"LORD, HEAL THESE TEETH"

HE WALKED THE AMERICAS

BY
L. TAYLOR HANSEN

$6.95 plus 25c
postage & handling

Almost two thousand years ago a mysterious white man walked from tribe to tribe among the American Nations. He came to Peru from the Pacific, He traveled through South and Central America, among the Mayans, into Mexico and all of North America, then back to ancient Tula, from whence he departed across the Atlantic to the land of his origin. Who was this white Prophet who spoke a thousand languages, healed the sick, raised the dead, and taught in the same words as Jesus Himself?

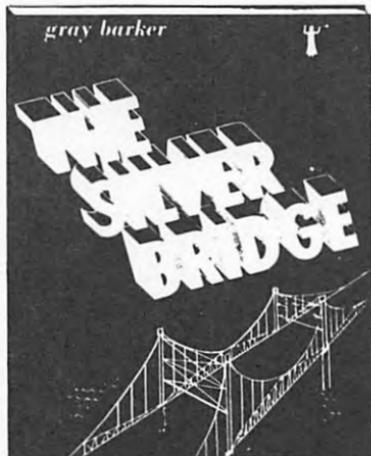

These are true Indian legends, gathered during twenty-five years of research by L. Taylor Hansen, archaeologist, from many different tribes all over the Americas. By consulting museums, libraries and experts on folk-lore, it has been possible to correlate the findings into this fascinating book, backed up by the spades of the diggers into ancient ruins, and by all the sciences with which L. Taylor Hansen is familiar. This is a book that will back up the New Testament of the East, with the Christian Indian legends of the West. In this book is proof that the Savior came not only to one continent, but to all the world. This book will strengthen your faith as no other could!

Remember the articles we wrote some years ago about "brain control" by the government, and such things as psycho-surgery? Well, it's here now! Read on:

Patients Unwilling, Report Says VA USES BEHAVIOR-CONTROL DRUGS, SURGERY

A Senate subcommittee has revealed that the Veterans Administration allows the use of behavior-control drugs and brain surgery on unwilling patients.

A panel of scientists created by Congress last July began a series of meetings on the ethics of research of behavior modification and research involving living human fetuses.

At joint hearings of the Senate subcommittee on constitutional rights, the Veterans Administration indicated that it considered drug users and alcoholics as potentially violent patients, and therefore possible subjects for psychosurgery.

The VA does allow experimentation using patients in its medical facilities when there is reasonable expectation that the participating patient will benefit from the study.

Although patients "must voluntarily consent and anticipated gain must exceed expected risks, there are times an individual's capacity for forming sound judgments for himself is seriously impaired.

Under these circumstances, a variety of considerations must be reviewed by the physician with the conclusion, at times, that treatment must be insisted upon despite the patient's temporary objections.

Five brain surgery operations were performed in VA hospitals "for the modification of uncontrollable abnormal behavior due to psychiatric disorders—psychosurgery—that threatened the well-being of the patients."

Frustration over how to deal with civil disobedience in the 1960s helped create the government's interest in sponsoring behavior-modification research.

A South Florida high school guidance counselor described students returning to class from a HEW-funded program in Fort Lauderdale called The Seed: "When they return they are 'straight,' namely quiet, well-dressed, short hair, and not under the influence of drugs, compared to their previous appearance of being stoned most of the time. However, they seem to be living in a robotlike atmosphere; they won't speak to anyone outside of their own group."

That's how it's done—slow and easy (VA, CIA, HEW). And when they've got the technique down pat, you and I will be next. Shouldn't we do something about it?

Speaking of the CIA, you are hearing a lot about how they spied upon American citizens, contrary to law. You are told that there were about 10,000 names on their list, those suspected of being engaged in the "civil disobedience" of the 1960s (as mentioned on the previous page), but that now that list has been destroyed. Not true! There are far more names on that list, and very few have anything to do with civil disobedience. By the way, that phrase "civil disobedience" hangs right in there with psychosurgery—who decides who is a "disobedient" citizen? The CIA? We have to define civil disobedience as it is defined in the CIA today—it is "any American who shows signs of being independent, of possessing a keenly investigative mind (such as being interested in the mystery of flying saucers); who questions the actions of such things as the CIA, the Federal Reserve bank; has the gall to check up on the truthfulness of such things as the Warren Report on the assassination of president Kennedy; is curious about such things as the secret UFO observation base at Lop Buri in Cambodia (the reason for the tremendous bombing in that country to protect that base until the new one in the Aleutians could be placed in operation (to listen to those mysterious "lands in the sky" that Admiral Byrd was so fascinated with; tries to find out if there is a "hole at the pole". Down with all thinking, says the CIA! If you can't discredit a "civil disobedient", kill him! Like Rev. King, or Kennedy himself, who was very disobedient!

Your editor is one of those on that CIA list. Way back in 1947 a CIA agent was assigned to investigate me; they have never stopped since. Just recently we published a series of "Newsletters", containing some incontrovertible evidence concerning the Kennedy assassination, the killing of King, of Diem, of Bobby Kennedy. Plots, all of them. And CIA men involved in all of them. The Bay of Pigs—Nixon sacrificed himself to protect our country from world disgrace in that matter—it was all on those tapes, one in particular which he had the courage to erase. They should all have been destroyed (they were Nixon's private property), as Colson said. Today the CIA is in trouble with the American people. It delights me. It is a sign of hope. Perhaps the American people will begin to investigate the plot of the world socialists, who are really master conquerors worse than Atilla, Alexander, Ghengis Khan and Hitler; if not, soon it will be too late. The same men who covered the Kennedy assassination are now "investigating" the CIA. Don't let them cover it up!—Rap.

AURA

R. N. KAMP

A recent scientific discovery adds new facts to the subject of aura. The author explains some of the details of this discovery, and its relation to the astral body.

For thousands of years, mystics have claimed that they can see an aura or ethereal body emanating from the physical body of people. According to some theosophical teaching, this aura or astral body is a projection of the supernatural soul or spirit of man, and it is visible only to a few gifted persons.

In the past, science frowned upon such nonsense. But now, science has revealed an aura, complete in a rainbow of brilliant colors. Whereas in the past, the aura was visible only to the mystics, now it can be made visible to everybody.

EXCITING DISCOVERIES

Here are a few of the exciting facts found by scientific research:

● The aura has more brilliance at the 741 acupuncture points established by the Chinese.¹

● The color and intensity of the aura varies with the emotional state of the person.¹ The aura is brighter when the person is tired.²

● The aura is very strong from the finger tips of a faith-healer who heals by touching the patient. After touching, the glow from the faith-healer decreases, and the glow from the patient increases.^{1,2}

● Researchers in Russia say that if part of the living thing is physically missing, the aura of the missing part will still appear. However, this phenomenon has not been demonstrated in the United States.¹

● Work is planned to measure the aura as a person dies.¹

● The greatest hope of the research on aura is in the field of medicine, to cure people's physiological and psychological illnesses. The aura may be useful in detecting disease before the usual symptoms appear.¹

At this point, you are probably thinking that it is high time that science has caught up with the occult by proving that the astral body really exists. But, before we jump to the wrong conclusion, let's look at some more facts about the aura that is revealed by scientists:

- The aura can be revealed by anyone. It does not require the undependable temperament of a mystic.

The aura is scientifically repeatable when desired. It shows up every time that the equipment is properly arranged. It does not depend upon intangible human factors.

EVERY LIVING THING PRODUCES AN AURA

- Under exacting conditions in a dark room, the aura can be seen with normal vision.¹ However, because of the low intensity of the aura, it is best revealed by time exposure to a photographic film.

- Every living thing produces the aura. A leaf from a tree is the most common item used to demonstrate this phenomenon. Therefore, the aura is not a human soul because every living organism, even vegetables and animals, has this aura.

- The color and the intensity of the light from the aura depends on the health of the object.

- And now for the clincher. The aura cannot be revealed unless the object is placed in an alternating electrified area of high voltage and high frequency. Mystics don't carry around such equipment for their aura.

Therefore, we must conclude that the aura revealed by scientists is not the same as the aura presumably seen by the mystics.

To reveal the scientist's aura on a simple thing like a leaf, the leaf and the photographic film are placed between two metal plates which are connected to the alternating electric voltage as shown in this simplified sketch.

To reveal the aura from a part of the human body, the arrangement is the same as shown on preceding page except the bottom wire from the special AC voltage is connected to the person's body. Because of the very high frequency of the special AC voltage, its current travels on the surface of the body, and therefore no electric shock is felt.

For those of you who are interested, a catalog sheet of instructions and equipment for experimenters can be obtained free from Mankind Research Unlimited, 1325 Wisconsin NW, Washington DC 20007.

THE KIRLIAN EXPERIMENTS

The method of showing the scientist's aura is not new. About the year 1900, Nickola Tesla invented his Tesla coil, and used it to draw sparks from his body which he photographed.¹ Then in 1939, a couple of Russians with the name of Kirlian began serious research on this subject,² but the news stayed in Russia until two Americans went there to gather data for their book "Psychic Discoveries Behind the Iron Curtain" which was published by Bantam Books in 1970. Since then, many scientists around the world are studying this aura phenomenon.

Despite the large amount of research, scientists have not come to a common agreement on what causes the aura. There are these hypothesis:¹

- One theory states that the aura is a corona discharge of air molecules with nitrogen giving the blue colors. The living object merely supplies the electrons for the corona.

- Another explanation starts with the fact that all living things liberate gas from their surface; be they leaves, animals, humans or anything organic. In animals, including humans, the nature of these gases (pheromones) vary with the emotional state. Then, the high voltage and frequency of the electrified field causes these gases to give off visible electrical discharges roughly similar to neon lights.

In summary, the Kirlian aura has given the medical profession a new medical tool which may make the world a better place. This aura is not related to the aura presumably seen by mystics. So, the metaphysical practitioners do not have to worry about science taking away any of their magic.

PLANTS RESPOND TO LOVE AND MUSIC

Experimenters found that portions of a field that had been the object of loving prayers yielded the biggest crop!

Gus Alexander of Wright State University, who holds a doctorate in communications research, set up the project. It was carried out on a soybean field near Jamestown, Ohio. The daily prayer of a church group focused on six designated plots, but not on six adjoining control plots.

The yield of soybeans receiving the special attention was increased 4 per cent over the comparable control plot. The experiment extended over only a third of the growing season.

In checking results of the experiment late in October, the Greene county agent's technical assistant, Donald H. Tate, was on hand to weigh the yields from the six experimental and six control plots.

According to the figures, five of the experimental strips had produced heavier yields than had adjacent control strips, while in the sixth case, the control strip had a slightly greater yield.

A group of 10 people at Dayton's Church of the Golden Key, with diagrams of the soybean plots, "sent love" to the experimental areas each night at 11:30 p.m. for about 40 days.

Rev. Noel Cornely, founder and minister of the non-demoninational church explains:

"These experiments deal with the direct communication of energy, as a kind of nourishment."

Dr. Alexander believes the process involves "psycho-kinesis with living things. It's similar to what people do through prayer and spiritual healing. In this case, it's healing for the soybeans."

PLANTS HATE ROCK MUSIC DECLARES NEW YORK PLANT SHOP OWNER

Plants like baroque music, and they definitely prefer it to acid rock.

"They've done studies where plants have died listening to rock," says Noel Collamer, owner of the Morning Star Plant Shop in Burnt Hills, N.Y. "They have found that plants flourished while listening to Eastern and baroque or renaissance music."

Love can make the difference.

WONDERFUL HEALING HANDS

Enrico de Bernardi:

“My hands are like a type of radar.”

Enrico de Bernardi, 80, a faith-healer who's treated thousands of suffering people—can bring relief to the afflicted simply by waving his hands over their bodies.

De Bernardi lives with his wife Lucia in a secluded villa in Lavagna, Italy, where he treats dozens of people a day—including many doctors who trust in de Bernardi's powers more than in their own modern medicine.

“This man has powers of healing which are supernatural,” asserts Dr. Giovanni Reyneri, from a town near Milan. “In the case of Enrico de Bernardi, I will testify in court that I have witnessed sudden regressions which have no logical explanation.”

Mr. de Bernardi, once a wealthy musical instruments dealer, knew nothing of his powers until one day in June 1950.

Strolling through a park near Florence, de Bernardi saw a girl sobbing on a bench. She told him she had a terrible pain near her liver.

“Suddenly, I felt that if I waved my hands over her, I would heal her,” reports de Bernardi. “After receiving the girl's permission, I waved my hands over the girl's body without touching her.”

“I was both amazed and upset at my behavior,” he says. “I thought I was mad! But my amazement grew even more when she looked up at me and exclaimed. ‘I'm completely better. I don't feel any pain!’”

“At the beginning, I was stunned by my powers to heal,” admits Enrico.

In 1961, he gave away all he owned except his villa, where he treats between 30 and 50 people a day.

“If people want my help, they come to me,” he says. “If they cannot come, I send them a piece of silk which I have rubbed with my hands, and that carries my healing powers to them. I do not charge anything.”

GOVERNMENT EXPERIMENTS WITH BEHAVIOR CONTROL!

The Federal government finances experiments to control what it considers to be antisocial human behavior with brain surgery, drugs, computers, radio transmitters implanted in the head and other means.

The Senate subcommittee found

Sen. Sam Ervin
"A threat to our freedom."

that the federal government, through a number of departments and agencies, is going ahead with behavior modification projects, including psychosurgery, without a review structure fully adequate to protect the constitutional rights of the subjects.

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) spent the most on behavior control research, but the Justice Department, the Veterans Administration, Defense Department, Labor Department and National Science Foundation also were involved.

The report included this example of experiments:

"One recent proposal stated that it is possible, through a radio transmitter-receiver implanted in the brain of a known offender, to constantly monitor and control his behavior through a computer."

"There is a real question whether the government should be involved at all in programs that potentially pose substantial threats to our basic freedoms," Sen. Sam Ervin wrote.

"The question becomes even more acute when these programs are conducted, as they are today, in the absence of strict controls."

The Calendar Stone

(Is it really a prophecy of today?)

By Ray Palmer

One of the most famous relics in the world is the Aztec Calendar Stone, now on exhibit in Mexico City. It is famous for two reasons, one being its amazing “Venus Calendar” method of dating, which shows the incredible knowledge of the planets and their movements possessed by these ancient people (the stone is actually Mayan, not Aztec, and much more ancient than supposed). The second reason is that it is prophetic, in reference to a "date of warning" of the fall of Tenochtitlan and the destruction of the Aztec Empire by Cortez. There is a date at the top of the stone which translates from the glyphs to 1479. This is the date of warning. Since the Venus calendar operates in cycles of 13 and 52, we add 13 to 1479 and come up with 1492, the date of the coming of Columbus. Add two 13s and we come to 1518, within a few months of the arrival of Cortez. Add 52 to the date of warning, and we get 1531, the date of the demise of the Aztec Empire.

This giant stone, so intricately carved, weighs 28½ tons and is twelve feet in diameter. In itself it is a wonder of artistic design and scientific significance. But to the Aztecs (who did not carve it!) it was sacred. They believed in its prophecy of their own destruction, which may account for the mysterious way in which the Aztecs bowed to the Spaniards and virtually allowed themselves to be destroyed with hardly a token of resistance. They were fatalistic in their worship of the stone; and its prophecy did indeed come to pass.

Since that time, no attention has been paid to the fact that the stone is based on the 13 star cycles of the Venus Calendar, and that it is circular, never-ending. Is there more prophecy to be found in the stone?

When the stone was found during excavation in Mexico City, it had obviously been buried from the time of Cortez and the sacking of the city. Its discovery in modern times brings to mind the thought that once again its prophetic nature may have a meaning. What would happen if we took the astronomically verifiable date of 1479, which is the "date of warning" and projected it into the future by cycles of 52, which is the most sacred number in the chronology of the Maya? If we add nine 52s to 1479, we get 1947. Is it significant that among the many "prophetic dates" we are aware of today, 1947 is the date most often given as the "beginning of the time of the end"? Every modern prophecy of the end of our current civilization, and the beginning of the "new world" after Armageddon, is based on 1947 and the "last cycle". Is this the Venus Calendar cycle of 52 years? Let's add 52 to 1947 and see—we come up with 1999. At once we think of Nostradamus, Mother Shipton, Oahspe, and a host of other predictions of "the end of the world".

"In those days there shall be signs and wonders in the sky..." If we deduct 13 from 1999, we come to 1986, within a month or two of the appearance of Halley's Comet, probably the most famous and spectacular comet of all time.

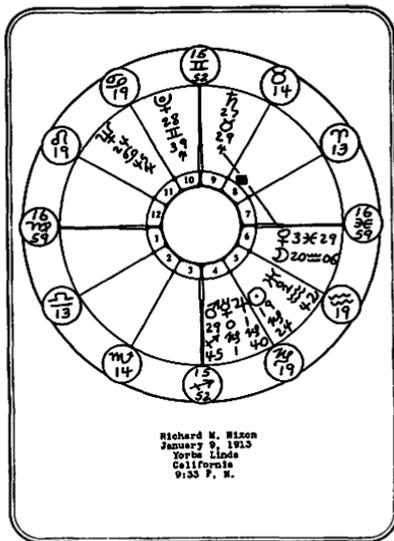

In 1531, the end came to the bloody human sacrificers, the Aztecs. Perhaps the Calendar Stone also predicts the end of the bloody human sacrificers of today, in 1999, and the beginning of the "thousand years of peace" and the "New Earth"?

This article was first printed in the March, 1969 issue of SEARCH. Because of the events of the past five years, you will find it interesting reading again to check it's accuracy.

NIXON'S NUMBER

Turning to his horoscope of birth, we find that he was born at 9:33 P.M. Pacific Standard Time, the digits of which reduce to 6.

Venus, the planet ruling Friday, the 6th day of the week, is the nearest planet in line with his Ascendant or Rising Sign, thus indicating a predominate number 6 influence in his personal destiny.

Venus also occupies his 6th house in the horoscope.

Venus rules the second or Libra Decanate of his Midheaven sign - Gemini - adding another number 6 vibration.

Saturn, lord of Capricorn, his Sun Sign, is in Taurus, also ruled by Venus, the number 6 planet.

Venus is exactly 6 degrees (and no minutes) from a square aspect to Saturn.

Venus has six aspects (no more, no less) in his birth chart.

And he was elected on the 6th day of November.

In the Tarot, Venus rules "The Lovers" - symbolized by a young man standing between two women, one of whom represents virtue, harmony, and true love, while the other stands for ruin, catastrophe, and failure. It is believed that persons born under the influence of this critical card are fated to make a great choice in the course of their destinies - one upon which depends the successful accomplishment of their life-mission or - a sudden fall into the abyss of oblivion.

Mr. Nixon was elected in a 7 year. (This is determined by adding one's birth month and date to the year in question.)

The 7th sign of the zodiac is Libra, ruled by Venus. In 1969, when he expects to take office, he will be in a number 8 year, ruled by Scorpio, whose mysterious Plutonian vibration may well precipitate the "Moment of Choice" in respect to his own and his country's destinies. Let us hope that the friendly, protective influence of Venus will continue to prevail.

• LAKE OSWEGO, OREGON

Dear Ray:

We are a small group of Oahspe students who live in and near Lake Oswego, Ore. We're hoping that through the Oahspe Circle we may meet others close by who would be interested in joining with us for study. Many who have heard or read only a little of Oahspe want to fit it into the teachings of Christianity and Theosophy; and they are mainly interested in discussion, but not likely to have a desire to make a thorough investigation of Oahspe to try to understand its vital message. We would appreciate working together with those who are familiar with the book and who feel this is truly what they are searching for.

Thanks much for SEARCH, and for your efforts and help to us all.

A QUESTION FOR RAY

Mr. Palmer,

We are interested in reading Oahspe but hesitate to buy the present edition.

Have you any estimate of what will be added and when the complete manuscript may be printed?

Dr. & Mrs. M.O. Moore
130 Westhill Drive
Los Gatos, Calif. 95030

● Very serious doubts entered my mind very early in my reading of OAHSPÉ that the original manuscript had indeed been destroyed in a flood in El Paso, Texas. It did not make logical sense to me that the only way to check the accuracy of the printed edition would be allowed to be destroyed by the "writers" of OAHSPÉ. Also, the idea that it was destroyed to prevent it from being "worshipped" is as lacking in logic.

Then I learned from Newbrough's daughter that there was important information she was going to tell me about the manuscript. I never got that information. However, I heard from Wing Anderson before his death that Newbrough's daughter had burned the manuscript in her furnace in a fit of anger. This also was not true. (Her own testimony to me.) Later I heard from other sources the manuscript was "safe". Just lately I stumbled onto an excellent lead, and I am (almost) sure I know where the manuscript is, and investigation is under way to gain access to it. It will be a problem of convincing the "guardians" of the manuscript that I am the legitimate publisher of OAHSPÉ, and that the original manuscript should now be photographed and published. Since I have always known that much of the original manuscript was never published (half the Book of Bon, for example), it seems important that publication be completed. I have proofs of some of the original manuscript, galley proofs, several unpublished fragments, and a letter typed by Newbrough himself on the original Sholes typewriter, showing that his typing was full of errors, whereas the manuscript is letter-perfect. As for when the search will be ended and the manuscript published in its manuscript form, that is certainly a difficult question; the cost alone appalls me! There is also the possibility that all my leads will prove wrong, and no manuscript exists. One way or the other, I will determine the facts. But until then, it would certainly be a poor idea to ignore the present book in the hope of a more complete product that may never develop.—Rap.

SOME ANSWERS, PLEASE

(Watch for "our answer man" reply in next issue)

Dear Sirs:

I recently obtained a copy of the Green OAH SPE and read much of it this weekend, particularly the last 200 pages. Parts seem to be contradictory in a sense and it leaves me a bit confused. Is one to take the material literally or symbolically?

I would like to know more about the results from the book. Did the Kosmon Church form because of the book and does it still exist? Who are the Essenes of Kosmon? Are there communities of Shalam children somewhere today? Or what happened to them? Are you familiar with Edgar Cayce's Readings and would you say they are conflicting with the material in OAH SPE?

Q. WHY DON'T MANY MORE PEOPLE KNOW ABOUT OAHSPÉ?
Stephanie Stanley, 11/74

A. The angelic authors of OAHSPÉ state on the second page and in other places, that the truths revealed in OAHSPÉ are also being revealed to others throughout the world. Thus, the basic message of OAHSPÉ is being received inspirationally throughout the world. Yet, the time of OAHSPÉ's world-wide fame is approaching. There are at least two rock and roll groups influenced by OAHSPÉ. As they become more famous, their fans and others will begin to discover OAHSPÉ. Few people knew about the Maharishi, until the Beatles started meditating with him. Just think what would have happened if the Beatles had found OAHSPÉ...and what will happen as these new rock groups and OAHSPÉ-influenced movie-makers

An ESP Experiment With The Apollo Astronauts

Orvil Hartle

A FIRST HAND REPORT WHICH WILL PROBABLY SURPRISE THE ASTRONAUTS!

THE APOLLO MISSION:

The advent of the "Space Age" has brought about interest in the possibility E.S.P. might also be used as a media of communication; in which the Astronauts, by thought alone, would be able to send or receive messages pursuant to their various assigned tasks.

Bearing this in mind, U.R.S.A., from the beginning of the Manned Apollo Missions; set up experimental work in which, accuracy could be verified, Apollo 10, 12, 14, 15, 16, and 17 were covered; but little was accomplished in Apollo's 10, 12, and 14; except to establish technique, and a working Hypothesis. This Hypothesis was determined and selected, because of the positive results obtained from other experimental work we had previously done in different areas of Psychic inquiry. Similarities were noted, and applied to these Manned Missions, Apollo's 15 and 17. In these Missions, results were astonishing, indication reality of Mind to Mind relationship.

APOLLO XV:

An entranced subject literally "saw through the eyes" of Astronauts Scott and Irwin on their third moon excursion in their exploration of Hadley Rill, with at least 80% accuracy. In order to check this accuracy, a color T.V. receiver was set up not in view of the subject and no sound. The activities of the two Astronauts, terrain, and bits of "private" communication between the Astronauts via "transceivers" in the space helmets, were described. These private communications between Scott and Irwin apparently were localized and not sent to Mission Control. Verification, in this case, can only be made by the two Astronauts.

ORVIL R. HARTLE,
One of the Founders of URSA
(Universal Research Society of America)

To support the facts of our experiment, a taped transcript of this entire contact was made. Time was injected onto the tape; that it might be synchronized with Video-Taped records of N.A.S.A.

Apollo XVI we covered, but obtained nothing significant because our Psychic was stricken gravely ill and was unable to participate. There was no time to prepare another subject for the experiment.

APOLLO XVII:

In the Apollo XVII Mission, URSA plans to also follow, and to make attempt for the Astronauts, through their mind, to describe the Lunar landscape, (as was done on Apollo XV).

On this mission, (due to time and work commitments of our Psychic) we were only able to follow the non-televised "set-down" of the L.E.M. on the Moon. We used the same procedure as was done on Apollo XV to contact the Mission Commander, Eugene Cernan.

In making this tie-in, "Interference" was reported by the entranced Psychic. By a little "dogging", he was able to make contact, and we, at the time, did not consider this interference significant. From Cernan's mind and through his eyes, our Psychic gave description of Lunar terrain, location of L.E.M. in relation with surroundings, location of Sun and direction in degrees, activities of Schmitt and Cernan within the L.E.M., etc.

Due to work commitments of our Psychic, we were, because of time, only able to contact Cernan. There was only audio and no live T.V. coverage of the L.E.M. landing; consequently verification of these descriptions can only be had by the Astronauts.

For the second part of this experiment, we were to endeavor to "program" all three Astronauts during their last sleep period before

Eugene Cernan

Ronald Evans

“Splash-down”, (after midnight Dec. 19, 1972). We were to have each do a “certain” pantomimed job for us for the T.V. camera on the Ticonderoga. Then later, each was to make a certain word for word statement in front of the T.V. camera at the subsequent Televised New Conference.

Attempt was made again to contact Cernan. Our Psychic, Bill, reported he was experiencing interference. We “drove” subject and got through without much difficulty. Bill announced himself to Cernan, explaining to him this was a scientific telepathic experiment and asking his cooperation. He agreed to participate. Cernan was programmed with three jobs to do. We signed off after reassurance he would have a safe and successful Mission—He would be at his best—and that this contact would in no way detract from his efficiency, but would improve it.

We then switched Bill to Schmitt, but could not reach him after having programmed Psychic with identifying characteristics. Bill did not respond after driving. Then we began to “prod” him very hard,—more prodding and the subject began to physically show signs of uneasiness,—more prodding—Bill then went into hysterical hallucinations manifested by screams of terror, groans, opening of eyes, extreme “shakes”, crying, perspiring profusely. The Hypnotist in charge did not remove the trance, but immediately pulled subject away from Schmitt. Some ten to fifteen minutes were required to return the subject to some semblance of normal. Then questioned Psychic briefly about what went on.

We then programmed Psychic to contact Evans, contacting him very quickly. In the same manner as was Cernan, Evans was given his job to do, was thanked, etc.—Broke way.

It so happened, Evans did 100% of what he was supposed to do—Cernan, 50%.

Since Bill was a conambulistic subject and had no conscious memory, on command, after awakening, we blocked memory of attempted contact with Schmitt to spare him the agony of this experience. We wished also to forestall possibility of impairment of Psychic ability or induce by memory, any psychological disturbance. He was told he would subconsciously digest and interpret every detail of this experience and he would relate at the next sitting. Normalcy was post-suggested.

Upon awakening the subject was aware he was told he would not remember this portion because he asked, "Did you have me contact all three?—Yes.—Why can't I remember Schmitt?"

Daily phone calls indicated Bill was in good shape and that he, in no way was suffering any ill effects from his experience.

We allowed 5 days to go by, and on Christmas Eve, Dec. 24, 1972, we again subjected our Psychic to trance, and questioned about his digested subconscious analysis. His fantastic story agreed with his experience, our observations, and his descriptions at the time.

The reasons for the 5 day return:

1. To insure post-suggestions would not wear off; Memory return bringing about conscious trauma.

2. Deter any psychological ill effects.

3. Insure no "future fear".
4. Any possible injury as result.
5. Obtain complete story.

THE CONTACT WITH SCHMITT:

After prodding Bill for the contact with Schmitt; at the time of his uneasiness, Bill described a "wall" in the eye of his mind. Schmitt tried to pull him through; describing this action as though pulling him into a very cold room, (like where they make ice), at the same time "crushing" and "devouring" me. I was racked with "awful pain inside and out". Bill reported while in trance, Schmitt had set up interference to keep me from getting to Cernan when the L.E.M. was setting on Lunar surface. Schmitt also tried to interfere on the second part of the experiment while all three were asleep. Schmitt knew I was from Earth. He could have followed me, but I broke away too quick for him.

We think it highly unlikely Harrison Schmitt had any "conscious attitude" or reason for retaliation. How about consciously and sub-consciously? Could he have been programmed for this, just as we were endeavoring to experimentally program Cernan and Evans? Was, and is, Schmitt aware of this programming, or was this "retaliation" a result of "involuntary" action from his sub-conscious "dynamo"?

Another "odd" observation noted when the three Astronauts were landed on the Ticonderoga,—when the Ship's Chaplin took over and he said a prayer to give reverence to God for a successful Mission; both Cernan and Evans, with bowed heads and caps removed gave respect; while Schmitt could not have been less interested, but stood staring at the T.V. camera with hat on. Who is this Schmitt?

Owing to our work done experimentally in the phenomena encountered in the various phases of telepathic communication; we feel it would be extremely unwise to discount the possibility Schmitt may have been psychically programmed for this retaliation, (and possibly also for this un-American and discourteous display of conscious conduct). This, of course, will have to be determined by more experimental work.

Certain aspects of percipient's behavior seem to prevail. Percipients whom are unaware they have been "chosen"; seem to react with a "compelling" urge. They are unaware they have been contacted or programmed. They seem to have no conscious memory. As in Hypnosis their actions seem to be governed by their moral concepts—or to be morally justified.

Ann Wigmore D.D.

Dear Doctor Ann

Ann Wigmore D.D. is a Doctor of Divinity who has devoted her life to the development of healthy minds and bodies.

A smile costs nothing, but gives much. It cannot be bought, begged, borrowed, or stolen. It is something that is of no value until it is given away. It enriches those who receive, without making poorer those who give. It takes but a moment, but the memory of it sometimes lasts forever. None is so rich, or mighty, that he or she can get along without it, and none is so poor, but that he or she can be made rich by it. A smile creates happiness in the home, fosters good will in business and is the countersign of friendship. It brings rest to the weary, cheer to the discouraged, sunshine to the sad; and it is nature's best antidote for trouble. Give your smiles freely. To the soul who has none to give, give one of yours, as none needs a smile so much as one who has no more to give.

Ann Wigmore

Dear Dr. Ann: I am 30 lbs. overweight and although I try to eat a lot less my weight never varies. Can't lose an ounce! I am desperately anxious to bring down my weight. Please let me know what foods I should eat to become a healthy vegetarian. Thanking you in anticipation and bless you.—J.C.

Heartfelt Greetings: I can understand your problem on overweight. If you do not take nourishment, it is a very difficult thing to lose weight. One needs to get on to a substantial diet and you will gradually be losing weight, never to regain it again.

We have had people who have lost as much as two pounds a day, but the general rule is one pound and they never had any more trouble with overweight.

There are two distinct problems regarding any kind of unhealthy appearance. One is that there is deficiency and the body is off the balance. The other may be a tendency to use food in ways other than that intended—such as for pleasure, etc.

The enclosed should help you to get on the road to health and at the same time, you'll be losing the unwanted weight.

Dear Doctor Ann: I like the way you think and write. Would you send me a list of your publications.

My niece is beginning a

Cattery—and how might she use this wheat grass for the health of her cats?

Thank you very much and bless you and your wonderful interests.—W.M.

Heartfelt Greetings: I am happy indeed to send you the list of publications and also the Naturama Health Care which is becoming tremendously popular. The Naturama Health Care is in the form of eight sheets of paper—you can build a text book from it as you go along learning about health.

As you learn about health through your own body, you can rest assured that your pets should also be taken care of healthwise. The whole family depends upon health and that means eating uncooked foods—eating the foods that have precious elements which are able to renew the cells. From then on, you can move to health, happiness and well-being.

The Revelation Of St. John

A psychic translation by the famed medium, A.J. Inger. No matter what you may think of the claims of the author in this very strange book, its importance and interest stem from the incredible accuracy of its prophecy (considering that it was written in 1908). It pictures our national situation today (especially regarding politics and such things as Watergate!) so correctly as to be astounding. But much more, it goes on to predict tomorrow and our impending future as a nation. It's a book worth thinking about seriously, and may be of immense help to your future planning. It contains 208 pages, in paperback. at actual cost ($2.61)

"Lord, Heal These Teeth"

Alex Saunders

THE AMAZING DENTAL MINISTRY OF THE REVEREND WILLARD FULLER

My fellow-Canadian, Allen Spraggett, is a well-known columnist and author of several books on the occult. In his latest book, PROBING THE UNEXPLAINED, he discusses a ministry so unusual as to make the reader gasp. He reports on the case of the Reverend Willard Fuller who claims he fills teeth by psychic means!

Born in Grant Parish, Louisiana, in 1915, Willard Fuller experienced a religious conversion when he was fourteen years old. Three years later, in 1932, he felt the "call to preach". His enrollment in a seminary, however, came with the termination of his military service in World War Two.

More than ten years passed. During that time he was a conventional clergyman, the pastor of four successive Southern Baptist congregations.

His degrees include those of Author,

Alex Saunders

business administration and mechanical engineering. Another degree, in theology, was from New Orleans Southern Baptist Theological Seminary. He left the Southern Baptist Convention in 1960.

During that same year he underwent "the baptism of the Holy Spirit", as called by Pentecostals. Spraggett describes his experience in these words:

"He was transported in ecstasy, and burst forth in the rhapsodic utterance known as 'speaking in tongues', which the skeptic dismisses as gibberish, but which the true believer interprets as a heavenly language."

An even more incredible and spectacular event occurred three days later. The Reverend Fuller confided to Spraggett that God spoke to him AUDIBLY, saying:

"Son, I've given you the gift of healing miracles."

Then, in the evangelist's services, came healings to people suffering such ailments as stomach ulcers, arthritis, asthma and warts.

Another strikingly eventful day took place, again in 1960, during March, when he attended a service conducted by another evangelist, A.C. McKaig, said to have the gift of supernaturally filling teeth. At that time a prayer was uttered for the Reverend Fuller to receive this gift. Hands laid on his head, McKaig appeared to become entranced, and spoke in oracular tones. When he regained normalcy, McKaig prayed for the Lord's power. With that, the Reverend Fuller felt an electric shock. He slid to the floor in a trance-like state, which Pentecostals call "going down under the power". From that time on, teeth got filled for people attending his meetings.

Another book, CAN GOD FILL TEETH? is by Daniel Fry. In it, Fry discusses the Reverend Fuller's ministry, and gives many testimonies of dental healing. Here are a few:

From Mrs. O. Ruddick of Pueblo, Colorado: "I saw a cavity on a five-year old boy being filled with a white material moving with a slow, circular motion. I kept saying to myself, 'What am I seeing?' I was on the borderline of doubt. . ."

From Paul Richard Bailey of San Diego, California: "On the night of July 28, 1965, at the Revival Assembly, San Diego, I received two silver fillings in my mouth where I had two cavities. Also, three old composition fillings that the dentist had put in many years ago disappeared completely, leaving perfect whole teeth.”

From Vivian Williams of Louisville, Kentucky: “God wonderfully filled two of my teeth after Brother Fuller prayed. One filling is of porcelain and the other silver.”

On occasion, new materials appear. So claims Daniel Fry, and states that one cavity was filled with a ruby-like substance. Others contained bronze, platinum-like metal, and a substance that sparkled like diamonds.

But let us go back to Allen Spraggett’s own account of the Reverend Willard Fuller.

The United Apostolic Faith Church (an off-shoot Pentecostal congregation) rests firmly in the Toronto, Canada, suburb of Scarborough. Here, in February, 1969, the Reverend Fuller conducted a divine healing mission to which Spraggett attended, along with some two hundred others. Among the evangelist’s verbal outpourings were these words:

“God puts gold, silver, or porcelain fillings in cavities. I don’t know why some people get gold or silver and others porcelain but there are many things about this God-given ministry I don’t understand.”

“If God can put silver or gold in a mountain, He can put it in your mouth!”

“God’ll heal you through this ministry of anything that’s wrong with your mouth. That includes cavities, gingivitis, receding gums, gum boils, malocclusion, teeth that need to be straightened, or lack of teeth from one to thirty-two.”

“I haven’t got perfect faith for heart trouble or eye trouble or cancer, but one thing I know—God heals teeth!”

Inviting those who wanted prayer for dental blessings to come forward, the Reverend Fuller had some fifty people lined up. He then proceeded to pass down the row, armed with a dental mirror and a bottle of fluid. The latter was an antiseptic used to sterilize the former, this to comply with health laws.

People were apparently chosen at random. The Reverend Fuller was accompanied by the church pastor, the unblinkingly-watchful Reverend Maxwell Whyte.

When a middle-aged man’s mouth was examined with the mirror, the Reverend Fuller pointed out that he had two small cavities. This was verified by his host pastor, the Reverend Whyte. With his hands on both sides of the man’s jaws, the Reverend Fuller exclaimed: “Lord, heal these teeth! For Jesus’ sake!”

A second examination had him grinning. The Reverend Whyte peered into the open mouth. He then turned to the congregation, saying that the middle-aged man “has two gold teeth that weren’t there a moment ago.”

Later, when Allen Spraggett questioned the man, he learned that he was Hugo Mittendorf from Sharon, a small Ontario town about twenty-five miles from Toronto, and a Pentecostal church member of Newmarket, also near Toronto.

Unaware of his two cavities, this believer of miracles opened his mouth to disclose a pair of lower molars possessing what looked like two large gold fillings.

Unusual dental phenomena was professed to have been experienced by others at the service. Toronto resident, Mrs. Ann Carter, told Spraggett that a gold filling had come to her instantly where there had been none before.

Mrs. Arthur Pressey of Scarborough admitted that the results of the Reverend Fuller's prayers caused unusually gleaming teeth. To Spraggett they were fantastically white.

Other church assemblers made such claims as crooked teeth becoming straight, the healing of gum diseases, the instantaneous growth of a new tooth in a vacant spot, and so on.

The Reverend Fuller is not without his critics. One is a dentist, Dr. Edwin M. Gordon, who speculates how a filling might enter a tooth—without God's help. His words:

"The filling could be held in the ball of the thumb and simply pressed into the cavity. This could be done with a natural motion that would probably leave the patient unaware that anything had happened."

Los Angeles writer, George Bishop, suggests the possibility that with the cement filling stuck to the dental mirror's underside, the filling could then be inserted into the cavity, all unknowingly to the recipient.

The Reverend Maxwell Whyte, in complete disagreement, had this to say: "As for the suggestion of Mr. Fuller sticking the fillings in—I totally reject that. Thirty fillings in one night?"

Yes, despite much skepticism, there are still many people who claim that a Reverend Willard Fuller service aided them. Here are a few more testimonies, the first from a Chatsworth, California dentist who desired anonymity.

He had several patients with extra teeth, and several with fillings, who claimed emphatically that it was all brought on "by a supernatural force." Said the dentist:

"The fillings are lighter than gold and yet more yellow than silver. I've attended conferences of dentists and have never seen anything like this before."

Mrs. Ann Mitchell of 1942 Taylor Street in Hollywood, California, swears that the very back tooth of her upper jaw, now gold, was for years almost entirely black from decay. It was not extracted because of the useful purpose it served by anchoring a bridge which covered most of her upper jaw. Her Fort Lauderdale dentist of twelve years confirmed one fact. That he had NOT gold-plated the tooth.

Mrs. Cynthia Reddy of 14500 Mohogany Ct., Miami Lakes, claimed to have had a lifetime of discolored teeth. A quick smile revealed that a row of white teeth, once overlapping, was now much straighter than formerly.

Catholic-reared Mrs. Evelyn Marzullo of 1794 W. 19th Street, attended a service conducted by the Reverend Fuller in Mountain View, California. She testified how a filling in a tooth had turned to gold.

The Reverend Willard Fuller confesses that he is in ignorance of what occurs, or how God does it.

"All I know," he says firmly, "is that it happens."

However, divine teeth fixings have not been experienced by the Fullers themselves. For both he and his wife have dental deficiencies.

As for the question: Can the phenomena of the Reverend Fuller's unusual ministry be logically explained?, let us, first, examine a British-born resident of California. He is the Reverend Harold Plume, D.D., B.B.S., minister of both Redwood City's St. John's First Chapel of Healing, and a sister chapel in Seaside.

Partial or complete, his healings include multiple sclerosis, advanced emphysema, coronary infarction, perforated ulcers and back pains.

The Reverend Plume claims that his healing ministry serves as a channel between two worlds.

"God does the healing," he says, "using numerous spirit doctors through me. I have no power of myself."

His spirit doctors are decidedly

Now, as the Reverend Harold Plume works through many spirit doctors, it has been suggested that a lot of spirit DENTISTS are working through the Reverend Willard Fuller. Possibly the tooth fillings of porcelain, silver, gold, etc. are nothing but "apports", substances that are mysteriously transported from one place to the interior of a hollow tooth, and all done psychically. Genuine apports could also be whole teeth that are replaced between spaces of the gums.

YOUR ASTROLOGY CAPSULE

Loretta Van Dam

ARIES March 21-April 20.

Mar.-Apr. '75: If anything can do it, Aries, Jupiter's imminent entry into your sign for the next several months will bring you out of your shell. Now is the time to show your light in front of the proverbial bushel—not hide behind it; so develop your particular talent and show your warm magnetism and understanding of others as well. If possible, try to attend to any matter in person, by the way. Continue to watch health, don't overdo. You've probably been through some health or nerve strain lately, or been concerned over the health of another. Partner may have grand ideas regarding spending lavishly. Be patient with same, use the old (gentle not forceful), psychology. You will be ingenious in upping income.

TAURUS April 21-May 20.

Mar.-Apr. '75: Something relating to business, job, friends, or a child strongly accented over this period. . .but take one step at a time, Taurus, don't let events around you overwhelm now. You are discreet in a love matter, again there is some concern regarding the loved one's health, their safety or whatever. Continue to be alert on all trips, or in traffic as well. A relative may be ill around this time, or at best, will be recuperating. With Uranus now opposite your Sun, the unexpected occurs in partnership or marital matters. Some friends and/or acquaintances are in a stew. Handle matters calmly. Show your warm emotional "human" side to others rather than trying to be too logical completely. But refuse to let others drag you into the turmoil-net. You don't need it but you can still stay friends, if you balance matters right. Your earnings increase now.

GEMINI May 21-June 21.

Mar.-Apr. '75: A friendship is glamorous, romantic, also you are meeting those who are talented in one of the arts. News from a distance (foreign), or regarding an in-law, possibly, holds your concern around this time. Benefits deferred, financial or otherwise, soon will be realized. You acquire items of beauty or luxury. Be calm in a situation involving a young person and thus be easy on yourself, Gemini. Take care of health, get enough rest. . .deliberately woo relaxation, now with erratic Uranus in your hours of health; also protect health and safety of any pets. Job matters apt to be changeful but it works out for the best for you. Be alert regarding those you meet of the opposite sex. Neptune in this house in your chart has a somewhat fuzzy, unreal influence, and some met are not all they seem. Polish a skill in the background for the time being.

CANCER June 22-July 22.

Mar.-Apr. '75: Love is found close by, in job or business, but all does not seem too smooth, romantically speaking and you could break with someone suddenly. You gain now through publishing, advertising, in-laws, parents and the foreign born. Mental horizons widen. Try not to be too sensitive, Cancer, though you likely have been under some stress through partners or the opposite sex. Guard health, watch diet and hygiene as, with Neptune in this house now and for some time to come you are peculiarly susceptible to "germs". Be calm with those who are excitable, stand off, mentally, and don't get caught up in the vortex of disturbed persons. You can increase earnings now, have the favor of those in authority. Diplomacy pays you rich dividends now. Be calm in dealing in problems regarding children or the young.

LEO July 23-August 22.

Mar.-Apr. '75: Love with a foreign born for many Leos now or you feel a bond of sympathy with such a person. Some anxiety over the health of the partner. Gain comes from afar, could also come through an in-law. Home or residence change before long, possibly more than one change, now with Uranus going through this house (home) for Leos. Property matters in general will be subject to rather sudden changes as well. Anxiety over a parent likely around this time. Jupiter a wonderful help for Lions from mid-March on and for the next several months and you will be feeling more in your own element than in some time. Avoid the envious. Saturn in your 12th house of background matters favors self-communing, is making you stronger from within. A journey is indicated for you before too long.

VIRGO
August 23-September 22.

Mar.-Apr. '75: Health, job, partnership matters all highlighted around this period, with possibly some anxiety over a relative or a pet. Have facts straight now and give your attention to important details. Tact in all situations would be wise too. A legacy matter may figure in Virgo's affairs now. An older friend will advise wisely. One of foreign birth holds much admiration for you. Love lights your way now. Important papers or documents will be signed. Someone is jealous or envious—give this person a wide berth! Your property increases in value as you make it more attractive. A problem involving a child or young person could vex you for a while. Changes among relatives. Be alert in travel.

SCORPIO
October 24-November 21.

Mar.-Apr. '75: Improvement in health for Scorpions now with Jupiter soon in this angle of their charts, and beneficial health treatments. Gain through job and relatives. Be calm regarding home, property matters which could be somewhat erratic in this period. Don't be rushed into anything, now with volcanic Uranus in your sign. . . things may occur that take you off guard at times, so keep poised, now if ever, Scorpio. Love is super-glamorous and all but a cure-all for events that will be occurring fast. Don't quarrel with the loved one. You are ingenious in solving any dilemma now. Illness of in-law. . . News from a distance (foreign), may not be too happy. A publishing matter delayed, as well as a long trip, possibly.

LIBRA
September 23-October 23.

Mar.-Apr. '75: You need time to yourself to think, Libra. You will likely come up with some original ideas regarding finances, income, or again with regard to a property matter. Take care of possessions. Possibly there will be job changes or you will be considering this. May be a problem regarding a relative, young person, an investment, or again regarding a pet. Be tactful but alert as to other's motives now. Play it cool though others about you are losing their perspective. Change in income should be taken in stride. You reconcile with someone while reunions also enter into the picture around this time. You are more health conscious than in some long while.

SAGITTARIUS
November 22-December 21.

Mar. - Apr. '75: Much correspondence now for Archers, who still must watch out for some curious situations, thefts, misrepresentations—with Neptune in Sagittarius for a long time to come. Could be anxiety over a relative, trips concerning same as well. You might be considering the sale or purchase of some property around this period. Your spirits lift soon, with benefic Jupiter in Aries—another fire sign, such as your own is. Use care in travel and in whatever you sign. Develop your creative, artistic side now as it can bring you money. Watch your emotions regarding a love matter, don't be too obvious that is. . . until you are sure. Excitement in the home, be careful of mishaps. . . get along with parents. You are magnetic and persuasive now.

CAPRICORN

December 22-January 20.

Mar.-Apr. '75: Capricorns may be concerned over the health of the partner, who could be over-doing. Home is beautified, increases in value, and there may be the thought of selling it or other property before long. Many visitors, much writing, news, an altogether busy, active period. Property, possessions, should be safeguarded now. Something regarding a child or young person surprises, may be in the realm of the unexpected, again this could relate to a friend or acquaintance as well. Help this person, Capricorn. You are able to work out a profitable arrangement, could relate to property. Be alert regarding information, advice now. Care in traveling is a must over this lively period.

AQUARIUS

January 21-February 18.

Mar.-Apr. '75: Mars for most of this period makes Water Bearers more magnetic than ever but they should be careful of too much haste and watch out for mishaps. Matters concerning relatives, messages, trips will be accented now. The beauty of home can also be enhanced. Be tactful with those in authority such as bosses, officials, as your independent impetuous spirit is more in evidence now. Watch diet, health in general. A property matter figures in the picture now. Your mind is sharp, perceptive, original and you are generous, responsive toward loved ones. Gain through relatives or neighbors, written matters now or soon. Income still is on the rise.

PISCES

February 19-March 20.

Mar.-Apr. '75: Some background rumblings now, with Mercury going through your 12th house, Pisces. May be trips to hospitals or other institutions. You delve into self, need to "retreat" somewhat for the time being, and like Libra, hear yourself think. Build up vitality as you soon come into a most lively if not hectic period, when Mars will be in your sign for some weeks. You may be too emotional, keyed-up, and messages, communications could go awry...so watch this, Pisces. Also in business, job matters, take nothing for granted. Income rises before long. Sale or purchase of real estate figures in many "Fishes" affairs now or soon.

THE CASE FOR REINCARNATION

By V. WADEY

If life is an evolutionary process, then have our souls journeyed through past ages as plants? insects? animals? cavemen? — and so on up the ladder of intelligence. . . .

From birth until death, we are conscious of what we term 'memory,' only within the current life-span, and it is the only type of memory of which average man is aware. Anything outside its compass—changes occupying tens of thousands of years—are matters so distant from recalled experiences that without material proofs, he rarely accepts any supporting theories.

His very limited conscious memory plus his general inability to accept explanation by theory has resulted in many matters becoming "mysterious" subjects of controversy, open to disbelief and ridicule. In such disregard once stood Evolution, and later, Spiritualism, until rising intellect became able to accept within evolving theory, links that could connect with certain material facts.

Nowadays, Reincarnation is probably the most doubted subject of controversy. They who believe in it are "cranks", and the few, professing memories of past existences, are called either lunatics or imposters. . . and meanwhile, average man, with his contemptuously unreliable conscious memory, continues to fool himself by disbelieving something he knows nothing about.

Despite seeming setbacks, Evolution has always progressed towards eventual improvement of physical and organic forms in conjunction with ever-changing environments, and its progress has always ran parallel with specie intellectual development. Today, after passing through many species and through the lowest conditions of savagery, the still developing human is gaining the knowledge that can take him to other planets.

From where did that knowledge come? Why was it not gained in earlier times? Why does it seemingly only emerge within what we are pleased to term "civilized environment?" Many of Earth's most intelligent people are of colored origins, but until they contact civilization their great intellectual abilities seem to lie dormant; a higher environment than their own native culture appears necessary to "trigger off" their intellectual abilities.

That appears to prove that the highest intellectual development will only emerge through the finest qualities of mind within the highest type of civilization. Evolution, that has accompanied the rising intellects with ever-improving and suitable specie-forms—refining the shape and condition of physical build, suitable to environment—is however only concerned with physical and organic development. Every man is born as a baby through physical, sexual intercourse. Throughout the era of living, material bodies, Evolution's only concerns have been such as developing an imperceptibly-changing form, and a cranium containing grey matter of a quality consistent with specie intellectual and physical development. It directs the reproductive materials and chemicals; it provides for foetus, glands and chromosomes, and supplies the tremendous labor of moulding ever-multiplying amoeba into specie forms. . .but it does not supply the intellectuality emerging from birth into a genius, an idiot, or a supersonic creator. Within the whole scope of Evolution, nothing can be traced that supplies memory, instincts, or intellect.

Reincarnation appears to run parallel with Evolution, developing the intellectual and instinctive qualities of the individual. In conjunction with Evolution, in all matters concerning intellect it appears the controlling power behind conscious mentality and is so natural in its functions that, if it ceased operating, degeneracy in all species would probably follow. It ranks as the "School of Life," carrying not only insignificant mankind but every member of every living specie from the condition of "no knowledge" towards the peak of intellectual creativeness. The various species are its forms and classes, within which, every individual is building intellect by the memory-retention of knowledge and experiences gained within previous conscious lives.

The Life in every human has progressed through every specie and, in some manner, still bears impressions gained within each. The terrific antagonism within the insect world, wherein every individual is the enemy of another, has carried its unwholesome impressions into both the human and animal species, in each of which it manifests as a natural repugnance to insects of every kind. Humans have carried from their long-past plant life (in which they first subconsciously learned of light and air, and the chemical differences that have taught man to instinctively wake at day and sleep at night) a memory that has transformed into love of flowers. Man's food is primarily and naturally vegetation, supplying his body's instinctive requirements of the chemicals that nourished his former plant-body. The freedom of his releasing animal past that first gave him awareness of his individuality after emerging from the insect, through the reptile and bird, (evolutionally from which he still retains degenerate horn and feathers in his finger/toe-nails and hair) is again manifest in love for animals and an intellectual companionship for the most advanced of them.

At each death, retained in the Ego-memory that is inseparable from the departing Ego-Life but no longer within future conscious memories, are the last lessons and experiences, that later, will transform into future instincts, dream-origins, and maybe, genius. The Ego-memory is the retaining memory from all previous lives and must not be confused with the familiar conscious memory.

Possibly through religious teachings almost everybody has a misconception of the nature of Reincarnation. Many people have ideas that it carried back to the animal state, others that their present bodies will be re-invested with life and that they will live again in some sort of a "heaven" set aside for "good" people. These fallacies originated from pagan creeds; Reincarnation has nothing to do with any form of religion. No bodies are resurrected and again filled with life; no human Egos can degenerate into animal forms that were shed more than half a million years ago. The "Ego-life" and its accompanying "Ego-memory" is the essence of the "Individual Personality", that is reborn into a new human conception.

Every conscious period into which the "Ego-Life" is reborn provides a new lesson that either originates future instincts or destroys old instincts and qualities that have become a hindrance to future intellectual progress, such "purification" ensuring that the intellectual qualities of an individual will rise. Many people have the idea that progress is mainly gained by "working out old sins," under a process termed Karma, but this does not appear strictly correct. Far from being a form of celestial or esoteric punishment, Karma is most likely a process of eradication of old qualities existing and remaining from other specie lives and which are now hampering progress. . .and the journey of the "Ego-Life" is crowded with such. One, is fear, once so valuable to individual safety, and which may yet show that value to modern mankind as a deterrent against the use of nuclear and rocket warfare as a substitute for intellect. Fear may possibly compel the nations into a compromise followed by developing understanding, that could eventually result in world brotherhood. Within such attainment a large proportion of fear will be driven from the mental make-up of homo sapiens. From research results this appears the most probable direction of progress, and if it is true Karma, no evil exists powerful enough to prevent it, for being natural law, no human will can successfully oppose it. By the grace of his many rebirth lessons, modern man has this direction in sight. Within Reincarnation, fear is likely to be the greatest hindrance to mankind's future progress and must "soon" be erased from his conscious understanding. . .it is a relic from old life-forms and must eventually disappear.

In our conscious-life periods as humans, the individual can, to a certain extent, control his "way of life" by the use of reason, will, and decision. He can rise above the environment of birth, into which environment each is purposely born as being the most suitable in which to learn the necessary new lesson. After death however, control of the "Ego-Life-Memory" appears to be taken over by what has become known as the "First Generation Intellect", a fragment of the Cosmic Intellect.

Respecting these powers, a theory is held within the Life Research Society of Militia Crucifera Evangelica, of Florence, that the "First Generation Intellect of a civilization or civilizations that passed through the range of material bodies and left the Earth, a few million years before the Biblical Creation, and is believed to have reached spiritual creativeness. The Bible seems to refer to it several times, most clearly in the Creation text, "Let US make man in OUR OWN IMAGE,". . .the molding of a new Life-cycle, the "Second Generation", of which every individual of every Earth specie of today is a member, capable of response to the spiritual "First Generation" Intellect under the process of "Life Rebirth"—the journey that may have been completed by that "First Generation."

After leaving the body at death, the "Ego-Life-Memory", under directed planning by the "First Generation Intellect," is reborn into a tiny seed during sexual intercourse by the selected parents. At conception the "Ego-Life-Memory" invades the forming fetus and, as the tiny body develops, the knowledge, experiences, and intellectuality contained from former lives within the Ego-memory are captured by the white blood corpuscles. During the nine months pregnancy this pre-knowledge is flowing through the embryo; it eventually becomes locked in the chromosomes, implanting the history-memory of the Ego-Life covering vast ages in many species. Forming the pre-natal brain, it is thus responsible for the instincts, nature, affections, spirituality, fears, sanity, intellectual capacity and quality, dream-origins, and the "natural gifts" of the man-to-be.

On the evolutionary side, portions of her chromosomes are carried as genes from the mother to the child. Parallel within reincarnational process, the offspring thus gains inherited impression from the many and varied rebirth experiences of hundreds of its forbears. This could account for the unpredictable behavior of every individual, and of matters related to insanity, split personality, etc.

Reincarnation is not therefore merely a question of whether we are reborn or not; it appears as a natural process covering almost every facet of existence. After having been engaged in Life Research, with Militia Crucifera Evangelica, for over thirty years, I am only too well aware that, although the theory that is gradually unfolding within our research would today fill many volumes, and show many mysteries to be but insignificant facts upon the journey of the everlasting life, we have but touched the fringe of matters that, upon the direction we are following, future research may reveal. . . matters so vastly bound with life and existence, that one hardly dares—one might almost say, fears—to contemplate.

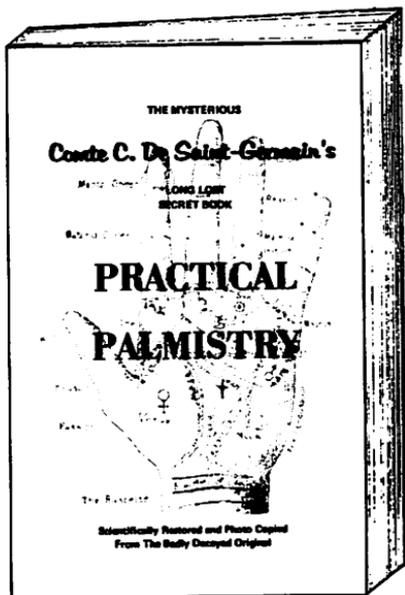

Value of a smile: It costs nothing but creates much, it enriches those who receive without impoverishing those who give, it happens in a flash and the memory may last forever.

TRUE EXPERIENCES

ATTACKED!

By Ella Madley

I have a strange and mysterious story to tell. It is absolutely true and a personal experience.

One night shortly after I had retired, a peculiar feeling came over me. I felt sure that something was going to happen to me! I rubbed my eyes to make sure I was awake. Still I couldn't understand that strange form I saw at the foot of my bed.

I tried and tried to wipe out what I saw but in vain. It was there, I saw it. I couldn't see it very clearly, just the outline. I dared not turn on the light though for fear of being attacked by a burglar.

Suddenly the THING grew and its great arms stretched out over the foot of my bed and grasped my throat with cool, almost icy fingers. The eyes were blazing from a face that to me was the worst sight I have ever seen. I was unable to move. I have never been so helpless in my life.

In the hallway outside my door, I heard foot-steps. I knew it was my brother coming home. I mustered up all my courage and screamed at the top of my lungs for help. The enormous hand still clutching at my throat.

The door opened and my brother entered the room. Just then the hideous Thing let go of my throat and disappeared. I explained this to Jack but he laughed and insisted it was just a bad dream. He did admit, however, that my cry sounded muffled.

The next day when I was dressing, I noticed a large bruise on my throat; I had not had any accident that could cause such a mark on my neck.

To this day I know no more about that horrible experience than I did the night it occurred. Perhaps one of your readers can help me.

A DREAM SAVED MY BUSINESS

By M.L. Farman

That the turning point of my business career should have been decided for me by a dream now seems to me incredible.

I was living at the time in southeastern Minnesota and had just been appointed manager of a corporation whose properties extended throughout the state. My task was almost a superhuman one, for the company was on the verge of bankruptcy due to poor management and lack of funds.

Among the properties involved was a very valuable one in the city of Minneapolis; it was about to be foreclosed on and some action had to be taken at once. So a directors' meeting was scheduled to be held in Minneapolis and I was to attend, although most of the directors were unknown to me.

I left orders at my hotel to be called in the morning in time to catch the five o'clock train and retired at about eleven p.m.

I had slept about an hour when I was awakened by the feeling that someone was in the room with me. Knowing I had locked the door, I sat up and told myself it was imagination. Then, whether I dozed again or not, I don't know, but I seemed transported in space and set down in a room where a directors' meeting was taking place. The room was unfamiliar to me, as were most of the other occupants.

The meeting was called to order and the problems set forth, but no one seemed to have any solution to offer. Finally I found myself on my feet, setting forth a plan that even now, after all these years, seems fantastic. When I had finished, two men whom I had never seen before objected to my ideas very strongly, but after much discussion the plan was adopted and left to me to carry out. That was all. . .until I was called at dawn.

On arriving in Minneapolis, what was my surprise on entering the meeting room, to find it the identical room I had seen in my dream; the very same persons were present too. The discussion started presently and as I had foreseen, we got nowhere. Bankruptcy seemed the only way out, when suddenly I felt an irresistible urge to set forth my plan. Again, as in the dream, the two men objected strongly, but as there was no better suggestion forthcoming, the plan was accepted and I was elected to carry out its provisions.

I look back at that experience now and wonder how I had the courage to attempt such a tremendous program. But it seemed as if from the start things that had seemed impossible were accomplished with very little effort on my part. In a short time we were able to save not only the property in Minneapolis, but other interests all over the state.

Vern Overlee, medium

THE

WORLD OF SPIRIT

Contributed By VERN OVERLEE

"Our aim is to put spirit in contact with those in your world who reach out to open the barrier which separates our two worlds, which in reality, are one".

Dear Mr. Overlee: Do spirit entities have brains? By that I mean do discarnate individuals have an organ through which their mind works.

Some time ago a good medium told me that while a person's spiritual body was similar to his material body that since he did not eat, his internal organs faded away after a while. I would assume that meant that a spirit body did not need a heart, lungs, other viscera, and as I have thought it over lately I wondered if they also no longer needed an organ called a brain. Human brains as we all know are fed by a constant supply of blood and whenever the supply of oxygen is cut off some brain cells immediately die and if it is very long there is permanent brain damage. As people get older it becomes more and more difficult to recall events, names and other data. So I would hope that in the spirit world our minds were not subject to the aging process we here on earth are and that perhaps with a more refined organ for the mind, that memory would be more acute and rapid than many of us find it here as we grow older.

Any information you can give me on the subject would be very welcome and I would be most grateful.—George P. LaBorde

Answer: A question to our liking—The physical brain decomposes and exists no more as we leave it. The spiritual brain used the physical brain to bring through the thought which is of the spirit not of the physical. Brain damage limits the thought that spirit can bring through. The brain is necessary while we dwell in the shell, as without it, there is no physical evidence of thought. Our spiritual counterpart remains complete. It is around it that the body was formed. Now for us in spirit our thought, our memory is not limited by a brain—our actions and our mode of life is not limited by a body—not tied down, not held captive.

The wonderful experience of death culminates a life in the body where our desires, and actions are limited so that we can form a personality and character which is more easily formed in the body as we are held there—and for that reason it is important to remain in the body until you are called back to the true life.—H. Drummond

Dear Sir: I have had a strange life and I would like to know if you could possibly find out if my father is at rest and that he understood I was not responsible for his passing on. I took care of him for over 30 years, and 14 of his last years he was ill. The Doctor who admitted him the last time (his Doctor was not in town); said that they no longer fed people like him; to me this is murder as there was no reason my father could not eat by himself; and he let me know in no uncertain terms what he thought of me, blaming me for what was done; I raved, screamed and yelled at the Doctors, hospital, etc.; but they made sure he went. Please find me peace of mind. Thank you.—E.L.

Answer: Your father now has the peace of mind which you seek—while his passing was unfortunate and perhaps preventable it was not to be averted now he has returned and is reaching out. Help him to reach out by saying these words to him—"Father look now for the Father of all and as you reach, he is reaching to you. Know your happiness is his. Know your life is blossoming and expanding out to envelope all that lies within—flowing on to the greatest of reaches and as you grow the Father grows within. Amen."—H. Drummond Question: A boy who I really liked like a son, or brother or something—I dreamt he passed on. Did he?—B.H.

Answer: Those, who pass on, find it easier to reach others in the body. Still those in the body respond only in the sleep state or in a semi-dormant stage or in flashes of inspiration when suddenly they know.

Teacher: Bob, I understand that your hobby is magic. What is your favorite trick?

Bob: Sawing a girl in two.

Teacher: Wonderful! Are there any other children in your family?

Bob: Yes, I have six half-sisters.

I look at my kids
And my head starts to reel;
My girl is in Little League
And my boy's in high heels.

The teacher was giving the kindergarten class a lesson in identifying various animals. Turning to one tot, she inquired, "What do elephants have that no other animals have?" The little fellow promptly answered, "Little elephants."

His wife kept talking in her sleep
Such nonsense she would utter;
That when it got upon his nerves,
He sent her home to mutter!

The choir was learning a new hymn. "Now don't forget," said the choirmaster, "wait until the tenors reach 'The Gates of Hell,' then you all come in."

The doctor's prices are so high
He really must hoard it;
It's quite enough to make me sick—
If I could afford it.

I know a fellow who claims his dog is so smart it can read. As a proof he pointed out a sign which said "Wet Paint." That's just what the dog did.

YOU OWE AN APOLOGY

Dear Mr. Palmer:

I was surprised and deeply shocked by your editorial "Journalism's 'Death Stalkers'—Ghastly Menace To American Liberty" (Search Jan/75). You say the media is on the hunt for victims. I would hardly call Nixon et al victims. The victims were the American people. Politicians have to uphold the law as much as anyone else. The crooked politician is the menace to American liberty, not the journalist.

You continuously claim the media tried these politicians in advance to their trials. This is just not so. From all reports I read or saw they were handled no different from other persons on trial. The media did not destroy these people, they brought it upon themselves.

If as you say: "We are faced with only one reasonable choice—never to believe another word uttered by a newsman" we certainly would be fools. Are you suggesting perhaps your "victims", the convicted politicians, should control the news media? I think you owe your readers and the "Dan Rathers" an apology.

Sincerely,

Kurt Glemser
200 Chapel St.
Kitchener, Ont.
Canada

● I'm afraid my "apology" will be far from an apology! First, in regard to the news media being on the hunt for victims, just forget anything I said, and instead, read what the "media" members themselves have to say! I am quoting that excellent newswoman, Edith Efron, writing in TV GUIDE, Dec. 28, 1974. Read it, and start back-peddalling like mad, Kurt, and then get prepared for what I'm going to follow with to finish my "apology". (As an aside, I am tremendously surprised that Kurt Glemser, whom I've had such great respect for because of his ability to think for himself, has been so completely brainwashed! It is a terrifying commentary on the power of the press to dominate thinking, and to create any reaction it desires in the public mind.)

SOME ADMISSIONS:

YES, THERE WAS HATE AND BIAS

By Edith Efron

You're sick of "Watergate"? Right! So am I. You don't want to read another word about it? Right! I don't want to write another word about it. You'd rather read about the thrilling new challenges being offered you by our enlightened network friends: how we are going catastrophically broke and must immediately feed the hungry of the world...how we must stop industrial growth and immediately jack up the standard of living of 20 per cent of our population...how we must lower our standard of living, learning to freeze in the dark—and immediately modernize all our water systems, et al.? Right! I am yearning to write about all these thrilling new challenges, too. Only...I'm going to write about "Watergate." And you, I hope, will indulge me by reading it. The reason: justice to a lot of people, including me; and a warning to a lot of people, including you.

To wit: For almost two years, serious bias critics (and I refer to people who did not dispute the Nixon guilt) leveled two charges against the media. One was the charge of a journalistic "double standard"—the press's comparative failure to identify and pursue non-Nixonian malfeasance. The other was the corollary charge that the reporters appeared to be running amok with hatred of the former President and, in the process, distorting the coverage. Both of these sins have now been publicly conceded by prominent American journalists, and I think you should know what they are saying.

The "double-standard" charge, as the most obvious (except to people who didn't want to understand it) was the first to be confessed publicly. To cite the most important example: Max Frankel, Sunday editor of The New York Times has conceded that the press had not pursued the LBJ-Bobby Baker scandal or the Kennedy-Chappaquiddick scandal with anything like the zeal reserved for the Nixon scandal. He moved to correct the error. He assigned reporter Robert Sherrill to the task of pulling together the contradictions, lies and unanswered questions left hanging in midair by the press since Chappaquiddick. The Boston Globe did the same thing. And, surprise surprise, now Edward Kennedy has withdrawn from the Presidential race. The silence of a "double-standard" press just may have been sheltering him.

On the corollary issue of hatred-riddled reporting, the confessions have been diverse and revealing:

Item: Many journalists dislike the out-of-control hatred and euphoria that has gripped the press since Mr. Nixon's downfall—all of it posing as professional pride. David Broder, Pulitzer Prize winner of The Washington Post, has, among others, moved to puncture the myth of professional pride. He has pointed out that it is Bob Woodward and Carl Bernstein who won the Pulitzer Prize, not "the press," and that most of the press investigated nothing, broke no stories, and have nothing for which to congratulate themselves.

Item: Many journalists are now aware that even after "Watergate," unbridled Nixon-hatred dominated and often actively distorted the news. On Oct. 15, a masterful analytic essay appeared in the Los Angeles Times by staffer David Shaw, citing case after case—columns full—of such distortions. Space does not permit their reproduction; the essay should be ordered and read. But among Shaw's conclusions are these: "It is almost impossible to convey to anyone outside Washington just how deep and intense the press's bitterness toward Mr. Nixon runs—and how pervasively, albeit subconsciously, that bitterness colors some of their perceptions." And: "[In many cases] the press's obsession with Mr. Nixon and Watergate clouded the news judgment and editorial perspective." And: "In the immediate aftermath of...Nixon's resignation, much of the American press—blinded largely by its hostility to Mr. Nixon—did a generally inadequate and sometimes irresponsible job of covering the Ford Administration."

Item: Many journalists are now admitting that during the "Watergate" period, people other than the hard-core Nixon loyalists had perceived and condemned the reporters' "obsessional" rage. On a Behind the Lines show this fall, columnist Mary McGrory said that a lot of the press realized that the public "saw us as jackals." William Broom, Washington bureau chief of the Ridder papers says, "Everyone in the White House press room was aware of the widespread public hostility to them." And on a David Susskind show, this fall, a British correspondent warned that there is still "tremendous anger" against the press since "Watergate."

Item: This distress over public anger, say many journalists, generated a strong impulse to conceal, even to repress, the out-of-control rage against Nixon, and, as Mary McGrory put it, to prove they weren't "jackals." Shaw says, similarly, that there "seems to have been a subconscious desire on the part of the press to show the American people they were not...the 'nattering nabobs of negativism' that Spiro T. Agnew had called them." Broom calls this reaction and the subsequent emotional switch "overcompensation."

Item: This "overcompensation," such reporters say, produced an absurd and phony "honeymoon" with President Ford, during which the media gushed mindlessly over his folksy virtues. The spurious "love" exploded, however with the Nixon pardon, revealing the "obsessional" Nixon hatred that lay beneath. Shaw describes the press reaction as "harsh, subjective and speculative, at times giving the impression that the act was, above all, a personal affront to, and a betrayal of, the press itself."

And that's not all. But it gives you an idea of the emotion-riddled reporting to which many reporters are now confessing, along with their "doubled standard." They are, of course, confessing to... bias.

I thought you ought to know this. Certainly the networks will never tell it to you. OK—justice is done. You are forewarned. Now...no more "Watergate."

And just to "sock it to you", Kurt, here's another by Patrick Buchanan.

"If ever doubt existed as to the political power of the networks and the national press, it should have been dispelled in the aftermath of the pardon of former President Nixon.

In mid-August the Gallup survey found the new President's approval rating at 71 per cent, higher than any level reached by his predecessor. Days after that pardon, a Phillips-Sindlinger survey found the new President with a negative national rating of 36-52, making Mr. Ford the "first President in memory to trigger a negative job rating by the end of the first month in office."

If those polls are accurate, President Ford dropped further in public approval, in a single fortnight, than Richard Nixon did in his first four years in office—the years of the demonstrations and Cambodia, of Carswell and Kent State, of the Haiphong mining and the Christmas bombing.

That extraordinary reversal is a testament to the renewed power of the networks and national press in the aftermath of Watergate. For, the Sunday of the pardon the Big Media, for the first time, turned their guns on the new President the way the Russians use their artillery, en masse—with devastating effect.

As David Broder of The Washington Post put it, the "sirens just went off inside the heads of journalists and politicians here made it sound like a declaration of war had been issued or a man from Mars had just landed. Newspaper staffs were assembled, instant TV specials rushed on the air, and every press secretary on Capitol Hill went racing for his mimeograph machine."

While it was President Ford's announcement, it was the networks that, within hours, sought out and stimulated public criticism, fed the suspicions in the body politic and kept the controversy boiling on the front burner.

A case study of how newsmen and the networks can dictate, almost unilaterally, what issue dominates the agenda of public discussions was provided in that Sept. 16 press conference eight days after the pardon, when by hard-news standards the President's irrevocable decision should have been ancient history.

With Vietnam heating up, the Mideast moving anew toward conflict, Italian democracy and the British economy tottering, strategic arms issues hanging fire, and every American sweating double-digit inflation, the White House press corps—in prime time, before 50 million Americans—asked two questions on the CIA, one on the economy, none about Vietnam, the Mideast, SALT, Europe, oil or energy—and 16 questions about the papers and pardon on Richard M. Nixon.

If we needed an example of how the concerns of the national press are unrepresentative of the concerns of the Nation, that press conference was it.

Why, eight days after the irrevocable pardon, was the press still so engrossed in its mechanics and rationale? Well, the "surprise" nature of the announcement was a dangerous way of doing the public business, some argued; others contending that the press feared the Nation would now never know the "full story of Watergate."

But no political story in history has been more covered and explored than Watergate, and within the thousands of pages of documents, transcripts and testimony before various courts and committees there is already on the public record sufficient evidence to convince 38 members of the House judiciary to vote unanimously to impeach.

And since when did network newsmen object to "surprise" announcements? When President Nixon stunned the world with the dramatic announcement of his coming visit to Peking, the network correspondents and commentators, caught flat-footed, fairly bumbled with glee. When President Ford marched into the Veterans of Foreign Wars convention, to stun the assembled veterans by announcing leniency for the draft-dodgers and deserters, again, the network correspondents and commentators were, by and large, delighted with the "surprise."

In the network specials of Sunday evening, Sept. 8, a manifest concern was the damage the pardon might do to the concept of "equal justice under the law." But to many observers, only the shocked awareness of some that their thirst for vengeance would go unslaked forever—not some vague concern over equal treatment of the Watergate defendants—explains the remarkable rage and passion of Pardon Week.

As Nora Ephron, a contributing editor for New York magazine who knows her tribe well, writes: "If there was one thing the Nixon Administration was right about, it was that there is indeed an East Coast liberal press establishment, and right now it feels lousy that it doesn't have Richard Nixon to kick around any more."

Well, today President Nixon has departed; and how will that "East Coast liberal press establishment" use the power exhibited in a week's fury against President Ford?

Upon what will it focus the searchlights? Upon its own petty concerns, or upon the genuinely grave conditions beginning to threaten the fabric of Western democracy and the foundations of Western prosperity?

In the not-disinterested view of this observer, the pardon of Richard Nixon will be viewed by history as an act courageous, magnanimous and wise, sparing a divided Nation the agony of witnessing a former President being hauled, ignominiously, into criminal court. But, agree or disagree, once the decision was taken, to what end the endless sound and fury?

In the interpretation of Theodore H. White, the perceptive political analyst, the 1972 election was a contest between the national press and the White House, over which better read the pulse of the Nation. Solely because of Watergate blunders, the vanquished of 1972 are the victorious of August 1974. Temporarily in the saddle again, however, the Big Media are once again exhibiting that unbridled arrogance of power that was the hallmark of their conduct in the last days of the Johnson Administration and the first days of the Nixon Administration.

There you are, Kurt, and this is only one of (now) hundreds of "self-media" denunciations by less "deathly" newstalkers. I wonder how you could have missed them all! But now, let me tell you some things you apparently do not even suspect, although the rest of the world does! I won't elaborate, simply make the statements, and I label them all my FIRM opinion, and finally, to those armed "death stalkers" who are now trying to destroy our constitutional freedom, I label it all "science fiction" (I'm a science fiction writer, you know, to begin with). So hold your fire, hatchetmen—after all, it is all out in the open now, and many of you are running for your lives. Statement No. 1: The ruler of South Vietnam (despot or no, makes no difference) was murdered by the CIA (which is an act of war, since it was sanctioned by our own government). Diem was shot in the back of the head by the same CIA plotters who later plotted the act of war that we now call the Bay of Pigs. It was Kennedy who realized the horrible thing that was going on, and who called off at the last minute the US air cover that was to invade the shores of Cuba to help the cause of the Cuban Patriots who sought to overthrow Castro. Cuba had a mutual defense pact with Soviet Russia, and Kruschew was prepared to carry it out with his atomic missiles. Russia would have had to come to Cuba's aid, or suffer the total loss of credibility with the entire Iron Curtain world as to the validity of its pacts. That is why the CIA (can you deny Oswald was a CIA member, even though he did not kill Kennedy?) turned on Kennedy and killed him. It was the very same CIA that murdered Rev. King, because he was becoming a political thorn in the side of the socialist one-worlders whose military (thuggee) arm is the CIA. It followed that since all the Kennedy boys were presidential timber, they all had to be eliminated. It was a CIA plot that killed Bobby Kennedy and brought Edward Kennedy to the cold waters of the Chappaquiddick, and it was regrettable that an innocent girl was the victim. We all remember how Nixon fought the communist (one-world socialist variety) menace in pre-1960, and we know how devastating to the world socialist order Nixon's "detente" with the Soviet Union and Communist (true communism with a strong tinge of dictatorship) China was. It was a CIA plot engineered by E. Howard Hunt, the author of the Bay of Pigs, which became what we know today as Watergate, and which resulted in the destruction of Richard M. Nixon, who had every right and duty to protect the Constitution by using Intelligence means to discover what plot to create public riots in Miami was being cooked up in the Watergate Hotel by the very same people who created the Chicago riots. Hunt tricked Nixon, allowed himself to be caught red-handed, then with the help of Ellsberg and the Death Stalker Press, destroyed Nixon and brought us to the sorry pass of being a self-governed people who had no voice in the selection of both their president and their vice-president. And now, with the laudatory equal rights amendment that will make discrimination by reason of sex unconstitutional, its immense influence on our laws necessitates (!) the calling of a Constitutional Convention (all of persons striving toward world socialism) who will throw out the Constitution and rewrite it as a world constitution wherein "all the world's resources are equally available to all the world's people" thus bringing about a total dictatorship of the proletariat which will marshal us all into an incredibly enslaving ant-hill wherein there will be no individuals nor individual freedom, not even individual thinking, by anyone on the whole globe!

I am prepared to prove, and intend to do so in future articles, that the news media is totally controlled by the "socialist world planners" and that they are the creators of a bloodthirsty and ghastly menace to American Liberty. And because there is not one single man or woman in a high place in the media who is not a planted member of that terrible invading army, there is only one recourse—to stop listening, and certainly stop BELIEVING, anything they say! You listen, and you believe, Kurt. Perhaps you think it will not effect you if American constitutional liberty is destroyed, but you are wrong! You will find America an even greater menace to Canada than many of your people already believe it to be (in spite of all that baloney about "we are really one people" and our boundaries are nothing more than lines on a map). We are speaking of a plot to "rule the world" that is far more capable of being successful than any ocean of blood loosed by the most savage conquerors of history. Ghengis Khan, Alexander, Hitler, etc. were babes in the woods compared to what we face today.

Incidentally, Kurt, it was the CIA that overthrew the government of Allende in Chile, and more recently, the coup in Portugal. You should know this, because the rest of the world knows it, and they are that "undeveloped majority" in the United Nations who hate us so bitterly and who would be overjoyed to see us destroyed. Ask yourself how many times Canada itself has sided with them. Is it because most Canadians are like yourself, believers in the integrity of the American News Media? They are liars, they are biased, they are sadistic, they have no regard for any citizen's rights, they are insane with power, and they know they can destroy anyone they choose! YOU listen to them if you want. I would prefer to see them all shot as traitors. They have become judge, jury and executioner. Their arrogance is incredible. All they have to do is accuse, and you are dead!

As for fair trials, do you call it fair when Judge Sirica instructs the jury, concerning evidence, that they should not consider it one way or the other in view of the fact that the men being tried were guilty? Yes, you are right, Nixon was "guilty", but he had every right by order of the Congress, to "bug" anyone in the interest of national security, and HIS opinion as to its necessity was the only governing criteria! He repeatedly warned the press that many of the "tapes" contained material damaging to national security, and he specifically mentioned (many times) Hunt and the Bay of Pigs and Diem. There is only one salvation for this country, and that is the total elimination of the CIA as an intelligence arm of our government. Its charter should be rescinded by the Congress. Also, the FBI should be called to account for acting as a puppet of the CIA. No American Citizen should be spied upon by any "police state" type of organization, or by any intelligence organization at all, except in the pursuit of criminal investigation, and that with every constitutional safeguard jealously protected.

Just as no American or foreigner should "plot the overthrow of the government of the United States, no American should "plot the overthrow of any foreign government". The CIA is guilty as hell of that! And now they are being called to account—and like rats they are resigning and running, hoping to avoid the accounting that is surely coming. But the least of their fears is that wonderful “media” you so abjectly and ignorantly worship. I ask them to “stalk” the CIA with the same persistence that they stalked the man who I think is one of America’s greatest presidents, Richard M. Nixon, who is as “guilty” as Patrick Henry of choosing liberty even if it means death. “Give me liberty or give me death.” Watergate was a plot against America. It has been successful. But in the minds of millions, the plotters have now exposed themselves.—Rap.

FLYING SAUCERS AND “THE LAKE OF FIRE”

Dear Iris M. Hitchcock:

I, too, am a Christian. I have been saved from my sins by the shed blood of Jesus Christ. Fair enough?

You state, Iris, that flying saucers are “Satan.” I know a minister, a trained theologian, who believes that flying saucers are the archangels of God! Will that good Christian gentleman be “thrown into the lake of fire” because he dares to disagree with you?

Actually, such books as Professor J. A. Hynek’s THE UFO EXPERIENCE and Coral Lorenzen’s trilogy, FLYING SAUCER OCCUPANTS, FLYINGS SAUCERS and UFOs OVER THE AMERICAS lead me to believe that flying saucers are some type of nuts-and-bolts aircraft, the product of a highly industrialized technology. You will forgive me, Iris, I am sure, if I refuse to believe that Satan is made out of sheet-steel. He is far more terrible than that!

Since I study flying saucers and psychic phenomena, and have written articles for many of the leading occult magazines (including SEARCH, FATE, PSYCHIC OBSERVER and OCCULT), doubtless I am going to be tossed into the lake of fire along with Ray Palmer. You, Iris, say I will. God and Jesus Christ say I won’t. You will forgive me, again, if I put my trust in Their promises and not in your threats!

Also yours in Christ,

George Wagner

NOAH’S ARK

Dear Rap:

Just a few days before your Search arrived in the mail, a German friend, Hans Berhold in S.L.C. (one of your customers), loaned me the German magazine Die Hausfrau, Oct. 1974. This Mag is running an article on the Ark also. I’ll translate:

“The following is from the Russian by Vladimir Koskowitzky, a translation. He was a flier during the Russian Revolution around 1917/18. After the victory of the revolutionists he came to America, where he dedicated himself to the sale of Bibles and Christian books.

Vladimir Koskowitzky writes: "It was in the days of the Russian Revolution, when this story had its beginning. Together with other Russian fliers I was at a lonely post about 40 km northwest from the mountains Ararat. It was so hot that even the Eidechsen (let me run for the dictionary) lizards lay in the shady side of the rocks with their mouths wide open. Only now and then came a breeze and brought some relief. We could clearly see the mountains Ararat. The highest mountain is 5.670 m high and always covered with snow.

Our captain instructed me, to make a trial flight with my companion. In the plane nr. 7 there was a new instrument built in, with which such high flights were possible. We were glad to get away from the heat. In a short time we were up in the air. We climbed to 4.700 m and from there I could see the snowcovered mountain, as it towered over us only a little. I don't know why, but I went right into the direction of the mountain which we soon approached. When I looked down, it came to my mind, that since 700 BC. no attempt had been made to climb this mountain. Up to that date it was said that pilgrims climbed the mountain, to get tar from a wrecked ship, from which they made necklaces, which were supposed to bring them good luck and to protect their crops. The legend continues, that no longer anybody climbed this mountain, because a lightning had struck nearby and had frightened them. I had to laugh about these simple-minded people. Who had heard of shipwrecks at the height of a mountain chain.

We circled around the mountain for a while, when suddenly my companion started to shout, pointing to a lake. I looked where he pointed and almost fainted in surprise. A submarine! I exclaimed. What a strange conveyance. We went as close as was possible and circled several times. The wooden construction was very large. About one fourth was in the water. At one side of the front part it was partly destroyed. On the other side was a large opening, about 7 meters square, but a door was missing. This seemed extraordinary, as today, even the largest ships entrances are less than half as big.

We returned to the airport. When we reported our finding, there was much laughter. Nobody wanted to believe us. The captain, however took the thing seriously. He asked us several questions. At last he requested that we take him there. He asked me: Do you know what kind of a ship that is, and what you saw there? Did you ever hear about the Ark of Noah?" "Yes, surely, but I don't understand, how the legend of Noah's ark could have any connections with this strange thing, lying 4,200 m. on top of a mountain." "This strange thing, as you call it, is the Ark of Noah," said the captain. "Almost five thousand years it has been there. As it never thaws there for 9 or 10 months of the year, but remains solidly frozen, the wood did not rot." It was, so to say, in a cooler; you have made the most wonderful discovery of our time."

The captain sent his findings (reports) to the government, and there it found great response (interest). The zcar of Russia sent two groups of soldiers to climb the mountain. One group of 50 men started on one side of the mountain and another group of a hundred from the other side of the mountain. It took almost a whole month until they arrived at the site where the ark lay. Now they took measurements and drawings were made, also photographs. All was sent to the zcar of Russia.

They found that the ark had hundreds of little compartments, while others were bigger. The larger ones had compartments made with strong timbers which apparently could also hold the largest of animals in prison. In other rooms one saw rows of cages similar as can be found today at poultry fairs. All was covered by a waxlike paint. The work indicated great skill. The wood used was that of the Oleander tree. That, together with the frozen condition explained the good condition of the construction.

A few days after the report had been sent to the Zcar of Russia, the then reigning government was crashed. The revolutionaries came to power and nothing of this discovery was made public.

We went to America, where we could live as the Bible tells us to. I had gotten a very convincing proof of its truth. Specially of the truth of the flood.

1948, 30 years later another group of Archeologists went up to free the ark of ice and study it. These studies came to the conclusion to agree with the given measurements of Moses: 180 m. long, 30 m. wide and 18 m. high. (300x50x30 Ellen) (yards). It is not just coincidence possibly that in our time this ark has been laid free because of an unnatural heatwave.

Interesting is the report, of some years back: A Dutch ship building company made the attempt to find the most quiet object on water. A swimming object was built of the measures as given of the Ark. It was a great surprise that this object was the most quiet on the waves.

THE BEANS STRUGGLED TO ESCAPE

Rap,

I think I have something very important to say.

I cooked some beans in a glass pot. I am in good communication with plants, psychically. The beans were in a life and death struggle to escape. They were being boiled alive. I watched them, I saw them look at me like a monster, which I could find no defense against. I must have breathed upon the water, because they were terrified at my breath, even the size of my nostrils.

Some of them rose to the top, where it was cooler. Some resigned themselves. I think those that rose to the top probably knew how to hold gas to make them light.

One of them begged to escape. I took the pot of beans over to the cold water faucet, ran it full of cold water, and tossed beans and all out in the yard. Then I gave away the rest of the beans.

I'll never cook another live bean.

The world needs to eat, beans, cabbage, potatoes, what else. Killing food by boiling it to death is truly the work of a monster, and in return the food poisons us. Can't someone invent a means of shocking the life out of our food, before eating it?

You would tell the public that food cooked this way did not develop some sort of Hyperglypheracidiphilosis, and probably could prove that it was less likely to spoil, and had a better flavor, to say nothing of the fact that it would be free of the "hemomorte" "factor".

But the "factor" would be purely and simply the lack of the poisons created when the plant was dying. Dieticians, physicians and morticians have been telling us for ages that "you are tomorrow what you eat today." It is proven true.

I don't know if this would stop death, conceivably it could, although I suspect it would only push it farther away. But what it would do, I thoroughly believe, is stop man's inhumanity to man.

This could be more important than all the inventions in existence, because if man could truly have the welfare of his fellowman at heart, Earth would be a paradise. If we stop eating food that left its memory of death within itself, we should then, stop our subconscious intent to kill and be killed. This would, in 2 weeks time, relieve all the envy, greed, hate, anger, fear, vengeance, etc. in our emotions. These plants and seeds are alive, when we boil them to death. They fight to survive. What monstrous acts we perform, and of course, we are punished. We do it ignorantly and are punished, ignorant of the punishment. Our children are deformed, stupid, our bodies smell of the death, our thoughts think death and destruction (to die, eventually). We are filled with contention, everyone distrusts, (and many times for good reason) everyone else. We are SICK. We didn't want to be sick. We are, according to what we have eaten. Please, someone, invent a gadget to take away the memory and consciousness of the live food (meat included, its cells still live) before cooking. Get it highly publicized as a healthier way to cook. Put it on the market—Sell me one.

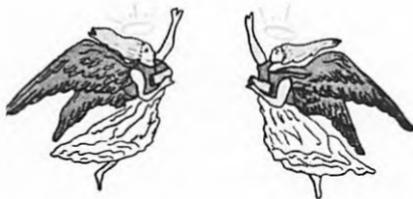

Sincerely,

T. Abel Amet

A FANTASTIC NEW OCCULT BOOK

STRANGERS IN OUR MIDST FROM OTHER WORLDS

AN ADVENTURE INTO A DREAM

"The TWO ANGELS—TWANGELA AND TARMELA"—surely has to be the most fabulous love story of the century! In the deepest sense, it concerns the life of each human being. It is mystical in depth, eternal in scope, unrivaled in beauty. Much revealed is very sacred. Yet, it is hoped through this sharing, to inspire and encourage many who may similarly seek, while feeling that they, somehow, are different and so, become afraid to speak out, or to tell their innermost dreams. Too, this story is for those who are NOT afraid, but merely discouraged, feeling that their most profound hopes, prayers and dreams are, somehow, fruitless.
