By MARIE CORELLI

A GREAT BOOK OF "SECRET KNOWLEGE"

THE MOST AMAZING BOOK OF PROPHECY OF THE PAST CENTURY!

THE ATOM BOMB PREDICTED HALF A CENTURY AGO:
(here is an actual quote)

"Radio-activity is an explosion of great violence; the energy exerted is millions of times more powerful than the highest explosive substance yet made in our laboratories; one bomb loaded with such energy would be equal to millions of bombs of the same size and energy as used in the trenches. One's mind stands aghast at the thought of what could be possible if such power were used for destructive purposes; a single aeroplane could carry sufficient to annihilate a whole army, or lay the biggest city in ruins with the death of all its inhabitants."

There is no single topic concerning which there is more misconception than the Hereafter. The general public is not aware of the intensive investigative work done in the past hundred years, nor the combined knowledge which has been obtained concerning the after-death life of man. This book is a veritable textbook of this entire fund of knowledge.

What do you mean, psychic? To most people, when you are foolish enough to inform them you are "psychic", an entirely different word registers in their mind - the word "psycho". In short, to the average person, you are mentally unbalanced, strange, crazy, a kook, dangerous, and in general, an "odd ball". The one thing you are NOT, in their estimation, is "normal". But, can you blame them? After all, what is it you are claiming to be? Maybe you told them you can predict the future; that like Jeanne Dixon, you have visions such as her prediction of John Kennedy's assassination. Or you have dreams that come true, or you can travel to far places in those dreams. Perhaps you say you can leave your body and travel "in spirit" in an astral fashion. Or you can make it rain by concentrating on the formation of clouds. Or you have hunches, and know which horse will win the race, or that the plane you intended to take was going to crash. Or you have experienced mental telepathy. You have extra-sensory-perception (ESP) and can call the cards without seeing them to a percentage too great to be pure chance - in which case nobody will play cards with you.

When you claim these things, you can be sure of one thing - your listener will challenge you to "put up or shut up". And that's where the going gets tough. If you fail, you are completely discredited, and if you succeed, you are in trouble. There will be a variety of reactions: one, you will be feared, because you are doing something the "average" person cannot do. You will be envied, if it seems the things you do give you an unfair advantage. Or the result of a perfect demonstration will be complete disbelief, and you will be accused of "being lucky", of fraud, or of pure chance operating as a coincidence - and you will be challenged to "do it again". You will fail (eventually) and your challenger will say triumphantly: "I told you you couldn't do it REALLY!"

Every time a "psychic" accepts a challenge, he has lost the game before he starts. And to refuse to demonstrate is just as certainly defeat. So, what should you do? The answer is a hard one to accept - if you ARE psychic, the thing to do is to keep it secret. Those who don't believe in psychic phenomena won't accept you anyway; and those who do will want to USE you! Tell them which stock will go up, so they can get rich. Or join them in a money-making scheme where you perform "for a price", sell tickets, hold "seances" or some such gimmick.

If you really have psychic ability, you probably already know this. If you don't know it, and yourself sell tickets, you are probably a fraud. Many people swear by Jeanne Dixon. She is often right. But more often, she is wrong. Her supporters maintain that the times she is wrong are immaterial, because what is really important is the times she is right! What does it matter if 19 out of 20 predictions are wrong if the one correct one predicts the exact time and place of the assassination of a president!

So Jeanne Dixon is psychic? Let's examine the value of her powers: First, if you were to ACT on all her predictions, you would lose your shirt, on the average. For example, if you ground a big jet plane, because she says it will crash, naturally it won't - but you can't halt the operation of an airline for something that won't happen - and if you had flown anyway, regardless of Jeanne's prediction, the chances are very much greater that it would have flown safely to its destination. The only one, upon serious reflection, who ever benefits from Jeanne's predictions is Jeanne herself, for hard, cold cash!

The real answer is in what "psychic powers" really are. In the first place, if one human being can do it, it stands to reason any other human being can do it; we are all alike in our general overall construction. What a psychic really does is nothing "extra" - it is only an extension of a "normal" power. We see with our eyes, but it is really our mind that sees. To see something a mile away is not difficult. To "see" something a thousand miles away is more difficult, we agree, but it is, after all "seeing". The mind directs the eye to "see" something a mile away, and because all of us can do this, it is "normal". If one person's mind is better developed, more powerful, and it directs the eye to "see" a thousand miles away, the SAME procedure is being used, and the result is NOT abnormal. It is just more difficult to do and involves a more complicated process.

It is a scientific law that whatever we do involves an expenditure of energy. No "work" can be done without using some energy to do it.

A GREAT NEW BOOK

Paradise Island

By LESTER C. EVANS

SIZE: 5½ x 8½; PAGES: 192;

ILLUSTRATED;

BINDING: Paper;

PRICE: $2.50

WHAT IF YOU WERE ONE OF FIVE MEN AND FOUR WOMEN MAROONED FOR LIFE ON A STRANGE LOST "GARDEN OF EDEN" BY AN AIRPLANE CRASH? WOULD FIVE "ADAMS" AND FOUR "EVES" MAKE THIS MODERN EDEN A PARADISE?

Today the world is beset by numerous problems, a far cry from the Garden of Eden where life was peaceful and happy and untroubled. Have you ever wondered what would happen if a small group of people got a chance to go back to that original Eden, and begin all over again? Could they begin to build a beautiful new existence, or would they make the same mistakes all over again? Can man really control his animal instincts? Is sex really evil, and is "sin" inevitable?

Do
FLYING SAUCERS
come from Space?

If you think so, here is a book you should read. This is a picture of Space as it is today, and will be tomorrow, in the opinion of a leading Space scientist and one of America's top Space artists. We are going out into the realm of the saucers, to take our place in that strange community of unknown peoples. We should have some facts at our disposal so that we will know what it will be like "out there". This book is one you will find tremendously exciting, scientifically plausible, emotionally staggering, inspiring yet frightening. You owe it to yourself to put "flying saucers" into a scientific framework. This book will do it! Highly recommended by the editors of FLYING SAUCERS.

We are all interested in new things, in things previously unknown, in prying into the mysteries that surround us on all sides and make life such a complicated and wonderful adventure. It is necessary to our peril-fraught future as a civilized race that new things be brought out into the open where all of us can inspect them; that actual proof be presented to support the unknown acceptances of yesterday. Our moral development must keep pace with our mechanical advance. We are truly and honestly searching for the answers to the questions we begin to ask from our first reasoning days until the hour we die — when we go on to discover the answer to the greatest question of all.

In this great free America we have an advantage over half the world, in that we can do our own thinking and our own talking. We can exchange ideas, we can challenge old ones, we can devise new ones without fear of being clapped in a dungeon or ostracized as a heretic. Here knowledge and research is the recognized realm of activity of every person. That is why we have published thought-provoking, challenging articles, typified by an upward-looking spirit of inquiry, ranging from the lowliest investigator, the child who asks "Mommy, where did I come from?", to Dr. Rhine of Duke University, who is engaged in a scientific search for the soul! SEARCH asks many such questions, and as the answers are forthcoming, brings them to its readers honestly, competently and accurately; without bias, and without distortion or axegrinding implications.

FLYING SAUCERS

with complete coverage of the famous UFO.

Flying saucers are a fact. A national poll has proved that one American in every four is aware of the truth of that statement. In spite of this, FLYING SAUCERS magazine is the only publication devoted to presenting all the facts and all the latest news concerning unidentified flying objects. It is the only magazine wherein the public can pierce the fog in which official sources have shrouded a matter of vital and general public concern. Here is a magazine you can depend on to keep you up to the minute on every development. More than 5000 sightings have been reported to the editors, and new sightings come in daily. Hundreds of these are from reputable people, airline pilots, scientific experts, even clergymen. FLYING SAUCERS has a staff of experts who evaluate every sighting, subject every photo to exhaustive tests, analyze every theory presented, and who meticulously report the truth as they see it. Today Man is aiming his sights at the stars. He intends to fly to other planets. But are the inhabitants of other worlds already visiting us? It may be so, but even if not, this magazine is writing the daily history of the new space age!

Magna Carta of Space

by WILLIAM A. HYMAN, A.B., LL.B., D.H.L.

SPACE IS BECOMING CROWDED--YET IT IS A LAWLESS ELEMENT.
DO WE FACE THE POSSIBILITY OF A "PEARL HARBOR" OF SPACE?

Space technology has progressed with an astonishing speed in the few years that have elapsed since the Russians orbited the first artificial satellite. Statesmen, lawyers, scientists and other scholars have devoted a great amount of time and effort to developing rules for the control and guidance of activities in space. That the conduct of mankind is far from ideal is not in doubt. The author recognizes that activities in space need regulating. He offers as a constitution or basic law for space activities the idealistic Magna Carta of Space which he has developed over a period of years. Mr. Hyman, a successful practitioner of various aspects of air law and other law presents a popularized and colorful argument attesting to the urgent need for agreement on broad rules of conduct of nations in space. Mr. Hyman poses most of the basic questions which are proving to be major stumbling blocks. Where is outer space? Where does air space end? How may the accident victim of activities in space be compensated? How can nuclear activity be controlled? What is peace? What is a peaceful and what is an aggressive use of space? Where does national sovereignty end and how is sovereignty acquired? How should space communications be organized and controlled? The author delves into history, morality, religion and current occurrences in pointing out the necessity, urgency and feasibility of agreement along broad guidelines for conduct in space. He is calling for Space Law NOW.

When you see something a mile away, the performance of that "work" has required that some of your body's physical energy be expended. This energy is not unlimited. After using your eyes to "see" a great many things (such as reading a large book) you will admit that you are tired. You will need to rest your eyes and recuperate your energies by sleep. Also, you will have to convert "fuel" to get this energy-burn up (digest) some food. It is a fact that the more you read, the more proficient you become. You read faster. There is a young Philippine girl who can read 85,000 words a minute! Many people call this a "psychic" power, but scientists who have tested her disagree - what she does is perfectly natural, but UNUSUAL, in that she has the ability to see entire pages, in rapid sequence, rather than seeing only one word at a time. She is FAST, that is all, not psychic. It is the same with all so-called psychic powers. The mind is able to use the ordinary senses to a fuller capacity.

Let's get into a few specific instances of psychic performances in order to make our point. All of us know of science fiction writer L. Ron Hubbard, who devised the "science" of Dianetics, and is reputed to have healed his daughter's broken arm instantly. The skeptics said it was never broken in the first place. And in future attempts to demonstrate, he failed. He may have succeeded many times, but in each case, the "after the fact" evidence was useless, because there was nothing to "show". He was accused of fraud many times. But because your editor did essentially the same thing, he can accept that Hubbard did cure broken bones instantly. But it was done in a scientific way, directed by an orderly and purposeful mind, and much energy was expended.

You could do it! Anybody could! But it isn't done by any mumbo-jumbo, incantation, or even prayer. You can't stand over an injured person, raise your arms to heaven, and say: "I pray Thee, Lord, heal this man!" and expect it to happen. If it happens, it will be because you understood fully what was required in a material and physical way - and used a store of energy in your mind to direct the proper procedure to take place. Or it might happen because you actually know the "Lord" personally and can persuade him to apply the needed materials and energy - in which case we get into the question of who and what the "Lord" is, exactly, and we won't go into that here other than to say that it is also "psychic" to be able to "talk" to unseen entities and get their attention.

Take Edgar Cayce, as an example. He was able to cure people

Almost two thousand years ago a mysterious white man walked from tribe to tribe among the American Nations. He came to Peru from the Pacific, He traveled through South and Central America, among the Mayans, into Mexico and all of North America, then back to ancient Tula, from whence he departed across the Atlantic to the land of his origin. Who was this white Prophet who spoke a thousand languages, healed the sick, raised the dead, and taught in the same words as Jesus Himself?

True!

Documented!

These are true Indian legends, gathered during twenty-five years of research by L. Taylor Hansen, archaeologist, from many different tribes all over the Americas. By consulting museums, libraries and experts on folk-lore, it has been possible to correlate the findings into this fascinating book, backed up by the spades of the diggers into ancient ruins, and by all the sciences with which L. Taylor Hansen is familiar. This is a book that will back up the New Testament of the East, with the Christian Indian legends of the West. In this book is proof that the Savior came not only to one continent, but to all the world. This book will strengthen your faith as no other could!

by "consulting" with physicians located "at a distance" in both space and time, and gain access to medicines to use, etc. He didn't "cure" by any "psychic" means, but he did get the proper treatment by "psychic" means.

It is necessary to "comprehend" in your mind the existence of a "dead" doctor, in order to call upon him to operate. Most of us are unaware of, or unwilling to accept such things, and therefore our mind is left with no actual contact (because we don't realize it exists); and we are reduced to "mumbo-jumbo" or "prayer", and a "message" tapped out on a telegraph key which is not ENERGIZED won't get through!

Psychic power is a "muscle" which gains strength through exercise and use. Just as a muscle can "learn" to lift 300 lbs., so can the mind "learn" to direct the eyesight beyond the horizon, or into the future or the past. But it takes enormous expenditure of energy and cannot be done continuously. Thus, it is folly to claim psychic powers and accept challenges to back up your claims. Instead, it should be pointed out that lifting 300 pounds is a personal matter, and let the unbeliever perform the feat for himself - through persistent effort, practice, development of his muscles, and expenditure of energy.

All of us can do psychic feats. But they are subject to scientific laws and procedures. He who would run must first learn to walk. To a baby, walking is normal, but running is still "psychic". But running is only walking, done faster, and with more expenditure of energy, plus greater experience and more utilization of scientific principles.

Seeing the future is not psychic power - it is just keener and more powerful and more scientific seeing. It's all in your mind.

We don't DO psychic things, we ARE psychic beings. And we can all learn to run, rather than walk. The secret of astral travel to Paris is in projecting the normal ability to walk to Paris to a more highly developed process. Let your mind do the "walking" and you may find you don't need your legs - but all you'll be doing is "better walking". Nothing "psychic" about it at all!

PRAYER

IS WHERE THE

ACTION

By CATHERINE PONDER

---

A YOUNG MAN with a grave problem was asked by his minister, "Have you prayed about it?" He answered, "Prayed? This is no time to pray. It's time to do something!"

To pray is to do something - the most important "something" you can first do about any problem. Why?

Because prayer is where the true action is! Prayer is the only action you can take that truly makes things different - from the inside out.

This is true because physical action releases the weakest form of energy, whereas mental and spiritual action releases the highest form of energy.

Prayer deals primarily with the states of mind and laws of mental activity that rule your world. Prayer changes your mentality; prayer first changes your thinking as it calms, uplifts and renews you. This is one of the purposes of prayer - to change your thinking, which in turn changes your world.

But prayer goes further. There is another reason for all the shouting about the "power of prayer".

Prayer releases the highest form of energy in the universe, as it links you with a God energy, which is your source. When this happens, prayer "turns you on!"

How?

When you pray, you stir into action an atomic force. You release a potent spiritual vibration that can be released in no other way. Through prayer you unleash and loose a God energy within and around you that gets busy working for you and through you, producing right attitudes, reactions and results. It is your prayers that recognize and release that God power.

You may not feel the force of prayer because it operates at a higher vibration than that ordinarily felt by man. In fact, prayer releases an energy that is usually too fine to be recorded physically.

Nevertheless, as you pray you expand mentally and spiritually so as to become big enough in consciousness to receive a larger flow of the divine energy generated through prayer. Prayer is not only asking and communing. Prayer is also receiving.

A skeptic once insisted that he did not believe in the power of prayer. When asked if he had ever prayed, he replied that he had once. His explanation was that on that occasion he was lost in a deep forest and could not find his way out. He had been there several days and was beginning to feel the pangs of starvation. He said that in his "weakness" he prayed.

"Then God did answer your prayer, or you would not be here," exclaimed his acquaintance.

"No," replied the skeptic, "God did not answer my prayer. A couple of hunters came along soon afterward and showed me the way out."

This man did not understand that his prayer had been answered, and that the hunters were the human agency through which God's work had been done. Nevertheless, through the act of prayer, he had for a moment recognized the God power within and around him, and had thereby contacted and released it to produce results for him. He had not only asked; he had also received.

ONE PRAYS WITH THE MIND

In recent times we've heard much about "the power of thought" as well as about "the power of prayer". These two terms are linked. They are twin powers. The mind is the connecting link between God and man. Prayer is a method of thought that links God and man. One prays with the mind.

Some authorities claim that what it usually takes a person six hours to do could easily be accomplished in only one hour by a person who knew how to pray and meditate first!

A man who practices daily meditation recently proved it, as he often has. He had been given three writing assignments which he was expected to complete in a single day. At first, he was tempted to panic just thinking about the task before him - one that would take the average journalist several days at best to complete.

Then he quieted his mind, prayed and meditated for an entire hour. During this meditation time, ideas for all three writing assignments quietly flowed into his conscious mind. He then proceeded with the tasks and completed them in a few hours without the usual "blood, sweat and tears".

An engineer with grave responsibilities on a large project had only one method for solving his engineering problems. When they arose, he always retired to his private office and sat quietly behind his desk, meditating and praying for guidance. Always the answer came as the right ideas or the perfect solution cropped up.

One day one of his employees, a young "jet set" engineer right out of college, asked the secret of this engineer's phenomenal success. When informed, this young man replied incredulously, "You, mean you just pray and meditate and the answer comes?"

The root meaning of the word "man" is "one who looks up". Some psychologists claim that man uses only about 1/10 of 1 percent of his energies and powers, because he does not live up to the root meaning of his name: He does not look up, nor does he look within, often enough. It is sad to realize that perhaps all but 1/10 of 1 percent of man's forces are wasted because they are expressed outwardly instead of inwardly. But something can be done about it!

WHY PRAYER HAS MIRACLE POWER

Scientists tell us there are no miracles - only the working of higher laws not commonly understood. Actually there seems to be one set of natural laws for the physical world and another set for the invisible world of mind and spirit. The laws of mind and spirit are so much stronger that they can be used to accentuate, neutralize, or even reverse the laws of the physical world. Prayer is the one power in the world that seems to set off the working of those higher laws.

Prayer can get the job done - when nothing else has.

Why is prayer so powerful?

Why can prayer accentuate, neutralize or even reverse the laws of the physical world?

Because through prayer, you tap the operation of higher laws of supreme mind and spirit. Through prayer you release a spiritual force which shatters fixed states of mind that have caused so much havoc in your world.

Indeed, the energy and power released in prayer help you to "crash through" the negative thought strata that had previously bound you to all kinds of problems. Thereafter, the impossible becomes possible. Your ships come in. So-called miracles occur. It is then that you realize that prayer did overcome the usual "laws of nature" and did what they said couldn't be done!

If prayer were commonly understood and practiced by mankind universally, the dreaded things of this world - crime, disease, poverty and war - could become ancient history. You can begin helping to eradicate these universal ills, as well as a score of personal ones, as you begin deliberately developing your prayer powers described in my book, "PRAY AND GROW RICH".

PRAYER MAKES YOU IRRESISTIBLE FOR RECEIVING RICHES

Perhaps you are thinking that prayer has not yet made your dreams come true or your "ships of gold" come in. That is because the art and science of prayer are not accomplished in one giant step nor in one dramatic act. Prayer is a continuous practice which should be applied to the little as well as to the big things in your life.

Does this sound dull? Well, it isn't! If you have thought so, you do not know what you've missed.

Prayer can be supremely exciting. Once, when I was trying to get guidance about my teenage son's future, as I prayed Air Force planes flew overhead so low that they interrupted my prayer time. When this happened on two separate occasions in a row, I realized that apparently was the answer. Within a matter of weeks, my son had decided to delay attending college and had enlisted in the United States Air Force.

Prayer also has a sense of humor at times. Once when I was trying to get guidance about whether to accept a lecture invitation in the State of Indiana, a college band near my apartment suddenly started playing, "Back Home Again In Indiana" so loudly that it roused me from my prayer period, and I took that as intuitive guidance to go to Indiana to lecture. It proved to be one of the most thrilling lecture experiences I have ever had.

Dr. Billy Graham once said, "The man who has never discovered the power of prayer in a spiritual sense has never really lived." I believe it! You will too!

Once you get the workings of it, there is a certain indescribable fascination about prayer; an unforgettable, irresistible quality, an exuberating and exulting feeling that draws you back to it again and again. As you turn within to its power more and more, you discover you are carrying within your own being a portable paradise which you can contact anytime anywhere, regardless of what is happening around you.

There is a quaint saying among the Pennsylvania Dutch, "The hurrieder I go, the behinder I get!" Prayer slows you down to get real traction. Prayer gets you in the mood to receive your good. Prayer gives you a taste of heaven, and it tastes good! (The word "heaven" means "expansion" and the practice of prayer expands both you and your good.) St. Francis of Assisi, who loved to pray in a cave, described prayer as "a heavenly sweetness".

Your soul gets twisted out of shape when you battle life, people, circumstances. Prayer takes away your spirit of fuss, gives you a gentleness of pace. One of the most obvious signs of the person who prays is the quiet way he is able to maintain his equilibrium in the grip of circumstances, until those circumstances finally lose their grip on him!

One cynic has said there is nothing so unattractive as a prayer-less woman. I am even more cynical: There is nothing so unattractive as a prayer-less person, because his prayer-less-ness had demagnetized him to the blessings of life.

When you pray you quiet your mind, body, emotions, vibrations. Prayer gives you a sense of peace and tranquillity that are attracting powers. In one way or another, prayer first makes you more attractive, and then gets busy attracting your good to you. Prayer makes you irresistible to your good! And, most certainly, to all the riches of confident living, including adequate financial supply.

NOTHING DULL ABOUT RIGHT PRAYER

A lot of dull things have been written about prayer, but you will not find any of them in my book, "PRAY AND GROW RICH"!

If prayer has seemed a dull practice to you in the past - a practice that you regarded as fine for sweet ol' ladies and innocent children but one that just did not work for you - it was probably because you simply did not know how to pray. There's more to prayer than mumbling a few self-conscious words that you know never reach the ceiling!

In his book, Prayer Can Change Your Life, Dr. William R. Parker points out that among the people who participated in his prayer experiments at Redlands University, those who prayed at home on their own without benefits of psychological insight or spiritual instruction got no results. Their prayers brought absolutely no improvements, because they knew not what effective prayer demanded of them.

When you pray with your conscious mind only, just a fraction of your total mind prays, and you get only a fraction of the results due you through prayer.

The purpose of this book is to acquaint you with all the fascinating ways you can pray: through relaxation, denials, affirmations, concentration, meditation, the silence, realization, thanksgiving. Regardless of your life situation, you will find there is always a way you can pray - to suit your mood and circumstances - a method that gets the job done. There is no better way to secure all the riches of life you so earnestly desire.

After studying the favorable effects prayer had on his patients, world famous doctor and scientist Alexis Carrel, M.D., promised: "If you make a habit of sincere prayer, your life will be very noticeably and profoundly altered." But you must be sincere in prayer. You should pray the way you make love - with everything you've got! One plain spoken theologian has described this method as "passionate praying. Truly, as you study the laws of prayer hereinafter described, you will find yourself getting into the act - the act of prayer - more and more and getting richer - more and more - without tensions or fears.

Prayer will then turn on the action of God's goodness within and around you. As you persist in developing your various prayer powers, it will dawn on you that prayer is where the action is; that prayer has "turned you on" and you will undoubtedly have the results to prove it! But whether or not the sure-fire answers to prayer have come through yet, you will be convinced of its necessity in your life from the peace of mind and deep soul satisfaction you are experiencing - which, in turn, lead to every outer blessing, and I do mean richer blessings and more of them.

When this happens, you will no longer complain, "Why all the shouting about the richness and power of prayer?"

You will be one of the enriched "shouters"!

have we already murdered
the human race?

by Ray Palmer

(Reprinted from APRIL, 1963 SEARCH)

FOR A BEGINNING to this article, I would like to quote one sentence from an article in the April 1955 "MYSTIC", written by your editor. It is this one: "Must we wait until the stark horror of a 'monster' is thrust into our own household?"

A few months ago, a true "monster" story hit the headlines and gave the world a chill and a shudder. But it was a passing chill, and today it is remembered only as a past event of distasteful nature by most people, and by others as a very sad remembrance only because there is a terrible reminder constantly before their eyes - this reminder being in the form of a beloved, but horribly misshapen, son or daughter. Most of these human "monsters", so pitiful in their deformity, which consists of missing arms and legs for the most part, are to be found in Germany, because it was there that the drug "thalidomide" was most widely used by pregnant women to alleviate the discomfort of their "morning sickness". The drug is no longer being used today, and in this country it was never used except to a minute experimental degree because one of our alert guardians of public health had not sanctioned the drug in the first place in spite of its wide usage in Europe. For this she is to be highly commended.

But just recently several very odd facts have come to light. One of them is a statistic. It reveals that out of the 4,000-odd "thalidomide babies" born in Germany, only 25% of the mothers actually took the drug. The physician who presents us with these official figures asks a quite natural question: "What caused the other 75% of deformities?"

The other fact is the result, in part, of a several-year-long survey conducted by this writer, and the published opinions of several doctors who have apparently been conducting their own survey - engendered by a suspicion instilled in their minds by certain trends noted in their daily practice of treating patients. It might be best to begin at the end with this bit of information, and give the most recent experience of this writer, as a graphic illustration.

Recently, your editor became ill. The illness took place about three weeks after the United States demonstrated that the atom bomb can be used peacefully to build such things as harbors or to remove annoying mountains. You will remember the underground test which left a large crater in the earth. You will be able, if you are sufficiently perceptive, to link this explosion with one mentioned in the 1955 article which vaporized an entire island, and which "scared hell" out of the scientists who thought they had "gone and done it". The result of that earlier test was to throw into the atmosphere millions of tons of radioactive dust which will take from fifteen to twenty more years to finish descending to the earth and completing its ugly job of contamination (as the second dirtiest bomb on record - the first was a Russian test which scared the Russians worse than ours scared us).

The point to be made here is that just as the first test was dirty because it hurled millions of tons of dangerous radioactive dust into the atmosphere, so did this latest test add to the fatal cloud over our heads. Your editor won't live to see the last of this cloud come down, but it will come down. On his children and upon yours!

True to government predictions of the imminence of a wave of "asian flu" (always predicted after a "dirty" bomb test - if you will take the trouble to check the timing of the two for yourself), this editor came down with it - and it was a quite uncomfortable thing. Along with it came an attack of what we thought was "bursitis", which is an inflammation of things called bursa in the shoulder joint. The condition known as bursitis is the inflammation in the joint caused by deposits of calcium. Sometimes deposits of calcium will dissolve, sometimes it must be removed by surgery. It is hellishly painful. In fact, so painful was this attack that it seemed more than bursitis, and we feared it was actually an approaching heart attack. So we had an electrocardiogram and also complete blood tests. The results were completely negative.

What was the verdict of the physician? It was quite an astounding one. He said flatly: "Atom bomb." When he said it he was merely confirming the research of three years among physicians which we have made in an effort to determine if there is any growing conviction among the medical profession that atomic poisoning of the atmosphere has reached the state of being positively recognized as the cause of the mounting flood of "mystery ailments" which are plaguing the doctors' diagnostic and treatment powers. It is the fact (!) which we are now about to give you, and which we suggest that any one of you can confirm beyond any doubt by questioning enough physicians.

Let's take the bursitis first. It is a well-known fact that the two elements calcium and strontium are chemically related. They are so closely related, in fact, that they are virtual twins. The human body (and even a vegetable) is unable to discern the difference between the two, and will take up either one in the impression they are both calcium, necessary for bone building and for good teeth. In the human body, the calcium is deposited in the marrow of the bones, where it plays a part, not only in bone and tooth building, but in the manufacture of red blood cells. Any surplus picked up by the body can be deposited in the joints, or in the walls of the veins, where it causes hardening of the arteries in a contributory fashion. Thus, it is that strontium-90 can be deposited in a shoulder joint, cause normal frictional irritation of the delicate bursa, which perform the function of lubricating the joint, plus radioactive ray burns which greatly heighten the inflammation.

The manner in which the strontium-90 arrives in the joint is via the lungs. It is breathed in with the air, and the rays, now in close contact with the nasal passages, the sinuses, the lung tissue itself, cause burns very similar to sun-burn or x-ray burns. These burns produce the symptoms known as "asian flu", which are exactly like those of ordinary virus flu. Runny nose, swollen sinuses, a cough, fever, debility, dull aches and pains, particularly peritoneal and chest, loss of appetite, etc. This atom bomb produced "flu" is distinguished from virus flu by the term "Asian" (from the fact that it was an Asian bomb test which produced the first recognizable epidemic of respiratory poisoning due to air-borne radioactives). Doctors know full well that there is no treatment for Asian flu but bed rest, large doses of vitamins, soothing syrups to allay the rawness of nasal passages. They know that with a few days' time the body will eliminate the bulk of the poisonous particles with the exception of those which become chemically locked in the bones and marrow from which they will never be eliminated. They know, too, that in older people, inasmuch as the bones are already formed, little or no strontium-90 or calcium is deposited there; but in the case of younger people, a good amount is being deposited.

Thus, in the case of older people, the discomforts and dangers amount to temporary illnesses such as "flu" and bursitis and kidney-bladder-liver upsets. In the case of younger people, to these discomforts is added a future danger that is much more ominous. The radiating rays of the strontium-90 will cause leukemia (blood cancer), bone cancers, gene disorders (the cause of birth deformities and mutations), and sterility.

Now that we have mentioned birth deformities, we can hear many people, including physicians, beginning to bridle, because they anticipate that we are going to blame the thalidomide monsters on radioactivity. So let it be firmly established that thalidomide does cause this particular type of deformity, and is the cause of many such monsters. The true fact in the linkage between thalidomide drugs and radioactive particles is the same as between radioactive particles and fluorine. It has been established by the medical profession that radioactive contamination which ordinarily can be within acceptable limits (which are acceptable only in the sense that half a bullet through your heart is more acceptable than a whole bullet), becomes highly dangerous in chemical combination with fluorine which serves as a catalyst to boost the activity to fantastic proportions. In exactly the same manner does thalidomide boost the gene damage results of radioactive exposure to "monster" proportions. The thalidomide alone can cause these deformities of the limbs, and radioactivity can cause them. In combination they accentuate them. The worst deformities are caused by this interaction.

Today "thalidomide" deformities are still occurring in cases where the drug has not been taken, and they will continue. These are atom bomb casualties. The facts are not getting publicity for a very simple reason - the authorities of the governments of the world have weighed the deformity of your child against something called "national safety", and have decided that the bomb tests must continue. But before we examine this premise to its logical conclusion, let's continue with our list of physical ailments.

Since the advent of the bomb, there has been a four-fold increase in miscarriages in human births over normal levels, due to the fact of radiation during the critical first three weeks of incubation. Any doctor can confirm this for you, even if he is puzzled as to the cause of the increase.

We all know that the incidence of so-called "mongolian births" has increased, particularly among the populations of Hiroshima and Nagasaki where the increase is a fantastic and horrible 800%!

Lung cancer is taking a very sharp upward trend. Cigarettes, air pollution, radioactives are all combining to make it a fearful menace to the future health of the world's people.

Lukemia is climbing steadily, especially among the young. It is a common occurrence for a baby to be born with leukemia, something not heard of before the bomb.

Baldness is increasing. Haven't you wondered why so many football players now display that shiny dome as well as the previously familiar black gaps in their front teeth? But it isn't only football players, but all of us who are losing our hair. Particularly those of us who habitually go without a hat.

Physicians the world over are convinced of the truth, and very many of them speak about it very freely - there is a frightening amount of radioactive poison in the air, the water, the soil and therefore in the food we eat. It is causing "new" diseases for which there is no known treatment. It is accentuating known diseases. And what is happening now is only the beginning. This writer has in his possession newspaper clippings, magazine articles, and private comments by physicians positive evidence and documentation which could be reproduced in support of this research, but they would only be a waste of space needed to say a few more things which are necessary to say. Perhaps it would be better to invite those physicians among our readers who have something to say, either to support or to refute our amateur research, to write their opinions for publication in this magazine. We know of at least one physician who is so disturbed by the situation that he is writing a book even with the knowledge that no book publisher will risk publishing the information he intends to present. We would like to assure him that when he finishes the manuscript, we will not lack the guts to publish it for him! The reason he feels he cannot get a publisher is his conviction that speech is not really free any more in this country, and that it has been supplanted by censorship under the guise of "national security". From this we gather his book is also of high controversy in a political-sociological vein. How many of you readers would hold that against him?

Let's go back now to the matter of the bomb and contamination. In the 1955 article it was pointed out that there are many opinions on the number of bombs that can be exploded in any one period of time (say ten years) before a contamination level is reached which might be called the "point of no return". In the 1955 article, the question was asked: "Will atomic power murder the human race?" and the answer was that it could. One of the extreme figures given as making such murder possible was the outside one of 1,000 bombs. At the time that article was written (1954), only about 50 bombs had been exploded. Today the figure of 1,000 is very near, if it has not already been exceeded. The testing is continuing at a pace that can only be called break-neck. There is no longer any word said concerning the "danger point" of pollution level. All we hear nowadays is "permissible". This word is a strange one, because it has a new meaning. Permissible also contains the connotation "permissible by whom", and the answer is "by the military deciders in the Pentagon". Today the matter of the welfare of the citizen is a matter of uniformed brass deciding which is best: mass death in war, or slow death by disease and poison, with the added factor that the latter is an unknown quantity which includes in its unknowables the fact that the slow death may be far worse than the quick, and a hell of a lot more certain and final. We might survive a quick atom war, as humanity. We cannot survive total suicide because the point of no return is the ultimate point. A war might fall short of the ultimate. A soldier who takes his chances in battle can survive. A man who shoots himself through the head with an elephant gun cannot.

Has anything changed since the factors of amounts of contamination from each bomb test were suggested (and recorded) back in 1954? Do you understand what it meant by a "clean" bomb. Do you understand from your sources of public information that bombs nowadays are clean? A clean bomb is one that does not scatter its radioactive dust over you. Thus a clean bomb is one that explodes, possibly, in outer space, or deep underground with no eruption to the surface. In the latter case, the contamination of underground water supplies is quite possible. No other bomb is clean. Radioactivity is still the characteristic of exploded atoms. Fusion is not as bad as fission. But the choice between the two is academic. Whether you split apart one element to make two or three or join two or three to make one is immaterial. The atomic activity excites many elements, making them radiate for varying lengths of time. Some only for a fraction of a second, others for thousands of years. A bomb which radiates and hurls millions of tons of matter into the atmosphere is dirty, no matter if you call it hydrogen or uranium - fusion or fission.

The truth is that there actually exists a point where the atmosphere, the water and the earth can be contaminated to a fatally poisonous degree, and the argument as to precisely how many bombs will do it is futile. Since we are now testing without counting, the point will be reached inevitably. If 500 bombs or 750 is the point, it has already been reached. No one really knows. The sad part is that those who ask, and who would like to try to find out, are ignored, and the ignorant plunge on uncaring and unthinking and irresponsibly. They point to the nearby bear and discount the tiger beyond the hill. This is a human failing, but it is worse than a failing for free men to submit to the dictates of an idiot because he happens to hold the gun which represents power. Give a man power, and even if he says he will wield it to your best interest, he WILL wield it!

What are the facts regarding Hiroshima and Nagasaki sixteen years after? Do you know them? And if you say you do because you read official reports in the newspapers, can you be sure that report is the truth? How can it be the truth when it is government policy today to lie, because the lie is useful as a weapon against the enemy? It is excusable and permissible to lie to the American citizen because we wish to lie to the Russian soldier!

What are the facts about the aftermath of those two first bombs? Does the report in our newspapers agree with that in the Japanese? The answer to that is elementary

- they do NOT!

Have you ever seen in your newspaper the announcement that in Niigata, Japan, after the big 1962 Russian tests, the radiation count was 220,000 per hour? Do you know how far above the permissible level this is? Have you ever heard the expression "Concentrated Heavy Rain Fall"? It is a very common one in Japan, and it means both highly radioactive and highly concentrated (by volume) rainfall. It is the great terror in Japan, because under the onslaught of such rainfalls, the damage to housing is terrific, because houses in Japan are so flimsy. A house constructed to withstand earthquake is a paper shell against flood. In Japan there is no argument (and no governmental assurances) that the atom bomb does not effect the weather. The atom bomb simply DOES effect the weather, and disastrously. It is textbook information - truth. In this country it is denied, in spite of the fact that every meteorologist in the country knows differently. Why does he not speak out, as his counterpart in Japan does? He does not because he fears his dictators in the Pentagon!

Also in Japan a survey of average temperatures has been carried on, and the conclusion reached is that the earth is warming to a degree they call the "death pathway", and they say: "This is the result of nuclear explosions making the air layer uncertain and affecting a change in the earth's magnetism."

It is too bad that you do not read Japanese, and subscribe to Japanese newspapers. If the truth is the truth, it would translate identically whether in English or Japanese. Why is it that the "official" facts contradict each other depending on which government is giving them to its people?

In 1954, we gave what information we had on atomic testing, and the best guesses on its danger and what would happen. Today we read those guesses over and we are amazed at the prophecy contained in them. We find our "thalidomide babies", our weather influences, our "Concentrated Heavy Rain Fall", our official censorship, our intimidation of private citizens, our usurpation of civil liberties by power groups, our milk and food contamination, our waves of new diseases, our rising rate of sterility, and our mad acts of war, our deteriorating morals, both public and private.

We have seen the "tolerance" levels of exposure to radiation raised so many times that we have lost count. We have seen people walking about with radiation sores on their faces and bodies and have been alarmed at the increase in "Carcinoma"(1). We have seen a new generation admitted to have the unremovable seeds of their destruction implanted in their bones, a new element never before known on the earth except in the laboratory, strontium-90 - to say nothing of other elements such as radioactive iodine, fluorine, etc.

Never before in the earth's known history has a child nurtured within his marrow so horrible an enemy to his health and life. Never before has the human animal been menaced by an enemy totally invisible, undetectable by any normal senses. The cave man could flee to his cave and hide from the tiger, but your child and mine has no place to hide, and cannot even see the tiger!

It has been established also, and ignored, that old age is nothing more than tissue degeneration due to atomic radiation. Our life span of 70 years is geared to the normal background radioactivity so much used to allay our fears "because that is no different than the bomb, and it has always been there, and it does not kill us", BUT IT DOES!

Every bit of added radiation cuts down our life span. Science knows this now. But it quibbles by setting the amounts at weeks or months, or at most a few years. Even a slow progression of poison which causes an old age will eventually reach a point where death occurs before maturity, and therefore reproduction, and racial extermination is the result. Have we set in motion the forces that will push us to this fatal point? Have we indeed committed suicide without realizing it? Can we discover if we have not? How will we discover it, and thus relieve our minds of this terror? By continuing to take the bland assurances of those who are totally ignorant whereof they speak? Or should we ask them to cease and desist while we let the best minds among us try to discover the truth? Why should we not proceed on the premise that what has already happened is "bad medicine" and stop swallowing it simply to halt an evil thing where it is and let it go no further (even if some of us might consider it permissible). I, for one, do not consider it permissible to undergo the agony of the past month on a purely personal basis. The bomb is hurting me. I don't want to hurt. I do not propose to accept that hurt at the hands of those who would rule me by arbitrary action to which they have no moral or constitutional right.

It may be that they are right in their decision, but I ask that I be given a chance to share in this decision. If I am to die by suicide, I ask that my hand also be upon the gun that does the job!

I do not mind giving up my life to defend my liberty, but I do not want to give up my liberty to save my life! Especially if my life is to be lost also!

There is much talk among the gentlemen with striped pants as to a test-ban agreement and on-site inspection, and also on the subject of disarmament. But all their talk comes to nothing, and for a very good reason. This policy of secrecy utterly destroys any possibility of agreement.

There are two quotations which are favorites of Americans. One of them is that biblical one: "Know the truth and it shall make you free", and that political one: "An informed people is a free people". In this case, here is the only possible answer to our problem. If all the peoples of the world were properly informed, and were told the truth, we would need no gentlemen in striped pants, no conferences, no governmental action - the people themselves would demand and put into effect total nuclear disarmament and end forever all testing.

When a family is faced by a ravaging tiger, there is no discussion as to whether or not to allow the tiger to eat them; nor is a child thrown to the tiger on the premise that the tiger will be appeased and never more become hungry, thus saving the lives of the family.

If the child is sacrificed, the family of the future will not exist, for he is the family of the future.

There can be but one answer to the predicament that faces us, and that is an end to secrecy, deceit, evasion, unilateral decision, governmental "policy" unknown to the people who are being governed. The constitution recognized that government must be by consent of the governed, and intelligent consent can only be given if full information is available.

The facts regarding the atomic bomb testing and the poisoning of our planet cannot be refuted if they are brought into public light. The testimony of thousands who know the truth would be decisive if they were given a country-wide, world-wide audience, without fear of reprisal in the form of "official denial or official contradiction".

Even if there were no threat of bomb poisoning, the violation of the constitution by this new policy of non-information, secrecy, deliberate lying because it is rationalized that the untruth is a potent weapon in war, hot or cold, is a danger which should be met immediately. The truth is that the world is filled today with traitors in government who make Benedict Arnold look like a piker. Some of these traitors know what they are doing, others are unconscious of the powers that guide them, others are well-meaning but terribly in error. Because this secrecy weapon gives them the power, their errors are foisted upon us. We must be free even from well-meaning fools!

Or is it really too late, and we have killed ourselves, and already we are insane and cannot know the truth even if it is told to us? If so, let us pray that the one scientific premise we haven't mentioned may be true - that the human animal may mutate under the rays of the bomb, and develop the power to adapt to radioactivity, even draw upon it for his life.

There is a saying that two heads are better than one. Perhaps with two heads man may at last learn to live in peace! But this man would prefer not to be left with this last forlorn hope, if there is yet time!

LOW RADIATION CUTS MICE LIFE, FERTILITY

A five year study of desert animals on the Nevada nuclear test site shows constant exposure to low dose radiation cuts the life span by half and fertility by a third.

In the first disclosure of results of an experiment with radiation of a type that survivors of a nuclear war would experience, Norman French said:

"Even such low level radiation hastens the processes of aging, shortens the reproductivity period in females and reduces the number of young per litter."

French, a University of California at Los Angeles ecologist heading the atomic energy commission study, said the conclusions were based on regular censuses and examinations of more than 900 cheek pouched "pocket mice" and hopping "kangaroo mice".

Low Level Radiation

"Most radiation studies have been concerned with the effect on individuals of high level doses, the type they would get immediately after a detonation," French said.

"We set out to learn what happens to whole populations subjected to low level radiation over long periods of time. We are all subject to more radiation - from fallout and medical sources - than our grandparents experienced, but science really knows very little about the long term effects.

"The radiation source used in this experiment, cesium 137, has a long half life, that is, it remains significantly radioactive for decades.

2 X-Rays a Day

"The dosage was calculated at one roentgen per day, equivalent to about two chest X-rays a day - a level people might have to live with for long periods of time after a nuclear war or even after a reactor accident."

The experiment is being made in Rock valley, just inside the southern boundary of the AEC proving grounds and about 70 miles north of Las Vegas. The surrounding mountains contain the radiation within the test site. They also prevent the planned radiation level from being disturbed by occasional venting during underground nuclear testing at Yucca Flats, 15 miles away.

Foxes Kept Out

French and his group erected three 20 acre pens with mesh fencing buried 12 inches deep to keep the rodents in and desert foxes out. The pens are open to the sky.

In the center of one of the pens they put up a 50 foot pole topped by a canister of cesium, designed so that an equal amount of radiation strikes all parts of the pen.

The canister is lowered into a shielded vault once a month so the scientists can go in and examine the tagged and marked rodents.

Live Off Land

The other two pens have been left radiation free for comparison.

The mouse population varies greatly from year to year due to climate changes, but the mice receive no food or water from the scientists. They have to live off the land.

The life span of the mice in the radiation free pens has averaged four to five months. In the irradiated pen, it averages two and one-half months. The average span of fertility - the number of months when a female mouse can reproduce - has been cut by a third in the irradiated pen. The litter size also is smaller as aging is accelerated, but statistics on this are not yet available.

SAYS NUCLEAR TESTS CAUSED BABY DEATHS

A 25 per cent increase in the rate of baby deaths since the beginning of nuclear testing in 1951 "strongly suggests that even a small nuclear war would be the biological end of the present generation," a scientist says.

Dr. Ernest J. Sternglass, a radiation scientist at the University of Pittsburgh, reported his findings recently at a meeting of the Federation of American Scientists at Carnegie-Mellon University.

He said the deaths of infants under one year old increased by 375,000 between 1951 and 1966. The rate of infant mortality, which is growing by 34,000 deaths a year, has fallen slowly since the ratification of the 1963 test ban treaty, he added.

In the foregoing pages you have just read a reprint of an article published six years ago, and in it are references to one published fourteen years ago. Often in SEARCH we publish articles on prophecy. Readers like to be told what is going to happen in the future. Seers like Edgar Cayce and Jeanné Dixon are almost revered. Everybody exclaims over their correct predictions, and conveniently forgets their incorrect predictions. But over the years, in the magazines edited by myself, particularly in editorials and in special articles (such as this one), subjects have been pursued and extrapolated (that means projecting a present-day set of facts into a possible future development of them) which turn out to have been much better and more accurate prophecy than is performed by the "mystics". Extrapolation is nothing mystical. It is largely common sense and shrewd analysis and competent forecasting. That is what we have done in the present case.

However, unlike the Cayce-Dixon type prophecy, which gets a lot of publicity, the prophecy made in these articles is a very hush-hush matter with the news media, largely because it is a terribly hush-hush "secret" with the government. It is because of this "secrecy" that our articles are written - someone must stand up and ask to be counted because this is more than a matter of predicting the future - it is a matter of our personal liberties and rights as citizens of the only country in the world in which the people govern. The trouble is, this "secrecy" is fateful evidence that the governing powers of the people have been abrogated. It is our intention to tell you how this has come about, and why it is vitally important - not just a matter of politics, national security, and "civil" rights.

If you read the foregoing articles and news clippings carefully, you must already know the facts.

But if you haven't fathomed them, we will itemize them as simply as possible:

1. Atom bombs fill the atmosphere with radioactive dust (or ocean salt).

2. This dust floats in the stratosphere for decades, and descends slowly, mostly in the form of the nuclei of raindrops (because without a particle of dust - or salt - no raindrop can form).

3. These radioactive particles are of various kinds, but the principle kinds are strontium-90, radioactive iodine, and some of the heavier elements.

4. These particles, principally strontium, are taken up by growing plants, thus are ingested by eating; transferred to cows' milk, and drunk by adults and especially, children; they are breathed into the lungs via the air; they fall on our skin and sometimes are not carefully washed off.

5. Strontium is chemically akin to calcium - so akin that the human body, in its need for calcium for bone and teeth maintenance, cannot distinguish between the two, and therefore will deposit strontium in the bones and teeth; also in joints and tissues where calcium often causes such things as bursitis, arthritis, etc.

6. Since the strontium is radioactive, having a half-life of many years (even centuries), it emits rays which damage tissue cells and even alter genes and chromosomes. In the bones, it radiates the marrow where red blood cells are formed, radiates the cells themselves, and can damage them or mutate them into cancer (leukemia) cells. In the placenta, the same radiations can injure the foetus, particularly in the early weeks, causing deformities, leukemia even in the unborn infant, and to a very alarming extent, cause abortions (miscarriages).

7. Despite official proclamations by the government, which weigh the business of war against the individual right and decides that it is better for thousands to die of leukemia, abortion and mutations than for millions to die in atomic blasts during an attack, there does exist a "point of no return", a point where the "level of tolerance" becomes "intolerable". Some scientists have estimated that 1000 bombs, either exploded all at once, or singly, might achieve that intolerable level. No one knows exactly how many it is, but there IS SUCH A POINT, and it would CERTAINLY COME in an atom war. Actually, there is no tolerable amount of radiation. ANY radiation is too much. The government apologists tell us there is a "normal" background of radiation always present in the rocks of Earth and the atmosphere which amounts to a "number" of roentgens per year, and since the levels present from the bombtests fall within this range (and the "normal" radiation is "tolerable"), this also is "tolerable". But it is NOT. Although disease and accident play a part in determining the lifespan of man, death is really caused by radiation, and radiation alone. With disease and accident included, we have, today, an average lifespan of seventy years. Without disease and accident it might be a hundred years. But without radioactivity, it would be A THOUSAND YEARS OR MORE, or even approaching immortality. Whether we want immortality in the flesh is an academic argument, however, we would all like to live healthy lives for a thousand years!

8. Strontium in the bones is gradually eliminated (just as is calcium - which is why it needs constant replacement in the diet), but we have, today, a new element which is disastrous. In our efforts to prevent tooth decay, we are introducing fluorides into our water supply, and the effect of combining fluorides with strontium is to "lock" the strontium chemically into the bone structure, thus it cannot be eliminated, and radiation of the blood becomes a thing of permanence all through life. Naturally, there is a varying amount of fluorides in natural water, depending on the location, and thus some of the "locking in" of strontium is unavoidable, except by drinking distilled water. But to make sure that everybody has the strontium locked into their bones is sheer folly.

9. When our government talks about "atomic bomb defense" and says we must spend 90 billion dollars to install an ABM system (anti-ballistics missile defense to destroy incoming bombs), we are talking sheer nonsense. The ghastly truth is that we can never have an atom war without committing world-wide suicide. What we have is a "deterrent" in our "overkill" of bombs. Both sides know that neither can attack without dying themselves, but both sides are arming anyway, because IN COMBINATION with our space exploration, which both sides hope to achieve to the extent that the leaders can repair to the moon or another planet, then use the bomb (if the blackmail threat of it does now work - and it WOULD), those madmen who speak of "tolerance levels" feel they have a "hide-out" from which they can emerge after the radioactivity level falls once more to "tolerable" levels, and take over the world they have "conquered". ANY man who has dreams of world conquest is MAD! Thus it is that the wars of conquest in the planning stage are recognized by the planners as "conventional weapons" warfare. If and when the wars come, they will be conventional, and the bomb will always remain only a blackmailing threat. Both sides realize, however, that leaders are often mad (Hitler, Alexander, etc.) and madmen can and will hurl the bomb. Therefore, because the problem of atomic war is largely academic, we have only the recourse of making ourselves "conventionally" strong enough to remain free people. Wasting our money on atomic defense is not the way.

The conclusion which applies to the subject at hand is not warfare at all, but the problem of the radioactive poisoning of our environment to the point where the present level of damage being done (as an example, in abortions and leukemia) does not reach that mind-numbing point of no return. That is why our government called a "testing moratorium" (treacherously violated by the Russians), and why now we want a "non-proliferation" treaty to prevent still more nations from making the repetitive tests we have already made, possibly already near an "intolerable" level, which will CERTAINLY raise the level to that fateful point of no return. If Israel tests, and Africa tests (its many advanced nations CAN do it!), and South American nations, Japan (not likely - they KNOW what horror the atom bomb brings), Indonesia, etc. - the poisoning of the environment we live in would be inevitable. The non-proliferation treaty is stupid in the light of politics, as everybody can understand; but it is not being done for political reasons but out of CERTAIN KNOWLEDGE and FEAR that there must be no more large-scale testing, or we are CERTAINLY doomed, from our very beginnings in the womb. If we lower the "longevity" level of our lives to "puberty", we will never reproduce, and we will cease to exist as a species on this planet. Or if we sterilize ourselves through radioactivity in our childhood, we will cease to exist on this planet. Or if we poison our food and water so that it cannot be used to support our lives - we will die of starvation.

Don't fear the bomb - only in madness will it be used. But DO fear the one element in "pollution" which is being kept very hush-hush, the radioactive pollution of our planet. Yes, clean up our rivers and lakes or we will suffocate in our own waste products - but DO control the pollution of radioactivity, both from tests and from industrial usage. If we do not recognize the truth you have read in all these foregoing pages, if we do not force the governments of the world to give us the frank facts they DO know, we will certainly destroy ourselves.

And just in case we cannot stop the poison's spread, or it is already too late, let's concentrate on our space exploration efforts, and perhaps, when the day comes when we face that final threat of extinction because of the folly of the liars in our governments who weigh our gradual death against our instant death in atom war, we will be able to escape to a world still clean enough to live in - where nature's "tolerable" limits are more in keeping with those originally fixed on this planet by its creator. Once we lived to be nearly a thousand years old. Then the bubble of insulating water that surrounded our planet broke, and admitted the radiation of outer space, and our lives are now limited to the "three-score-and-ten" of the modern bible. We can't afford to drop that figure any further.

But we are forced to make a prophecy which seems unavoidable: As things stand now - we WILL take that fatal step if we do not face the truth, if we do not NOW insist that government BY the people, FOR the people, and OF the people be restored to us by our elected leaders, who are betraying us in their mistaken acceptance of the policy of our military men whose scientific knowledge is so meagre that they have the gall to assure us that "it is better to die slowly than swiftly"; and to deny the fact any high-school student can find in his physics textbooks - the atom is a killer; there is no "tolerance" level!

A Rival for

NEFERTITI

Queen Nefertiti, the wife of the Pharaoh Amenhotep IV (Ikhnaton), was one of the most beautiful women in the world, as evidenced by a portrait bust made more than 3,000 years ago. But the proud queen had a rival.

Ever since 1907, when archeologists uncovered a mysterious, gold-embellished tomb in the ancient burial grounds of the Egyptian pharaohs, scholars have been trying to decide who was buried there. Then in 1922, at El Amarn, located a long way from the tomb on the Nile, a luxurious palace was found. According to inscriptions, it belonged to Mi Yot, daughter of Nefertiti. But a Soviet student of ancient Egypt, Yuri Perepelkin, had doubts about the authenticity of the inscription when he saw it close up on a recent trip there. What made him suspicious was the careless, untidy way the hieroglyphs were placed. Would this have been done to last for millennia? As Perepelkin searched the ruins of the ancient palace, he came upon the remains of an inscription that must originally have appeared on the facade of the building. It was a name - Kiya. Mentally putting two and two together, the scholar hastened to the site of the tomb on the Nile. There he examined the inscription and found what had been troubling archeologists for years, a half-obliterated name under some later hieroglyphs. It was Kiya.

Further inspection of the inside of the tomb yielded inscriptions proclaiming that Kiya was the beloved of the Pharaoh who had had a palace built for her. Recovered from the grave were four magnificent alabaster vessels. The cover of each was decorated with the sculptured head of a woman. The face, with wide cheekbones, was fine with large dark, slanting eyes. "There is something inspired about that face, despite its auster-

IMPORTANT NOTICE

TO ANCIENT ATLANTIC BUYERS!

By the time you read this, your book will either be in your hands or in the mail! Shipping began on March 3. If you have not received your copy as you read this, wait ten days, then notify us. It is very possible that in the long interval from the date of your order to delivery, you might have changed your address, and your book came back to us. We want everybody to get their book! When you see it, you'll know why. We aren't bragging a bit when we say everyone who has seen the book says it is magnificent. We consider it the top achievement of a long publishing career, and we're very happy about it.

However, we regret to notify those of you who did not purchase under our reduced advance payment offers, that now that the book has been delivered, LESS THAN 200 COPIES REMAIN UNSOLD! That is why we have removed the advertisement from our pages. Because of the high cost of production of this book, we find ourselves without the funds to reprint perhaps for a long time, even years.

Thus, if you are one of those who decided to wait until publication and pay the full price, we must state that these 200 copies will go on a first-come first-served basis, and after that, all orders will be returned. The price on these 200 copies will be list price of $22.50 (plus 36¢ postage, for a total of $22.86). No sales to bookstores, and no discounts. Don't let a week go by, as we assure you, you'll be too late.

Nothing as frustrating as this has ever happened to us before, but those are the facts. Nevertheless, we are personally delighted with the book, and know you lucky ones who managed to get a copy will be too. It is worth the three years of working into the wee hours of the morning, worrying and fretting, placating impatient customers, and finally winding up in the hospital completely worn out, and a victim of flu and pneumonia. But one thing you can bet on - we'll NEVER attempt so colossal a job again!

IT HAPPENED TO ME

THE RING OF LIGHT

By Ann Chamberlain

My husband, David, died of a heart attack the morning of December 24th, 1966. We had been married ten years and ten months, almost to the day. Before we were married David told me, to be honest, he had been committed to a state hospital thirteen times, sometimes with cause, sometimes without cause. I married him because I was lonely, and very poor, and he was so lonely he wanted to die. I prayed that the right one would be sent to me, and saw David in a dream, after which he traveled the three thousand miles to Miami to find me.

At the time we both first 'saw' each other, we both saw a ring of light appear above the head of the other, as a sign to us that we were meant to be together. Knowing these things influenced me greatly in making the decision to marry him, and yet, something told me that about ten years would be our time span . . . and I took eight months previous to our marriage to try to prepare him for being with me. I am not the easiest person to live with, despite my desire to be more patient and understanding than average.

Being under David's influence (because of my sympathies for him) and trying to keep my own balance at the same time was a constant test of ability to endure. A time came when there had to be a turning point, - one of us would completely overcome the other, or be lost in the attempt. I had to cut myself off from him, and while I still wished the best for him I could not continue to give to him of myself, and so his heart broke. I am not completely myself, as I was before I met David, and perhaps all the best of the strengths I could hope to have, are gone, too. Why did I believe in that Light? What was the source of it . . . good, or not good?

MOTHER'S WARNING

By L. T. Lewis

My mother's death left me very lonely and I was anxious to have my father make his home with me, but he insisted on living alone in the house where he and my mother had spent so many happy years. As it was only two blocks from my own home, I did not insist, feeling that I was near enough to look after him.

He often carried large sums of money with him, as the banks closed too early for his deposits. This worried me a great deal, for I felt that he was in constant danger of being held up and robbed.

On this particular day, while I was taking a nap, I heard my mother call my name several times in succession. I dropped off to sleep again, but I was troubled about it. I did not mention my experience to anyone, and retired that evening, at my usual hour. I had telephoned my father begging him to spend the night at my home, but he said he would be very late, as he had some extra work to do.

I had slept several hours, when I heard my mother calling to me again. Startled, I did not move when suddenly the door to my room opened, and my mother stood beside my bed. She repeated my father's name, over and over.

I awakened my husband and told him about my mother. Dressing as fast as possible, we hurried to father's house. We rang the doorbell, again and again, but there was no answer. We ran to the back door but it was locked. My husband picked up a piece of two-by-four, broke the glass in the door, and we crawled through the opening.

We turned on the lights and started to my father's bedroom. It was necessary to pass the living room. We looked in and there, seated at his big reading table with his loved books and magazines, we found him.

He was slumped down in his chair, and a gash in his head, from which a trickle of blood was flowing, told of the cowardly attack. Apparently, death had been instantaneous. Examination showed that he had been dead only a short time. The house had been ransacked. Every clue was closely followed, but the murderer has not yet been apprehended. I firmly believe my mother will reveal him to me.

TWITCHELL predicts the FUTURE

by James Walker

PREDICTIONS FOR 1969

1. The first real cracks in the Russian empire will start showing up in the late spring of '69 when several of her satellites will refuse to be part of the Red block.

2. The next big communist drive for domination of governments will be in the central and south America states. But this will be in the form of increased guerilla activity which will try to overthrow those nations which have a republican form of rule.

3. The schism in the world orthodox churches will continue to grow because the people are no longer interested in social reform and other type of programs which lead them away from God.

4. The courts will start putting blame for riots and social upheavals on the leaders of various organizations and rendering decisions which will create heavy fines and rebuilding of damaged property.

Sri Paul Twitchell

5. It will be found that the assassination of Martin Luther King, Jr., was part of a red plot to put race against race and create a wider division between the two races.

6. The news media and U.S. government officials are going to be shocked when it's learned that Ho Chin Minh has long been dead and they are dealing with only a group of officials on the lower echelon, who have refused to inform their own people of this.

7. New oil fields will be developed in Utah and Northern Nevada which will almost equate the southwest fields in this country, in production of oil.

8. The Civil Rights movement will start losing out because of a lack of interest in its main objectives, and the college and university officials will crack down on the college rioters heavily.

9. One of the greatest spiritual books to be published will be the "Tiger's Fang". The sale of this book will outsell any other book in this same field during the next decade.

10. A heavy quake will shake the far north, in upper Alaska during the late spring of the year.

11. Cary Grant and several other well-known actors in the older age bracket will be in the news again as a group who have formed a new production film company for new pictures and promotion of their own selves. This will be a protest against the standard promotion of younger stars who haven't gained the acting ability and experience versus the older stars.

12. There will be a complete change in the government of England during middle of year. The labor government will be thrown out and the conservative part voted in again.

13. Scientists will discover that the UFO and flying saucers phenomena will turn out to be psychic facts and nothing more. That they do not have anything to do with this material world. This will be the reason that some people can see them and others cannot!

14. The world will wake up to find that ECK is the leading spiritual body today. That it is making inroads in church memberships and other religious bodies throughout the world.

15. One of the biggest discoveries of buried wealth will be the lost treasure of Atahualpa, last emperor of the Incas empire, in the Llaganate mountains of central Ecuador. Buried 450 years ago to keep out of the hands of the Spanish conquistadors, it will be estimated between $50 to $100 million in gold, jewels, and various religious artifacts.

16. The war in Vietnam will sizzle out because the Russians cannot afford to loan Hanoi more military goods and money. The troubles at home will stop her from expanding the Russian empire.

17. The hippy movement will fade out like completely and only the rebellious will be left who are interested in nothing but destruction, rioting, and drugs.

18. The Nationalist Chinese troops will attempt a landing on the main land of Red China some time during late summer.

19. Stocks and bonds will be on a general climb through the year, holding their own, and making gains in some areas.

20. Castro will gradually lose power and eventually be removed from office during the year and that poor country will turn to the U.S. for help.

21. President Johnson will find new troubles, but this time within his family for domestic problems will arise between Luci and Pat Nugent. He will attempt to help resolve them.

22. The people of the United States will have a turnabout on our foreign policy and will start backing the administration on its foreign policy. A get tough policy will be in vogue.

23. A new world spiritual leader will be acclaimed in the summer months. This time he will be an Occidental. Many will believe that he is the new messiah of the age. His age although unknown he will appear to be a man in his latter thirties.

24. Riots and disturbances will shake the Oriental nations. The Arab war with Israel will break out again in a hot war.

THE BOMB TESTS WILL PUT US UNDER WATER IN THE NEXT CENTURY

Whether we like it or not the world is going to experience a terrible destruction by earthquakes in the next century because of the Atom bomb tests that are being carried out today, and most of the land masses will sink into the seas like the legendary Atlantis in antediluvian times.

According to Sri Paul Twitchell, spiritual head of ECKANKAR, Ancient Science of Soul Travel world wide movement, there will be radical changes in the land masses of the Earth planet in the year 2085 A.D., by a series of devastating earthquakes and deluges as described in the Bible.

The underground gas chambers deep within the Earth will break through the land crusts, weakened by extensive atom bomb tests and most of the familiar terrain we know today which is divided into nations will go down in fire and terror.

Parts of America, Africa, British Isles, Europe, Asia and Japan will be completely submerged and new continents will rise out of the depths of the seas again, says Twitchell.

The cause of these upheavals will be due to the eruptions of gas chambers deep in the Earth caused by the use of the atom bomb underground tests. These tests weaken the upper crusts of the Earth so that the gas chambers will break through and cause the terrible havoc in the world.

Twitchell also predicts a world wide famine in the latter part of this century, but says that it will not touch the United States as much as the other nations.

Twitchell who is the subject of an unusual biography "In My Soul, I Am Free", uses the ancient method of the ECK-Vidya - the Akasa Science of Prophecy - to read the future. It is an old esoteric method he learned under the ECK Master, Rebazar Tarzs, in Tibet.

The ECK-Vidya is said to be more accurate than astrology, clairvoyance, or the method used by psychic readers for the future. It can foretell the deeper and more subtle events of life, including that of any individual, even to the all inclusive prophecy of the moment, by moment mental or physical actions to take place in one's life.

QUESTIONS, ANSWERS, AND OPINIONS

Dear Ray (and Brothers & Sisters)

Is there still a Faithist Products? If so, where? I've been trying to get a Faithist Medal to use as a medallion. Since medallions are in fad anyway, I might as well have a Faithist Medal to show others my interest.

If anyone knows where Faithist Products is, please contact me or write the "Oahspe Circle". Thank you.

Dear Rap:

Some years ago, when I was inquiring here and there myself about Oahspe study groups, I received some literature from a few of them and was quite surprised to find most had an anti-Christian attitude.

I wrote a number of letters back, trying to ascertain the reason for such an attitude, since I had read Oahspe through thoughtfully, and had found no basis for it. None gave me any satisfaction at all, and I wrote each group to explain my own interpretation of the Oahspe references to Joshu and Looeamong. I doubt my letters had any effect, but I do hope students of Oahspe (Faithists) have changed since those days, and given their time to positive teachings.

Certainly the text of Oahspe indicates that Joshu was at least involved in the beginnings of the Christian religion, if not identified with Jesus. And certainly "the false Kriste" of the text is not identified with Jesus Christ. To have a false anything, there must be a true one to be false to! It seems to me almost obvious that the false Kriste is the one people worship, having set him up in doctrines basically subverting the teachings of Jesus himself. We were told in no uncertain words, when one character fell down to worship him, as found in the last chapter of our Bible, "See thou do it NOT. Worship God and him only!" It is made crystal clear in Oahspe that man's great mistake in religion is to worship a teacher, as he has done repeatedly.

Dear Sirs:

I have been reading OAH SPE - from loan from the Carnegie Library. It has 910 pages - Ray Palmer's name is affixed at the last page, dated June 12, 1960. Would there be any difference in your new edition outside the having 928 pages? It also advises one to avail oneself of all additional evidence now preserved in the archives of the (Essenes of Kosmon) and that more detailed information can be obtained from the Publisher of this reproduction of the 1882 edition, Palmer Pub., Inc., Amherst, Wis.

Could you send me this. I am extremely interested in the subject. Also any other material you would recommend pertaining to same.

Mr. Kellner

Pittsburgh, (10) Pa.

- Our edition contains 910 pages, not 928, which was a typographical error. The Essenes of Kosmon, formerly located at Montrose, Colorado is now disbanded, and we have no means to direct you to the information referred to in our edition. Sorry. - Rap.

WHAT IS A FAITHIST?

By DOROTHY MCGONEGLE

FOR A BOOK that has given so many answers to so many far-reaching, profound questions of Truth-seekers, Oahspe, the Kosmon Bible, has consistently raised, rather than settles the question, "What is a Faithist?" Oahspe does after all, promulgate the concept of naming all those who have through the past 75,000 years of mankind's history on this planet, for the present, and those who will in the next 69,000 years, have faith in the Creator only, as "Faithists". Why then the paradoxical question?

There are several reasons for this. The most important being that Oahspe is not the basis for a "religion", orthodox, new, or otherwise. In my opinion it is more a "way of life". There are no leaders, and we are not expecting any to appear, now or in the future. We have no churches, temples, missionaries, ministers, or persons in authority over others. We have no instructors to teach us the principles of Oahspe nor to explain the advanced science within its pages of Cosmogony, because we have no schools. There is no place to go, nor people to join that are Faithists. We are, in fact, the most disorganized group of "religious" people you can imagine. Yet, Oahspe tells us that Faithists will in the not too distant future, become the most numerous people in all the world!

Obviously then, Oahspe is so complete within itself, one who accepts and follows this wonderful book, does not have a need for further explanation of its teachings on religious, spiritual, dietary, historical, scientific, and prophetic subjects, but only a burning desire to affiliate with other Faithists. Does this mean to imply that only those who are directed and inspired to read Oahspe are, and will be, the Faithists? Not at all. Oahspe tells us that in time thousands and thousands of good people will "hear" the Creator's Angels inspiring them to "come out of Uz (darkness), and into the light of the Creator", and that the "Signs of the Times" will show us when this is happening.

Oahspe says in the seventh Era, which is called Kosmon, and now at hand, people would turn away from war and recognize the universal brotherhood of all mankind. Not only here, but all over the world we can see those concepts growing constantly. In addition, Oahspe tells us old ideas, teachings, philosophy, and theology that does not recognize the prevalence of the New Age that is upon us, would begin to die out. That this is happening would be superfluous of me to point out. Dwindling memberships in orthodox churches stand as their own witnesses.

Now then, are the war protesters, religious skeptics, and other adversaries of the "Establishment" made up of those who have found Oahspe? No again. Oahspeans are, on the contrary, very peaceful, quiet living people of all ages, seldom, if ever, demonstrating or voicing their opinions aloud.

Oahspe also tells us of the important part the American Indians, particularly the Hopi Indians of the 4-Corners Are, will play in ushering in this new age of peace and harmony amongst all peoples of the earth. But do they know and follow Oahspe? No! They have their own Prophecy and are fulfilling their destiny as foretold to their ancient forefathers thousands of years ago.

In compiling the Faithist Directory I received letter after letter saying, "I accept Oahspe in its entirety, but I don't know if I am a Faithist or not as I don't follow the diet suggested in it". Or, "I've tried to stop smoking and can't so do I qualify to be a Faithist?" Also, "I try to be a Faithist but I don't think I'm sure what it means to be one". Quite a few started out telling me they weren't Faithists due to personal faults but ended by leaving the decision up to me as to whether they could be listed in the Directory, making it clear they wanted to be so classified and listed. There were some who felt they and all others must attain a state of perfection before calling themselves Faithists.

So more often than not, even Oahspeans do not always think of themselves as Faithists. But it does show us the kind of book Oahspe is. It was written for the individual, who is capable of independent thought, able to evaluate new ideas and suggestions. For the one who likes to "make up his own mind" concerning religious matters, but still requires logical and scientific "proof" of all things.

This description fairly well fits Oahspeans and it also fits the majority of those responding to the call of the New Age. Therefore, are we to assume only those people are Faithists? What does Oahspe have to say, if anything, in regards to whom are the Faithists in Kosmon?

On page 750, of the Palmer edition (Amherst Press), Verse 10 quotes the Creator in proclaiming, "Though he (man) accept none of the ancient doctrines, nor rites, nor ceremonies, nor Gods, nor Lords, nor Saviors, but strive for Me in doing good unto others, he shall be My chosen, even though he accept not My name". Does this answer the question, "What is a Faithist?", or is the argument just beginning?

BALLS OF FIRE

THE INTELLIGENT-LIKE

ANTICS OF BALL LIGHTNING

by Alex Saunders

JUST AS HIS first Ace Star pocket book, "INVISIBLE HORIZONS", showed marked excellence, so also does Vincent H. Gaddis' second Dell pocket book, MYSTERIOUS FIRES AND LIGHTS.

It is the ball lightning that held my interest the most. Gaddis discusses them at considerable length, and imparts the following information.

Meteorologists have become nail biters over the rare phenomena of "ball" (or "globe") lightning, also known as "fire-balls". Unlike ordinary lightning bolts, which have been artificially created in the laboratory with ten-million volt flashes, ball lightning cannot be likewise duplicated. They act differently by:

- (1) Disregarding metallic or grounded conductors.
- (2) Avoiding pools of water.
- (3) Moving slowly in comparison with lightning bolts.
- (4) Changing shape while being observed.
- (5) Existing for an average of five seconds, and sometimes up to five full minutes.

Another variance is in description. Always luminous, their diameters vary from a few inches to a foot, and their colors are of a wide range. They usually perform silently, and expire by either exploding or simply fading out of sight. Also, they have been photographed by scientists. Professor J.C. Jensen is one of many who has done this.

Give thought to the true experiences listed below:

April, 1924.

A luminous globe of grapefruit size entered an occupied bedroom through an open window, moved about and left by the same means of entry. This was during a storm, and the pop-eyed occupant was a Northwestern University student, Miss Harriet Allyn.

April, 1931.

A Reading Railroad train stood motionless in the Atlantic City, New Jersey station. The rear coach in which six passengers were present were struck numb when a ball "the size of a baseball" entered the door. It exploded harmlessly.

1931.

As though thinking of itself as a golfball, a yellow fireball (about two inches in diameter) rolled through a Jamaica, Long Island home as a transfixed girl watched.

August 10, 1937.

Mary Ethel Hunneman of Fitzwilliam, New Hampshire, saw a ball of lightning during an afternoon storm. It was a "round, bronze, glistening ball with gleaming rays shooting from the top and sides; by its beauty and brilliance reminding one of an ornament at the top of a Christmas tree." As the ball descended to seemingly strike her house, all fuses blew out.

March 11, 1946.

Globular lightning in the shape of "blue balls of fire" appeared during a "peculiar thunderstorm" and broke twenty windows in a residential area of Joliet, Illinois.

March 6, 1952.

While an electrical storm swept Santa Clara County, California, fireballs not only bounced along power lines, but through San Jose houses as well. This also happened in Gilroy, twenty-eight miles south of San Jose.

In her Kansas City, Missouri, home Mrs. Lillian Mack heard a sound like "crushing glass" during an afternoon thunderstorm. Into her room shot an object about two feet long and one inch in diameter. While hovering, its shape changed to that of a ball. Half a minute later it dissolved, and while doing so the sound of breaking glass became audible . . . "but no glass was broken . . . sparks flew from the falling dust-like stuff and the (object) looked like hot metal."

This case is odd because normally ball lightning operates noiselessly. As Gaddis points out, the sound of breaking glass is similar to the sparking sound of high-voltage electricity.

Alone in her kitchen, Mrs. Doris Will of Cheltenham, England, was watching a thunderstorm.

Suddenly she had the feeling that she herself was being watched. She turned. There, behind her, was a fireball. She ran screaming through the dining room and headed for the stairs to the second floor. Not only did the ball follow her, but, apparently playful, it passed her in the stairwell.

In sheer confusion, she continued up the stairs, following the ball. At the top, the ball entered a room where her two brothers were lying on a bed. The ball streaked out of the open window as it expired with a "crash like thunder".

The famous French astronomer, Camille Flammarion, tells of the antics of numerous lightning balls which accomplished the following.

(A) Pushed open a door to enter a house, (B) Exploded and killed a kitten on a girl's lap without harming the girl, (C) Entered a bedroom to slightly singe the pajamas of a bedded woman.

In Marseilles during 1898 (here we are given an actual date by Flammarion) "a fireball entered a room, advanced toward a young girl who was seated on a table, slowly arose and circled around the girl, then darted toward a hole in the ceiling that had been made for a stovepipe. It tore its way through glued paper that covered the unused hole, moved up the chimney, and exploded as it emerged in the open air."

Two more accounts are worth quoting from MYSTERIOUS FIRES AND LIGHTS.

First. "In another case a fiery glove appeared at the top of a tree, descended branch by branch and moved slowly across a farmyard, carefully avoiding pools of water. It then came to the door of a stable where two children were standing. One of the children kicked it with his foot and the ball vanished with a terrific explosion. The two children were uninjured, but several animals in the stable were killed."

Second. "Once a lightning ball came down the chimney of a house in Salagnac, France, and into a room where there were three women and a child. The ball rolled along the floor into an adjoining kitchen, passed close to and harmlessly past the feet of a young peasant, into still another room, and finally into a small stable. There it passed through or very close to some straw without igniting it, and touched a pig as it disappeared, killing the pig."

Gaddis advocates the notion of atmospheric "electro-animals" as a possible explanation for the decidedly curious antics of at least some lightning balls. Their manner, at times, displays the behavior of shyness and a harmless mischievousness.

Yes, curiosity seems to be a distinct characteristic when inanimate objects - as well as humans - are encircled by globular lightning, and houses and other structures are entered and explored. In what can only be described as stubborn determination, lightning balls have been seen to enter houses by contracting in front of keyholes, then pass through and expand on the other side.

A low order of intelligence is revealed, with an independent will, and they act like inquisitive and playful animals. They exhibit either innate intelligence or control by intelligence at possibly an animal level.

Another interesting aspect is this. Though animals such as cats, dogs and hogs have been killed by ball lightning, there is not one single case on record of them having caused death to people. Humans may be injured by them, but only very slightly.

Actually, humans seem to be avoided, and especially is this true of children. Not one account exists of children ever receiving the slightest injury.

As for their home, it has been theorized to be in Earth's rarified atmosphere, or perhaps space itself.

"In the electrical fields of a thunderstorm," writes Gaddis, "they can enter the range of our limited sight and sound. After brief visits they must return to their invisible, natural habitat, and their temporary vehicles explode or fade away."

The term "fireball" covers a large range of fiery phenomena. Another type (not ball lightning which requires, as we just read, an electrified atmosphere in which to appear within our visual range) display some of the characteristics of ball lightning.

Curiosity is shown. And mischievousness. They enjoy teasing and playing pranks - or so it would seem. These distinctive balls have even been fired upon, as is disclosed in the next case.

Beaver County, Oklahoma, was the homestead of William Bathlot. This farmer had observed "ghost lights" more than once, and described them as "yellow and about the size of a toy balloon." In fact, so frequent was their appearance in earlier days that pioneer residents ignored them. Cow ponies and horses were frightened by these lights which appeared and disappeared at will.

One autumn evening in 1905 found Bathlot and his hired hand looking for a lost cow. Bathlot carried his double-barrelled shotgun. During the stillness of the dry air (note the non-mention of stormy skies), a globe of light silently appeared just before them. They stopped and watched it for awhile. Their attempts to walk around it were thwarted as it moved over to head them off. In walking forward, it backed up. When they retreated, it advanced.

Hovering about eighteen inches above the ground, this prankish ball of light some twelve feet away was both transparent and silent. Every move of the two men was persistently checked. Bathlot finally raised his shotgun to his shoulder and fired point-blank with both barrels. The light went out.

A later search at the spot uncovered nothing unusual.

Suprising as it may seem, these mysterious balls have saved lives.

The next case involves three men, R.B. Davis and Tilden Davis were brothers, the former from Cedar Key, Florida, and the latter from Chiefland. The third party was Oliver Holmes, a retired rail-roader.

One evening early in 1954 the three set out by motor boat from a Hall River camp for Cedar Key on the Gulf Coast. When sudden strong winds churned up the waves, their boat began to ship water, then finally capsized.

The outboard motor was released and sunk to keep the craft afloat. This was R.B. Davis's idea, an experienced fisherman. The men clung to the overturned boat, and as it tossed and drifted in the darkness, they lost all sense of direction.

It was after midnight when a strange object appeared distantly in the form of a red light that moved silently back and forth as if to catch their attention. The men produced a paddle by breaking loose a seat of the boat. Turns were taken to paddle directly for the light. But it proved elusive, and remained ahead of them, moving at all times. Mystified as they were, they followed it goggedly.

The sigh of relief the trio must have heaved when they felt a reef underneath their feet can be readily understood. This was just prior to dawn, and, with the approach of daylight, they reached land.

Rube Allyn, a reporter of the St. Petersburg Times who brought this true story to the public, added the words: "And they never did locate the source of the light."

One of the strangest cases concerning globes of light was told by Charles Fitzhugh Talman. Now deceased, he had long been associated with the United States weather Bureau as a meteorologist.

The incident happened in England, on the south coast, at Ringstead Bay. The air was sultry on this particular summer afternoon (undated) and the distant sky was occasionally lit up by sheet lightning.

In this setting two ladies (unnamed) walked along a cliff edge. "Suddenly" (certainly the story is worth quoting in full) "they noticed numerous globes of light, the size of billiard balls, surrounding them on all sides. They seemingly appeared from out of the atmosphere, moving up and down. Some of the globes came within a few inches of the observers, but they always eluded their grasp. At one time 'thousands apparently enveloped them'. Finally they faded away.'

Were these objects globe lightning? Gaddis thinks there could be a possible kinship because of the sultry and charged atmospheric conditions.

Another thought expressed by Gaddis will be used to end this article about the baffling phenomena known as ball lightning. And that is that all attempts at an explanation in terms of current scientific knowledge meet with dismal and exasperating failure.

FREEZING PEOPLE

EVELYN MC KEEVER

SOME VIEWPOINTS (including Phyllis Diller's)
ON THE
PROLONGING OF LIFE THROUGH FREEZING.

DR. JAMES H. BEDFORD of Los Angeles arranged with the Cryonics Society of Phoenix, Arizona, to have his body frozen as his life ebbed away. The process took six hours to complete and the Cryonics Society estimates Dr. Bedford has an "extremely good" chance of being successfully restored to life when a cure is discovered for cancer, the disease of which the doctor was terminally ill.

This noteworthy event caused a lot of serious thought on the subject of prolonging ones life through a series of freezings. Perhaps, even, immortality can be achieved in this manner. A number of movie stars were asked to voice their opinions of freezing and the opinion I liked best was Phyllis Diller's. She said: "The only reason I would want to come back is to see the progress that has been made in, say the 2,000 years I'd been flaked out. Not the wine, women and song bit, that's always the same anyway, but the technology and everything else would be so fantastic." Phyllis went on to say: "I would certainly hate to come back and be all alone, though. But then, I make friends easily and I'm sure I wouldn't be lonely." Phyllis ended by commenting that she would like to meet Paul Revere, if freezing had been going on for centuries, since he had a little "dash" to him.

How do you feel about freezing? Would you want to come back from the dead, a stranger in an unknown future world?

What if after they bring you back you are dismayed by the changes in the world? As Dante wrote: "This is truth the poet sings, that a sorrow's crown of sorrows is remembering happier things."

Would Paul Revere be happy with the America of today? I'm positive he would not. There is a psychological point of no return beyond which we can not go without committing ourselves irrevocably to becoming an entirely new personality. Our selves, adapted to the future would not even be able to recall our present selves which instigated its continuation. We would have had to become born anew in the future age or sit around like an antique, good for nothing but to satisfy an occasional curious eye. The ratio between our Twentieth Century selves and let us say our Twenty-Second Century selves, would equal our prenatal and postnatal selves. I can not imagine anyone except an anesthetist desiring such a form of immortality. Such an immortalized person would have no historical background he could be aware of consciously and his former (now present) self would have become material to be stored in the personal and collective unconscious. What is attractive about giving up one's conscious awareness to become material for the dark mysterious unconscious? We may have a great opportunity today to save ourselves from the maw of our advanced technology by exercising a bit of wisdom before plunging into a negative eternity. In our times we must graduate from our heretofore one-dimensional concepts, where one cause, for example, produces one effect, to the realization that the joint action of several distinct causes can produce one effect as can one cause give rise to more than one effect. The chains of causation can be branched, and also may have junctions with each other. Freezing Fred Blotz in 1968 does not necessarily mean the unfrozen, or defrozen Fred Blotz of 3068 would be or could remain the same person. Saved from cancer only to be relegated as an Entity or Identity to a dark dungeon where to be held prisoner forever, as the unconscious memories of a newly evolved Fred Blotz. And so instead of preserving yourself you would be destroying yourself by freezing. Destroying yourself in the sense of going from a hard-won conscious awareness of Self to an ignoble layer of mulch supporting the conscious awareness of a self whom you can never know or understand, (the new Fred Blotz) your chances for personal glory as an evolved spiritual self lost forever. Truly Christ's words ring out loud and clear, "He who saves his life will lose it and he who loses his life will save it." Meaning, of course, losing the unconscious-bound body and gaining possession of the superconscious-bound soul. It is for this we meditate and pray. It is for this we sacrifice. Christ said, "I am the door" - meaning He, as spiritual consciousness, was acting as an entry way, a passage, through which we could pass to reach the positive eternity where we would exist forever unshackled by earthly memories, superconsciously aware of our oneness with God. "God is a Spirit," says the Bible, "and they that worship Him must worship Him in spirit and in truth." "Out of the depths have I delivered thee" says our Wayshower, and when we see the spiritual (non-material) world we will realize how great the depths were. Perhaps the difference between our making the right choice is in our desire to listen with the inner ears for Christ's words, "I am the door." As He said, "My sheep hear my voice, and I know them, and they follow me; and I give unto them eternal life; and they shall never perish, neither shall any man pluck them out of my hand."

"The encumbering mortal molecules, called man, vanish as a dream; but man born of the great Forever, lives on, God-crowned and blest," teaches Mary Baker Eddy. "The baptism of Spirit, or final immersion of human consciousness in the infinite ocean of Love, is the last scene of the corporeal sense. This omnipotent act drops the curtain on material man and mortality. After this, man's identity or consciousness reflects only Spirit, good, whose visible being is invisible to the physical senses; eye hath not seen it, inasmuch as it is the disembodied individual Spirit-substance and consciousness termed in Christian metaphysics the ideal man - forever permeated with eternal life, holiness, heaven."

Who would want to trade all this for the mess of pottage of cured diseases? Of identity swallowed up by the personal and collective unconscious?

WHAT DO INDIANS WANT?

Terez Jolan

THE GREAT SPIRIT still rules over this land! From ancient time we Hopi have followed the instruction of the Spirit, and we don't need this white man's law to tell us how to live." An old Hopi was shouting at the U.S. Government men as they rode by him in the tractors and trucks, bringing in heavy equipment and loads of logs. He glowered at the two road graders that were invading the village of Hotevilla, a pueblo, about 125 miles Northeast of Flagstaff, Arizona.

Eight policemen, one of them white, and Joseph Lucero, the Superintendent of Hopi Indian Agency, and five white workmen, along with fifteen Hopi puppet Indians were coming into this village, into one of the villages of Hopi Sovereign Nation. "We have lived in this same place, in this high desert for thousands of years," say the Hopi, "and our ruins and rock writings testify to our sovereignty. We have been on this land since the fourth world began."

Alarm was cried from the rooftops. Women ran from their houses

The Hopi Indian Issue to retain their ancient culture is shown in this account of their struggle to keep Hotevilla as the last stronghold of the ancient ways.

today the electric power lines, paved roads, sewers, telephone, and the water pipes are going to be put into this village!"

"No!" replied one old religious leader, who speaks and understands English. "We do not need these things. We have lived here long time ago - many old people here are still healthy. We don't need water pipes or 'lectric lights, or sewers, or pave road. We have our good spring water. We have our oil lamps. We don't want ugly, black, hard-pave in our village for our people to walk on. We don't want telephone. Mr. Lucero, this is our sacred village."

Then, Lucero talked and translations were made into Hopi language for those people who were trying to understand what was happening. "Tell the people that these things are being put into your village for your own benefit. These public works are good for the Hopi."

"No," said the old leader. "These things are no good for the Hopi. It only mean taxes that we can't pay. It only mean to live like white-man and fight over moneys and lose our homes for taxes and be no more Hopi. We were instructed by the Spirit how to live. We know how to grow our corn. We can take care of ourselves. These public works all coming in here - it must be stopped!"

Lucero argued, "You people have been listening to outsiders who tell you these things are harmful. You have been taken in by these bad people and influenced by these no-good outsiders people."

The old Hopi explained further to Lucero, "We follow the instruction of our Great Spirit who rules over all this land. We continue to care for our mother earth. We do our duties and our religious ceremonies. Only the Spirit has authority to tell us what to do."

Then Lucero waved a paper in front of the people. "You are defeated," he said. "You are defeated by this petition with 90 names on it."

"But," said the old religious leader, "We Hotevilla Hopis did not sign yes to this paper. We do not need anything from the U.S. Government. We have taken care of ourselves for long time, from long time ago. We have our own way to live."

Arguments went on and on until way after high noon. The police lounged in the unmarked, agency cars. Many of the village men went out to the fields, thinking that someone had gone out of the village to have this Government works stopped. Some of the young Hopi conservatives stayed and watched. They looked at the petition which Lucero was claiming was the defeat for Hotevilla - (this cedar hill, where many Kivas still hold the sacred ceremonies, and where the people gather in the plaza to watch the Butterfly dancers of a hundred people dancing at one time. Where crowds will come to stand on roofs of the sand-stone houses to watch the Kachinas dance their "Niman Home Dance" in little more than a month from now, and where the Snake-Antelope ceremonial will take place in late summer. Hotevilla, the last stronghold of the ancient ways, the village where the Great Spirit is helped to protect and guard this whole continent from destructions. If Hotevilla falls, then the dire prophesies may come true, and great suffering will be across the land.)

The petition of 90 names held more than half which were names that the youth did not know. Some names were recognized as families who had moved away a generation ago. Some were Hopi puppets living inside the village. Some were of people living in the white-man towns. Some names were put down more than once.

"These names are property owners here," said Lucero lamely.

"But only the Great Spirit owns property here," was a reply.

It was getting well into the afternoon. Police were again standing around, and young Hopi were eyeing them sullenly. Lucero made a decision. He declared, "Whether you people like it or not, we are putting in these paved roads today and the electric light poles today. We are beginning all the improvements today. Now, I don't want anyone to interfere. You might get hurt or arrested. I warn you all to keep away. Stand back!" He gave the signal for the tractors and the trucks to start.

Everything happened at once. An old man stood in front of a tractor to stop it, but he was pulled out of the way by a puppet Hopi. Pole-digger machines began punching deep holes in the mother earth. The two road graders scraped and gouged around the narrow, little streets. Everyone was in a scuffle - all the men and women and youths and police and puppet Hopis. Women placed themselves into freshly dug holes to prevent the logs from being planted. Trucks backed into position with their log-loads, and the pole-setter machines were pushed into place. Men and women were trying to block the trucks to keep the logs from being unloaded. They were dangerously pushed along in an act of trying to run over the people, while puppets were pulling the Hotevilla Hopis away from the trucks. The women in the holes were getting half buried, and finally a log was kicked by a workman, and the log struck one woman in the head.

That night, old Dan Kotchongva, chief religious leader of Hotevilla, and reported to be anywhere from agreed to a counting of heads, the white-man style, since Lucero had agreed that the villagers could resolve the issue between themselves. Names were put on petitions, and when counted, the Hotevilla Hopis won. It was about 98 puppets against 130 Hotevilla Hopis. The head counting went for nothing.

At 1 p.m. Lucero rode in with his police force and heavy equipment. The Hotevilla Hopis met Lucero in the road and showed him the signed petition. He ignored it. (After all, a majority of the "tribe" could be named from anywhere.) The struggle was worse than the week before, though no one was seriously hurt or arrested. The pole-digger machines dug faster than the women could fill the holes with their bodies, struggling as they were against police and puppets, to reach the holes in time. Then men and children were trying to get into the holes. Some made it, but were yanked out. By sundown an ugly road of posts lined the road from the school house for a mile into the village.

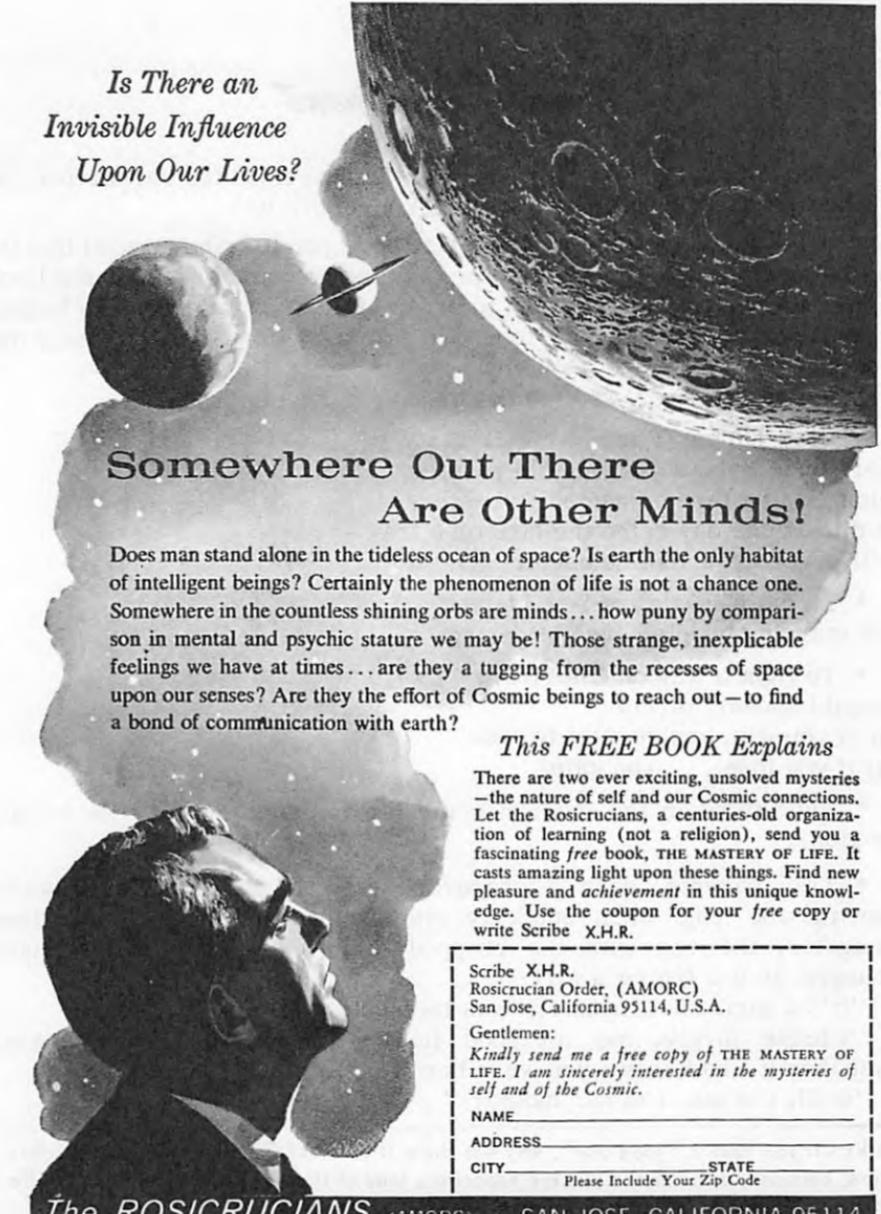

Knowing the Hotevilla Hopis would stay up the whole night to take out the posts and burn them. Lucero left the village with a warning, "We've strung live wire on these posts, and if you try to take them out, you will get burned or electrocuted. It won't be my responsibility if you get your own selves hurt." This ultimatum struck fear into many, though some Hotevilla Hopis did not believe there was any live wire.

They retreated to the Kivas and had serious discussions with Masaw. The prophecies were discussed anew and all were saddened by the destructions taking place all over the earth, because they know that when their village of Hotevilla becomes only a honky-tonk little town like any honky-tonk town in the United States, then the Great Spirit of this whole land suffers a mortal wound. For then, there will be no more Hopi, no more peaceful people any place on this earth.

Addendum: February 18, 1969, Hotevilla won that battle, the telephone poles were removed. The paving stopped, the ditches for sewer lines and water lines were filled in. The Indian Agent, now days called "Agency Superintendent" was removed and replaced in accordance with the demands of Chief Katchongva. Parents are still, as of February 18, 1969, refusing to send their children to Hotevilla Dayschool which is owned and operated by the Bureau of Indian Affairs, though it is not known how many are thus refusing, nor whether the other villages are still continuing the boycott of the schools.

Somewhere Out There Are Other Minds!

Does man stand alone in the tideless ocean of space? Is earth the only habitat of intelligent beings? Certainly the phenomenon of life is not a chance one. Somewhere in the countless shining orbs are minds... how puny by comparison in mental and psychic stature we may be! Those strange, inexplicable feelings we have at times... are they a tugging from the recesses of space upon our senses? Are they the effort of Cosmic beings to reach out—to find a bond of communication with earth?

Where The Reader Has His Say

SEES THE PAST AND FUTURE

Dear Ray Palmer:

I saw New York go under in a dream several years ago. I was flying in an airplane when I saw it sinking under the ocean.

My sub-conscious sees many future events before they really happen. I was first aware of this when I saw Balboa park when its present location was nothing but wild bush and wild animals. I saw that I would live in San Diego and after I was married and my husband died, I did live there for 32 years not far from Balboa Park where I often went to hear the band concerts on the Outdoor organ.

I sometimes see people in my dreams before I ever meet them and recognize them at once as the ones I saw in dreams. I saw my husband before I met him and friends also.

I was very familiar with Oriental Art and plan to make oriental scenes on fabric scrolls in the future. I have never been to New York or the Orient in this life.

I also have memories of dancing in Egyptian temples and conducting tours in passages of the Great Pyramid which are unknown today but of which I am quite familiar in my sub-conscious. I always thought there was life on other galaxies besides ours. Aloha.

ELECTION REFORM

Dear Sir:

I understand Congress is still considering changes and reforms in election laws. It is unfair for all the electoral vote to go to one candidate when the vote is close, although the electors are not compelled by law to vote that way. It is also unfair for the election to be decided by popular vote as the election would be decided by the metropolitan areas, "big-cities", without equal representation in the suburban and sparsely populated areas. The best I have read or heard regarding this, I quote from the Dan-Smoot Report for November 11, 1968:

"We need in each state a law requiring the state legislature to appoint a slate of presidential electors, one elector for each congressional district, two at-large electors for the entire state - each district elector bound to give his one vote to the presidential candidate receiving a plurality of the popular vote in his district, the two at-large electors bound to give their two votes to the candidate receiving a plurality of the popular vote of the state."

- I am in favor of the Electoral College over popular vote - unless some way to avoid "mob-rule" (popular vote) is found. Our nation will die as a Republic if the Electoral College falls. - Rap.

LIFE IS BEAUTIFUL

Dear Ray:

I have sent two orders for The Ancient Atlantic, one two years ago and another the past year but I have a sister I want to give one to as a gift. Your books are so good and so wonderful I do not mind the waiting time for publication.

Have enjoyed the three Forum magazines received recently. Was certainly interested in your editorial about time in Oahspe writings. As I'm sure most readers write, I love your writings best of all. Maybe it's because I agree with your point of view on things and the way you search for the truth and no biased opinions. I have access to Cosmic Wisdom, so have no need to argue questions or other opinions. Life is so great and so beautiful and filled with joy. Too bad so many of the world's people are sad, because they do not know the greatness of being. I have so little income but all of life's blessings come to me two-fold, because I love all people.

Thank you again for your SEARCH, Forum, your books and all you do. Bless you and your family always.

We on Earth are actually entering the Space Age. Our traditional cosmic isolationism is ending. Earth is in touch with inhabited outer space! What will this mean to us? What are the implications? What changes does it portend for us? How can we prepare ourselves for vast changes that are on the way? As we begin to study the impact of the New Age on our civilization it seems that what is happening to the minds of men on Earth is more important to understand than what is happening in our skies. In other words it is the terrific impact of the space ships on our human norm of life, the challenge which these and similar events pose to our very concepts of reality beyond the very confines of Earth's gravitational pull. What will it do to us and our civilization? What effect will it have on our human institutions, our way of life, our manner of thinking?

Gentlemen:

This morning I received the book "The Advent of the Cosmic Viewpoint" and it's hard to put down for long enough to do what has to be done. It's so wonderful to get a book like this -- just what I've been studying for 10-15 years. I can't wait to finish it to write to you. When I reach the end I will be sad indeed, for books like this are few and far between. Thankfully yours,

A truly important book! In all respects the worthiest concept of occult teachings that has yet been written. Fiction? None but the ignorant would believe that! The author was an advanced student of occultism, and in his sensational book he has tried to place before his fellow men a tremendous reality he discovered concerning this earth of ours, and life on it, in it, and beyond it.

Thirty Years Among The Dead

This is a condensed version of Dr. Carl A. Wickland's Classic (and now out of print) book on abnormal psychology. It is a record of his work with obsession carried on with Mrs. Wickland, who was an accomplished medium. Together they cured many obsessed persons, persuading discarnate spirits to give up their hold on their victims, and thus restored their patients to normal, happy lives. This book is still years ahead of present day research in this field.

For many years readers of Ray Palmer's magazines said their favorite sections of his magazines were the editorials and the readers' letters with his answers to letters. Nothing Ray Palmer ever published has gotten more praise than FORUM! It is useless to describe the magazine, except to say that in it Ray and his readers express themselves as never before--and if you don't get into the act, too, you are missing the greatest!

SPACE WORLD

AMHERST, WISCONSIN 54406

Here is the whole dynamic world of rockets, satellites and spacecraft - fabulous machines and the outstanding men behind them . . . brought to you in a magazine designed for readers who want dramatic, authoritative and complete coverage of the spaceman's world.

Interviews with leading scientists, aeronautical engineers, test pilots and planning experts show you the "how" and "why" of every facet of astronautic experimentation. Feature articles discuss the problems which men will face in survival on the moon and among the planets of our solar system.

THE CHALLENGE OF SPACE

The features and stories in Space World are written by the leading men in the field . . . but they are not entirely technical treatises. These men speak to you in clear down-to-earth language, covering every aspect of their field completely, yet scientifically and factually. Each feature is profusely illustrated . . . many features, in fact, are brilliant picture stories in full color. This straight-from-the-shoulder handling of the subject is perhaps the most important reason for Space World. Here, for the first time, is a magazine for the general reader who truly cares about the challenges of space and what they mean to mankind.

Space World is enthusiastically endorsed by educators, science teachers, and is used as textbook material in thousands of science classrooms.

Flying Saucer Pilgrimage

By Bryant &
Helen Reeve

They went on a 23,000-mile pilgrimage to meet the people who claimed to have seen flying saucers, even ridden on them! They wanted to know these people for themselves, so they could judge their stories! Here is their factual account of that pilgrimage. Meet them all for yourself: Adamski, Fry, Bethurum, Williamson, Angelucci, Van Tassel, Desmond Leslie, many others. And then they saw a saucer themselves! Read their exciting conclusions, their singular message to you, "The authors have written the account of adventures and experiences in a most readable and delightful light-hearted manner, however, do not be deceived by their gay and happy style. Oh, yes, they want you to enjoy their pilgrimage with them, and you will, too. But this book certainly goes 'deep' and explores saucers, the space people and their raison d'être, from every possible angle."

INSPIRED NOVELS

Great esoteric novels, long out of print, being made available once more! Valuable books for the student of the mystic!

A ROMANCE OF TWO WORLDS by Marie Corelli. Marie Corelli was perhaps the greatest psychic writer of them all. In this novel she treats of the world of the spirit, and its relationship to we who are in the world of the living.

SIZE: 6½" x 9½"; PAGES: 252; ILLUSTRATED: Black & white
BINDING: Paper; PRICE: $2.00.

THE SOUL OF LILITH by Marie Corelli. In this book the author shows how close is the link between life before death and life after death.

SIZE: 6½" x 9½"; PAGES: 324; ILLUSTRATED: Black & white
BINDING: Paper; PRICE: $2.00.

ARDATH by Marie Corelli. Here is a book that places reincarnation in the most straightforward and fascinating light ever woven into a novel.

SIZE: 6½" x 9½"; PAGES: 240; ILLUSTRATED: None; BINDING: Paper
PRICE: $2.00.

THE SORROWS OF SATAN by Marie Corelli. Perhaps the most unusual in its "mystic" content of all Marie Corelli's philosophical novels.

SIZE: 6½" x 9½"; PAGES: 264; ILLUSTRATED: Black & white
BINDING: Paper; PRICE: $2.00.

THE SECRET POWER by Marie Corelli. The strange story of a secret race, the Masters of the World who are bringing about a New Age and a New Race on Earth. The prophecy in this book, written many years ago, is amazing.

SIZE: 5½ x 8½; PAGES: 221; BINDING: Paper; PRICE: $2.00

All the experiences of the soul, or psychic form, from its first entrance into active consciousness, are attracted to itself by its own inherent volition, and work together to make it what it is now and what it will be hereafter. That is what "Ardath: The Story of a Dead Self" seeks to explain. It is the natural and intended sequence of "A Romance of Two Worlds" and was meant to assist the studies of the many who had written to me asking for help.

Its reception was sufficiently encouraging to decide me on continuing to press upon public attention the theories therein set forth. "The Soul of Lilith" was a third link in the chain I sought to weave between the perishable materialism of our ordinary conceptions of life, and the undying spiritual quality of life as it truly is. In this I portrayed the failure that must result from prejudice and intellectual pride when studying the marvellous mysteries of the Further World.

Filled with fervor, I wrote "Barabbas: A Dream of the World's Tragedy", a poetic romance which introduced with tenderness and reverence the Crucifixion and Ressurrection of Christ. It met with an almost unprecedented success, the world over.

I followed up quickly with "The Sorrows of Satan", thus carrying out the preconceived intention of depicting the martyrdom which is always the world's guerdon to absolute good.

I then drew some of my threads of former argument together in "The Master Christian", wherein I depicted Christ as a child, visiting our world as it is today and sorrowfully observing the wickedness which men practice in His name.

These six books: "A Romance of Two Worlds", "Ardath", "The Soul of Lilith", "Barabbas", "The Sorrows of Satan" and "The Master Christian" are the result of a deliberately conceived plan and intention, and are all linked together by the one theory. They are the outcome of what I myself have learned, practiced and proved in the daily experiences, both small and great, of life. --Marie Corelli.

An unusual book. Olaf Jansen, a fisherman from Sweden, and his son, sailed by accident through the North Polar opening into the Hollow Interior of the Earth, and lived two years among its people. Olaf Jansen claims this is his true story as told to Willis George Emerson. He tells of a race of Super Giants, fifteen feet tall, far advanced scientifically, who treated them with the utmost kindness. He lived in peace and harmony and traveled all over their country. He claims they returned through the South Polar opening. The book is fascinating reading, with pictures, charts, maps. It's up to the reader to believe or disbelieve their story. They swear it is true.

The COMING of the SAUCERS

By FLYING SAUCER DISCOVERER Kenneth Arnold

The original flying saucer book! It was Kenneth Arnold who gave the saucers their name, and he wrote the best book of them all. Here it is, in print after ten years! This is the famous book that tells the true story of the death-dealing "Maury Island Incident" in which two Air Force Intelligence men lost their lives, and Arnold himself barely escaped with his skin. To those in the know, this story is the key to the whole U.F.O. mystery. Perhaps the entire significance of this amazing adventure will never be told, but what you will read in this book will stagger you. No fiction mystery could ever match this true story.

THE KEY TO THE PAST
History of 79,000 Years
THE KEY TO THE PRESENT
Forces Behind Events of Today
THE KEY TO THE FUTURE
Preview of the Destiny of This Planet

This edition of OAH SPE contains 928 pages. It also contains nearly three quarters of a million words.

Do you think flying saucers are new? Then read OAH SPE! A whole panorama of aerial and space vessels, described as though from today's newspapers.

Do you wonder at Einstein's theories? Then read OAH SPE! He could have gotten his information there! Uncounted thousands of tons of meteorites fall to Earth each day, yet space is nearly empty of them. OAH SPE knew it in 1882! Space is dark, say our daring astronauts. So did OAH SPE in 1882, and tells us why! Archaeologists have made amazing discoveries of ancient races and dead cities and civilizations since 1882. They might have discovered them sooner had they read OAH SPE.

Just where is Heaven? What do you do there? Is there anything for YOU to do when you get there — what kind of occupation? Is there really a Hell? Who manages the Earth, the Solar System, the Universe — and how? How do the different religions fit into God's one Universe? OAH SPE tells all this, and a thousand more answers to man's most difficult questions.
