HE WALKED THE AMERICAS

BY
L. TAYLOR HANSEN

$6.95 plus 25c
postage & handling

Almost two thousand years ago a mysterious white man walked from tribe to tribe among the American Nations. He came to Peru from the Pacific, He traveled through South and Central America, among the Mayans, into Mexico and all of North America, then back to ancient Tula, from whence he departed across the Atlantic to the land of his origin. Who was this white Prophet who spoke a thousand languages, healed the sick, raised the dead, and taught in the same words as Jesus Himself?

These are true Indian legends, gathered during twenty-five years of research by L. Taylor Hansen, archaeologist, from many different tribes all over the Americas. By consulting museums, libraries and experts on folk-lore, it has been possible to correlate the findings into this fascinating book, backed up by the spades of the diggers into ancient ruins, and by all the sciences with which L. Taylor Hansen is familiar. This is a book that will back up the New Testament of the East, with the Christian Indian legends of the West. In this book is proof that the Savior came not only to one continent, but to all the world. This book will strengthen your faith as no other could!

7" x 9 3/4" — color on all 256 pages! — 395 illustrations & maps — beautiful 24-carat gold-stamped binding.

Why was I born? That's a question many people ask, or maybe we should say that's a question everybody asks; for life is quite a mystery. Today, more than ever, the reason for our existence is being questioned. The young, faced with a terribly complex and incomprehensibly awry world, find it difficult to understand what their place is in this welter of confusion, war, hate, pollution, prejudice and crime. When they picture themselves as being against all these evil things, they reason that if they are against them, they ought to show it, do something about it. But when they declare themselves, protest the war for instance, they find themselves attacked both with criticism and with force. They are bewildered.

There is an answer, of course. But finding answers is not just a matter of analysis—because the factors employed in making that analysis are in themselves deceiving because they are the very things we have listed in the foregoing paragraph. And if we use these as the basis for our reasoning, we will only come up with an answer inherent in those things—it cannot be but an evil and discouraging answer. It will come out something like: we were born to fight, hate, kill, cheat, lie, discriminate, etc. And that's what we invariably do! So, why resist it, say some of these confused youngsters. In the university, such basics are taught as “survival of the fittest” and it does come out “kill or be killed”. If that is true, say the questioners, then why not choose the top of the heap, the victory, the spoils, rather than turn the other cheek and inherit the tombstone?

Well, the answer lies in a precedent. But before we give the precedent, let's give the answer—we were born to die!

Psychologists have an explanation for what's going on in the world today (or any other day); a cause for the business of rushing as a people into a suicidal war in which both death as an army and death as an individual is the result. They call it the “death wish”. They say there is something in our makeup that causes us to want to die. We don't admit it consciously, but deep down somewhere in our psyche there exists this fatalism that says "I want to die." It is a reasonable explanation for war, for ignoring the risk involved in setting a speed record on the salt flats or on water or in the air or even an attempt to reach the moon. Any racing driver knows that as the records climb, the chances of a fatal smashup increase—there is a point where a land-driven vehicle, for instance, will disintegrate; it may be at 750 miles per hour, and the present record is 607. Yet, the drivers will continue to try to raise that record to the fatality point. It is that subconscious death wish, say the psychologists.

But they are wrong. It is in the precedent that we find the answer. If we want to see the future, we must look at the past. If we want to see what is above, we must look below. If we want to see what is afar, we must look nearby. So, what is the precedent for the premise that we were born to die. It is in our birth. In the beginning we were a fertilized egg. An ovum in a female was impregnated with a sperm from a male. The result of that union is a human being whose sole purpose while in the womb is to be born—we might say the fetus has a "birth wish". Why was I conceived?", we would be asking the identical question we now ask: "Why was I born?" And the answer would be—to be born. When we enter the world outside the womb, we are placed in a new environment. It is a developing environment, just as the womb was a developing environment for the foetus. We grow to larger size, and we develop in many ways. Our mind, our talents, our physical and mental proficiency develop? And when we are confronted with the prospect of death, and the destruction of all of this to no purpose whatever except to return to the primal dust out of which it was all constructed, we have good reason to ask why.

When we consider the foetus, we find it obvious that the purpose of that womb-environment existence is preparatory to an event-birth. There is no mystery here. We can see that the foetus could not possibly develop in any other way, and the end result cannot be anything other than birth. We can, probably, construct an artificial test-tube sort of environment, an imitation of a womb, and develop a fertilized ovum in it, but it would still be a womb in effect, and we would have to "give birth" to the developed foetus eventually by removing it from the test-tube environment. Why, then, should we reason differently when we ask: "Why was I born?" The answer is just as obvious—we were born to develop in the ecological environment we call the planet Earth. And we have a specific “time for development” that amounts to an average of 70 years, just as the pre-natal period is about 273 days. When our 70 years of pre-mortum period is up, we die. It is the purpose of our 70 years of life. That is the answer to our question.

First we asked: “Why was I conceived?” Then we asked: “Why was I born?” Can there be any doubt that when we die, we will ask: “Why did I die?”

We die to inherit the promise of creation—ours and the infinite universe. Would we raise a race horse to the time we bring him to the starting gate for his first race, then destroy him with a bullet through the head? Would we build a rocket to go to the moon, then blow it up on the pad? Would God bring a man to the point of death, then annihilate him?

We were born to die—and as a climax, it should be as important and as glad an event as our birth. We celebrate our birthday, and it seems logical that there will be even more cause to celebrate our deathday—when it happens, and celebrate both for an eternity thereafter.—Rap.

AN EXCITING CONCEPT OF LIFE ON OTHER PLANETS
BASED ON SILICON RATHER THAN CARBON

SILICON LIFE

DEAN LIPTON

"Let us not be personal, like infants or the aged, who see only their own room. Let us know how to live in the infinite and the eternal."

---Camille Flammarion, 19th century astronomer.

It is now common knowledge that the other planets of our planetary system cannot support complex forms of life. Venus is too hot. Jupiter is too cold. And the atmosphere of Mars is too thin, despite some evidence that it contains both oxygen and water vapor.

But is this "common knowledge" scientific fact or simply the suppositions of men limited by their own earth-bound experiences? All life on Earth from the simplest one-celled plant or animal to man or a stately, centuries-old redwood is composed of carbon. But what if there was life out there somewhere based on another element, one which could withstand the intensities of heat and the rigors

ABOUT MYSELF

I am a writer and my work has appeared in magazines ranging from Argosy to the Science Digest, from Editor and Publisher to the National Review. A book I have written (FACES OF CRIME AND GENIUS) was published in September 1970 by A. S. Barnes and Co. in the United States and Thomas Yoseloff Ltd. in England.

I am a former United States Army Historian (World War II), and an ex newspaper reporter, editor, and publisher.

I am fifty years old, divorced, and have two daughters, and two granddaughters.

Hobbies: an intense and uncontrollable interest in everything. I was once told that I was the only journalist in the United States who has been both an art critic and a financial editor.

of cold as no carbon-based life could? The most likely possibility is silicon.

Carbon and silicon are closely-related elements with many of the same properties. They both fuse easily with gases and other elements, a quality important to the creation of life. In fact, silicon fuses so easily that it is not found in a pure state anywhere on Earth but always mixed with other elements, minerals, and gases. They are both versatile and adaptable which has led to their wide industrial use.

But it is their dissimilarities which caused the creation of life on Earth based on carbon while silicon has remained lifeless and inert. These differences are largely technical having to do with the atomic and electronic structure of the two elements. But the results are easily understood.

Carbon is soluble in water, but silicon except in certain unusual circumstances is not. This has meant that carbon molecules can maintain their independent structure even when vaporized or dissolved while silicon molecules merge into mass substances. Scientists have pointed out that given the degrees of temperatures on Earth at the time life first originated, it is not at all surprising that it was based on carbon and not silicon.

Secondly, carbon atoms become more complex in relation to other carbon atoms while silicon atoms require the intermediate activity of oxygen atoms. Paradoxically, this has eliminated the possibility of silicon life on a planet containing plentiful sources of oxygen.

But these very disadvantages might work in another direction under different environmental and atmospheric conditions. Earth's unlimited supplies of water, either as liquid or vapor, has worked against the life-producing possibilities of silicon. But what would happen on a planet where water existed in some unrealized form and reacted to its surroundings in a way which would be inexplicable to us on Earth?

The question of oxygen or other gases could also be considered in this light. If plentiful supplies of oxygen have kept silicon lifeless, what would be the effect of a thin atmosphere like that of Mars? Or even an atmosphere which contained no oxygen such as the ones which exist on the majority of other planets in our planetary system? Gases are volatile and often unpredictable. So how would other gases react to silicon in an oxygenless environment?

What biochemical changes in silicon could be wrought by drastic temperature changes on other planets? One of the most common of all scientific facts is that gases and elements are influenced by temperature.

This is not necessarily the imagined ravings of a gifted science-fiction writer. Two scientists of the late nineteenth century and early twentieth century, the German, Julius Scheiner, and the Frenchman, Camille Flammarion, speculated on the possibilities of silicon life. Professor Scheiner was Director of the Potsdam Observatory when he demonstrated just what could be done with silicon.

While most silicic compounds are insoluble in water, there is a combination of silicic acid and potassium which is soluble. Scheiner added to this mixture a tiny amount of silver nitrate inducing the transfer of one liquid to the other and artificially creating a form of osmosis. As any high school biology student knows, osmosis is the process which enables food to pass from the digestive tract into the blood stream of animals.

Flammarion was one of the most renowned astronomers of his time and one of its great speculative minds. He argued that silicon life under other planetary conditions was not only possible but probable. He pointed out that there was no valid scientific reason why body organs could not evolve to accommodate gases and food which would destroy carbon-based life.

After all, even carbon-based life had developed infinite varieties of body organs ranging from those of the sponge to higher animals capable of sustaining life under an equally-infinite variety of circumstances. How little we really know about life on this planet is indicated by the fact that scientific investigators have only quite recently discovered that the brain of a porpoise is as complex and capable of growth as that of a man's. His big relative, the killer whale, is probably his equal, and other whales are not far behind. Back a few decades, who would have thought that these containers of blubber were potentially man's intellectual equals?

That even carbon-based terrestrial life can survive—and what is as important, function actively—in essentially hostile environments has been recently proven in a series of experiments by Dr. Sanford M. Siegel of the University of Hawaii. Dr. Siegel has bombarded tarantulas with ultraviolet radiation which supposedly makes other planets uninhabitable. Result: the tarantulas were even more vicious, and very much alive. He has subjected baby turtles to a simulated atmosphere of 90% carbon monoxide, and they survived. He has grown cucumber seeds in mercury, usually considered deadly poison. He has taken a strain of bacteria and raised it in an atmosphere composed of ammonia, perhaps duplicating the way scientists believe life originated on this planet, but previously thought not possible in organisms used to an atmosphere of oxygen.

As in so many other ways, the science-fiction writers may have been there first.

Edgar Rice Burroughs (author of the Tarzan tales) once described a race of intellectual pterodactyltype reptiles inhabiting the mythical inner-Earth world of Pellucidar. But even these brainy lizards had their problems, for to accomplish work requiring manual dexterity, they had to capture a dim-witted but nimble-fingered man.

The immutable laws of science keep changing. One which was held for a long time was that carbon-based life could survive and grow only by eating carbon-based food. However, experiments by a team of University of Pennsylvania scientists under the supervision of Professor Alan F. MacDiarmid have changed this, too. They have developed a strain of bacteria which can survive and multiply only on a silicon compound.

The origin and survival of life on this planet has been due to a series of the most unlikely accidents. Consider, for example: Methane and ammonia, both poisonous gases, were essential for the first beginning of life on Earth, or the fact that without oxygen, carbon-based life could not survive. Yet, pure oxygen will kill with the deadly certainty of strychnine.

Accidents have the unhealthy habit of recurring, as anyone who has stubbed his big toe twice in the same day, knows.

WE THOUGHT WE WERE PEOPLE

by RAY PALMER

What is a people? Do you know? A horse is a four-legged animal which can be used to pull a cart, carry a hunter on a fox chase, carry a beautiful girl on his back while she jumps through a flaming hoop, win the Kentucky Derby, or provide food for minks being raised to make beautiful coats for rich women—or even for hamburgers (and they are good hamburgers) if you can get away with it without the food inspectors catching you. Whatever he is used for, there is no doubt that he is a horse. But how do you define a people?

The people is we. According to the Constitution, We, the People, framed a document that outlines a form of government in which the people rule themselves through elected representatives, and they adopted a Bill of Rights that defines what people are entitled to. Constitutionally people have the right to Life, Liberty and the Pursuit of Happiness. In a special “bill of particulars” people have the right to own property, to enjoy privacy, to speak freely, to trial by their peers, and many others.

They are the people.

Are YOU a people?

People are defined in the Constitution as “individuals”. The very concept of being free is of being an individual. You are a person. Collectively you and other persons make up The People. But no matter if you are a unity enmeshed in a whole group, you are still an individual. All of the People protect your rights to be a person.

Except . . .

In the public interest by right of eminent domain.

We, the People, hold that where the welfare of the group is concerned, the rights of the individual must be subject to the group. For example, if a highway is necessary for the transportation of the people as a whole, the right to own property is subject to the people's need—by due process of law and by paying a fair price the individual's land can be acquired in the public interest in order to construct the road. There can be little argument about this "right of the People", and in the event there is some disagreement as to fair price, the courts set up by the People are there to assure "redress of grievances". In framing the Constitution, the People took note of the fact that not all people are fair. The courts assure that the bully cannot overwhelm the weak or the timid.

One of the rights the People have is the vote. Since the framers of the Constitution also realized that there is strength in numbers, and that a majority group of bullies can also overwhelm a minority, they included balances and checks against the vote becoming "mob rule". Presidents, for example, are elected by an Electoral College which is not bound to elect by the will of the majority if it considers that majority constitutes an unfair mob, a group bully. The House of Representatives was also designed to reflect the will of the people, both majorities and minorities. Because of free speech, public opinion is also a powerful force. Of primary importance was the "balance" and "check" provided by that august body called the Supreme Court. How successfully all these things have worked is not the subject of this article, other than that out of it has come a definition of "people" and their relationship to "civil rights" and "human rights". What we are concerned with here is an effort to decide if we (you and I) are "people"? For the sake of argument, let's say we are "persons", "individuals", and that this is synonymous with "People". You are a "people"; I am a "people".

Let's take me, first. As one of the persons in this republic who participates in its democratic action, I managed to get an education in the public schools, I also found a job in the free enterprise system, in which I made enough money to become even more freely enterprising and started my own business based on my real talent and first love, writing. Writers sometimes have difficulty selling what they write, so it was an expression of enterprise that I started a publishing business and became a published writer whose work reached the public and was read because my enterprise included "buying" my own writings. Quite a thing, don't you admit? Not really possible in anything but our form of government.

With some of the money I earned, I bought a broken-down farm on which there was an earthen dam, a mill pond, a trout stream, some 50 acres of forest, some crop land. I cleared more than 30 truckloads of debris and junk from the property, rebuilt the dam, installing winch operated steel gates, restored the pond to a condition in which fish grew prolifically, ducks and geese found nesting places, deer and otter and muskrats and many other animals roved, and myriads of birds of every species native to Wisconsin congregated. I converted the trout stream (not only on my own property but miles downstream) from a sucker and carp ridden morass of mud, to a clear, sparkling, gravel-bottomed stream literally teeming with native trout (as opposed to "planted" fish which die within weeks after planting or are all fished out on the opening days of the fishing season, and which cannot reproduce themselves).

Need I tell you the result? As soon as The People discovered the stream and pond had been rehabilitated, the right of the "public" to use public waters was again exercised, and the "sportsmen", the "fishermen", with their gaudy paraphernalia and their beer cans proceeded to rape the waters, standing shoulder to shoulder until all the fish were captured.

Because "recreation" is the business of the Game Wardens, they also appeared in numbers. Their main business is economical, not ecological. They are there to provide an environment that is economical, not ecological. They are there to provide an environment that is conducive to selling fishing and hunting licenses, bring sportsmen into the area to prime the local economy with the money they spend on their sport, which includes equipment, food, lodging, and all the many ways it costs money to go fishing. To a game warden, conservation is fish to catch and animals and birds to kill. However, as a "people" with the right to privacy, your writer, along with many of his neighbors, aghast at the litter, beer cans, broken glass, cut fences, destroyed pine plantations, stolen property, arrogant trespassing, even threats to property and life through careless use of fire in tinder-box dry forest areas (have you ever seen a forest fire?), was forced to resort to the legal protection against trespassing by "posting" the property, thus limiting the fisherman only to their own legal rights, the rights to use public waters (but not private land).

The right to use public waters extends to many others besides sportsmen. Water is not solely for fisherman. It is also for boating and swimming and other esthetic uses. One of the uses we put our water to, our pond, was to build a sandy beach (at a cost of $700) and with the cooperation of the local school board, we instituted a swim-teaching program for children under the auspices of the Red Cross, and taught more than 900 children to swim. But did you know that sportsmen and game wardens hate children and sandy beaches in fishing waters? Accordingly, they united and strove legally to have my private dam condemned and removed, forced me into court at great expense to defend my right to own property, arrested me for making repairs on the dam (they called it illegal deposit of material in the bed of a navigable stream—it was actually in a mill-race 200 feet from the stream) and I am still to appear in court where I will no doubt be fined heavily because it will be impossible to get a fair trial in this “loaded” citation. If these “People” had been able to make their “rights” stick, the only place locally where children can get free lessons on how to swim would have been eliminated, and their rights to the use of public waters would have been abrogated by an arrogant pressure group.

We, who thought we are also “people”, have been threatened with a beating, been cursed, subjected to incredible harrassment by a game warden who cannot be classed as anything but an invading enemy and a totally prejudiced little tin Hitler. He is very dangerous to us, and has publicly stated (in court) that his intention is to destroy our dam and “all other similar dams everywhere”. I will see him in hell first!

Now to go to you. Perhaps you have heard of the new National Park that has been set up which includes the famous Apostle Islands in lake Superior? You may also have heard of the attempts to take away the legal and tribal and treaty rights of the Indians who live on the shore of lake Superior (they failed, happily!). But have you heard of the treatment given home owners in the area, after more than a century of family living, thrown out with meagre recompense, and shown how little rights they have as people in the face of the rights of “The People”, preservation of our natural resources, safeguarding of the ecology and preserving public recreational areas from private monopoly? Prior to this new National Park, this area was unpolluted, beautiful, undisturbed in its natural state. You know what will now happen—a huge public dump heap of garbage and beer cans and bottles, and the sad retirement of the local people from the area, heartbroken over the destruction of their homes and the very things the People say they are trying to preserve.

No, there is nothing wrong in establishing National Parks. Nothing wrong in preserving some of the wild areas of our nation in its original primitive and undisturbed beauty. But this is not the purpose of The People. The purpose is economy, not ecology. And the masses will once more ride roughshod over the individual. “Undisturbed wild areas” is a misnomer!

In reality, it is not The People who are committing these acts of aggression against the individual, but the government itself.

What Louis Cassels, writing in the Milwaukee Journal, said about the subject dramatizes it about as well as anything we've read. We reproduce his comments with apologies to him and to the Journal for filching his very aptly turned sentences; he makes our point too well to refrain from quoting him! Says Cassels:

There are not even ruins to mark where Ellenton stood before it got in the way of a government project 20 years ago.

The project was, and is, the Savannah River plant of the Atomic Energy Commission. It's where they make plutonium, the essential ingredient of nuclear weapons and power stations.

To build it, the government seized—that's the precise legal term, seized—more than 200,000 acres of land in the western part of South Carolina. There were three little villages, including my hometown of Ellenton, within the site that engineers considered most suitable for the plant.

Living in and around the three villages were 6,000 people. Most had lived there all their lives, as had their parents and their parents' parents on back for seven or eight generations. They had farms and businesses that they had spent years developing. Most of all, they had large and intricate networks of human ties—family relationships, friendship, a deeply shared sense of community.

But the engineers said this was where they wanted to build the $1.3 billion plutonium factory.

The people didn't protest very loudly. The patriotism of the Deep South is an instinctive thing. These people had given their sons when their country said it needed them to fight wars, and they would not balk at giving up their homes when their country said it needed them to prepare for possible future war.

The government said it would pay them well for their property. But the people discovered that when the government wants your land, it doesn't bother to negotiate. It just takes the land, and deposits to your credit the sum that it has unilaterally determined to be what it calls a fair price.

If you feel that the price is disgracefully low—as most of the displaced folks did—you can go into federal court and sue for additional compensation. But you'll have to wait a long time, and the lawyers will get the lion's share.

The government ended up paying about $19 million for the three little towns and the 200,000 acres of field and forest land around them.

Today, the AEC reports with obvious pride that there is more than $28 million worth of timber on the land it seized.

You think about things like that when you look for the place where your father's general store used to be and find nothing but a rank and tangled mass of kudzu vine.

For some reason, all traces of former human habitation have been removed in the area. Not even a privy has been left standing. The worst part, I think, was when I finally located the spot where my grandfather built a dam across Four Mile Creek to create a lake. I spent a good part of my boyhood in, on and around that lake, and I thought surely it would still be there.

Well, it is, in a way. But when I saw it, vapors of steam were rising from its surface, like a scene in Dante's hell.

My AEC guide explained that huge quantities of water are pumped out of the Savannah River to cool the giant reactors where nuclear fission produces plutonium and other elements. The hot water that comes out of the plants is dumped into Four Mile Creek to cool off a bit as it winds its way back toward the Savannah River. That way, the AEC doesn't get so many squawks about thermal pollution of the river.

But Four Mile Creek is so hot that all of the trees around grandfather's lake have been killed. The dense, towering cypress swamp in which I used to fish and play tag with water mocassins is now just a grim forest of dead tree hulks.

My guide must have seen the expression on my face, for he began to talk very rapidly about all of the good, constructive things that are being done with radioactive elements that are produced at the Savannah River plant. He assured me that plutonium will be the nation's chief source of energy by the year 2000, which is only 30 years away. But all I can see is that kudzu vine, and the steam rising from the dark, swift water of Four Mile Creek.

Some simple mathematics reveals the true picture; and a startling picture it is! First, the government paid the owners of these 200,000 acres $19 million; which figures out to $95 per acre. Not a bad price, you might say? (Except similar land sells for $200 per acre in the private market) But what about the $28 million in timber? That is worth $140 per acre. If the owners had cut that timber and sold it, they would have had $45 per acre more than the government paid them, and they still would have owned the land! After cutting (the government let the trees die), the land could then have been sold for $95 per acre, netting the owners $235 per acre. The difference between what the land was worth ($47 million) and what the government actually paid ($19 million) is $28 million which the government acquired from these people in a high-handed brigandry so arrogant as to be unbelievable. And they brag about it!

There is the case of renter Wilbur Jensen in Omaha, Nebraska. He came home from work one night to find his home bulldozed to the ground, his clothing, furniture, tools and private possessions destroyed in the wreckage. The reason? The city had ordered the owner to make certain repairs (needed, by the way) to bring the property up to zoning standards, and when the work had not been done six months later (Jensen knew nothing about the situation), the city ordered the building destroyed. Did Jensen get "redress of grievances"? Was he a People? No. But he did learn one thing—you can't fight City Hall.

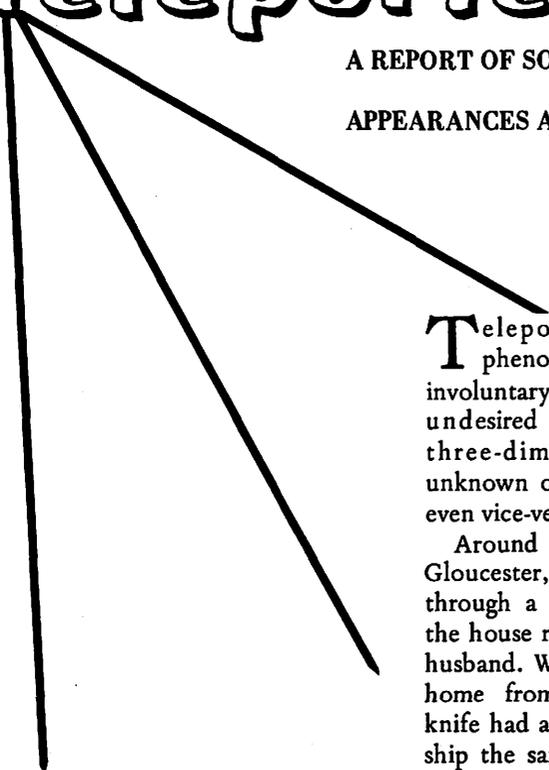

What about the Oklahoma couple who found their farm home repeatedly broken into and robbed while they worked at their jobs in town? They rigged a shotgun inside the house and succeeded in wounding the next intruder in the legs. They were sued for $30,000, forced to sell their home to pay up, left destitute, and The People, in the form of the courts, decreed that the suit was justified, and that a property owner cannot booby-trap his home and endanger the person of anyone else, no matter if he is trespassing or robbing or destroying. His right to be safe from bodily harm supercedes all this. He is a People. The home owner and his wife are not. They are criminal individuals.

Who are these People whose right it is to benefit from the heartaches of others, and who can invade their Constitutional rights without compunction? How did it happen that the victims lost their status as People? Is it because it is no longer a "right" to be an individual, to be a person? Do we no longer rule ourselves as The People, but have come under mob rule by savages and criminals? Is this the result of the "one man, one vote" principle so foreign to our Republic and its Constitution? Has the enemy our forefathers recognized, and attempted to guard against in instituting our form of government, finally won victory over us?

In this great Republic, the rights of the individual are deemed paramount. But the day has finally come when that right has been superceded by the rights of The People who are now called The Public. The public interest is now paramount. And the pounding fist of the bully, or the wrecking ball of the wrecker, has become the law of the land. Is this "progress"? True progress is an individual thing, and comes from the heart. As persons, we have hearts. As The People, we are heartless, cruel, and terribly dangerous. Divided we stand, bloody and bosed; united we are doomed to fall (by our own hand). Where did we go wrong?

Who are The People? Not you? Not I? Then who!

A REPORT OF SOME VERY MYSTERIOUS
APPEARANCES AND DISAPPEARANCES

By Kurt Glemser

Teleportation is a two-way phenomenon. It involves an involuntary, unexpected and certainly undesired transference from our three-dimensional world to the unknown one of four dimensions, or even vice-versa.

Around the year 1200 in Bristol, Gloucester, England, a knife fell through a roof-window. The lady of the house recognized it as that of her husband. When her husband returned home from sea she discovered the knife had accidentally fallen from the ship the same hour and day as it fell into the house.

On the morning of October 25, 1593, a soldier appeared on the Plaza before the Palace in Mexico City. Gil Pérez was of the regiment which was at that moment guarding the walled citadel of Manila in the Philippine Islands. The soldier said that the Governor of the Philippines had been killed the night before. It was puzzling as to how the soldier could travel 9000 miles in one night. The soldier said the teleportation took "less time than it takes a cock to crow". Two months later news arrived from the Philippines that the Governor had indeed been killed. Passengers of the ship that brought this news had seen Pérez in Manila the day before he appeared in Mexico City.

In 1817 a strange girl suddenly appeared at the door of a cottage near Brislington, Bristol, England. She spoke an unknown tongue which no linguist could identify and even wrote unknown glyphs.

A boy appeared in Nürnberg, in 1833. He was named Kaspar Hauser by the Germans. He gave a Herr von Feuerback the impression, so complete was his deficiency in terrestrial customs, that "he might have been a citizen of another planet transformed by some miracle to our own".

In the New York World, March 25, 1883, is told a story of a girl, the daughter of Jesse Miller, of Greenville Township, Somerset County, Pennsylvania, who was transported several times, out of the house into the front yard. It was her belief that apparitions were around.

In August, 1887, two green children walked out from a cave near Banjos, Spain. People alive today still remember this incident. Their skin was deep green. The boy died within a month. The girl died five years later. There are documents still in existence which are sworn statements of people who met the odd pair.

Two brothers, named Pansini, 7 and 8 years old had a run-in with teleportation in 1901. At 9 a.m. they were in Ruvo, Italy. Half an hour later they were found wandering dazedly in the gardens of the Capuchin Convent at Malfatti—thirty miles away! How had they been transported that distance so quickly? Such a thing could very easily be done nowadays with our cars but in 1901 it was miraculous.

The following story was sent to the Shaver Mystery Club. In California a band was playing at a mansion of a local citrus baron. At the end of the party the band carried out their instruments. The drummer walked off through the surrounding orange orchard. That was the last anyone, as far as is known, has ever seen of the man! He left a wife and family, social position, good living, etc. and just vanished! The law and private investigators could uncover no clues as to his whereabouts nor as to his means of disappearance. Apparently he entered the orchard, dressed in black

No clues could be found until years after when someone read a copy of Charles Fort's work. There is an account of an Australian party encamped in the vast desert on the interior of that continent. Into the light of their campfire, about which the party was gathered, strode a white man, immaculately clad in evening clothes, and carrying a bass drum on his back. He seemed not to be dusty or tired. He showed no evidence of having walked more than a few yards through the wilderness. He could not tell how he happened to be there, how he arrived, nor did he know his own identity. He returned to civilization with the party and Fort states that his identity was never established.

On June 1, 1968, two couples were travelling to Maipu from Chascomas, Argentina. One couple was following the other in their car. Suddenly the second car was enclosed by a heavy fog and the next thing they knew it was 48 hours later and they were in Mexico. The people who were caught by the fog were a well-known Buenos Aires attorney and his wife. When they became conscious it was daytime and they were parked in an unknown lane. Both had a pain in the back of the neck and both had a sensation of having slept for many hours. The car was burned as though by a blow torch but the engine was in running order.

Their watches had stopped. After going to the Argentinian Consul in Mexico city, their car was shipped to the United States for investigation. When the misplaced couple arrived in Buenos Aires, the wife was hospitalized for apparent deep nervous shock.

On the same night the Vidals were teleported a man was admitted into the Maipu Hospital. He had been driving on National Route No. 2 (the same road the Vidals were travelling on) and a strange fog appeared in front of him. The fog had moved away shortly, leaving him badly shaken.

This is one case in which aliens may be involved. The parallels between the Vidals teleportation and the Betty and Barney Hill experience are amazing. If the Vidals were put under psychotherapy and time regression we might learn of a fascinating experience.

Dear Doctor Ann,

Dear Dr. Wigmore: A neighbor brought me a January 1971 issue of Search magazine, in which you discuss "living foods" and their relationship with Muscular Dystrophy. As a victim of this disease, I am, of course, interested in getting as much information as I can on this subject.

I have heard of wheat, and I have heard of grass; but never in my whole life have I heard of wheatgrass. Would you extend me the courtesy of letting me know more about this new subject. Like anybody else with this trouble, I am perfectly willing to eat weeds if they will bring me a little extra strength.

Herbert H. Figgins

Answer: It was good to learn that you are interested in wheatgrass and what it might be able to do for your health problem. Wheatgrass is the grass from ordinary wheat. It is a food-medicine which is generally grown indoors. You spread the wheat, you have soaked in water over night, thickly on the top of the soil. You cover the seeds with several thicknesses of wet newspaper. In about three days, the sprouted wheat begin to push up the paper. The paper should now be removed and the container placed in the light. In about three or four days more, the wheatgrass is ready to cut. The chlorophyll may be extracted with a juicer. This wheatgrass juice should be diluted half and half with water. A suggested drink would be about two ounces of the mixture three times a day. Before meals is preferable. Meals which might well accompany the taking of this chlorophyll consist of sprouts, greens, softened seeds, grain and fruits and vegetables. These foods must be eaten alive—uncooked. Such nutrition is Mother Nature's tested tools which help to build bodies to health. The body does the healing. If living food were universally adopted, probably ninety per cent of illness would disappear.

Dear Dr. Ann: I just read your answers in the January, 1971 issue of "Search". Please answer the following—Wheat Grass? Solid or liquid? Where can I buy it? Or do I have to grow it, if so, how? How much is to be taken per day? Does one have to fast beforehand? What weeds are used? Are they liquified? If so can one use carrot tops, parsnip or chickweed or other vegetable tops?

Quite a list but I'm 73 years old and have fair health but my sister is 75 and is so sick most of the time. We are very willing to try anything that would help arthritis especially. We will be eternally thankful to you for any help.

May God Bless You in your work.
Mrs. Agnes E. Manning

Answer: Your questions are easily answered: This wheatgrass therapy depends upon the healing qualities of the chlorophyll found in wheatgrass. It is taken as a liquid, diluted with water. You can grow it yourself or you can have a friend grow it for you. It can be shipped by mail. The average amount taken is, about six ounces a day, divided into three drinks. Wheatgrass can be grown on any good soil, spread thickly on the surface and covered with wet newspapers. The wheatgrass chlorophyll is a cleanser and builder—no fasting is necessary. It is better to juice your vegetable tops.

Wheatgrass therapy should work splendidly with your sister because the body heals any adverse condition when assisted by Mother Nature. But you must provide Mother Nature with the tools she needs. The problem of your sister was probably brought on by eating too much dead food. She needs living, uncooked food.

Everyone should learn how to take care of their precious temple. Each problem should be understood and then corrected. Mother Nature does not fail, and I have worked with her for many years. There are no incurable problems—only lack of understanding on the part of human beings what to do about them.

Dear Dr. Ann: I am a reader of Search magazine for about 20 years. In the Jan. '71 issue, I see where one of your followers, was cured of Diabetes, by using the Wheatgrass therapy. My sister has diabetes in the early stages. She would like to use this wheatgrass therapy. Could you give me some information on it.

Where do I obtain it, and also is there a special diet along with the wheatgrass?

Answer: Regarding diabetes and the wheatgrass therapy: The wheatgrass therapy has met successfully many health problems such as your sister's. The wheatgrass therapy merely brings to the ailing body many necessary elements which may have been missing. Physicians tell us that the wheatgrass chlorophyll is probably able to open many of the bodily tubes which may have been clogged and which, in diabetes, has prevented the natural insulin to play its proper part.

My suggestion would be that she would grow the wheatgrass herself, either indoors or outdoors. It is always better to have plenty of this natural medicine in the shape of food on hand. A diet of uncooked, living food consisting of sprouts, greens, grains, seeds, vegetables and fruit is always in order. Fruit and vegetables should not be eaten together. The chlorophyll of wheatgrass may be taken just before you eat your grain, vegetable or seed meal. Of course, it may be taken any time between meals. But not with a fruit meal.

The food eaten should, if possible, be organically grown without the use of sprays. We have a family of about twenty persons in our establishment. Most of the food eaten is grown indoors, especially in cold weather when good greens are scarce. Besides the wheatgrass we grow buckwheat, lettuce, radish greens and sunflower salad greens.

Of course, sprouting seeds is simple. No earth is required. This type of nutrition is not only inexpensive, time saving and brings health to the family.

When the nation's bodily health problems vanish, mental health also takes a spurt forward.

READERS: Send in your questions to DOCTOR ANN, SEARCH magazine, Amherst, Wisconsin 54406. Please enclose a large, self-addressed and stamped envelope.

OUR PRECIOUS PETS

By ANN WIGMORE, D.D.

Here is a book to gladden the heart of all animal lovers. The founder of the National Humane League said of it: "It reveals a deep understanding of love and care which maintains the health of these friends, which are so dependent upon us."

This volume deals specifically with the details of proper care, feeding and better understanding of our friends—all God-guided creatures. It includes first-aid remedies for pets and common sense healing suggestions for the control of chronic ailments. Here are set forth definite instructions as to how, by astrology you may select the right pet for you and feel confident that it will harmonize with your own personality. This collection of some fifty-two heart-warming animal stories is bound to delight both the young and old. Somewhere in this volume, perhaps more than once, you will find your own wonderful adventures with pets glorified once more in a manner that will bring back delightful memories which even time has failed to eradicate.

I have always regarded pets as catalysts which harmonize the relationship between animals and human beings. This was emphasized delightfully as I read the manuscript last night. Some how, some way, it seemed to bring to me the presence of my little yellow dog which was forever faithful during my boyhood days on the cattle trail which led through Abilene.

I want you to know that I admire the masterful way in which you have handled the incidents and I feel certain they will appeal to others as they have appealed to me.

FOUND DROWNED

THE STORY OF AN UNSOLVED MYSTERY CONCERNING
THE DEATH OF FRANK PODMORE, A CRITIC OF SPIRITISM

Ronald M. Sherin

The most outstanding writer and critic of his time on psychical research, Frank Podmore's life and mysterious death have received surprisingly scant attention in parapsychological circles. This is strange indeed inasmuch as the circumstances surrounding his death are so unusual that they could be used for a basis for a mystery story, possibly even a ghostly one.

Even more curious is the fact that the coroner at the inquest, after an open verdict of "Found Drowned," remarked that it was as an "unsolved mystery" without apparently taking any steps toward solving it.

Still in the prime of life at 54, Podmore on August 10, 1910 went to a rather isolated inn at Malvern Wells, England, where he had stayed before, presumably to rest and play golf. On Sunday, August 14, he disappeared and was not again seen until his body was found in a lake called New Pool, a considerable distance from his lodgings, on August 19, five days later. According to the testimony of his landlady Podmore had gone out the evening in question about 10:30 P.M., saying he was going for a walk.

Another strange fact is that at his funeral the following day at Malvern Wells, the Society for Psychical Research, of which he was still an active member, sent no representative to the ceremony. One cannot but wonder whether this omission was in part due to the acrimony of Podmore's criticism of the validity of the physical phenomena produced in a recent series of seances with the Italian medium Eusapia Palladino sponsored by the Society. His severely critical views on the report had been published in the Society's Journal, and in the August, 1910 issue of the same Journal the investigator of the series, Mr. W.W. Bagally, replied in terms of equal acrimony.

Frank Podmore was born in 1856, his father being the Rev. Thompson Podmore, Fellow of St. John's College. After attending Haileybury College he went on to Oxford and won an open scholarship and honors in natural science. After Oxford he entered Civil Service and was active in the Fabian Society. Along with his interest in social problems, Podmore became impressed with the phenomena of the Spiritualism of the day sponsored by many men of high standing. Influenced by the results produced by the American medium, Henry Slade, at an early age he wrote several articles dealing with Spiritualism such as "The Modern Miracle," "The Rationale of Spirit Intercourse, and the Constitution of the Spirit World," and "A Voice from Laodicea," among others.

In 1888, Podmore, together with F.W.H. Myers, was appointed Honorary Secretary of the Society for Psychical Research, a post he continued to hold until 1897, continuing to serve on the council and holding membership in the Society until his death in 1910.

In 1886 he co-authored with Edmund Gurney and F.W.H. Myers in the production of the work "Phantasms of the Living," and in 1894 appeared his book "Apparitions and Thought Transference: an Examination of the Evidence for Telepathy." "Studies in Psychical Research" followed in 1897. In 1902 his major work was published in two volumes under the title "Modern Spiritualism," which in 1963 has been published again by the University Books, Inc. with the new title "Mediums of the Nineteenth Century" and with an Introduction by E.J. Dingwall, to which we are indebted for much of our knowledge of Podmore's life history.

In 1908 appeared "The

Ronald M. Sherin and wife, Esperanza

Long interested in scientific matters, Ronald Sherin was one of the pioneer science fiction writers for AMAZING STORIES Magazine. "The Lost Comet" and "When The World Went Mad" were some of his stories. He also had articles published in various local papers, both English and Spanish, as well as CURRENT HISTORY Magazine, a part of THE NEW YORK TIMES.

While working as a translator in Mexico from 1940 to 1948, he met his present wife, Esperanza, formerly of Guadalajara. He says, "She has been a great help to me in my work".

Now retired and living in the Rio Grande Valley of Texas, he has time to read, study and write about his favorite subjects, science fiction, ESP and psychic phenomena—and, if they feel like it, he and Esperanza go fishing.

Naturalization of the Supernatural" followed a year later by "Mesmerism and Christian Science" and "Telepathic Hallucinations." His "The Newer Spiritualism" was published posthumously.

The difficulties mentioned with certain members of the Society for Psychical Research stemmed from Podmore's highly critical attitude toward physical phenomena occurring during seances and in this particular case the genuineness of such manifestations at the series of sittings with Eusapia Palladino, already mentioned. In fact his adamant attitude toward mediums producing physical phenomena has been the cause of much criticism by writers in the field.

To quote Mr. T.J. Dingwall:

"It is in his treatment of Home and other cases of a less spectacular kind that Podmore has been accused of both inaccuracy and lack of fairness, a charge which at times can be substantiated.

"Podmore's position denying the genuine character of any physical phenomena opened the way to serious objections to which he was never able to reply. To him D.D. Home was a riddle to which he saw no real solution, just as today we are no nearer to any explanation of the phenomena said to have occurred in his presence. Every explanation, then as now, is unacceptable to the modern mind; and Podmore's theory is now probably less acceptable than it was when Home was still alive. The apparent inability of Podmore to adopt an agnostic position relative to certain of the physical phenomena, was not the case when he was describing the mental phenomena, automatic writings and the productions of the trance mediums. This is to be expected, since he had been for so long a close collaborator with Myers and Gurney in their labors on cases of apparitions and the relations these bore to thought transference, and this joint work had convinced him that telepathy is a fact in nature. . .

"Although as a historian and critic of psychical research Podmore was the outstanding figure of his generation, he was not, and never claimed to be, an experimenter. Had he been more active in trying to do some of those things which, when others did them he attributed to fraud, he might have shown greater hesitation before coming to the conclusions he arrived at regarding the physical phenomena. . . Whatever may be said, however, about Podmore's failings (and some of them were mercilessly castigated after his death) he remains the most formidable critic that Spiritualism has ever encountered; and it is above all in this book that he displays his learning, his fair-mindedness and his critical

\(Introduction by E.J. Dingwall, "Mediums of the Nineteenth Century", University Books Inc. 1963)*

It is difficult to follow all the reasons leading up to Podmore's reluctance to admit the validity of physical phenomena at seances while accepting the genuineness of mental or telepathic manifestations inasmuch as at the start of his career he apparently had no reservations, writing in 1875 criticizing the attitude of scientists toward the manifestations of Spiritualism and its phenomena.

In his "Mediums of the Nineteenth Century" Podmore has written one of the most comprehensive treatments and histories of Spiritualism extant. Beginning with its earliest manifestations under the sub-head "Pedigree of Spiritualism," he goes on to "Poltergeists," "Mesmer," "Spiritualism in France," "Clairvoyance in England," "Early American Spiritualism," "Trance Writing and Speaking," and devotes an entire chapter to Andrew Jackson Davis, sometimes called the "Poughkeepsie Seer," a much publicized figure around the middle of the past century.

"In "Early American Spiritualism" and "General Survey" are found data little known to the present generation concerning the beginnings of the spiritualist movement in America and reveals the surprising number of adherents it acquired between 1820 and 1850. Podmore explains this phenomenal growth owing to the peculiar conditions existing on the frontier in America at that time.

Returning to the mystery surrounding Podmore's untimely death we are struck by the seeming apathy of the part of the authorities as far as conducting any investigation. Apparently no question of suicide was brought up. According to the testimony of an acquaintance he dined with earlier in the evening he was in good spirits. His financial position was sound. He was in good health at the time. Obviously there were no marks on which to base a suspicion of foul play. Yet even in the year 1910 it seems rather peculiar that no autopsy should have been performed or a more thorough investigation carried out considering the extremely strange manner of his death. The verdict of "Found Drowned" is indeed vague, and the coroner's remark about an "unsolved mystery" even more so.

So there remains only speculation. Whatever happened that August evening in the lonely English countryside will forever remain a mystery. Could it be that the spirit controls of the mediums whose physical phenomena he criticized so harshly finally took their revenge? We will never know.

For the past six years, Dr. Gofman and Dr. Arthur R. Tamplin, have been making a scientific study of radiation effects on the human body at the AEC's request.

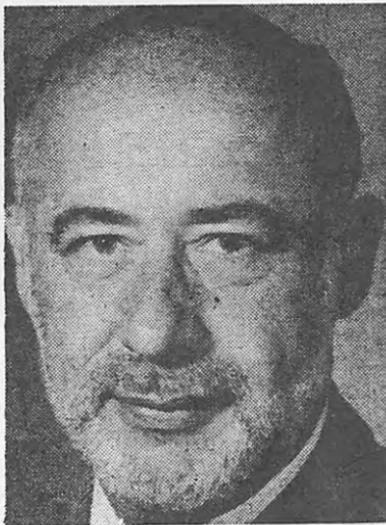

Because they have repeatedly warned that 32,000 persons will die every year from cancer caused by radiation in the air, both scientists have had their research staffs and budgets cut and, according to Dr. Tamplin, are about to lose their jobs.

Both scientists work at the Lawrence Radiation Laboratory, which is operated for the AEC by the University of California at Livermore. Dr. Tamplin said their six-year study at the laboratory showed that the present legally permissible amount of radiation in the air encourages killer diseases like cancer of the blood, the lungs, stomach, pancreas, bones (both bone and marrow), the voicebox, rectum, breasts and ovaries.

"This is man-made radiation that can be controlled. It is a by-product of atomic power-plants, nuclear-fuel manufacturing facilities and the underground testing of nuclear explosives."

Dr. Tamplin said the AEC claims it would cost billions to cut down this radiation by 10 times—a reduction that would be the bare minimum for the public's health.

RUSSIAN PUBLICATION SAYS MOON MAY BE SPACESHIP

Dr. Vasin and Dr. Shcherbakov, both senior scientists, are associated with the Moscow-based Soviet Academy of Sciences Institute.

"Today, the moon can be either a city of the dead—entombing the remains of an ancient civilization in its interior—or else be a shell holding special devices that controlled it automatically after it was abandoned in earth orbit by its inhabitants in the dim past.

"From our point of view, the moon is a thin-walled sphere. Probably the sphere's shell is made up of two layers—a loosely packed outer layer to absorb the shocks of meteorite impacts, with an inner layer of 20-mile-thick armor-plate.

"Beneath the armor-plate is a region 30 miles deep that was doubtlessly filled with gases which formed an atmosphere to support life—and which were also used for technological and other purposes, such as growing vegetables and various other food plants.

“Underneath this living area, in the core of the moon, are the engines and fuel tanks as well as a variety of equipment required to provide light, heat, air conditioning and other necessities to maintain the demands of a totally self-contained civilization.

“Such a hollow internal structure of the moon would explain why it has only three-fifths the specific gravity of the solid Earth.

Moon is hollow, say Soviet scientists, and it may have a 20-mile-thick layer of armor-plate protecting it from meteorites.

MY REASONS FOR ADOPTING A VEGETARIAN DIET

BY ROY LANGFORD

The practice of vegetarianism is thousands of years old, particularly, of course in Eastern countries. The pioneers of vegetarianism renounced flesh-eating for ethical or moral reasons, and the knowledge of scientific nutrition, vitamins and so on which came later, has proved that what is right in principle is right in practice.

Vegetarianism is based on the idea that all life springs from the same Divine source, and is therefore a unity. Life is a possession we have no right to take unnecessarily. We cannot give life, therefore we have no right to take it. Those who refuse to kill animals for sport or game would certainly refuse to take the lives of their fellow-men.

Reverence for life by means of diet has never been more needed than it is today, because violence is the keynote of the age. If humanity is to survive and not devolve to the jungle or ant-heap, a reinstatement of the wisdom philosophy is essential to counteract the faith placed in nuclear armaments. Unlimited animal experimentation in order to secure health, and the broiler system is not an answer to the threatened food shortage. Humanitarianism is the hope of the world.

Our physiology indicates that we evolved for millions of years as vegetarians, because the flesh-eaters (carnivores and omnivores) have distinct anatomical differences. For example, they have a very short bowel, for the rapid expulsion of highly toxic substances. They do not sweat through the skin, their teeth and claws are different and they also lap water like a cat. On the other hand herbivores and frugivores have long bowels, sweat through the skin, their jaws can move from side to side and their teeth are especially adapted for chewing. The ape, which comes closest to resembling a man, does not eat meat.

Vegetarianism fosters humanity and gentleness, while a meat diet produces ferocity. The craving for stimulants is, in many cases, the result of the stimulating qualities of meat, which induce a craving for stronger stimulants. The alcoholic nations are the meat-eating nations. The only hope of curing drunkenness lies in a non-meat diet.

There is about one acre per person in the world for food production—a meat-eater needs more than twice that of a vegetarian to support him (nearly two acres) and so takes more than his fair share.

Consider the beastliness of the slaughterhouse. However humane killing may be, the animals suffer pain and fear, their lives are terminated far short of their natural span. The act of killing cannot but breed callousness and irreverence for life.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Help! Oahspe Diet Plan Needed

Dear Mr. Palmer:

In reading Oahspe the book claims that nothing that breathes is suppose to be eaten.

As an experiment I tried to go without eating meat for an entire week and found it extremely difficult.

Are there any Oahspe diet plans published or can a diet plan be located somewhere in the book?

Also do you have the names of any Faithists or Faithist groups in the Phoenix area?

Richard E. Bondon
8225 W. Catalina Dr.
Phoenix, Arizona 85033

● Oahspe also says that there are periods when mankind does eat meat, the result being that they grow larger and stronger, so it is not an absolute that nothing that breathes should be eaten. Certainly we are in an era when people are growing bigger and stronger. However, eating no meats can be a matter of choice, and today we have vegetable substitutes (on sale in health food stores) for meat which are almost indistinguishable from meat. Why not try those? If this doesn't work, you just like meat, that's all, and maybe you should forget the non-meat diet. However, there are many who practice such a diet (our friends, the Moores, who make those beautiful prayer tiles and other ceramics for us are an example, and do it with marvelous success) and no doubt you will receive letters from some of our vegetarian readers. I myself tried going without meat for six months, and had good results—cleared up a sinus condition and strengthened my eyesight.—Rap.

Who is the Editor?

Dear Sirs:

The book "Oahspe" that I purchased from you recently is so interesting and plausible to me that I wish to make presents of it to my daughters and a friend of mine.

In reading Oahspe I have observed numerous "Ed. notes" at the bottom of pages. May I ask, who is the "editor" and where can I get more information concerning the Kosmon Church? Your answers to these two questions will oblige.

H.F. Deutscher
145 Egerton Road
Winnipeg 8, Man. Canada

● We presume that the editor of Oahspe was Howland who aided Newbrough in getting the book published. However, we don't know for sure. We don't know of any actual Kosmon churches, but our readers may be able to volunteer some information.—Rap.

What is the Faithist Movement?

Dear Ray Palmer:

Will you please give a general outline of the Faithist movement, or where I might obtain this information? The many articles or references to these people (Faithists) in FORUM leads me to desire a clear understanding of the movement.

Do I recall correctly that YOU do not believe in the movement?

I have the book Oahspe that you published.

Will your research on Moses be included in the Martian Diary? Publish it in paperback if you have to, but I sacrifice to buy hardbacks.

(Miss) Ella M. Carter

1286 Geers Avenue

Columbus, Ohio 43206

● The Faithist movement as it exists today is an isolated number of small groups who have gathered together in various locales. There is no cohesion to the movement as yet, being a sort of amateur "club" thing. We publish news from many of these groups in this department, and you may find something informative in it from time to time. I do not believe in the movement from the standpoint of accepting these initial private efforts as a "movement". However, I do believe that the Oahspe movement will grow in the future, but it seems to me to be some years away. Popularity of the book is growing rapidly, and should be a force within a decade or two. As for Moses, he will be one of the big subjects in Martian Diary.—Rap.

Book of Discipline Included

Dear Ray Palmer,

When I discovered the "Book of Discipline" missing from the Oahspe I bought from you, I was very disappointed. I was also disappointed when the new publication also didn't have the book. (That was Oct. 1970) I bought it for my sister. Yesterday at her house I found I was wrong—you had it in—at the end of the book. Thank you very much.

I hope your supply is big enough to permit me to talk it up and get more people to want to own their own. It's great.

Is there a reason why you didn't put in the complete index? It's 40 some pages long. I have a copy of it if you would like it.

E.A. Gardner

2 Meppen Dr.

St. Louis, Mo. 63128

● Yes, we have now included the Book of Discipline in our Oahspe. Next time we print, we will try to have an index, which is under preparation—a big job! The problem is, the index for the 1891 edition is different because of changes in page numbering, so it has to be done over again.—Rap.

Dear Ray,

I am an Oahspean and a member of the Faithist Brotherhood. I am also a subscriber to your “Flying Saucers” magazine.

I have recently noticed that you have run an ad on the Oahspe and that you publish it.

Would it be possible to have a list of the people who purchased a copy of the Oahspe through your publishing company, so that I would be able to contact them in regard to follow-up, supplemental and advanced training in our Brotherhood.

Your immediate handling of this request will be greatly appreciated.

Four Hundred Million Miles a Day!

Dear Rap:

Was reading Oahspe the other night and was in the book of Es, Daughter of Jehovih, Chapter III, verse 17. "Then upward, outward, rose the airavagna, the ship of fire...heading for the red star. 18. Two thousand million miles off, lay the red star, the earth...19. Four hundred million miles a day, sped the airavagna...20. Five days and nights traveled the hosts of the emancipated heavens, to reach the earth;...21. Then they came to Chinvat, the bridge of the boundary of the earth's vortex, and there halted to survey the earth and her unruly heavens...A day they rested, in a day they measured the grade and standing of the earth's mortals and angels, and then they descended straight to Paradise, the place of God, Jehovih's Son."

Several thoughts came into my mind while reading these verses. First—it took five days to reach the earth, then they measured the grade and standing of the earth's angels and mortals. They rested a day and descended straight to Paradise, the place of God, Jehovih's Son. This brings to mind the thought of six days work and a day of rest—seven days—which means completion as in the Holy bible.

The next thought is about Chinvat, the bridge of the boundary of the earth's vortex. I was interested in this bridge so I went to the library to check it out. I found this in Encyclopedia of Occultism by Lewis Spence, page 79 under subject matter called The Road of the Gods or the road of souls. The bridge as a means of passage for the soul from this earth to eternity must have been known also to the ancients, for in the cult of Demeter, the goddess of death, at Eleusis, where her mysteries were gone through, in order to pass at once after death in Elysium,"

And a final thought—on page 570 of the Palmer edition is plate 47—"The cyclic coil—The numbers of the beast shall be sixty-six, and six hundred and sixty-six, and the parts thereof. Because in the coil of the cycle, behold the distances are two-thirds of a circle, whether it be a hundred or a thousand, or three times a thousand."

Now the Airavagna was travelling at a speed of four hundred million miles a-day—I was curious just how fast is that? Measured in terms we use today, I figure it to be 16,666,666 and 2/3 miles per hour.

Charles E. Toland

● The airavagna traveled at the rate of 2315 miles per second, and our spacecraft make about 7 miles per second at their top speed. We aren't in their league yet!—Rap.

the poltergeists in my apartment

BY CATHLEEN BEARA O'CONNELL

Poltergeists were my introduction to my first apartment in New York City. Having lived a year in an apartment hotel, I moved to a pretty apartment near Park Avenue which had plenty light and sun and overlooked a little terrace garden.

It happened the first night I moved in. My polyfoam bed had been delivered and was my only possession so far beside my numerous paintings and books and bric-a-brac. About to fall asleep, I felt something jumping on the bottom of my bed! I blamed the particular kind of mattress. I even went back later to the store where I bought it and told them there was a spook in the mattress they sold me! They said they didn't have any mattresses with spooks.

Not knowing what caused the disturbance every night, it took several months to realize it was poltergeists playing pranks. Having always been able to sense the spirits who live in houses, these spooks seemed quite different in behavior.

I told hardly anyone except in writing to one or two members of my family. Still after dark I had to face the unusual occurrence each and every night.

These little beings—there were two of them—kept jumping one after the other on the bottom of my bed or else kept pulling at or lying on the bedclothes. First they could be heard lapping like puppy dogs beside my bed. They also moved the furniture around. I just didn't know how to cope with them.

Finally I left the light on all night. My landlord had been horrified when I insisted on taking the top apartment.

He tried to get me to take the one underneath. Later the proprietor of a delicatessen on asking where I lived, mentioned that that building was empty for several years—no one would buy it! A doctor's family of ten children all had died there and the mother alone was left behind.

At any time of the day strange knocking occurred on my living room wall beside the Park Avenue larger building. This knocking went on for several hours. My neighbor on the floor below showed me the bottles on her bathroom glass shelf moving along by themselves! She also had knocking on both sides of the living room wall. One wall faced an apartment in the building next door. She even went in to see the tenant to find out what caused the knocking! She got a rude reception. There was no explanation for the knocking on the other wall as there was open space outside it as a garage was on the first floor and she lived on the third floor.

When an apartment became available later on the floor underneath, choosing between the burglars who had broken in ten times and the danger to my little dog, and the spooks—I moved out.

Poltergeists are lower entities and can cause even worse disturbance than that I experienced. If you pay them attention, they prey on your fear. So I tried to ignore them. Even after major surgery, astral travel was my nightly escape. If you are psychic, you never know with whom you have to share your apartment. . .

WORLD OF SPIRIT

Contributed By VERN OVERLEE

"Our aim is to put spirit in contact with those in your world who reach out to open the barrier which separates our two worlds, which in reality, are one".

We are happy to present this new series, "The World of Spirit", which will feature your questions with answers from a group of spirits whose words come through automatic writing.

By way of introduction, we asked Mr. Overlee, a businessman of Sparta, Wisconsin, the following questions:

Question: Who does this automatic writing and when did this get started?

Answer: Mohabis began writing automatically through me 11 years ago. He was replaced by Henry Drummond 5 years ago. At that same time, a group of spirit doctors began healing through me. Transfigurations began 4 years ago; these have been witnessed by hundreds of people and countless spirits have been recognized and conversed with. A year ago, a development program began wherein the participants sit at home (they are located throughout the country), at set times, and my forces train their forces to work through them. This is proving very successful.

Question: Who is Mohabis, and who is Henry Drummond?

Answer: Mohabis is from Nepal, India. He died, a young man of 36 years, in 1782, of paralysis. His life was spent in business, the mercantile type.

He is my companion and the first to write through me automatically. He is still active, although others are placed in the position which he so long enjoyed.

Henry Drummond (1851-1897), the Scottish college science professor, minister, evangelist, author and international lecturer, writes through me. The book, "Let The Dead Speak of Their Life" was written in its entirety by him through automatic writing. It covers all phases of psychic phenomena and includes pictures of Mr. Drummond as well as twelve others who are active. These pictures were drawn by the well-known artist, E. de V. Whitman, when they transfused on my face.

Question: Is the book, "Let The Dead Speak of Their Life", available?

Answer: Yes. Order from Power Publications, Box 442, Sparta, Wisconsin 54656. Price: $3.00

Readers, if you have a question you'd like answered in these pages, please write directly to: SEARCH, Amherst, Wisconsin 54406.

Question: What are your views on promiscuity, divorce, birth control and use of devices by married and unmarried?

Answer: Promiscuity: this is not what was planned for man. He was to be monogamous, (one woman) and to devote his life to the care and provision of his mate and their offspring. The same is to be said for the female. She is to care and fulfill her reproductive duties for the male. When they stray from their chosen mate, they disrupt what they are destined to be and do. Through promiscuity, they become dual as they have an attachment for those with whom they cohabit, whether it be one or a dozen. This attachment never ceases, not even with the grave. It is with this realization that one must look upon promiscuity before betrothal, as they then have built unseverable attachments emotionally which shall forevermore be a part of them, known by all, recognized by all, as this is a part of their spiritual being and evident to all in spirit where they and their loved ones shall soon dwell. The importance of this cannot be overstressed and it is my witness to bear that this represents cruel punishment which is self-inflicted and which in the end has backfired, causing remorse, shame and guilt and for what a shallow experience, that when experienced, is gone.

With divorce, we see conditions which often are necessary, but know ye well, only the legal bindings have been severed, as the spiritual binding is bound and unaffected. Those whose divorce is but a whim, where no effort on either's part was exercised to hold the marriage together harmoniously, there is then a debt which must be repaid. To marry for any reason other than for a deep attachment and a desire to be of assistance to the mate, in itself is wrong. Marriage must be only to fulfill a desire to be together sharing your life and the problems of life. Marriage for sex alone is empty and fruitless. So sex must be only used for reproduction and to keep the marriage, and never used to break the marriage vows. Divorce separating those who find a mutual desire to live apart, is the only valid reason for divorce.

The control of birth is of a spiritual nature, as there can be no birth without the aid of spirit. The seed of life is sown at the time of copulation by spirit, (an existing life who is to share the new life); this must be accomplished to correspond to and with certain physical conditions. These conditions can only exist at the time of the sex act. Should this union conceive child is not decided by man, as this is not his prerogative; this is only the right of the Father. Through the use of contraceptive devices and methods, the Father is deprived of this right. When man conceives is determined by conditions and spirit. Should man determine to use these devices, he then plays God and deprives himself of the God-given privilege of reproduction.

It is common statistics that man will soon populate the earth so that it will be overpopulated and conditions will exist where man can no longer provide that which will sustain life. Granted something must be done and done now! Otherwise, wars and famine will provide a check on the population. Man must be given the opportunity to control the number in the family sensibly and safely. To abuse this and to use these methods to enable promiscuity, one must answer to God and to all when they go to live in the land of spirit. We know that all must be given the privilege to bring life to their family and should they choose to limit the number of the lives they bring into the world, they should, by modern science, be given the safest and surest methods. No limits can be set, but available knowledge will help to keep this present problem in check.

Question: Should sex be taught in school, home or church?

Answer: Sex need not be taught as this is an inherent quality which is found within self. Those who need assistance, who are married, can find available qualified advice. What needs to be taught is a code of morals. This can be given in a few words by the school, church or government. The parents are responsible to the child to make certain that these morals are understood. These cannot be taken lightly nor are they to be abused. We find in the world today, too much stress on sex and very little stress on morals; sex has grown out of proportion and morals are thought old fashioned. People should live as they would like their parents to have lived and how they would want their children to live, as strangely enough, they want morals for others as long as they do not effect them. To educate people about sex, they need only to be able to see themselves in the eyes of others and they will become educated.

Question: What do you think about lewd living?

Answer: To flaunt sex through dress, actions or talk is to bring into yourself a condition whereas those of like desire are drawn to you. These conditions are unseen by the physical eyes, but evident to your spiritual being and your level of life is changed and you can only return to the proper level when you are no longer obsessed with thoughts and desires of this nature. During this period, you dwell in the absence of the God force.

Question: Should we mourn the dead?

Answer: When one leaves your world in death, he but leaves the worn, tired body, (as it has been left countless times in the sleep-state) and goes on into the world of the Father where he lives and associates with those who have gone on before him. He is free to return to the loved ones he left behind and observe what they are doing and thinking. He is powerless to affect them in any way, and he suffers as those who remain suffer in their grief for the departed. When you grieve for the dead, they grieve, as they are well aware that you have nothing to grieve for them as they are ardently alive and well and only unhappy when they see your grief. To be lonely for them, yes, as your life with them has been interrupted and you suffer from the lack of their presence. But when you are aware that they are present spiritually, when your thought is of them, this should give you a satisfaction if not a total fulfillment. You must know that you will join with them and enjoy once again their companionship, sharing a life together. Look to death as an interruption. Look forward to it—living your life as the Father would have you live it, helping those in your world who are in need and sending to those, your loved ones in spirit, thoughts of kindness, understanding and encouragement, reaching them with a prayer which will help them and to rise into the presence of the Father, the Father of all. And so we say to you, our friends, do not grieve our passing; rather thank us for preparing the way for you when you will one day take the lovely journey to the land of the Father where your new home and loved ones await, preparing your place among His Children.

Question: What can I say to a child who has just lost his Mother?

Answer: Son, the Father has called His child home, and when the Father calls, the good child must go. We will miss her because she is gone and we will see her no more. But we will be happy for her as she is now with her Father and her loved ones in heaven. She has left her body here and we have put it away as she needs it no more. Her body was worn and tired; now she is free of it and she has her God body, as God has given us all a God body. These bodies are within us and are just the same as our material body (physical body), except that we can't see it, but God can. So now she lives in this body with Grandma and many more of her loved ones who have already gone to live in heaven to be nearer to God. We can't feel sorry for her as we know she is nearer to God and with her Mother and grandparents; they are happy and glad to be together. Sure, we're going to miss her—miss her till we think our hearts will break, because we love her and want to be with her. Daddy misses her so; but we all know that she has things to do in heaven and we know she'll do such a good job that we will try to understand and when we think of her, we will have a prayer on our lips and love in our hearts as we want her to know we love her and we want her to know she's with God and working for God, helping others and just living a good, new life. We know that someday we will all be together again, and when we go to live with God, Mom will be there and she will help us and love us and be with us always. So, while it hurts something awful to see her go, and we will miss her more than anything, we know that she still loves us and love lasts forever, and so we will love her forever.

Question: What can I say to a dear friend who just lost her husband?

Answer: Mary, you are now looking toward a life without your dearest of all possessions, your husband. In life he was filled with love for you and for your family; this love spilled on over to friends, acquaintances, neighbors and even to strangers—but are we strangers? We are all linked in an endless chain as we are part of God; we are his children. We know that God, being the perfect father, loves each and every child equally. But Ben always stepped in to help any one whenever he saw the need—he didn't wait to be asked. The Father knows this too, and Ben is that much closer to Him for this. He has many ways to show His appreciation—ways that we are unaware of. Ben's physical body was wearing down, making it more difficult for his great spirit to be cooped up in it, so God decided to bring His child home to help out in heaven. Ben is there now. He has plenty to do there, just like at home, and he will go right on helping others both there and even right where you are. He won't leave you completely; he's with you, and when, your thoughts are of him, where do you suppose he is? Right there with you! He's ready to inspire and guide you! When you think of him, think of him as being there with you; acknowledge him; thank him for coming; and when he goes to help others, he will go inspired by your love and awareness. There is no death. God never dies; the soul is part of God so it can never die. One day we will all be reunited. We will look back on our days in the body and say, "what a relief, now we are free to live as God would have us live, not needing the necessities as they are provided. Instead of spending our days working to provide these necessities and worrying about keeping these possessions, we can now spend our lives helping to make other lives more pleasant and worthwhile." When it's all said and done, this is the only thing that counts. Ben knew it all along as he was always ready to help someone else. I know the Father has provided a special place for him in His heart. When it's time to leave here, Ben will be there waiting ready to help you make that lovely voyage to the land of the Father.

Question: Are there as many psychic occurrence today as in the past?

Answer: Since the temporal world has become increasingly more materialistic, spirit finds it more difficult to come through mediums; it has never been too easy, but in this time in the history of the world, material thoughts occupy mortal minds to such a degree, the ease of getting through a medium today as compared with as little as 50 years ago, can be likened to driving a nail through soft wood and hard wood. Despite the medium's desire and willingness to be used by spirit, the vibrations all about him set up a barrier that is difficult to penetrate, and at times, it is impossible. This is felt more in a group, either sitting for development or a seance, as the vibrations are carried about each individual and the degree to which they are committed to temporal affairs and their thoughts of such matters at the time of the sitting effect the medium.

Question: What happened to the Atlantean culture?

Answer: In the last days of Atlantis when the fate of the land was known to those who served their fellow-man, they came over the waters to settle new lands and bring their knowledge to those who lived in darkness. There came the doctor, the maker of laws, the knowledgeable, and he who was conversant with the world of spirit; they came in a body to settle the dark continents and bring their light to those who abided therein.

Like fingers on the hands of God, they stretched out and reached into lands less fortunate than their own had been. They came to Greece, to Rome, to China and to Egypt. Here they settled and began their endeavor for enlightenment many, many centuries before your recorded history.

They were accepted and respected by the inhabitants of each land as they were benevolent and able to teach much. Each land was to symbolize and excel in one phase of the great store of knowledge and culture which had been that of Atlantis.

Greece was endowed with culture in the fine arts and philosophy which far outreaches that of the present time. Rome became the giver of laws and the holder of the shield—the master of military strategy. China was the seat of the occult wisdom which was part of every Atlantean's life, and later made manifest in the Lama. Egypt was the perfect land in which to preserve the records and ultimately nurture the seeds of the philosophy of the one God.

"HOW WE LOOK TO SPACEMEN"

Columba Krebs

Part I

I believe the spacemen from Mars visited the earth periodically for many ages. They just flew in for a pop-visit, (without contacting earthlings) to look us over and see how we were getting along. After all, they had some responsibility for these cross-breed earthlings, handed down from aeons ago by their ancestors—some of whom had mated with the cavemen earthlings, (whose descendents—us—are thus part simian and part godling.) Whereas, the descendents of those who were not thus mated with the "Sons of God" remained chimps, orang-o-tangs and gorillas, etc. as stragglers in the human life-wave.

The spacemen seldom landed, except to pick up their own tourists traveling incognito, in an isolated spot; or help themselves to water from earth's wide oceans. The reason for the latter was because Mars is drying up, (hence water is precious there,) and they need water to extract deuterium, (the form in which hydrogen exists in water.) Controlled fusion of small quantities of this element can produce enough electricity to light and operate a metropolis, (especially is light needed for underground cities.)

The Germans may have discovered, (while driven to manufacturing substitutes for so many things during the two world-wars) the secret of the Flying Saucers' propulsion, working with gravity's forces instead of against, as in jet propulsion. Hitler boasted of a "secret weapon" his scientists were working on, but apparently was not perfected, until after he had lost the war. Then he is said to have escaped in a submarine from Germany, and was taken (with his scientists) to an underground cavern in Patagonia, South America. Here they built flying saucers in secret, later gouging out a hideaway under the Antarctic ice. Was this why the Russians captured as many German scientists as they could after they overran Germany's eastern area? Also, why the Antarctic was explored by more than one nation's expedition, during the Geophysical year? This may have something to do with the official "hush-hush" policy of governments concerning U.F.O.s, and the general scepticism fostered by their publicity channels.

The Soviet clique may have been working on this secret of U.F.O. propulsion, ever since they had gotten control of Russia, via the Russian Revolution, and set up a dictatorship. The Soviet inner circle may have first received the impetus from a millionaire Jew from Russia, to whom Mr. Keely (an American inventor) showed his invention. This was a small model of a flying saucer, circular with three balls underneath, which rose, hovered and landed lightly and vertically when certain musical chords were sounded, with other apparatus controls.

John W. Keely got nowhere with his invention in his own country, and died of a broken heart from disappointments, (the fate of many geniuses in various fields, in a civilization that envies geniuses too much—if they are too far out in their discoveries or theories!)

But the Russian millionaire may have taken Keely's secret back to Russia, and they may have built spaceships in the mountain fastnesses of Siberia, and established the "Iron curtain" to keep out spying eyes. Was this the secret reason why Jewish laborers were sent to Siberia in trainloads, (under a simulated "pogrom" as an excuse for telling the world they were being sent to a concentration camp there?) Mind you, I am only questioning, because I do not know for sure.

But, I believe, that because of these developments, and not only because of the nuclear power earthlings had discovered, that the Martian spacemen had to keep more of an eye on earth than ever before. Meanwhile, I have heard (by the grapevine and newspapers) that the spacemen have nullified nuclear stockpiles here and there, and nuclear explosions in planes (with warheads) when they crashed. The Soviets, (having full control of their news releases) told the world that their huge rocket sent to the Moon was unmanned, and kept its landing on the hidden side of the Moon a deep dark secret. There, they may have established a colony of quonset huts, half-buried in the powdery dust, and camouflaged with dust over the tops. The photo in the newspaper of the other side of the moon showed parts of it were scratched out!

What is next is anyone's guess—what is yours?

The legend of the "Home of the Gods."—Mt. Olympus, etc. down the ages, and the "Holy mountain at the North Pole" springs from subconscious memories in the human race of tales told in folk-lore about our spacemen ancestors. Our earthly incarnation is to give us opportunities to find and work our way back up to our lost "place in the sun."

The legend of the four rivers flowing from the Holy Mountain (such as in Revelation) may mean the four kinds of magnetism flowing from the Solar Source, (relay 'station' for the yet higher frequencies, flowing from the Great Cosmic Source in the center of our Galaxy, or even beyond, from the Great Grand Central Source in the center of our Universe!) to activate all planetary life.

The old saying: "blue-blooded" meaning aristocratic origin, may have sprung from the now forgotten fact that the "Sons of God" (who came down to marry the daughters of men, and thus accelerate the genetic evolution of the cavemen) in Genesis, may have had a bluish tint to their complexions on account of being thinner-skinned and made of more etherialized substance.

How much of the Bible is truth, and how much legend or error? Truths couched in legendary terms (to conceal the most esoteric meaning from the vulgar and stupid, who would mis-use such wisdom through misunderstanding) were handed down from the most ancient civilizations, such as Atlantis and Lemuria! These were founded by the direct descendents of the Sons of God, and their descendents brought it to ancient Egypt and India, before the Flood that drowned them both. This ancient wisdom was borrowed by the Hebrews and incorporated in their sacred scriptures. But, did their scribes inject their own touches, subtractions and additions with double meaning, for the purpose of influencing other races later, (through offspring sects, such as Christianity,) into accepting justifications for (for instance) the Judaic control of money through usury? Deuteronomy 15:6, "For the Lord thy God blesseth thee, as he promised thee: and thou shalt lend unto many nations, but thou shalt not borrow; and thou shalt reign over many nations, but they shall not reign over thee." and: Deut. 23:20, "Unto a stranger thou mayest lend upon usury; but unto thy brother thou shalt not lend upon usury: that the Lord thy God may bless thee in all that thou settest thine hand to, in the land whither thou goest to possess it."—how? By hiking the national debts of the nations, until they exceed all the national assets of such nations, in hock to the international bankers? It gives food for thought and even wild conjectures! But, unless we seek for truths, how can we find, even though the search may lead into many blind alleys?

Was it like a good cook making a cake (of ancient wisdom) and then the waiter, before taking it to the table of the customer (the world) stuck his own raisins in the cake, (disguise of Divine authority to back up a Judaic scheme to control the world?) Will time vindicate this theory by proving it is right or, will time prove that the Biblical passages quoted have a spiritual meaning unrelated to these suppositions?

Ezekial (in the Bible) mentioned "chariots of fire" with "eyes all around" (portholes?) and "wheels within wheels" which was his way of describing spaceships. The "star of Bethlehem" must have been a spaceship (they glow at night) for otherwise, a star (being a sun or planet) does not travel out of its orbit,—which would have upset the delicate magnetic balance of forces in space, if it had.

Christ may have been lifted up into a Spaceship at his ascension, by the operation of the "transitor ray" I've heard the spacemen have. Spaceships have been known to enclose themselves in cloud, by ionizing the air around their craft. These 'clouds' follow the outline of the spaceship, and have smooth regular edges, (like no ordinary cloud has, especially with double horizontal lines, straight through the center of such a cloud.) I have seen several large ones in a bunch that looked like that.

Christ said to his apostles: "I have yet many things to tell you, but ye cannot bear them now." He also promised to send the Paraclete Who would lead them to all truth, in time. Truth is ever unfolding as man's comprehensive powers increase and expand, like a rosebud opening new petals.

There are ever more and more open minds who are coming into ever higher and deeper understanding, to bear the next step up to cosmic wisdom. These are the pioneer forefathers of the New Space Age now beginning to dawn,—if we don't blow our world to kingdom come by nuclear war. Let us try to hold fast to the good we have learnt, and always keep open minds for any new truths. This is the only way to keep evolving into ever higher dimensions, through our extending consciousness.

INSPIRED NOVELS

BY MARIE CORELLI

Six Great Psychic Novels, Inspired From "Beyond", Long Out Of Print Available Once More In Economical Paperback Form For True Students Of The Occult.

Romance Of Two Worlds $2.12

Marie Corelli was perhaps the greatest psychic writer of them all. In this novel she treats of the world of the spirit, and its relationship to we who are the world of the living.

Ardath $2.12

Here is a book that places reincarnation in the most straightforward and fascinating light ever woven into a novel.

The Secret Power $2.12

The strange story of a secret race, the Masters of the World who are bringing about a New Age and a New Race on Earth. The prophecy in this book, written many years ago, is amazing.

The Sorrows Of Satan $2.12

Perhaps the most unusual in its "mystic" content of all Marie Corelli's philosophical novels.

The Soul Of Lillith $2.12

In this book the author shows how close is the link between life before death and life after death.

The Master Christian $2.12

This is the famous book in which the author draws together the threads of psychic science expressed in the preceding volumes. In it she depicts Christ as a child, visiting the world as it is today and sorrowfully observing the wickedness which men practice in His name.

TRUE EXPERIENCES

WHAT BETSY WANTS BETSY GETS By Elizabeth Wilson

About six weeks ago I went to the hardware store to buy a rake. The type of rake I needed was $4.95 and up. I didn't think they were that expensive, so decided to wait until I could afford a good rake. A few days later a car stopped in front of my house. A little girl got out, picked up a rake lying in the road, and walked over to me with it. "Here is your rake." I had never seen her before. She returned to the car with the happy feeling of doing a good deed, and to her mother whose countenance was of pride. And I had a much better rake than I could have bought.

A couple of weeks ago I had lunch with a friend. I commented during our dining that I needed about a dozen good size flower pots for some new plants. When she dropped me off at my home, I couldn't believe my eyes, nor could my friend. There in the entrance of my driveway were thirteen neatly stacked flower pots. . . just the size I had told her I needed!

A VOICE FROM HEAVEN SAVED ME By William S. Finkensieper

There must be a sixth sense! Although all my life I have been interested in the occult, I never had a supernatural experience until the following happened.

For a number of years I lived in Jersey City, New Jersey. A large pharmaceutical firm by whom I was employed as a specialty salesman was located in Brooklyn, New York. The president of the company liked to hold sales meetings on Saturday afternoons. To attend the meetings it was necessary for me to cross the Hudson River Ferry, drive through New York City, then across the Manhattan Bridge to Brooklyn.

After the meeting, Mr. Daniel Kovacs, company president, (now deceased) had the pleasant custom of treating all the salesmen to lunch at a nearby Hungarian restaurant. The food always was excellent. I recall on this particular evening having had delicious cheese blinzes. After the meal the discussions continued. At seven o'clock it started to rain and got quite dark. This decided me to return home.

In 1955 Manhattan Bridge was paved with wooden blocks. Rain caused this type of roadway to be extremely dangerous, so I drove with caution. Traffic was heavy. The car in front of me was a small coupe, being driven slowly.

SUDDENLY! Out of the heavens A LOUD CLEAR VOICE boomed three words I shall never forget. "Move over quick." In a split second I obeyed the voice, and pulled sharply to the right. As I did so the coupe in front of me stopped dead. The radiator crumpled like an accordion just as though it had been going fast and hit a stone wall. Such was not the case. There was nothing in front of it but THIN AIR!

My car wasn't touched. I braked, jumped out, opened the door of the coupe and found an elderly couple inside. The woman's nose was bleeding like a stuck pig. She was holding a blanket to her nose in an effort to stem the bleeding. The old gentleman, semi-conscious, was holding the steering wheel in his hands. Somehow it had been snapped from the steering column. The old lady kept saying over and over again, "I told you to be careful, I told you to be careful".

Why? I never did find out. I pulled her from the car, sat her on the step, and handed her my handkerchief to stop the bleeding. In the interim all the cars behind attempted to stop. Most of them skidded into a jumbled disorder that reminded me of a wrecked freight train, thrown from the tracks.

I jumped back into my car, quickly leaving the mess behind, and sped the balance of the bridge, to notify the police station at the bridge end. I never told them the entire story. Assuredly they would not have believed me. This is the first time I have revealed what occurred that dark rainy night on Manhattan Bridge. I gave thanks to GOD for his wonderous workings and went home.

"Then it may be there are so many kinds of VOICES in the world and none of them is without signification."

—Corinthians XLX Passim.

NON-BELIEVERS of flying saucers often ask the question: "If UFOs are real, and have been visiting Earth for centuries, how come, after all that time, not one machine or its occupants have been examined? How come they are so... UNTOUCHABLE?"

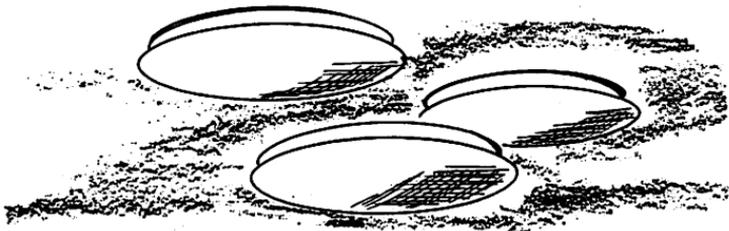

First, have any theories been advanced that might suggest their origin? Yes, several. As alien life INSIDE our solar system is thought by most astronomers to be highly unlikely, the most popular origin,

HUNDRED TRILLION CIVILIZATIONS!

Though many UFO researchers favor the interplanetary origin, many others find this hard to take because of one factor—DISTANCE. For stars are separated by such awesomely vast stretches of space that one wonders how a journey to Earth can be made within a reasonable length of time.

Serious students of UFOs are of course familiar with such astronomical statistics as the following:

As light moves at 186,000 miles per

THE

UNTOUCHABLE FLYING SAUCER

BY ALEX SAUNDERS

therefore, among UFO researchers, is INTERPLANETARY.

Our galaxy contains one hundred billion stars. Billions of other galaxies of larger and smaller size are known to exist in the universe. What is not known is the number of existent planetary systems. But if only 1/10,000 of one per cent harbors a technical civilization, the universe would teem with more than ONE second (according to Einstein's theory of Relativity), it reaches outermost Pluto from the sun in a few hours, but arrives at the nearest fixed star, Alpha Centauri and Proxima Centauri, over four years later!

For a flying saucer to travel at light-speed would be disastrous, as it would disintegrate into pure energy. However, traveling at 99% light-speed from that neighboring binary star system would have it arriving here in over four years. Never sooner. Still quite a length of traveling time.

But if their home planet lies many thousands—or millions—of light years away, their period of travel would be that much more extensive. This being so, why is even casual consideration given to the interplanetary origin of UFOs?

Well, those that advocate it believe that journeys from one star to another CAN be made within a very short space of time—months, weeks, days, perhaps even hours. But the advocates have to rely on such unprovable things as the utilizing of the hypothetical fourth dimension as a possible short-cut and time-saver.

The word "time" brings forth another theory for interplanetary origin.

Maybe the aliens visiting Earth, though humanoid, differ from us in one radical way. Maybe they live at a different TIME RATE, and what is to us a year, is to them but a fraction of a second. Therefore, their Earthian visitations of many TERRESTRIAL centuries is, to them, no more than, say, a few months or a week, or even less.

Still, regardless of these possibilities (and others not mentioned) many UFO researchers dismiss the interplanetary origin. They feel that it is much closer. Not on any alien planet of our solar system, but—ANOTHER DIMENSION.

Reliable UFO reports tell of frequent maneuvers that would be crushingly fatal to humans. Maneuvers such as extreme right-angle turns, to sudden stops of excessive speeds, abrupt reversals at high velocities, etc., all in open defiance of the known laws of inertia.

Another puzzling defiance is the lack of sonic booms of radar-recorded flying saucers that have surpassed 25,000 miles per hour. The booms would be recognizable for any PHYSICAL flying object which would necessarily displace air to produce the prominent sounds.

The non-existent noise indicates an UNSOLIDITY of the UFOs. Either that, or their substance-composition is of a lesser density than the surrounding air. That is, their passage is BETWEEN the molecules of air instead of FORCING ASIDE the molecules.

Hundreds of recorded cases tell of landed UFOs whose disembarked occupants moved about outside, reentered their ship, and took off. Yet all this was done without their leaving a single mark on receptive surface soil of soft mud, sand, snow, etc.

How was this accomplished? Only one answer. The occupied ships were NON-PHYSICAL. A different density would logically account for the absence of creature-imprint or craft-depression.

This theory would reasonably explain another aerial mystery. UFOs have been seen to explode in mid-air. Yet when a search for cast-off fragments was shortly made, none were found!

Aliens have been seen to act in a manner so foreign to terrestrial laws that obviously our gravity did not affect them. One example was the event of September 12, 1952, when at sunset seven people comprising a housewife and six boys of ten to seventeen years witnessed a strange, globular craft that had landed in Flatwoods Hill, West Virginia.

Nearby was a green-bodied creature between ten and fifteen feet tall, with a blood-red "face", and eyes from which projected greenish-orange light beams. From the form came a stench that later brought on violent sickness to some of the witnesses that lasted for hours.

When the fearsome creature that might have been a robot or a space-suited alien with claws—or grapnels—slowly approached the stupefied group, it "waddled with a bouncing, floating motion".

Many are the accounts of extramundane craft of apparent non-solidity in which (1) jets have flown THROUGH (2) they were transparent and translucent (3) they vanished in a twinkling while aloft or grounded (4) they changed their size, shape and color while flying low or hovering (5) they were invisible.

As for alien beings themselves, they have been observed to (1) pass THROUGH the solid walls of their own space ship as well as the physical solidness of house walls, cliff sides, etc. (2) leap over high obstructions with ease (3) become invisible.

The Hopkinsville affair of August 22, 1955, is a case in point of how visiting aliens were unaffected by Earthian laws.

About 7 p.m. of that date, a flying saucer landed near a farmhouse eight miles from Hopkinsville, Kentucky. Big-eyed creatures about three and a half feet tall emerged. Approximately fifteen in number, they had oversized arms, clawed hands, and huge, elephantine ears.

Seemingly, the dwarfs' locomotion was by "floating". They "leaped" onto the trees and roof of the farmhouse rented by the Frank Sutton family, and peered into the windows.

For this they received shotgun blasts from the men inside. Now an incredible thing happened.

Each time direct hits were made, the invaders remained unhurt! When knocked over by the blast, they immediately bounced upright!

Soon they retreated to their ship. A police investigation found nothing. No footprints or tracks disturbed the dry and dusty ground. No scratches on the painted tin roof of the farmhouse. However, an inexplicably square hole marred a screen door where a shotgun blast had been fired from within.

The aliens returned the next morning about 3:30, and were again driven away by ineffectual gunfire.

Two days later, the Sutton family mysteriously vanished.

Another account tells of a bizarre incident that occurred to a couple of rabbit hunters near the Trans-Andian Highway between Chico and Cerro de Las Tres Torres, Venezuela. They were Lorenzo Flores and Jesus Gomez of Carova.

It was on December 10, 1954, when they saw a bright object off the highway. About one hundred and fifty feet away, they thought it was a car. But a closer inspection revealed its resemblance to a pair of metallic soup bowls stuck together, lip to lip, and was approximately nine feet in diameter. It hovered some three feet off the ground, with fire issuing beneath it.

From its interior emerged four hairy male figures about three feet tall, with indistinct features.

Once the two humans were seen, Gomez fainted. The aliens then tried to drag him back to their craft.

Now Flores sprang into action. Frightened though he was, he charged the would-be kidnappers with his unloaded shotgun (having no time to load), and struck one creature with the butt.

The shotgun broke in two as if it had hit a brick wall!

Gomez had by now regained consciousness. Both he and Flores tore away.

Their story was told at the nearest police precinct. The shirts of both men were ripped to shreds, while their bodies bore scratches and bruises. That they were sane and responsible individuals was determined after psychiatric examination.

For a case involving a physical fight between a human and an alien, we return to the early hours of November 28, 1954.

Gustavo Gonzales and Jose Ponce left Caracas, Venezuela, for suburban Petare via truck. Produce was to be picked up and sold in the Caracas markets the following morning.

As their vehicle entered the warehouse district, they saw an object, both luminous and spherical, hovering a man's height from the ground. With their way blocked, Gonzales got out of the truck to investigate. He headed for the craft just as an occupant advanced toward him. It was a male, roughly three feet tall, hairy, with gleaming eyes.

Gonzales tried to grab him, but the dwarf returned a blow that sent the other spinning back a good fifteen feet. Clawed hands extended, the alien leaped at the human.

In defence, Gonzales drew his knife and stabbed at his adversary. Struck in the shoulder, the knife did not penetrate, but glanced off as if hitting steel!

During the eerie fight, Jose Ponce saw two other aliens heading along the street for their hovering craft. They carried something in their arms which seemed to be rocks or dirt, and leaped up into their craft through an open side hatch.

Then another alien emerged through the opening and pointed an apparently metallic tube at Gonzales. From it came a blinding light. With that, the two aliens leaped back into the craft which vanished skyward within seconds.

Many UFO theorists believe that outer space contains numerous bands—or octaves—of vibratory frequencies that are definite vibratory motions of energy. These represent different types of matter which produce other planes of reality and existence.

Matter and substance in all bands are never nebulous, weightless or non-solid. Each band with its own "solid" matter has its own reality of existence which is THREE-DIMENSIONAL to those living there.

Higher and lower densities—or frequencies—harbor creatures of all types regarding size, shape, intelligence, etc. They dwell in other dimensions of time, with laws of matter in motion where, to repeat, they are anything but vaporous or evanescent, but are instead as solid as Earthians.

Alien ships that visit Earth from other frequencies must necessarily convert to our particular frequency to make those visitations. Otherwise they would not be seen by us, nor would they be touchable. In departing, they would change their vibratory frequency and thus become invisible to Earthians.

In 1952, a Californian named Orfeo Angelucci had a few contacts with unearthly beings from what would seem to be another frequency. They did not appear to be solid and tangible, for Angelucci described seeing them clearly, but as though through rippling water. It reminded him of an improperly tuned television set.

Then there was Cecil Michel. His book, ROUND TRIP TO HELL IN A FLYING SAUCER, described a personal experience in his own auto repair shop. This was the repeated appearance and disappearance of two humanoid aliens!

The preceding true accounts of flying saucers and their occupants reveals one fact very clearly. That the encountered inanimate machines and animate beings are NOT of terrestrial density but are instead non-corporeal—without solidity.

Certainly, as we have seen, they are NOT subject to our gravity. Nor are they of the same matter as Earthians.

Once again let us go over their unorthodox behavior, but now with more probing care.

The West Virginia monster was observed to advance, not step by step as is natural of a human, but by "waddling", using a motion described as "bouncing" and "floating".

"Floating" was also the way the weird dwarfs near Hopkinsville seemed to move. In gaining access to trees and on the farmhouse roof, they "leaped". The direct blasts of shotguns neither killed or injured them, thus revealing an immunity to deadly and accurate gunfire.

The alien dwarfs involved with Lorenzo Flores and Jesus Gomez were unbelievably tough, as witness the breaking in half of a shotgun that struck one of them.

So, too, was a similar toughness displayed by another dwarfish alien whom Gustavo Gonzales battled. The human was sent reeling by a SINGLE blow. His unpenetrable knife thrust merely glanced off the other's shoulder. When the scrappy alien and three of his companions entered their ship, they did so by "leaping" into the opening more than six feet high.

Orfeo Angelucci's contactees had "untangible" looks, while Cecil Michel's contactees repeatedly "appeared" and "disappeared".

All these actions of the aliens showed how ungoverned they are by the natural laws of our planet.

Rumors to the contrary, no flying saucer has ever been shot down by a jet. Nor has a crashed one ever been found and actually touched by hand in examination. Neither has a dead alien ever been discovered.

True enough, there are documented cases of landed UFOs that had left evidential imprints of one kind or another, like depressions, holes, charred grass roots, etc. Footprints of the occupants themselves have shown up.

Obviously, in these instances, the visiting space craft was changed from its natural frequency to ours. Thus, while here, they were as solid as any terrestrial object. In returning to their own frequency, they would become invisible to us, and of course beyond human examination.

Would not this indicate that their matter-composition prevents this very examination? Like spiritual matter on the physical plane, the aliens (and their machines) are impervious to jet bullets, shotgun blasts, hard physical blows, knife thrusts, and so on.

Can this be the reason why, during the long centuries of their known existence, flying saucers and their occupants have never (as far as the public has been informed) been actually examined?

Does this mean, therefore, that they shall remain, always, UNTOUCHABLE?

AIRES March 21-April 20.

April: Money, property, income, inheritance, legal problems figure for Rams. Avoid extravagance, practice conservatism. Avoid being overly critical. Co-operate, compromise when necessary. Love is exciting but don't take the partner for granted. Uranus continues to spring surprises where the opposite sex is concerned.

May: Children, young people, friends, acquaintances, romance and the social will be accentuated now. Hold steady in all such matters, and get enough rest, always a need for Rams in general. Many frustrations appear to be clearing. Be patient, Aries!

TAURUS April 21-May 20.

April: A busy period mentally and physically, with Mercury in your sign, though its true that Saturn also in Taurus will seem to make some matters lag, as this is the planet of delays and obstacles. Uranus still in your house of work, job and health may be bringing sudden upsets, but may bring health, job benefits too. Mars, soon to be in your house of domestic, parental matters for a period of 6 months in all, from the 4th of next month on, tends toward surprises of some sort in these departments of your life. Avoid mishaps in the home, and strive for calmness on your own part.

May: Avoid the clandestine in love matters. Neptune in your 8th house tends toward secret affairs which could in the end bring some disillusionment. Your state of mind affects health, so keep it positive. Avoid foolish fears, worrying. no good. then health is benefited. Moderation is always a wise course for all Taureans, so be advised, and avoid any kind of extremes.

GEMINI May 21-June 21.

April: Steer clear of subtle misunderstandings with friends or even with offspring, Gemini. Mercury in an angle of delay and misinterpretation could make for such if you are not alert to avoid this. Take care of health too, as most Air signs such as Gemini are so often neglectful of self while tending wonderfully to the welfare of others and letting their own go. Love could be a worry, and a more or less secret matter. Use the light approach in marital, love matters no matter how much you might feel, like doing the opposite.

May: Be calm in children's, young people's matters, as Uranus in this house in your chart tends to stir these rather turbulently from time to time. A legal, publishing, religious or travel matter seems to loom in the star-picture around this time, or before too long, as Mars has just entered your 9th house from May 4 up to Nov. 6. You may also be concerned over a matter involving a marriage relative. Look to the future, not the past. Don't get involved with strangers. Your charm, personality persuades others.

CANCER June 22-July 22.

April: Older people seem to present problems or make for some sort of frustration for you. Use all your diplomacy thru a rather difficult period that should let up from the 23rd on. Business papers will be signed now or next month with your financial picture brightening. but because of Mars in opposition to your Sun, you may have to get the other's viewpoint, conciliate and don't try to buck the tide during such a "stubborn" period, that may extend into early May.

May: A love matter may have you impatient as you want to put the romance show on the road. Social life and your personal magnetism figures strongly now. You are yourself conscientious and you expect others to be the same. Avoid mishaps, quarrels, and hold steady. Don't look for outright perfection no matter who it is, and be let down. Keep your outlook positive, cheerful, avoid the morbid.

LEO July 23-August 22.

April: A matter involving a child or young person, could also be a love and/or investment matter, may cause you concern now with the strange planet Neptune in this house of your chart. Neptune tends to cloud the reality of the picture and you do not always see things, as they really are. Watch your health and avoid over-doing; nerves may be frayed. get enough rest as Leo tends to burn itself out. Avoid job mishaps. You will soon be entering a very hectic period where marital, courtship matters are concerned, or even in regard to business partners if you have such.

May: USE tact, forbearance in all dealings with loved ones. for now with Mars for the next 6 months in your opposite sign of Aquarius, this will surely be must for all Leos. We can't always have our own way, so don't let this upset you, saying you might, as you likely will, run into a few snags in the form of one (or more) who oppose you. Use your charm and try a little patience, Leo. You are spontaneous, magnetic, ardent.

VIRGO August 23-September 22.

April: In-laws, the foreign born, long distance matters figure largely in the picture now, with the accent also on legal interests. News from a distance could be of sobering nature, even if such has been delayed somewhat. Control emotions, and avoid fretting over little things. You seem on the verge of a job or work change. some co-workers shakeup could appear. hold impatience down to a minimum and try to see the donut—not just the hole. Avoid mishaps, stress in or around your mob, by staying calm in the midst of possible furor.

May: Now you really are in this job change that has been developing. Look for such and don't be too surprised, its not going to remain as it has been, at all. but it will be exciting, nonetheless. You may hear of a legacy coming to you. And property may be involved quite likely. Don't be too expansive though where money is concerned, and take care of health.

LIBRA September 23-October 23.

April: Domestic if not parental as well changes shown with some accent on stress; hold steady, Libra! Mars now square to your Sun isn't the easiest influence to live with. play it by ear and don't make unruly matters more so. Uranus in your sign is bad enough though this planet does bring out your originality & ingenuity, so that's some help. But otherwise, take it easy and don't let yourself be pressured in any sense of the word.

May: Improve appearance; your magnetism is also helped now and for some time to come by "electric" Uranus. Talk your heart out to one who loves and admires you. Develop your talent, whatever it is. Express yourself, reach out. Be tactful with family and relatives.

SCORPIO

October 24-November 21.

April: Saturn still in your 7th house up to this June 17 may still present obstacles in love or marital matters, or the mate is ill, inhibited in some way or for some special reason. Be patient, Scorpio, it can't last much longer. Watch health, as some latent condition could flare up suddenly and require attention. Use care in travel, avoid speed especially. Some excitement in your locale, in re. to neighbors or kin.

May: Don't try to bottle your emotions, talk things out and you'll feel much better. A change in residence or some overhauling in the domestic scene begins from early May on, going on to Nov. 6 of this year. It may seem like the year actually is only starting now, around early May, as latent matters pick up momentum. Love is exciting indeed.

SAGITTARIUS

November 22-December 21.

April: Take care of health all Sags, most important now, with Saturn in this house in your chart, tending to cause you to overdo, take on too much responsibility especially in your work. Changes likely in job matters around this time; again there could be a problem regarding a co-worker or employer. You read along health, hygienic lines, may have some discussions re. same too. You are very magnetic now, with Jupiter in your sign, and alluring as well, thanks to Neptune also there.

May: Mars for the next 6 months, up to Nov. 6th, will be a totally new and exhilarating for the most part, influence in your life now as your personal outlook widens, brightens. Yet you are somehow irked (only Sags. will understand this) by certain restrictions, obstacles that seem to pop from out of the blue... some of which could possibly have to do with your work or job, or again with some one you work with. Your ardor for love, friendship, was never stronger or more sincere. Income likely to increase; avoid disputes over money and/or property, possessions—Look out for losses.

CAPRICORN
December 22-January 20.

April: With energetic Mars in Capricorn all month your only trouble might be in over-doing, in being too zealous. Protect health, in spite of this marvelous impetuosity that is driving you on for, with Neptune in your 12th house (affecting health matters), you could be neglecting yourself healthwise. Money matters tend to be held up or could even suffer some cloudiness (something re. money seems undefined or held in abeyance) with Jupiter and Neptune both in your 12th house (delays, and hidden, secret matters.) You are having a different slant on something (love?) you prefer to keep quiet for the time being.

May: Easy does it, Capricorn. Mars, now out of your sign, has nevertheless left its traces, and you need to relax now for sure, learn to let go. This is the way of wisdom, Capricorn.

Income rises from now on. Love is close to business or job.

AQUARIUS
January 21-February 18.

April: Home changes likely which could be anything from renovating, to moving. A worry regarding a parent could also figure now. Much activity in re. to home and/or parental matters. All Aquarians should proceed cautiously in property matters, not assume too many financial burdens. An older person in the home may require attention. Avoid falls in the home now. Keep things organized. You are an inspiration to others and people turn to you.

May: You are emerging more and more from your shell Water-Bearer, which is good, yet, get enough rest, don't try to do too much. The next 6 months sees much activity, excitement, but you will need to channel your high energy wisely. Love is stimulating.

PISCES

February 19-March 20.

April: Most Pisceans will be experiencing quite heavy expenditures, must also watch out for a measure of deception (could be of financial nature) where business associates or co-workers are concerned, as well as the threat of malicious gossip. Pisceans may also still expect certain delays or hindrances in some of their affairs, and should protect mail, etc. against loss or going astray. Relatives could cause anxiety in some instances.

May: Don't make the mistake of taking anyone or any one for granted, as things in the background may be more important than you think. Much is developing from behind the scenes. You are far more introspective than in some long while as you look within, again and again. You may embark on a new study and this brings fresh and wonderful enlightenment. Continue to use care in travel, be tactful with neighbors, relatives, and (you may have to work on it), keep the mind positive, outgoing. Friendships and love too, most rewarding now.

SLEEP SOUND AGAIN!

GENIE

MAGIC

PILLOW

YOU CAN EXPERIENCE
COMPLETE REST AND RELAXATION

Sleep Sound Again!

You can experience complete rest and relaxation "without drugs". It is a scientifically accepted fact that the brain and nerve centers emit tiny electrical impulses. The magnetic field of the Genie Sleeper attracts these electrical impulses, thus forming an infinity. Once this occurs tension is relieved, the body relaxes and a deep restful sleep soon follows. This may take place the first time you use your Genie Sleeper, but in some cases it could take longer. Just continue using the Genie Sleeper until the desired effect is achieved, then your sleeping problems are over.

No more tossing and turning all night. Fall asleep fast and naturally! Wake up feeling younger, fresher, full of vitality, vim and vigor. A fresh new surge of energy is built up each night with a full nights sleep on a Genie Sleeper, easy to use, just slide Genie into your pillow slip and over your regular pillow. Lasts for years, nothing to run down or wear out and can be hand laundered.

Harmless to people of all ages!

Guaranteed against defects in materials and workmanship.

Now, let's take a look at some of our facts:

Sleeping pills of a hypnotic type are habit forming. Statistics show 75% of all suicides are from over-dose of barbiturates.

Genie Sleeper is not habit forming. There are no physical or chemical effects produced by our product.

Genie Sleeper was invented by Detlef L. Wolff, a German inventor, size 12" x 18" x 3/4" made of light soft 100% polyurethane foam and containing six scientifically designed magnetic impregnated plastic strips so manufactured and arranged to create just the right magnetic field to influence the brain toward relaxed and restful sleep.

Price: $16.00 each

Mail check or money order to: Genie Sleeper, 160 Fisher Road, Red Bluff, California 96080 and your pillow will be mailed immediately.

I DO NOT BELIEVE IN KARMA

By KERRY BRIGNER

There is a theory, which loosely translated goes something like this: If I am a Chicago policeman in this life then in my next one I'll be born a teenager with a McCarthy button. (A caesarean) Then there is another theory: If a man commits a crime in this life, his next one will be a good deal longer spent in a very hot climate.

I think both of these theories are products of the same mistake, the idea of punishment for evil. But you can't have that and still have free choice. They're just not compatible.

As a child you were probably taught the heaven and hell philosophy. "You be a good little boy, Bobby, or you'll go to hell and be tortured forever and ever. And if you're good you'll go to heaven where you'll get to walk on clouds and play the harp in the orchestra." While it's true that that particular conception of heaven is rather childish, adults who teach the theory, never propose an alternate description. It's just supposed to be a kind of instant happiness. "Zap! You're happy."

The fallacies in such a theory are so obvious it's amazing that we could have ever accepted it at all. First, there's sin. Every time we do something wrong that's one "sin." All wrong is divided up into neat little packages of equal value, each called one "sin." And God sits up on cloud 14 with a pencil and paper keeping score. "Hmn, let's see here, Mary has six hundred and eighty two sins so far and one mortal one. She's going to be baptized tomorrow so that will scratch these, and then she'll commit 319 more during her life. Sorry Mary, thumbs down for you, pfft." So Mary has to go to the center of the earth where it's been hollowed out and there be burned and tortured forever. (It's generally assumed that a special fuel is used as the more common fuels probably wouldn't last that long.)

If the question was posed, "Who was the cruelest man who ever lived?" Most Americans would probably cast their vote for Adolph Hitler, because he murdered six million jews. The murder of six million people is generally considered to be a cruel act, and perhaps could even be used as a rule of thumb. That is, if someone else were to kill six million people he too would be classified as cruel.

How much more cruel would it be to torture people forever? If you had designed the universe would you include a system whereby sub-standard people were tortured forever? I sure wouldn't. Does that mean that I am more merciful than God? Perhaps we could modify the theory slightly and say that instead of being tortured forever the people in hell would be burned up and cease to exist. I guess some religions have done that. That would at least be less cruel.

It seems to me that here must be something like a purpose to life, earth life, or else there wouldn't be any. Some say it's to choose between right and wrong, some say it's to grow. But irregardless, as long as you believe life has a purpose, whatever it may be, then it follows directly that if a person is born dead he cannot do it, achieve it, whatever. He can't. The complaint is always that a loving god would not take a new born baby and throw it into hell. But it would be equally illogical for God to zap him into heaven, because that would mean life, (earth life) has no real purpose. If he can get by without it, why can't we? There is, of course, a good deal of evidence demonstrating reincarnation but this is my main reason for believing in it. I know I'm sure going to reincarnate, even if it doesn't exist. I'm going to keep coming back until I get it right.

Man is weird. We abandon one religion because we find hell unacceptable then we accept reincarnation and turn right around and stick hell into it. Only this time we call it karma. There are some differences between the two. Whereas in one the punishment is direct, physical pain; in the other it's more subtle and varied, making the punishment fit the crime. Such as a slave owner in one life becoming a slave in the next one. This actually does happen but not as the result of natural law, or the will of God.

Man has a free choice. A truly free choice. We can do right or wrong or anything in between; and no matter what we do we will not be punished or rewarded by God. God doesn't bribe you to be good, or threaten you. If you obey me I'll buy you an electric train, but if you don't I'll belt you in the mouth." Then, if the boy doesn't steal because he's afraid of getting hit, that isn't morals, it's just fear. Surely you would not say he had a free choice.

I know what you're thinking, karma isn't meant as a punishment but as a method of teaching the individual. But if a person knows about it before hand, it's a threat in every sense of the word. And it becomes a motive for behavior. Like, "I don't really like negroes but I'd better not show it or I might become one of them in my next life.” Here we would have semi-virtuous behavior for the wrong reason. The imitation of virtue because of fear of punishment. It’s not real.

One might think that to behave in a virtuous manner even though it’s insincere would cause that person to become as he is pretending to be. This is possible but it seems to me it would usually work out just the opposite. That is, when you pretend not to have a particular feeling when you do, you actually make that feeling grow. For instance, you feel guilty about coveting your neighbor’s wife so you try to resist, and the more you resist the more you want her. Or again, you decide to go on a diet and the minute you decide you’re going to resist your desire for food, that desire multiplies itself ten times.

Besides failing to create this-desired condition, pretense might make it difficult to know your true feelings. Which would be kind of like not having any feelings. And we certainly don’t want a world with nothing but politicians, judges, and psychiatrists.

You must have freedom to grow. If you punish and try to force a person into a particular mode of behavior it won’t be real. The way a person is, is much more important than the way he behaves. And you can’t force a person to change the way they really are. They must do that for themselves, when it’s what they want.

I can think of two reasons this idea of karma may have survived. It’s not unusual for a person to commit a crime of some sort and get away with it. So we might hope that he “gets his” from God. In either the form of hell or kārma.

Or when we do something wrong ourselves and later we regret it, we usually want to do a penance for it. We want to “pay” for our crime. The word pay is quite accurate and literally just what we want to do. Purchase. We feel however illogically, that so much pain will pay for so much crime. And after paying this amount of pain we won’t have to feel guilty any more. Of course a crime can never be paid for. It can only be given, by the victim. Forgiven. Undeserved, unearned, a gift.

Say you killed someone in a former life and then later you remembered and regretted it. You may want to do a penance for it, feeling that you would thereby somehow be less guilty. It appears that a person has a choice of where and when he will be born. So having this desire to purchase your crime you might be born in a life where you would be the victim of a similar crime. (This of course assumes a certain amount of precognition but how can anyone deny it any more with Jean Dixon.) As you can see this would have the appearance of being karma when actually it would be nothing more than choice.

WHERE THE READER
HÁS HIS SAY

NO MORE BABIES!

Dear Ray:

Well—here is the crank again. I was reading the piece by Dawn Krutza—in “Search” January 1971. Well, I have great news for Dawn, something I discovered all by myself. I know something to save other girls from the fates of Jenny and Barb.

It may sound presumptuous but I also know of a sure way to keep anyone from getting drunk or to have to use Pepto-Bismol. The old Romans beat Pepto-Bismol by a mile though. After gorging themselves they simply put their finger in their throats, vomited up what they had swallowed and then started all over again. Nothing to it.

Wait! We were talking about girls finding out one day that they are pregnant. Must be the weather or something—May be a cold. Somebody ought to tell the girls to keep covered a little better.

Children are such a nuisance, and the world is too full of them now, but how in the world do you bring adults into the world? Ah! Wait till our big brother takes over. No more babies!

UNWANTED CHILDREN

Dear Mr. Palmer,

I think your article on women’s lib said just what needed to be said, and what too many people are forgetting.

Where love and family life exist in this world, there seems very little need for all this sex hatred. Too many times, women's lib seems to be telling men they are guilty for being born men, and women that they have no right to any sexual enjoyment, but must spend their time in self pity and hatred of the world. In all this, it is wonderful to know that there still are families where hatred is not the rule, but love is.

I am sick of the logic that blames each trouble every woman has upon the man nearest her. If she might instead be honest, and ask him for help, it would be so much better. The only thing women's lib does for me is to turn me on about all these women whom one can really respect. You talked about self reliance in your last letters column, and I think self reliance is the most wonderful thing for a woman to have.

I did not like the article on abortions. Too many women seem to be about to use these frightful tales of desperate girls killed in illegal abortions to get themselves luxury abortions. I think the better thing to do is to try to eliminate the need for these illegal abortions. Eliminating this need, would, of course, deny abortions to mothers who are too lazy to use birth control; and to mothers who decide too late that they really do not want another child, although they can afford it.

What I propose is SIMPLE, really, That if a girl is pregnant, everyone will know a child is coming, and, instead of trying desperately to prevent it, will try to find a good place for it to live. It hardly seems wrong for the girls' parents themselves to raise the child, with help from the girl, of course, and the kid's father if the girl wants to try to convince him. The evil is in prejudice against the child to the extent of wanting to kill him. Whether or not the mother is married, or able to support the child really makes no difference, because someone will. I also propose that old people, with twenty years or so left of life might well enjoy very much having foster children. And middle aged people who have had children once, but they have grown up, who might want some color in their lives while the kids are at college and then growing up. It would also educate high school kids for future parenthood. Surely, there is no shortage of places for children in this country! Why, then, do people insist on abortions?

As for the threat of over population, as Ted White, current editor of Amazing, your old magazine, and Fantastic, said, over population is mainly psychological. (at least in this country.)

I would suggest that your house Anarchist read Jefferson.

I urge everyone to support "unwanted" children. Talk to anyone you know who is going to have an abortion—ask them if you can keep the child. Post a note that you would want a child on the wall of an abortion center. Use birth control and save other people's children from death at the hands of the abortion pump.

LOVE AND PEACE

Dear Mr. Raymond Palmer:

Just a brief letter to tell you how much I enjoyed reading the November issue no. 94 of Search magazine.

People have not changed—and I think it is wonderful: the absolute chaos and pieces of civilization flying in all directions. I love every insane moment of this insane world.

People, at least some people, searching for reasons and answers to the why of life, when in reality there is not reason—life is life and that is all man needs to know.

Love and peace are too frail to last out in the world. Like great treasures, which they are, we must guard them even from our loved ones.

Love given to another soon dies like a cut flower—so beautiful at first and then awhile—dead.

Love must not be given away, but rather protected in one's own heart. Tell your beloved one that you have a flower growing in the garden of your heart for him or her. Protect that love and peace for the world. Let the love and peace live within us, and so doing will make us full of love and peace.

Much continued success in your publication.

Love and peace to thee be multiplied!

Raymond Hastings

FROM POLES TO SLUDGE

Ray Palmer:

Have read your material for about 20 years—and get the impression you some times write things to get people to think, and use imaginary authors on articles to stimulate interest in a variety of subjects, ideas.

As an example the hole at the north and south pole—since you are quite aware already that the earth's axis has been changed many times (like the poles might be located near the equator when the earth changes pole positions again.)

Most of us would probably wonder what happens to the holes then.

Very likely there is a spiritual or electrical field with a rotation leaving a hole or out crop as the electric currents return to the opposite pole of the vortex.

It is refreshing and stimulating to read about subjects as you have written over the years. The average person on the earth today is really interested in corporal things and how much they themselves can obtain. Nor do they want to think deeply or even think at all for themselves.

They are not interested in directing their lives to improve conditions and sacrifice their selves for the uplifting of mankind.

Bring up a higher subject than corporal things, sex, gossip about the doing of other people and they, as you say, walk away. Or if they stay—they think you are obviously out of your mind.

Ray Palmer what do you feel is behind this promotion of Sewer Sludge (from City Sewers) to sell as safe fertilizers to grow food?

Organic magazines that are well known are going all out to push this stuff as pure.

People not using their (common sense so to speak) spiritual sense to look within this unthinkingly growing food with it and still saying no harmful substances used and labled as organic grown.

Consumers are soon going to be subjected to a mystery sickness that added to all the other poisons will bring early death to many.

Look like the Dark Spirit forces are not leaving any stones unturned.

Maybe we too should start uniting? Wishing you protection and well being.

Vernon A. Moore

● You see how easy it is to jump to the wrong conclusion? Just because it is a fact that the ice caps of Earth have been located in different places on the surface, you assume that the Earth turned over. The FACT is that the land areas of this planet, once one large continent that broke up and drifted apart, drift on the magma and in the process have presented various land areas to the poles, thus bringing arctic conditions and ice caps that formed as the land moved into the area, and melted as the land moved out again. There is no reason to dictate that the planet turned over in order to explain why the ice caps were in different locations. If you've ever played with a gyroscope, you understand the difficulty of turning the spinning toy on its axis. The Earth is the same, and it would take more than an ice mass at the poles to turn it. There is evidence that the Earth once did shift, or turn over, and you'll find the theory in Velikovsky's "Worlds In Collision" (with Comet Venus which became Planet Venus). That may account for the fact that the polar openings are not precisely at the geographic poles, but quite a distance off to the side (more in the case of the south polar opening). The Earth recently reversed its magnetic field, an event which has not received the publicity it deserves, because the experts can't explain it, and would rather say "no comment". The holes, I might add, are in the planet, not in its thin outer crust only. In fact, there may be times that the drifting continents even filled in or covered the holes at times. But if the holes are as much as 285 miles in diameter, they would remain, while the drifting crust adapted itself to the hole. There is much to argue about these holes, and that's what we intend to do. But let's not manufacture problems! Turning the planet on its axis, end for end, is an application of force that I hesitate to estimate—because it is so huge! And two miles of ice on a small area of this 8000 miles thick globe won't do it.

As for using sludge for fertilizer, Milwaukee has been doing it for years with "Milorganite", and it has no record of poisoning soil it is used on.—Rap.

WHERE ARE "THE DRUIDS"?

Dear Ray:

In the Sept. Issue there was an article by Cath. B. O'Connell "My Contact with Angels". This was one of the nicest pieces of literature I've read in a long time. And from time to time I reread it.

Could you get the lady to write more for us? I'd certainly like to have a chat with my Angel.

I would believe that she may know the address of "The Druids", they did have an address at Wheatridge, Colorado, but are no longer there. If she or you would have the address would you kindly let me know.

DON'T SWALLOW IT WHOLE, KURT

Send this to Kurt Glemser:

Glemser states police a few decades ago were friendly, etc. At that time they didn't have to contend with young people indoctrinated by professors, and the media, with ideas handed down through the transmission belt from Communists, to fellow travellers, etc. Their actions now are REactions, and they would have been the same then if confronted with such criminal and unlawful actions by mobs. This is the old story of "if a radical is arrested for a crime, it is repression". The policeman doesn't "pose a threat to everybody" as young Kurt claims, but only to the lawbreakers, and there are many more than there were several decades ago.

Why did Ritter choose a time and place "crawling with national guard and protesters to shop"? The police can't stop and examine everyone's credentials who mingle with the mobs, who are raising a disturbance.

Kurt's side of the Black Panthers' story, is, of course, THEIR side of it, and the police records show far differently. If the public is to be protected, we can't exempt the Black Panthers from illegal gun toting, bombing and violence.

Kurt will learn as he gets older not to swallow whole the tripe being handed him by people like Rubin, Abbe Hoffman, Kurtner, Bobby Seale, Eldridge Kleaver, et al.

THE INFINTILE WAIL

Dear Ray:

May you live to be 118 years old and enjoy every minute of it.

First off the good news: I read the sample of "Martian Diary", in "Forum," and I like it, I like it. You can count on me as a customer for "Martian Diary," soon as you have it ready in the new paperback series.

And now for the carping. I'm not blaming you, but this Kurt Glemser's article: "Will America become a Police State;" is another infantile wail from the anything-goes-set. All I have to ask Glemser, is: Who is prodding the cops into over-reaction? Just good old Kurt himself and all his other radical breast-beating, fanatic pals. When are these young Saviors-of-the-world, going to realize that you don't go around baiting the boys-in-blue with questionable actions and appearances and not expect them to react?

The cops are hired and trained to be trouble-shooters, to be on the look-out for law-breakers, to be suspicious of threatening actions.

With the crime rate sky-rocketing what do they expect from the cops when they disturb the peace, hold unlawful assemblies, smuggle and sell drugs, blow up police stations, destroy people's property, shut down the universities and schools? After all quite a few of the students come to the universities to get an education, not to raise hell.

We have sweet, loving youngsters like Jerry Rubin telling the students to kill their parents, and the cops. We have lovely people like the Black Panthers and the "Weathermen" exhorting the youth to kill the Facist pig cops.

A lot of cops are getting killed for no-good reasons. I hear about 14 cops have been shot by snipers so far this year, just traveling through neighborhoods.

Well, what do you think if some odd-ball type keeps telling you he is going to kill? You just laugh it off huh? Like hell, if its your life in the balance, you make sure it isn't going to happen if you can help it.

I know one thing, if some hairy-wild-eyed, big-mouthed punk walked into a bar around here and started threatening and bad-mouthing the patrons, he would be lucky if he left with only half of his teeth missing.

Glemser and all the rest of his defiant chums better realize that you don't go around threatening people or baiting them and not expecting somebody to call your bluff. I know lots of guys on the street who won't take it, and I don't expect the cops to either.

To me, working to get the laws changed legally is a 250% better way than hippie-cop confrontations.

Just for the record I am not some old fogey yet, I'm 34 years old, I think we ought to pull out of Viet-nam right now, I think Spiro Agnew has a big mouth, I think our government is a gang of fat favor-trading bureaucrats, I'm for ecology and I wish America could get out of the Consumer Rat-Race. If all the students would pick and stand behind some good public office seekers, and vote out the free-loading fat-cat politicians, we could make America a decent place to live. But the present cop confrontations, over-blown rhetoric, and Mao-think students newspapers, are turning off public sympathy fast.

I know what's going on. I mix with conservatives, liberals, and radicals, regularly and the present methods on both sides aren't doing very much at all.

Sure I know the cops can be really pushy, I lived in Chicago for 8 years, but the kids are no angels either—not by a long shot.

IF I WERE GOD

Dear Ray:

In September 1970 issue of Search I read your story "If I Were God". How would you like to read mine?

If I were The Supreme Being at this point in man's doings I'd cause something to happen to get all mankind out of doors then I'd suspend them all in animation and leave them there solid as stone so that nothing except the weather could damage the bodies, to all appearances they would be dead but I would leave the minds there trapped in those bodies to meditate over past inaction, wrongs did to both man and animal by man of free will and I'd leave them there for a thousand years so mother earth might restore herself and the animals and birds could live without fear. Then as suddenly as I inactivated man I'd make him live again with the ever present memory of His being locked up for a thousand years and knowing it could happen again, the clergy I'd leave still another thousand years inanimated. I believe after this planet Earth would be the most peaceful place in the whole universe.

● I don't know too many people who know how to "meditate" today! I equate meditation with "thinking"—they are one and the same thing. And today, most human beings "react" to "conditioned reflexes", rather than cogitating. It is true that most people don't even begin to think until they are over 40. A distressing proportion never begin! And only one thing will prod them into it—disaster. As long as you feed a cat, she won't hunt! She wouldn't think of it!—Rap.

ERROR IN THE BIBLE?

Dear Ray:

In the November, 1970 issue of Search, Raymond B. Callahan of Santa Rosa, California raised the issue of why the Lord's Prayer says "Thy will be done IN earth" instead of "Thy will be done ON earth", and you have agreed that it is an important point. The answer is simple. Just look in the Greek New Testament, and you will find that the preposition used is 'epi', which, as you know from its many uses as prefixes to English words, has the primary meaning of 'upon'. It has other meanings, also, but 'in' is not one of them. The Greek for 'in' is 'en'; and this is the preposition used in the Greek New Testament in the phrase, "Our Father who art in heaven". Why the King James translators chose to render 'epi' as 'in', I do not know; but it is obviously incorrect. The more recent translators have corrected this error.

E. R. Stafford

Lewistown, Ohio 43333

● Fine and dandy, Rev. Stafford, but just for the sake of something to think about—why wouldn't it be possible that when the Greeks used "epi", they weren't doing some "editing" themselves to explain away the "in"? That is the trouble with translators—they change things literally. Witness all the new Bible versions of today, the modern Bibles; they abandon the literal wording entirely. It is rather silly to talk now about specific words. Maybe also, the "in" refers to "in the atmosphere", which is certainly a part of the planet, and even you will admit that Heaven is generally regarded as "up". And you also know that our astronauts testify that when you get "up" a certain distance, the term no longer applies—there is no "up" in space. So, Heaven can't be all that far away!—Rap.

YOUR TEACHINGS ARE ON THE SIDE OF SATAN

Dear Ray:

As you know, awhile back I was an interested reader of Flying Saucer Magazine, At the same time God's divine power was working with me. About six or seven years of reading and studying the unknown power of the Flying Saucer.—The question came up, as to why man could not expose, now control this power, as far as I can find record and so many thousand men spent their entire life in study and research and has not exposed this power.

The drawing power of God has revealed through his word, the Bible that this is impossible until the time he has predestined to give power or it unto the Anti-Christ. Man, according to God's word, is totally depraved. They cannot believe in creation and then try to prove God wrong—with the evolution theory. There is a natural man, and also a spiritual man. This gift is of God, at his will, through revelation to the believer, believing is the evidence, not the cause.

God, my Heavenly father, through Jesus Christ, his beloved Son, my Savior, has given authority to his prophets and servants from the beginning of time to teach and preach his truth, not with force and unity as the world teaches but with Power—his power.

God's word and history has proven this over and over since God has given us record. One example; When the so-called Holy Roman Empire was charged and guilty of the martyr of Jesus Christ. Why? Over belief—they would not bow to images.

So to sum it all up, I believe in the Power you are teaching but as it to be on the side of Satan. I have scriptures to edify and reprove the above letter not to the Natural man but to the Spiritual man, the one that God has quickened, given a change of heart.

I, also, as you stated find it hard to find people to talk to, as to my separate state and my desires in Jesus Christ. They are not accepted any better in today's time than they were while Christ was here.

Satan has more power than the Natural man. So as not to be radical and to communicate with an open mind, I find your books to harmonize with the works of Satan.

Through the Grace of God I stay an Independent Baptist, as also my Lord and Saviour, Jesus Christ.

Earl Hitchcock

● Trust in a savior and you won't have to do it yourself! If that's what you believe, more power to you—but why not just give a little of your own energy to the task? Even God might appreciate a little cooperation. Come to think of it, Satan needs more help than anyone! He's really in a bad spot. Even if he is such a rotten bum, maybe we ought to try to help him, instead on consigning anybody who is in the least self reliant to his evil clutches.—Rap.

PEACE

Dear Folks:

Christmas is at hand; it has been a hectic year for all of us, our family, as well as our (this) world:

Many are praying for peace, but a selected few are only interested in their full purses; the war-mongers, the death suppliers etc; yes many pray, but how effective are our prayers, our silent inner cries for cessation of pain, the ceasing of health ruining machines, and bombs, no matter what name this hell hides under.

So one feels the word "peace," means more than cessation of hostilities, it, to me means peace of purpose, of mind, of body, the feel of earth and sky, and all that dwells on it, a "At-one-ment," in God's Holy Way.

"Peace I give you, Peace I leave you, Oh man, thou art a free Intelligence, use wisely thy mind, and, as ye sow, so shall ye reap—as no one can for your sins pay but, "Thee". Abraham and Jesus taught us this, as did Confucious, Buddha, etc. etc., yes the Orientals knew this of old, but man, modern man has lost his God Given Inner Sight, for he cries, prays, and seeks peace, "Turn ye within Thy Self and ye shall find Me—"Peace".

So once a year we lay aside, our greed and try to share, some of our lives with others, even though for a moment or a day.

Tis Christmas—Peace to all.

SPACE TRAVEL 10,000 YEARS FROM NOW

Dear Ray:

A few observations on "Space Travel; 10,000 A.D. and 1,000,000 A.D."

I think that any space vehicle had better be braked sooner than 25 to 50 miles above Earth. If the operators wait until such a ship gets "within 25 to 50 miles of Earth"...it's getting just a little too close for comfort. And I assume that the vehicle was approaching Earth a little faster than the present ships. .going along with Mr. Fornwalt's future technology. Even today returning ships return at a pretty high speed after the Earth's gravitation takes full hold.

He also talks about changing the moon's climate. He also talks about atmospheric conditions. Climate and atmosphere have to do with air. I'm sure you can't change something that isn't there. You might add an

A truly important book! In all respects the worthiest concept of occult teachings that has yet been written. Fiction? None but the ignorant would believe that! The author was an advanced student of occultism, and in his sensational book he has tried to place before his fellow men a tremendous reality he discovered concerning this earth of ours, and life on it, in it, and beyond it.

The COMING of the SAUCERS

The original flying saucer book! It was Kenneth Arnold who gave the saucers their name, and he wrote the best book of them all. Here it is, in print after ten years! This is the famous book that tells the true story of the death-dealing "Maury Island Incident" in which two Air Force Intelligence men lost their lives, and Arnold himself barely escaped with his skin. To those in the know, this story is the key to the whole U.F.O. mystery. Perhaps the entire significance of this amazing adventure will never be told, but what you will read in this book will stagger you. No fiction mystery could ever match this true story.

WORLD?

We on Earth are entering the Space Age. Our traditional cosmic isolation is ending. Earth is in touch with outer space! What will this mean to us? How can we prepare ourselves for the vast changes that are on the way? As we begin to study the impact on our civilization; what is happening to the minds of men on Earth is more important to understand than what is happening in our skies. In other words, we must comprehend the terrific impact of the space ships on our human norm of life, the challenge which these and similar events pose to our concepts of reality beyond the confines of Earth's gravity. We know a great deal about human life on Earth; what can we learn about life in outer space, about life on a cosmic scale? Once it dawns upon us that outer space is indeed inhabited by beings expressing themselves in different planes of matter and reality, it then becomes important for us to try to develop some understanding of their greater view of life and to compare it to our own. This book is pointed toward the goal of developing—from every possible source—the space view of life.

THE KEY TO THE FUTURE
Preview of the Destiny of This Planet

This edition of OAH SPE contains 928 pages. It also contains nearly three quarters of a million words.

Do you think flying saucers are new? Then read OAH SPE! A whole panorama of aerial and space vessels, described as though from today's newspapers.

Do you wonder at Einstein's theories? Then read OAH SPE! He could have gotten his information there! Uncounted thousands of tons of meteorites fall to Earth each day, yet space is nearly empty of them. OAH SPE knew it in 1882! Space is dark, say our daring astronauts. So did OAH SPE in 1882, and tells us why! Archaeologists have made amazing discoveries of ancient races and dead cities and civilizations since 1882. They might have discovered them sooner had they read OAH SPE.

Just where is Heaven? What do you do there? Is there anything for YOU to do when you get there — what kind of occupation? Is there really a Hell? Who manages the Earth, the Solar System, the Universe — and how? How do the different religions fit into God's one Universe? OAH SPE tells all this, and a thousand more answers to man's most difficult questions.

Men Among Mankind

By BRINSLEY Le POER TRENCH

What happened to mankind after the Atlantean civilization was lost? How did humanity react when Nature went mad? Where did the seeds of human culture survive? When did the world begin to recover from the effects of catastrophe? Who initiated the process of rehabilitation? Has knowledge of the source of world progress been suppressed and withheld from maturing mankind?

This book presents a scholar's answer to these and many other questions. Historical facts long obscured by Roman and Mediaeval propaganda have been examined and evaluated against an unusual but never fanciful background. The result is a new picture of mankind's history during the last ten thousand years.

One of the themes discussed is that the course of history has been changed abruptly, from time to time, by certain unusual men who have suddenly appeared upon the human scene. They have been few in number, but their thought and action have influenced succeeding generations. Sometimes this influence has been violent and drastic, at others it has gone almost unnoticed, unappreciated and under-valued by both contemporary observers and historians.

Human progress has been the gift of this inspired minority. Isolated by their genius and extraordinary in their abilities, they have demonstrated a marked difference from the ordinary people of any period in time.

What sort of men were these? Most important of all, to us and to our future, how has mankind utilized the knowledge these men have brought into the world?

FLYING SAUCERS

America's only Fact Magazine with complete coverage of the famous UFO.

Flying saucers are a fact. A national poll has proved that one American in every four is aware of the truth of that statement. In spite of this, FLYING SAUCERS magazine is the only publication devoted to presenting all the facts and all the latest news concerning unidentified flying objects. It is the only magazine wherein the public can pierce the fog in which official sources have shrouded a matter of vital and general public concern. Here is a magazine you can depend on to keep you up to the minute on every development. More than 5000 sightings have been reported to the editors, and new sightings come in daily. Hundreds of these are from reputable people, airline pilots, scientific experts, even clergymen. FLYING SAUCERS has a staff of experts who evaluate every sighting, subject every photo to exhaustive tests, analyze every theory presented, and who meticulously report the truth as they see it. Today Man is aiming his sights at the stars. He intends to fly to other planets. But are the inhabitants of other worlds already visiting us? It may be so, but even if not, this magazine is writing the daily history of the new space age!

Ray Palmer's FORUM

For many years readers of Ray Palmer's magazines said their favorite sections of his magazines were the editorials and the readers' letters with his answers to those letters. Half in jest, some readers suggested he fill up the magazines with just editorials and letters. One day Ray "got the message", and the idea of a magazine called FORUM, containing exactly what these readers had suggested, drove him to making up just such a magazine, to see what would happen. What did happen? Nothing Ray Palmer ever published has gotten more praise than FORUM! It is useless to describe the magazine, except to say that in it Ray and his readers express themselves as never before--and if you don't get into the act, too, you are missing the greatest!

What if you were one of five men and four women marooned for life on a strange lost "Garden of Eden" by an airplane crash? Would five "Adams" and four "Eves" make this modern Eden a Paradise?

Today the world is beset by numerous problems, a far cry from the Garden of Eden where life was peaceful and happy and untroubled. Have you ever wondered what would happen if a small group of people got a chance to go back to that original Eden, and begin all over again? Could they begin to build a beautiful new existence, or would they make the same mistakes all over again? Can man really control his animal instincts? Is sex really evil, and is "sin" inevitable?

GODS OR SPACEMEN?

By W. R. DRAKE

If the literature of antiquity could prove that Spacemen visited our Earth long ago would this wondrous revelation not transform the past, inspire the present, give hope to the future, bring new meaning to Man himself? Our religions, philosophies and culture were based on the belief that our world was the center of the universe and mankind the sole preoccupation of God. Would proof the Earth was once ruled by Beings from other planets not seem the fundamental discovery of our century?

The spaceships now haunting our skies suggest Extra-terrestrials mastering millenia of science, therefore surely it seems logical that they also visited Earth centuries ago, when primitive Man worshipped them as Gods from heaven.

The word 'God' has at least

PAGES: 176

SIZE: 6¼" x 9½"

Paperback -- $2.62

two distinct meanings. The Absolute, imagining the universe in Whom we live and move, and the local 'Gods' or Space Beings, who originate from some advanced planet and from time to time manifest among men.

Today we realize our Earth is not the center of Creation but a grain of dust in a space-time universe including universes of various dimensions co-existing within our own, all paralleled by a possible universe of anti-matter.

Many of our fundamental conceptions are based on false promises. We should sweep away the dust and dogma of centuries and study phenomena as they really happened.

This book is the result of fourteen years of research into those realities as recorded in the history of the ancients.

atmosphere. However. . .it is generally assumed that the moon is too small to hold the molecules to itself and they rush into space. However, I hope something like this may be accomplished. . .perhaps with hugh domes. What Mr. Fornwalt knows about other planets' regard to our "sexual promiscuity" I have no idea. I wonder where he gets this information.

Mr. Fornwalt talks about Samuel Morse transmitting sound by wire. He didn't do this. His telegraph allowed a circuit to be closed which caused a magnet to draw a piece of metal to it which made it go click. Bell's telephone transmitted (and still does) electrical impulses. . .which also has a magnet which pulls metal. . .which is interpreted as the sound of voice or music. As far as science denying the practicality of television in the late '20's and '30's. . .well Ernst F.W. Alexanderson gave the first demonstration of home television in 1927. Are you referring Mr. Fornwalt to impossibility. . .or impracticality?

And what is this business about spaceships someday being pressurized so as to eliminate space suits? Small as they may be. . .they are pressurized now and the astronauts do not wear suits until they are ready to go outside.

Well. . .he may be right about the future. . .but I wish he would get the facts straight about the present. I must say goodbye for now. The man at the bodycast station is waiting to beam me to Pluto.

THIS DAY IS ENDING!

By Robert Olsen

A Great New Book Of Prophecy—Stunning In Its Impact!

DIRE WOLF

$2.62

Robert Olsen may not be well known, but this book will rank him among the world's most famous prophets. In his Preface, the author says:

"This work is in two parts; the future and the present; in that order. The statements herein are similar to that of the military scout who returned to his commanding officer with the report: 'Sir, there is a hellish big batch of the enemy coming this way!'

"Given that information, the officer can do some accurate prophesying on his own, wherein his actions will effect future events. The leaders of this civilization are that officer. They have the power to make its future secure. I am confident that they will do nothing.

"The second part of this work is to let those of the future know more of this civilization than they will find in conventional history books, and perhaps to arouse some controversy in the present generation. This book is NOT fiction!"

The Ancient Atlantic

By L. Taylor Hansen

$22.50

The book contains 440 8-1/2 x 11 pages. It has 96 full-color illustrations and full-color maps.

The magnificent biography of an ocean! From the "beginning" when the continents were one, down through the eons encompassing ancient Atlantis and Lemuria, noble Greece and Egypt, to the present when science is rediscovering the peoples who lived prior to the great destruction, before Eden.

Where did man come from on this planet? How long has he been here? Who has he been - who is he now? Was there really an Atlantis, a Lemuria? Were there true civilizations hundreds of thousands of years ago?

THE ANCIENT ATLANTIC is a scientific, scholarly book, being, literally, the story of the Atlantic ocean from the very beginning, with the creation of the continents, the formation of the ocean itself, the tremendous geological events that have culminated in the world we know today. It is also an archaeological and ethnological history of the development of the civilizations of man around that ocean - for it was on Atlantis, in the center of this ocean, where mankind began. Every scientist will want this book; every library, every school. Yet this book is written so EVERYBODY can understand it.
