HE WALKED THE AMERICAS

BY
L. TAYLOR HANSEN

$6.95 plus 25c
postage & handling

Almost two thousand years ago a mysterious white man walked from tribe to tribe among the American Nations. He came to Peru from the Pacific, He traveled through South and Central America, among the Mayans, into Mexico and all of North America, then back to ancient Tula, from whence he departed across the Atlantic to the land of his origin. Who was this white Prophet who spoke a thousand languages, healed the sick, raised the dead, and taught in the same words as Jesus Himself?

These are true Indian legends, gathered during twenty-five years of research by L. Taylor Hansen, archaeologist, from many different tribes all over the Americas. By consulting museums, libraries and experts on folk-lore, it has been possible to correlate the findings into this fascinating book, backed up by the spades of the diggers into ancient ruins, and by all the sciences with which L. Taylor Hansen is familiar. This is a book that will back up the New Testament of the East, with the Christian Indian legends of the West. In this book is proof that the Savior came not only to one continent, but to all the world. This book will strengthen your faith as no other could!

Among some of the peoples of the world there is a custom of assessing year-end conditions and future prospects, and making plans for a course of action in the coming year. One of the significant features of this assessment is a sort of "wiping the slate clean" by forgiving all debts, forgetting all animosities and starting anew. As civilization has advanced, these latter acts have gradually been discarded until now it is just not done—the dollar is something that isn't forgotten or forgiven, and hatreds are fostered and implemented and increased with time. Most of these hatreds stem from the cardinal "sin" of selfishness. Today the act of being selfish has gotten itself a new name—"my rights". What you desire for yourself, no matter if other persons may be involved, is what you want and what you intend to get, if you have to use any conceivable tactic, including violence. We have an unforgiving worldliness that dictates that we must consider ourselves first and last. Ironically, this business of getting for one's self has somehow come to be called "public welfare" or "social science". The masses of the people, even the lowest in intelligence, self-reliance and competence, have instituted a "one-man, one-vote" system which gives them total power over any individual or minority. They have voted such "humanitarian" things as make up the welfare state, but in the doing they have had in mind only themselves. In calling for a "security" for the old, they have in reality demanded a free check" to be paid them to support them in their old age, and with this "security" have felt it right and just to abandon all self-reliance and future planning so as to be able to take care of themselves after they get old. In short, having imposed their compulsory tax on the self-reliant, making it literally illegal for them to be responsible people, they have become the "grasshoppers" of the fable of the ant and the grasshopper. They do not hesitate to buy a $1500.00 snowmobile as an adult toy, and proceed not only to waste the money, but to use the vehicle to trespass on the property of others, and to risk their life and limb in stupid high-speed crashing through barb-wire fences and hidden rocks and stumps and tree limbs in the name of "recreation". To compensate for this recklessness, they have voted themselves "medicare". They play with toys all their lives instead of just in childhood. They never mature mentally or morally. They never become responsible, because they have passed their responsibility on to "the other guy".

The time has passed when they were too proud to accept charity, were too honorable to reject the burden of caring for themselves, forward-looking enough to set aside something for the day when their muscles will no longer be able to swing an axe or lift a cotton bale. Also the time has passed when they are willing to forgive "debts". They pray in church "forgive us our debts as we forgive others" but somehow they mean that it is the debt they owe that is to be forgiven, but not the one owed to them. They demand their right to be paid. And they believe they have a right to punish the one who does not pay them. Worse, they pass a law that he must pay them for no service rendered, no product produced, in the name of "the people" and their "social security".

If we were to assess the past year from an impartial viewpoint, we would have to conclude that, as a whole, the "grade" or "level" or "quality" of the people had deteriorated. If the Earth's people were rated at, say, grade 8, in 1969, we would have to rate them now at grade 7 or lower. This would be an overall picture. If we took specific groups, we'd find that there were even groups who had improved from, say, 56 to 87. How would you judge the soldier who in 1969 was not the public figure in a My Lai incident but who in 1970 was? Obviously you would have to mark him down as having declined in his rating. In 1969 he would have been a soldier doing his duty; in 1970 he would have become a murderer.

Your editor, analyzing himself and his business, has come up with some conclusions. Perhaps you'd like to know what they are? Let's take business first. Our business is providing a forum where people can express themselves, exchange ideas.

acquire other viewpoints, and gain a fund of information upon which to cogitate and draw conclusions. One of the long-term goals of your editor has been to bring together all the experiences of his life, all the fund of information he has acquired from all of you, and present his personal conclusions on what it all means and where it is all going. Without being too egotistic, that achievement might be said to raise his grade a bit, maybe even from an 8 to a 10. In 1970 he determined to do it (after the 1969 assessment indicated that it could be done and should be done). But in 1970 he failed. Why; A very simple thing—money, primarily, and mistaken judgment secondarily. Money has always been a barrier to producing our books and magazines. It is very difficult to come by. In all these years (over 40), it is you readers who have provided it. In all assessments of your grade, over the years, the trend has been ever upward. Some of you have magnificent grades. I am sure that among you are many as high as 80 or 90, and I am positive that on the average, compared to the general mass of people, you are a 50—the masses now being a 7 in my estimation. That makes you a very special group of people. But you also, no doubt, grade me, and in 1970 it would seem my grade didn't improve, but dropped a bit. Perhaps I was a beggar once too often, which, combined with a lack of clarity in specifying just what it was that I wanted to publish (that Martian Diary was not just a rehash), dropped the whole project into a limbo which I have now managed to reassess and put back on the right road. It has been a middle road that has been adopted, and while I think the book(s) will be the finest work I have ever done, they will be a far cry from the magnificence that I so egotistically pictured them to be. No fancy leather binding; instead a paper cover; no profusion of illustrations in full color; only a few black and whites. The really important thing is the words which will convey what it really is that you want.

Now, since the money wasn't forthcoming, and worse, a series of events such as the postal strike, personal reverses, etc., wiped out what money did come in, a more realistic and more certain program has been instituted. In order to achieve the real aim of my work, I have had to throw out all "gingerbread". One bit of "cake" is the newsstand distribution of my magazines. Always a loser of money (because sales never run better than one out of two printed—and news dealers have a bad habit of failing to pay once their bill gets high enough to wield as a weapon), we have now discontinued the bulk of this. We had no paper for Martian Diary—we were wasting it on newsdealers who never gave us anything but losses. Now we will have the paper to use for Martian Diary. We are sure that all copies printed will be sold. This is far better than selling only half!

There are a number of other factors in our printing and publishing operation which can stand some hard-headed revision, and this is being done. It really does come under the heading of "forgive others' debts"; in order to discontinue the newsstand sales we have had to "forgive" a total of $7,000.00 that we know will now never come in because the distributors will stop paying instantly they stop receiving. In the past it has been the fear of (certainty of) losing that money that has coerced us into throwing more money into the rathole. For a time we will suffer financially, but in the end, you will buy Martian Diary paperbacks, and make it all up with a plus.

Now about Ray Palmer personally:

Maybe this is all of you, as well! Things have changed; there is in the world today a feeling of something imminent. This generally translates, among amateurs in what we are pleased to call the occult, into catastrophe. We find the weirdos predicting the end of the world, and climbing a mountain or hiding in a cave. We find the prophets predicting the world being tossed into a gigantic earthquake "mixer" that will reshape all the continents, sink some, and bring others up from the bottom of the ocean; or the Earth turning over, pole for pole, and a new flood resulting from the melting ice caps; or a comet smashing into the planet and killing everybody; or overpopulation running us out of living space and food; or the ecology being so upset as to suffocate us in our own waste products.

All these things are quite possible, but are they going to happen? If we were "cosmic accidents" of a chemical happenstance (now being so triumphantly heralded by the discovery of an assortment of amino acids in a meteorite), we could reasonably be considered as capable of fouling our own nest to our death. We could be expected to make the mistake of blowing up the planet with atomic bombs, or at least devastating it for ages so that human life would be impossible. We could be expected to breed to the point of inevitable starvation. But we aren't accidents—but design. Obvious design! No reasoning person can observe the order in the universe, particularly on our own tiny planet, without perceiving this design. We have only to think about the ecology of the planet (incidentally, ecology and pollution are not synonyms) to see the marvelous balance that is maintained, down to the tiny microbe. We have done a horribly bad job of managing that ecology—even the killing of the pesky mosquito upsets the balance, and we're not smart enough to understand to what extent. Other interferences with the natural balance are more obvious. Things like the dust bowl of the thirties—all we did was plow up some grass! We cut down a lot of trees, and lost the topsoil. When the Pilgrims came to this country, they recorded topsoil in the East to a depth of 6 and 8 feet. Today there is only 6 to 18 inches!—and what remains is so sterile that nothing will grow without massive applications of chemicals.

This ecology we observe is all the evidence we need to understand this planet is no accident, and neither are we—and we should also understand that we aren't fitted into this delicate balance with the potential to destroy it utterly. It is WE who will be "manipulated" back into a balanced condition if we get so far out of balance as to be a threat to the whole plan. Whoever or whatever conceived and executed the plan isn't going to allow a parasitic weed to overwhelm it. There will be a pruning and a correcting. In reality, the projected menace of over-population will never come to its projected ridiculousness. We won't be piled six deep on all the available land area! We won't succeed in turning the oceans into vast cesspools.

This is the overall picture, but each of us is an individual replica of the major picture. We have to take stock of ourselves occasionally, to see if we are an ecological integer compatible to the whole. How do you rate in this regard?

During 1970, there seems to have been a process of "bringing up short" occurring, in which certain tugs on the reins have slowed many of us down and turned us a bit in our course. The result has been considerable turmoil and confusion, because none of us like the feel of the bit. But it is obviously there. Your editor has felt it to the extent that he has (wisely or by compulsion?) decided to let the reins take hold and see where they lead him. It is hard to give up your "head", and it is frustrating, embarrassing and confusing. Pride suffers greatly. This sort of enforced humility is a severe blow to the ego. But out of it all, in 1970, there has emerged a rather grimly pointing finger that it would be smart to take into consideration. Ahead of us looms the "woodshed" of life, and a hell of a spanking. Only a fool would assess 1970 and then plunge ahead into 1971 on the same course! The word today is "change". It isn't a matter of what we want, but what we'll get, if we don't quit being selfish. The "Old Man" gave us this planet to "rule over not to wreck", and we'd better get out there and start weeding the garden, or we'll get a hide-tanning we won't forget!—Rap.

I was born in Seattle, Washington about sixty years ago. So I figure that in 20 years I should be a prime candidate for congress, age-wise that is. I have lived most of my life in Nebraska and California, in that order. I am married, have two grown children. I am now in business with a friend I have known for more than thirty years. To go further into events of my life, peculiar and otherwise, would be to write a book. I have a desire to be considered as free a soul as Ray Palmer, our editor, for the world need such people.

IF WE CONTINUE IN OUR WASTEFUL WAYS, THERE WILL BE NO TOMORROW

JOHN BOLSTA

I don't buy life insurance. I don't have retirement plans and all that sort of thing because the world is going to change dramatically. . . and probably downhill."—Dr. Paul Ehrlich.

Let us go to an island where, in our imagination, by a peculiarity of fate we have to live all of our natural life. We are on this limited island with no expectation of ever getting off and no place left to go if we did for the rest of the world has disappeared.

We know that we are here because generations ago our ancestors were shipwrecked on this island. It is said there were about a hundred each of men and women.

When they first got here the natural food was plentiful, the water was clear and pure. The materials to build shelter was all around.

For a period of time they and their descendants lived in peace and plenty. Each passing on his skill to others, including medical knowledge, mechanical proficiency and farming know-how. All of these things and more were utilized with each succeeding generation taught by the one before.

But it came to pass that eventually one man claimed more land around his hut than he really needed. Soon he demanded that the water from the spring that had its origin on this land be his private property.

His next move was to commence asking for payment of some kind for the water people used from this spring. Using this ruse, he now had the ability to make people work for him if they wanted water.

By use of this labor he enlarged his hut and built a wall around the property. Thus did stasis and ostentatiousness come to the island.

When some of the others saw this they coveted the land and wished the goods of the island to be under their control. Some by force, some by guile, some by both did achieve this end and so came wealth and poverty to the island. Then laws became necessary to protect the wealth, so came crime.

Now it is our day. Through the years increasing progress has come to our island. Fuel was found, manufacturing plants built, springs dammed; the population is now multi thousands and expanding year by year. Good growing land is ripped up to build houses, large grounds, roads, factories, stores and offices.

The building and other material we need to maintain our lives is becoming more scarce day by day. The springs and streams we use to drink and irrigate our crops are filled with filth from our factories and sewage from our houses till even with boiling it is still not fit to drink.

The garbage we create and waste from our factories has become almost impossible to dispose of. Even now the very land we live on is polluted.

Soon it will be out of the question for our island to support our lives, as the things we have destroyed cannot be replaced. We have only one hope and that is to change our way of life. Now! We can stop being wasteful and destructive or we can die, for there is no place else to go.

No one could tell me where my soul might be; I searched for God, and He eluded me; I sought my brother out, and found all three." Earnest Crosby.

ECOLOGY— SALEM STYLE

Ray Palmer

Quite a number of years ago this writer reported an event that took place in South America, in one of the Northern Capitals. It was a meeting of a group of people whose purpose was to adopt a Resolution, and to formulate a Policy of Action. This group of people has a name, but it is really immaterial. Whatever we call them, they fall into the basic philosophy of what can be loosely designated as "One Worlders". They are not representative of any one government, although many of them are actually occupying high positions in the various governments of the nations of this planet. They met (and continue to meet) in a "non-political" informality, and their Resolutions and Policies do not bind any government or any people.

At this initial meeting, they postulated the following precept: Resolved: That the natural resources of the world are not morally subject to any government or any one people, but that they should be equally available to all the world's people.

Have you ever heard such a high-sounding and noble proposition? Is there anyone who would deny the basic justice of such a concept? We are all human beings, natives of a planet whose natural riches are scattered all over the globe, and as such we have an equal right to use them to provide us all with an honorable and comfortable existence. No one group, whether defined by national boundaries or by racial classification or by geological accident, should have the right to deny any other group access to the God-created resources of the planet. For example, no man should have dominance over a spring of clear, clean, wholesome water to the extent that he can deny his neighbor's need to quench his thirst. Nor should he monopolize the minerals with which the necessities of life and civilization are fashioned, to his own selfish use, excluding others from the benefits of something to which only Nature has title. The very concept of "haves" and "have nots" is morally reprehensible. With so bountiful a planet, none of its creatures should be barred from the natural bounties. True, if a man fashions a chair, it is the fruit of his hands, and he can own it, or sell it, or trade it. But he has no right to deny another the natural raw materials with which to make his own chair.

The planet does not belong to anyone! Can you reasonably disagree?

In all the world there is but one country where Democracy has full sway. It is the principle of the United States of America that it is not governed in the sense of having a ruler. It is a government "of the people, for the people and by the people". The people rule themselves. They rule by electing representatives to attend to the government so that all the citizens are treated equally and are guaranteed the Constitutional rights to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. Quite valued among the lesser rights are the rights to Privacy and to Own Property. A man may not be subject to intrusion and invasion, nor can his property be taken from him without due process of law. Thus it is that a problem confronted this group of Noble and Moral men: While in the vast majority of the countries of the world the government rather than the people owned the country, in the United States the people owned it. They owned it in two ways: Public Ownership, in which the elected government held Open Land in trusteeship; and Private Ownership in which citizens acquired a home or a farm or an estate as a result of the fruits of their labor, by either acquiring title by Squatter's Rights, or any of the other means by which public land is transmitted to worthy citizens, or by purchase for a sum of money. These land titles were properly deeded and recorded. Along with ownership went ownership of natural resources such as minerals, timber and the like. It was generally accepted that the waterways and the airways (for travel and breathing) were "public", and available to all. But the land was owned, and a man's home was his castle.

The establishment of this Noble Group's aims was quite easy in the non-free areas of the world. The people were already subjects, rather than citizens, and were ruled. It was simply a matter of the sort of rule imposed upon them. It could be done by force of arms, or by propaganda, or mind-control, or by legal trickery. And in many instances, the people themselves would surrender whatever freedom they had, because of its valuelessness. They would accept an ideology in exchange for a crumb of bread. If the alternation to starvation is chains, the subject will accept the chains.

But it is impossible to persuade a free man to accept the chains of a dictator. He has too much to gain, and everything to lose. In the United States, every man is a citizen, and as he proudly surveys the country in which he lives, he exclaims: "This land is mine!" He will fight and die for it. He will defend his neighbor's home as willingly as his own.

This Noble Group of men, whose Utopian Brotherhood is so idealistic, are in reality a group of men whose purpose is exactly opposite to their pronouncements—it is not their desire to make all the world's natural resources (nor the world itself!) available to all mankind on an equal and honorable and just basis, but to ACQUIRE IT ALL FOR THEMSELVES, and enslave the WHOLE of humanity to their will! In this Resolution they have hit upon a way to achieve their aim, and in its adoption they have declared total war on the United States of America. Today they are (after these many years) well on their way toward victory, while the citizens of this great union are unaware that they are even in a war, and do not discern the enemy! And now, to add to their potent attack, they have acquired a new weapon, a veritable atomic bomb in its potency, a single word—ECOLOGY!

Because the United States is the greatest world power, it must necessarily be the prime target of the war that has been declared on the totality of world governments. And because the major obstacle to making the natural resources of the planet equally available and accessible to all the people, it is necessary to destroy the concept of private ownership of property. The attack must be made in two ways—on the Constitution, and on the land owners. If the laws cannot be changed to take away the right to own property, the land owners must be driven to loss of their title in one way or another—either by forcing them to sell, or by ruining them financially so that the property will revert to government control. It is, of course, an ultimate goal to destroy the constitutional form of government, and rule by the people in this country. Once this is established, it is simply a matter of armed force. However, revolution is a dangerous thing, and can easily get out of hand. It is preferred to win by other means. It is these other means we'd like to point out.

We will institute Public Works, they decided. We will build roads, vast networks of transportation that will take millions of acres out of private hands by right of eminent domain. The people will agree to this, because they will want these fine networks of roads to take them to their places of entertainment, to convey their goods to customers, to convey themselves and their salesmen to prospective buyers. We will constantly change the routes of these roads, so that the land needed constantly grows, and we will never relinquish those acres no longer in use as roads, but retain title.

We will place our agents in positions of public trust and regulation, such as game wardens, conservation wardens, public land managers, waterway authorities, pollution controllers and officials of all conceivable kinds, and their one aim will be gradually to restrict private control of property until these rights and titles are destroyed. We will weaken them by harrassment, by legalities, by propaganda, by persecution. We will appoint magalomanics to these positions, who will become frightening weapons against the people because of their mental illness that converts them into little Hitlers.

We will lobby constantly for (and pass because of our dominance of elected officials selected and elected by our money) laws that will seem to protect the rights of the people, but will in reality restrict them.

Today we have found a new weapon, a new way to persuade the people to forget their own chains. That weapon is ecology. We will pollute the environment to frightening proportions, again using our money, our control of the news media, to brainwash the people into the use of poisons and contaminants (such as tremendous amounts of phosphates is soap) that will threaten the environment's extinction. Witness our success to date! Lake Erie is only one lake already slain by detergents. And witness the problem of smog—the result of our campaign to build ever more powerful cars, spewing their lethal poisons into the air in the millions of tons. Lead, arsenic, mercury, and a multitude of insect and vegetation killers, also.

Frightened out of their wits, the people will turn upon one another with the dread cry of "pollution", pointing their fingers at their neighbors, and demanding that there “be a law”. Because of the enormously complex and subtle nature of the ecology, which even the wisest and most scientific of men find baffling, the masses will perform unreasoning acts of imposed restrictions on themselves.

For example, we will pass laws that decree that casting a stone into a “navigable stream” is both pollution and violation of natural rights to this water. The one who casts the stone is threatening the purity of the water, so necessary to maintaining life, and is also denying the rights of people to traverse it in a boat because of the obstruction. Eventually we will be able to deny even the farmer from cutting a tree (a natural resource) on his own property, for fuel to warm himself in the winter!

We will further persecute the land owner by constantly raising taxes so that eventually he cannot earn enough to retain title to his land, it being sold at public auction, or siezed by the state in lieu of cash. We will do a great deal of this by establishing great institutions of learning, great in the sense of their magnificent structures and enormous complexity, but we will use our agents to foment demands for something that is very far from real education, but very near to mind control. We will insist on the right of every citizen to an advanced education. We will value these educations at a much higher rate than manual labor, and therefore deserving of much higher wages. We will negate all these advances by a planned depreciation of money until there are none who will even consider working at menial jobs, but in executive and non-productive jobs. We will use usury to further destroy the ability to own property.

And in the end, we will have violence and the breakdown of law and order, and the institution of a police state. We will take the guns from the people, and finally we will line up all the intellectuals against a wall and exterminate them.

Then we will rule the world! It is easy to conquer unhappy, despairing people.

It can't happen here? Don't delude yourself! Look about you at the many barriers to your “individuality” and the hopelessness of true progress toward independence and future ownership of that home you want to call your castle, where you can be free. Can you honestly say that the war is not already joined, and many battles already lost?

The word is ecology. Study it and try to understand it. We can still preserve our world, but we must have the FREEDOM to do it. When we are slaves the pollution will stop—by decree of the Noble Group. But as the air and water clears, you will breathe and drink in chains, understanding neither ecology nor liberty.

M. R. KEITH'S GREAT "HEAVEN" BOOKS

Three MUST books for anybody who is interested in life after death and what available knowledge there is about heaven and its nature. They cover the intensive investigative work done in the past hundred years, and represent the most modern collection and analysis of the combined knowledge obtained by scientists, seers, psychics, mediums, occultists, mystics and sensitives ever presented. A trilogy of valuable knowledge about heaven.

WHAT EVERYBODY OUGHT TO KNOW ABOUT HEAVEN—Compiler Keith lists and analyzes in capsule form 62 books, classics in the psychic field, tells you where to get them. It has chapters on psychics, proof, seers, occultists and mystics.

SO YOU'RE GOING TO HEAVEN?—There has never been so enlightening and comprehensive a "travel folder" on the land beyond death. Invaluable to anyone who believes in life after death and what it must be like. The best way to describe what the book contains is to list some chapter headings: Passport—Luggage—Transportation—Ports Of Entry—The Solidity Of Heaven—Clothing—Body—Time—Nourishment—Family And Social Life—Work and Play—Government—Flowers, Fruits and Trees—Pets In Heaven—The Waters Of Heaven—Houses And Also Mansions—The Cities Of Heaven—Instruction—Art Galleries—Music—Libraries—Science—Children—Spirit Helpers—Worship—Boundaries—A Visit To An Upper Realm—Lower Planes—In Space, But Where?

HOW I FOUND OUT ABOUT HEAVEN—Here, in the final book of the famous trilogy, Mr. Keith gives the complete fascinating story of his search for heaven. During his youth, he found no answers in the churches that were specific, only generalities, yet he felt intensely that if heaven was a real place, there must be some evidence of it. He set out on a lifelong Search for real answers—and he found them! The book is divided into three parts, (1) History Of My Personal Search; (2) Others Who Have Passed; (3) Observations. ### VAMPIRE HUNTER

Allan Farrant, 24, recently was found prowling through London's Highgate cemetery with a sharp wooden stick, a flashlight and a crucifix marked with a "magic" emblem. Farrant told authorities he was hunting vampires. He said he intended to dispose of them by driving the stake through the heart.

He was not held since, apparently, there is no law against hunting vampires.

ESP AND THE IMPERISHABLE MAE WEST

A deep man's voice, speaking to her through the solar plexus region, told Mae West that she would play in "Myra". This same man's voice, by telling her what to say to her lawyer, saved her $100,000 in a plagiarism case. She was innocent but the outcome was doubtful previously.

Mae West has written several books, including one on ESP.

WHO ME?

A young man charged with shoplifting appeared in a Vancouver, Canada, court last July and was asked, "What is your name?"

"Who Me," the boy answered.

"Yes, you," snapped the prosecuting attorney. "Your name, please."

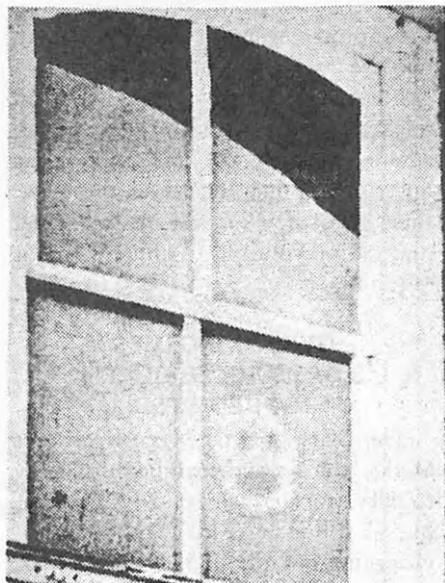

"Who Me," the accused replied again.

"Is that your name," asked the judge, "Who Me?"

"Yes, Who Me is my name." The youth explained that he had lived with Indians in northern British Columbia for the last 10 years and Who Me was his given name.

rubbed with soap, gasoline and even acid. According to an old-timer, all of the other windows in the building were broken by a hail storm at one time, but the haunted pane was not touched!

A 95 year old retired farmer, Vessie Bridges, tells this story: Henry Wells was convicted of burning the original county courthouse in 1876. Says Mr. Bridges, "They convicted and killed him on circumstantial evidence, and he came back to haunt them for it."

According to Mr. Bridges, a mob of angry citizens found Wells in the attic of the new courthouse where the officers had hidden him. They dragged him out and hung him.

"Just as they hung him, a flash of lightning came and left the image of his face on that window where it remains to this day."

ROCK MUSIC TURNS OFF PLANTS

In an experiment at Temple Buell College, Mrs. Dorothy Retallack of Denver, Colorado proved conclusively that plants do not thrive when submitted to acid rock music. Within a month all the plants exposed to rock music died. All variables, such as sound levels and growing conditions were eliminated. Only the type of music played for the plants varied. The experiments were conducted for more than a year.

SOOTHING MUSIC AIDS

GROWTH. Plants exposed to the acid rock music at the end of 10 days were all leaning away from the source of the music. Both the roots and the tops of the plants turned away from the music in the rock music chamber, and at the end of three weeks all of these plants were dying. At the same time, a control plant which had started the same age as the others but was grown in silence grew to 18 inches as compared to the 11½ inches of the plant exposed to rock music. The third control plant of the same size and age as the others, but exposed to soothing music showed a growth two inches more than the one grown in silence. These plants were most luxurious and they showed a lean toward the source of the soothing music!

Mrs. Retallack graduated with honors at 48, her schooling having been interrupted by marriage and motherhood for 25 years. She says she would like to spend the rest of her life experimenting along the same lines. She feels if certain sounds strengthen plants, we may possibly find a beneficial kind of musical therapy for humans.

WINE AND CHEESE CHURCH SERVICE

In Peterborough England, the Rev. Philip Cauwood, vicar of St. Mary's is holding wine and cheese parties instead of Sunday evensong. He says the normal evening service tends to become "a parson's monologue."

"I want to create an informal relaxed and friendly atmosphere where people can ask the basic questions about life," says the vicar. First glass of wine will be free; after that, a contribution to church fund is required.

GYPSY KING DIES 3 DAYS AFTER QUEEN AS PREDICTED

The King of the Gypsies, Steve Marks, the second member of Gypsy royalty to die within a week, was buried following a five-day festival of mourning. Marks, 85, died Oct. 7. Queen Kathryn Marks, died in Denver Oct. 4.

A spokesman for the tribe said it had been predicted that Marks would die three days after the queen's death.

GHOST PILOT ELUDES U.S. AGENTS

Around midnight Sept. 2, four county detectives were startled when the following came over their "squawk" box:

"This is Doggo One. Doggo One. Mayday. Mayday."

The voice was loud and clear, yet calm—the way military discipline is required in a crisis.

Some static interrupted, then silence, next:

"I've lost all my instruments, all coordinates, all bearings. Last known position 93 degrees latitude, 177 degrees longitude over Columbus, Ohio.

"This is Doggo One out of Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, Dayton, Ohio. Mayday. Mayday."

More silence. Then:

"I am forcing a landing. I am going down."

The detectives called the Air Force Base and were informed by a high-ranking officer that there were no current operations by any squadrons—not even any top secret ones.

Another time an employe of Continental Can Co. lifted the receiver of his phone to call the Chicago office.

He completed dialing, and superimposed over the ring heard a voice.

"Pilot to tower. This is Allegheny Airlines flight 347. There is a gun to my head. A passenger wants to take a trip to Cuba."

Next a scuffle and gunshot was heard, then the excited voice of a pilot amid a woman's screams:

This is Allegheny 347. One of our stewards has been shot in the abdomen. We request emergency communications with Allegheny County Airport. We're over West Mifflin and we must come down at once".

on August 8th. No one would heed his warning, although he wrote letters to prominent people living in the area.

Dr. Montgomery has many fulfilled predictions to his credit. As early as October 1957 he told the Dallas Police Chief that a president would be shot and killed in that city. On a street map he pinpointed the exact spot where President Kennedy was assassinated. He also predicted the murders of Dr. Martin Luther King and Senator Robert Kennedy.

AN ENGINEER LOOKS AT

HERE'S HOW IT WORKS

***** R.N. KAMP *****

For the purpose of this article, I will define Astrology as the theory that the position of the stars at the instant of birth determines a person's personality, and then the stars effect his behavior for his entire life.

This article will show how astrology can and cannot fulfill that theory.

The explanations which follow are not a wild hypothesis; they are based on the research of many scientific articles, some of which are referenced.

All of the celestial bodies that are involved in astrological analysis are shown in Figure 1. This view is from a position high above the north pole. The Sun, and those stars in and around the constellations, are fixed in space; they do not move with respect to each other. All of the planets move around the Sun in a counter-clockwise direction. The Moon moves around the Earth in a counter-clockwise direction. The months of the year in Figure 1 show the position of the Earth with respect to the constellations as the Earth makes its 12 month tour around the Sun. The stars shown in the constellations are only the ones which the astrologers consider. Actually, in the area of any constellation, there are billions of stars each of which adds its influence on Earth, not merely those in the zodiac's symbol.

COMMUNICATION. For astrology to be true, there must be some method of communication from the astronomical body to the human beings on Earth. In other words, there must be a force that the celestial body exerts on the human body across the many miles through space. According to known scientific facts, the only possible forces or means of communication emitting from astronomical bodies are:

- Gravity
- Electrons and protons
- Neutrinos
- Cosmic Rays
- Radio energy
- Heat and light energy
- Ultra-violet light and X-rays.

Each of these means of communication will be analyzed to evaluate their potency to influence human personality and behavior on Earth.

GRAVITY. Let us assume that somewhere in the human body is an organ that weighs one pound and that determines personality and behavior. When we apply the standard formula from any Physics book for computing the gravitational force between that one pound organ and typical celestial bodies, we get the following results:

Celestial Body	Gravitational Force (lbs.)
Earth	1.000000
Sun	.0006
Moon	.000003
Average Constellation	.0000005
Venus (when closest to Earth)	.00000002
Mars (when closet to Earth)	.000000001

The Earth's pull on the organ is, of course, one pound. But the gravitational pull of the other celestial bodies is so small compared to that of the Earth that they could not possibly be an influencing factor on that organ. In other words, if gravity determined personality and behavior, the pull of the Earth would mask and cover-up the insignificant pull from the other celestial bodies. Besides, if gravity affected personality and behavior, then the astronauts would have told us about it because they go from full gravitational pull on Earth to almost zero pull on the way to the Moon.

ELECTRONS AND PROTONS.

Any celestial body that is hot, such as our Sun and the stars in and around the constellations, shoots out sub-atomic electrical particles, called electrons and protons; the former have a negative electrical charge, and the latter have a positive charge. These electrons and protons are continuously shooting toward the Earth from the Sun at a relatively slow speed compared to cosmic rays. They are trapped in the Van Allen Belts by the Earth's magnetic field. The closest that they get to the Earth is the ionosphere which is a minimum of 30 miles above the surface of the Earth. Because these electrons and protons from the Sun are trapped so far above the Earth, they can not have any effect on human behavior.

NEUTRINOS. Neutrinos are sub-atomic particles without weight or electric charge. They arrive at the surface of the Earth from the Sun at the rate of 200 billion per square inch per second. Because they have neither weight or electric charge, they pass into the Earth without any effect on anything. Hence, neutrinos cannot be a means of communication.

COSMIC RAYS. Cosmic rays are largely protons which are moving at a velocity close to the speed of light. They arrive at the Earth from parts of the universe beyond our solar system and galaxy, but some come from our Sun. Cosmic rays seldom get to the surface of the Earth because they dissipate their energy by striking gases high up in the upper atmosphere. The quantity of cosmic rays is constant. For these reasons, they cannot be a means of communication, especially because communication requires modulation or variation.

except Jupiter and Saturn which emit a small amount. The stars in and around the constellations, such as pulsars and quasars, emit radio energy but at an intensity so low that tremendous antennas and amplifiers are needed to detect the energy. The Sun emits a wide spectrum of radio energy. But, radio energy can't be in the astrologer's bag of tricks because the relatively strong man-made radio energy from radio and TV stations, and from telephone and airport radar would be determining the personality and behavior of people rather than the relatively weak signals from the stars. Besides radio energy passes through the human body, and would be determining personality from the moment of conception; not at the instant of birth as claimed by the astrologers.

HEAT AND LIGHT ENERGY. The heat and light energy from the Moon and planets is merely a weak reflection of the energy from the Sun. The heat and light energy from the constellations is even weaker than that from the Moon and planets. Therefore, when compared to the heat and light energy from the Sun, the energy from Moon, planets and constellations is too insignificant to make one iota of difference in human behavior. But, even the Sun's radiated heat and light energy cannot determine personality and behavior because babies born at noon would have the exact opposite personality from ones born at 11:50 p.m. of the same day. Also, if heat and light determined behavior, we would behave differently during the day then we do at night, and man-made sources of radiated heat and light would be affecting our personality and behavior. Therefore, radiated heat and light energy is also excluded from our list of probable means of communication.

ULTRAVIOLET LIGHT AND RAYS. For the sake of simplicity, I will lump these two radiations together and simply call them "rays". The Moon and planets do not emit these rays and the rays from the constellations are insignificantly weak. But, these rays are sent out in great abundance by the surface of the Sun, and the rays are more intense when the ever-present sun spots are more active. Of utmost importance is the fact that the positions of the planets determine the activity of the sun-spots and hence the planets determine the intensity of these rays.

Surrounding the Earth, 30 to 250 miles above the surface, is a layer of atmosphere called the ionosphere where these rays from the Sun knock the negative electrons out of molecules of gas, and thereby cause the ionosphere to be loaded with positive ions. The stronger these rays, the more the ions. And, the quantity of ions have a profound effect on the electrical, animal and human behavior on Earth

EFFECT OF RAYS. Typical examples of how these rays affect the Earth are the following:

1. When the Sun's surface is active and the weather is right, the beautiful Northern lights appear as the result of the interaction between the ionosphere and the electrons and protons in the Van Allen belts.

2. The RCA Communication Co. knows that their radio broadcasts over the Atlantic Ocean fade out when the Sun's activity affects the ionosphere.

3. The Consolidated Edison Electric Power Co. found that the rate of failure of their underground electric wires is related to the activity of the Sun's surface and of the ionosphere.

4. Scientists in Russia are observing the strange behavior of animals to warn them when nature-born disasters are about to occur. Even the lowly ants are so nature-wise that they cover up the entrance to their nest before it starts to rain, said knowledge being obtained electrically!

5. Every 11 years, the Sun goes through a period of maximum sun-spot activity. When this occurs, human beings suffer a sort of long-term mental depression which causes trends toward financial recessions. Between the 11 year maximum cycles, the solar activity continues to affect the atmosphere and thereby affects man's reaction and the price of the stock market.

The preceding examples show the effect of the Sun's activity on the ionosphere and on conditions on Earth. More examples will follow.

There are two methods by which the ionosphere affects the surface of the Earth; they are:

1. Static electric voltage
2. Ions

I will now explain how these two methods work.

The electric shock that you get in cold dry weather when walking on a rug and touching metal is a demonstration of static voltage.

Due to the ionization of the ionosphere by the Sun's rays, the ionosphere has a positive voltage compared to the surface of the Earth which has an excess of electrons and hence has a negative voltage. The voltage difference between the lowest part of the ionosphere (about 30 miles up) and the surface of the earth is about 360,000 volts. When a thunder cloud is overhead, the voltage between cloud and Earth is as high as 10,000,000 volts. Therefore, all living things on Earth are living within an electrostatic voltage.

Scientists have connected sensitive volt meters to human beings and measured the effect of this static electric voltage. They determined that most people felt depressed or hostile when the voltage was high, and felt better when the voltage was low.

Other scientists determined that people who spend a lot of time in metal enclosures, such as steel buildings, automobiles, airplanes, etc. where the atmospheric voltage is almost zero, tend to be tired.

The Moon has a marked effect on the voltage measured on human beings; the voltage changing about every two weeks in correlation with the new and full moon. With some people, the voltage was high at new moon and low at full moon; the voltage was reversed on other people.

People who are neurotic and psychotic are adversely affected by a full moon; tending to commit crimes of violence including arson.

Tests conducted under an Air Force contract also showed that human beings vary widely in their response to these electric voltages. This bears out the astrologer's contention that different people have different behavior under the same celestial conditions.

IONS. When atoms of oxygen, nitrogen, moisture and dust in the air acquire an extra electron, the atoms are called negative ions. When the atom loses an electron, they are called positive ions.

The quantity of ions at the surface of the Earth, positive or negative, depends on the weather, and weather is determined largely by the condition of the ionosphere. Weather produces ions by many methods; such as, wind blowing over sand and dust, wind blowing down from higher atmosphere, sucking air out of radio-active ground during a drop in barometric pressure, and electrical storms!

Ions enter the blood through the lungs and affect the ability of the blood to absorb oxygen! Negative ions increase the oxygen in the blood and thereby gives many people a feeling of exhilaration similar to breathing pure oxygen! Positive ions reduce the absorption of oxygen and produce the opposite effect, causing respiratory illness, irritability and a tendency to crime and suicide. Young people are affected very little by either positive or negative ions, but people under physical or mental pressure and stress have increased ability to perform in an atmosphere of positive ions. A review of scores of technical articles shows that humans are affected in various manners by positive and negative ions in the air. Hence, the controversy about the relative merits of positive and negative ions depends upon the personality of each person.

By now, you should be convinced that the Sun's surface generates rays which affects the ionosphere which affects static electric voltage and ions on Earth which affects human behavior.

Now, let me explain how the planets, the constellations and the Moon affect the surface of the Sun and thereby affect the rays which eventually affects behavior on Earth.

HOW PLANETS AFFECT RAYS.

As previously stated, the position of the planets determine the activity of the surface of the Sun which generate the rays.

I believe that it is the gravitational pull of the planets on the Sun which affects the activity of the Sun's surface. The Sun is not solid, it is composed of very hot gas, and hence its surface is very susceptible to gravitational pull.

All of the planets rotate around the Sun in the same direction but at different speeds. At some times, the planets are widely scattered so that their gravitational pull causes a somewhat uniform pull around the Sun. At other times, the planets are grouped together in one or more places. Figure 1 shows two groups of planets which would activate the Sun's surface at areas closest to those groups. Therefore, in Figure 1, extra rays from the Sun would go up and down, but only a normal amount of rays would go in the direction of the Earth. At other times, the Earth will be in the same location with a group of planets, in which case the Earth will receive an extra quantity of rays from the Sun, and people's behavior will be affected, as was previously explained.

Because each planet moves around the Sun at different speeds, the grouping of the planets is different each month, and thus the degree of affect on human behavior will be different.

Astrology claims that people's behavior is affected differently by each planet; Mercury affects mentality, Venus affects emotions, Mars affects energy, etc. But, according to my theory, no single planet causes any particular behavior, but any planet, when in a group with other planets, can affect the degree of natural personality traits of each human. For example, if a person's personality is naturally pessimistic, then a high static electric voltage caused by extra Sun's rays when the Earth is in a large group of planets, will cause that person to be extremely depressed.

HOW CONSTELLATIONS AFFECT RAYS. My calculations show that the gravitational pull of the stars in and around the constellations on the Sun's surface is about the same order of magnitude as the pull of the planets on the Sun. Because each constellation area has a different gravitational distance and mass, each constellation pulls a different amount on the Sun's surface which causes different amounts of rays from the Sun toward each constellation. Therefore, as the Earth moves around the Sun (See Figure 1), the Earth is subjected to varying amounts of rays from the Sun in proportion to the various gravitational pull of the various constellations. Hence, the constellations affect the activity of the Sun's surface which affects rays which affects the ionosphere which affects voltage and ions which affects behavior of people on Earth.

At this point, I call your attention to a major contradiction between this article and astrology. Figure 1 shows a true representation of the position of the Earth with respect to the constellations in early February. Astrologers claim that, in early February, the controlling constellation is Aquarius. Note in Figure 1 that in the day time, a person would be astrologically under the influence of Aquarius, but at night a person is under the stars of Cancer. I claim that, in Figure 1, the influencing constellation both day and night is Cancer which is gravitationally causing extra activity on that part of the Sun, and those extra rays are going to the Earth. Hence, in early February, Cancer, not Aquarius is influencing people. The same contradiction occurs every month.

HOW THE MOON AFFECTS RAYS. The position of the Moon causes rays from the Sun to be reflected (See Figure 1) so that the rays from the Sun arrive at the Earth's ionosphere in different quantities depending upon the position of the Moon. A full Moon, when the Moon is directly to the left of the Earth in Figure 1, causes more rays toward the Earth. Therefore, the position of the Moon affects the electric charge of the ionosphere and hence the Moon affects behavior on Earth. Go back to the part entitled STATIC ELECTRIC VOLTAGE to see how strongly the Moon affects behavior.

The preceding discussion has shown that the celestial bodies do affect the behavior of people after they are born. The means of communication between celestial bodies and human beings is through the gravitational pull of the planets and the constellations on the surface of the Sun, said pull varying the quantity of the Sun's ultra-violet light and X-rays which, reflected by the Moon, causing varying electric activity of the ionosphere which changes the voltage and ions on the surface of the Earth which changes the behavior of people in different degrees and in different ways.

It is imperative to realize that many external factors affect human behavior, not only static electric voltage and ions. Such factors as temperature, humidity, barometric pressure, noise, color of walls, presence of people, etc., also affects behavior. The stars impel, they do not compel because these other factors are as important as, and in many cases, more important than, the stars.

The preceding discussion covered the affects of the stars on behavior after birth. Now, let's discuss the affect of the stars at the time of birth.

INHERITANCE. Science knows that a baby's personality at birth is almost entirely a function of the chemistry of its blood which is determined by the inherited characteristics in the genes which are issued to the embryo by his parents at the instant of conception. No communication from any celestial body or no electric atmosphere can have one iota of influence on that personality either at the instant of conception or the instant of birth. As a child grows, the compatibility of his inherited characteristics with his environment begins to modify his inherited personality. All factors in his environment, such as love, discipline, noise, color, etc. have an affect on his personality and his behavior toward conditions. The voltage of the atmosphere is only one small part of that total environment.

LAW OF AVERAGES. For the last 5000 years or so, astrologers have collected much data to show a correlation between personality and celestial position at birth. But I claim that this correlation is only 1/12th or 8% correct. Astrologers make reference to famous people whose personality agrees with the Zodiac under which they were born. An extensive analysis of all famous people will show that 1/12th will have personalities different than the stars require.

Every month, 10 million people are born on this Earth. No thinking person can possibly believe that the 10 million born in say January will all have the same personality, which will be different from the 10 million born in February, etc.

Assuming that there are 12 different basic types of personalities, then of the 10 million persons born each month, there will be an almost equal quantity of people with each of the 12 personality types.

FAITH. Another part of the claimed success of astrology in matching personalities and birth date in the Zodiac can be attributed to faith. If a person has unweaving faith in what is expected of him in the books of astrology then, as he thinketh, so he becomes. If a person is born under Leo, but inherited the personality of a lamb, then he can temporarily behave as a Leo only as long as he believes that he is a Leo. When he loses faith in astrology, his personality will revert to that of a lamb.

Thus, I have shown that the stars affect behavior after birth, but the stars cannot determine personality at birth.

I predict that astrological analysis will be improved by astronomers who will compute the atmospheric voltage and ions on the surface of the Earth on a day-by-day basis according to celestial positions in the ephemeris. Then, physiologists will prepare charts which will show the behavioral effects of varying atmospheric voltages and ions on people with various blood chemistry.

AIRES March 21-April 20.

February: Inspirational. Sell your wares, personality. Friendships may puzzle a bit, again you seem concerned over some matter to do with a child or a young person. This concern may also extend to a boss or one in authority. Listen well, learn a lot. . .your understanding of yourself and others will soon pay off. Letters, messages may hold problems but not insurmountable ones. You mix business and pleasure well this month. Career, job, business matters are looking up for you.

March: Some unfinished business may be going on in the background and requires much thought, deliberation from you. Some solitude rejuvenates you, is necessary in fact. You may be in for more surprises especially if they relate to the opposite sex. A friendship could and likely will grow more ardent, if this is your desire. Competition, rivalry, still lively though, due to Uranus now in your 7th house but its all a challenge anyway, and you love that or you wouldn't be an Aries. Exciting and/or disturbing news from a distance, especially a foreign land. Neptune now and for some time to come in your 9th house poses problems re. in-laws, long distance matters.

TAURUS April 21-May 20.

February: Discretion, diplomacy on your part, Taurus will be wise. Avoid gossipy people like the plague and don't get involved in any way. Parental, career, job, or those in authority may hold some problems for you this month. Study, research benefit you and expand the mind and you have a new approach to life. Inheritance seems to figure in your star-picture now or soon, yet you can't afford to take any legacy matter for granted, with Neptune in your 8th (house of inheritance.) Protect your finances now. Partner may come in for unexpected financial gains before long.

March: Avoid going to extremes, and take care of health...with unpredictable, radical Uranus in your 6th house (Health) for a long time to come, let moderation all down the line be your watchword, Taurus. Love may, just for the time being, take a back seat but not for long. .not with Venus shining down from the midheaven of your chart for all of March...yet a friend or child could vex or cause real concern. Saturn, the Builder, is still a solid influence in your life.

GEMINI May 21-June 21.

February: Wise to talk things over with the partner now...also no use being too critical of the partner. Keep a bright outlook in spite of confusing events that may puzzle Geminis for a while. Get enough rest. Be discreet in love matters or quite possibly complications could occur or already have. You gain through relationships no matter how otherwise it may look at first. Creative Geminis, literary, art, music or whatever, are soon to make sparks, will rise to unsuspected heights if they turn emotional energy into constructive systemized channels. Exciting news, experiences in relation to long distance matters, or the foreign born, while publishing interests also will be favoring Geminis from May on.

March: Past resentments fade as you reach a new plateau of understanding...and would-be "foes" are transformed into friends because You make it happen...This may well include someone on the domestic scene, a child or children, quite possibly, who now see a new more magnetic and persuasive you. Romance, marital exciting, if a bit on the unpredictable side.

CANCER June 22-July 22.

February: Be patient in love, marital matters, Venus may seem to be looking the other way. Co-operate, don't be too independent, team work is the way of wisdom for sure, Cancer, this February. Don't get involved with any strangers, or be too swayed either, by fellow-workers. Yet others notice that you are more outgoing than in a long while, not as apt to stay in your well known shell as usually. Then others are more apt to be influenced by you, will follow your directions. Watch finances though as problems could arise in this respect. Avoid confused states of mind or yourself being unduly influenced by others who may themselves be confused (The blind leading the blind.) and steer clear (continue to) of the morbid or depressing things, people who only see the dark side. Use care in re. to all real estate matters, don't be too hasty or over-extend yourself financially. You can get around others, you don't have to trample on their feet, and hurt feelings.

March: Watch health, as you may be overdoing, trying too hard to meet deadlines, and please others. Important message from afar, and you may be signing some significant paper or contract that boosts finances for you, adds to your prestige. Guard secrets. Tension lessens which always makes Cancerians feel a lot better, more at peace with themselves and the world. Significant events occur in re. to partner's relatives. Romance gains momentum, adds color and spice to your life. Intuition, charm are at high levels now, can get you places, help your ambitions, help you to achieve your goal. New subjects that interest you, reading, add to your mental enlightenment.

LEO July 23-August 22.

February: Investment, childrens, love matters all important now, with Neptune, Jupiter & Mars all in your 5th house, ruling same. Love is wild, dreamy, irresistible, was never like this nor will it ever be again, and in many instances is close by for most Leos. Use care with re. to strangers, especially those who knock on your door (see who's there first.) Messages continue to be urgent—from time to time, that is. Continue to use care, avoid speed on trips and in traffic, as well. If in the entertainment world (and so many Leos are, in one way or another), be your own original self as your career gains thereby. Up to the 18th (Feb.), your best bet is to see the other's point of view, not try to go it alone. . .co-operate. . .and if necessary on occasion, compromise a little.

March: You combine the social and business well, are a real leader, ready and willing to get the show on the road. . .yet you may run up against delays, slowness, where others are concerned. . .yet this won't really daunt you and your own enthusiasm catches on. Being in love as you well may be now lends magic to your personality and you could come out the winner in some affair of l'amour. You are more understanding and this as usual, begets understanding from others. Be careful of mishaps, to self or others, and watch health from the 12th March on. Develop work of a luxury nature, such as art, working in perfumes, furs, paintings, and anything along creative, artistic lines. Yet try to keep work schedules less tense. A legal matter may cause you concern toward late March, however, or again it could have to do with a marriage relative, and/or someone at a long distance (especially in a foreign land.) Such messages may be of urgent nature.

VIRGO
August 23-September 22.

February: Your magnetism is at a new high and continues so for some time to come. Later Feb. sees your need for this too, persuasion, when you likely will be confronting some obstinate person. "Easy does it" will be your motto then, as they come to see your side of the matter, whatever it may be. A new love comes your way. Domestic or property matters may call for some adroit handling but this shouldn't be difficult for Virgo, yet at the same time, be alert in such matters from now on, with Neptune in your 4th house for a very long transit. Get enough rest as from now on you may find you tire more easily.

A parental matter may call for your concern, if so try to handle the matter with calmness and understanding. You may find that certain facets of the home or property situation will from time to time be clouded, not exactly out in the open. Continue to use care as to what you sign.

March: A legacy matter may figure in the picture now. Romance is highlighted. Property matters may change at the last moment, but probably beneficially for you.

LIBRA
September 23-October 23.

February: Your personality sparkles, you are the very definition of the word "verve," original, adventurous, intriguing and exciting. You express yourself well, gain the co-operation of neighbors, relatives, if need be, and have a whole new outlook on life now. Gain through the written word. Control unruly emotions though—which could get out of hand, Uranus being a heady influence in your life now. Transactions should be smoother than in a while because of your own amiability. More harmony in the home too which is a help you will admit, while even the social scene holds romance for you, if this is what you are looking for.

March: The month starts out OK but as it progresses, might be disputes with family members especially from the 14th on after Mercury changes to Aries, your opposite sign. Also Mars, up to May 3, is in your house of the home (and property matters) and this is none too serene an influence, where such are concerned, the family and property. Use your well known Libra smooth approach, don't try to fight City Hall (family, or the Establishment). . . just won't pay you to—especially from the 14th of March on. . . so be advised, Libra. . . in spite of all your charm you can still run into opposition over such a period. Be careful of mishaps in the home, not alone quarrels, stay calm no matter what. Also protect property against damage. Friendships are a balm now, your oasis, and some friendship holds romantic overtones. A relative may attempt to change your mind but it appears to be pretty much made up as you heed your inner voice re. romantic matters. Take care of health. In-law may worry you.

SCORPIO October 24-November 21.

February: Some problem arises in the home or in your area. Much coming and going in the home, much discussion, writing, there. Finances, property matters figure large in the picture, yet you must be realistic re. finances and property, avoid joint accounts. etc. and have all material matters at least well understood, with Neptune now in your 2nd house, or you could suffer some deception in money and/or property matters or not see things clearly, over-estimating same.

March: You might be considering an investment or speculation in the near future and be signing papers to this effect. May have some concern over a child or young person. Take care of health, you could make a trip in the interest of health now. News re. relatives will be significant. Use care, avoid speed, in traveling. Important or significant messages come to you probably after the 12th. Matters in the home are romantic, emotional. You may acquire some luxury items for the home during March. Protect or safeguard valuables. Love makes you feel nine feet tall.

SAGITTARIUS November 22-December 21.

February: Neptune in your sign now for approx. the next 14 years (plus Jupiter and Mars, over Feb.-March), spells big things for Sags., yet some things have a touch of the unreal, even the confused, about them. . . Neptune is the dreamer—the visionary, though this planet will bring out the creative, imaginative in all Sagittarians from now on. Just don't rush into things (with this strong Mars influence over you now and through March 10. . . count ten, and proceed with at least some caution.

March: Domestic, property, parental, financial matters will be accented during March. . . could be a change of residence. Watch outgo of money, don't let it get away from you that fast, especially after March 15th, otherwise income can be increased. Avoid disputes over money though, or this could extend to property and possessions as well. . . looks a bit turbulent, these areas. Avoid over-enthusiasm and again, be more down to earth than up in the clouds in order to do the right thing by yourself. And continue to be diplomatic, understanding in all friendship matters, which, due to the Uranus transit now in your 11th house could easily get out of kilter. Get enough rest and don't let yourself be pressured by anyone, though things will be moving fast in your day to day life. Saturn still and up to June 17th this year in your house of health tends to make you overdo at work, so try to control and moderate this. You may be concerned too over the health of some one close by, who means something to you.

CAPRICORN
December 22-January 20.

February: Background areas, secrets loom large now with Neptune in your 12th house. You can try to avoid problems through being calm, diplomatic; it might help somewhat. Look out for a money loss. Contacts you make now will be useful later on.

Confidential matters continue to figure largely in the picture and some secret may out in spite of all you can do to prevent it. Business affairs will add to your income. You look within from time to time, are studying yourself more so perhaps than ever before in your entire life. Avoid involving yourself with strangers and use caution when in any remote place, if along. . . best to be careful and avoid dangerous situations or localities now and through the 12th of March. You may be getting ready for some change, or new endeavor not quite ripe yet.

March: News you get from a distance is most interesting to you personally. You could also be considering some long trip, espec. to a foreign land. A legal matter may also figure in the picture but does not seem too altogether resolved or settled just yet. You may be spending on little luxuries. A parental matter could cause you concern, or there are changes in the affairs of a parent or soon will be. Change also may come up in your work or business, or change of personnel also indicated now or soon. News you get from a distance may be in the form of information you've been waiting for. . . and could relate to a job or a business matter, which in turn means more money for you. Much patience on your part may be called for in order to avoid irritations that are bound to be present from time to time. Don't be hasty and say rash things you'll later regret!

AQUARIUS January 21-February 18.

February: Background situations may worry but not for too long. You are outgoing, sympathetic, well disposed toward others, but with Neptune in your 11th house of friends and acquaintances, don't overdo this and be imposed upon. It could happen—you are meeting up with some unusual Aquarians if not strange people now, A friend in a bad spot may call on your assistance. . .Handle this matter with moderation. Around the 25th some financial matter may absorb you but it turns out OK, so don't worry.

March: You have magnetism to spare now, Aquarius and others are drawn to you. Use care to avoid mishaps that could occur, by not rushing into things. With Mercury from the 14th (March) to April 1 in your 3rd house, you seem tense and this could invite trouble. Use care in all trips during the second half of March espec. Messages re. a relative may be significant. Communications could get snarled so try to safeguard the possibility of this. Control a tendency to be too frank or outspoken and instead, use the well known Aquarian diplomacy...That will be better! There is something romantic about a friendship in your life, now present, or soon to be. Finances perk up beautifully for you. Domestic matters run into delays, restrictions but not something unable to be lived with and you take them in stride.

PISCES February 19-March 20.

February: You may still be mulling over taking that long (foreign) trip, Pisces. . .you haven't really given up the idea. Otherwise, are you dreaming, not alert or aware re. what is going on right under your nose, so to speak...Look sharp or you could have some business deception. Parental matters may be cloudy, cause you some concern, or something relating to a parent (and/or a boss or one in authority) does not appear to be too clear-cut just now, bears looking into. You could find dishonesty in your midst, to your surprise. Be careful of scandal, as Neptune now and for some time to come hangs like the sword of Damacles over your midheaven, or influence if you allow it to be, otherwise you can rise above gloomy states of mind that may assail you from time to time. Advertising, publishing interests you may have should go well now, as well as any artistic or creative endeavor of yours.

March: Think positive and outwit your planets, namely gloomy gus Saturn in your 3rd house of the mind or outlook, up to this June 17th. Relatives seem to hold you back now or did around late Feb. Shun credit buying, getting deep in debt. You have charm-plus which could arouse jealousy in someone...be on guard, Pisces! Some one or some thing at a distance still beckons...Don't let secrets get you into trouble.

"THE DEAD KNOW NOT ANYTHING"

By STEVE ERDMAN

Here is a challenge to the "LIFE AFTER DEATH" theory

Okay, I've had it! The typical approach to the question of the "supernatural" and spiritism in the pages of Search and other publications of the same ilk has finally forced me to say the following:

One could plunder through pages upon pages through such literature and read over and over again the supposition that intelligent "life after death", via the soul, spirit, etc., is a proven reality. Yet, unless the following erratic, inconsistencies are dealt with, demonstrably, it is a wandering theory with little proof.

(1) If the continuance of the "personality" of the dead person lives on, certainly then all the "thoughts", grief, sorrow one feels for the deceased could be sensed by him or her, and thus prompt him to answer. Not in some vague way, but the percentage of silence far out-weighs the vague "some things or other" termed "spirit contact."

(2) Those brought back to life by adrenaline and other hormone medical stimulates, usually report nothing but complete unconsciousness or no memory, especially those termed medically "dead".

(3) The oft repeated remark about "because man 'thinks', ergo, as the only 'thinking' creature who could even visualize "after life continuance", there must be something "beyond". I suppose a dog "thinks" chasing his tail has some utopian benefit, but we know differently. "I think the moon is cheese," says one man. Is it?

(4) We have a person here on earth which claims consistent contact with the dead. He or she is a "medium", and it is a life-long profession. Then he or she dies! Would these person's not make it a definite point to systematically make contact with their former world, in some stentorian way?

(5) Also, what about the trillions of "minds" passing over, genius', scientists, miracle workers. Why haven't these individuals banded together to make a systematic, consistent "communications" set-up, instead of the once in a while apparition which could be explained by a number of other things? Some of our best "minds" have gone "over"!

(6) Not only systematic but sustained communication. They wouldn't only be fleeting apparitions of a minute or less, but perhaps hours or days, and in detail and substance.

(7) Understand the cruel illusion of the following situation. James X is a happy, lively person. He is active, successful and a very intelligent scientist who is very religious. He loves his family with a desperate passion, and would do anything to make them happy. He said "He would come back from the dead to be with his family". Suddenly, he dies, quite unexpectedly, and his family grieves terribly: yet there is not one word from Jim from the "other side". A mighty pragmatic challenge to those who use various rationalizations for life after death. And there are hundreds of Mr. X's everyday who die in the same circumstances like Jim.

(8) The oft heard comment that a 'soul' is our mind "power" and our "personality" which has left our body, yet apparently can "see" things. The inference is that these visions are an "E.S.P." type thing. . .and so no physical eyes necessary. It is hard to understand how a "soul" could function this way without some kind of physical counterpart to its former self. The same for "spirit". Reminds me of a protoplasmic, nebulous "blob" floating in a nether world. Unreasonable.

(9) If the many apparitions which occur portray an accurate "picture" of the world we "pass into", life must be, at best, imbecilic, or at worst, insane. For many show up and do pranksterish and insane things, such as appearing on the same bend in the road year after year, where they had died trying to get back home, etc. Or "Uncle Fred" shows his face in the window to "little Willy", and the family figures it from little Willy's description that it was, indeed, the uncle.

(10) If Ray Palmer's theory about the Shaver Mystery is right, the world over there is just as physical as our world here, and that means even hospitals, homes, cars, streets, books, etc., then how does this compare with Bishop Pike's "Seances" with his son, who said spirits were handicapped by "bodies", but were more like energy and it would even seem that "spirits had a hard time communicating with spirits" while on the "other side". Various planes, levels were mentioned, and it seemed that not all went to the same place or even were able to communicate, but were "compartmentalized": the old, vague forms floating through drifting "clouds" concept.

(11) The contradictory information passed by spirits through, even, the same medium, such as the "Bishop Pike and son" episode. Some talked of more mundane affairs and appearances, others spoke of real esoteric and spiritual type of existence.

(12) For example, along a different line, in the Pike episode, his son alleged said there was a "Jesus" there, and that he was an "enlightened" one (whatever that means), but he was an example and not a "saviour". How can this be reconciled with the title "Jesus": meaning "God save us—or—God with us." The angel told Mary: "You shall call his name Jesus, because He will save His people from their sins." Peter, one of Christ's intimate disciples said: ". . .no other name under heaven by which we are to be saved."

(13) If everything is "set-up" the way Pike says, on the "other side", then why didn't "Carol Rede's" brother end up there upon his death. The spirit world knew nothing of him.

(14) The Christian Cults, Jehovah's Witness, Herbert W. Armstrong, etc., point out the Scriptural text that "the dead know not anything" and the "soul (body, nephesh) that is sinning shall die. . ." If the Bible is commendable enough to bolster Palmer's "Holes at the Poles" theory, shall it not be also correct in these topics too?

Fourteen out of a possible hundred. What a challenge! Who can answer demonstratably without hedging or rationalization?

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

POOR PRINTING

Dear Ray Palmer:

Thank you for sending me my Oahspe. I was very glad to get it but was somewhat disappointed in the faded letters throughout the printing. Some of the words have such faded letters it is hard for me to make them out. I didn't realize this was a photo print copy of the original 1882. Are all of the books like this or did I get one which is worse?

I am also interested in what you believe. Did you get your book published and if so would like one and please tell me the price and I will send for it when I hear from you. Thank you kindly.

Mrs. Geo. Robinson
18349 Carmel Dr.
Castro Valley, Calif. 94546

"MAGNIFICENT" PRINTING

I would like to know more about the printing of that original. If it was done by monotype, all set into type by hand, it was almost as fantastic a job as Gutenberg's Latin bible in 1455. If it was done by Linotype, (and I doubt it was because the Linotype was first used in 1885) it was still a big job for those times.

At any rate, I am a printer, and am interested in details about Oahspe's printing. May I say it was a magnificent job of printing to say the least.

EARLY EDITION

Dear Mr. Palmer:

I hear that you are interested in early Editions of Oahspe.

Reading in one of my Faithists booklets I find there is or was a very early edition of Ohaspe in the Library at Lily Dale, N.Y., a spiritualist camp in N.Y.

The book is quite large and contains many excerpts of sittings with mediums pertaining to Dr. Newbrough's research into Psychic realms. It also has three pages left in, which are missing in the present edition.

Hope this is the one you are looking for and that you can have copies made.

P.S. Please let me know if it is the right one—Good luck!

"WE ARE READY TO BEGIN LABOR NOW"

Dear Mr. Palmer,

How we love "Oahspe"! In fact, we have two copies, so we can read together. It educates and inspires us, and has forever altered our lives. Thank you for publishing it.

We were intrigued by your invitation to "avail" ourselves of "all additional evidence now preserved in the archives of the Essenes of Kosmon." Just where are these archives to be found, and how may we go about availing ourselves?!

Also, do you know of any groups of Faithists now living as those described in the last chapter of "Oahspe"? And if so, can you tell us how to contact them?

We have investigated various groups, but either they are eaters of flesh, or they desire to live more or less as Ascetics; for self only.

We're ready to begin labor Now!! But as Tae realized, you need many helping hands and a large piece of land. Surely others must be getting the same urge we are feeling.

Thank you for your help. We shall look forward to your reply.

WING ANDERSON'S WRITINGS

Dear Ray Palmer:

Was reading Nov. 1970 Search mag. when you answered about books written by Wing Anderson.

He wrote "Wars's End" which is a synopsis of "Oahspe" with predictions in prose.—Wonderful Book—Ask at Library.

Andell Wolfe

Capitola, Calif. 95010

Greetings:

The writer and a companion visited, briefly, with the late Wing Anderson in Nov. 1956; at which time we bought a book, "The Seven Keys to the Kingdom" which took as its text seven of the chapters of OAH SPE—with the idea, that this text would better prepare a 'seeker' in understanding the Oahspe Bible. It is a hard back volume, blue in color. I believe they can still be purchased from DeVorss and Co. Publishers, Los Angeles, Cal. Wing Anderson was the publisher.

In my studies and in my search for a better KNOWING of what OAH SPE was all about, I was led to the SITE OF SHALOM, near the small village of Dona Anna, N.M. and thence to the Chamber of Commerce at Las Cruces, N.M. where I was handed an unpublished manuscript with a very vivid description of the Origin, Growth and Demise of this first attempt to establish THE FATHER'S KINGDOM ON EARTH. My recent efforts to obtain this manuscript, or a copy of it, has met with temporary failure; when the time is right, this will be forthcoming.

The Brannigan Memorial Library,

Las Cruces, N.M. has two booklets written by Katy Stoes entitled "The Land of Shalom" The first one offprinted from New Mexico Historical Review in January 1958, and the second in April, 1958, by New Mexico University at Albuquerque, N.M. 87106. It is the writers conviction that the greatest amount of material on this subject would be forthcoming from the University.

So much for SHALOM for the moment. Would appreciate getting in touch with OAHSPÉ Students in this area. It appears that the time is ripe for all units to SWING into action. Your assistance in this matter will be much appreciated.

MY TRIP TO THE EARTH'S INTERIOR

JUNE CAREY .....

I though it was a strange coincidence that the first issue of your Flying Saucer magazine that I recieved had a picture of the pole on the cover and contained many letters from people who did not agree with you about the pole-opening.

I had been trying to get up enough courage to write and tell you about my experience. I write now to tell you that you are right about the pole openings.

The story I tell you now is true.

On May 30, 1970 at 6:30 p.m. I went into my bedroom to take a short nap as I suddenly had become rather drowsy.

I slipped my shoes off and lay across my bed. I had just closed my eyes and had not started to drift into the somnolent state when I suddenly felt a strong magnetic pull on my back and felt my astro body leave my physical body. Believe me, I was just as conscious then as I am now writing this story.

JUNE CAREY

I majored in drama in school and had intended to make the theater my life's work until a tall, handsome Naval Ensign walked into my life and I gave up all for love and marriage. We were blessed with five beautiful children. Unfortunately my marriage ended in divorce after my husbnad left the service and I returned home to California to start a new life for myself. I was working as a make-up artist in a large department store in Oakland in August, 1968 when I first decided to open the door to the psychic universe. From the moment I first opened THAT door I have had one extraordinary psychic experience after another.

I did not float upward as I usually did when I had other astro projections. Instead I felt myself pulled out of my body and then pulled downward, I seemed to travel at a great rate of speed and I began to panic when I realized I was alone and could not feel a hand on my back guiding me as I had always felt before on other astro flights.

I tried to pull my astro body back into my physical body and only after great effort was I successful and again in my physical body. I started to open my eyes when they snapped shut and I again felt my astro body pulled from my physical body and again at a rapid rate of speed we descended into the earth.

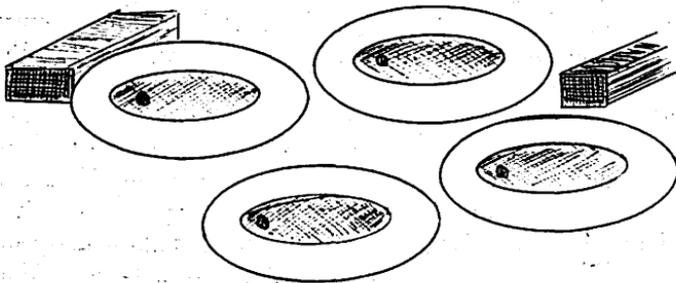

I opened my eyes and saw the solid earth as we passed through it at great speed. I was conscious of someone with me this time because I felt one hand on my solar plenus and another hand on my back guiding me. He kept assuring me by telepathy that I was safe and that there was nothing to fear.

I relaxed and let him guide me. Soon after passing through the brown solid earth we entered the hollow earth and continued downward through a light red brown mist. Through this mist sunlight shown down on us from above. We continued downward.

We emerged from this mist and passed over a strange looking city. Unfortunately we traveled over it so fast it was rather a blur.

We soon slowed up and I was kept circling over one section of a beautiful sparkling blue green lake. I looked down to see what was beneath me. Directly below me on the lake were eight or ten bright orange saucers. I thought as I gazed at them that this must be a flying saucer base.

My guides kept me circling over the saucers for quite a while for some reason and long enough for me to inspect the saucers and the base.

Beside every few saucers was a bright red small windowless building or large box. I wondered if they were the battery centers that charged the saucers with micro-magnetic energy fuel.

I tried to talk but found it very difficult until I suddenly heard a woman's voice speak to me, "June, as soon as you escape from the world of Godliness you will discover the real truths. You are close to the answers yourself, are you not?" I nodded yes. I was so excited because it was the first time on any of my astro flights that I had ever heard a human voice.

I kept thinking I must remember everything she says and everything I see and write it all down as soon as I returned home. I am ashamed to say that in my excitement I forgot most of our conversation.

She said something like this. "We weep for the people on earth in your ignorance and misuse of the atoms." She said that we on earth must stop using the atoms for bombs and destructive purposes, that if we continued to do so we would destroy our beautiful planet. She said the earth had to be made to realize their peril.

We started to move over the lake and I looked around me and noticed that the lake or river was surrounded by large shady trees and bushes. It was so beautiful and peaceful.

The sky was clear and bluer than I had ever seen it before.

As we came down close to the water I noticed that the water was crystal clear and that I could see the bottom. I saw a large star fish and wondered what a starfish was doing in a lake.

As we skimmed over the lake the thought entered my head, "I wonder what they want me to do." She quickly said, "You wonder what we want you to do." I was so surprised my mouth flew open and I turned to stare at her. She laughed gently. "Yes, we can read your thoughts." Then she stopped smiling and looked at me. "You are going to be associated with an event." I thought she said invent and said, invent? She said, "No, no, not invent, event." I am sorry to say I forgot the rest of this conversation also.

She soon told me that our visit was over and that I must return home.

I thanked her for the wonderful experience. She then asked me if I would care to visit them again. I became as excited as a small child and asked if I might visit them many, many times.

She and the elderly man who had joined us and was taking me back laughed and assured me I would visit them again. They both seemed pleased that I had enjoyed myself and she bid me good-bye.

Then as I turned to leave I completely blacked out for a few minutes. When I next opened my eyes I was back in my room.

I jumped quickly to get a pad of paper to write it all down before I forgot everything.

My head had a strange tight feeling and I had a slight headache. I am so disgusted with myself because in my excitement I forgot most of our conversation, although I did write down what I could remember. I called a couple of friends and told them what just happened. They asked me if I knew where I had been taken. I told them I intended to find out by going to the library Monday morning and by looking at the large globe I hoped I could pinpoint the spot I thought I had been taken to if we had traveled through the entire earth. I told my friends I did not believe that I came out on the other side of the world but I would sure find out.

I pinpointed the spot as a city in Afghanistan. I looked through many travel books on Afghanistan looking for the lake that I had been taken to. But I could find no such lake.

Where did they take me? I wondered very much about this. Then I decided to look in the library card index file under U.F.O.'s to see if I could find out if there were any reports or sightings of bright orange saucers.

As I went through the cards I came upon a card with the book title "The Hollow Earth", by Raymond Bernard.

"This is it", I thought, "This is where I was taken". I took the book home and read it and knew that all I read was true because I was there.

The story you have read is true.

I realize few people will believe me but I feel "they" wanted me to tell you.

The "Hollow Earth" mentioned the name, Ray Palmer.

It took me a while to locate you but I was determined to find you and tell you my story.

Do you think it was a mere coincidence that my first magazine from you should be on the pole openings? I think not. Mr. Palmer, they led me to those books and you. Why! Only time and "they" will tell.

Who took me there? Was it entities from the other side of life trying to help and warn all the peoples of this planet or were they people of the super race who also can travel in the astral world.

I am just a simple housewife, Mr. Palmer. Why did they pick me?

HOW TO PROLONG

by H. RUTH KARP

Who would not live longer? All of us, of course! Young and old—aware or unaware—we have a natural feeling to preserve our lives. Witness our outward attempts at least, to thwart Father Time. Are we not, most of us, involved in a knowledgeable race with him in our efforts to look young. We assure ourselves that if we but look young we will somehow feel young, and then we hope that perhaps we will be young, or younger, anyhow. And though these efforts bring us some results we seem to be forgetting that we are occupying ourselves with the outwardness of ourselves, and we are so making little or no effort with our inward state of being. From this deepest strata come demands. For satisfying these needs the following of known, but obscure ways will indeed bring us the rewards we are seeking in our search for the answer to this problem of "how to prolong life". Ancient men of wisdom left us words whereby we could well benefit our ever inner demands.

Look! See what we read in the second book of Hermes, Command II: "Be innocent and without disguise; so shalt thou be like an infant who knows no malice which destroys the life of man." Dictionary states malice is ill will, enmity of heart. Then do we not need to cultivate a way that avoids these characteristics, and come to a strengthening from within by simple avoidance of this destroyer, malice.

Today what great and wonderful external beauty we have committed ourselves to! Yet we need also to come to see the want for the way of living for that internal beauty waiting to be revealed; waiting silently in all of us. We must come to see how the satisfying of this will increase our time here for man has as much a need for the inner spiritual beauty of himself as for the outer physical, and so this too must be developed. Let us look at some of the practical reasons why.

Going far back into time, to different religions and different cultures all through the ages, we come upon truths left for mankind, applicable to everyday living at any place, at any time in living; truths we need embrace for the realization of this desire of the heart.

Rabbi Nehuma once was asked by a pupil, "How have you prolonged your life, Rabbi, to such a ripe old age?" And the Rabbi's answer might well answer our hope for longevity, if we but coax it into our own lives. He told his pupil, "My son, I have never endeavored to attain honor at the expense of another's degradation. Neither has the remembrance of a wrong done to me by day gone to bed with me at night."

In the Talmud we read, "One who wishes to be forgiven must himself forgive," and further, "The bad thought and envy of companions cause the death of man."

Still another Rabbi—Rabbi Tyra spoke about his way of living his life which was a long one. He summed it up, "The secret which has gained me a peaceful, happy old age is: I have never harboured anger or discord in my family. I have never envied those possessing more of wisdom or wealth than I, and I have never rejoiced in the downfall of another."

Coming close to daily living and what is familiar to all let us see what Psalms 34: 12-14 has to say on this vital subject: "What man is he that desireth life, and loveth many days that he may see good?" "Keep thy tongue from evil and thy lips from speaking guile." "Depart from evil and do good, seek peace and pursue it."

How many, many choice bits of information there that lead to a realization, if but lived. Some a little obscure, quite unknown probably, but there for us to read and apply in daily life, and the younger we start the better for us, for then will there be no difficulty in breaking up a way of life that is proven a non beneficial one.

Originally written in Sanskrit before the 2nd Century B.C., a favorite of busy kings and statesmen of India, as well as of monks of the Himalayan retreats, from the Yoga Vashishtha, we may read: "Death will not prey upon the person who is not vitiated by the poison of anger and enmity, whose heart does not fester the dragon of avarice in its darkness by the canker of cares." Revealing still further, "Of what avail are wealth, comeliness, fame or power without a knowledge of truth. Arise and accept an antidote to ward off old age and death: it is the knowledge that all wealth and prosperity, all pleasures and enjoyments are harmful to us unless devoted to the good of others; they tend only to sicken and enervate our frames."

Our last examination of ways of living advocated for life prolonging, must come from an early school of mysticism in Egypt which gave the following instructive words to men and women, written in the flowery language of that day, "Say not to the crow, Why numberest thou seven times the age of thy lord? or to the fawn, Why art thine eyes to see mine offspring to an hundred generations?

Are these to be compared with thee in the abuse of life? are they riotous? are they cruel? are they ungrateful? Learn from them rather, that innocence of life and simplicity of manners, are the paths to a good old age."

"Paths to a good old age." Well this is what we are seeking and plainly what mankind has been seeking for long, long ages. Perhaps we say it can't be done. It has not been done except rarely. If this is so we must wonder why? And if we are honest we must answer because the ways, the rules, given by wise men living in different ages, in different climes, have never been embraced. Mankind on the whole, has gone his own merry way, living his life and forgetting he had been told to eliminate malice, avarice, anger and enmity. Man's pleasure and enjoyment need be devoted to good of others, and so he need eliminate any abuse of his life, and not be cruel, riotous, or ungrateful. He need be innocent and simple in living. It's funny how deceived we can be when we seek to live otherwise, expecting to get what can't be gotten except in living in the way that the human body, so great and wonderously made, is able to withstand. When we are living in harmony with the means of life needed by our own very selves, the result can be none other than the satisfaction of that ever longing of the human heart, to prolong life.

TRUE EXPERIENCES

I FELT AS THOUGH I WERE DROWNING
by Kathleen McNalley

This experience I had in March 1928, is one of many I've had and proves we do have a protector, Guardian Angel, or call it hunches, or premonition, but it is a God-given help in time of need.

I had a couple of days off from my job in Long Beach, Calif. I had promised a friend I'd drive him to Fresno, Calif. to see his father who was dying. We arrived on March 11th, my friend spent the remainder of the day and evening with his father.

We had planned on leaving Monday evening, to return to Long Beach, knowing we would not arrive till the wee small hours or by daylight.

I had promised to have dinner with my friend's Aunt and Uncle then be on our way. On Monday, Rex spent the day with his father, while I stayed in the lounge. Right after lunch, while reading, all at once a strange uncanny feeling came over me, I felt as though I was drowning. A feeling of an impending disaster was affecting me. I attributed it to perhaps the passing of the sick old man. Then an unspoken inner voice said, "Go home, now, hurry". The message was repeated with more urgency. I knew I must obey the "voice" so I went to the private room where my friend's father was and said, "Rex, we must leave immediately". He looked at me in amazement and he saw I was very upset. When I could give no plausible answer for the reason, he was very provoked. He tried to talk me out of the notion when I said a tragedy was imminent. He reminded me we had a dinner engagement, but by that time I was almost in tears. I said we must leave now or I would go alone and we should cancel the dinner.

He left with me under protest, and sulked most of the way. I told him I wouldn't even stop for coffee until we got near to San Fernando, then we could stop and get something to eat. "Why there?" Rex asked. How can one answer an unanswerable question?

He begged me to slow down, I drove as though we were pursued. In 1928 the distance from Fresno was near three hundred miles. Top speed for cars on the then Route 99 was about fifty miles an hour.

As we approached the town of Saugus close to midnight, a strange feeling of sadness came over me. When we came close to the San Fernando Valley the tension eased somewhat, I said, "The next all night cafe and gas station we come to, we shall stop". "About time," he remarked in disgust.

While gas was being put in the car, we noticed a number of sheriff's cars speeding north when one pulled alongside of us for gas, my friend asked. "what is the trouble—a bad accident?" "Worse," the Sheriff answered. Then he asked if we had come through Newhall and Saugus and the time, and if I had driven through water. My friend replied, "She was driving too fast to see anything". The sheriff remarked, "a good thing she was driving fast, he said we must have had water lapping at our rear bumper, you were about fifteen minutes ahead of the water.

The St. Francis Dam located northerly of the city of Saugus had collapsed a little before midnight, March 12th, 1928. It contained the water for the Los Angeles Water and Power Co. It was never rebuilt, as too many lives were lost. An estimated two hundred people perished.

My friend just shook his head. How close death had been to us! The rest of the trip was not as hectic, but the realization of heeding my "voice", proved we should listen to that "still small voice".

WHO WAS THERE?

by Jessie Zientek

It was a gay Sunday afternoon. Three of my lady friends and I decided to go to a pizza parlor and enjoy an evening of old tie music and good eating. We stayed about three hours at the neighborhood pizza parlor, listening to the player piano, and the old fashioned records and singing by the people there. It was all so enjoyable and neighborly.

All four of our group were widowed; so having nothing else to do for the rest of the evening, we gathered at my house. We turned on the stereo to practice our dance steps, as we usually attended a dance for senior citizens on Friday nights.

We danced ourselves out. One lady, Mrs. Gray, spent the night with me, as she would had to have driven a long way home alone, late at night. The other ladies bade us goodnight and went out to their car and drove away.

I closed the front door, locked it and started to turn out the porch light, when suddenly the door knob started turning back and forth, as if someone was trying to open it. I opened the door but no one was there! We thought the other ladies had come back for something they had forgotten, but the screen door was also locked, so they couldn't have reached the knob to turn it.

The turning of the knob lasted for several minutes. We were too shocked to even open the door at first. We went in and sat down in the living room, discussing the matter, wondering what caused the phenomena. Mrs. Gray said, "Maybe we'll never know what caused it."

DRIFTING INTO REALITY

I sit in my garden among the summer bowers and gaze heavenward
Into the night sky to the twinkling stars.
The gentle breeze caresses my cheeks, and brings with it
The perfume of the flowers.
What is this loneliness I feel? Oh, Divine Creator,
Is there someone, somewhere on distant star,
Who gazes at this planet Earth, and wonders,
Same as I, why this tugging at the heart?
Where is that one, that face I almost see
For fleeting instances of time, and know
And recognize as I have never known another soul before?
What is this thin and gossamer veil that hides
From me the most important face in all thy universe?
What is this voice I hear so far away and yet so near That seems to say, "Ah! My adored, beloved one, know ye not
I wait for thee, and until thy work is done
I am ever near at hand? The gentle breeze
That touched thy cheek just now was I, beloved,
As I brushed away the tear that such a little space of time
Before had blurred thy sight and came between thee
And that distant star. Each heartache that comes to thee
Wounds thy beloved too, for thou canst not see the future same as I.
Thou canst not know that time, that fleeting thing called time
Will quickly pass, and thou shall come home with me
Where thou hast been before, and there we shall dwell in bliss forevermore.
Until this space of time has passed, my adored beloved one, I ask
That thou shalt know that I am here with thee,
In all the lovely flowers you see, in every smile on every persons Face you meet, in every blade of grass . . . I hear the Question in your heart and answer thee before you ask . . .
Thou canst not even dream of anything as lovely as thy heavenly form
For thy present coat is only earthy clay
And hides the beauty of the soul within . . . one of the Many treasures our Creator has in store for thee, as thy reward For work well done! Goodnight, my love! Goodnight! I bid thee sleep and see me in thy dreams."

The above was written by me on the night of May 17, 1967 and all I can say to you is that it was given to me by some power higher than any on this earth. It was done in about fifteen minutes, and I have never written anything like it in my life . . . in fact I could not!
—Ruby Simmons.

Dear Doctor Ann,

Dear Dr. Ann: How can I build up my immunity to illness?

Answer: There are simple methods for building up the natural immunity of the body, and they should be practised by everyone. Be on your guard against the vitality-reducing habits, which prepare the way for acute and chronic illness. If you feel sleepy after a meal, perhaps you have been eating more food than the body requires. If you are conscious of abdominal distress, examine your previous meals carefully and check whether you have been taking foods in unsuitable combinations. If you wake up feeling more tired than when you retired, it is often because some kind of mental or physical stress prevents sound sleep and relaxation. If your heart pounds so that you become conscious of it while lying in bed, here again the trouble may be due to the fact that the stomach is overloaded with too much food, causing an excessive degree of flatulence. The fact that you require more than eight hours of sleep to refresh you may indicate that you have not taken sufficient physical exercise during the day.

These are but a few of nature's danger-signals of impending disease, the study of which can provide an interesting and profitable means of learning how to avoid the more serious forms of acute disease. You will then be on your guard against those small hygienic errors which, if repeated day after day and year after year, lead to a lowering of vital resistance and an accumulation of disease-causing toxins in the system.

Our Daily Prayer

HEAVENLY FATHER:

I greet each morning as a new born babe, standing with uplifted heart and an open mind, asking You to cleanse my soul so I may be a perfect co-creator with You in every thought, every word and every action in the hours ahead. My greatest wish is to put my desires and ideas into physical action today. I seek a strong will to self-discipline my thinking and eating habits. Aid me, by preventing wrong action on my part, to let nothing disturb my peace of mind.

Make me too big mentally to worry, too noble for anger, too steady in my faith for fear.

Let me speak only of health, happiness and hope that will blot out all tendencies to criticise. In my work, let me expect and see nothing but perfect accomplishment. My past mistakes must merely be profitable lessons which I utilize, without regret or self-incrimination, to press onward to greater achievement.

Grant me a full understanding that love is the fulfillment of spiritual service to others. Give me patience and a forgiving heart not only for the weaknesses of others but also for my own shortcomings. I need wisdom to think right, which, in itself, will bring an abundance of all things to supply my daily needs.

For these blessings I give thanks, as I do for guidance and protection as I work in Your vineyard, which makes me understand more clearly that by the golden rule I can receive only what I give; that nobody can take anything that belongs to me; that what seems lost is really my gain.

Permit me to help others, but provide me with the foresight to give each soul freedom to find its way, while I always see in others the purity of spiritual concepts. Give me a grateful heart. Let me bless anything which comes into my life and be thankful for every little incident; appreciative of music, the beauties of nature, the trees, brooks, fields and the colors of Your wondrous creations. Let the rainbow always follow the showers and the bright sunshine dry all tears. I thank Thee for the great awakening.

I know I am the expression of You, that You smile through my lips and speak through my words. That You serve patiently and lovingly through me every minute of the day. My body is the living temple in which You also dwell and it is my sacred duty to take good care of it for You.

MY MOTHER'S GIFT

“And she passed it on to me.”

Grace Baugham

My mother was a wonderful person and gifted with an extraordinary power from childhood on. She was one of eleven children and the seventh born. She often came right out and said, “Aunt Molly is coming to see us tomorrow.” Her mother would laugh and figure it was child’s imagination, but lo and behold, day would dawn and there would come Aunt Molly, bag and baggage. This was just one of many thousands of happenings she predicted and each one came true, just as she had said it would.

As she got older, she even became a weather prophet. It would be a beautiful day and she would look up at the sky and say, “Mama, you better get the washing done today as it will rain tonight.” It never failed to do as she predicted. After many incidents such as these, her mother and relatives started taking her advice.

When she was fifteen years old, she was sitting mending clothes in the sewing room, which was on the top floor of an old fashioned three-story house in Cincinnati, Ohio. The older children of the family each had their work to do in such a large family. Her father, who owned a large butcher shop downtown, had been ill with pneumonia for about a month. He seemed to be recovering but was still very weak. It was a beautiful day so he decided to go to the shop and see if all was going well. While she was finishing her mending she happened to look up and saw a small, perfectly round white snowy cloud. It was about the size of a cantaloupe. It drifted slowly by the window. She got up and watched it as long as she could see it. It drifted straight up and out of sight. No sooner did she lose sight of it when a man came to the house to tell them her father had just died. He had gone into the large freezer to check the meat and the cold hit him and he had a cerebral hemorrhage and thought he was.

Around my seventh year, I dreamed one night of a man with curly hair and in my dream he said to me, "I am your father."

I woke up next morning and told my mother my dream. My grandmother and one aunt were present at the time visiting us. During this period we lived in Denver, Colorado, as my step-dad worked for

GRACE BAUGHAM TELLS ABOUT HERSELF—

My husband and I are both writers. We have been writing for magazines and newspapers for years, but until recently it was just a few a year. We are both sales people, and have worked for a large company for years and wrote in our time off and on week-ends, but decided last year to really work at writing. I am an only child born on November 9, 1911. Married in 1930, had seven children, six living and all married. Our baby boy just got back from Viet Nam. I have fourteen grandchildren and two step-grandchildren, and another one on the way.

died instantly.

All of her life she saw and heard things that no one in this world had any explanation for. She was married at twenty-one and I was born a year later. My real Dad died of a heart attack when I was two and a half. Later, when I reached the age of four, my mother married another wonderful man. He was the only one I remembered and he wanted me to think he was my real father—and I a large company and traveled a great deal as an inspector of boilers. My mother and the rest of my family set to asking me questions and I described exactly the clothes he had been buried in. This was my first experience in the supernatural. They talked it over and told me about my real father. They decided my real father had wanted me to know about him and came to me in a dream.

We later moved out to California and at eighteen I was married and my mother joined a spiritualist church. She was such a beautiful person that some of the ladies attending the church talked her into having a meeting at her house. It was just a little get-together and they all prayed and sang. My mother, during the course of the meeting, would hold some object which belonged to another person. She would give the person a spiritual reading. She saw their relatives that had long ago passed on to the other side. These persons were all strangers to her; she knew nothing about their families or their past lives.

After this first meeting, one person told another about their experiences at my mother's house. Before long she was having two meetings a week and would have to turn people away, for there was not enough room to seat them.

My mother had me pray at a certain time each day and sit in meditation. I started to develop quickly. I had what she called, "physical spiritual power", something in my body the spirits could use, such as raps and table moving. Of course, this was just done for fun and just when someone desired to see this manifestation. It was such a wonderful feeling within this little church my mother made of her home. You would enter and it would seem that all the cares of the world left you. You could feel the spirit of God uplift your soul.

One evening we were all sitting around in a circle singing "Nearer My God To Thee" and suddenly I found myself up, over the top of all, close to the ceiling—I actually felt as if my body and all had risen. But I looked down and I could see everyone sitting below, including myself! I heard my mother say, "Grace is in a trance, don't anyone touch her and startle her." And then she led them all in prayer. I then felt as if I were drifting through the air and saw the beach and ocean rolling below me. I then saw a man's body floating in on the waves and reaching the shore and being pulled back again. (We had moved to a beach town on the Southern California Coast.)

What I had seen was right on the beach at the side of the local theater in town. After this vision I came to, or awoke, whichever you wish to choose, and I felt wonderful but drowsy, as if I had had eight hours sleep. I told everyone what I had seen. The next day the story was in all the local papers: UNIDENTIFIED MAN'S BODY DRIFTED IN. He had been dead about a week. This was the starting point for me.

From then on I was able to give readings to the public. I found person's lost watches, children, and answered questions about things I myself knew nothing about. My mother passed away at the age of 64. For her last five years on earth she had had asthma and would sleep in a sitting position. All of her life she had been very superstitious about Friday the 13th and that was the day she left this world of ours. At the time I was working in an aircraft factory on swing shift. I would get home from work around two a.m. every morning.

She and my dad were living with me and she would watch my children while I was at work. Each night I would arrive home and fix us each a cup of hot chocolate and tell her the events of the night. She didn't sleep well and it was our little meeting we looked forward to in the quiet and peaceful early morning.

This one night, Friday the 13th, when I arrived home, her light was not on. I had had a feeling of, shall I call it disaster? All evening I was troubled. During my lunch break, which was at nine o'clock, I had called home to see if all was well. My mother had answered the phone and said she was having a hard time breathing. She had called a local doctor and he was coming to give her a shot for her asthma. She then told me to be careful driving home as it was foggy that evening. These were the last words I heard my mother speak on this earth. She lapsed into a coma and peacefully crossed the line from this world to the next. She passed away at nine o'clock in the morning, Friday the 13th. At the time my only daughter, married and living in Los Angeles, was washing dishes and there was a window looking out right in front of where she was working. Her grandmother's face suddenly appeared and she smiled at her. It frightened my daughter terribly as this was the first manifestation she had ever seen. She telephoned me and I gave her the sad news of her grandmother's death

My mother was a wonderful, beautiful soul and when she passed on to her spiritual life, I know there was a room waiting for her in that mansion in the sky.

ASTROLOGY "TOLD YOU SO"

Dear Ray:

Sorry you couldn't get to first base with your book, "Martian Diary." If you had asked the most ordinary astrologer, he'd have said, "don't start anything of importance now; Saturn in the sky conjoined your natal Saturn and both square your Sun." That was last March 15. It means "slow business" as you found out. Awfully sorry.

You won't be free of this influence until the 2nd half of June 1971 as Saturn is now retrograding, returning to the same position, then after squaring your Sun will square your Mercury then your Mars. But in June you are free of this and can go ahead with new steam. Use care against accidents the first half of June when Saturn squares your Mars.

Mary Elsvan

● Thanks, Mary. Looks like you are right. However, things are going fairly well for Martian Diary right now, since we decided to make it in paperback form. Buyers will now get their $10.00 book in the form of three $3.50 books. We published the first 32 pages of book one in the August Forum and judging from the letters about it, I am a bit more encouraged about the writing and handling. Believe me, it's no "rehash", but a comprehensive "concept" of what I call "the whole picture". It will probably take me six months to solve all money problems—and I won't do it by selling any more in advance!—Rap.

IS BREITENBUSH DESTINED. TO BECOME A FAITHIST HAVEN?

Dear Ray Palmer,

I have something so very important to offer and I really can't decide where to turn to present it. So if I sound "Way Out" and perhaps a bit irrational please understand that thousands have rejected my ideas and a few... a very very few just listened and tried to understand and now they, bless their hearts, are the only few left in my life that are truly working to help the project from our remote corner. But they are the "Wheat" of the Faithists in our area and together we are a strong little core of dedicated. This is a strange story and if you choose to offer any of it for the readers of Search or readers of OAHSP E I will write the story in more detail and offer it to you for that purpose. I am also going to ask you to help me decide how best to use this knowledge and my life from this point on, because the story I am about to tell you has shattered my marriage, nearly lost me my child, left me penniless and reeling from the impact.

In May of last year my husband, a Regional Park Director of the Salem area, was invited by a friend to a remote Mountain resort that had been demolished by the catastrophic 1964 flood. This was high in the Cascades in logging country, not inaccessible, but certainly difficult to get to. I might say at this point, it is remote enough that Bigfoot or Sasquatch has been seen there nearby several times this summer. The area we called Breitenbush Hot Springs and was discovered thousands of years ago by the Santiam and Calpooya Indians and used for healing their cripples and ailing. 62 springs containing 17 of the known 20 minerals... I hope I am correct on this. In 1864 Peter Breitenbush discovered the springs again and in the early part of this century another man named Bruckman bought the land and created a very popular healing resort.

At one time this was the most famous resort in Oregon and claimed more healings than anywhere in the Northwest. People came here from Europe even to drink and submerge themselves in the mud baths. Then Bruckman died, his son grew tired of the operation and fussing with people and sold to several individuals each of which let the place run down a bit more, took from it, but refused to return to the land and springs the reverence and care that Bruckman had shown it. He had been a German engineer and built all the hydroelectric plant in the big river that roars through the lower property.

Finally in 1964 the flood finished the baths and the swimming pool and all deserted. When we arrived at Breitenbush the men were trying to right the overturned bath house and restore the olympic swimming pool. The big bath house was completely ruined so all the tubs were bulldozed into the bank of the river and forgotten.

We walked with our friend across the property. He had bought into the corporation to quite a degree and they were struggling against insurmountable odds. They asked Chuck for ideas and with his extensive background tried to understand what he felt was best for them to do with such limited money. But these people were not business people. They were speculators, farmers, small jump-on-the-band-wagon types that so often get into things way over their heads. But Chuck and I had planned to leave in Sept. for a year of world roaming and they knew this, and being rather stricken with the challenge of this place decided to trouble shoot it for three months before that year of travel.

I walked under the three hundred year old firs and the nature spirits spoke through the boughs, the warmth of Indian love hung above the springs and great meanings whispered from the past and from other planes. I sensed wonderful meanings here.

When the men became mean and arrogant to the only woman on the property I fled to the tiny grim cottages nestled in the trees and began scrubbing and cleaning, painting and making new curtains for them. I found coal oil lamps because the electricity had been jerked out. I rebuilt wood stoves, hauled wood and loved them without really knowing why I was doing it.

Soon others came. . . many .many ARE (Edgar Cayce) people and psychics began pouring in from so many places. They too knew the magnetic force of Breitenbush. And with them came thousands that as children had played beneath her old trees, along her mossy trails and drunk from her wonderful waters. They came to offer money and buy stock because they wanted to help restore this wonderful old place so their children and grandchildren might know the experience and second home that had given them so many gold-plated memories from their own childhoods.

One day I caught one of the men who disliked me so. . . I never knew why he always snarled at me. . . stealing copper wire, and later saw him taking dishes to sell from my storage rooms. He was told to leave and did so bitterly. Then the President of the corporation did some funny things with funds and he was asked to resign. Through these incidents I began having strange visions and happenings that sometimes were frightening. Such as the night I knew someone was about to be wounded by the man who had stolen the wire. . . I sent help and perhaps prevented his injury or worse, But he thought it was coincidence that the five boys came with guns in time to intercept his attacker. Today he is trying to prove me irrational. He has convinced my husband that I am this also.

Disaster Predicted

One day I climbed to the Cobalt Spring above the old Bruckman house. This might nearly be called the apex of the springs and I meditated on the meanings here that were puzzling me more and more. Why was this corporation having such problems. . . why were there such a mob of tough, unpleasant people here. . . who was the problem. . . The answers came quickly. I was told the problem lay in the man who ran the part to be the tavern. . . he had accosted me while drunk and swearing one afternoon at the pool when I needed help to get a car out of a ditch. This man it seemed was the head of a gang that were fighting for control of this property and any man that came to the healing springs to take rather than give would be lifted out. At that time I was told in sequence the names of all the future people to be taken out. Later this summer I had already told Chuck about the next two coming, and the morning the first one was to be lifted, I felt the weight of all the world descend around me. "MY God," I uttered to one of my students. . ." Today disaster will hit Breitenbush before noon. At 2 P.M. the man blew himself up in one of the cottages.

One day a woman came to me and said, "Mrs. Gale, the diva of the mountain will not let this be a carnival!" "AMEN! I responded.

Then a woman named Norma came to find me one day and I had been so disgusted I had left the area and returned to our ranch down in the valley outside of Salem, Oregon. Late on Sat. night this woman called at the front door and said "Mrs. Gale, you must return to Breitenbush. Several psychics from all over Oregon have been told you are to spearhead a movement of refugees off the west coast during the coming earthquakes." I looked at her so forlornly. I said, "one human being should only put up with so much abuse. I have had my limit up there. I am not going back." "You must listen to the guardians" she said and in my livingroom went into a trance. The kind of spirits she seemed inclined to call upon seemed childish and silly, but I listened. Then when they were through I thought, "I think I will ask a few of my own questions and began a series from the 20th chapt. of Jehovih's Kingdom on Earth. I asked "Is the river Breitenbush the river Busiris spoken of in OAH SPE?" The answer: "No, the Breitenbush River is not the river

Busiris. The River Busiris is the spiritual river that runs under Breitenbush!" I might add that when I asked this question I was astounded to hear the voice change from the childish one to a more mature and dignified voice and the medium reeled back on her chair and stared. "Never in all my years in this have I seen such a large bright band of angels around anyone as there are around you now." My questioning continued: "Is Breitenbush the sacred land of Illaem, the healing waters of great virtue outside of Shalam?" I was told yes. . .but given at that point a serious warning, which I have tried to follow "Do not give OAH SPE to ARE people. They are not ready for it!

I thought, "Could it really be true that Salem is the Sacred City of the West that the Bahai's are searching so diligently for and have tagged as Eugene, Oregon. The California Hindu and other occult groups are pouring in around Manley Palmer Hall who settled at Grants Pass and Dr. Dan Fry and Jack Schwartz are at Merlin right near Grants Pass. Could I very quietly have been led to Illaem. . .here one hour by car from Salem. . .to help build the place for the Faithists of the future. Could it be that we of OAH SPE are one of the few who might really have access to the true city or cities of the new Kingdom. I was overwhelmed with emotion and so very grateful to Jehovih for the work he had apparently assigned me. I talked with some of my students. They too felt an overwhelming urge to help do all we could to help build so humbly I returned and went back to work. But through it all a haunting fear seemed to pervade our labors. We often sat in the baths late at night under the open sky with steam climbing around us and discussed or meditated on how best to help.

Funds Tossed Down the "Think Big" Drain

Forces were growing who did not wish dignified activities there. They urged the tavern, the convention center. . .they bragged about money they didn't have, spent great sums that didn't exist, lied about things, tried to swindle investors and through this I knew this could not be the city of the future. Then one day when they had been closed down as far as stock sales by the state for misrepresentation, had had the construction crews walk off for lack of pay, forgotten to get their building permit, and all the big investors were edgy and hating me more everytime I mentioned getting the springs into operation for healing and money will come to help, they found a very old Rosicrucian willing to invest $200,000 and save them. The present president of the corporation flew down to San Francisco to talk with him and came back and announced that the "Senile old Sex Maniac had invited her to stay at his house if she wished and he wasn't capable of even carrying on a conversation because he was too far gone." I thought, "what a way to describe an 89 year old Rosicrucian to your board of directors." A card reader was supposedly the financial counselor to this man and stated he would be coming in through her and making her the new Pres. of the board. I thought: "let's get a reading from her and find out if she's true or phoney." She was phoney. But he was her friend and I respected that. She had a Russian gypsy in this also who had been close the tough crowd from earlier. Together with a couple of naive farmers (One the young man I had kept from being injured) they planned to get this man into the corporation and use his money under the promoter that had come to them early this summer and promised them $100,000 if he could take complete control of their corporation. Since he took control I had seen thousands of dollars in funds tossed down the "Think Big" drain. My husband had tossed away hundreds of dollars in spoiled foods bought before the refrigerators for the restaurant were even bought. .he had encountered people on the payroll that did nothing at all yet gave the orders then went fishing while we, with a handful of loving volunteers tore our hearts out running to and fro trying to cover the shortage of help.

During my evening meditation I was directed to call Dan Irwin the Rosicrucian millionaire and warn him. I did and told the card reader what I was going to tell him. Then I said "Dan, come, but leave your bankbook in Calif. Until you have time to dig deeply into this mess and know which weeds to "weed" out. "He thanked me and though he had not come for seven months, he came within a week to help us. His cohorts were Art Linkletter and Eddy Albert. But though he would have helped, they did look deeply into Breitenbush and turned it down for lack of financial stability.

My husband was appalled that I had interfered. I should add at that point I have never received a cent for thousands of dollars in free labor over a period of two years and they had insulted me and used me, but being extremely bigoted toward the Russians who came needing the springs, they had ridiculed my love of the Creator. They have scoffed and laughed when I tried to help them understand how to get the thing moving the way they wanted. Now they threw me out.

In all of this something happened to my husband. A strange woman and a little red headed boy showed up to stay all summer. She was a separated catholic who kept asking me to let my young son come and live with her so her own boy wouldn't drive her nutty. I was appalled and annoyed, and yet I was so busy I wasn't aware that this woman was working on my husband and so were some of the others.

My husband knew there was dishonesty going on, but the love of wealth, and the need to be accepted by the group of people that were hurting the other 800 stockholders began to work on him. Then his ale drinking increased. Some days he couldn't seem to make decisions so I was making them. He would disappear for days at a time in town. No one else was there to carry on the resort, and we had thousands of people swarming over the property, fire danger, lifeguard duty, an epidemic of serious flu, people quitting because they had not been paid, stealing, destruction and through this I kept working, knowing if I left, the place would collapse.

They Threw Me Out!

Then they threw me out and my husband refused to let me take my 3½ year old son and threatened to knock hell out of me if I tried. But through all of this I was given warning after warning and strong Faithist helpers to carry on so I got my son out and found a house that can be used for a business in a ski area away from there. I am a designer of ski clothing, hats, and though you would never guess it, sometimes a professional writer.

Anyway to get back to the story here...the resort is about to fold completely. I have been gone one month and those left there are closing it. In December it will go into bankruptcy. They will have one year of grace and since the State stock commission will not let them open for normal small stock sales and will only let them have sophisticated or very large stock holders, they will, with their bad reputation, probably not be able to survive even a year. There is some speculation that it was all planned this way to be able to allow this little crooked group to pick up the pieces and rule with a fist or perhaps use the place for something other than what it was planned for...gambling or drug exchange...but this is just speculation and I don't know what to think about that.

Have the Faithists Found Their Home Yet?

What I want to know from you is this: Have the Faithists found their home yet? Ray, I have been about to join the Faithists for years...I have been so deeply involved with Faithist teaching and actual work that I got sidetracked many times. Sometimes I have written and had my letters returned...I have forgotten to send in applications...I have been suddenly jerked loose from a location and plunged into a new situation...I am Faithist completely but just have not affiliated. Also there have been times when I felt distress with some of the Faithist doctrine developing that did not correspond with the actual teachings of Jehovah so that I was afraid they might become inverted into hate factions. I try first of all to teach tolerance of every phase of religious development and this is what my students either pick up and learn or drop away. . .and this to me is the key to the -true Faithist. . .that he realize every religion on earth was created for a particular need for that people at exactly that moment. I spent quite a long time in Haiti among the voodooist and have a serious student that has finally come out to teach in Canada. By being able to grasp this idea, he has been able to dig back into the religion he once feared and hated and now feels grave compassion for his own people and the trap he says they are caught in. He may know more about the Book of Osiris than any man on earth and is very qualified to write and lecture on this book from his own research.

I have just been forced to file for a divorce to save my youngster and really feel that the last phase of my life has ended and now a new and more equipped me can tackle a larger job. My students have just put myself into hock for a little house-shop at Mount Hood Ski area and can perhaps work in this direction. But something inside me tells me I am not finished at Breitenbush. . .that a prediction about the one that would put an end to Breitenbush (It said I would be the one to end it) perhaps is coming true, but that is for the kind of thing that was there and not for Faithists and the future. My students are waiting for a way to help establish it as Illaem if it is the Sacred City. I feel we are early yet. . .OAHSPÉ says it was unoccupied. That could be within the next year. Have you a way of contacting the Ashars to let us know if this is to be. I have always tried to get my students involved in actual physical labor to keep them from snipping at people and things. Now being out of the long labor of Breitenbush means they are suddenly at loose ends and we need to find ways to raise money (at least $250,000) and a half million would turn Breitenbush into an International center with healing baths of a foreign decor representing nations and cultures unlike anything on the American continent. My visions showed healers of all kinds coming from all over the world to join with the waters which are magnificent. I have seen things done at Breitenbush that astounded me and I do some healing too. I tried to talk about a health food center there and got laughed at. . .but I have had some 7 years of nutritional study plus much actual in field experience with such things as multiple sclerosis, neuritis and hysterical neurosis. I was an Occupational Therapist in a Mental hospital and learned and taught all the crafts. . .I paint, sculpt, design clothes, pottery, fabrics, cards etc. I had many years in Christian Science and boy do they scream when I start mixing Atlantis and saucers with Plato and Aristotle. . .Astrology and numerology with Mary Baker Eddy. . .but I tell them. . .TOLERANCE. . .But these are all the components that can help bring Breitenbush to its fullest healing capacity. On the property are 57. . .pardon 56. . .one got blown up. . .little cottages. . .primitive, yet comfortable and livable. Three rivers cut the property which is 83 acres and the only privately owned land in the national forest which backs up on Jefferson wilderness area. Sixty-two springs, swimming pool with mineral water from the springs. There is a nearly completely remodeled lodge which has a beautiful patio under the firs out over the river for dining and there is a great bug warehouse sitting empty for lack of ideas what to do with it which just screams to be used for arts and crafts and industry of that kind. Then there is room for 100 trailer pullins. . .I keep thinking about our coming out of UZ in trailers and campers and tents! We have experimented with living without electricity there and found we can cook in the springs, bathe in them and heat buildings with them as well as heal. And after a while there is nothing much to heal because our health becomes perfect there. . .We are one half hour from some of the finest fruit and vegetable fields in the entire world. . .Salem and the Santiam valley are the leading food producing area in the entire world today. . .replacing the San Jose valley. All the big packers are here. Many farmers in this area refuse to spray though there is a law against it, hence much food is available without contaminants. Some of us feel there are giant caves under Breitenbush and that this could be a storage area for troubled times. We are a short distance from year round snow fields which could help preserve food too. Beyond us there is no one and nothing for miles and miles into eastern and northern Oregon.

Will You Help Me Decide?

Now what to do about all this. Will you help me decide? I will work for the Father as I have in the past, but feel I must not covet this information. . .it may be a key to all of us. . .but we have to find out more about it and perhaps you or some of the Faithists so qualified can do so. Besides one of my students sat me down here at her typewriter and said "WRITE" "NOW" and she had dug out your address from a Search magazine. She also added as she doubled over with laughter that you may doubt my sanity when you read the way I run everything together. It's a good thing I am not sensitive! This is wild, but I warned you that it was "Wayout" and no wonder some think I am irrational. But it is true and there are those who will tell you the same story if you need it qualified. Thanks for listening. By the way Ray, the Cobalt Spring I mentioned earlier is the spring used for cancer and Dorothy McGonagle might be helped by it.

● It is my personal opinion, based on the chronology in Oahspe which definitely places us at the end of the cycle, and not at the beginning, that no Shalam colonies will be established until after 1995. (See issues of Forum for 1970). However, there should certainly be great merit in developing your area, as a health and recreation and healing spa. Naturally, there are always elements who are interested in profit, and this element can be very destructive to efforts such as yours. It should be obvious to you that we are at the closing days of a cycle, because the drujas certainly have NOT been removed, witness how many of them plague you and your efforts!

I would suggest that you look at your efforts as "preparatory" and not aim so high—you will have greater success, more personal satisfaction and happiness. You will note that Oahspe does not describe the people of Shalam as being persecuted, harrassed and unhappy; quite the reverse. You would obviously not be proceeding according to your own and your compatriots' best interests if you become involved in a very unhappy, full of drudgery situation. Scale down your goal a little— don't aim at THE Shalam, but only at "a colony", a sort of preliminary and educational and preparatory precursor to the Shalam that is to come. As to whether this area is the one mentioned in Oahspe, I cannot say. It seems to me that when the proper time comes, there will be no need to ask "is this the place?" However, I wish you luck in anything you do, and hope you will think calmly about every move you make, and aim for success rather than grandiose achievement. Your PERSONAL development is the real thing at stake, and aiding others to develop their talents. Small successes far outweigh huge failures.—Rap.

THE GOOD GUYS AND THE BAD GUYS

Dear Ray:

Strange, is it not, how ONE word gives us so clear a picture, on occasion, of all that is to follow? How, then, all the pages which follow become little more than filler, top-dressing?

ONE word, and instantly we know who the good guys and the bad guys are.

SEARCH magazine. Jan 1971 issue. Page 10, first paragraph, Kurt Glemser's screed (oops, article. Am I following in his pattern?). The good guys are the demonstrators (bystanders, workers, passerbys become background proppings). The good guys are referred to as CROWD. The bad guys are the National Guard, Alameda County Deputies and Berkeley cops (not POLICEMEN, COPS).

And here comes the magic word. CRAWLING! The bad guys were not an opposition crowd; they were a CRAWLING.

As sad fate would have it, the good guys were overcome. Their awful end was described—but there was no need. What else might be expected from a CRAWLING mass of overwhelming force.

WHERE LIFE IS SIMPLE

Dear Henry:

You say: "Trying to live simply is today's most complicated problem." So? Agreed, for most of the world but there are four spots on the terrestrial firmament that it can be done nicely.

(1) Lord Howe Island, 300 miles off Sydney, Australia. Population 250. Only public official is a school teacher with 40 pupils. 3 hours work in the garden provides 4, four course dinners a day. The Coral Lagoon is full of fish. There are wild pigs in the mountain. No police, mayor, politicians etc. No booze allowed on the Island. 99 year lease, renewable. Reverts to Queen if your descendants run out. The inhabitants get together and build you a small house, $600 a year and you live like royalty. They raise Palm seeds and sell them as their source of currency. When a child reaches maturity, 18-21, it receives so many shares in Palm seed organization. If you go be sure to buy a round trip ticket. The whiteman can stand only so much of South Seas Island Paradise.

(2) Hunzaland, a 100 mile long valley nestling in the foothills of the Himalays between Siukiang, China, Afghanistan, Russia and Pakistan. A 2000 year old Monarchy founded by 3 Greek or Roman soldiers sick of war. They have a light cast to their skins. They are the FREEST people on earth, the whole 32,000 of them. They have PLENTY OF NOTHING! No poverty or obesity. No army, no wars, no police, no jails, no CRIME, the last crime committed was 130 (model kids). No divorce, (we have 1 years ago. No juvenile delinquency in 3). No doctors, (only midwives and

They are all farmers and the best Organic methods, no poisonous sprays. They ALL live to be 100 years YOUNG. Eat very little meat and tobacco is scarce. They light up a pipeful and pass it around so everyone can get a few whiffs. (We made 500 billion cigarets last year). Education is free. A movie was made in Hunga—The Valley of ETERNAL YOUTH! No Immigration allowed. SORRY. Nothing to argue about, no sex, politics or religion. They have no DRUG problem. It costs us $5 billion yearly for legitimate drugs.

(3) 5000 feet up in the Vilcabamba Cordillera Mountain Range of Peru. The Machiguengas (shy people) have a Shangri-La up there. Their ancestors escaped from the Spanish slaves 200 years ago. They have gardens and grow corn and beans and lusca plants (the women make beer by chewing the leaves and allowing them to ferment). Wild cotton which they weave into cloth. The river water is pure, the air purer, the soil purest. Fish and game abound. 3 or 4 hubs together. No big tribes or big chiefs. They've got it made. You'd have to go native to live there. Better practice with bow and arrow or spear. If you fired a gun you would scare them out of their skin.

(4) Vilcabamba area of Southeast Ecuador. Warm land with farms and woods. A good percentage have attained the age of 100 to 130 years. Dr. Miguel Salvador and a team of 9 doctors came arunning when census showed longevity. No disease of any kind (Poor doctors they'd starve there.) Unbelievable incredible the docs said.

Alberto Kramer left New York in 1955 with incurable heart disease. Arrived there just waiting to die. After 2 years heart trouble disappeared. Now in 1969 at 88 years of age he is married to a 19 year old girl and the father of 2 sons been married only 2 years. Says it must be the air. Vows he will never leave there.

I'll bet if you went down and stayed long enough you'd grow a new crop of hair. Kidding aside you'd be welcome as long as you had to do-re-me. We can dream can't we. New York has 8.3 million pounds of C.O. (exhaust gases from cars) daily. Los Angeles 20 million pounds. Just the other day I saw an article in the news that said: In 10 or 15 years everyone would have to wear oxygen masks and carry their own fresh air on their backs or die.

So there you are. You only have 2 choices. Lord Howe and Ecuador. A man over 50 can't go native. Well maybe one in 25 or 50 would survive. Ken Krippene of Santo Domingo Delos Colorados owns a banana farm down in Ecuador and writes true stories of Latin America for the Saga magazine as a side line. I wrote to him once but he never answered. The Reconstruction finance Corporation of the U.S. loaned Ecuador a few million and now she is exporting about 60 million (1965) stalks of bananas yearly. More by now.

TWIN LIVES

Dear Ray:

The piece about the twin sisters: that the same things always happens to each of them.

It certainly isn't supernatural, unless astrology is supernatural.

I studied astrology for a number of years in a small way; but it was enough to convince me that we are only "puppets on a string", each string attached to one of the planets as it were, I have observed the truth of it many times.

I have A to Z Horoscope Maker and Delineator, by Llewellyn George, a well known president of an astrology association of California until his death some ten years ago.

On it's fly leaves I have clippings cut from newspapers and magazines about twins and their duplicated lives. Plus:—even people with the same name sometimes look like twins and they too have the same things happen to them and having the same birthdays.

Please, excuse my scribbling and misspelling if any. I have been wearing myself out reading your books since the mail came. I am eighty years old. but always interested in the unusual.

TWO POLAR OPENINGS?

Dear Mr. Palmer:

1. Why can't an explorer see the opposite rim of either opening at the Earth's polar regions as he begins to enter same? He should be able to, if it isn't cloudy through there at the time, since distance is no barrier to what we can or cannot see, except for relative size of object observed. For instance, we can see the moon, and it's a quarter-million miles away; and the sun is not only visible but too bright to look at directly without adequate eye-protection, and it is 93,000,000 miles from us. Not to speak of the other planets, etc., of our solar system and all the many, many stars out in space; and, yes, even whole galaxies, ranging up to many thousands of millions of light-years away. So why not the opposite rim of one of those openings which would be only 1400 miles away?

2. Have seen remarkably clear photographs taken from U.S. spacecraft, and some from USSR ones as well; some of these photographs being in full color of our big, round Earth, in a view that had the north pole about a dozen or more degrees inside the visible part of the planetary disk. And no evidence of any kind of even a small opening, let alone a BIG one of 1400 miles in diameter which, after all, is more than a sixth of the Earth's whole diameter.

3. Mariner 7's photographs of Mars' south-polar region tell us the same story about that planet—no polar opening there, either. And, anyhow, the pictures of Mars I saw in their book as illustrations of their contentions, frankly look like they'd been doctored up a bit.

4. They also had pictures of deep-space objects as "proofs" of their hollow-planet theory: one was of the Owl Nebula which as a ball of expanding gases fully several dozens of light-years in diameter; the other is one of a well-known galaxy with an outrigger of an attached satellite-galaxy, to be found in the Canes Venatici constellation area of the sky, up near our present North Celestial Pole; and this object is fully as big as our own Milky-Way system or galaxy—fully 100,000 light-years in diameter. Now, how can one suppose that a planet can be made out of either of those? That galaxy, like ours, could very well contain thousands of billions of planets, along with their primary stars; not just one planet. But then, these objects had been used as "proofs" back in the day when astronomers didn't know what they really were. But then, the use of unknown objects for proofs of a pet theory—?? Same with a picture of a comet they also used. Nowadays a comet is well known to consist of a small ball of only a few dozen or so miles in diameter of rocks and ice and frozen gases; while its "head" and "tail" consist of very tenuous envelopes of those gases after they had been evaporated by the sun's heat.

5. Both a 12-inch globe of the moon I now have, which shows all of its surface, not just its near-side, finely reproduced thereon photographically; and a book showing a completely-mapped Arctic region as well as similarly of the Antarctic region, leave no room whatsoever for even a modest-sized, few-miles-in-diameter hole into either Earth's or moon's hollow interiors, even supposing either or both have such. And, if not a small one, most certainly not such a big one as one 1400 miles in diameter. The Earth's polar regions had been very, very thoroughly explored by atomic-powered submarines cruising around underneath the ice-packs; while those of the moon were very, very thoroughly covered by picture-taking U.S. spacecraft.

6. Wonder what kind of mechanics it would take to keep a hollowed-out planet from just collapsing in on itself, resulting in a jumbled mass of ruin? The idea of a "center of gravity" occupying the "central-sheet" of a hollowed-out shell is sort of far-fetched, if you ask me. It doesn't stand up under considerations of simple physical laws understood by even high-school students. Or, if there is any unknown physical laws involved, am hoping some day soon these could be discovered. An Earth like that could be built if (a) one had a near-infininitely-strong building material to make at least the central-core-shell part of the thicker shell out of; (b) some super-dense stuff from collapsed dwarf-stars (two or three sun-masses inside a ball 10 miles in diameter) and (c) could use some kind of repulsor force emanating from a central sun to provide a field of gravity; in order to pin all the objects against the inner surface of such a hollow shell—for it is a very easy mathematical trick to prove that for any point inside a hollow sphere, the gravitational force exerted by its shell is exactly neutralized everywhere within such an interior, if only that shell be uniformly thick and uniformly of the same density throughout. And, centrifugal force wouldn't be the answer either, because this is only enough to make a 150-pound man on the equator one pound lighter than he would be at either pole.

Well, so, I've had my say "against". Am wondering now what is that Special Secret you were going to let us in on. The other day I was toying around with this idea with some friends of mine, and came up with a model of the Earth of at least four space-dimensions in extent; or even up to six. And, in all those extra dimensions, the Earth, while solid thick-through in our particular space-realm of three dimensions would, as one travelled sufficiently far in any of those extra dimensions, suddenly become a hollow planet with the central sun and the two polar openings. Interesting idea, I think, for it would very neatly satisfy both sides of this Hollow-Earth controversy. Who knows? Maybe this is also the explanation of all those strange disappearances of men and aircraft and, etc. Very plausible-seeming, anyhow.

● First, Admiral Byrd did say "that enchanted land in the sky". There really is no point to your question asking why it can't be seen, is there? Next, there is no light in space, nor does light travel through space. Every object has its electromagnetic field, and when the "influence" of whatever it is we call light enters that field, it creates what is called a "photosphere". In short, it becomes visible. Thus, we do not see the moon, the sun, the stars, etc. All we see is that effect caused in our atmosphere (or photosphere) by the energies (whatever they are) that actually are transmitted space. In reality, not even this energy we talk about traverses space—it is like a row of bowling balls in a rack. When a returning ball comes up, it strikes the end ball, and the energy (kinetic) is transferred through each ball in the row (which does not move) and the result is that the last ball moves away at exactly the same speed as the returning ball had. So, what we are seeing is a totally local phenomena in our own immediate vicinity. Something like kinetic energy is transmitted from the sun to the Earth, and as it impinges on our atmosphere, it causes it to glow (like a neon tube's gases?).

Our first picture was published expressly to make our readers "jump on us for the size" of the "hole". Only way to get a rise out of most people, and get them to commit themselves, is to make sure they believe they will be correct and unchallenged. Most people can't risk the belittlement of having been proved wrong or foolish, so they won't chance it. However, how about the photos presented in our current FLYING SAUCERS, where the REAL argument concerning the holes in the poles is taking place? And, as you will note, we have narrowed down the size of the hole from the patiently ridiculous size of 1400 miles to something near 285.

Wrong again—Mariner's photos of Mars show a "mystery" black spot in the polar area center where the "snow cap" seems to have "melted" (because the temperature readings at that point are higher). The Mars photos, as released, are an infuriating fiasco to this editor! We're trying to dig out entire series, including the "blank" negatives.

We entirely disagree with the "expanding universe" theory. The "creation" of suns and planets is today more generally attributed to "contracting" inward-whirling vortices. Many of those nebulae you mention are visual examples of the same sort of whirlpool (with a hole in the center) phenomenon you see when you pull the plug in your bathtub.

Any engineer can explain the fallacy of your contention that a hollow Earth would collapse upon itself. It is, in fact, much more likely to be stable than the common concept of a magma core upon which the mantle provides a "slippery ocean" of lava for the continents to float about and slide from one point to another. (Bathyspheres are spherical to resist collapse!)

The points you mention in your letter would take a dozen books to answer in any comprehensible and convincing detail. But I've tried to stick to a few salient and important points we could carry further. Why don't you follow the more comprehensive research we are conducting in FLYING SAUCERS? It's bigger size gives us more room for photographic detail. And the current issue contains photos in color!—Rap.

"IN EARTH AS IT IS IN HEAVEN"

Dear Rap,

In the Nov. issue of Search in the section—BACK TALK, there was an observation made by Raymond B. Callahan entitled, IN EARTH AS IT IS IN HEAVEN.

It is thoughts like this, made by other Search readers that cause me to look forward to each issue to see what others have discovered. He writes that he has always been puzzled why, in the Biblical "Lord's Prayer" it always says:

"Thy will be done, IN earth as it is

IN heaven," instead of ON earth as it is ON Heaven."

I think IN means IN and ON means ON. I think he has a valid point.

There is another reference in the Holy Bible that came right to my mind when I read this, that pertains to the same subject matter. It's in the book of JOB, Chapter 2, verse 2—"And the Lord said unto Satan, From whence comest thou? And Satan answered the lord, and said, From going to and fro in the earth, and from walking up and down in it."

Of course this is Satan speaking (the great deceiver-liar) so there is always the question of whether or not he was speaking the truth. But no matter, here is another reference and the Holy Bible alludes to this IN rather than ON.

I wonder why?

● Of course in means in, and on means on! But, faced with this "unacceptable" word in the Bible, the "educated" ones simply got around it by saying this is "literary license" and a sort of "poetic" way of saying "on". You see, they can't conceive of there being an "in" about this planet. They are so sure it is a solid ball of molten iron. We can add one more "in" to your list from the Bible: "The throne of the Lord is in the sides of the

A truly important book! In all respects the worthiest concept of occult teachings that has yet been written. Fiction? None but the ignorant would believe that! The author was an advanced student of occultism, and in his sensational book he has tried to place before his fellow men a tremendous reality he discovered concerning this earth of ours, and life on it, in it, and beyond it.

The COMING of the SAUCERS

The original flying saucer book! It was Kenneth Arnold who gave the saucers their name, and he wrote the best book of them all. Here it is, in print after ten years! This is the famous book that tells the true story of the death-dealing "Maury Island Incident" in which two Air Force Intelligence men lost their lives, and Arnold himself barely escaped with his skin. To those in the know, this story is the key to the whole U.F.O. mystery. Perhaps the entire significance of this amazing adventure will never be told, but what you will read in this book will stagger you. No fiction mystery could ever match this true story.

WORLD?

We on Earth are entering the Space Age. Our traditional cosmic isolation is ending. Earth is in touch with outer space! What will this mean to us? How can we prepare ourselves for the vast changes that are on the way? As we begin to study the impact on our civilization; what is happening to the minds of men on Earth is more important to understand than what is happening in our skies. In other words, we must comprehend the terrific impact of the space ships on our human norm of life, the challenge which these and similar events pose to our concepts of reality beyond the confines of Earth's gravity. We know a great deal about human life on Earth; what can we learn about life in outer space, about life on a cosmic scale? Once it dawns upon us that outer space is indeed inhabited by beings expressing themselves in different planes of matter and reality, it then becomes important for us to try to develop some understanding of their greater view of life and to compare it to our own. This book is pointed toward the goal of developing—from every possible source—the space view of life.

Out of print for many years, Mrs. G. Stuart's wonderful book on incarnation and reincarnation, and life on many planets, is once more available. 320 pages in paperback format, at a price within the reach of everyone.

This is the book that caused a great stir when it was first published. It cannot properly be called a "novel", although it is written that way; it is a psychically inspired presentation of the mysteries of the recurring life-experiences of a group of great spirits who "become flesh" in order to carry out a great panorama of human progress and destiny.

If you have ever suffered the fear of death, this book will prove to be a great inspiration and comfort to you. Its message is a clear one of great hope and promise, and it delves into the secrets that have remained murkily hidden in the clouds of doubt and wonder that surround all living people. What lies beyond the veil? What contact can we have with that other dimension? Can we travel to and fro between the spirit world, and between the planets of this solar system, all of them inhabited by those great souls that have gone before us, and who have come from only the Creator knows where to teach us the Way of Life, and to lead us and inspire us to our Destiny?

This is the story of Phyllis; of Eros and Ora; of Aurus; of Joyce and Grace and Icha; of Divino and Thrastus; of Cassandra and Diana and Zenobi and Phineas. It is the story of the reincarnating souls of the inhabitants of Earth, of Venus and Jupiter; of Vesta and Uranus. It is the story of the Masters; Zanipha and Osiris and Rihis; of Macharis and Cleobulus. And much more. A magnificent concept of the Mysteries.

FLYING SAUCERS

with complete coverage of the famous UFO.

Flying saucers are a fact. A national poll has proved that one American in every four is aware of the truth of that statement. In spite of this, FLYING SAUCERS magazine is the only publication devoted to presenting all the facts and all the latest news concerning unidentified flying objects. It is the only magazine wherein the public can pierce the fog in which official sources have shrouded a matter of vital and general public concern. Here is a magazine you can depend on to keep you up to the minute on every development. More than 5000 sightings have been reported to the editors, and new sightings come in daily. Hundreds of these are from reputable people, airline pilots, scientific experts, even clergymen. FLYING SAUCERS has a staff of experts who evaluate every sighting, subject every photo to exhaustive tests, analyze every theory presented, and who meticulously report the truth as they see it. Today Man is aiming his sights at the stars. He intends to fly to other planets. But are the inhabitants of other worlds already visiting us? It may be so, but even if not, this magazine is writing the daily history of the new space age!

One of the most fascinating and strange true stories of our time!

Does An Ancient Race Still Live Underground?

What do you know about the Shaver Mystery? For four years it created an enormous debate. LIFE magazine gave it 8 pages. There are many theories: Those who support Shaver in his materialistic honeycomb of caverns the world over, heritage of a Titan-Atlan race which fled a poisoned world over 12,000 years ago. Those who call his caverns the "astral", his dero the spirits of the dead. Some say it is another dimension, another realm of life alongside ours, invisible under ordinary circumstances. Whatever it is, you will find your brain whirling!

What if you were one of five men and four women marooned for life on a strange lost "Garden of Eden" by an airplane crash? Would five "Adams" and four "Eves" make this modern Eden a Paradise?

Today the world is beset by numerous problems, a far cry from the Garden of Eden where life was peaceful and happy and untroubled. Have you ever wondered what would happen if a small group of people got a chance to go back to that original Eden, and begin all over again? Could they begin to build a beautiful new existence, or would they make the same mistakes all over again? Can man really control his animal instincts? Is sex really evil, and is "sin" inevitable?

north." It is interesting to note that Oahspe defines a "Lord" as a sort of "governor" of a specific section of a planet, such as a continent. If the Earth is indeed hollow, and is inhabited, it would seem logical that this area also has a governor who is called "Lord". Well, we shouldn't be dogmatic about anything, should we?—Rap.

THIS DAY IS ENDING!

A Great New Book Of Prophecy—Stunning In Its Impact!

DIRE WOLF

Robert Olsen may not be well known, but this book will rank him among the world's most famous prophets. In his Preface, the author says:

“This work is in two parts; the future and the present; in that order. The statements herein are similar to that of the military scout who returned to his commanding officer with the report: ‘Sir, there is a hellish big batch of the enemy coming this way!’

“Given that information, the officer can do some accurate prophesying on his own, wherein his actions will effect future events. The leaders of this civilization are that officer. They have the power to make its future secure. I am confident that they will do nothing.

“The second part of this work is to let those of the future know more of this civilization than they will find in conventional history books, and perhaps to arouse some controversy in the present generation. This book is NOT fiction!”

A glance at the contents page of this book indicates its sensational scope: The Dire Wolf—Genesis—Theories—Countdown Has Begun—Prophecy—What Will Happen?—What You Can Do—What Could Be Done—Fictitious History—Love Thy Brother—Your Friendly Oil And Power Companies—On Earth As It Is In Heaven—There Is No Such Place As Australia—What's Inside A Uniform—The Wages Of Sin Are Profits—Reflection and Requiem.
