluck from him Her quickening breasts. And he will be shunned by Her angels and Satan will have his dwelling in his body. And the flesh of slain beasts in his body will become his own tomb.

For I tell you truly, he who kills, kills himself, and whoso eats the flesh of slain beasts, eats of the body of death. And their death will become his death. For the wages of sin is death.

Kill not, neither eat the flesh of your innocent prey, lest you become the slaves of Satan. For that is the path of suffering, and it leads unto death. But do the will of God, that His angels may serve you on the way of life.

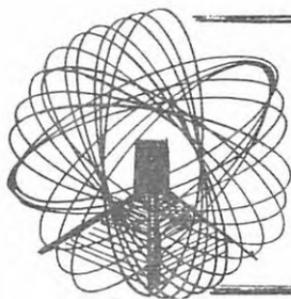

Obey, therefore, the words of God: "Behold, I have given you every herb bearing seed, which is upon the face of all the earth, and every tree, in which is the fruit of a tree yielding seed; to you it shall be for meat. And to every beast of the earth, and to every fowl of the air, and to everything that creepeth upon the earth, wherein there is a breath of life, I give every green herb for meat. Also the milk of everything that moveth and that liveth upon each shall be meat for you; even as the green herb have I given unto them, so I give their milk unto you. But flesh, and the blood which quickens it, shall ye not eat."

And Jesus continued: "God commanded your forefathers: 'Thou shalt not kill.' But their heart was hardened and they killed. Then Moses desired that at least they should not kill men, and he suffered them to kill beasts. And then the heart of your forefathers was hardened yet more, and they killed men and beasts like-wise.

But I say to you: "Kill neither men, nor beasts, nor yet the food which goes into your mouth. For if you eat living food, the same will quicken you, but if you kill your food, the dead food will kill you also. For life comes only from life, and from death comes always death. For everything which kills your foods, kills your bodies also. And your bodies become what your foods are, even as your spirits, like-wise become what your thoughts are."

TRUE EXPERIENCES

FLYING KNIVES

By Katherine B. Trøker

Shortly after the beginning of World War I my only son at the time, was around the age of one year and one half. My mother-in-law, who had been cutting dough in the pantry with a steel knife, left the pantry for a minute when my young son entered the pantry, took the knife and walked into the kitchen. At that time, my father-in-law came in and on seeing Chalmers with the knife in his hand, took it from him and tossed it toward the dish pan in the kitchen sink.

I had just entered the kitchen after having attended my husband who was sick upstairs, and was walking toward the sink when the knife flew past me at a tremendous speed extremely close to my face. The knife cut a gash in the wooden wall from two to three inches long. My husband told me afterward that he trembled at the impact. It was so loud. On asking my father-in-law why he did that, he replied "I only tossed it toward the sink". No one could understand it at the time. It was not done in temper.

Shortly after the start of World War II, around six P.M. during the last week of January, I had another experience with a knife. While standing beside the side of the kitchen stove standing in a sort of alcove; having about two feet on one side and about the same at the front. It was like a room with three walls. Then it happened. A hot table knife flew parallel with me about one foot from the floor and struck the wall with a loud bang; louder than the first time I experienced the same. It would be impossible for any human being to throw a knife from that direction.

My son Leslie in the kitchen at the same time, was the only witness. He said to me, "Mamma, if that knife had killed you, I would be called the murderer". Leslie turned ghastly white. At the time of both incidents I was living in North Sydney, Nova Scotia. I am an American Citizen now.

Two days before this happened to me, I read in the Halifax Herald where a young girl in Eastern Passage, near Halifax, Nova Scotia said that a knife flew past her in their kitchen; although investigated, was not believed. Three days after my experience the same thing happened in England concerning knives being thrown. Could it be some force unseen along the Atlantic Coast? I have been told that some times such things are connected with wars. Another time in N.S. a can opener on the wall made a snapping noise and came across the kitchen to my feet. My daughter-in-law said "Now I'll believe all you said". She was there at the time.

INSTANT ANSWER TO PRAYER

By Mrs. M.L. Johnson

A woman called me one day. She told me her small two year old son was very ill with pneumonia. They had been up with him all night and it seemed nothing could be done for him. I hurried over to see the child.

His mother went out of the room, and I took him in my arms. I held him closely to me and prayed God to heal that child right "NOW". Then I placed him back in his little bed. His breathing became normal, the struggling with breath stopped.

When he awakened, his mother was awed. "What did you do?" she asked. I didn't tell her, as she might not have believed me.

Then I went home. Late that evening I phoned the mother. "How is little Doug?" I asked.

"Oh," she creid, "He's well, I think. Has been playing all afternoon. I was afraid he would become ill again, but he just would play."

"He's okay, let him play," I told her.

A VISION OF THE ABOMINABLE SNOWMAN

By Grace and Harold Baughman

On October 9, 1969, my husband and I had an experience we will never forget. We were in a motel in Oakland, Calif. and had been there for about two weeks, as we are both writers of the occult, and were doing research. This night we were lying on the bed watching television. The newscast came on and there was a news flash on the abominable snowman. We were very interested in what they were saying, when suddenly an icy cold breeze swept across the room. We were both chilled to the bones. My husband said, "The weather outside must have changed, it's freezing in here." I was going to get up and see if a window was open.

As I rose to a sitting position, there on the blank wall was an enormous cloud-like form. It was across the room from the television. I said, "Look Hal, what's that?" We both looked and, as we watched, it took form.

The ceiling of the motel must be all of 8 feet or higher, and at the very top the head and face slowly came into view. The cloud at first was a wide oblong shape and we lay there, scarcely breathing, as we watched it draw together and take form. The head was enormous and the face like a gorilla. The shoulders very wide and rounded, the body was long and the legs seemed short on such a huge figure. The vision was so plain, we could see the thick cream colored white hair covering the whole body.

We didn't move or speak as we watched it all take form. When it was complete in all its grandeur, it was like a human form. You could not see the wall behind it while the dense matter stayed there. For, I'd guess, about a minute the temperature of the room seemed to be below zero to us, then the specter seemed to be fading and we began to see the wall behind it showing through. It spread out and lost form, went into the cloud-like shape we had first viewed, then just disappeared.

The temperature of the room was the same, thermostat at 70, and no windows were open. The room's atmosphere gradually returned to normal. We became aware of the television still blasting away. If we live to be a hundred, we will never forget the magnificent specter we both so clearly saw that night.

SAINT GERMAIN

DAHANA WOOD

FORWARD

YOU have to be a believing soul, true! if someone coming from apparently a divine origin offered on a silver platter such transcendental gifts as eternal youth and beauty, limitless wealth and power, abundance of every good thing, glorious success in the outer life and the almighty transmutation of your physical form into a form of light, called the ASCENSION in the after life—WHO WOULD REFUSE THIS?

The only payment however was the exact obedience to the MASTER! The Master who offered just these prizes was Saint Germain, that fabulous personage of mystery of two continents, called the "Father of Occultism", of Masonry, or cypher code, the discoverer of America, and numerous other fantastic feats!

In no society of seekers has a Master shown so brilliantly as in the "Activity of the 'I AM'". Millions of words have been recorded in book form revealing the secret arcane knowledge.

The Ballards are now gone, left are volumes of instructions, and charts to the higher life.

Some millions of devotees to Saint Germain, may in the months and years to follow find themselves asking anew: Are the great gifts offered coming my way?

In researching SAINT GERMAIN, it seemed imperative to touch upon his 'works' so close to our own time. To review again, the thrivings and agony the neophyte experiences attempting the heights! To study again if those 'heights' are attainable—or REAL? In doing so my personal self was involved, for I can only relate what happened to me in that terrific ascent to the unknowable!

Hoping too, to reach some hearts among the many, many good friends of the same path. Love being the imperishable gem which ascends over all dogma, and human restriction.

MEET THE AUTHOR

Almost self educated you might say, Dahana Wood worked and sent herself to art school, and then at an early age, went into dress designing. She studied Yoga and related subjects at age 22.

Had shops in Chicago, Michigan Avenue-Oak Street being one of her favorites. Finally slipping into Custom hats, and back to oil painting, combining the two, from a street studio.

She moved to California in 1961. Continued painting more seriously and got involved in art association work. Had some 'one man' shows in San Leandro, Oakland, Redding, Heyward to mention some.

Living on a beautiful 10 acre ranch on a 2300 feet high plateau of Round Mountain in the North Woods of California, Miss Wood opened a home clinic for lost animals. She now has a round number of 15 cats plus 6 dogs.

PAPASTRAVO is author of this article, called the revelations from the Ascended Masters (higher octaves) and the information stems from the BRIDGE OF FREEDOM AND ANOTHER THE SUMMIT LIGHTHOUSE. He does not mention however that both are splinters from the "I AM" Activity which got its hold along in the 30's. The first splinter then called "THE BRIDGE" started in the late 50's. "Summit" must be a later expression of the 'I Am' activity.

Terminology is so identical, and excerpt above mentioned plus another, that the Galaxy to which our Earth belongs recently gave earth a dispensation of 20 years, to straighten out or else!! We will be left behind (??) which amounts to dissolution!-I had to take pen in hand on an issue long seething within; for many years, from '40 to '56 I was immersed in that same terminology, which I recognized the moment I started to read the story.

Frances Ekey was a beloved disciple of Mama Ballard, mate of the founder of Saint Germain's "I Am Activity." After the death or "Ascension" (as the Activity pronounces it) of Papa Ballard, or Guy W. Ballard; Edna Ballard, lovingly called Mama, was the supreme head of the Activity. High ranking Masters, of whom Saint Germain was the leader and founder, gave discourses thru Mrs. Ballard after their original channel Guy Ballard, passed on.

Frances Ekey was with the small starting group of the transmissions as they came forth from the Masters, and became a devoted disciple in years to come. Many times a speaker on the platform, and the leader of a group in her home town, Philadelphia. A striking personality, with verve, a keen understanding of the Laws, rather, the "Cosmic Laws" as propounded by the Ballards, (from Saint Germain to the Ballards.) They were told in the beginning and were assured that at no time present or future in this age until the great "Change" would any other channel be used by them (Saint Germain, Jesus, Kumaras, Chohans, Helios the Sun, the Goddesses, and many other Masters too numerous to mention here)—but the Ballards. Ballards alone would be the chalice for the Great Ones' transmissions.

From this background, Frances Ekey was educated (indoctrinated?). I know personally, she was loyal to a fault in her adoration of 'Mama' B. thru the many years that followed. I can't remember the exact date but in the late-50's the grapevine came out with a horrible rumor: 'Frances Ekey' has been dismissed from the 'I AM' Activity. Saint Germain, thru Mama B., had given the order for the dismissal. Anything could happen, if one so close to the top, so beloved, was expelled. The reasons were never too clear. Shift of power, too much personal authority etc. I never saw Frances again. I can well imagine the heartbreak, for her whose life was tied into the Activity, even her livelihood. Her work was that of teaching disciple, holding of classes—decreeing for money, to support the fabulous empire of Saint Germain.

It had become just that by the fifties! However, not too long after the dismissal, thru the grapevine again, came word that Ekey had started her own movement, named the "Bridge". Saint Germain and the Masters were giving her dictations, and later others that defected to be with her. These are not details but just an outline of the beginning of the "Bridge", and Francis Ekey who was the inspired corner stone of it.

Summit and Bridge seem to be under Saint Germain, so it is easy to see why material is along the same line. Some 40 years ago I heard (from the Classes) about the dispensation, and how in twenty years there would be many changes. Supposedly for the best. Saint Germain predicted the YOUTH of that era, would in the same amount of time be the shining lights of the world and HIS ambassadors bringing in the NEW GOLDEN AGE.

Well the 40 years have passed, and the planet is deeper than ever in sin and everything else. More water is fluoridated, more wars have been let loose on the people. Morality at a world low. Mention of drugs is not necessary to fill out the picture. We were assured many years ago, that if we gave the Great Ones our energy thru the fiats (decrees) which means long hours of standing on our feet and saying these affirmations and others, over and over, year after year, wonders would come for us and the world! Evil would be controlled, and gradually we would slip into the new dispensation of the 7th Ray, which meant the RULE of Saint Germain, for the world.

We were assured in our time this would happen, and all who complied with the 'law' and gave, would be rewarded by Saint Germain, with our eternal Victory, none other than the Ascension, the transmutation of our physical body into the body of LIGHT as Jesus did after the Crucifixion; never more to sin or know evil! Isn't that wonderful?

The membership of the "I Am" grew until over a million. Members or students as they were called, came from study groups in most parts of the world. At the great Classes and Youth Conclaves many would come from abroad to be in the glorious radiance of the Masters, and M. Ballard, by that time promoted to personage almost in par, to a living Christ!

Many students considered her to be "A" Kumara, (which one I am not sure). But other exalted embodiments were revealed along the line such as, and this is common knowledge among the student body; that Mr. Ballard had been George Washington in that life, while Mrs. Ballard had been Ben Franklin. This was not rumor! But accepted fact from the discourses given by the Masters.

So far we have but a key-hole glimpse into the almost secret society of the "I AM". It was the recipient of millions of dollars. Many properties were bought by the student body and when they were paid off they would be gifted to Mama Ballard, to Saint Germain, that mythical personage of power behind the throne. Buildings were converted into Sanctuaries some called Temples, where 20 or 30 decree classes a week would be held during one week, which meant morning, noon and night, constant decrees going forth for the betterment of mankind and the world, for the finances of Saint Germain, and lastly the students so they could give!

A PSYCHIC HURRICANE

We are again in a psychic hurricane; and all sorts of hidden ritual and arcane lore is being sought and gobbled up by budding enquirers. Such diabolics as Satanism, questionable sorcery of witchcraft, all phases of yoga in the lighter, quiet vein, as Zen, and many other manifestations of ritualistic tantra-mantra, signs, symbols, powers, and that ferocious cult of the black mass!

Everything advertises 'how to' obtain POWER. Occult power, seems to be the desire of the majority of seekers into the occult lore. The mastery over 'self' is fine, but only if you can use it to control others; is the creed of many seekers, and also the gimmick in the ad for getting students to enroll into that particular advertised school.

It is such a moot point, trying to evaluate the underlying principal of an occult movement, what it really stands for, what its aims are, what it is using the 'money' received for. Mostly, what hypnotic hold is being pressed to hold the students in tow.

In this age of THE GREAT AWAKENING of mankind, as in other activities in our existence, the traps we can fall into are by far more serious when involving the psychic self; Occultism is the secret study of the inner selves!

When some occult (or psuedo occult) school says in the ad--'Become wealthy, use the secret forces to find love and happiness:' the disillusioned churcher or misfit of the community, glaums onto a description of an ad like that, and away he goes! Where he goes, and whither doth he fall, nobody knows.

A stitch in time, could be applied to the seeking of occult knowledge and thousands of dollars later. One thing is for certain; and I think the so-called Christian churches (at least many of them) can be classed with the secret phase of most secret societies. The churches use CHRIST as their drawing power, the occult uses The Great Masters and that central theme is GETTING IN MONEY!

Let us not be bitter over false tactics.

There is a great hidden side of life, and spiritual knowledge to obtain, but the oddest thing of all is you're not likely to find it in an organized, business oriented cult or secret ritual society. I would at some length like to spell out some rituals, their meanings, what part of the 'self' they effect; and in general the channeling in of overriding spirits who spill out with gargantuan reams of material; I think it safe to not say knowledge.

From the secret Hermeticism, archives of the 'Lodges' Theosophy and Mme. Blavatsky's Secret Doctrine, Masters of the Far East, the Glorious Gautama and legends of His healing power, The Jesus Advent (and always unrecorded secret arcane bits of the Life of Jesus) related from the 'Masters'; have been drawn the structural precepts and curriculum of the 'Saint Germain's Activity'.

It is my opinion after some 33 years of comparison and evaluation of the occult structure in general, that the Saint Germain's "I Am Studies" is perhaps the most organized, the wealthiest, the most disciplined, and the farthest out of any other society along these lines that has been brought together throughout history.

By far the strictest! It has a manifesto of rules that gives Karl Marx a run for his money. Your being is an open book to the 'Top' and your qualifications must be 100% (meaning your vibratory action must be of such a high value) if you want to attend the main classes. There are study groups, for beginners and laggards who can't qualify.

Patterned after the discipline (somewhat) of the monastary but geared so that the student can still be in the 'outer' world, in his little cell; because that is about all he can afford, if he lives up to what is expected of him. Many students did live this way, happy to know they gave their all to the Master and Mama Ballard.

Here is what it takes to become a 100% member of the "I Am":

THE ABSOLUTES

Strict vegetarianism, no tobacco or alcohol (means no drinks at all). No strong coffee, strong tea, or stimulants. No fornication, (that means sex, married or not, and same rules for homos.)

These are the top rules, and lesser tabus would include certain foods, like onions, garlic, cabbage, any fowl what-so-ever. So often people think when you say meatless diet, that chicken and fish are permissible. In this case all flesh foods were out. Manner of dress had to be modest, not too much flesh showing anywhere. No bare legs. Hair-dos had to be clean and proper. (I wonder what the dirty hair culture of the last decade has done to the youth of the Activity?)

AN IMPORTANT LAW WAS COLOR

Certain colors have destructive vibrations, such as: red and black. No one must come into the sanctuary dressed in any of the tabu colors. Grey, muddy brown, icky yellow-green are all unwanted shades. Purple, clear and bright is one of the most favored colors, because it is the color of Saint Germain's Violet Flame. . .The Violet Flame being one of the great distinguishing features of the Activity, as opposed to other or older occult societies.

"The Chart" is a beautiful picture with the full spectrum of rays encircling it, the image of perfect man, or the PRESENCE, called the "I Am Presence". This Presence with all its glory of rainbow colors around it is said to abide from ten to fifty feet over the constructive individual. A very bad auro would push out of sight this powerful Presence. A life-line, not unlike the silver cord connects the person below it. The Violet Flame and the 'I Am' Presence distinguishes this movement from preceding cults of arcane wisdom.

A student was required to attend at least 4 classes a week to be in good standing. He was expected to do a lot more; if he did go to more decree classes, he might become quite hoarse, in which case he would sit in the Violet Flame classes, which was the USE of this mysterious Flame of Violet (Saint Germain's own Flame) which was visualized surging up through your body, brain, aura, etc. Then one would visualize and decree the action of this flame into the surroundings, the city, the nation and the world. This was one ritual of the Violet Flame.

All decrees were written out and published in book form. Students warned not to make any rhymes up themselves, but always use the printed forms.

One of the saddest tabus (to me) was the law that no 100% student have any animals in his house. NO PETS. In the early years as the Society was streamlining its precepts, many people had dogs and cats, desiring to comply to the movement, they asked Daddy Ballard, what could they do with their pets?

The result was many had their pets put to sleep! A bit of publicity and quite a furor arose out of that mass action.

In 1940 I had 2 beautiful dogs. One was an English Sheep dog brought over from England, offspring of a champion pair; who was called Lyhaven's Prince Valiant on his papers. The other dog was a Dalmation, one of a litter of Champion Parents, shown by the Anheuser Bush family and farms. I named him Silas, since I had picked him from the litter.

Both dogs were gifts from good friends, the Bill Skidmores of dubious fame, nevertheless, quite wonderful people. I got the dogs in the '30's, and in 1940 I joined the I Am (or soon thereafter). I did not put my precious 'people' to sleep; but I gave them to another horse farm similar to the series of farms of Skidmore's. Practically a township! Truly, I can say I have never forgiven myself for doing that. They were so much of my life and expressed such loyalty and love!

But the Laws of the Activity must be obeyed! Being undisciplined and loving change, I was happy to be disciplined. I felt every facet of the rules must be obeyed, for the prize awaiting the obedient one—that of eternal youth and beauty, eternal life—was by far more important than mundane considerations. O, you deluded one.

I could reason to myself that if one were free of the limitations of this world, look how much GOOD we could do for the underfed and down trodden! That is well if that could be done. What I didn't know then was that all power (if such) was held within the top level of the movement. . .

It was after the early forty's that the I Am church began collecting properties. Chicago has the most opulent building for the I Am. Originally a club house for another sect; it has several floors of small rooms, hotel type of room, with several baths on a floor. Here the favored 'ones' can rent a room and live in the glory of being in the same building as the Temple of the 'I Am'. A specially decorated suite, all in pink (pink stands for love,) for Beloved Mama Ballard, and her ladies in waiting was always kept in readiness should she come to Chicago for a Class. The original homes where the Ballards received the first dictations of Saint Germain were on the south side of Chicago. There the presses were established where the "Voice of the I Am" was printed, a monthly magazine.

In the building was a book room where the products and printed matter was sold, and shown. Foyer and class room for the beginners. One floor had a dining room, where meatless lovely dinners were cooked, work all donated by various students. No set charge was made, but in the love gift cup on the table you put in what you could.

The main temple occupied one whole floor. A!! in striking pink! Mama's favorite color. Electric organ, podium, enlargements of Saint Germain, Jesus, and Daddy Ballard. (Mr. Ballard had passed on before the building was purchased) later on, a very nice blow-up tinted photo of Mama B. also graced the platform. During the large classes, as we called them when she presided, the platform would be garnished with flowers of every description. The soft beautiful music was the music of the spheres. Those melodies were inspired by Mama and written for her by Frederick, the top organist. These would be played and the vibrations would be set for the evening's rituals and the words that would come through M.B. from some Master, giving the Laws and instructions of the "I Am".

It was a bee-hive of a building, cleanliness was the keynote. No smoking was ever permitted, since tobacco was one of the tabus. Clean, good air certainly is a pulling factor, especially in Chicago. Fine air, bright rooms, cleanliness, were some of the qualities that caused me to be drawn to this activity.

I don't think one can write objectively about such a movement when everything about it reminds me of some personal emotion; how the students reacted to certain practices and Laws, what happened to so many, the ill fate of others.

Has there ever been an occult society that did not admit to have for its underlying purpose WORLD CHANGES? Changes in governments, changes in schools, changes of policy in governments? One would think in studies of the Spiritual, the main concern would be with things of the spirit! Not so. All movements work for change! They do not often, if ever, have solutions, other than inflicting THEIR DOGMA on the whole world if possible, to bring about the change!

The change usually turns into anarchy! Annie Besant, the follower of Mme. Blavatsky, wrote and wrote, and spewed for years to free India (from England), what has India had after its freedom? Besant worked tirelessly to destroy the Caste system; now the Leaders in India find those pitiful masses could not help themselves, nor could they lead. The Masonic Grand Orient (flowered by a leader—Jewish, Adam Weishaup, who later became identified with the highly secretive 'Illuminati' were found to directly be responsible for the French revolution.) These intellectuals were dedicated to cut off the crowned heads of Europe.

It does not take much imagination to realize that most world changes ARE compelled by the secret inner-chamber-type Occult society!

The heavy overtones of Astral and psychic involvement in all occultism gives us a clue as to the working shenanigans of intermediary spirits. For were they high spirits, the changes would be beneficent! Who can say that blasting all the Crowns of Europe has given us a better culture? One thing we know for sure is that in so destroying the power of Royalty, we have another fiercer master, COMMUNISM!

Now when I realize those thousands of lambs led to the slaughter/sacrifice, who run and toil for the so-called Masters giving their all, usually to come to an end, where their minds have cracked; isn't it time these things are better understood?

I express what I FEEL or what I understand someone else has felt. Feelings are the surge that brings manifestation. Therefore I express what I felt during certain activities while belonging to the 'I Am', rather than relating a nondescription of overall happenings. Students as individuals, were enormously changed after a short time in the regimen of the 'I Am'.

After a few years of serious application of the Violet Flame, a marked paleness of the skin was apparent.

This was understood to be a new condition of purity. We were always told that everyone was getting FREE-ER but never as long as I had been there, has it been known that anyone EVER GOT REALLY FREE! Many left the body, occasionally we would hear that a certain one Made the Ascension, thus becoming FREE.

I cannot for the life of me understand why I never questioned, sooner, the authority of Saint Germain! We were told by the Master that HE COULD ENDOW US WITH THAT SUPREME GIFT OF THE ASCENSION! He also told us (through Mrs. Ballard of course,) that Jesus worked hand in hand with him in bringing in THE NEW DISPENSATION. Translated means the new Golden Age.

HUMPTY DUMPTY PHILOSOPHY

*For the good things that we do, will perpetuate us;
If the things we do are evil, they will turn into dust;
So let's start things out right and play the game fair,
Then you'll come out fine, if you would just dare.
The game is not won by he who would shirk
But goes to the one who would gamble his shirt.
For what value would clothes be to the liar and thief
When all will stand naked before "Our Great Chief"?
He who cannot acknowledge this philosophy at all
Is standing on a precipice and is about to fall;
And all corrupt politicians, and all of their men
Will not be able to put him together again.*

ARIES March 21-April 20.

Aug.—Sept. '73: Many matters now gain momentum, after a drag of some 2½ years, when the slow-moving planet Saturn imposed obstacles, frustrations or delays in many of your plans. Your personality is dynamic now, you are a self-starter and you have the goodwill of others. Love is glamorous even if surprising at times. It may be wise if love or marital matters are brought out into the open now or soon and discussed. Uranus still in your house of partnerships cautions all Rams to tread softly therein—don't take the other person for granted in any way, shape or form. Control too much haste or impatience, take care of health and avoid all physical risks: You are alert to financial increase and will work hard for this.

TAURUS April 21-May 20.

Aug.—Sept. '73: Home or residence changes or talk of same for many Bulls, or again a problem relating to a parental matter loom now. You can put the show on the road now, with your energy and your courage, initiative, high. You make a new start, whether this pertains to love, business, job, or whatever you gain before long, if not immediately, by going into action regarding certain dormant matters. Job, health, may cause some concern due to unexpected changes therein. . . don't overdo because Uranus in your house of health is still a tricky influence, and could be rough at times on your nerves, besides. Something regarding love or a young person may at first be somewhat perplexing. Avoid jealous love-rivals. Diplomacy on your part will smooth all relationships, bring someone closer to you as well. Expenditures or expenses may be heavy due to Jupiter in a square to your Taurus Sun, so hold such down some, if possible. You gain the attention or co-operation, patronage, of one in authority, who is able and willing to help your ambitions. Be careful in driving.

GEMINI May 21-June 21.

Aug.—Sept. '73: By early August, you should have a whole new outlook on a number of things, Gemini, with Saturn at long last out of your sign. Health likewise should improve. You are just a more optimistic, outgoing, positive and wise person who Saturn over the past 2½ years has strengthened, inwardly—even if so doing the hard way, from time to time. New sources of income open for you soon, also gains or benefits from afar or through foreigners, or in-laws. You are inspirational to others, have a mystery about your personality that enhances. The partner or potential partner sees you with new eyes, you are surely tops in his or her book now. Toward late September, you ask your secret heart for the answers to certain troubling questions but you keep this to yourself, as private, background areas have you pondering for a time. You are now in line for rewards for past efforts. Use caution when in any out of the way place and avoid getting too involved with strangers.

CANCER June 22-July 22.

Aug.—Sept. '73: A new and more sobering influence now affects the life of Cancers during the next 2½ years, with Saturn in your sign over that period and, while responsibilities may be heavy, there is also the chance for greater prestige and honors. Don't let petty irritations bother you, but try to rise above these. A parental, job or business or financial matter may be significant now. A busy, active period, with trips, messages, much correspondence in the picture now. Be tactful with friends, acquaintances, who may be in turmoil of some kind. You will need psychology to handle certain matters that could well arise now. Social life could tax the health, so get enough rest and sleep.

LEO July 23-August 22.

Aug.—Sept. '73: Long distance travel or matters at a distance figure for many Lions now; legal, in-laws, publishing, advertising, religion, all will be accented over this period. Your aspirations are high and many subjects interest you, including educational. A rise in prestige, but tone down too much impulse. Messages could go astray. Business, job areas stimulated. Be diplomatic with those in authority, or the young Leos should be with regard to parents. . . and be realistic in love and investments. New insight regarding older loved ones and new beauty in home surroundings.

VIRGO August 23-September 22.

Aug.—Sept. '73: Home and/or property matters a bit tricky with Neptune still affecting these areas for you, though inspiration may be found in the home, there could be one or more hidden factors of a rather disturbing nature. Be careful of thievery, and don't take anything or anyone especially in the home for granted, also look for hidden or obscurely worded clauses in anything you may be signing. Property may be rundown, etc. and more in need of repairs than at first thought necessary. Health improves as does job or business conditions, job changes likely now or soon. Love is glamorous, more "serious" now, could be with one of foreign birth. Some friends cause concern, or a child or employer. . . serious problems in this area. Exciting news from afar, or in regard to publishing or a legal matter. You may be doing some long distance traveling. Background matters take your attention, big changes in the making! Be conciliatory with a love or marital partner.

LIBRA September 23-October 23.

Aug.—Sept. '73: Strive for harmony or even compromise a bit, in all close relationships, business, or job, love, marital. A new influence now affects the job, business, parental areas for you, Libra, with Saturn for the next 2½ years over this house in your chart. You may find that new responsibilities and greater prestige are in the making for you. A matter regarding a child or friend may disturb for a time, or a gain this could relate to a parent or employer. Love may be secret but will be your big consolation now. Take care of health and don't try to do too much. Be philosophic in the face of certain delays, "red tape," etc. you may encounter now. Your personality is most magnetic and love could strike without warning. Romantic reunions indicated for many Librans. Luxury items may be acquired.

SCORPIO

October 24-November 21.

Aug.—Sept. '73: Partners are stirred up, need calming down; also certain rumors need sifting to get to the truth, should not be swallowed whole. Sobering news from a distance (foreign), could figure now for many Scorpios. Artistic, beauty-loving friends may be met now or some friendship turns to love! Watch health, don't burn the candle at both ends. . . still, you are more health-conscious and health could be improved. Avoid mishaps at the place of work, safeguard health of pets. Be diplomatic with co-workers. You are dynamic now but should really tone this trait down just a bit for greater harmony with associates. Love unpredictable, super-exciting.

SAGITTARIUS

November 22-December 21.

Aug.—Sept. '73: All Archers might heed the advice for Scorpio: "Don't overdo these next two months either in health or work." Pleasures as well as exciting romance beckon now. Love is found close by, could be at your place of work or business, again with one formerly a friend. Avoid over-indulgence, also dubious "friendships" that tax your energy or time. You gain through relatives, through your own creativity or through written matters as well as literary efforts. At times, life may seem like a beautiful dream to you and you may find it difficult to be "practical" or "down to earth" in your thinking. Certain information may be withheld, for the moment. Avoid mishaps at your job or business. You gain through being original, dynamic.

CAPRICORN

December 22-January 20.

Aug.—Sept. '73: Be cool and calm now, "objective", Capricorn, and avoid disharmony in the home, where there may be much activity, incidentally, as this period gets underway. Children's matters, investment or speculation areas and romance now exciting, and a romance can thrive now providing you avoid over-possessiveness or jealousy in regard to the loved one, otherwise things could backfire. Don't take a love for granted. Safeguard health of the partner who may be carrying extra burdens. You entertain someone from a distance (foreign), or you do some long distance traveling yourself. A parental or business, financial problem could hold some concern for you.

AQUARIUS

January 21-February 18.

Aug.—Sept. '73: Take care of health and control moodiness. Delays irk for the time being it's true. Work or job interests may for a short while hold some irritations but these are only temporary. You are soon coming into your own Aquarius. . . try patience, and psychology. A pet, Aunt or Uncle may hold some concern for you around this period. In spite of delays or obstacles to some of your plans and ambitions, your life is expanding, changing for the better. Be realistic in regard to acquaintances, friends. . . there's just a trace of envy or jealousy among the insincere as you will learn to your ultimate good. Much activity in the home, be tactful with home members who may have their own provocations. Things dormant up to now move forward as this period draws to a close. Romance is thrilling and a stronger bond between you and the loved one is a strong possibility now.

PISCES

February 19-March 20.

Aug.—Sept. '73: You are resourceful and aggressive in financial matters now and yet money may go out fast, regardless. Watch possessions, protect property and be careful of theft or loss of cash. A busy, active period but get enough rest, Pisces, as you tend to go to extremes at times, and neglect health. Health treatments are beneficial for you. You will make an all-out effort to please and charm the loved one now, are persuasive. You may in love matters, attract those either somewhat or considerably older than you now. Be realistic in job, business, and in matters relating to your own reputation. Legacy matters have an element of the surprising about them but you can gain thereby, especially in '74, when Jupiter transits Pisces—your birthsign. Finances may be withheld for a time, meanwhile.

INTRODUCING LORETTA

Loretta Van Dam is an Aquarian and a solar astrologist of note. Her interpretation of a chart is mediumistic and mystical. All her work is done through the mails. For the readers of SEARCH an individual in-depth reading may be obtained by sending $6.00 with your name, address and birthdate to: Loretta Van Dam, 129 Aragon, San Mateo, Ca. 94402.

Startling statement data has been released concerning the Prisoners of War following the World War II and Korea, which may have repercussions among the returning Viet Nam POW veterans. Tracing the lives of these men for 20 years after World War II, and 12 after Korea, these released prisoners of war died early deaths of violence or severe illnesses. 40% of these men died from accidents, murder or suicide; most of these deaths occurred within a few years after their return home. Also, a large percentage died in involvement with airplanes and automobiles; many were involved in a combination of alcohol, guns and passion.

These deaths were clearly above the national average for prisoners of war for those held in Japan during World War II and during the Korean conflict. However, prisoners captured in Europe showed no difference in life patterns than those who never experienced enemy captivity.

Accidents, tuberculosis and cirrhosis of the liver (a disease connected with alcoholism) were more prominent in former Pacific prisoners. Psychological problems were major causes of death of Korean veterans.

Malnutrition and gastro-intestinal problems would be somewhat expected as results of changes to life in jungle areas. These and eye and heart troubles gradually lessened with the years. During the years 1946 to 1949 the death rate of these prisoners was about 50% higher than the general population. From 1953, when most Korean war prisoners returned, to 1961, the same ratio of about 50% post-war casualties occurred. Rates of violent deaths continued high. Suicides were about 50% above the national average. There were 4 times as many murder victims as would normally be expected.

The Pentagon officials have not interpreted these facts. Their lack of understanding of the causes of these

POW'S AND A NEED FOR SPIRITUAL HEALERS

By Marie Harlowe

patterns is probably due to the revelation of Col. Edward Huycke, who stated that "There was no great planning for prisoners after World War II or Korea. Today we're trying to plan ahead and think of everything. . . We are trying to see if we can offset some of the political problems in a gentle, educational way. . . Our over-all plan is to be aware of the history of possible trouble and to be ready to act if it becomes necessary."

It was considered a long time if prisoners were held for 2 years in World War II, but Viet Nam flyers captured between 1966 and 1968 have been imprisoned for from 5 to 7 years. Wives and other relatives of these men have been counselled that these returning men may be wild and dangerous drivers, and accident prone. Many will be kept for some time under observation in military hospitals.

It is plain that a grave problem exists among many returning Viet Nam service men, and particularly those who have been Prisoners of War. With the great abundance of drugs available there—some growing by the road sides and some cultivated for sale to service men, it appears that a great deal of spiritual healing may be necessary for them. The horrendous experiences of the war itself (as also the widespread drug addiction), has caused much psychic trauma and unbalance, and, not only the most patient and compassionate understanding of these problems will be necessary, but actual HEALING of these psychic problems must be undertaken by those capable of helping in a real and practical sense.

One of the commonly confronted (but seldom identified) problem is the one of obsession. This had always been true in conditions of war, where so many lose their physical bodies. More often than not, having no knowledge of the continuity of life, they, on the spot, make wild efforts to get into living earth-plane bodies of the still-living fighters around them. These fighters are, of course, in a negative state, due to the conditions of their warring position—fearful of their own lives, often ill from over-exposure, and so on. Thus, they are prone to negatively admit the obsessing entity into their own beings—with, of course, no knowledge of how to rid themselves of the intruder.

Exorcising the obsessing entity, and building up the psychic, physical and spiritual body is most important in the healing. Many face an early death—without knowledge of their problems, or of any awareness of the continuity of life on varying planes of being. What can medical science offer when it, too, is ignorant of the Truth? A large field of service awaits the Spiritual Healer!

THE OAHSPÉ CIRCLE

Dear Ray & Marjorie,

Regarding "The Oahspe Circle" in your Search Magazine, it's the first thing I turn to when the magazine arrives, and I drop everything to read it.

If anything, The Oahspe Circle should be expanded. I am an enthusiastic reader of Oahspe, and you can see from your records, that I have purchased several copies of your Oahspe to give to others. However I have been disappointed that others do not seem to be interested, and I wonder why?

Hope you will not only continue The Oahspe Circle but will see fit to expand it.

Russel O. Shadel

Dear Mr. Palmer,

The Oahspe Circle has helped me a great deal in finding fellow Faithists, uniting with them and working with them. I believe that the Oahspe Circle is the only hope many people have. I know it has been for me. It was through the Oahspe Circle that I found Children Kansas, a community dedicated to following Jehovih's Will in every way possible. I have found a community which actually works with children and I truly believe that Jehovih is pleased with this community and guiding us along the way. Perhaps I would have never found them had Jehovih not led me to your Oahspe Circle.

Therefore, I implore you to consider the many people you have helped in the past and will help in the future. Jehovih is working through your magazine and we do need you!

Jehovih's and our blessings,

Dear Marjorie and Ray:

I read the May issue of Search when it came, but am now getting around to answering. The baby came and while he is a good baby, still I do sometimes have to wait to do what I'd like to do right away, but maybe, better late than never.

I hope The Oahspe Circle is enough help to OAHSPE readers that they will let you know so it can be continued. It is enjoyable to hear from other readers who have read OAHSPE and to know what they think or what they feel led to do, as to forming a center or trying to raise children as the Penner's of Kansas are led to do.

I did get two letters from people who had seen the letter on vegetarianism in Search. And when people write me I try to reply promptly, if possible, but it would be a good Faithist idea to write those who request to hear from others via The Oahspe Circle, too, would it not?

I'm curious what the response is to letters published in The Circle? Do readers get replies? Are they happy with what they have found out? Maybe you could pose these questions to them sometime?

E.J. Lee
Rt. 2 Box 271L
Vernal, Utah 84078

We were amazed and gratified at the enthusiastic response received when we asked if the OAHSPE CIRCLE should be continued. All we wanted was a little assurance that the "Circle" was being helpful to Oahspe readers, and we got it! Thank you all for letting us know that the "Circle" has been useful. That pleases us.

The letters above are typical of many received. The last few lines of Mrs. Lee's letter sums up what is necessary to keep the "Circle" rolling: (1) REPLY to any you can, and (2) let US know if you've been helped. We want to hear from you.

CHILDREN KANSAS

Two years ago Children Kansas was only a fervent hope. At age 26 I had just gone through an intense period of soul searching and indecision, culminating in my reading about Jehovih's Kingdom on Earth. This was it. In 6 weeks I had sold those things I didn't consider tools, utensils or necessary furniture. Bravely I sold my prized $500 component stereo. Much I gave away. In the haste and fervor I divested myself of some things I could have kept, though I never regretted the purge. To my friends I announced I was going to join the Essenes of Kosmaon community at Eastgate, Nevada (the address out of the blue Oahspe). Shalam, I was on my way.

The world was losing a computer programmer but gaining a full time teacher and raiser of children.

Jehovih knew better. On Keno game cards Eastgate responded to my announced intentions, "Please explain. There is no community here. . ." Nor was any community to be found anywhere. So, steadily I kept working on my condemned rental house to sell it too. Weeks of work grew into months. I was on Jehovih's timetable, not mine. This was my first real effort of working cooperatively with Him, and it was hard following His patient leading. I had to sheepishly tell friends that my initial two month schedule was now indefinite and in Jehovih's hand. Slowly the germ of an idea grew in my mind; "should I, immature and unqualified as I was, begin working towards a Shalam?" I knew I had to. My inner Voice said "yes", the things I saw in the world spoke to me, "yes". Immediately three main points of such a project began to focus—land, fellow servers, infants.

Almost everyone to whom I spoke knew of some relative with land. It was easy to have faith that land would be found. Infants, too, I was sure, could be found somehow, either as foster children, adoption, guardianship cases, or indefinite-term babysitting situations. Fellow workers, however, was a different problem. I didn't know much, but I did know I was no Tae and would not be able to put out a "Wanted" call which would bring thousands. Instead I called together 8 or 10 spiritual friends and explained the project to them. We unproductively met until the fourth time, when my best friend spoke decidedly, "You know what you need now? You need to just go and do it! If you have to, go find some babies and pitch a tent outside of town. You'll get all the committed people you need then. Nothing shouts as loudly as actions."

He was right and I saw it with all clarity. I stopped the meetings and continued the work on my house. I trusted Jehovih to pace and lead on. He joined me with Edie and little Darren and Derrek, and together we worked on the house. I began to work with preschoolers as a teacher's aide. We also took in two toddlers for two months until the work load at the house forced us to return them to their welfare mother. What a blessed foretaste He was giving us. We spent days at universities in the area putting up hundreds of "Wanted" leaflets. We put them up at stores and at special events, and put notices in "Mother Earth News" magazine. The response was extremely small—about one reply for every 100 posters. And those were largely from people who were wanting something with less commitment. So far we had not a single prospective member, nor did we know any Faithists.

Was our timing off? Was the age not ready? We knew from our researches that many communities had flourished, and died, in the 1800's. That much we had to copy from, to build and improve upon. Only, where were Faithists type members to be found? An answer came from one of the few people who answered our poster. He knew, indirectly, of the Eloists in Massachusetts. We thanked Jehovah for this encouragement.

In the autumn of 1972 the house sold and we set our sights on the rural Kansas prairie scape. We still were communicating with prospective members, still had our eyes open for unwanted infants. We saw, by working with a lawyer and local agencies, that infants, although unwanted, were not easy to find. We also learned a strong lesson, first hand and from experienced others—lawyers, organizations, the State will not work with idealists. They are the representatives of Uz. This way Jehovah showed us that our work must proceed by His grace and help alone, on a person to person level.

We travelled east and west, knocking on farmers' doors asking for low-demand land, and we prayed for continued guidance. By year-end we felt strongly the pressure of waiting and searching. Jehovah, don't You know we want to serve? He answered us in the most blessed way. The old Marion County Poor Farm that He provided is almost equi-distant from the military or industrial centers of Salina, Wichita, Fort Riley, and Kansas City, where there are many infants. The owners themselves are pleasant to work with, also highly committed people, in their case to Jesus. They too are starting from scratch and operate on faith alone. Their project is also taking on reality.

As things worked out we moved during the coldest weeks of the very cold winter of '72. Our first night here was January 1, 1973. We gratefully felt His heavy symbolic hand. We walked the sacred circle around the building and asked for Jehovah's angelic protection and blessing.—Rolf.

We have 2½ acres here with the building, and are renting another 2 acres which adjoin our property on the north. Much of our spring garden is in, and we have planted many fruit trees, berry bushes and grape vines around the yard. The neighbors across the road have given us 3 old apple trees and 1 pear tree and an acre or two of shelter belt for berries, that they have been unable to care for since he became blind many years ago. Rolf has done a great deal of pruning on those four trees, and is now pruning some peach, plum and pear trees that have been given to us to manage at an old abandoned homestead (which also has lots of day lilies and crocus that we are free to bring home). We've also been given full rights and access to some creekland nearby, which could gradually be turned into a wild arboretum. As you can see, we are very dependent upon the goodwill of our neighbors. Almost everyone in this area is Mennonite. Most of them immigrated in the late 1800's from Russia and Germany. We feel very happy to be located in the midst of these hard working, earnest people. We have no dogs or cats, and hope to avoid having them in the future (a decision which springs mainly from our yearning to see this be a non-carnivorous community), so our yard abounds with bunny rabbits and birds. We are very happy here in the Great Spirit's land, and would be glad to have you visit us.—Edie.

TRACKED DOWN EARLY EDITION

 You will note from the attached photocopies that I have tracked down a copy of the 1882 OAHSPÉ.

It is in the reference department of the Cincinnati, Ohio, Public Library.

You will note the ragged condition of the edge of the title-page. The copyright page contains the information that the book was inventoried by the Library in 1957 and 1966.

The accession number—89,810—doubtless places it in the 1880's. This type of number is no longer placed in the books. The accession number is repeated on the last page.

QUESTIONS NEED ANSWERS

 Dear Ray:

What makes the Book Oahspe cost so much? Why are there two editions? Does the book Oahspe you have for sale contain an index; I don't mean a separate index. Why has it been revised?

Pearl Roseberry
Hrudland, Mo 63547

● The edition of OAH SPE we publish has an index; it costs so much because it is a big book! It is actually very cheap for its size—similar books run as much as $32.00. There are two editions because the first edition (the one we publish) was suppressed. The later edition was revised, unwarranted, we think; at least we believe the reader is entitled to read both editions to find out what the revisions were. Our version is the unrevised edition. The reasons for the revisions in the 1891 edition are not clear, but it appears both the British and American governments objected to personal references to them and to such people as Abraham Lincoln.—Rap.

Superior MALE, Inferior FEMALE?

THE UNIVERSE

STRUGGLES

FOR BALANCE

BY GISELA FALDOWSKI

Action should not always be defined as good or evil. More often than we realize it is a matter of the right thing at the right time in the right place with the right people.

The Plan of the universe is growth. Having gained judgement as human beings we must now try to solve our problems by contemplating the possibilities of growth.

In this modern life masses of people swing to the extremes of hanging on to the old outgrown or they are rushing ahead prematurely with destructive results. Not many people are wise enough to find the golden middle-way of controlled, safe and natural growth (change). Everybody, being quickened at this time of awakenings and realizations, wants to act on this new stimulus. Impatience and friction is at a very high pitch.

With everybody moving at a quickened pace but at varying speed, the fast want to rush the slow and the slow are trying to hold back the hasty. Being so intensely stirred, we want to urge and impose on others our own speed of growth. Instead of good results we find fear and discouragement; we find rebellion and stubbornness. Instead of natural and gradual unfoldment there is crippling and distorted growth.

One faction taken over by impatience is the Women's Lib. Why has mankind come to such an imbalanced state of being between the male and female? Is it justified? Has Gisela Faldowski: I was born in Germany, August 28th, 1926. Have been in America since '48. Having experienced the tactics of tyranny, one appreciates liberty all the more and is more on guard, never to fall into tyranny's power, not on earth and not for eternity. Being curious and observant of all things, one naturally tends to expressing thoughts in writing; which I did for many years.

the female always been inferior, or has mankind been brainwashed into this belief?

The universe struggles for balance between the opposites and only this balance can bring true harmony to life and growth in the universe. Has religion supported this imbalance for hundreds of years? Did it originate within religion?

Nature depends equally on these two forces of positive and negative or male and female. Nature achieves this balance through the alternate activation of the male and female forces. It is done through the cycles of night and day and other cycles of short and long duration. As the pendulum swings to move forward the time of the clock, so also do the cycles change in the progress of time and growth.

The ancient symbol of the cross shows us the two bars in even proportion. In this eternal symbol they fit perfectly into the circle of Infinity. Oahspe has given this symbol or signature of Jehovih to us again and we learn from this the truth of time and eternity and the principles of creation.

Women have submitted to the inequality of their supposed inferiority for centuries. Only indirectly have they sought and found to make their influence felt.

A young German Argentinian M.D., Esther Vilar, has written a book called "Der Dressierte Mann", the managed man, in which she maintains that women have devised means to gain their objectives. They have used the weak points in a man: Sex and praise. She feels that women only exploited men but otherwise are not very noble creatures; saying that women are really weak and stupid and without imagination.

Some cultures have produced groups of women who managed to put themselves in front directly. Presently the fabled Amazons are in the news again. Russians claim to have found that they lived in Russia and were called the Sarmatians. They found archeological evidence that these people were a woman-governed people.

The strange and contradictory policy in modern males is that they feel that divorced women should not demand that men should support them and their children. They ascribe this to the exploitation instinct of the woman. However at the same time they do undermine their own position in that they resist to the demands of the female sex to be given equal wages for equal work. It seems logical that a better paid woman can better support herself and her children without the help of the ex.

Is there any clue in ancient writings as to how this superior-inferior situation came about? Scripture seems to give little clues. The secret teachings, which are ever more available to all people who seek them, offer an interesting theory or tradition.

Masonic writings reveal that in the Ancient Order women retained their place and many attained to the degree of High Priestess. What could have happened that this equality was done away with?

Oahspe tells us about the ancient sacred people. They were very spiritual. However when they gradually mixed with the lower animal man, they produced new races of stronger physical vitality and less spiritual comprehension. Under such conditions it must have been much more difficult for the elders of the race to guide mankind on and upwards.

Coming back to the reasons given in Masonic writings for the expulsion of women, we read that bestial man was incapable to resist the vibrations of the opposite sex. It was decided to ban the female from the Lodge temporarily.

It goes on to say that even this very day ninety-nine percent of the men in the Lodge have not yet discovered that the degrees conferred in the Lodge-room are but symbolic of the soul's struggle in the quest for Light. And that the same percentage of men do not yet know how to mix 'fire and water'. Woman is in the vanguard of the human race because of her intuitive faculties. Women would soon unveil the glyphs and become entitled to the higher mysteries before men attain to them.

From the Adam and Eve myth of Bible fame we know that woman was instrumental in causing man to eat of the Forbidden Fruit (of good and evil). She might again PREMATURELY cause him to eat of the Tree Of Life.

Many women today refuse to stand back any longer. Are they inspired to because men have caught up? Or is there just no holding them back any longer?

SONG OF THE SPACE TRAVELER

By Joan Howard

*O I have roamed the star-trails of the Milky Way
And listened to the music of Andromeda.
I've watched the birth of stars; my ears have heard
The sound of waves that thunder on a different shore.
O I have crossed the light-years thro the mists of Time,
And laughed at all your rules of Relativity.
A myriad planets bear a footprint where I trod,
And countless eons write my name in history.
Down, down the long, black reaches of the In-between I've sent my shimmering craft to chase a distant star.
Galaxies beckon, and my soul awaits
The call that loud and clear comes ringing from afar.
Oft have I lingered where a far sun burned,
Communicating with a different race.
For Love is universal, and the mind
Has equals in the mighty halls of Space.
I sit in silent thought, the only sound
The heartbeat of Creation, and I see
Across the Known parts of the Universe
Beyond the Edge—into Eternity.*

Question: How can I make money?

Answer: Money is a measurement of material values. You must earn this through material labor or right of birth. To attempt to gain wealth through the psychic forces would only draw to you the demons who have a like desire.

Question: How can I develop my psychic powers?

Answer: You should read until you understand, the book given through this entity, "Let The Dead Speak of Their Life". Should you still have the same desire, perhaps the medium Question: Are dreams influenced by spirit or are they a result of our own minds? Some of mine seem to take place on another plane and I feel I am in the spirit world.

Answer: Dreams are your reaching spirit while asleep. You dwell in that plane while asleep; to recall this state and to understand it is the problem.

Question: I often dream I am with friends and relatives who have passed on. Am I actually contacting their spirit?

Answer: When you dream of loved ones who are in Spirit you are with them, drawn together for that time.

SIGNS OF THE TIMES

I saw a bumper sticker last week. It said,
"Read the Bible. It'll Scare the Hell Out of You."

Then there was this sign posted on the door of the high school basketball coach's office: "I'm busy, but if you see over the transom, come right on in."

 A man in a restaurant ordered a fried egg. He told the waitress, "Have them fry the white part lightly, making sure the yolk is not very hard. Be sure there's only a small pinch of salt and just a tiny sniff of pepper on it. Oh, yes, and tell them to be sure the pan is not greasy, just a dab of butter in it."

The waitress looked at the man for a long moment and then asked, "Is it all right if the hen's name is Doris?"

WHERE THE READER
HAS HIS SAY

RAP AND "THE GENERAL" AT NIAGARA FALLS

Dear Ray Palmer:

In the Search Magazine of Oct. 1963 the cover shows General OSSIPUMPHNOFERO. The first time I went to Niagara Falls I saw the encased general—he had red hair, etc., and looked fairly good condition, apparently this was the first year on display. I also saw you—short with a bad back and your wife (but I didn't know it was you). The second time I went, I don't remember how many years later, I saw the same general, but he didn't look like the same one I saw last time. To me he didn't look like the same mummy.

From there I went to see the falls and there was something new added—an elevator or stairway from the top to the bottom of the falls. Coming back to look at the general, I looked again. Turning around I saw you and your wife again. I said to myself there's that man and wife again. You looked at me and I at you. I didn't say anything and slowly walked away.

Years later I saw your picture in either the Fate or Search Magazine which I was taking for years. Then I recognized who you were.

In one of the magazines "Search" you say you doubted it was the same general—and so do I.

William Bandzul

102 Baldwin St.

• Pawtucket, R.I. 02860.

● These are certainly amazing coincidences! Wish you had known who I was! I am pleased that you agree with me that this mummy is not the same as the original General. The most incriminating fact is the wrappings—they are entirely different, and I took “before and after” pictures to prove it. The big question is WHY THE DECEPTION? There is only one good reason; I am right in saying this is the mummy of Moses, and that it is 12,000 years old! The mummy is now in a well-guarded pyramid near Jerusalem, but cannot be produced now because that would reveal the “theft” of the mummy and the deception. Also it would totally “ruin” world history.—Rap.

“NIRVANA” IS CONFUSING

Dear Editor,

Author Eric Aggen may rightfully be impressed by Eastern philosophy as per his article, “Nirvana Is My Goal” (May, SEARCH), but his knowledge of the true Christian concept is very garbled. Unfortunately, there are many who share his misconceptions.

In this sad old world, filled with selfishness, prejudice and greed, war and crime are constantly with us. Thus, an individual sorely needs some workable guidelines for his life.

Mr. Aggen says “simple prayer and Bible reading and preaching will no more lead a man to God or Nirvana than will so-called ‘holy water’ turn a ‘so-called sinner’ into a ‘saint’ ”. I whole-heartedly agree. Christ never said anything like this. Some of the teachings of the Christian creed are: “God is Love”, “Love thy neighbor as thyself” and we are given the injunction to forgive our enemies. To be able to love and to be able to forgive, one must try to understand all our fellow humans. All of these are practical, workable down-to-earth guidelines. This way is NOT easy, which may be why so many have substituted ritual etc. rather than face up to their own deficiencies.

Compare these few simple guidelines (though, admittedly, requiring effort) with the ambiguous statement Mr. Aggen makes about “Nirvana”. “Nirvana is a state of perfect union with God achieved by the absorption of the self-soul into the universal spirit”. Offhand, does this tell you how to conduct your everyday life? (Sadly, many Christians also hide behind gooble-de-gook such as “washed in the blood” etc.)

Although the nitty-gritties of “achieving Nirvana” and living a Christian life are probably basically the same, which is easiest to understand and apply to your daily problems—“Love thy neighbor and forgive” or “Absorption of the self-soul into the universal spirit”?

Mr. Aggen feels that western religions are dead-ends. Possibly the Bible is confusing to many about life after death, but what about the clear picture of soul progression given in Oahspe? This is a western book which Mr. Aggen suggests as worthy of study. In my opinion a careful study of this book makes for better understanding of all religions.

COVERS—LIKE OIL ON CANVAS

Marjorie Palmer:

Would like to see The Oahspe Circle continue. Many persons are hungry in soul for this type literature contained in Oahspe. They will be attracted to it. There are many many persons who will be inspired NOT to read and study this book. But those who seek to become a better person and practice it in their daily life—the light they will be exposed to in Oahspe will be a welcome delight.

More on vegetarian diets and growing organic products might be very helpful to many who are searching for the light.

Marjorie, since Search Magazine is in your hands have wondered why your voice is not heard? (It is—behind the scenes.—M. Palmer)

Search Magazine might be better liked if each author would be allowed one or two articles to appear in the magazine a year. So many repeat authors dominate and fill the pages each month. Would like to see more persons who really “know” but seldom speak be encouraged to have their say—but those who “know” hesitate, you know, and don’t talk for they know that light and truth comes from “with-in” or an expansion of consciousness, and how is it possible to transfer something like that to another’s understanding.

The new cover material that resists tearing looks good—photos come out like oils on canvas.

A Friend

● You have a good point in asking that Marjorie’s voice be heard. I’ll try to prevail on her to write the editorial, at least occasionally; because actually she can write very well, and can express her thoughts very well. Since she concurs with my thinking in most things, I’m sure you’d find her editorials as interesting as mine, and perhaps even more so, because she does have fresh viewpoints on things, and her personality would come through also.

Our cover material evolved as an act of desperation. We are having great trouble getting paper to continue publishing; not that it isn’t available (although stocks are limited and rationed), but the cost has gone sky high, and it just so happens that bookbinders cloth is actually cheaper in some cases (because we buy seconds). Ordinarily it costs $1.75 per pound! So, you are really getting a unique bargain.—Rap.

PYRAMID ENERGY KIT WORKED!

Dear Mr. Palmer:

I recently purchased a pyramid energy kit. I find it very satisfactory. (The Strange Energy of the Pyramids—March '73 SEARCH)

I shave with a Gillette Trac II razor. I put a package of 5 dull, used Trac II shaving cartridges in the pyramid and left them for a week. I shaved with one this evening. It worked like new. The other 4 cartridges also look like new.

In the near future, I plan to see what pyramid energy does for things such as weak transistor batteries and vitamin "C" tablets.

TAKES RAP TO TASK ON WELFARE

Dear RAP:

Wow. Your May issue editorial. I couldn't believe it. Let me give you a few facts: (concerning welfare from the Dept. of HEW)

1. 15 million people are on welfare
2. a little over 8 million are
CHILDREN

3. The Myth of the healthy, sturdily built man going downtown in his Cadillac to pick up a welfare check is just that. Myth.

4. Fraud? Sure, try to imagine any program involving 15 million people where some losers don't turn up. Percentage wise this constitutes less than 2%.

What does it mean? It means Ray, that there is poverty in this country. That there are people sick, blind, aged, juvenile, unskilled, unemployed, uncared for, unloved and forgotten who need help to survive. Survive damn it. If we can spend a billion dollars on the final "blitz" bombing of the Viet Cong, we sure can spend the bucks helping our brothers and sisters.

Your comment about war protesters make me wonder if you favored this immoral and illegal war? The money being dried up, sure but just wait until things heat up in Cambodia.

Wait till the CIA really gets things going in the middle east by aided assassinations, etc.

Damn, but you really suprised me with the lousy editorial you put out. Again, your comment about carrying a ton of stuff out to a truck while a helthy (healthy) 210 lb athlete watched. All I can say then, your a fool. Especially it it really was HIS stuff. I thought you were much smarter. Finally, do you judge mankind, or at least welfare recipients by this one man? Then you can judge mankind by Hitler, or Attila the Hun. Or would you prefer judging all mankind by Mahatma Ghandi or Emerson or whoever? Don't you see the danger of blanket indictments? You of all people? Or has the "establishment" finally gotten to you?

Sorry buddy, I just thought you were incapable of the kind of crap you yourself have decried against. You see, I have been fairly close to the welfare situation and speak from experience that is wide not narrowed down to one 210 lb loafer. I even admit to seeing one or two of this type, but believe me, they are in the tiny minority. No one, No one REALLY wants to be beholden to another for his very existence. Every one deep down wants to be self-sustaining and the master of his own destiny. Sometimes years of poverty or generations of poverty dim one's true will, but it IS there.

Sincerely yours,
Hans W. Nintzel
612 Woodhaven Place
Richardson, Texas 75080

● You didn't read my editorial very well! So, I'll reprint what I said: "Before we get too far into this discussion, let's make it perfectly clear that our personal integrity has always, in its independence, included the responsibility of taking care of those who cannot take care of themselves, such as the aged, the infirm, the crippled, the sick, and any others who for any reason are helpless to assume total responsibility for their own continued existence with the right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."

I still think people have a personal responsibility to other people, to those who need help. And they should take care of them. But as it is, the "responsibility" is shucked off on the "government" as if that government is a separate entity. And all the while, after having disclaimed our personal responsibility, we also criticize any other expenditure by the government, saying it should "be spent for the poor". Even though we don't know the facts behind anything, such as war. I decry all war. I subscribe to the "charity is best performed by helping the poor to help themselves" tenet. You apparently believe that there is such a thing as a "moral" war and a "legal" war? If you do, you can't get me to "reason" with you, because we have nothing in common, and I wouldn't "win" with a viewpoint like that! And lastly, to include in your letter the reference to a typographical error (helthy) isn't crap, it is carp(ing)! Especially since you don't distinguish between "your" and "you're". (We set your letter as written.) Now, does that make us even in exchanging high-minded thought?—Rap.
