THE HIDDEN WORLD

A NEW IDEA IN BOOK PUBLISHING THE SUBSCRIPTION BOOK

Here it is at last! The entire Shaver Mystery in book form! The greatest single obstacle to publication has been cost — the average book costs $4.00. And the Shaver Mystery, in its entirety, will take a whole series of books, perhaps as many as ten. Now we've solved our problem — we can give you these books, 192 pages (large size), fine quality book paper for permanence, excellent printing, in heavy enamel paper bindings, at a saving of $2.50 per book! The difference is in the binding, plus regular quarterly publication. We will publish one book every three months, and sell them by subscription only, one year for $6.00. Each book will contain 115,000 words, twice the average book! In addition to the Shaver Mystery, we have other mysterious and thought-provoking books to publish, and that is why these new books will have an over-all title of THE HIDDEN WORLD. Now, via the Subscription Book, the researches of thirty years can be published. You've wanted to know what I REALLY know and think! Here's your chance at last, at a price you can afford.

What is the Shaver Mystery? There are many theories: There are those who support Shaver in his materialistic honeycomb of caverns the world over, heritage of a Titan-Atlan race which fled a poisoned world over 12,000 years ago. There are those who call his caverns the "astral", his dero the spirits of the dead. Some say it is "another dimension", another realm of life alongside ours, invisible under ordinary circumstances. They fight among themselves, but in one way they join solidly together — the Shaver phenomena are REAL.

EDITORIAL

THIS EDITORIAL is being written on the first day of Spring when younger men's fancies are said to turn to thoughts of love. Ours turn to a few random items that might best be said now, when they can be attributed to "spring fever".

How's business? The only way we have to answer that question is to consider our own - and here we are faced with a problem that points to more than business; it points to the matter of American Freedom, the Constitution, and our Republic. This Republic is founded on the freedom and rights of the individual, as against the rights of "the people". In a Republic, the individual and the minority is protected by "government by law" (which a Republic is) as opposed to "government by men" (which a Democracy is). In a Democracy, the majority rules, and government is concerned with the best for the most. In this form of government, there is destruction of individual rights, suppression and frustration of minorities, and rule by bureaucratic decisions made by people whose directives become "law" by reason of application. We have a Republic, founded so by our forefathers precisely to avoid the evils of Democracy, and protected by a Constitution and Bill of Rights designed to foil all attacks on the Republican form of government. Today, Spring, 1962, the Republic is under attack on the business level. How's business is therefore a question that has a rather surprising answer.

First, thinking back over the "business efforts" of the past 30 years, we are struck by one fact which should ring in our mind like an air-raid warning siren in our ears - every frustration, every failure, every problem has been due to "democratic government".

The things we have tried to do are as follows:

1. - Earn enough money by working for a salary to enable us to acquire sufficient capital to go into business for ourselves, which is our idea of "the pursuit of life, liberty and happiness".
2. - Purchase the necessary machinery and land and buildings to establish that business.
3. - Hire people to do the work, thus creating jobs.
4. - Sell the product at a reasonable profit.
5. - Conduct the business in the most efficient manner possible, and consolidate, assure and expand it to the best interests of owner, employee and consumer.

It took 20 years to earn the initial capital, 20 years of saving, scrimping, long hours, hard work, and careful planning. On every cent of that earned money we paid income tax, continually increasing so that each year the date for actually going into business had to be set back. But the goal was reached. The business was acquired. The machines were in the building. Suddenly these machines and buildings, by some weird reasoning, became "property" having value, and a factor in determining income. Although the machines had to be paid for, they could only be depreciated over a period of 20 years. Each year 5% of the purchase price could be deducted from gross income, and set aside for eventual replacement (disregarding subsequent inflation). Although this money had ALREADY been taxed as income, the undepreciated portion was taxed once each year for 19 years at 52% corporate tax, since it was a factor in profit. Not only double taxation, but multiple taxation.

By government action, there were constant increases in the cost of doing business (none of them evil on the face of it), such as a minimum wage law, workmen's compensation, postal rate increases, a mountain of bookwork due to filling out innumerable forms. As we have pointed out in a previous issue, the minimum wage law only destroyed jobs we had worked hard to create, and harmed local economy; the workmen's compensation applied only to full-time workers, and ours were all part-time; the postal increases were unrealistic and actually disastrous; the enforcement of all these laws was punitive rather than corrective. The best possible example can be given in the postal increase. Said the postmaster-general: "An increase in 2nd Class postage rates will raise an additional $50 million dollars per year." Said the Bureau of the government which makes business surveys and sets up statistics available to the Postmaster General as well as anybody else: "The publishing industry served by 2nd Class privileges grosses less than $50 million per year." Now, how is it that the Postmaster General, (or Congress) cannot see that to gouge $50 million out of an industry whose profits before taxes are LESS than that, is to destroy that industry? Not only is there not any additional postal revenue, there is a large loss, and Uncle Sam loses income taxes of 52% of nearly $50 million dollars! If we have fools making laws in a democratic government, we have tyranny.

How's business this Spring, 1962 day? By governmental regulation beyond the defines of the Constitution, it is being used to destroy our Republic, bit by bit! Ask ANY little businessman! Rap.

THE GATHERING STORM!!

"UNITY"—THEN ARMAGEDDON? You have heard countless dissertations and explanations and forgot them all, but here is one you will NEVER forget—and possibly see! Is there a PATTERN FOR WORLD CONQUEST and a MASTER PLAN for the DOMINATION and ENSLAVEMENT of the world? Is this the TWILIGHT HOUR of the human race?

A WORLD WIDE HOLOCAUST IS COMING!

NOTHING has EVER been so CERTAIN since the dawn of CREATION. Deep deep down in the silence of your innermost being you can feel it—even the very elements proclaim it! WE STAND ON THE VERY BRINK OF A UNIVERSAL CATASTROPHE; a hellish holocaust that staggers the imagination. This day was not foreordained but is being BROUGHT TO PASS. Why did a man after reading it immediately order five copies sent to relatives and friends, then drive 200 miles to see the author?

Why did a party write and offer to come clear across the U.S. to see the author?

What impelled a man to come from a foreign country and arrive unannounced to see the author?

FATE OF THE ORIGINAL OAH SPE COLONY

BY LEON BARDA

Dear Ray:

I chanced upon an old 2nd-hand copy of the 1891 edition of Oahspe (an enormous book, like an old fashioned family Bible) and pasted on the inside front cover was a clipping from a newspaper which I have taken the trouble of copying for your benefit. There is no date to the clipping but it is very old, as evidenced by its brown color, and crumbling condition. It must have been printed just after the breakup of the Old Shalam Colony, but before it had been completely taken over by outsiders. As you can see, it was not destroyed by a flood, but rather by a "drought" - the drying up of the supply of money which kept it going.

Now, what will you do with this clipping? Anything you wish. You may wish to publish all, or part of it. You may wish to file it in the "round file". In any case, it is yours, and welcome to it.

OLD SHALAM COLONY GONE.

NEW MEXICO UTOPIA BROKEN UP AND LANDS WILL BE SOLD.

New Yorker Who Wrote An Inspired Volume And Established A Colony On Its Teachings - His Home For Vagrant Children Of Large Cities. (From the San Antonio Express) Las Cruces, N. M.

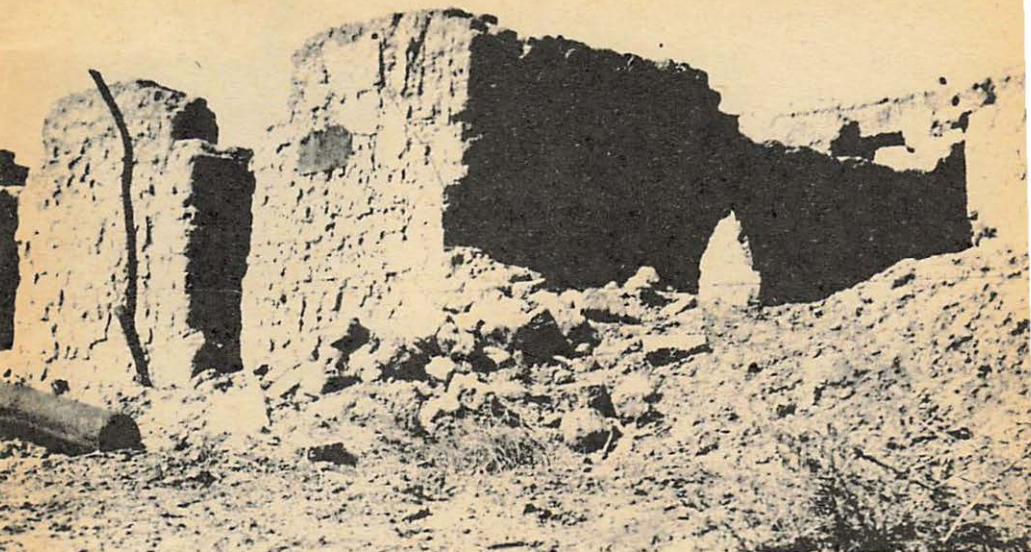

Tucked far away from the great busy world, guarded by bleak old Picacho and lulled to sleep by the rolling Rio Grande, lies the beautiful Shalam Colony. But yesterday this colony, its buildings and ground was, probably, one of the most beautiful spots in the Southwest and was the home of one of the most unique band of people in the world.

Located, as it is, one mile west of Dona Ana, six miles north of Las Cruces, in the famous Mesilla valley, this strangely wonderful ranch is only forty-six miles above El Paso. It is situated one mile through the brush from the railroad and consequently is not visible from the train, nor from the main traveled wagon road. It lies in a bend of the river, over next to the Picacho mountains on the west side of the valley.

This colony, once the home of a new religious sect, and established for the care and attention of vagrant children from large cities, the seat of a "prophet" who, Dowie-like, issued a bible of his own and attempted to found a new religion, has just passed into other hands and will be cut up and sold in small farms as homes. It was the fond hope of the founder to establish a colony of vegetarians, where he expected to raise children from the slums of the large cities and bring them up to become useful men and women. The promoter thought by the elimination of meat eating he could eliminate all that was bad in life and the basis of his new religion was founded on a vegetarian diet. He also thought the modern clothes were at fault in the development of human minds and bodies, and pajamas, day and night, formed the attire for the boys and girls of the college; also for the superintendents and employees.

The founder claimed to have had a revelation and his bible was the outcome. The colony followed and in the colony he attempted to prove the truth of his revelations, but he failed, and the bible and colony passed into history. After sinking a fortune of over a million dollars, the promoter sold the land for a few thousand and the financial backer, still clinging to the original belief and costume, will pass the last few years of his life in the California sun, where pajamas are more suitable to the climate than that of New Mexico.

A PRETTY LOCATION.

The general view from the buildings of Shalam is grand. To the east fifteen miles are the towering Organs, to the northeast are the Dona Ana mountains, and to the north and south stretches the Mesilla valley.

Away back in the early '80s there lived in New York City a wealthy dentist, Dr. J.B. Newbrough. He became interested in spiritualism. He began to study the science and believed there must be some higher spirits than those generally present at the ordinary seances. Finally one day a spirit appeared to him and told him to get a typewriter and learn to operate it.

THE FRATERNUM AS IT APPEARS TODAY. THE SHALAM VENTURE DISSIPATED A MILLION DOLLARS BEFORE THE FOUNDERS GAVE UP. THE LAND IS NOW A PART OF THE D. F. FLETCHER AND SONS FARMS, SIX MILES NORTH OF LAS CRUCES.

This he did, and in the due course of time the spirit came again and told him that on every morning at thirty minutes before daylight a spirit would appear before him and direct him to use the typewriter for half an hour. He was told to lay the writings away and not look at them until he had finished, and then he should have them published in book form. For about a year he was at the typewriter at the appointed time and the spirit directed his fingers to do the writing.

When the book was completed Dr. Newbrough was instructed to have 3,000 copies published and to name the book "Oahspe", a Paneric word, meaning "earth", "sky", "spirit". The book contained many strange and unheard of words. They were written under the direction of the spirit. Many of the words were from what the book calls the Paneric language, or the language of the Continent of Pan, which was once a continent larger than the Eastern continent, and lying between Japan and North America, extending from Australia to the Bering Sea.

SUBMERGED CONTINENT.

This continent was submerged by a great flood 24,000 years ago. This language is dead, and only known to the spirit world, the author claimed. Many words in the Oahspe are taken from the Chinese, Japanese and other languages, he says.

The principal teachings of the Oahspe are that the earth was created by a Creator or Jehovih, who directs everything in all worlds. The believers in the faith are called "Faithists" as distinguished from Christians, Buddhists, Pagans, etc. The Oahspe teaches that all modern astronomy, physics, and philosophy are in error. The earth and moon revolves in a vortex, which whirls within a larger vortex, composed of all the planets, each planet having a vortex of its own. This larger vortex revolves around the sun, and with the sun as a head, this vortex, which is but a part of a still larger vortex, revolves around the North Star, which itself is but a larger sun.

NON-FLESH EATING.

The Oahspe teaches its followers to be non-flesh eating, living entirely on vegetables; anti-warring, believing in and practicing eternal peace. There shall be no preachers. The Faithists shall believe and live perfectly free. Government is not necessary. Legislation, tariffs, etc. are all relics of barbarism. There shall be no poor. Everyone shall be equal in wealth. In other words, the life of the Faithists should be one continual round of pleasure.

Dr. Newbrough issued his first edition in 1882, 3,000 copies, and in 1884 he issued another edition of 3,000 copies. The first edition was all sold and 2,000 of the second edition were sold. Many of the books were sold in England. In the preface of his second edition he states that since the first edition many people had quit eating meat and many preachers had gone into active line of business; therefore when the teachings of Oahspe became known the world over they would be universally followed.

CARE OF HOMELESS.

One of the chapters of the Oahspe teaches that especial care should be taken of poor homeless children. In 1884 Dr. Newbrough had a spirit come to him and tell him to go and find a location for a home for homeless children. He left New York under the direction of a spirit and traveled and traveled until he finally reached the present site of Shalam. He was then told to buy the land and found a home for poor children and such adults as cared to devote their lives to the cause of taking care of and teaching the waifs to be good men and women.

For some time Shalam flourished. At one time there were forty-seven people living there. About this time Dr. Newbrough was stricken with la grippe and died. After a while funds began to run short and those who had promised to help to maintain the institution failed to make remittances. On account of lack of funds the home idea was abandoned, and the children were found private homes and adopted.

Mrs. Newbrough later married Mr. Howland, and with her daughter and three of the orphans, one boy and two girls, they have been living quietly at Shalam. The buildings have been kept up, but the lands have been allowed to grow up in weeds.

Sometime ago Mr. Howland went into court and had the land deeded back to him.

About a month ago the entire Shalam colony of 930 acres, together with all the buildings were sold to Byrd R. Birdwell of Las Cruces, Mr. Lucius of Shreveport, La., and John Ginpas of Alexandria, La. These gentlemen will improve the land, planting most of it to alfalfa. The buildings will probably be used for 'a boys' school or a winter hotel. They are admirably adapted for either.

Thus passes from existence an institution, which, while it may have had at its foundation a religion not acceptable to most people, was, nevertheless, noble in purpose.

Mr. and Mrs. Howland and her daughter, Miss Newbrough, will move to the Pacific coast soon and will make their future home at San Diego, Calif.

SWEDISH RESEARCHER INVENTS BRAIN- WASHING DRUG

By FRANK PATTON

Added to the water supply
it could enslave nations -

A Swedish medical researcher is experimenting with a drug that conceivably could brainwash a nation's population in hours or days.

The initial effect on humans is to increase their acceptance of suggestions. Its testing has been under way only three months so its powers are far from fully determined.

Added to the water supply, this drug might bring about a profound change in the thinking or behavior of a community before anyone was aware of its workings.

The drug is an inexpensive compound called tricyano-amino-propene. It works by causing changes in the chemical structure of ribonucleic acid - RNA - an important constituent of all living cells. In this case it works on nerve cells, particularly when they have been stirred to activity by stress or some other stimulant.

Changes were caused in the structure of nerve RNA by administration of the drug. With these chemical changes there were corresponding changes in human suggestibility.

In small quantities the drug is nontoxic. In doses of a little more than a thousandth of an ounce it caused remarkable changes in less than an hour in the RNA composition of nerve cells in experimental subjects. These changes were a measure of the potential effect on the functioning of the nerve cells and consequently on the mental processes of the subjects.

It is interesting to consider what such a drug might do in the hands of a police state. Doctoring the country's water supply might make the population more amenable to the imposition of austerity measures.

It might also be useful in modifying the behavior of neurotic or otherwise mentally disturbed people.

Further tests of the powers of this drug are being done on animals.

HOW DOES

TELEPATHY WORK?

By WALTER M. GERMAIN, Ph. D.

Author of "The Magic Power Of Your Mind"

THE MECHANICS of thought transference as conceived by the yogis are described as follows in a footnote on page 264 of AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF A YOGI by the late Paramahansa Yoganada, published by the Self-Realization Fellowship, 3880 San Rafael, Los Angeles 65, California.

"The will, projected from the point between the eyebrows, is the broadcasting apparatus of thought. Man's feeling or emotional power, calmly concentrated on the heart enables it to act as a mental radio that receives the messages of other persons, far or near. In telepathy the fine vibrations of thoughts in one man's mind are transmitted through the subtle vibrations of astral ether and then through the grosser earthly ether, creating electrical waves, that, in turn, transform themselves into thought waves in the mind of the other person."

I would suggest these modifications in this concept of telepathy: (1) I do not believe that astral ether is a factor in telepathy. This implies a spirit world which yogis believe is a temporary abode where souls linger until reincarnated. Like the purgatory of the Christian religion, as astral world is purely hypothetical. (2) As Emmet Fox points out in THE SERMON ON THE MOUNT (Harper & Brothers Publishers), "The word 'heart' in the Bible usually means that part of man's mentality which modern psychology knows under the name of the subconscious mind."

Telepathy, like other ESP phenomena, is the end-result of paranormal activities of the so-called subconscious mind functioning in conjunction and coordination with its counterpart in the so-called etheric body, the aura or electromagnetic field of force that surrounds the physical body of man.

In the beginning God said, "Let there be light."

Thus God created the universe by thought-energy.

Having endowed mankind with the ability to THINK through His divine plan of evolution, man has become co-creator with his Maker. This is the literal meaning of the Biblical statement: God made man in His own image and likeness.

Thinking is a process of thought-energy.

Telepathy is one of the many facets of thought-energy. It was man's only means of communication before he learned to communicate by spoken or written words.

Mrs. Eileen J. Garrett, President of Parapsychology Foundation, Inc. implies this in the title of her illuminating book, TELEPATHY, IN SEARCH OF A LOST FACULTY.

Writing in PSYCHICAL PHENOMENA (volume 36 of the TWENTIETH CENTURY ENCYCLOPEDIA OF CATHOLICISM, published by Hawthorn Books, Inc.,) Reginald Omez, O.P. presents a similar view:

"Human paranormal cognition seems to be very much more highly developed among primitive peoples than in urban industrial man," Father Omez says. "Aborigines from Australia, Central Africa, South America, are gifted with a delicacy of hearing, an accuracy of intuition, a vivid telepathic power which leaves our methods of divination and clairvoyance far behind.

"Are our paranormal cognitions then anything other than a residuum in civilized man of an animal function which has largely atrophied in consequence of our habitual use of other methods of perception and of exchanging ideas?" he asks. And then this famous parapsychologist, who is also a theologian, answers his own query by quoting another celebrated Catholic writer: "Robert Amadou considers them to be 'survivals of a very primitive mode of consciousness and of action,' " he concludes.

How did our primitive forebears transmit thought-energy?

In other words, how does the human brain function as a telepathetic transmitter for sending messages and a transformer for receiving them without sensory perception, - that is, without the use of any of the five senses?

It should be remembered that our savage forefathers were not blessed with a highly developed cortical apparatus such as modern man's so-called conscious mind. Their consciousness and actions were largely motivated by inborn-urges designed primarily for self-preservation. Their instinctive desire to stay alive under the hazardous conditions of a pristine environment was almost constantly expressed in one or the other of the primary emotions of greed, fear or rage.

The constructive side of their emotional nature consisted mostly of the sex urge and a temporary love for their human offspring.

During the early stages of human evolution, consciousness was largely instinctive. It was restricted mostly to that area of the human brain now called the subconscious mind, which is the seat of emotions.

Emotions are instincts-in-action. Thus it was that human emotion became the fountainhead of the "life-force" of the human organism. The nature of this life-force produced by emotions (or instincts-in-action) is electricity, which is also the basic element that conditions waves of the motion of light and patterns them into the various substances called matter, including the human organism.

In order to comprehend my point of view concerning the mechanics of thought transference (telepathy) in the form of thought-energy, one must accept the subconscious mind (the seat of human emotions) as the area of the human brain where telepathic messages originate and are received.

In this respect, consciousness of the "animal brain" acts separately from the awareness of the conscious mind, just as it does in controlling the functions, sensations and condition of the body.

However, modern man can consciously control all the instinctive functions of his subconscious mind through proper use of his sense of reason and exercise of his God-given free will. (See page 157 of the writer's best-selling book, THE MAGIC POWER OF YOUR MIND, for the fundamental principles of this therapeutic phenomenon.) Only when one has achieved a state of self-mastery through the progressive practice of self-discipline and self-control - first by mitigating the harmful (and too often disastrous) effects of the primary emotions of greed, fear and anger; and then by accentuating the CREATIVE POWER OF LOVE, can he acquire conscious control in awareness of the many hidden faculties of his subconscious mind of which telepathy is one.

Control of the telepathic functions of the subconscious mind can also be acquired by those who achieve that state of self-hypnosis where they take control of their subconscious mind and still retain full or partial consciousness.

Telepathy, like clairvoyance, occurs most frequently while one is in a trance or asleep. Perhaps the phenomenon will be remembered upon awakening as in a dream; or perchance one may awaken with the awareness that some problem has been solved while asleep; or with consciousness of certain knowledge or information that one did not previously possess. The writer frequently experiences this type of nocturnal phenomenon which he calls "sleep thinking".

The principles involved in telepathy that is consciously invoked are the same as those for healing self or others. They are enumerated in Chapter XII-Healing of my forthcoming book, A NEW LOOK INTO YOUR MIND, as follows:

1. Strong desire to effect the cure.
2. Clear mental image or picture of the desired condition as already present in the patient. ("What things soever ye desire when ye pray, believe ye receive them, and ye shall have them." Mark 11:24)
3. Concentration of the attention and mind, so as to bring to a focus the two preceding states.

The art of visualization, or seeing with the mind's eye, dates back to the time when telepathy was practiced by our primitive forebears. In order to project thought-energy, primitive man had to create mental images or pictures of the thoughts he wished to transmit. The element of desire is the means of stimulating the emotional action that causes the thalamus, the middle segment of the basal ganglia, to generate the requisite voltage of electricity.

How the electromagnetic field of force that surrounds the physical body - called the human aura or etheric body - not only serves as the antennae for sending and receiving telepathic messages, but also as the medium by which human consciousness contacts the cosmos consciousness of a fourth, and perhaps greater, dimensional worlds, is explained in Chapter I-Your Sixth Sense of A NEW LOOK INTO YOUR MIND.

Flashes of insight which pervade consciousness in the form of inspiration, intuition, revelation or illumination are fragments of telepathic or clairvoyant messages from other minds either here on the earth planet or from hyper spaces in the cosmos.

It would be interesting, and perhaps fruitful, if others would express their views on this intriguing subject in articles or letters to Search magazine.

If someone has a better idea than mine, I would like to hear about it. At this early date in the mental state of man's progressive evolution on this earth planet, one cannot be positive about anything, especially in the occult field of parapsychology.

It's wise to keep one's mind open! - Walter M. Germain, Ph. D., 541 Park Ave., Saginaw, Michigan.

Open Letter to:
Hon. Robert Kennedy,
Department Justice,
Washington, D.C.
Dear Mr. Kennedy:

After reception of two letters from the Anti-Trust division, Department of Justice, I got a bronchial-pneumonia and was forced to stay in a hospital for about 4 weeks. That prevented me from following through on certain evidence proving the A.M.A. a monopoly in restraint of trade PLUS many crimes to which I now refer.

I sent you a copy of FitzGerald report to Sen. Tobey's committee accusing AMA of, dishonesty, corrupt motives, intrigue, selfishness, jealousy, obstruction and conspiracy. He also quoted great medical doctors who oppose most vigorously the AMA attitude on cancer treatment and many other man-killers. I assume FitzGerald, a Dept. of Justice investigator, was honest. I know he was. Do not the charges he made constitute a basis for prosecution? If you will read page 340 INFORMATION PLEASE you will find that cancer is completely out of control. Re any cancers cured by AMA technique, I must take the word of that great Harvard diagnostician, Dr. Cabot, that exploratory operations show that well over 50% of all diagnoses are incorrect, and that most of the neoplasms called 'cured' by AMA techniques, were absolutely wrong. And I know, and FitzGerald so reported, that Harry Hoxsey cured thousands of cancers after AMA doctors sent them home to die - after extorting the very last dime from patients and their relatives.

Can that statement be proved? Ask me about that matter! Now, IS AMA A CRIMINAL ORGANIZATION? Here are many cases to prove it: Get the record of Dr. Niel Sullberger, resident surgeon of Pontiac hospital. He should be sent to be house doctor to Khrushchev. The AMA did nothing to punish him. A highly reputable doctor, Norman Barnesby, M.D. stated, "Crime is inevitable AS LONG AS DOCTORS ABIDE BY THE AMA CODE OF ETHICS." He said CRIME. 90% of all doctors abide by that criminal code. To depart from it is to be thrown to the coyotes.

I believe you are a Harvard man. Dr. Means, Atlantic Monthly, October, 1950, launched out at the monopolistic practices of AMA. That noted surgeon, Dr. Hawley, head of College of Surgery, told of the bad practices of the AMA. His words were published in every metropolitan newspaper in America. G.B. Shaw wrote, "Malpractice can only be proved by technical testimony of other doctors who would see a whole countryside decimated before testifying against a colleague." Bauer, L.A. BBB wrote the L.A. medic society (ama) accusing its members of robbing patients through kickbacks. And this writer has the evidence to prove the charge with names.

A great gynecologist, Dr. De Linde, wrote that 28% of the abdominal operations on women were not indicated, or contra-indicated. Another highly-reputable surgeon, Dr. Codman, stated at an AMA convention, that he had positive records of amputations committed against patients, nearly every one of which was erroneous, not indicated or contra-indicated. Dr. Murphy, Kansas University Medical school, wrote an article condemning AMA for the shortage in MDs. This was about eight years ago. AMA came back and virtually called him a liar. I have a list of ten leading medical schools that continue to turn away over 80% of finest applicants for matriculation in AMA controlled medical schools. Tribune, of this date, carries the news that AMA is going to establish a loan fund for prospective medical students. On reading the conditions, it can be easily assured that any student who signs up and takes the money has assumed the chains of medical slavery. That's the way AMA operates. It has a so-called code of ethics like that of the gangsters - once part of the gang, you dare not try to break away. Tens of thousands of honest doctors realize this fact and pray for the VD that spells the end of medical despotism through the destruction of the despot.

A reputable medical magazine, Medical Economics, issue February, carried an article, "WHY THEY ARE NOT IN A.M.A.", a true and factual exposure of rascally medical politics. Perhaps you are not familiar with the report of the Morland Committee to Governor Thomas Dewey, a report proving that a high percentage of N.Y. doctors (and the same thing prevails all over the U.S.) were demanding and receiving kick-backs from every business or profession connected with the medical profession.

I have a documented record that AMA surgeons are doing over 600,000 unneeded tonsilectomies every year; further proof that children tonsilectomized are far more prone to contract pneumonia. Proof that there are over a hundred thousand hysterectomies every year and 500,000 oophorectomies every year, most of them not indicated, or contra-indicated.

These are not idle statements, but records from highly reputable physicians and surgeons, forced under duress to belong to the AMA, and ardently hoping that the medical monopoly will soon be destroyed so they can again practice medicine under their Hippocratic oath. From my thousands of documented records and from the evidence revealed by Senator Ke-fauver especially concerning Merck and Squibbs, I cannot, for the life of me see why the drug houses and the AMA should not be subject to indictment on many counts. I urge you to read the evidence adduced by Senator Kefauver about the products as testified to by Dr. Console, of Squibbs, and of Dr. Augustus Bibson, of Mercks, and the product called DECADRON, still hawked by Mercks and used to the detriment of patients, by members of the AMA. This doctor admitted that Decadron caused bloating of the face to severe mental disease, or spreading of infection.

With these few remarks, and thousands more, if needed, I leave you to your conscience and your God. How strange it is that Senators Wiley, Dirksen, Hruska and the Republican hangers-on fought Senator Kefauver every inch of the way in vain attempts to prevent the truth being known. As Shakespeare said it:

“A politician, one who'd circumvent God.”

Sincerely yours,

W.D. Chesney, M.D., a graduate physician thrown out of the medical gang for exposing Simmons (advertising cancer and abortion quack), Morris Fishbein (also thrown out of the gang for accidentally telling the truth.) Poisoned twice, unborn son killed in utero by agents of medical trust who gassed my wife with chlorine gas. W.D. Chesney, real inventor of solar photo-synthesis and power, fluorescent light, first to produce electricity direct from sun, real inventor of sniperscope and snooperscope, infra red and ultra violet devices for therapeutic and commercial purposes. - W.D. Chesney, M.D., 1321 Sherman, Janesville, Wis.

Is English

Language?

THAT IS WHAT Theodore Roosevelt called the English language because it is a hodge podge of practically every known language into which we have adopted the worst of most other tongues and left out many desirable portions. Mr. Roosevelt pointed out such incongruities as final unsounded vowels, double consonants, the fact that the diphthong 'ou' has seven different pronounciations and that by simplifying our outlandish orthography, billions of man hours could be and ought to be saved each year and a resultant perfection of spelling. All one has to do to realize the deplorable spelling is to listen to Art Linkletter's program where countless public school teachers are offered valuable prizes to spell just one word. College graduates and high school teachers have found more ways of misspelling English words than a legion of grammar school students in the old days before sports came before everything in education.

Theodore Roosevelt made every attempt to put literature on a firm basis by a system of sensible revised orthography but the die hards amidst the lexicographers nullified his efforts, no doubt, for their own benefit. Were they not like the traveler who went to Denver from Kansas City via north pole? One who is somewhat conversant with several languages can easily point out the undeniable facts that, when any report has to be translated from one language, with its idioms, into another language, great errors occur. A farmer in Kansas ordered his new hand fresh from Sweden, "Ollie, chop down that dead tree and then chop it up." It took some time to convey the real meaning to Ollie. About the best thing that can be said for the Anglo-Saxon, Latin, Greek, Arabic, plus thousands of additions from foreign languages is that the English subjunctive mood is in the same form as the indicative mood but is governed by such words as if, but, etc. The subjunctive verb in nearly all languages that have this mood is one expressing a state, action or event as possible, conditional or dependent rather than actual. For instance, "If monopolies are not destroyed, our republic will be destroyed," said Abe Lincoln. In nearly all modern languages the subjunctive mood is expressed in the most diabolical conglomeration of letters. And not only that. When the subjunctive mood verb is used in the passive voice, in nearly all languages except English, heaven help one trying to master any such language. No such road block halts the aspirant to English.

However, when it comes to the art of orthography in English and pronunciation, we find this language to be probably the most difficult of all languages, EVEN TO THOSE BORN AND RAISED IN BRITAIN AND AMERICA. This ought not to be so because we aspire to make our language the universal earth language. And there will never be peace on earth and good will among men until men talk with one another without the use of an interpreter, who may, or may not convey the necessary shade of meaning. Here is a documented case: In old Indian Territory many tribes of Indians lived on top of fabulous deposits of petroleum. Certain Caucasian oil monopolies wanted to obtain these properties. They found the easiest way was to give the whites false reports about the Indians who could not speak English, then go to the Indians who could not understand English, and tell them the white interlopers were going to attack them, and that the only way the Indians could save their lives was to attack and massacre every white man

The only way to assure real peace is to have a universal language and a universal monetary system. It seems to this writer that a universal religious system is also indispensable - at least among those that believe in a God of love and universal brotherhood of man. Nearly all foreign - to us - languages that use the same letters or some modifications of our letters of the alphabet, have only one, or at the most two pronunciations for the letter 'A' while we have many pronunciations for this letter. Far worse, we pronounce other letters and combinations like they were the letter 'A'. Instance: take the words, prey, wait, fame, great and neighbor in which the 'ey', the 'ai', the 'a' and the 'ei' have absolutely the same sound. Think of our letter 'E' and its affect on one wishing to acquire a working knowledge of our mongrel language. In the words police, mete, greet, sea, the letters 'i', 'e', 'ee', and 'ea' are pronounced exactly alike.

Consider the diphthong, 'ou', which has seven different pronunciations. Just think of a few words in very common use that contain this 'ou' and find one great reason why Americans are the poorest spellers on earth; out, through, thought, et cet ad absurdum. If we had half the thirst for knowledge we claim, why do we have both the letters 'i' and 'y' pronounced exactly alike? Why do we retain the two of these letters that can be fully handled by one of them? This duplication only serves to magnify errors in spelling. May we consider the letter 'C', certainly a useless waste of time because this letter is always pronounced as 'k' or 's'. In Russian the letter 'c' is always pronounced as 's'. However, the Russians have a letter pronounced like 'ch' in Christ, or church, or Charles. This letter resembles our letter 'h' turned upside down. Russian has no letter 'H' and what looks like our 'H' is their letter 'N'. Instead of 'H' they have 'X' which is pronounced like 'kha' giving the sound of the Scottish 'ch' in loch, or the German 'ch' in koch. But the Russians do not use the articles 'a', 'an' or 'the'. If you wish to say, "I am an American", you would say, "I American", thus saving half of the words.

However, both the Russian and German languages join a number of words, suffixes and prefixes together to form single words of up to 50 letters. The Russian language has an alphabet of 32 or 33 letters, most of them as diabolical as Stalin. But is English any better? Study the following poem carefully. A committee after studying the whys and wherefores of why so many Johnnies can't spell prompted one member to come up with the following:

" 'Heigh-Ho - Spelling by rule

When I was in school and learned how to spell,

They taught me a rule I remember quite well;
Put 'i' before 'e' - so I learned when a brat
Except after 'c', it's as simple as that.
When memory gets muddy I think in this vien,
For spellin's a study where science should riegn.
And when deficeint have siezures of doubt
The rule is sufficeint to straighten them out.
So why need one labor to reach the hieght
Or inviegle a nieghbor to see him aright,
When this anceint rhyme will his critic enviegh
And never a crime on his consceince need wiegh.
But when I'm proficeint at spelling, I'm feared Though the rule is efficeint the words do look wierd.'

"So when Johnny comes home with a poor grade in spelling, have pity. For every rule there is the exception. For every word spelled phonetically there are millions or words that prove the exception." - Courtesy of Milton Jct., COURIER.

While we Americans sneer at other nations, their mores and misfortunes, why do we not follow Jesus' hint that before talking of the mote in a brother's eye, we first pick out the beam from our own eye. Why do we not spend some of the wealth thrown away in college sports in making English a language so easily learned and readily understood that it, with a few needed modifications, shall become the international language that will pave the way to peace? Why do we load ourselves down with needless vowels and foolish double vowels? Take our words ending in ir, er, or and ar, as in elixir, miner, minor, seminar. Why not drop the final vowels and spell the words, elixr, minr, minr, seminr? Take such words as miller - why not drop the second 'l' and the vowel 'e'? You have left 'milr', meaning one who grinds grains, etc. And you have cut down the word by 33%, saved time, material and wear on writing machine.

LET US MAKE NO MISTAKE: LANGUAGE IS INTENDED SOLELY FOR THE EXCHANGE OF IDEAS. THERE ARE THOSE INTERESTED IN KEEPING CONTROL OVER EDUCATION FACILITIES THAT TALK VOCIFEROUSLY ABOUT THE BEAUTY OF THE ENGLISH LANGUAGE, FOR INSTANCE. ALMOST ANY ONE COULD GIVE HIM A LIST OF FOUR LETTER WORDS THAT ARE FAR FROM BEAUTY IN SOUND OR SIGNIFICANCE. On application, the author will be glad to send a list of such names and include similar beautiful (sic) words in French, Italian, Swedish, Spanish, German and Chinese. Take a look at our hot season of the year called summer. It contains six letters. The letters s,u,m spell sum. Why not strike out one 'm' and the letter 'e' and let the season be called 'sumr', and save one third in time, space etc. I have been told by reputable, highly-educated Jews that there are few, if any, vowels used in Hebrew. The Jewish people have done pretty well for themselves in spite of many centuries of persecution.

May we consider our letter 'W' (double U; two U's). The true sound of the letter 'U' is 'e oo'. 'W' should be dropped from our alphabet. When 'g' is pronounced as 'j' for goodness sake why not spell it with a 'J'? We have a great many so-called irregular verbs as do some other languages. What are we using in place of brains that we do not correct this idiocy? Let's take our possibly most important verb 'to be'. First let's conjugate it in the present tense:

|----------|----------|
| I am | We are |
| Thou art | You are |
| He is | They are |

Note the childish change of verb forms.

| Past tense | | Future tense | |
|------------|-----------|--------------|--------------|
| Singular | Plural | Singular | Plural |
| I was | We were | I will be | We will be |
| Thou wast | You were | Thou wilt be | You will be |
| He was | They were | He will be | They will be |

Why even the most ignorant negro stowaway on a riverboat knew, by instinct, a better conjugation:

|--------|-----------|
| "I is | We is |
| You is | You is |
| He is | They is." |

Why do we not cut the Gordian Knot of educational tyrants and make English into a language? Why have we permitted the continuation of such impediments to progress for centuries? Since the days of William Shakespeare we have eliminated but a few of the road blocks to linguistic progress. The additions we have made have only served to muddy the water for they have been, to a great degree, words we can well do without. But since the days of the Immortal Bard we have made more scientific advancement than in the previous two thousand years.

Out upon irregular verbs! May we now consider a regular verb to prove that much could be eliminated from regular verbs. Why not let the necessary personal pronouns govern the verb form? Let's take the verb 'to see':

| Present Tense | | Past tense | |
|---------------|----------|-------------|----------|
| Singular | Plural | Singular | Plural |
| I see | We see | I saw | We saw |
| Thou seest | You see | Thou sawest | You saw |
| He sees | They see | He saw | They saw |

In the name of common sense, why the archaic 2nd person singular? And in the present tense, why add the letter 's' on 3rd person singular? In the past tense the verbal form is 'saw' all the way through if we sensibly eliminate the archaic 2nd person singular. Do you get what I'm trying to do? TO MAKE YOU THINK AND BRING ABOUT THE SAVING OF BILLIONS OF STUDY HOURS EVERY YEAR AND BRING INTO BEING A GENERATION THAT CAN SPELL. And so on ad infinitum in our verbs.

May we now consider the plural forms of nouns?

| Singular | Plural |
|----------|-----------------------------------|
| Mouse | Mice |
| Louse | Lice |
| Grouse | Grouses (Why not grice?) |
| House | Houses (Why not hice) |
| Goose | Geese |
| Moose | Moose (Why not meese, or mooses?) |

We must give credit, on a great scale, to the poet, unto me unknown, who wrote this gem showing that we speak a mongrel language - a XV century jargon in a XX century civilization, or lack of it.

“ENGLISH AS SHE IS SPELLED”

“In English sounds are seldom spelled,”
The foreigner exclaims,
“One never knows how he should say
The simplest words and names.”

For instance take o-u-g-h,
An easy combination,
Until we learn to say it, then
It's pure abomination.

Rough rhymes with cuff, bough rhymes with cow,
And through must rhyme with woo.
And cough is like the sound of doff,
It's lunny entre nous.

The sound of 'oh' is heard in though,
I tortured ears I prick up
To hear that hough, must rhyme with lock (Hup!) pardon me the hiccough.

Now right, and rite, and write and wright
With anguish fills my dome.
But stranger still, to make me ill,

Are comb, and tomb, and bomb.

And do, and to must rhyme with coo,
What rule applies to go?
And now, and how pronounced like frau
Why 'oh' in know and flow?

I find that meat, and mete, and meet,
My shattered wits dispel,
I'm off the tract! Please take me back Into my padded cell.

For pity's sake what rules apply to the following evidences of Anglo-Saxon lack of brains: when 'g' is pronounced like 'j', why not spell it that way. Consider the words any, aesthetic, emigre, said, says, let, bread, heifer, leopard, friend, asafetida, bury, et cet, ad absurdum, and declare your opinion for here we find our beautiful English language pronounces a, e, ea, ei, eo, ie and u the same. But wait while we consider the words Aesop, equal, eel, either, eyrie, oesophagus, Caesar, meter, team, receive, people, machine, believe, week, et cet. Here ae, e, ee, ei, ey, oe, ae, ea, ei, eo, i have the same sound. Try this series on your basoon, earth, ermine, err, irk, urn, word, journey, myrtle, fir, chauffeur, fur. All have essentially the same pronunciation, and a majority have exactly the same pronunciation.

The addition of extra nouns or consonants to the ends of words still further favors our national weakness of misspelling. We have noted that the letter 'C' has no sound of its own and is sometimes pronounced as 's' or 'k'. Examples, almanac ends with 'C' pronounced as 'K'. Then we break all the rules of common sense by ending such words as black, back and countless other words with the double consonant 'CK'. Consider the sound of the English 'af'. Examples, chaff (why the double 'f?'), laugh, epitaph, et cet. Consider the sound 'alk' and 'all'. Balk, baulk, hawk, awl, caul, et cet ad infinitum, in which a, aw, and au have the same sound. So-called language purists may attempt to draw very fine distinctions in the pronunciation of these and tens of thousands of other words, but their arguments are mere sophistries and founded on a false concept, because a language is solely intended as a means of exchange of ideas. Those that attempt to prevent a thorough puring of English, have a dull axe to grind. They are, in fact, establishing a road block to future progress. In this last sentence it is easy to pick the flaws in even the simplest phrase in our mongrel language. Why the final double consonant in 'block'? Why the final vowel 'e' in future? The word 'phrase' should be spelled 'fraz'. Language should be spelled 'languaj'.

Why do we tolerate the final double consonants? Or the countless double consonants in any portion of a word? Seven-tenths of all human communication is done by means of the spoken word, and we do a very good job of communication without considering that, in the written word, practically all vowels are pronounced like all other vowels. Hence, we are the poorest in spelling of any people on earth. And if one wishes to discover the country where the King's English is most mispronounced and misspelled, let him go to England. From the days of the earliest English poetry of Caedmon, ca 7th century, to Chaucer, fl. ca 1350, great progress was made as witness the following Cotton MS A 9, leaf 248. THIS POEM DESCRIBES CONDITIONS BETTER TODAY THAN IF IT WAS WRITTEN NEXT WEEK:

“Hwan thou sixst on leode,
King that is wilful,
And domesmon niminde,
Proest that is wilde,
Bischop slou,
Old mon lecheur,
Yunch mon lieyer,
Wimmon schmoles,
Child un-theand,
Thral un-buxum,
Atheling britheling
Lond withoute laye,
Also saide Bede,
Wo there theode.”

When you look at a people
A wilful king
Bribe-taking judge
Priest that is wild
Slothful bishop
Lecherous old man
Lying young man
Shameless woman
Ill behaved child
Disobedient servant
Cowardly nobleman
Land without law
Then, said Bede
Wo to that nation

Purportedly written by Caedmon ca A.D. 750.

Some five or six centuries after Caedmon and Bede came Chaucer and his Canterbury Tales and considerable progress in English. But Chaucer used many of our four letter words that can hardly be said to embellish and beautify our language. Two centuries later Shakespeare became the English poet par excellence. With him came a great improvement in our language. It must be admitted that both Chaucer and Shakespeare were Spiritualists and introduced the spirits of the dead in their peerless poems.

It is now almost four centuries since the days of the Bard of Avon. Since his day little of value has been added to our mongrel language. Meantime, in every other field unbelievable progress had been made. There is a branch of knowledge that is called semantics - the name signifying the science of the development of human language. As far as the English language is concerned, there is little use for the term semantics, or as some term it, philology.

And why is this screed written? Because it is high time that our English be brought up to date from its half-millennium snooze and range itself along side the great discoveries and inventions that have enriched civilization. When the rough and weak spots have been amputated, the English-speaking peoples can save 25% or more in time now lost because of extra, unneeded letters and cross word spellings.

But changing all that is only a temporary expedient, for what this world needs is a universal language and monetary system, so that commerce can and will freely flow all over the world. One of the drawbacks of our times is the necessity of employing translators, who may, or may not be delivering and receiving the message that may spell peace or disaster.

25 YEARS FROM NOW

By GEORGE N. HEFLICK

In 25 years we will be living in a better world than 1 in 100 can now imagine. War will have been abolished as sheer lunacy. The perils and tensions of the present will be eliminated by the simple expedient of abandoning the competitive principle in human relations and replacing it with the far more civilized and effective principle of cooperation.

Modern business will become a busy ant-hill of activity, with each individual giving the best that is in him in the best interests of the whole, but with that activity pleasant, unhurried, with plenty of time left for each to fulfill that for which he was originally created - the making of a life instead of merely a living.

The North American Continent will be the leader in this journey of human progress. Poverty, especially in North America, will completely disappear. Since one of our greatest problems is that of surpluses, the solution will be achieved by a more equitable method of distribution, based, not on the ability to pay, as now, but on the ability to consume. Waste will be almost completely eliminated, and the highest possible efficiency will be required of all our productive facilities, assuring a standard of living for every North American several times higher than the present level.

With everyone in possession of an abundance, crimes involving property - roughly 95% of all crime - will be eliminated, thus reducing our annual crime bill, now about $22 billion, in direct proportion.

Education, instead of being a weapon with which to fight our fellowmen for a disproportionate share of the wealth, will become a valuable tool to be used for the enrichment of all. Illiteracy will entirely disappear. Free public education will continue to age 25, thus the student who chooses the humanities will embark on his life's work with the equivalent of a Ph. D., and those who prefer a career as artisans will attain the level of Master Mechanic. Students will be trilingual, with a thorough comprehension of English and Spanish, North America's two most common languages, and a good working knowledge of a global language which will be used by all the world's people for international contacts. Courses in forensics and written composition will be required, as the value of knowledge is greatly enhanced if the individual is completely articulate.

Education will be accomplished in ways much more practical than at present. The study of geography will consist, not merely of memorizing statistical facts from a book, but also from on-the-spot observation, the students having been transported to the area to be studied. Knowledge of our industries will be acquired in the same way, the students being taken onto the farms, down into the mines, and through the mills and factories; out onto the lakes or the seas with the fishing fleets; into hospitals where delicate operations are being performed and into laboratories where valuable research projects are being pursued; into theatres and movie studios where plays are being readied for production and moving pictures are being made. And at some point in each young person's educational life, the student will become conscious of that career for which he or she is best adapted. From that time forward, the education of the individual will be slanted in that direction.

Health will be vastly improved, and the average life span extended to a century or more. The pooling of all knowledge and all effort to defeat the major enemies of human life, such as cancer, heart disease, etc., will result in a great diminution of these menaces, and the elimination of the tensions and frustrations of today's economic struggle will make psychopathic cases as rare as today they are common. The expanded study of human nutrition and the application of its rules, dating from the pre-natal stage, will produce a race that will put to shame the beautiful bodies of ancient Greece.

Labor-management problems will disappear. The worker's compensation will not be fixed by agreement with his employer, but will be his share of the productivity of the continent.

There will be radical changes in the housing field. To conserve what is left of our arable land and to increase the economy and efficiency of our household services, such as heating, lighting, water supply, power, sewage and waste disposal, etc., today's sprawling and ill-conceived suburbias will give way to vertical housing which will accomodate many times the number of people in a fraction of the area. There will be no sacrifice of privacy, since every apartment will be completely soundproof, nor will contact with nature be lost, since every vertical dwelling unit will be surrounded with gardens, parks and woodlands that would be considered a veritable fairyland by the unfortunate children of today's asphalt jungles.

A home will no longer be a mere place to sleep and a rendezvous for an occasional meal, as now, but an actual "machine for living". Every conceivable device for the elimination of drudgery and the attainment of the ultimate in comfort and convenience will be built into each unit as standard equipment. Home ownership will be no problem, since only the proof of need will be required to establish the right of tenancy. Ownership will not be outright, but on a lease basis, with cancellation of the lease at the option of the tenant.

The materials used in the construction of homes, or of any buildings designed for human occupancy, permanent or temporary, will be required by law to be non-inflammable, and the furnishings thereof will be of similar material, or so treated as to be resistant to fire. Thus the tremendous loss of life through fires will become a matter of historic record rather than an hourly occurrence.

Solar energy will increase vastly in importance as a source of light, heat and power, since this is inexhaustible. The fossil fuels, which are in diminishing supply, atomic energy, which is difficult and hazardous to work with, and even hydroelectric power, will be increasingly relegated to the background.

Transportation hazards will be largely eliminated by means of three major approaches: (1) The construction of highways that will conform to the type and number of vehicles by which they are to be used. (2) The complete redesigning of all automotive vehicles, with the factors of safety, durability, economy and ease of operation stressed. Each vehicle will be equipped with built-in electronic devices (already perfected and available) which will prevent collision. (3) Every driver will be thoroughly trained in the operation of the vehicle and driving privileges will be immediately revoked in case of misuse. Power for the vehicles may be either impulses from coaxial cables laid under the highways, or from central power broadcasting stations from which it will be picked up by receiving sets similar to those of radios and television.

Our communications system will undergo a thorough overhauling. News reporting will be on a factual basis, rather than slanted, as now, for propaganda purposes, and the world's events will be momentarily available. Radio and television will be more economical and more comprehensive, and of a tremendously higher quality. Broadcasts and telecasts may be sent instantly from any point in the world to any other point.

Religion will be taken out of the field of philosophical speculation and accepted as a blueprint for living. No longer impeded by the necessity of reverting to jungle law in order to survive, Christianity, for the first time in human history, will be given a fair trial. The admonitions of "Do unto others as you would have others do unto you," and "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself" will no longer be considered as merely pious suggestions, but as positive ORDERS, to be obeyed to the letter "or else." Many existing church organizations will pass out of existence, having long outlived whatever usefulness they may have had. The only churches to survive will be those that accept and practise a WORKING religion - one that brings results, not in some vague and nebulous hereafter, but HERE and NOW. The concept of the Creator will be that of a loving Father of all mankind who is ever present and instantly available to all His children to assist them in every possible way to realize their dearest wishes and to attain their highest goals. Since He is the Father of all mankind, racial discrimination will vanish along with all concepts of "Master Race" and "second class citizens".

Government will no longer be political, under the leadership of spell-binders who know little or nothing about the problems they are compelled to deal with, and elected solely on the basis of how much radio and television time they can afford, and how greatly they can influence the public via these media. There will be a functional government administered by those who are most competent, elevated to office on the basis of their ability, and subject to instant recall in the event of malfeasance in office. What little regulation is necessary will be determined, not by the arbitrary decision of our leadership, but by the physical requirements of our environment. This government will be neither a republic nor a democracy, but a government of those who are best qualified to serve.

North America, and probably Russia as well, will have such a government within 25 years. While it is clearly evident that this would be the best possible form of government for all the world's people, no attempt will be made to force it on any of them. The principle of self-determination will be strictly adhered to. However, it is felt that with the success of the North American system as a constant example, the rest of the world will soon be at our doors, fervently desiring knowledge of the methods by which it has been attained.

CAN WE

SURVIVE

By

Alfred W. Pritchard

WHO - WHEN SUDDENLY faced with the immediate possibility of non-survival - does not forsake the "value" of everything, except that of "survival" itself?

Who - when on their death bed - would not gladly exchange a goodly portion of their life's accumulations for a few more years of healthy life experience? What in anyone's life is more precious than life itself?

Yes, sometimes we find a great hero who risks or loses his life to save the life of another. In the armed forces we find men highly skilled in the art of survival, and whether they are on the offensive or defensive the underlying principle of survival is to eliminate that which is a threat or a danger to their continued existence.

COLD WAR ?

Due to the very obvious fact that disease is a step toward non-existence, most intelligent people do many things to safeguard their health and thereby forestall the day when they must bid us farewell. Yes, although life may not have given them all they wanted here, in the final test - life itself is the most valued possession of most people.

Thoughtlessness is probably the greatest factor in matters related to "untimely" departure from this realm. Sometimes people "accidentally" shoot themselves while cleaning an "unloaded" gun! Without giving due respect to all possible factors which may result in untimely death, people drive their "cars" at unsafe speeds, too close to other cars, with poor or defective brakes.

A pedestrian will walk out into a highway, "taking for granted" that the motorist will see him and stop or slow down in time to allow for his safe crossing. If the car comes dangerously close to him, he will storm at the motorist for being so careless, for almost taking his life. The motorist in turn storms at the pedestrian for being so careless in creating a condition wherein the motorist may have been killed. Whether pedestrian or motorist, life itself takes on a much greater value when there is immediate danger of it being lost.

People are continually being warned of the things that have been and are a serious threat to life itself. On special week-ends when the highways are especially crowded Safety Councils spread the warnings: "If you drink - don't drive" and "Drive safely - the life you save may be your own". People are warned to not turn on the electric light while standing in a bath tub. To beware of this and beware of that, but almost daily these very same PROVEN causes of untimely departure take their toll. According to the "Law of Chance", those who observe the "KNOWN KILLERS" have a chance in excess of "average" for surviving.

Countless numbers of "threats" to human existence have been listed and catalogued. However, when we take into consideration the over-all "picture", we come to a most sobering conclusion. We come face to face with the startling fact that ALL the catalogued "threats" to human life are but potential means of preventing us from partaking in the greatest "game of skill" to which a human being can be subjected.

It has long been stated that "Necessity" is the Mother of Invention, and now it is stated that "Survival is the greatest incentive to move necessity into action." In other words, "Necessity" finds its strongest expression in matters related to "survival". Hence during times of disaster and war "Necessity" stimulates "Invention" to produce whatever is necessary to remove the immediate threat to continued existence.

The "analyst" will find in the foregoing statements "matter of fact truths", or that which may also be called "principles". When we come to understand "principles" we can use our efforts intelligently in matters of "survival".

Without considering other superb civilizations, and starting only with the rise of our own, we will observe a "progressive" means of "survival" and as our means of survival advances from "hand to hand combat" through a long series of "invention", the "standard of living" changes accordingly.

If at any time along the way the "threat" to survival had not been challenged, and if "invention" had not met the needs, civilization would have stopped advancing right then and there. There would have been no "necessity", therefore no "invention", therefore no advancement.

We have heard so much about war the last 40 years most people have come to hate the word and are almost ready to "give up everything" to produce a condition wherein the "THREAT" would not exist. If our forefathers had not repeatedly met the challenge, we would not be here. NOW it is OUR turn to meet the challenge.

It should be observed that war involves "opposing forces", and opposing forces in human nature are expressed by one group trying to stop another group from succeeding in doing what they are trying to do.

If we would observe a little further - we would find that every single thing that we attempt or succeed in doing is only accomplished by "overcoming" opposing forces, or resistances.

The "Home Run Hitter", in keeping with the rules of the game, hits the ball in such a way as to "overcome" the greatest amount of "resistance". The track star is a star simply because he can more successfully overcome the "resistances" involved. The nail is driven only by overcoming the resistance of the wood that wants to occupy the space which you want the nail to occupy.

The car moves on the highway only by overcoming the resistance of gravity, air, friction, etc. Thus we observe that everything we do in life, consists of "overcoming resistances". When the motor in our car stops, we stop, because we have no "power" to overcome the resistance to movement. Whether it is jumping hurdles, driving a nail, or hitting home runs - "POWER" is required. Therefore the continual need for "POWER" in doing things is apparent.

"Starters" are placed on automobiles to furnish "mechanical power" to turn the motor to get it started. The mechanical power is produced by converting electrical power into mechanical power, by means of the starting motor design.

Whether it is a treadle type sewing machine or an electric sewing machine, power is required for it to accomplish its purpose. Whether we are to win in a game or succeed at a task, success is always determined by the WISE administration of power.

On several previous occasions I have, in the pages of Search, been permitted to bring you a message pertaining to "THREATS" to your survival; particularly pertaining to the existence of Russian psychopoliticians in the United States.

Many people, like the pedestrian who walks out into the highway, are completely unconcerned about "potential" dangers, but when the "potential" becomes a "reality" they storm to the high heavens, and DEMAND to know WHY they were not warned, never stopping to realize that they had been repeatedly warned, but failed to HEED the warning.

We in the United States have come to enjoy a certain amount of "freedom", governed by LAW. That freedom may be maintained ONLY as the LAWS that permit it are maintained.

One only needs to pick up the nearest newspaper to learn that this "FREEDOM" is threatened.

As I have previously brought forth, "Necessity" is the "Mother" of "Invention". Therefore if our survival is threatened, "NECESSITY" must give birth to the "INVENTION" which would in truth and fact be more than equal to the challenge. FORCE is one thing, while POWER is another - and MISDIRECTED POWER will not accomplish the desired result. For example: the batter may have a big bat, and he may swing awfully hard, and while there is a great FORCE present, if he misses the ball no POWER will have been realized. Again, if he hits a "grounder" to the first baseman, the misdirected power may result in not only one, but two "outs". Therefore it is to be noted that POWER may only accomplish its purpose when it is properly directed. This brings us face to face with the inevitable fact that if we are to successfully "overcome" the present threat to our survival, the POWER we administer must be very accurately directed.

In order accurately to direct the corrective POWER, we must first understand the TRUE NATURE of that which threatens us. We are told that the "atom bomb" IS THE THREAT to our survival. But, are we to believe everything we are told, like good stupid children? How do we know whether our informers know what they are talking about? How do we know but what they may even have been paid for saying it?

I have heretofore profoundly set forth in the pages of Search that the REAL THREAT to the American people is RUSSIA'S CONQUEST OF THE MIND. This statement is substantiated by the findings of FBI agents, other government officials, ex-government officials and many private investigators. The facts of the case are voluminous, and furnish conclusive proof.

Millions of people daily use the word "propaganda" without any knowledge of what it means! When they hear the term "Russian Propaganda", it goes in one ear and out the other; not because there is nothing between to stop it, but because there is no "UNDERSTANDING".

The word "propaganda", as anyone can learn from a good dictionary, originated with a religious group. In a sense, it is somewhat of the nature of the word "dogma"; but there is a difference, an important one. "Dogma" means: "stating an opinion as if it were a fact". "Propaganda" does not imply an "opinion" but consists of an "engineered" statement, a fabrication, a "pre-formed" thought, to be implanted in the minds of others to produce a desired result favorable to the propagandist or to those he represents.

"Propaganda" is everywhere; there is no means of escape from it. The "engineered", "pre-formed" thoughts designed for our destruction are being administered to our people daily.

What are our means of survival? Only "Knowledge" and "accurately directed POWER". This war cannot be won by armies, navies, or jet planes. This is a war involving each and EVERY INDIVIDUAL.

So long as Armed Forces "defend" the people, who among them would go to special effort to "develop" faculties of the mind generally unknown to the masses of people? So long as there is no "Necessity", why bother?

But now is a different time - the THREAT IS REAL AND IT IS HERE. The "NECESSITY" is here, and the ONLY means of SURVIVAL rests in PROPER "INVENTION". In a general sense, "invention" consists of a new combination of existing facts to produce a new result.

The "Mother" (Necessity) must be impregnated with knowledge and understanding of the existing destructive conditions if the child (Invention) is to fulfill his purpose of "overcoming" them.

Many people have been faced with the fact that they were very close to "non-survival". Sometimes survival, as it has for the masses in the past, depends upon the "Invention" of others, but sometimes upon one's own invention.

Did you ever see ads offering instruction in how to control others with your thought? Did it ever occur to you that if this is possible, one needs a means of protection?

In my articles I often refer to the ancient literature, or the ancient knowledge, and many SEARCH readers are under the impression that anything sensible or intelligent must of necessity be a "NEW" development.

Civilizations come and civilizations go, and that which has been preserved from previous civilizations is relative to a knowledge necessary, even essential, to survival when a civilization reaches the stage we are in right now.

Inasmuch as we are dealing with the subject of survival itself - it not only seems wise but an absolute necessity that I make it very clear that the writer is NOT a bookworm, whose knowledge is based upon "data" derived from books.

"Necessity", the Mother of Invention, caused me to make countless "experiments" with my own mind. By EXPERIENCE I have learned many things that are totally unknown by others today. In my search to find if this knowledge was ever recorded, I found it well recorded in the Egyptian records as well as in the Bible. The two writings represent two modes of expressing the very same thing, in different civilizations.

Many people have discarded the Bible because of the confusion of the many differing teachings which sprout from it. This is a mistake. For the Bible as well as the Egyptian literature contains the knowledge necessary to survival at this stage of human development.

As highly developed as we "think" we are, the only reason the Bible has not produced the "good" intended by its authors is that most modern people do not know HOW to read. I can only state the facts in other words, surely not in better words. In the Bible, the reader is clearly warned that the scriptures are only "SPIRITUALLY DISCERNED".

Instead of racing through words already "colored" by dogma, if one would stop and consider what is meant by the phrase "SPIRITUALLY DISCERNED", one would discover that one must "DO" what one is told, and then the scripture is made clear to you by the "EXPERIENCE" that you have. It is utterly impossible to understand the scriptures without "DOING" what you are told, to find out what "HAPPENS". Hence, man is told he must be a "doer of the word", not be hearers only. Hearing only, or reading only, fills the mind with words, creating a state of utter mental confusion.

The word "Babel" means "confusion". The "Tower of Babel" is the "Tower of Confusion" built in the mind by words that are not understood or comprehended, because the people were not "doers".

Wise men of ancient civilizations knew that we could battle it alone through many stages of development, but that when we reached a certain stage we would need the help they so carefully preserved. They knew that at this stage of development, the "resistance" would be of a different "kind" and that if we were to "overcome" it, to progress to the next rung in the ladder of Human Development, this special knowledge would be needed.

The Creator has his own way of "forcing" mankind to advance - and this is as I stated before - by placing "resistances" in our path to FORCE us to put "NECESSITY" to work to build another "step" in the staircase that leads to advancement of the human race.

Both the Egyptian Literature and the Bible make it very clear to one who can read, that God DEMANDS certain things of his children and that the disobedient will be punished.

However, all is not pitch dark; there is a way out of the mess, but only one way. That way is contained in the Eternal Formula which is; Necessity is the Mother of Invention. But, and that is the reason why I am in these pages again, the "NECESSITY" must be clearly comprehended. Then - and then only is the "UNDERSTANDING" childed with the "INVENTION" that will save us from extinction.

Many people are "Searching", plumbing the depths of the vast unknown, that their mind may be filled with "Knowledge". The Egyptians and the Bible writers knew beforehand that this would be the case, and left instructions to help them.

Most of the trouble in the world today is because people do not know how to "Intelligently" direct the forces of Love and Hate. The "Spirit of Truth" has not been awakened in them, making it possible to distinguish between "Good" and "Evil".

Consider a gardener preparing to grow a beautiful bed of flowers. The soil is prepared, the seeds are sown, and then in the dark of night someone strews weed seeds over the entire plot! The energies of Life, and the Law of growth, apply to each one equally. The good gardener plucks the weeds before they get a chance to choke out the life of the beautiful flowers.

The Mind may be likened to a garden, and whether the seeds (external stimuli - pre-formed thoughts) planted therein are constructive or destructive, they are both subject to the "LAW OF GROWTH". However, the conditions with which we are NOW confronted are somewhat different than the conditions in the bed of flowers. When the destructive, disease producing seeds planted by Russian psychopoliticians and others start to mature in the mind, HOW are you going to "hoe" them out?

As "INDIVIDUALS", if we want to get out of this mess we will have to free ourselves from all this nonsense and RISE to that level of thinking and living wherein we can distinguish right from wrong - and good from evil.

The realization of the longed-for "Golden Age" is possible ONLY by the people becoming "LAW ABIDING CITIZENS", adhering to the "LAW" of the Cosmic, or electro-magnetic environment in which we live and by which we are sustained. EACH ONE must do his OWN PART, or fall by the wayside.

An Answer To Shaver's Mystery?

By HUEY P. BEASLEY

WHAT IS THE answer to the Shaver Mystery? What, indeed, is the answer to all forms of occult or Fortean phenomena? Is there an answer? While more investigation should be done in regard to some of these matters, I believe that there is one solution which is by far the most likely and most logical answer, yet one which most investigators almost totally ignore in favor of much more fantastic theories.

In order to fully explain this theory, I must re-write part of my letter that was printed in Flying Saucers (January, 1962). The Bible mentions two creations in Genesis 1. First, "In the beginning, God created the heavens and the earth." Then, as the King James Version reads, "the earth was without form and void." The Hebrew words which are translated without form and void are "tohu and bohu," meaning "empty, vain, waste, chaotic, confusion." But God is not the author of confusion, (I Corinthians 14:33). So he did not create the earth in a state of confusion. Isaiah 45:18 says "Thus saith the Lord that created the heavens, God himself that formed the earth and made it . . . He created it not in vain . . ." (Hebrew "tohu" - waste, confusion, the same as Gen. 1:1) Rather He created it perfect and beautiful, so that the morning stars (angels) sang together, and the sons of God (also angels) shouted for joy at its beauty (Job 38:4-8). The meaning of Genesis 1:1 becomes clear when we understand that the word Was in that verse is from the Hebrew word "hayah" which means "became". The earth became void and chaotic. (See the Complete and Critical Bible Encyclopedia, and Scofield's Commentary). The 6 days merely describe the partial re-ordering of a ruined earth.

What then caused the earth to become chaotic? God had placed the archangel Lucifer - and other lesser angels under him - on the earth to rule it and take care of it. They rebelled against God. Isaiah 14:12 tells how Lucifer ascended above the clouds of this earth, and above the stars, and fought against God in heaven. This "war in heaven is also mentioned in Revelation 12:7-9, and this clearly shows that Lucifer (who became Satan) and his angels were cast back into this earth. Jude 6 mentions these angels which "Kept not their first habitation" and II Peter 2:4 shows that these sinning angels were cast down to hell (Greek-Tartarus, a place of restraint or imprisonment). And that place of imprisonment was this earth and its vicinity. All these verses together show that their original habitation was earth, they left it - rising above the clouds to fight God, and are now imprisoned here, having been defeated and cast back down. Evidences of this battle and of the first flood which ruined the pre-Adamic earth may be found in the craters on the moon and earth, and by studying the lower layers of the earth - before human fossils are found. Not only are they here, but they exercise a great amount of control over the governments and kingdoms of this world. In Matt. 4:8-10, Satan showed Christ all the World's Kingdoms, and offered to give them to Jesus if Jesus would worship him. In Luke 4:5-6 Satan said that all the glory and power of these Kingdoms were delivered to him, and to whomsoever he would give it. Jesus did not deny that they were Satan's to give, but said only "It is written . . . Worship . . . God . . . only."

Now that we know the fallen angels are here, what are they? Psalm 104:4 and Hebrews 1:7 both state that "He (God) maketh His angels spirits . . ." So an angel is a spirit. God is also a spirit, but of a different kind (John 4:24). And "a spirit has not flesh and blood" (Luke 24:39). These spirits would, apparently, be invisible to humans unless they chose to manifest themselves in some way. Also, spirits (angels) are immortal (Luke 20:36). They never die. So these same rebellious, evil angels have been here on earth ever since before Adam was created. Jesus showed in many places throughout the gospels that these fallen angels (called devils or demons) sometimes possess a person's mind and control it, and also that they can sometimes put thoughts into a person's mind and influence the person. Probably they can read a person's mind also.

Now let's notice some facts about God and his angels. Look at Genesis, chapters 18 and 19. Here is an account of the Lord (God, the Eternal) and two angels appearing to and talking with Abraham. They must have appeared just like flesh and blood men, for they are called "men" in chapter 18, verses 2, 16, and 22, and in chapter 19, verses 5, 10, 12, and 16. But they were angels - two of them are called "angels" in chapter 19, verses 1 and 15, and the other one is called "the Lord" in chapter 18. They were all able to eat physical food and to have their feet washed. (ch. 18:4-8, ch. 19:2-3). Now if God and His angels can appear thus and do all these things, then it stands to reason that, God permitting, Satan and his angels could do these things and appear this way too. I believe that they are (sometimes, at least) permitted to do this. This could explain all the phenomena of the Shaver Mystery - such as: Voices in the mind, thought and mind control to cause people to commit crimes, even bodily harm with no visible agent, etc. My guess is that the demons invented the "Race of human Gods which fled into space." The Bible knows nothing of such a race. I also believe they invented the idea that radiation inverted their minds so that they think evil thoughts, in an attempt to justify themselves for being evil. This theory abolishes the power of choice - and they had the power of choice and they chose to be evil! Shaver may or may not be correct in believing they are based in caverns underground. Many ancient beliefs and legends support the idea that an evil force is imprisoned under the earth or under the sea. But if he thinks he has seen these beings killed,

I say he could have been hypnotized and had a picture of it placed in his mind - an imaginary picture! I also believe his "dero" and "tero" are one and the same thing: all demons, but some appearing "good" in order to get across a false idea. II Corinthians 11:14, Satan is transformed into an angel of light. If this is true, then "a dero can be transformed into a tero!"

Another phenomena that this theory explains is the phenomena which occur at genuine Spiritist seances. We will discount the "fake" mediums, and only consider genuine phenomena, which do occur at a sizeable percent of seances. Because a spirit appears, (or talks through the medium, or through a trumpet, etc., as the case may be) and this spirit looks and/or sounds like a departed relative, and because it tells things which no human other than the departed relative could know, it is said that this proves it to be the spirit of a departed relative. It seems that few consider the fact that a demon, which has been living on earth for thousands of years, and can be anywhere it chooses without being seen by man, could know everything the departed relative had ever said, done, or thought, and could assume an appearance similar to the departed relative. The fact that many people have lost their money, their health, and even their sanity, by continuously attending seances or practicing mediumship, is one other evidence that my theory is correct. They do not contact their departed loved ones at all; they contact a deceitful, evil, demon. Such things as consorting with "familiar spirits" is strongly forbidden in the Bible, because God knows it is so dangerously harmful.

So-called reincarnation could be explained by the same theory. People who "remember past lives" in great detail are not "remembering" anything at all, they are receiving a mind full of thoughts from a fallen angel which knew every detail of the life of the person they are supposed to be remembering.

In like manner, such things as "space-contact" stories, haunted houses, poltergeists, teleportation could all be explained by this same theory.

The main reason why I favor this explanation is that the Bible does plainly show that the fallen angels inhabit our earth, and that they are capable of causing all the aforementioned phenomena. And I believe, and can furnish evidence to anyone who is interested, that the Bible is the Word of God and is true. But the Bible makes no mention of pre-Adamic human races (only the angels), nor caves full of tero, nor reincarnation, nor human spirits which live on and can be contacted while the body is dead. It does teach that we will be resurrected and given eternal life in the future. Likewise, it makes no mention of visitors from space, even though UFO have been sighted since Biblical times. I am inclined to agree with Ray Palmer, that the UFO are earth-based, and that space travel for physical human beings is virtually impossible.

This article is not written to offend anyone who believes otherwise, but in the interest of looking at all sides of a question and of finding the truth.

● I am 52, have a son 14 and my wife is 42. The doctors tell us we just can't stand this climate and we should move to Arizona. We can't stand the Dr. bills any more, I can't stay working only about 3 weeks out of a month, then I come down with the flu, colds etc. My son is the same, we can't keep him in school. My wife has sinus so bad, we all do. But how can a man who is poor, that has nothing but an old car, household things that are just about worthless, nothing to sell, and no money, pack up and take off for Arizona? We have no rich relatives, no one to loan us anything. We are honest but poor. I would like to hear from some folks who have been in the same boat as we are in now; what they did and how they did it. We need all the help and advice we can get. When one has a son who is trying to do his best in school, and wants to go to college even though he loses a month or two each school year and comes out with B's, one feels real gone. We are at our wits end. We must get to Arizona's warm dry climate. Can anyone help us? - Chas. Gumpfer, 423 Lincoln St., Easton, Pa.

Where The Reader Has His Say

Dear Mr. Colfax:

Your article in the December issue of SEARCH is no doubt meant to be helpful and informative, but it is plain that your knowledge of astronomy is just about nil. Your conclusions seem to be entirely unwarranted.

Of course it is dark out in space. So is it dark in a room entirely closed off and all doors and windows tightly sealed. Darkness is the normal condition. Unless a luminous source is present, darkness is the normal state. That we see when it gets dark at night, when our earth has turned so that we are on the side away from the sun. If space were not dark, we would have daylight all during the twenty-four hours.

Just why Shepard and Grissom did not see the sun, moon, or stars, I do not know, but it is very doubtful that your explanation is correct. The builders of the space vehicles that these two men used had to make allowances for the heat of the sun to which the men would be exposed.

The tests made by astronomers show that the sun is some ninety two million miles away; and the fixed stars are still farther away. In fact, the measures of the parallax of these fixed stars show that they are so far away that their distances cannot be conveniently expressed in miles. Therefore distances of the fixed stars are expressed in "light-years"; a light-year being the distance that a beam of light travels in one year. As light travels some 186,240 miles per second, you can figure out for yourself how far it will travel in one year - that is, if you have a sheet of paper large enough to hold the figures.

It is likewise doubtful that your Genesis' statement about the "firmament" is correct. What kind of "firmament" would be in the "midst" of the waters, and just what waters were to be separated by this "firmament"? Nor can I see much support for your contention that the "firmament", or whatever it was, was less than 100 miles above the earth; nor that certain waters were kept separate and later released at the time of the flood. Where were these waters stored, and how was it that gravity did not pull them down to the surface of the earth?

Again, it is doubtful that you are correct in saying that the actual bodies of the sun and moon are invisible in space. The planets of our solar system are lighted up by the sun. In the case of Mercury and Venus, they even exhibit "phases" similar to those of our moon. If these bodies were "glowing-gases", or otherwise self-luminous, they would not exhibit these phases. They do exhibit these phases because only the side turned to the sun is illuminated by its rays; the rest of the planet is in darkness.

So far as the "blue" of the sky is concerned, that is caused by the fine dust in our atmosphere scattering the red rays of the solar spectrum. When you remove the red rays of the spectrum, you get blue. If the violet and blue rays of the spectrum were removed, instead of the red, the sky would then look red. You seem to need some astronomical training, my good man, as you seem to be woefully lacking in elementary knowledge of our universe.

What proof have you, besides your own private opinion, that "these lights are generated by energies which might be likened to electricity, which causes a layer of gases to glow, producing 'daylight' and the phenomenon we know as the 'blue' of the sky . . . "?

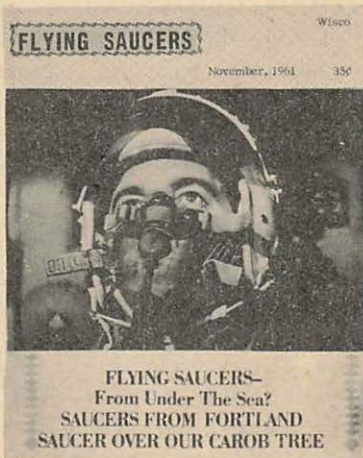

I do not see that the Bible has much of anything to do with your subject. The Bible is accurate, true enough, but its purpose does not seem to be astronomical nor scientific. It is a history of man's doings on earth and his dealings with God, and his attempts to understand God better. Many persons have made the error of trying to make certain Bible passages cover this and that. Quite a school of them try to make the statements in Nahum apply to the airplane. The first few verses might be thought to refer to airplanes, but when the other verses are read, it is seen that the airplane idea is ridiculous.

Others have from time to time tried to pin certain passages on various of our inventions, but the resem-

FLYING SAUCERS

America's only Fact Magazine with complete coverage of the famous UFO.

Flying saucers are a fact. A national poll has proved that one American in every four is aware of the truth of that statement. In spite of this, FLYING SAUCERS magazine is the only publication devoted to presenting all the facts and all the latest news concerning unidentified flying objects. It is the only magazine wherein the public can pierce the fog in which official sources have shrouded a matter of vital and general public concern. Here is a magazine you can depend on to keep you up to the minute on every development. More than 5000 sightings have been reported to the editors, and new sightings come in daily. Hundreds of these are from reputable people, airline pilots, scientific experts, even clergymen. FLYING SAUCERS has a staff of experts who evaluate every sighting, subject every photo to exhaustive tests, analyze every theory presented, and who meticulously report the truth as they see it. Today Man is aiming his sights at the stars. He intends to fly to other planets. But are the inhabitants of other worlds already visiting us? It may be so, but even if not, this magazine is writing the daily history of the new space age!

You owe it to yourself to get every issue. You can buy it at your favorite newsstand if you wish (they'll carry it if you order it); or you can subscribe. Just use the handy coupon.

blances are very much strained. What say we let the Bible remain a history of God's dealing with men, and not try to mix it up with secular scientific undertakings?

As a history, the Bible is indeed very accurate, and various critics have been greatly embarrassed when archeological findings have verified Bible statements which had been denied by those critics. The item of Joshua and the sun is factual, and also the one about King Nebuchadnezzar eating grass and living seven years in the fields as a beast until he humbled himself before God. The same with the item about the three youths in the furnace and Daniel in the lions' den. The archeologists even found a list of 484 names of men of high degree who had been put to death in the pit of lions, and Daniel's name was not on this list. The existence of the race called "Hittites" in the Bible, and formerly denied by the critics, was finally proved by the excavations of the archeologists.

Therefore we can stand by the Bible, but only when it is reserved for its intended purposes. Please don't try to make it stretch over everything in the world. - W.S. Arns, 258 Parkwood Avenue, Kenmore 23, N.Y.

● I'm afraid I don't quite understand your analogy of the closed room - it hardly seems to apply in open space. As for what actually makes light, I'm sure no one really knows. The "presence" of the sun? But by what physical process? A room with an open window away from the sun is still light. It is still light at night, due to starlight. But now that Glenn has told us

FLYING SAUCER PILGRIMAGE

By Bryant & Helen Reeve

They went on a 23,000-mile pilgrimage to meet the people who claimed to have seen flying saucers, even ridden on them! They wanted to know these people for themselves, so they could judge their stories! Here, now, is their factual account of that pilgrimage. Meet them all for yourself: Adamski, Fry, Bethurum, Williamson, Angelucci, Van Tassel, Desmond Leslie, many others. And then they saw a saucer themselves! Read their exciting conclusions, their singular message to you!

"The absolute tops in over 100 books on the subject of flying saucers! Undoubtedly the most all-embracing on every aspect of the subject that has yet appeared!" The Hon. Brinsley le Poer Trench, editor of the bi-monthly Journal of Space, FLYING SAUCER REVIEW.

Further comments:

"The authors have written the account of adventures and experiences in a most readable and delightful light-hearted manner, however do not be deceived by their gay and happy style. Oh, yes, they want you to enjoy their pilgrimage with them, and you will, too. But this book certainly goes "deep" and explores saucers, the space people and their raison d'être, from every possible angle."

"Are contactees chosen in advance by the space people? Why don't they land? How do we look to the space people? What are they like? What can we learn from space beings? Is this civilization ending? Why are the space people coming to earth in such great numbers at the present time? Are the space beings hostile or friendly? These are just a few of many questions discussed in this book."

that he saw the stars (but hasn't proved it by photos), any argument seems to be specious until we learn more from actual instrumental evidence. Allow me to doubt the "appearance" of the stars from various heights; I don't think it's like the "desert at night on earth", not at greater heights. Glenn himself illustrated rather graphically how comparatively tiny the distance is to the height of his orbit, compared to what I have chosen to call "outer space".

What kind of a "firmament" in the midst of the waters? How about hydrogen and oxygen, plus some neon, argon, etc? If you'll read Genesis, it will answer your questions - but perhaps you cannot take the Bible literally? And why not?

As for how a layer of water (a huge bubble, enclosing the entire earth, if you will) would resist the "pull" of gravity, how about the water in a pail swung over your head? You ask questions about gravity, and no scientist will admit he knows what gravity is - so why refute what I say by placing an unknown upon it as a restriction?

You say it is "doubtful" that I am correct in saying that the actual bodies of the sun and moon are invisible in space. Doubtful by what standard? Yours? If that is to be our standard, then I doubt that they can be seen. No doubt you will not allow ME to be that unscientific, but it is all right for you to be.

Your accounting for the "blue" of the sky really has me backed into a corner. It would seem to me that different kinds of dust would remove different rays of the spectrum. But if it's dust that does it, then dust it is. I have no way of verifying your information.

No, I don't have any proof. I have theories. According to the editor of this magazine, it is a magazine of theory. If we want facts, go to the textbooks. Which came first, the fact or the theory? I am not really interested in thinking about facts - there is too much to think about what's coming in the future as a result of all the scientific and space research we are doing, and I find it fascinating to theorize. You toss my theories aside because they are not fact.

As for the Bible not being scientific, I won't argue with you. I just differ with you violently.

Just because "quite a school" try to make statements in Nahum apply to the airplane doesn't nullify either me, the Bible, or my theories and its science. You have a bad habit of painting the cart black before you will permit anyone to ride in it. But how you can believe Joshua halted the sun in the heavens; the youths in the fiery furnace, etc, and then reject the "firmament" beneath the waters is beyond me! What evidence do you have that a man stopped the whole solar system in its tracks? - Justin Colfax.

DOES DANDRUFF MAKE YOU WANT TO HIDE YOUR HEAD IN SHAME?

You might as well, if you're going to let dandruff and scale and skin rash make you bald as an egg. You've bought plenty of preparations, and they don't work, you say? Of course they haven't! You've probably been cheated as many times as I have. I'll bet I've spent hundreds of dollars on jim-dandy goo, and wound up with worse dandruff than I started with. Made me plenty mad, too. I always get mad when I think of the lousy junk designed to chisel your honest dollars out of you. Mad enough so that when I find something good, I'm not bashful about telling my friends about it. And SEARCH readers are my friends. I had dandruff all my life, and despaired of getting rid of it, until one day Ken Arnold (the flying saucer man) left a half bottle of Turn-er's at my house, and flew off to Boise without it. I tried the stuff, because Ken's no slissy, and he doesn't put perfume on his hair. Well, in one week my dandruff was gone! And my hair had begun to darken. My wife tried it, and her rash disappeared. You can bet we wrote Ken in a hurry and asked where he got it! And now, we're telling you. But don't just take our word for it—here are a few testimonials from our readers, to back us up.

As I have about used up one bottle of your hair preparation, please send me another. I have had very good results in ridding myself of dandruff and itching. Lionel O. Branberg, Sharon Springs, Kans.

Enclosed find money order for $10.00 for two more bottles of Turn-er's as soon as possible. You sure found a good product. In the sixth application my dandruff was cured. Thanks to you. It does all you say and more, too. And it sure brings back the natural color to your hair. Thanks! R. E. Van Gordon, 1905 W. Milham Road, Kalamazoo, Mich.

Enclosed please find check for $5.00 for another bottle of Turn-er's as soon as possible. I have been bedeviled by a terrible itching in my eyebrows for over thirty years. It seemed to be a large flaky dandruff, but if I combed it out too near the skin, a watery substance would start, causing a scab-like condition. I have been to dozens of doctors . . . none did the slightest bit of good. After reading what Ray Palmer said, I decided to try Turn-er's. After the sixth application, I have not had an itch in my brows, and the skin underneath is as clear and clean as my face. I certainly am thankful to Mr. Palmer for bringing such a fine product to my attention.—S. W. Crusen, 2336 Fillmore Ave., Buffalo 14, N. Y.

Enough? Well, then take it from Ray Palmer, one bottle of

Other Tongues -- Other Flesh

George Hunt Williamson

In more recent times, there has been a growing realization that on other worlds than ours, even in other universes, there are other living beings. The idea that earthbound man may someday journey into the heavens to discover other men and women, like or unlike himself, grows by leaps and bounds. Within man's soul lies the truth — mortals exist on other spheres!

In this book, many references and quotations are given from the latest authentic reports on Saucer phenomena. Because many believe there are contradictions in some of the reported happenings, it has been necessary to show that there is a great story and purpose behind all these experiences.

Here, in this book, is the history of OTHER TONGUES, and of OTHER FLESH; calm, scientific evidence that there are brothers of ours in the skies overhead.

We are not alone in the Universe!

Orfeo's first book THE SECRET OF THE SAUCERS, went into five editions! The glimpse its readers got of cosmic perceptions raised a demand for more—and in this book, Orfeo has given what is in his heart.

The dynamics of the Universe are presented simply in Son of the Sun. The Cosmos lives in a music of the spheres as a concept of Infinity and Eternity is laid bare. In this very real Space Age there is a moral and spiritual undercurrent which soon may swell into world tides, for Man not only seeks all the truth, but knows it when presented.

PREDILUVIAN WONDER STONES

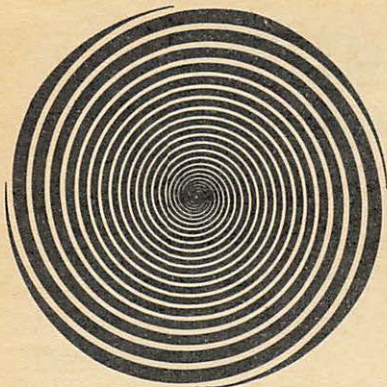

THESE STONES contain exquisite scenes of life before the great Deluge. They are not "accidentals", but actual works of art done by living artists long before the Flood. Archaeologists, whose names I will furnish on request, have accepted these stones as being just what everybody who sees them thinks they are: prediluvian art work of a strange and wonderful kind.

You can judge for yourself. Just send me $2.00 and I will send you one slice of stone (cut with a diamond saw). If you are able to see miniature pictures in the stones, if you like what you see, I will send you any number of slices at $1.00 each. If you want larger, and infinitely more valuable stones, write me for special rates, since such stones must be individually priced.

If you do not find these stones to be what I represent, return your first stone and I will refund your $2.

Many people are enjoying the privilege of studying these ancient works of art, furnished at considerable expense by me. My true interest in this is to save this immense library of the prediluvian world from loss through lack of knowledge of its nature.

Cooke has mass hypnotized as many as 400 people at once by READING the WORD FOR WORD hypnotizing technique in this work.

Although written for the professional man, this book will have a wide appeal among laymen who seek precise methods rather than the vague directions that have hitherto been available. THE HYPNOTISM HAND-BOOK was written by Mr. Cooke in collaboration with science-fiction novelist and short story writer A. Who built the Great Pyramid?—Did Lemuria and Atlantis really exist?—Were some of the "gods" of antiquity really fantastic hidden historical treasures which constitute a legacy for mankind?—Are there hidden pyramids in North America?—What is the real meaning of the Aztec Calendar Stone?—Is there a secret temple under the Sphinx?—Is there an ancient space ship buried under the Great Pyramid?—Was there a curse on Tutankhamun's tomb?—Where is the Holy Grail?—Did Joseph of Arimathea go to Glastonbury in Britain? Was he buried there?—Did the Indians guard ancient Lemurian records in Time Capsules?—Is the Holy Shroud or Mantle of Turin really the burial shroud of Jesus?—Where is the lost treasure of the Incas and the fabulous Disc of the Sun?

HOW TO GET A PSYCHOMETRIC ANALYSIS

Select a short verse from the Bible, perhaps your favorite, and write it on a separate sheet of paper, meanwhile concentrating on your problems. Then mail the sheet to Mrs. Dorothy Spence Lauer, Amherst, Wisconsin, and enclose $4.00. Bear in mind the reply may take several weeks.

Send a snapshot of yourself to Dorothy Spence Lauer, Amherst, Wisconsin, and enclose $4.00 to cover the cost. Be sure to include your return address! Surprisingly many applicants forget this! And please, if possible, report the results to SEARCH magazine after their accuracy or inaccuracy is determined. Remember, reports of inaccuracy are as important as those of accuracy.

Editor's Note: Dorothy Spence Lauer is a Psychometrist, specializing in precognition. Ordinarily she needs but an object belonging to, or handled by, the subject, or the presence of the subject, to become aware of the psychic influences from which she draws her information. However, by writing out a verse, while concentrating, as described in the instructions given on this page, a sufficiently powerful psychic impression will be made to enable the medium to receive the information she seeks. We have made this service available to our readers purely in an experimentative atmosphere, in an attempt, first to determine whether or not this ability is of a nature both real and valuable; and second, to provide you with an interesting bit of entertainment. Please report results to us.

LIVE FOREVER IN PERFECT HEALTH

We are living in an age of miracles. Scientific and technological knowledge has transformed our way of life. Many of the advances made in the last decade may be properly termed as impossible and fantastic, yet we now know them to be facts.

For untold centuries, man has fallen before the grim reaper; he has walked in darkness while his soul cried for light. His daily life was beset with sickness, disease and pain. It terminated in death, and he passed on into the great unknown.

The wise men of all ages have searched for the secret of ETERNAL LIFE. A fountain of youth has been the dream of kings and paupers in all ages. Many lives have been offered up on an altar of ignorance as man searched in vain for the elixir of LIFE.

Philosophers and theologians, as well as great men of science, continue on trying to find the secret of immortality through many mediums. The search has not been in vain.

Now, after thirty years of scientific and biblical research, and traveling to many nations and parts of the world, Dr. Lindsey has discovered the secret of the ages. The cause of the ageing process, deterioration, and death.

But far greater was the discovery of the processes of LIFE and IMMORTALITY as taught by Christ Jesus, the Master of LIFE and IMMORTALITY, and how a man may use this formula and NEVER DIE. YES, YOU CAN LIVE FOREVER IN PERFECT HEALTH IN YOUR PRESENT PHYSICAL BODY, RESTORED TO ITS VIGOROUS YOUTH.

The life of Dr. Lindsey has been devotedly spent ministering to the sick, afflicted and downtrodden in many nations. Thousands claim healing through his divinely anointed ministry, and the touch of his healing hands. He would like to send his latest book, THE SECRET OF PERFECT HEALTH AND IMMORTAL LIFE to everyone on earth free of charge, but we all realize this is impossible.

However, this marvelous book is made available to everyone at a minimum cost. Nothing like it has ever been offered to the public at any price. To those answering this ad, we will enclose a free book, THE MAN WHO TALKS WITH GOD.

OAHSPÉ—THE LONG LOST, AUTHENTIC, UNEXPURGATED, UNCHANGED FIRST EDITION

AFTER 75 YEARS!

THE 1882 EDITION OF THE WONDER BOOK OF THIS AGE, PHOTOCOPIED FROM THE ORIGINAL, NOT A COMMA CHANGED!

In 1891, for reasons not acceptable to many, including myself, John Ballou Newbrough and Andrew M. Howland issued a "revised and corrected" edition of OAHSPÉ. These revisions and corrections (and omissions and additions) have never been satisfactorily outlined, and because since 1885 the first edition could not be purchased anywhere, the public has been unable to ascertain what these changes were. In all my life, I have been able to find but one copy of the 1882 edition. Others are rumored to exist, but if they do, they are in private collections. With this photocopied edition of OAHSPÉ, reproduced from this lone volume, the 1882 edition is once more made available to the public. With the advent of the Space Age, OAHSPÉ is being vindicated, thus I am pleased to make this controversial edition available to those who, like myself, believe it to be one of the world's important books.

Perhaps the best way to describe OAHSPÉ is in the words of the book itself: "A sacred history of the dominions of the higher and lower heavens on the Earth for the past twenty-four thousand years, being from the submersion of the continent of Pan in the Pacific Ocean, commonly called the Flood or Deluge, to the Kosmon (present) Era. Also a brief history of the preceding fifty-five thousand years, together with a synopsis of the cosmogony of the Universe; the creation of the planets; the creation of man; the unseen worlds; the labor and glory of gods and goddesses in the ethereal heavens; with the new commandments of Jehovih to man of the present day. With revelations from the second resurrection, formed in words in the thirty-third year of the Kosmon Era." The purpose of the book is: "To teach mortals how to attain to hear the Creator's voice, and to see His heavens, in full consciousness, whilst still living on the earth; and to know of a truth the place and condition awaiting them after death."

This edition of OAHSPÉ contains 928 pages. It also contains nearly three quarters of a million words, and calculating from actual time of writing, it was written at the rate of 120 words per minute! This on an 1880 Sholes typewriter is a miracle in itself. Many of the drawings in OAHSPÉ were done at the same time . . . in the dark! The Book of Cosmology might have been written by today's space scientists! Much of the science in OAHSPÉ has only recently been "discovered". Newbrough could not have "guessed" so rightly, especially in the face of all the authorities of his day. Today space satellites are discovering "how it is" out in space, while in 1882 OAHSPÉ contained the same information! As an instance, the now famous Van Allen radiation belts, complete as to nature and height! The scientific reader is overwhelmed by the science of OAHSPÉ.
