DEVOTED TO RATIONAL SPIRITUALISM AND PRACTICAL REFORM.

QUARTO SERIES.

BOSTON, NEW YORK AND CHICAGO, SATURDAY, JAN. 28, 1860.

VOL I.---NO. 22.

Poctry.

[For the Spiritual Age] HOPE AND DESPAIR.

BY ANNETTE DISHOP.

Not far away—in mist and shadow lying Behold, oh spirit! where thy life begun; Arouse thee! on thy youthful pinions flying Soar to thy noon of life, as soars the sun.

In vain thou callest-in vain-my wings have falled me In death cold dew are drabbled all my plumes,-At earliest morn, the cruel hawk assailed me, And I must perish one the evening glooms.

All hale-crowned, the future throned victorious, Unfolds its burning vi ion to my sight .-Not here, oh. mortal sink to death inglorious, Up to the contest with thy arms of might.

Ains! no mail of proof have I to shield me, The arrows drink my life blood where I lie; Now, can no earthly hand assistance yield me, And I must bear this anguish till I die.

With music on their golden hinges turning The gates of Heaven swing wide for many a soul, Yet not for thee,—oh, civild, thy restless yearning, Not yet, hath brought thee nigh unto that goal.

Where is the balm that now can bring me healing? The cup of death is pressed unto my lip ;—
Oh bitter cup ! each mertal sense and feeling Shrink back in anguish, while compelled to sip

Lift up thy veil-oh! world of dazzling beauty Here comes a soul to gaze into thy face, And yet the shining chords of Love and Duty Long years shall ho'd it in this gloomier place.

THE SPIRIT'S SONG.

BY ROLAND CLIFFORD.

My home is where the cherubs bathe On the rosy tin s-n the golden wave-On Eden's peaceful river; Free from the stroke of the dreaded dart That broke the strings of the throbbing heart, And freed the soul forever!

And I wander on, and forever new-The lovely val s that rise to view And the sweet sequestered bowers; And they dip their plumes and the golden wing, In the dew on the faded flowers.

And the plains are full of the sweetest strain Attuned to the lowly Jesus slain, And it murmues on forever ; It thrills from a thou-and trembling strings, And gushes like cele-tial springs That swell the mighty river.

And the heart ne'er knows the pangs of grief-And the soul is tree from the sting of pain, Fer we drink from life's sweet fountain !

And the sin and -trife of the vale of tears, Through glorious flight of the endless years Shall reach us never, never! And, while celestial music rolls, We'll join in the ceaseless march of souls,

O! I WO LD LIVE

BY RADRI GREY.

O! I would live once more to look, On spring's sweet early flowers, To hear again the babbling brook, And see the survey hours t The winter's cott, cold bet of snow.

Say not "her life is almost fled, Her check has lost its bloom";-O! lay me not among the dead, Within the cold lone tomb; Earth never looked so fair before, As now, when life is almost o'er.

I'd live to hear the wild bird's strain, Come softly o'er the len—
To see the flowers upon the plain,
Blooming in heauty free;—
That I may see the spring time smile,
Bid Death to stay his hand awhite.

Then gently lay me down to sleep, When spring is bei let and fair; Each blossom will its vigit keep, While I shall slamber there; Then when the trees in verdure wave Let sunset deck my early grave.

Correspondence.

MESSRS. P.DITORS : - As we live in an age of agitation, may I be permitted to drop one that are shaking the world into reasoning life 3 The radiations from the master minds that figure in your conferences, are sprinkling gems before your reasoning readers, and cutting their way deep into time-bound souls.

world that "All is good and beautiful." And, though I cannot synonymize the words right and wrong so as to see everything, alike, lovethe vision of Dr. Child? Be this as it may, we cannot deny that there is much to learn, ere we can settle this great question, compati ble with philosophy, and the moral intuitions of the soul; and hence, the able discussions of honest minds which are cashing out so many criticisms from various sources, are the very things that we need; and I can but marvel at the manifest disposition of many Reformers to stifle free expression with the plea of "A Danagainst every new unfoldment from time improclaimed mercy and forbearance against revenge and intolerance, saying to the adulteress "neither do I condemn thee," he was hunted by the Church as a "dangerous" innovater, and at last, paid the penalty of his beneficence, by an ignominious death! When the all-embracing charities of Universalism first sounded the glad tidings of Infinite and Impartial love to the children of men, the creed-contracted world stood aghast, and trembled in view of this the slaves of education rallied to the rescue, millions to the feast of Freedom and Truth !prune the subject of all objectionable conditions. But let us examile the subject more ignores evil, is doing a rainous work, plunging many who adopt it into dark and fearful errors! Now, it is very easy to find a subterfuge for selfish and debasing gratifications, when the mind is constantly on the alert for such an excuse; and such minds may attempt a vindication of their course, by involving the noble souls who have opened their liberal ideas to the world with candor and honesty. But where is the philosophy in such self-justifica-come out a shining seraph, will he be likely to is to make their spiritual garden bright and or remain forever buried in seclusion and try the experiment, without first attesting the fragrant with heaven's choicest blessings, or matter, by his own judgment? If you urge dark with the bitter fruits of repentance .me to drink arsenic, that I may the sooner To be sure they have the privilege of erasing taste the bliss of Paradise, think you that I the misdeeds of the past, by the good they thought-pebble into the great Ocean of mind, should put the cup to my hips? Never ! Bit, may do, by returning to earth, and counseling to blend its vib ations with the myriad pulses if a man love vice, nothing short of growth in the weak and erring to be wise and strong, but Would one hope to gain distinction and the moral deportment of his nature, can possi- I think, dear father, it is much better to sow eminence by simply asking, and never actbly eradicate his proclivity thereto.

And, if a man have not murder in his heart, showering choicest blessings upon you, The problem of evil, which of all subjects is can sophistry generate it there? Whoever most worthy investigation involves the mind | has not the selfhood to think and to do for in a mass of principles, that will require ages himself must need bitter experience to develto elucidate to the comprehension of earth's ope an individuality. The mind that does immortals. Few minds have been found bold think and ad pts principles for himself will the clear eye of Reason, and proclaim to the plained of. Nature will be herself despite our in human development, is to give free scope to the largest and most radical thoughts, and ly and meritorious, I do see much beauty where labor to cultivate high and pure feelings in I once saw none; and from this I infer, that I ourselves, that by our daily example and asmay yet see goodness where now I see but evil; piring sympathies, we may carry a perpetual trembling in the grasp of alluring vices. Our life consists not so much in what we do as in what we feel. It is not the word that reaches the soul, but the heart-life that is in the word. If our inner life be true and pure, we have little to fear from the errors of the head. The soul must first desire to do good, and the effort to satiate that desire will be forthcoming. correct the failings of the head; and, if Dr. memorial. When Jesus first lifted his voice | Child is theoretically in error, then it behoves against the murderous dogmas of Moses, and us, instead of carping at his 'Pernicious influences," to correct the "sophistry" by practically demonstrating the difference between right equal chance, is a match for the Truth!

L. C. Howe.

NEW ALBION, Jan. 14th, 1860.

too, when the voice of Immortality first broke | She was of a teachable mind, and in all her character to denominational enterprises. upon the world in the character of "Spiritual associ tions among her relations and loved Rappings" and sent the sparkling of free school mates, her mind was a loving and conthought flaming through the sools of Earth, fiding one, unto all. The moti er passed away to the spirit land some three years before her and attempted to muffle the mouth of heaven, daughter. I send this as a test. I have lest her immortal hosts should open a new many written messages from the departed vein of thought, and lead earth's famishing daughter through my own medium powers .- the Banner as a spiritual luminary. The voice accompanies the writing, so that But the tide moves on, and no power of earth they can be spoken out, as the pen moves .can stay its progressive march. But still that I have a writing on time-passing from John voice is heard, whenever a during mind utters Bailey, called by learned men and ministers his boldest and broadest thought; and it may of secturian belief, words of true wisdom .be well that it is so; for it calls out the soul's | The message that is from my daughter was by energies to scan closer, to probe deeper, and Mrs. Gleason, a tipping-medium; the table was elevated about four inches clear from the floor, and moved and canted upon my breast, closely. It is urged that the doctrine which and then returned to its original place. You in the performance of the duties of this may take what part of the writing that you life, and whose neglect so surely brings dethink convenient.

Yours, &c., NATU'L SHAW. Portland, January 5th, 1860.

with you-mother can come nearer to you than | threatens to thwart his purpose by its seem-I can without the aid of a medium, so she ing greatness. He who possesses a persesaid I might talk now-ob, father, I am so vering energy will surely find his efforts tion? Are we to surrender our individuality, happy here ; I have beautiful birds, and flowand attempt to torture our souls into heaven, ers-oh! so much more lovely than any you ever saw on earth. I wish every one could possess superior powers, can only hope to because a great mind believes that the darkest deeds are fraught with the elements of ultimate felicity? If a man be told that, by plunging into a caldron of boiling oil, he will ever saw on earth. I wish every one could know what a beautiful home is awaiting them, —what different lives would they live, when fortune—must succeed by his own efforts possess superior powers, can only hope to succeed in life by severe application.

Each must be the architect of his own
fortune—must succeed by his own efforts

fortune—must succeed by his own efforts

the good seed while on earth life, so that we ing? No, surely not! that would be im-If a man has murter in his heart, is he may have cur garden ready for us when we nearer heaven because he dare not execute it? get home. May all good angels attend you, has been partial, while they make no effort Is the wish of your Spirit Daughter, JANE.

university

and broad enough, to sweep the Universe with never be in danger of the sad disasters com- hard y think it was necessary for Bro. Os- orously-search for hidden treasures-then good to qualify his assertion to the editor may they hope to exhibit wonderful achievsophistry; and the only possible way to aid of the Banner in relation to the liberaliz- ments as the result of untiring persevering tendency of Spiritualism.'" To a lance, and no longer find cause to complain late communication of mine in the Banner, of Fertune. in which I said a few words favorable to the liberalizing tendency of Spiritualism ple of Fame glittering in the effulgence of and who stall say that a large growth may not moral tone in our souls, strengthen those who "in this community," the editor appended glory. With "Labor Omnia Vincit" for a open to my soul all the beauties that dazzle are struggling with organic weakness, and an irrelevant note dissenting from my statement. I thought I was as competent to speak of the influence of Spiritualism greatness. within the sphere of my own observation as he could be, and so informed him. According to his usual disingenuous method of treating every thing which I have communicated to his paper creditable to Spir-Let us labor then, to stimulate that desire in itualism, he makes use of my correction in ourselves first and others will soon catch the a way to imply that I had "qualified" my gerous Doctrine." This cry has been raised flame. The feelings of the heart will soon statement to him. A fair sample of the justice I have uniformly received from that pointment is her sure companion if Applipaper, in response to my demand for a correction of its misrepresentations of whatever I have communicated to it on this education, the cultivation of the mind, be and wrong. To attempt the correction of an subject. I agree with you fully in regard error, by proscribing free discussion thereon, to the liberalizing power of Spiritualism is tacitly admitting that that error, with an on the minds of people everywhere, as well as in this vicinity. If this were not its tendency, I would not advocate it, for years ago, at a benefit given to a Fire Company I am heartily sick of the narrow sec-BROTHER NEWTON: Enclosed is a commu- tarian and partizen spirit which rules most "Pernicious and Dangerous Doctrine!" So, nication from my daughter, Jane M. Snaw.— persons who assume to give direction and the cortain rose, the gentle nan engaged to play ual observation," I have nothing to say. I do not wish to bias the minds of others. but for myself I have no further need of the peculiar kind of light reflected from

Yours for freedom and progress in truth,

H. P. Osgood.

Foxeroft, Jan. 19, 1860.

APPLICATION.

BY C. M. N.

There is no one thing so greatly needed feat, or bitter regret, as untiring applica-

It is the key to success, and he who diligently, and faithfully applies himself, will DEAR FATHER: I am always glad to talk overcome every difficulty that arises and crowned with victory, and he who does not poverty.

Would any one believe that Fortune would shower down immense riches at his feet, though he make no exertion but to ask? possible; and yet some imagine Fo:tune to secure, by their own exertion, what others have struggled hard to obtain.

Let them be deluded no longer, but tax their own brains-exert their own powers MESSRS. EDITORS:-You say, "We for beneficial results-apply themselves vig-

> In the distance they will behold the temmotto, and a firm resolute heart to cheer them, they reach at length, the pinnacle of

> O, tell me not, there is no fruit, no desirable result in these long years of toil and study. Thousands have said it, and the "grave of oblivion" covers them.

> Let us seek happiness by tasking our minds and expect it as a reward for noble efforts. Anticipation may herald rich blessings, and great achievements, but Disapcation, Perseverance and Energy are wanting. Then let us be ambitious, and let the object of our ambition.

PORTLAND, Jan. 16th., 1860.

Two GHOSTS OF ONE HAMLET .- Strange things occasionally occur in a theatrical life. Some few in Philadelphia, a new aspirant for histrionic honors appeared on the boards of the Walnut street Theatre. The play was "Hamlet." Just before the "Ghost," struck for "wages," and the Mana-Of the "Banner man's sphere of spirit- ger was forced to supply his place as best he could In due time the play went on; and the Ghost in blue armor appeared saying in his usual lugu> brious tone-"Hamlet, I am thy father's Ghost!"

When, even as the Prince of Denmark was coutemplating the image of his father's ghost, a voice was heard from another wing-

"Don't you believe him, Hamlet; I am your father's ghost-this fellow underbid me."

And with the word, another "Ghost" in blue armor, of course, stepped on the stage.

The embarrassment of Hamlet was extreme. Two ghosts of one father, both dressed in blue armor, speaking at once, and each claiming to be the ghost Simon Pure, as thus "Hamlet, I am thy father's ghost," began No.

"No, Hamlet, I'm your father's ghost," cried "Doomed for a certain time to walk the earth," continued No. 1.

"No. Hamlet," said Ghost No. 2, insinuatingly,

-"It's me that's doomed to walk the earthhim. You see, he plays for five, dollars a week; and I would not do it under six. I'm your father's

At this juncture, while Hamlet stood looking from one to the other, in most unprincely confusion, No. 1 again rallied—
"I could a tale unfold," he said.

"All fudge, Hamlet; it's me that could the tale unfold," cried Ghost No. 2. "This fellow ain't got any tale to unfold. I'm your father's ghost,

DHOULA BEL;

MAGICGLOBE.

BY THE ROSICRUCIAN.

BOOK FIRST.

[CONTINUED.]

CHAPTER XI.

THE OLD STONE MILL-THE LAST TWO HOURS AND THE STRANGE EVENTS THEREOF.

"No sooner had I recovered from my surprise at this occurrence, than the old man bade me look again. The night had come down rapidly during the time we had been shut it by the curtains. The thick, vapor-la len clouds effectually excluded every r y of sarlight, and the night had become a most pitchy dark, with the excep-tion of that dull, red mist which I had seen the previous night, and which now again cast its lurid sheen upon all surrounding

"During the three hours I had been ab sent from my home the weather had undergone a change. Occasional flames of sheet lightning lit up for a moment the scenery around, and then left a still deeper gloom

"On being told to look, I replied 'I do, but nothing can I see, except the trees, the grass, and the mill when the flashes occur." "'You are looking behind you, then,' he said, 'just turn your head a moment.'

"When I did so, I could hardly credit the soundness of my senses, and even questioned if I was not asleep and dreaming; for that which I beheld was of a such a character as to make a person doubt himselfhis sanity and what he saw. The eastern portion of the mill had disappeared entirely, and in its stead I beheld in a clear light, as if coming from ten thousand chandeliers, the front of what appeared to me as a colossal Temple, whose front was plinthed, columned and capitaled.

"I could hardly believe my eyes, yet there it stood in massive grandeur, towering away toward the skies! In its centre was a massive gate, studded with what seemed to be large brass spikes; and on each side, upon huge pedestals, stood two bronze griffins, as if they kept watch and ward over the untold secrets and treasures within the castle. "During my lifetime, up to the previous night I had loved to hear tales of the marvelous; and had delighted to conjure up strange pictures, but had never seriously believed in witch-craft, black art, magic or sorcery. I had entertained no belief in Larvæ, B dures, Eons, Spooks, or Toubilum,-no not a word-nor had I the remotest faith in the existence of beings intermediate between men and angels, but totally distinct from either. Such is no longer the case! What could I do to avo d believing in what I saw, heard and felt? I that night could no longer refuse credence; because that which I formerly regarded as the mere idle fantasies of hotbrained mystics, I now knew to be truthfounded, and perfectly reliable. The fagade of the Temple appeared to be thirty yards distant, and as I gazed upon the splendid structure, the gates slowly swung upon s, and revealed a large circular court within, in the midst of which I dimly saw a host of strange looking beings, whom I took to be either human or their simulaera, so perfect, that the difference was scarcely to be detected. Suddenly I fell off into a kind of doze, and when I revived again, it appeared that in the interim I had been transported within the court, near the southern part of which I ob-

you. I have called my lines THE INITIATION.

served a door which appeared to lead into a a large building, separated by a stream of water from the court itself. Over this stream a very parrow bridge was thrown,

and at the ends of it stood two infernal order the better to remember what took place

while I was there, I subsequently threw it into verse-form, which I will now repeat to Mont Faucon ne'er witnessed such a sight

Of fear as I beheld that night, Within that temple of the dead, where demons glide and vampyres tread;
Who laughed with glee at the daring mortal.
There within Death's gloomy portal.
Asphaltine lights were burning pale,
And sulphur fumes weighed down the gale;
While ever and aye, a horible cry
Bose on the air; and o'er me spread—That shriek of despair—a fear like that we feel of the dead!

dead! Transfixed I stood; rau cold my blood, each hair upon Btood up with fear, and a briny tear upon the earth was ahed!

How great the cost! My soul is lost!
No more on earth to move and be,
Ah! woe is me! Ah! woe is me!

Piercely through the darkness beaming, horrid demon seyes were gleaming;
Terror filled my heart with fear, as certain ominous words I hear;

Sung to music sad and low, like that which from torn hearts outflow.

In moments when the soul is left alone, all blessings from it reft.

When lute and harp are swept in sorrow, and Hope can pant no bright to morrow,

These words in measured cadence fall, and echo through that gloomy Hall.

concernedal

TO WELLES

THE SONG OF THE UNSEEN.

"Listen mortal, daring stranger, warning take and flee from danger!
Seek no farther for the Galeyea,* lest ye meet with death and fallure.

Turu ye from us, we are vantoms, vampyres, foliots, genii, phantoms.
Back to earth, ere we enthrall thy soul, and horrors on thee fall;
For jt is written Hell shall warn its victums thrice, twixt night and morn,'
And thus to thee we say beware, go back, repent in fast and prayer.

Secrets fearful such as ours, give the knower magic now the whole seems to the sound died and the whole seems;
He can nercely ride the steems.

He can nercely ride the storm, command the lightnings, voluntarily I closed my eyes, and when I change his form—
Strew death broad cast o'er fields of earth; change joy to gief, and pain to mirth—
Call spirits from the vasty deep, where unborn worlds

I was a rain sacted on the gustion with things seeing,

Applies a text in proper Person! Remember 'MENE, TE KEL, PHARSIN!'

stopped awhile, and for a time all was still. They sung

Who stands at this iron gate.
Which opens on roads blank, drear and dark?
Who is it doth refuse to walt
Till Time and Death shall quench the spark?
Woe! woe! to whoever would know
The secret of ways whither,
Sought only of days thither
Bringeta man from below!

III. Who stands without this brazen gate,
Leading to seas where foaming billows loudly roar,
In fury, mainess, race and hate?
Ire! ire! on whoever dare aspire
To the bright Eonic crown;
Who would from Mai tear it down,
From its taravel of fire!

IV. Who stands without this silver gate,
The door of Nature's private land,
Where rubies, jewels, precious—great,
Like forest leaves seatrew the strand?
And songs, songs, songs, sang by beings pure and holy
Are heard of angels and scraphim, Antarphims cherul-im. Antarphim, cherubim, In the regions of Vesnoly!

Who stands at this golden gate,
The shore of bright Vemloia's ever sunlit sea,
Whose every drop is big with the fate
Of an unborn world; on whose shores the tree
Of Life! Life! is ever watered by the fountain—
*Entaphar—the golden star—
Through the valley Delaxar Flowing from the mighty mountain?

Who stands without this awful gate,
Whose beams are fate; whose solid bars are time—
Which sphiuxes guard, and gorgons wait
To seize the being who dare climb?
Is it man, man, man, whose days are but a speck,
Who woul sail o'er seas infernal,
To reach the port supernal,
Where suns the azure fleck?

VII Who stands without this crystal gate,
Which leads to shores whose sands are strewn with pearl,
Beneath a dome of most majestic state,
Whose floors are diamonds, sapphire, beryl
Grand! grand! grand! are the mountains of that shore,
And prectous stones, like sighs and moans
From Earth made homes—
From gold-hued clouds out-pour!

VIII. Who stands without this mystic portal,
Seeking for it-hidden treasure?
Who is; who is the daring mottal?
Speak! and let us know tny pleasure!
Vast! vast! are the secrets of the crater;
And the Beorian oceans rolling,
And the bell lorever toiling;—
Vast and mighty—none are greater!

CHORUS OF THE UNSEEN. 'Tis the passage to the infinite; to regions where eternal

Sets off a sea of blackest night!

Sets off a sea of blackest night!

The Awiul Vortex—blatter's forge—

Whence Power, Systems suns, disgorge—
Whence Comets spring to outer day,

And Worlds leap forth their part to play—
Whence Spirit, Matter, Soul caserge,

And where Centralia's forces urge, Forever and forevermore, her waves upon a boundle

And where Centralia's forces urge,
Forever and forevermore, her waves upon a boundless shore,
And stars rain down like wintry hail!
Mortit tremble, least you fail!
Shrink but a moment, and no power
Can save you in that rearful hour!

The voices ceased, their song was ended,
And silence with the darkness blended,
When a sudden groan groan, groan,—
Came a soul tearing agony, heart-racking moan,
And wept tears like blood
As in panic fear! I stood
In that touth, tomb, tomb.
And a ter ible dread, inte the touch of the dead,
Came over-me there; and my heart stopped beating,
And stood every hair. What, what, what Means this horrible spell, brewed by demons of hell?
Oh! would that! were once away from this spot,
'It is as dreadful as Hades, where the worm dieth not!
Boom! Boom! Boo n!
Came a roaring sound from the caves under g.ound.
Then my soul sunk with dread,
I was like a man dead.
Gloom, gloom, gloom,
Environed my b ing; the terrible tread
Of the demon! hear, and I hide from the sun and the moon with fear—
Feeling soon, soon, soon, I shall yield my last breath
To the augel of Death, and pass on to a region forever in gloom—
No starlight to cheer me; no sun and no moon!

looking monsters in bronze, representing a nondescript, half elephant, half devil. In

No starlight to cheer me; no sun and no moon! O'er my spirit then came stealing, slimy horror, yet revealing

That the song was meant for me.
And I answered, lowly whi-pering, scarcely speaking, only lisping,
"I want, I want the golden key—
I would go to Nature's codege; drak from out her sea of knowledge—
Drank and drink brevermore—
I would climb the lofty mountain, bathe my soul within the fountain—

Bathe and drink and thirst no more !"

Bathe and drink and thirst no more!"
These the words I spake while seeming,
All to me was like a dreaming
Of horror, mingled with supernal
Pleasures, dashed with fears mernal,— Terrors mixed with joys elysian.
Like the Prophat in livision,
I too, felt a river roll, adown my being, thro' my soul—
A sea whose waves were keen delight,
But each one crest with fear and spite.

*The secrets of the immortal Gods—the scaled mysteries of Le Croix Rouge.—ED.

Once the music rose and then
These words were sung by spectral men,
'The time has not yet come. (fated mother of a son—Doomed todaste the cup of sorrow, and to know a strange to-morrow,)
For thee to lift the mazy will, and bear to earth the wondrous tale—
Not then but he shell sleep the symme and probe the

"I was again seated on the cushion with and Monads sleep—

Keep death at bay ten thousand years, and bathe in salt in the old mill, whose grey walls before me seas sorrow's tears!
But the trials ere you reach them, fearful are, and would were illuminated by I knew not what ye teach them. Greater still, for then the Being, Dark and Solemn, all means; while behind me all was dark as Erebus itself, with, as I said before, the exception of the dull red haze in its immedi-"The voices died away, and the music ate vicinity. Everything beyond was invisible by reason of the thick darkness of But soon I heard another band apparently the starless night. When I turned my within the bu lding over the bridge. I lost head towards the veil the same phosphoresthe first verse of the song they sung, but cent luminosity was seen gradually increassoon recovered my self-possession sufficient- ing its intensity, until it was quite light .ly to note well, and retain all the others. My position was diagonal to the veil itself, It seemed that three voices only sang the which now was restored to its former place, burden, but the refrain and chorus were and directly in front of me I saw clear as swelled by apparently a hundred at least. the noon-day, what I at first took to be a very large and finely executed painting .-The figures on it were as large as life, and having alway: felt a fondness for art, I, totally oblivious for the moment of all I had seen just before, imagined that it really was a picture, and inwardly thanked the old conjurer, who still sat by my side, for his kindness in giving me so pleasant a surprise, for in my innocence, I did not for a moment suspect that this was not a real painting, and that he had, while my eyes were closed, arranged it for my inspection and gratification. If all this should seem strange and unnatural, you must bear in mind that I resembled other women in scarcely any particular whatever, save sex and age, my mind being entirely different.

> illusion; for on looking more attentively, the objects on the apparent canvass were seen to change positions as in a diorama .-Before me rolled a large and magnificent river, between richly decked flowery banks. As it smoothly glided onward, there rose from its bosom a soft and dream inviting haziness, which, together with the peculiarities of the vegetation upon its sides, indicated that the scene before me was a tropical one. In the rear fore-ground stood a large and stately Palm tree, beneath which, luxuriating amidst a heap of flowers, which it had gathered, lay a child, the exact image of the one now asleep on that bed; although the fact never struck me till tonight. The scene was so natural, the child so beautiful, that I found it utterly impossible to realize the whole to be a phantom.

"I was very speedily awakened from my

"The babe exactly corresponded to my highest ideal of infantine perfection. There was nothing lacking; the realization was complete! I was carried away with admiration, and instantly forgot where I was, or what doing; and instinctively and involuntarily stretched forth my hands toward the darling image. As I did so there came a loud laugh as of a dozen rude voices, which had the effect of recalling my recollection.

"Before me the scene was one of open day; and after the strange noise had aroused me, I remembered the hour was that of nothing but a phantasmagoria, conjured up by the weird one at my side.

"Do I sleep? am I sensible? or in that trance called mesmeric? No! It cannot be; and yet it appears so. I know there really was no river, trees, or child before me; and yet I saw them plainly all, yet realized that above and all around me was the heaven and the walls of the old ruin ;knew I had my proper senses, for I felt the cold damp air fan my fevered cheeks, because I was excited by what my eyes beheld. I even felt a sort of defiant spirit pervade, and nerve my frame. The wizard did not cause me much uneasiness himself, but I felt a sort of lear lest the mystery should never be cleared up satisfactorily, and an apprehension, and presentiment that something hung upon the balance of fate which would ere long fall, and which was to affect me for weal or woo. I trusted the former but feared the last.

"The babe was all alone, and lay basking under the shades of the tail tree, full of life and animation. Ever and anon he plucked the flowers at his side, and tore them to pieces as soon as culled, just as children of a larger growth are wont to do; -who see an object of beauty,-run mad and wild after it, -sacrifice anything for its possession - obtain it and-then destroy it for ever and ever :- out upon ye, things ground of the earthquake, and the haunt of miscalled men, I blush for ye, indeed I do! every unclean and detestable thing.

*Pronounced Scolom Bohee, Pehlavan for deep sleep, that which we are told fell on Adam when God took out his rib. It is a doctrine of the Moscicrucians that whoever sleeps it can see in it all the events of 500 coming ages, as well as 300 of the past.—Editor.

The golden locks of the babe streamed down its face of loveliness like hairs of unshapely mass of volcanic scorize, and the sunshine on a garden of choice roses; ren-dering the beauty far more lovely still. Not-intently fixed upon a youth who, like the withstanding I felt it was but a shadow image of despondency, sat alone upon its which lay before me. I could not resist the in- summit. Although sadly altered in aspect, stinction to stretch my arms and invite it to yet the features of this youth bore and unthem. As I was on the point of speaking mistakable resemblance to the child—the to it, the old man, who keenly watched boy—the darling of my former visions. every movement on my part, made an im- A strong desire to be assured whether I will pass away and forever be unread."

ma! Love me, mamma!" As it spake, it they had left deep-traced lines of grief and and blood, if ever flesh and blood existed! the flickering fires of ambition, dimmed, ed with its lavished kisses. But on this occasion

"'Mong its darkly waving branches, murmured voices tree:
"Its darkly waving banner, was all that I could see.

mo. My heart was well nigh bursting; and ly the monster followed his dreadful bent. a flood of tears, came to my relief.

The scene once more grew dark, and then eye, I repeat, he also saw his foe, A child were there. As soon as I had recog- whispered in my ear, 'This is Fate!' nized him the darkness hid him from me, more, but this time greatly change i.

almost withering.

"I saw a hideous monster-a horrible upon which not a vestige of vegetation was to be seen; not a shrub, nor blade of grass, not a single green thing. But scattered here and there were the trunks of gigantic trees, dead, blasted, and petrified, while his back upon that thrice accursed spot, and left it drear and desolate as the play-· Metcalf.

patient gesture, and thus bade me desist .- was right in my conjecture concerning his Then hastily pencilling a few lines on an identy, was evidently perceived in my ivory tablet he reached it to me. By the mind by the old man, although unexpressed light from the veil I read these words, by words, for with a sigh he waved his Stir not; speak not; or the scroll of fate hand and bowed his head in token of conwill pass away and forever be unread." firmation. The poor youth looked sad dejected, weather-beaton and like one, and as quickly resolved that, let the temp-tation to disobey the caution be never so stormy one. The marks of high and viggreat it should be resisted, come what orous intellect were stamped upon his would. As soon as I returned the tablet broad and lofty forehead, and a noble phithe little seraph deliberately rose from lanthropic, but all too trusting spirit hal where it lay, and appearing to quit the can written itself in characters unmistakeable vass it approached me. My heart beat quickly; my blood was on fire; I saw its tiny lips move, and, great God! I heard it tempestuous waves of social life had been speak these words. "Mamma! dear mamble to obliterate or wash away; albeit attempted to throw itself into my willing care and soul-sorrow, as they passed over arms, and -- succeeded! I clasped it pas- him, in their onward rushing course. In sionately to my heart! the child was flesh his eye, black as mid-night, was to be seen It was a living boy; and his little arms yet smouldering still, and burning with its clasped my neck, while my lips were cover- own intenseness. The skilled in psychography might have read therein the sad, "For an instant the rapture was so great but oft repeated story of blasted expectathat I did not offer to return his embraces tions; hopes never to be realized; a piraand endearments; and when, at the end of tions noble, manly, godike, checked by the first surprise, I bent forward to embrace the twin friends Poverty and Circumstance, the precious dear, a wild unearthly shrick and an experience of sadness, bitterness e-caped the lips of the old wizard. I start- and woe. His torn and travel-stained gared and turned round to ascertain the cause, ments, emaciated and hungry look, weary and beheld his face blanched with a patlor aspect and dejection of soul, all betokened absolutely ghastly; his lips were like white that the stern hand of misfortune had long marble; his eyes rolled most fearfully; he rested upon him; that it had crushed the tremoled as if struck with death; while his sleeping lion but had not yet quite killed teeth chattered as if his soul were in its last it; for the occasional fiery glance that shot agony. I looked on him a moment, and forth as the thought of what he might have then turned toward the child, which had been passed across the broad waste of his unclasped its arms from my neck at the in- soul, the firm set mouth, the compressed stant of the shriek. But the beautiful boy lips, the tone of Selfitivity -if I may was gone; not a trace of him remained .- coin an expressive word-was there, so The entire scene had vanished utterly, and distinct and clear, that it required no secanother widely different one filled its place. ond observation to convince me of two things; first, that there slept within his bosom a vast volcano of pent up fire, Twas a cold and stormy evening, Moonlight fell in silver which needed but a vent to cause it to leap Airy voices, sad were grieving, in the music haunted forth with resistless energy and power; and pines.
Pale a mother watched her dearest, wept she o'er her darling boy:
"O! mother, mother hearest thou these distant sounds of joy?"

secondly, that it needed no second look to decide that that fire would spontaneously light the road to Truth's great victory, against the combined forces of Bigotry and "Oh! hush thee, hush thy sobbing; lean thy head upon my breast!"
"Mother, how thy heart's low throbbing, seems to whisper me to rest.
"As I slept upon my pillow, I saw before me stand, "A broad and waving willow, leaning o'er a silent land.

"A broad and waving willow, leaning o'er a silent land." frame, frail and weak for want of exersise in its proper and heaven-intended fieldsweet and clear, "Like an organ, when it launches silver music on the that exhausted body, all were so many "On that verdant wide savannah there stood no other gyves and chains which served to imprison a soul. Ah, god! What a soul!

"Like the child in the first vision, if such "As I gazed upon its brightness, forth a tovely creature flew.

"She was clad in snow-bright whiteness, as she caught my tarded view.—

"Too my hand in her cold fingers, leaned my brow upon her heart.—

"Oh!—like ice her cold touch lingers, will it never more depart?

"This the child in the first vision, if such it may be called, this youth was also conscious of my presence, and the very instant that his glance rested upon me, he became aware of the approach of the deadly monster, which had never for a moment lost sight of the hour required the child in the first vision, if such it may be called, this youth was also conscious of my presence, and the very instant that his glance rested upon me, he became aware of the approach of the deadly monster, which had never for a moment lost "See! the willow now is swinging! Now its music cometh many rocky boulders, declivities, and "Now grows faint; now sweetly singing, falls upon my istening ear!"

Bowed the mother in deep sorrow; fell her tears like April rain, Sadly drooped she on the morrow, for the child ne'er spoke again. * * * * * Deep silence followed his eyes seemed to dart infernal shafts of dark midnight; while the spectacle was this mournful scene. Slowly the figures fire, and his accursed folds appeared to and the scene grew dim and faded before throb and swell with triumph. Unceasing-"Af the moment that I caught the lad's by slow degrees waxed lighter. As it did strange result ensued, for no sooner had he so, I observed the first scene reproduced. fairly seen it, than all his strength seemed The same river, flowers, trees and laughing to fail him on the instant. The old man

"The youth was unarmed, no way of esand when he had entirely disappeared it cape was there. He stretched out his grew light, and again I saw him once arms imploringly toward me for relief .-"He was now apparently five years old-chilly through my veins. I also rose, and extended my arms towards him, while with "Again it became dark, and when next a soul of sympathy I met his gaze. The the form appeared it was greatly expanded serpent drew nigher and still more nigh .and ten more years apparently were added Another moment, and-and-great and to his life. Once more the phantoscope merciful Heaven! it was too horrible; the revolved, and my eyes fell upon a spectacle slimy monster had seized the youth in his terrible coil. He wound his folds around the victim, contracted them, and I saw the serpent, slowly writhing his slimy coils red torrent gush from his lips, his eyes, his over a widely extended and arid plain, mouth; I heard him cry in his agony, 'Save me! save me mother! or I am forever lost!' I leaped forward; a sudden ight darted like wild-fice across my brain. I felt-I knew, that struggling boy was bone of my bone, and flesh of my flesh .large masses of rock, and innumerable It was my son who struggled in that scene deep chasms and clefts, varied the dismal monotony, and told that God had turned fire; liquid lava ran through my veins .-I leaped toward him, resolved to save, or die with my suffering boy. But scarcely had I moved an inch, when the same unearthly, deathly shrick from the old man

rung shrilly out, like a death knell, upon the the one, and a happy departure from earth | it helped man forward in a single instance, sonally exhibited more charity for the erring

"Sound the clarion; blow the trump; let all the hosts of Aidenn hear!' spake the silver voice. And the swift-winged winds bore the mandate far and wide; and all the courts of Aidenn, and all the Dome of nether Space, and all the vast ethereal vaults rang with the sound thereof. And now, lo! from all quarters gathered a mighty host. The good were there, and the brows of the shadowy legions might have been seen intermingled with the bright faces and glowing forms of the bands of Ooromallah and Vemolia; and as before, so now again, anxiety sat unon as before, so now again, anxiety sat upon facing both multitudes, spake, saying, 'We every countenance. And thus they stood around the flaming altar—throne of Alcyone. "And again that wondrous voice of melodious thunder was heard. But the words only commanded silence. " the sleep of Sialam Booghi. Second, to secure the blending of the Neutrals, and the sleep of the contest and the gag, and thus set forth the issues for which we intend to triumphantly stuggle. First, to prevent the sleep of Sialam Booghi. Second, to secure the blending of the Neutrals, and the sleep of the sleep words only commanded shence.

* * Two stately and majestic beings thus re-establish the succession of our stood aloof from the rest, near the center of the circle, before the throne of the Secret One, who dwelt within the heart of the great orb, whence only he came forth to dictate laws to the myriads who acknowl- victoriously achieved. In addition, it is edged his imperial sway. On the right a mighty army stretched its lines—the leMan that what is falsely called Evil, is in gions of the Light—while to the left the fact his only good and truest hope for the seen. The two central figures were their wholesale slaughter his best occupation, respective leaders. And when, obeying and disease and early death his best school; the mandate of the voice from the throne, all was hushed into serve repose and silence, two beings, one a male figure, with the Temple of Happiness. Let the race a large book in his hand, and the other a fight on, and die, and suffer. It will be female form, of more than celestial grace and loveliness—both delegates from a power superior to aught within this universe, er superior to aught within the moneyth be thenceforth cast into the state, whence ye may not escape till untold cycles shall away. Listen and obey.' He ceased, and the female came forth and said, 'Behold I give ye each a weapon. This to the Light —Feeling. This to the Shadow—Thought.

The one is Love, the other Intellect, alike

Ge forth: ye are the path we indicate, proclaim ng all the while what excellent doctrines yours are. You teach that evil perpetuates; we that it destroys used. War and its exigencies ed winds, and almost instantly were out of

of the Mighty One was uplifted, saying to the assembled hosts, 'Ye have heard the mandate of that August Potency, beneath whose sway ourself and all beneath us secondly, the belligerents, after slaying to a superior, set in the first place; and secondly, the belligerents, after slaying reverently bow. Ye are the Shadow and the Light, about to engage in a fierce and thought and reflection, which they improve important conflict, the former, for a successor to a throne of Power, the latter for subject of the Sacred Slumber. If the latter prevail, the doors of a new Temple, latter prevail, the doors of a new Temple, be suicidal policy; arbitration will replace stored with wondrous knowledge, both for mortals and those who never die, will be opened through the instrumentality of the Neutral mortal who shall sleep the strange eventful sixmoer. If the Shadow pre- will be saper-eded by the principle of convails, then that Power becomes possessed servation, an amicable rivalry will take its of an heir to its strange and marvelous glories, and a new order of things thenceforth will be initiated on the earth.'

4 4 4 4 "The voice ceased, and straightway he few billions of lives, we gain an end in a who appeared to be the leader of the army dozen centuries, which you, with all your of the Light, stood forth, and facing both peace-preaching could not attain by the hosts spake as follows: know; all that is permitted is the Knowledge of Being and Deity. We of the Light feel the first, and know the other; and first, of the last it is mine to tell you blood, and rendered more hearts and homes that in this present affair it is ours to sur- and hearths desolate, and has brought round the living Neutrals with such influences that the sleep will be spontaneous in the universe. Deny it who can. Nor has rung shrilly out, like a death knell, upon the midnight air. For an instant it arrested my steps, but in the next a sea of blood floated before my eyes, my brain reeled, and madly waving my arms, I fell senseless on the turf."

CHAPTER XII.

THE OTHER SIDE OE TIME—THE CONGRESS.

"Hearts! breaking hearts! Who speaks of breaking the one, and a happy departure from earth the lot of the other. Failing to achieve which our next duty is, if possible, to prevent the Neutrals from meeting, under the auspices of the Shadow. Another great task lies before us, which is, to go down to yonder peaceful looking, but discordant earth and instruct the race of mortals thereon in the rules of Goodness, as we understand them. We must restore them to our ideal of what they should be, and what they would have been but for the two suc-Hearts! breaking hearts! Who speaks of breaking they would have been but for the two suchearts.—King of the Commons. Bright clouds come up like sinful visions to distract the soul of solitary men. —Anon.

"Sound the clarion: blow the trump." courage those of warfare, for they alone can make him what he ought to be. We must effect a revolution in all his feelings, sentiments and motives. Shall we not strive bravely for the victory, O! ye Pow-than we, ourself shall proceed to a different sphere of action, and to the development of a greater destiny than that already so dense columns of the Shadow might be future—and that warfare, bloodshed, and er superior to aught within this universe, and far—far more potent than the monarch of Alcyone, came forth and stood before the veiled throne. The one with the book opened it and read therefrom these words: It is written that all beings shall be brought through great tribulations to perfect peace at last. Thou art about to contend for power. It is permitted. But look ye well to it that ye strive justly; power against power, force against force; and let the victory incline to that side toward which man uninfluenced by his physical organization, climate, education, faith and outer excumstances shall turn. Eternal Justice so ordains it; and thus hath it been written in the Book. No undue force shall ye bring to bear; no undue advantage shall ye take, of man or one another.

""Hear ye! listen ye and obey! for thus hath it been written ye shall do, or the Light are, in fict, man's greatest foce, because your policy is a selfish one. You powerful but diverse. Go forth; ye are its density. You preach peace; we counequal.'

"Thus saying, she took from her girdle the path we indicate, proclaiming all the sets and keeps man's faculties in exercise Man invents destructive weapons a: d with "Once more the deep melodious voice of destruction. What is the consequence? them sweeps the earth as with the besom place, and bloodshed and carnage be known no more forever. . You call us cruel; but are we really such? when by fo-tering the spirit of contention, and the sacrifice of a sacrifice of myriads in a decade of E ernibut hath retarded him greatly, and planted than Mr. Newton. I have not read the man, bitter-fruit bearing vines in the soil of the in the entire Spiritualist's ranks, who, to my whole human heart. We go to earth to mind, manifested a deeper charity, or a more open man's eyes, not in your goods of faith, and religion, and the so-called virtues, but to the excellencies of knowledge. You have told man that his salvation from all evil depends upon certain beliefs in one who was executed by certain conservatives, osophy to sometimes tell men that they are and in a peculiar combination of black wrong-sinners-to be blamed,-and it may characters on white paper, which we deny. You have made man believe a fabulous is not always tru hful, or true philosophy, to account of his origin, and have hidden the true one from him. You have never told him the true nature of his mind, nor of his true destiny. You have told him that but a few thousand years have elapsed since he came upon earth, which you know to be untrue. You have told him that ignorance is his, and that 'tis folly to be wise above what is written. All this we intend to undo; our words are not empty; we intend to fight you on these issues, as well as that of the Neutralmen.'

"He ceased, and the voice from the throne said,

"Go to earth, let one of each party be the constant attendent of the coming

Correspondence.

NEWTON AND CHILD.

Норкитом, Jan., 3d, 1860.

or truths; as such I use their names. As a readily. Some persons went and fetched dry practical fact, men have not yet grown to be fagots, while his piercing shrieks rent the air, perfect Gods-we think, are not just like God exclaiming finally, "Jesus, thou Son of the Mr. Newton speaks to them as they ARE, -as eternal God, have mercy upon me! he passery man's consciousness testifies to be true of fairer tribunal." the Present and the Past. God-(I amtaking it for granted that there is an intelligent Cause whatsoever class or rank they may hold, when of all things-or of the forms of all things, as they denounce with the vile barbed tongue of I believe it, and write to those who do. I slander all those who believe in, or counteam Infinitarian.) God-Gods-or this cause to man, of God's goodness, love, laws, requiredesigned and formed more with this con- ments, and his doings for and with them here, growth. It is truth-is a fact. Men do break higher calling, and can find no place (in their ing-real suffering -suffering in itself is an of "the weak and foolish" from the Christian evil. That is, suffering is suffering. Sophistry can not make anything else of it. Men and and had they the temporal power that old Calthe nature of the cat and bird. The mouse Answer ye who will? and worm suffer. I do not worship a God who It is needless, perhaps, to rehearse any such fault of my parents, (that Jesus was mistaken fully known and excused—does it not? in his philosophy,) I can never for a moment hold any other being except God responsible to me for its occurrence. Anything short of this would so far make me a practical Atheist. I say then to man, sin and evil, and evil without sin, is actual—is real—is the highest truth and the lowest truth. So much for the Newton side of the proposition.

Dr. Child tells us how he thinks GoD sees The Duke found that one of his tenants, a not quite; all men agree with me, has generally been admitted to be above reason, but not contrary to reason. It was always contrato meet him, as he rode up to the house, "I tence, and the manner of it.

opposite views. I know of many who ease their consciences in sin—in injustice to others Of course, there was no saying nay—the Men are often unjust.

to convey the impression that Dr. Child per- duke on his next visit said-

WHAT'S THE DIFFERENCE.

There was in the days of Calvin's jurisdiction over Geneva one Servetus, who differed somewhat from him in his religious tenets .-He came as-a mere traveler to Geneva, and intended to "tarry but a day." He had already engaged a boat to take him across the lake on child, and let the victory abide with him his way to Zurich; but, as some would say, who shall best his duty do. Away! the council is ended. Away!" into the church," where Calvin was preaching. Some one recognized him and informed Calvin. He was seized, tried for heresy, convicted, and suffered a most cruel death, which unrelenting history says was on this wise:

"The wretched man was fastened to a stake and surrounded by heaps of oak wood and leaves, These two men are fair representatives of with his condemned book attached to his girtwo different views of most important truth- | dle. The wood was green and did not burn present man should see things,-as I think ev- ed from the bourne of earth to a higher and Now, then, when clergymen, laymen or think I am not a Unitarian, or Trinitarian, but nance, a continual dispensation and revelation sciousness in his present state and present and their sphere after "passing away" to a a law when they know better. All men have whole vocabulary) not even the lowest hellprobably done this. And so bring on suffer- that is not too good for them, such vile seducer beasts also suffer without any fault of theirs. ivn had only a little over three aundred years (Jesus said such suffering was for "the Glorv ago, what would be the difference in poor Serof God.") When the cat eats the mouse-the vetus' fate and those of the present day, as bird eats the worm, it is in strict harmony with now denounced, because they are Spiritualists?

requires me to ignore any fact in His universe. atrocious crimes as this, but excuse and regret I was born very lame in one foot, and have it as we may, yet when we see and feel the lasuffered much from it. Even suppose this was mentable effects handed down to us by the the fault of my parents, (I can prove that there supporters of the same, and nearly the same is no evidence that it was—as there is a multitude of ways in which it might have come in cy to act over and over the spirit of the letter the clashings of Nature without their fault, or upon others, it seems rather tame to ascribe it the fault of more.) I say, suppose it was a all to be an error of those days, which is now

ELM TREE FARM, AVON, Me.

THE GOLDEN RULE EXEMPLI-FIED.

Mr. Howitt gives the following interesting anecdote of the Dake of Portland :

and I oks at all of this. My reason tells me small farmer was falling into arrears for rent. must be right about it. To The steward wished to know what was to be you will want drink the next day. If it suppose that GoD sees real evil in the Universe, done. The duke rode to the farm, saw that it is, to my reason, so far Atheism, I never could was rapidly deteriorating, and the man, who see it in any other light. The existence of sin wss really an experienced and industrious and of evil in the world, in the sense of which farmer, totally unable to manage it through he affirms it to exist, and in which, nearly, if poverty. In fact, all that was on the farm ry to my reason. I cannot reconcile to my want to look over the farm a little." As they reason, what I know to exist, with the idea went along, "Really," said he, "Everything is which I, and nearly all men have been com- in a bad case. This won't do. I see you are pelled to believe of an intelligent Cause .- quite under it. All your stock and crops won't This is true if I look only at the animal exis- pay the rent in arrear. I will tell you what I must do. I must take the farm into my own As to the practical effect of these seemingly hands. You shall look after it for me, and I sometimes their own families,-under the in- poor man bowed assent. Presently there fluence of Dr. Child's views. (I do not state came a reinforcement of stock, then loads of this as neccessarily against his view, or the manure, at the proper time seed, and wood use he mukes of it.) Others need to read the from the plantations for repairing gates and Doctor, perhaps, to enlarge their spirit of char- buildings. The duke rode over frequently .ity to evil-doers. The Dr. prophesics-and if The man exerted himself, and seemed really men can ever become gods, Newton and I may quite relieved from a load of care by the be with him. To-day I am more often inspired change. Crops and stock flourished, fences to preach of wrong, and personal injuries .- and out-building were put in order. In two or three rent days it was seen by the steward's | what will never be, our load will be as in-I have understood some writer in the AGE books that the farm was paying its way. The "Well, John, I think the farm does very well now. We will change again. You shall be tenant again, and as have now your head fairly above water, I hope you will be able to keep it there."

The duke then rode off at his usual rapid rate. The man stood in astonishment; but a happy fellow he was, when on applying to the steward, he found that he was actually reentered as tenant to the farm, just as it stood in its restored condition. I will venture to say, however, that the duke was the happier man of the two.

A MONSTER AIR-FISH.

A new apparatus is just now being exhibited at the Palais de l'Industrie, Paris, by M. Vert, one of the aspirants to the honor of solving the problem of ærial navigation. It consists of a large bag of goldbeater's skin, in the form of a fish, containing the hydrogen gas commonly used for filling balloons; it is hooped with iron, and carries a small boat fitted with various contrivances for propulsion; the tail of the fish serves as a rudder; the whole machine is seven metres in length, and is in the aggregate heavier than atmospheric air; so that, when left to itself, it slowly descends. In the car or boat there is a small steam engine, of a power equal to that of a man; it serves for the purpose of driving the propellers fore and aft, constructed on the screw principle; there are besides four rotary planes, which may be so adjusted as to make the apparatus rise or descend according to an inclined plane. It must be remarked that the model before us is not large enough to bear the weight of a man, and that the exhibitor consequently remains on terra firma, keeping his machine secured by a rope; but he by no means guides the machine, for the rope remains generally slack, and is only held in the hand in order to haul the apparatus down when it is necessary to arrange something in the gear. The remarkable fact which this invention at once decides is this: that air may be managed like water by means of paddle or screw; for to the surprise of the intelligent beholder, this machine, which, as before stated, is heavier than the atmosphere, rises of itself as soon as the propellers are in motion. Hence it differs materially from the common bailoon, which derives its ascensional power exclusively from the difference of specific gravity existing between hydrogen and atmospheric air. The machine also obeys the rudder just as if the latter acted in the water. To sum up, this apparatus is a decided step in advance in so far as the possibility of directing a ship in the air is concerned. Whether the conditions would be the same on a large scale, however, still remains doubtful. -[Galignani.

ANTICIPATING EVILS .- Enjoy the present whatever it may be, and be not solicitous for the future; for if you take your foot from the present standing, and thrust it forward towards to-morrow's event, you are in a restless condition. It is like refusing to quench your present thirst by fearing be well to-day, it is madness to make the present miserable by fearing that it may be ill to-morrow-when you are full of to-day's dinner, to fear that you shall want the next day's supper; for it may be you shall not, and then to what purpose was this day's afflictions? But if to-morrow you shall want, your sorrow will come time enough, though you do not hasten it: let your trouble tarry till its day comes. But if it chance to be ill to-day, do not increase it by the cares of to-morrow. Enjoy the blessings of this day, if God sends them, and the evils bear patiently and sweetly; for this day is only ours-we are dead to the morrow. He, therefore, is wise who enjoys as much as possible; and if only that day's trouble leans upon him it is singular and finite. "Sufficient to the day (said Christ) is the evil thereof;" sufficient, but not intolerable. But if we look abroad, and bring into one day's thoughts the evils of many, certain and uncertain, what will be and tolerable as it is unreasonable.-[Jeremy

The Spiritual Age.

Progress is the Common Law of the Universe.

E. NEWTON EDITORIAL CONTRIBUTOR.

Principal Office-No. 14 Bromfield Street, (up stairs, Boston, Mass. New York Office -At Ross & Tousey's, No. 121

Nassau Street. Chicago Office-No. 81 Dearborn Street, opposite the Post Office. MCNALLY & CO., AGENTS.

SATURDAY JAN. 28, 1860.

A STIR AMONG THE CRITICS.

Mr. Owen's book, Footfalls on the Boundaries of Another World, has started the critics anew on the tracks of Spiritualism, but we do not see that they have now any truer scent of the game they would hunt down than they had at the start .-They are completely nonplussed in this matter of Spiritualism, though they have not the candor and honest grace to acknowledge it. They still keep up their flippant, silly and wise-acre witticisms, at its expense, because, probably, they have no other way of delivering themselves of the stuff that would otherwise oppress their crowded(!) brains. But still, it is quite amusing to see how they try to screen the poverty of their knowledge of the matter they presume to judge. In all this, they palpably betray their conscious' ignorance; but still, "appearances must be kept up." They have been forced, much, apparently, against their wills, to admit the existence of mysterious phenomena, but they are unaccountably unwilling to concur in the Spiritualistic sofution of them. Anything else but thatno matter how absurd-how marveloushow unnatural any other explanation may be, they prefer it to the only rational one. We can hardly account for it, but men seem to hate the truth-especially if it do not condescendingly accommodate itself to their rather obtuse and mechanical understandings. Because their dull mental optics cannot discern the moving springs of these marvels, the next best thing they can do is to get up a little of very stale merriment concerning it.

There is another class of perhaps a grain more candid deniers of Spiritualism. They put on patronizing airs, and are willing to say there is something in it. They are a semi-philosophic set of individuals, and learnedly refer the phenomena to, or identify them with, somnambulism, mesmerism, "hypnotism," etc. Well, what do they know even about these things? Nothing, we verily think.

Then they have a good deal to say about the "occult forces, and powers of the human soul," which, unknown to consciousness, play sweetly and skillfully on musical instruments, (without the use of tangible fingers) lift heavily laden tables to the ceilintelligent style; rap in all manner of outquestions; grasp people palpably by the hand; tip them out of chairs; write on paper well-expressed sentences in places where no hand of flesh could reach; and do a great many other things "too numerous to mention."

Now to believe that human beings have in their souls occult powers or forces, that can do all these most wonderful things without tangible instruments, and without toilling to do them, and without knowing that they do them, requires a street of credulity far greater than it does to believe that these things are the works of spirits who have "shuffled off this mortal con."--But the wise-acres, to demonstrate their independence, (we may add of all reason!) prefer the most difficult and blind solution of the two.

It is fashionable, too, for the critics to negate—it is so easy to do it. One can do this without the trouble of investigat. ing; and if it be done with a show of learning, and in accordance with the popular plane of knowledge, which we all should know is never critical, they are sure they can come off with the credit of being mighty knowing fellows! They have only to we feel, to work out much good to Europe, and narping symphonies," among the incorrigible dunces.

BREVITIES.

ORIGINAL AND SELECTED.

world of man seem to imply that it is a some of-passage-whose feathers will serve a tempojoyful good! Look at human society, and see graceful scrambling after what becomes a very questionable good from the manner and spirit is even with society as it would be with a company of ill-mannered and ignorant men who should sit down to a bountiful feast, abounding in all good things, and with ample time affordfore them with the ravenousness of dogs, bolt must grow." it without mastication, and perhaps choke themselves in the process! Society, either from igof God done on earth as it is in heaven. *

must have salt enough to keep it at least from ly believe. petrifying."

TRUTH FOR ITS OWN SAKE.

Why is it that the world does not have entirefaith in the truth for its own sake? What vice to that spoken of by the independent. A large is it of the will that prevents man from not -that it is for our highest good-to acquiesce tion, which,' as Dr. Arnold says, 'involves in fully in its decisiona? What perversity is it it a shock to existing notions, the greatest, that leads us to mix up with the sovereignty probably, that has ever been since the discovand fullness of truth, some miserable device of our own? "It is, and always has been, rare to find a man deeply impressed with the im- fears and clamors of the weak and bigoted, in ortance of truth, merely as truth." It does the higher exalting and more sure estabnot go down with us, until it receives some superaddition of our own, which is sure to neutralize its otherwise ennobling influence.

much faith in the purity of his motives, is yet, facts with a seven-fold chorus of hallelujahs provide themselves with a few technical He is unquestionably the child of Destiny, in phrases from the vocabularies of demonolo- more than the ordinary sense of the term. gy and mesmerism, put them forth with The ruling Divinity does work in, to us, "myssounding flippancy, and they will pass with the mob as great philosophers and unanswerable critics! But we may account all sense. He does, in very deed, "make the site; nor to be obtained by the invocation of of their twaddle as nothing, and have only wrath of man," or the bad conduct of man, "to to lament that those who assume to be judg- praise Him," and, in a strange circuitous manes of what is true and what is false, should ner, restrains, or renders abortive for evil, be so complacently and consciencelessly ig- what cannot be turned to divine account. So, we doubt not, He deals with Napoleon Bona-And again: These negators of Spiritual- parte. He is to make him the instrument of ism or Spiritism, if they prefer so to call it, still claim to be believers in the Bible and in the existence of spirits. They do and in the existence of spirits. They do poses than has heretofore occupied its attennot seem to be at all aware what a fatal as- tion. We do not think that God is to utterly sault they commit upon the authenticity of cast aside that great organization, the Papal the Bible when they so triflingly attempt Church, but is rather to make it more directly to deny the genuineness of modern spirit subservient to the great ends of celestial truth. manifestations. They seemingly do not care In what manner reform of that Church is to to see that the characters of the Bible and latter-day Spiritualism are identical. To admit the claims of the one, as a book more pure and manifest manner than grounded on Spiritualistic manifestations, it has ever yet done, or it must be restrained or and to oppose those of the other with a utterly abolished. We think it will be reformsupercilious and sneering negation, is a ed, and the first stage of this great work will monstrous hiatus in logic, which should be a total arrest of its temporal power. We subject the offenders to a perpetual seat may, however, be mistaken in our view of this NOTWITHSTANDING the great diversity there is in natural human character and personalities, there is yet in them the marked distinction of IS THE UNIVERSE A HUMBUG ?- or is any good and bad, beautiful and ugly. But to section of it a cheat and a lie? Is it not a prevent the envy, and the tormenting selfreal, genuine existence, or entity, having sol- disaffection which the ill favored might other emn, good, permanent, and blessed uses? We wise experience in contrasting themselves with ask these seemingly gratuitous questions, be- the more favored, every mortal of us is endowcause much of the language and practice of the ed with a complacent self-love which causes us to be entirely satisfied with our own identities; what hap-hazard affair-a sort of wild-goose- and we would not exchange them for another's, however much superior it might be to our rary end, and which must be plucked how and own. To be sure, we may not be altogether when they can! Men do not appear to pleased that the world should judge others to look at it as a stable, methodical, truthful, pur- be better, more beautiful, and more talented poseful, wisdom-devise I entity, wherein they than ourselves; but while we would often were designed to have an eternal, lawful, and gladly swap external conditions with our neighbors, we still would not consent to trade idenif it acts at all up to this last view of the universe! What hurry, what discord, what disthe bargain! How completely is "the wind" tempered to the shorn lamb" and how beautiin which it is acquired and appropriated! It rully all natural things are adjusted for our benefit, if we could but see them in that providential light.

"We are a part of the Past, as the blossom ed them to leisurely satisfy every want, but is the root. Life is not a theorem which can who should nevertheless seize the food be- be constructed; society is an organism which

IT SEEMS to be the impression among leadnorance of the true uses of the universe and ing theologians that there is to be some larger human life, or from want of faith in its integ- and comparatively sudden development, or rity, makes but a meager good out of all the advance among men, of the Kingdom of God, boundless material therefore furnished at its the present year,-or during a time not very hands by the creative bounty and loving kind- distant. Even the not very hopeful theoloness of the Lord. This world needs but an as- gians of the Independent, are moved by the sured, intelligent, and quieting FAITH to have, spirit of prophecy in relation to the soon comin accordance with the Lord's prayer, the will ing augmentation of the fold of the Good Shepherd. One of them says,-and probably he speaks for the rest,-"this opening year points "There is," says a writer in a recent number us to signs of portentous interest in their reof Blackwood, "something inexpressibly cheer- lation to the Kingdom of Christ. There are ing; set them to dancing in most expert and intelligent style; ran in all manner of out. of-the-way p aces; answer correctly ingenesty of trade, politics, and literature, which power and glory, or retard its manifestations iously propounded and sometimes difficult fills us with forebodings as to the future of for years, if not for generations." Who with our race; and yet, after giving utterance to a true faith can doubt that "the scale shall such gloomy forebodings, our faith in human integrity, and our hopes for human progress, are and which ever way it may incline, will be the revived, whenever we have direct experience direction best adapted to further His sublime of one cheering exception. Enlightened by and glorious purposes on earth. "Man prothat one example, we reflect that the world poses, but God disposes," let us most devout-

A writer in the last Westminister Review, thus closes a very able article on "Spiritual Freedom." Hé alludes to a crisis analogous Spiritual freedom to Christendom is doubtless. ery of the falsehood of the Pope's infallibility. Yet it must come, and end, in spite of the lishing of Christian truth."

MILTON ON THE APOCALYPSE.

"The Apocalypse of St. John is the majestic image of a high and stately tragedy, shutting Louis Napoleon, although we cannot have up and intermingling her solemn seen a and "It is not to be raised from the heat of youth they will "flourish green again." or the vapors of wine; like that which flows site; nor to be obtained by the invocation of dame Memory and her syren daughters; but by devout prayer to that eternal Spirit, who ings ever held in Boston are now weekly whom He pleases."

be broad. The very principle of them implies to come again—the best possible proof that something short of the whole. They are the there is to be found a supply for a great decovenants of limited and, in some sort, selfish mand-more light on Spiritual matters .interests. If they aimed at the largest possi- Last Sabbath young Hayden, the lad spokble culture of the whole, they would contain en of last week, lectured acceptably to a liberal provisions for all orders of mind, and full house in the forenoon. Some weeks invite rather than repel the honest skeptic-Sectarians have great fears of skeptics- and ago Mr. Randolph lectured to a large house in this they but show that they are skeptics in Bangor, on the Political future of Amerthemselves,-skeptics as to the all-conquering ica, and entered into an agreement with a power of truth. Now there is in pure truth an gentleman in Charlestown to speak on the all-competent self-defensive energy which her same subject in a hall there, under the indevotees may safely rely upon. They have fluence of the same spirit. Mr. R had to represent it truly; and this will be all that made arrangements to have the speeches it requires at the hands of those who stand reported and printed, but when the day all forms of falsehood with a noble, complacent. came it proved that the gentleman referred yet loving aspect of self-reliance, quite unlike to was afraid to announce the subjects, and the paltry, forbid ling, fearful, and sometimes as the lectures were intended for the outbristling attitude of sectarians. Sectarians side world, ten only Spiritualists were pres have, necessarily, narrow minds, however ex- ent, Mr. R. refused to give the proposed pert they may be in chopping logic. But it lectures under that gentleman's auspices, must be borne in mind that their logic is of but proposed to wait till he could give them the cat-stick sort, growing from the shallow on his own individual responsibility, and soils, and limited enclosures of their creeds.

-Fame with men, Being but ampler means to serve mankind, Should have small rest or pleasure in herself, But work as vassal to the larger love, That dwarfs the petty love of one to one."

The "Clarion," a paper devoted to Spiritual ism, and redited by Bro. U. Clark, is an excellent paper, and rolls through all the "region would go about five miles to hear old Hickround about" its place of publication, the sound ory thunder through the lips of this mediof a true Christian warfare. It is a clear- um, feeling confident that the bisiness sounding and efficient instrument of Spiritual would be attended to as it ought to be, and upon slander.

This world cannot explain its own difficulties without the assistance of another.

who hits upon truth with the loss of charity.

To Correspondents-Mrs. "M. R. W.,"- that! your verses are not suitable for our columns. The spirit who spoke through you, is not of that class who can successfully edify the public, especcially as a poet.

RELIGION.

"All may of thee partake; Nothing can be so mean, Which, with this tincture, for thy sake, Will not grow bright and clean.

This is the famous stone That turneth all to gold, For that which God doth touch and own, Cannot for less be told."

SECTARIAN NARROWNESS.

dead and can not, therefore, longer bear is doing. the fruits of righteousness. But thanks be to God, Spiritualism, armed with a free, mighty, and immortal force, has already

The following is also his view of true poetic them, and it is hoped, if every germ of life is not utterly extinct within them, that

SUNDAY MEETING IN BROM-FIELD HALL.

Beyond all cavil the best Spiritual meetcan enrich with all utterance and knowledge, occurring in the Hall attached to the office and send out His scraphim with the hallowed of this paper, under the wise an l admirafire of His altar, to touch and purify the lips of ble management of Mr. Pecallis Clark, who seems to be specially adapted to the work. Every meeting is full, somet mes densely The trouble with creeds is that they cannot crowded, and all who once attend are sure face the music alone. He did well. If the medium was willing to be controlled to speak on such a subject, why should any one else be afraid to accord him a fair hearing? For ourselves we are not afraid to listen to any spirit on any subject, and that Mr. R. obeyed his highest instincts of right and fair play in deferring the lectures, we are firmly convinced For ourselves we we apprise our readers when the arrange-THE greatest gluttons are those who feed ments for these lectures are made and the tine announced, that if they would not miss a great treat not to stay away. Beyond all question when the lectures are giv-That man will one day find it but poor gain en in Boston, as they soon will be, thousands will go-there's no mistake about It is said to be an ill wind that blows no good to anybody, and so it proved last Sunday; for, being dissappointed, Mr. R. and a troop of his friends adjourned to Bromfield Hall, where a large audience had already assembled to listen to promiscuous trance speaking. As soon as he entered, a call was unanimously made for a speech, and he complied, and chose for his text "The Heaven, Earth and Hell of Human Experience." What everybody says may not be true, but is certainly worthy of attention, and in this case "Everybody" said that no speech ever made in that Hall could begin to compare in depth. force, pathos, We believe all religious sects claim to human eloquence and common sense, with be the receivers and defenders of Trutn. the one delivered during two hours by Mr. The trouble with these communions is, Randolph. Certainly nobody was displeasthey start with the assumption that their ed; certainly everybody was surprised .view of truth is complete! Truth in their | And yet, notwithstanding that the praises keeping is not allowed to grow. It is so justly lavished on the speaker would be walled in by impassable creeds, and is no very apt to turn the heads of most aspirmore, with the sectarians, an open ques. ants to distinctions, yet it falls like rain, on tion. They fix upon a species of logic, and off Mr. R. He seems intent, not to agreeing with their contracted premises, gain fame but to do his duty while here on with which they defend their limited pos- earth. This spirit of humility is drawing sessions with a stubborn and bigoted zeal thousands of hearts toward him, and we which is born of the poverty of their so- augur success in all that is really valuable called faith. If the formal views enter- or worth having to and for this elequent tained by these sectarians ever had it apostle of the gospel of to-day. "I had them the vival blood of truth, it has become rather be right than be President," said stagnant, if not putrefied, by reason of Henry Clay. "I had rather be the servant being isolated from the great aorta of truth. of God, than the wielder of a kingly scep-Not being permitted, by their selfish hold- tre," says Randolph. He is right. Heavers, to receive fresh and continual accessions | en is on his side, Truth aids him, and all from the great life-fountain, the heart of well meaning people can but wish him Godverity, these former limbs of truth become speed in the great and glorious work he now

Troy Lung Institute.

The cautious portion of readers of newspamade breaches through the walls of these per advertisements, doubtless, generally look petty, dead enclosures, and the waters of upon the Medical portion as quackery, or as a the "River of Life" are flooding into money making speculation. We beg to assure our readers that such is not the case with | feeling that her prayer would be answeredthe Troy Lung and Hygienic Institute. We and it was, in a manner so thrilling that no are assured by the Editor of the "Watervliet room for doubt was left. This lady was a Democrat," who has visited the Institution, Spiritualist, yet like thousands of others, felt that DR. STONE, the attending physician, is a a doubt most harrowing and painful, that perman of great experience in general practice, haps after all she was deceived, and that the which he brings successfully to his aid in now manifestations she had theretofore beheld, treating, as a speciality, a class of extensive might be accounted for, and explained away on maladies, known as nervous debility, leading some other ground than the spiritual. We to premature decay in the young. His adver- now proceed to describe what occurred: tisement in this paper should be read by everyvictim, and they should lose no time in consulting such an able physician for this deplorable

Youth," recently published by him, should be resembling death, as to strike a thrill of absoobtained and read by every youth in the land. lute horror to the hearts of the hundred pertisement in another column.)

Young.

of calling the attention of our readers, espec- suddenly she stretched forth her hands, and ially the youthful portion of them, to the recognized Mrs. Wait, the lady above referred merits of the above work, for we know of no to. The recognition was instant and mutual, book that is better calculated to do good both and for awhile the intense joy and emotion of in a moral and physical point of view, than the mother, at thus hearing her prayer granted this little work, written by DR. STONE, the dis- was touching to the last degree. Her daughtinguished physician to the TROY LUNG AND ter presented unmistakable evidence of her HYGIENIC INSTITUTE. The work treats in a identity. And as these affecting scenes were masterly manner, in chaste yet thrilling lan- transpiring, not a heart present but throbbed guage, on the many, though hidden causes for with a new-found joy, for in this suprencely the early decline of our American youth .- | convincing manifestation of the splendid truth While we advise every youth, both male and of immortality, all shared alike the joy and female to obtain a copy, we also advise every gladness of the hitherto bereaved mother; and not a man or woman left the Hall that night means of saving many a fond parent from but felt another weight of doubt removed from burning, choking regrets, which often come their souls, and felt that they had a new hold but too late, when they witness the sable pall on life and immortality which could never be cast so prematurely over the wreck of body, lost again. The mother then exhibited the and the blight of the fairest and most promising intellects in a beloved son or daughter .-[Lansingburg Gazette. (See advertisement in Mrs. Waitt and Mrs. Danforth were till the

MEDIUM M'ETING AT BROM-FIELD HALL.

The third of these interesting re-unions took place on Friday evening last, and was attended by a goodly company of Mediums. These meetings have been instituted for the purpose of perfecting the material conditions of those who are susceptible to extra-mundane influences, and the result last session was such as not only to strengthen the faith of those engaged, but also to eneourage all in the hope of good. better things yet to come. During the first part of the evening little was done beside Assumed Fall of Man," will appear soon. singing, but at about 8 o'clock Mr. Randolph dropped in, and had scarcely taken his seat in the circle before he was influenced by the spirit of Martin Luther, and for about ten minutes poured forth a stream of eloquence that fairly thrilled the hearts of the entire audience, so electric, so powerful, so commonsensical, cheering and consolatory was it .another medium-Mr. Lincoln of Boston was reporters are at his elbow whenever he influenced, and made a spirit-stirring speech, opens his mouth, and the general press deprecating the backwardness, coyness, and teems with his Quixotic performances in general unwillingness on the part of mediums religion and politics. He is, indeed, a proto yield to the control of spirits. He then lifte genius. He is everwwhere at home.most eloquently portrayed the benefits to accrue to every body who took hearty interest in He can court the flatteries of popular autrue and holy-minded mediums. After this a New Haven orthofoxy itself, gentleman was controlled to speak in some foreign language, probably to demonstrate that the spirits c uld control a willing medium to speak in any human tonguo. This exhibition was deeply instructive and interesting .-Subsequently Dr. N. O. Lewis was controlled leaps (and they are many) he alights by a spirit to personate a cork-legged man, squarely upon his feet, to the great delight which was done perfectly; after which the of his crowded houses, reinvigorated by company was favored with some very appro- his effort, and in utter defiance of the laws priate and sensible remarks upon the necessity of properly organizing the circles. Dr. Randolph was again brought to his feet by what purported to be the spirit of the illustrious poet, Dante, and many persons declared that the with the rare faculty to make a respectable speech given exceeded anything they had ever thing appear mean. He can give dignity heard, even through his impassioned lips .- to trifles, and he can trifle with dignity. But the manifestation, par excellence, was yet to come. The medium was Mrs. Danforth .-Previous to coming from home to attend this meeting, a lady, Mrs. Wait, had taken up the photograph of a deceased daughter, and had knelt and devoutly prayed that God would preliminary part of his discourse, Mr. that night permit her to be fully convinced of Beecher says, "But there is nothing in the truth of immortality in the circle she was nature, and there are no social relations, in

After the spirit of Dante had closed his remarks, Mrs. Danforth was observed to pass into a very deep trance,-not the mere passive state, with mind and body half asleep, half A treatise on "The Premature Decay of awake, but a deep, profound trance, so closely -[Livingston Union, Sept. 21st. (See adver- sons present. Indeed, several ladies and two gentlemen, one of whom was Mr. Randolph, A Book of Thrilling Interest for the could not endure the thrilling spectacle, and were forced to retire to the ante-room. Mrs. Danforth's visage became cadaverous and liv-A TREATISE ON THE CAUSE OF THE EARLY DE- id; her lips were fire-set and blue; her arms CAY OF AMERICAN YOUTH .- A work of thrill- and extremities cold and rigid; her eyes deeping interest to the Young of both sexes; de- set and rolled upwards, until not a vestige of tailing some of the most striking cases and the pupils were visible-nothing but the cor incidents in the practice of the author, just nea or white being distinguishable -and this, published by Dr. STONE, Physician to the be it known, is extremely difficult to be imita-Troy Lung and Hygienic Institute, Troy, ted, not one person out of fifty could do it successfully even after weeks of practice. Soon We take pleasure in our editorial capacity the people began to crowd around her, when photograph to the audience, and related the history of the day, as already referred to above. event occurred, perfect and entire strangers, hence the idea of any previous knowledge on the part of the medium, of the facts of Mrs. Wait's family affairs, is altogether preposterous. It was a Spiritual Manifestation, and no mistake.

> To Correspondents .- "Winter," which is a good poetic article, gct mislaid until it is too late for its insertion.

> "Never Despair" is not suitable for our use. "Hymn to Death" will soon appear-it is

Bro. Everts' article on "Creation, and the Correspondence.

HENRY WARD BEECHER. .

This reverend gentleman has become a sort of institution. He lays the telegraph Scarcely had this man taken his seat, before under contribution to his genius, a corps of Spiritualism; and the spirit closed with a diences, sneer at church piety, win golden glowing picture of the good time coming, when opinions from Infidels, and straigthway, by high and noble spirits should be able to express a most dexterous theological exploit, pluck their Heaven-forged thoughts through good the wrinkles from the dogmatic face of

Ordinarily, summersets in religion and politics, are said to indicate a weakness in the spinal column; but this operator is an exception to the general rule, for after his of theological gymnastics.

He can make the meanest thing appear respectable, and he is certainly endowed

But I set out with the purpose to say a word or two in reference to his last Christmas sermon, as reported in the Banner of Light, from Luke 11: 10, 11. In the about to attend. She rose from her knees which there is a provision for man's spiritual education." Farther on he says, "He ing other portions of God's history, al- will not let this truth, that Christ is God other?

ural, Now, will Mr. Beecher tell us what junction with his son, (or more properly he means by the phrase, "above nature." with himself,) determined to complete the ture, apprehending nature to be whatever who were among all tribes and nations, order, or constitution of matter; nor is it wrought out the salvation of a world, or a in the power of matter to obstruct the le- part thereof, such vessels as were not made gitimate exercise of the power of God .- for dishonor. Reader, imagine the Infinite fore Christ, said "it is better to suffer than is anything, therefore "unnatural," it must himself a sacrifice for the sins of the peoexist outside of mind and matter, proper. ple. Mr. Beecher estimates that his earth-It must be something not contemplated in ly embassy may have been repeated ten the original draft of the universe, and thousand times, and allowing him thirty the human mind cannot transcend its own rificial scheme, why may not a 1,000 000, powers; that is, it cannot do more than it or, indeed, all the worlds in existence. has power to do. If it could, then its act of the race, especially the miraculous his- therein. tory of the Jews, were but preliminary to on the globe."

they beheld the great God, voluntarily ab-dicating his throne, without disclosing to Let us see. Sir William. the sight, when by his own voluntary act, than two tho of a human being. It is possible however, that the intention of God had been known in Heaven, long before his actual advent upon earth, and that Lucifer, by some means becoming apprised of the contemplated scheme, had And it is probable that the timely discovery of this plot of Lucifer, and his expulsion from heaven, saved the king lom from civil war, if not from disruption and ruin. We are quite in the dark however about this matter, but for more precise information, let the reader consult Milton's Paradisc Lost.

M1. Beecher has given us a new definition of the gospel. He says: "It is the

(God) is everlastingly in the moral nature, though we confess to some labor of imagi- stay as theology it shall as poetry, and inand in social affections." But if "God is nation in following out that history, as in- the end, the poetry shall be stronger than everlastingly in the moral nature, and so- dicated by Mr. Beecher, in the following theology." We agree with the Rev. Mr. cial affections," then there is something in original sentence-"that his (God's) earth- Beecher, that, should theology drop the ficnature and the social relations to develope ly embassy was only one single one of the tion, that Christ is God, poetry would alone

The original work of creaton was unwould be unnatural, and we should reach doubtedly God's, and I take it that he pays God only, who is not, as some are apt to imathe solution of the Rev. Doctor's phrase, these official visits with a view to revise gine, seated above the world, beyond the "above nature." But of course, all this and correct it, and when he shall have orb of the universe; but being in himself will be answered by the old theological ended his mission, we shall have the sec- all in all, he sees all the beings that fill his scheme of miracles. Again he says,-All ond edition of the universe stereotyped in God's previous teachings, the early history blood, and bound in thunderbolts forged wrong, and then found himself under the He then describes his departure on the necessity of sacrificing himself to rescue it momentous business of the atonement, as from total ruin, and upon the admission of if himself were present on the occasion, to so much, it would follow that his second witness the scene,-thus: 'God left the work might be defective also, and require temple gate of heaven, drew in his majesty. still a repetition of the dreadful experiment and circumscribed his proportions and of blood. But this last work, this supplepower, that he might become weakened ment to the general act, we leave to the and reduced;" then of course he did be- faithful to explain and defend. Again, he come "weakened and reduced." But who says, "No reasonings can ever drive from would imagine that the Deity, instead of the earth the transcendent conception, not strengthening his broad shoulders, whereon of an unwieldly and brute incarnation of to lay the sins of the world, should have Vishnu or Brahma." But let us assure curtailed his power. But at any rate it this divine, who puts forth his doctrine of must have been a surprising spectacle in an incarnated God, dragging it forth from heaven, when God volunteered to quit his the dark depths of Heathen Mythology, throne, to leave the imperial splendors of thrusting it upon the reason and the knowlhis ancient court, and exile himself for edge of these times, with such an air of the space of thirty years, among his ene- triumph, that clumsy as may be the incarmies, and upon this insignificant planet. nation of Vishnu, it may be well brought But above all what wonder must seize the forward to dispute the claims of Christianiarch-angels, Michael and Gabriel, when ty itself to originality, in the darling idea

Let us see. Sir William Jones, in his them the secret, or even naming a regency. Asiatic researches, written 1784, says, "In you, and do not unto another, what you But more appalling still, must have been the Sanserit Dictionary, compiled more would not be should do unto you. Thou the Infinite God shrunk into the dimensions whole story of the incarnate deity, born of foundation and principle of all the rest."of a virgin, and miraculously escaping Remember, this was the language of a from the reigning tyrant of his country" In another place Sir William says: "Chrish- advent of Christ. Query, is the New Tesno, the incarnate deity of the Sanscrit Ro. | tament a copy ? mance, continues to this hour the darling God of the Indian women. The sect of determined to put himse f upon the throne. Hindoos, who adore him with almost ex- of bloody theology, and we are glad of the clusive devotion, have broached a doctrine little relief afforded us in the following which they maintain with eagerness, that rather poetical, but not theological obserhe was distinct from all the orators, (or prophet-) who had only a portion of the divinity, whereas Chrishna was the person of Vishnu (God) himself in a human form."

It is not improbable that the Christian story of incarnation was borrowed from this ancient legend of the Indians. The Chrishna is the original, and the Christ (the mirbrief history of God, insphered upon this aculous not the natural Christ) was the earth." Thus we have in the gospel about copy. Remember, that these citations He puts him fairly into the category of thirty years of God's history, and wond r- from the distinguished Sir William, put ful history it is, taking Mr. Beecher as our this story back 2000 years ago. The conauthority. But the reverend gentleman clusion is inevitable, -one is the father, the has not left us totally in the dark respect- other the child. Again he says, "If man a spiritual education. But are the moral thousand just such things as God loves to pick it up. It would never intrude itself and spiritual so separate and distinct as to do" This must be regarded in the light upon the world as a matter of fact, and be cultivated to the exclusion of each of a discovery. The crust of old theology would forever keep a respectful distance is fairly cracked, and with its crisped and from books of God's natural science and According to Mr. Beecher, they are as hardened shell, here is an oasis, fresh and philosophy. Again, says Mr. Beecher, "I unlike as a system of Geometry, and a green, as any handswork of nature. We think it may be said, that there never was treatise on grammar. But he adds, "There have heretofore supposed that the Deity, a system of ethics, till Christ came into must be something over and above nature," in his personal appearance upon earth, only the world." We dissent from this entirely. that is, that something which induces spir- initiated the great work of redemption, and Dr. Adam Clarke whose authority as a itual growth, as distinguished from social that after his death and resurrection, he scholar will not be questioned, and whose growth must be above nature, but anti-nat- resumed his royal prerogative, and in con- orthodoxy is approved of all men, says that "Christ originated nothing." All his sayings, says Clark, may be gathered from Is not God himself part and parcel of na- work of saving and glorifying the elect, the literature of the Jews, and neighboring nations of that time. Of course, then, if in mind or matter, is taken cognizence of scattered all-along down the stream of time | Christ originated nothing, he did not origby the human faculties? Are not God and to its final end. But not so. Our author- inate a system of ethics, nor did he originoutward nature, or matter and mind, sub- ity being Mr. Beecher, the life of God has ate the ethical philosophy of the New Tesject to mutual limitations? It is not in been one constant series of immolations tament. But any reader of history, knows the power of God to destroy the essential and resurrections, each one of which that the Golden Rule was long anterior to the time of Christ.

Pythagoras, who flourished 500 years be-Each limits and defines the other. If there God flying from planet to planet, offering to kill a man," that is, it is better to suffer wrong than to do wrong. But, let us hear this sublime philosopher further. Read his description of God and then compare it with Beecher- God is neither the object of must therefore be an interloper upon the years for each world, it would take him sense nor subject to passion, but invisible, Divine economy, wo-king perhaps real mis- 300,000 years to visit 10,000 worlds. But only intelligible and supremely intelligent. chief. Who knows? It is evident, that if 10.000 worlds stand in need of the sac- In his body he is like the light, and in his spirit he resembles truth. He is the universal spirit, that pervades and diffuseth itself over all nature. There is but one immensity, the only principle, the light of heaven, the Father of all." He produces everything, he orders and disposes every-But if such an idea were worth attempt- thing, he is the reason, the life, and the his grand advent upon earth, -or in his ing to refue, seriously, we should say that motion of all beings." Now read Mr. words, to "God's own visible appearance God in the first instance, made his work all Beecher's idea of God. "He (God) becoming alarmed for the condition of the human race, the workmanship of his own hands, and moved by his great compassion and benevolence, to devise some means by which he could recover his alienated children, and yet preserve the unbending justice of his broken law, left the temple gate of heaven, drew in his majesty, circumscribed his proportions and power, became weakened and reduced," so that he could endure humiliation and shame, and die the death of the malefactor. But the Brooklyn minister is still an improvement upon the evangelical Poet, whose hymns he reads to his congregation.

Hear him:

"His nostrils breath out fiery streams, He's a consuming fire, His jealous eyes his wrath inflame And raise his vengeance higher."

Confucius, a Chine e philosopher, who lived several hundred years before Christ, uttered the following sentiments :- "Do to another what you would he should do to only needest this law alone. It is the Heathen philosopher, 500 years before the

We have waded through this sermon thus far, loaded down with the dead weight vation, "There is no reason why we should not read of the career of Christ, as we would of the career of any other hero, whether in novel or history." In this passage of the Christ, the Redeemer, the Emaneipator, the Saviour, the Everlasting, Infinite God, becomes the property of the nevelist, and is really invested with the dignity of romance, In Mr. Beecher's estimation, he is a hero. novel heroes, and we agree with him again, that taking him out of theology, he naturally passes into the field of romance, and

[[Continued on 8th page.]

Interesting Miscellany.

WITHOUT AND WITHIN.

A SKETCH OF SOCIETY.

"Is this seat engaged?"

The questioner was a gentle-voiced, modest-looking little woman, in very plain, though neat traveling attire. The scene was a railroad car, with passengers two and two occupying every settee except one, which contained only a lady and her et ceteras. She could scarcely have failed to observe the other as she entered at the front of the car and passed through near its entire length, casting her eyes right and left in unsuccessful search, but she made no movement until addressed with the proposal for a seat by her side.

She responded, by gathering up in no very amiable manner an exquisite traveling basket, a parasolette, a boquet, a fan, a bottle of smelling salts, and an embroidered handkerchief; last of all, narrowing the sweep of her rich, silk flounces. The little woman quietly took the vacated place.

Work box, boquet, fan and handkerchief, were now displayed in the lap of the owner, who, from time to time, brought them severally into requisition; now drawing up from the box a little mirror by which to examine her eyebrows, and water ringlets; now fanning her head affectedly, now smelling daintily as the flowers, and now applying to her lips the extravagant bit of gossa-

It was fortunate that she who shared the settee with her required but a limited space, for the mass of flounces though drawn back periodically, would still come in contact with the dress of the plebeian neighbor, and at times threatened to quite envelope and to hide from view, the little person.

A dandy, seated immediately before, occasionally threw a glance back; the magnificent lady was evidently creating a sensation under his latest style hat. He shortly n anaged to begin a conversation. Facing about, with a touch at the very minute tuft of furze, that might have been mistaken for a hair-mole, at either corner of his mouth, and a bow and smile intended to be charmingly irresistible, he enquired whether the "aiah did not entaw too freely to suit her pleashaw."

Receiving a smile in return, and being graciously permitted to serve the regal lady by lowering the window, the exquisite felt at liberty to promote further acquaintance. After an allusion to the merits of "Hot Corn," a copy of which he held in his hand, the scented gentleman introduced more personal topics, when it was presently elicited that the lady was destined to the village of N-, to visit a friend.

Here the little woman in the Quaker-like habit looked up with sudden interest. The great lady curled her lip; her new devotee twined his feeble moustache around his ring finger, and affected a smirk of conceit. The little woman then looked down again.

"I think you infawmed me," drawled the dandy, upon sufficiently recovering himself, "if I rightly understood you, a moment since that you were au-intending to visit relatives at N-?"

"Not relatives," corrected the lady, aweetly smiling, "I said friends; I should rather have said a friend-it is the lady of some weeks with her."

"Ah, how foine-how very foine," remarked his dandyship. "I have the honaw of a passing awquaintance with his honaw, the Judge-that is, au-I have seen him frequently on the bench; having been myself an impawtant witness in impawtant cases which at different times were tried before his honaw."

The lady rejoined that she had never seen either the Judge or his lady, but that some recent circumstances had induced a correspondence between the latter and herself, which resulted in an invitation with which she was going to comply. She ended with a toss of the head, such as indicated that she was fully aware of the selfograndizement attaching to so delightful a

Before the dan'y had time to respond person at her side-

"Were you ever in N _____ ?" adding-'my home is there."

impatient movement, turned more away tedious." from the enquirer, while her countenance bly to reinforce her by an exhibition of pos- kenitive disgust, and issued a corresponding and very singularly evinced quiet amuse- seen in the prisoner's dock. 'Twas a larment, rather than any stronger sentiment, ceny of jewelry; I well recollect. A couin return for this insolence.

The offer was coquettishly accepted. In things." a short time the whistle sounded, the train He removed his keen eyes from the quivshout that they were arriving at N-

The dandy stood up with his slender cane be ordered.

They soon had seats within a coach and the exquisite exerted himself beyond what had seemed possible, to induce the driver to set off without any other passengers. "It is so exceedingly annoying," he declared, "to be continuawlly forced into contact with

But the coachman either considered too wooly-headed responsibilities.

Even then he did not drive directly to miles had been traversed.

"That is the residence of his henaw," lisped the dandy, directing the eyes of his two story dwelling, in a city of great mag

She breathed an admiring exclamation. "Very foine-very elegant," coincided ap at the steps they recognized their de- broad flight of stairs, rang a beli with a rusty tering the house, having walked from the of Humboldt in the thirty-six last years of

"Some servant, undoubtedly," observed dandy; "or pawthibly," he continued, tap- who was Humboldt's "fidus Achates," the ping the head of his cane, "some seamstress or-governess."

A pleasant looking Irish girl opened the Judge S-; I shall probably spend | door, and on Mrs. S- being acked for, invited them into a parler, and withdrawing, said she would speak to her mistress. A moment after, the identical little woman, still wearing her traveling dress, entered the room, and with much sweetness of manner, bowed to her guests.

The person, who had all along imagined herself so illustrious a lady, drew an audible breath and dropped her face upon the arm of the sofa. The double refined gentleman stared and colored, and touching his pet moustache with the tip of a gloved finger, with perfect self-possession.

and made bowildered strides towards the of his six rooms, his chairs, his bed, his tion was diverted to the business of invest- was opened by Judge S -----, who having ing a bright copper in an evening paper, received from his lady a brief account of proffered by a newsboy. The plain little the afternoon's occurrences, was fully prewoman embraced the opportunity, when it pared for the present aspect of things. exwould not be interrupting, to inquire of the cept that he had not expected to identify, as he instantly did, one of the two visitors

"Ah, Mr. F zzleton," he said, purposely standing in the way of the fellow's egress, Not a syllable of reply was deigned, but "it is sometime since we met. I trust you the proprietor of the many flounces, by an found your term in the penitentiary not over

"Sir," returned the other, struggling for a expressed most palpable contempt. Her bold face, "awlow me-I assure your honadmirer returned to his privilege seasona- or-my name is-you are slightly mista-

"Yes, yes, I quite comprehend," rejoinexclamation against "rustic forwardness." ed his honor, losing his professional gravi-The little woman leaned back in her seat, ty. "I never yet forgot a face I had once ple of years and an incipient moustache "As I am to pass through N-," have not changed your appearance so much said the fop to the flounced lady, "it would as you imagine. If, by any good fortune, reawly be my highest pleasure to attend you grow a wisp of hair on the tip of your you from the depot to the Judge's--ah- nose-which, by the way, appears rather residence; it would be most especially de- suspiciously red-I shall still know you at lightful to call upon the lady, and I can go a glance. Young man," concluded Julge on-that is, I can proceed in the next S-, in a tone of cutting rebuke, "you well know why I have alluded to these began to break up, and the conductor put ering beau, and stepped aside, permitting his head in at the door to announce in a him to make his exit, which he did without ceremony.

The position of the lady he left behind and showy eigar-case; the train stopped; was scarcely more enviable. But she, inthe great lady swept past her into the aisle; stead of attempting to escape from the delivered over a half score of miscellaneous scene of her humiliation, begged forgivearticles to the care of her new attendant; ness in deepest abasement; and gave the took his arm and was conducted to the la- best evidence of her sincerity in an earnest dies' room, to wait while a carriage should striving to learn grace and humility of the 'ady she had scorned .- [True Flag.

[From the Boston Traveller.]

A VISIT TO HUMBOLDT'S HOME-

Berlin, Dec. 7, 1859.

Now that one comes to Berlin and cannot see the grand old man who graced it so many years, it is a satisfaction to visit the place where he lived and thought, to enter well what was for his own pocket interest, his library and see his books, to try to catch or indulged a wicked desire to torture the influence of his surroundings, and see our fine-grained hero, so the wheels never if they can transform common souls into moved till the coach had a large fill of pas- something of his greatness. But that cansengers-among them a dirty Irish woman, not be. Oranienburger street in Berlin is and a fragrant negress with two or three filled with grocers and tradesmen of all sorts; all kinds of quiet families of comfortable people congregate there, but only one Humthe house of Judge S _____, which was no BOLDT lived there. There was nothing in more than a quarter of a mile from the de- his surroundings to make Humboldt what pot, but wound round, leaving a passenger he was; the street in which he lived is one here, another there, until, perhaps, two of the most ordinary in Berlin; the house in which he lived is one of the most unpretending to be found anywhere-a simple, nificence, nothing to be seen from his windows but houses of ordinary people, and plain shops and small stores. We turned into thedoorway, by the side of which stood At the moment before the carriage drew the well-known name, Seifert, ascended a brass knob, and soon the faithful companion his life, stood before us, Seifert himself, so well-known to us in America, as the man inheritor of his library; his servant and his friend. He is an old man now; I judge about seventy, well bronzed by time and well seasoned by travel. He received me with great cordiality, and showed me with minuteness the contents of the valuable collection which Humboldt's bequest has made

The main object which I have in writing this letter to the Boston Traveller and through it to some thousands of Boston readers, is to suggest that an effort be made there the place of all places to me as to every son of Boston, where it should be, to buy the great Humboldt collection, now offered by Seifert for sale. If that collection could be bought by Boston, either in its municipal "It-ah-cannot be; you-madam-ex- capacity, or by its citizens, by private subeuse—it was Mrs. S—— we desired to scription, it would be one of the greatest attractions we could have. I would gladly "That is my name," said the little lady, see a small suite of rooms in some one of our public building devoted to the HUMBOLDT The dandy sprang up from the arm-chair Collection, where might stand the contents one word, the contents of Humboldt's house ing by a stone column, so common in Ameron the Oranienburger street. Would it not ica. Still I would not speak of the objects be grateful to every son of Boston to have of art as very rich or very striking. The a collection there to show his friends when next room, the fourth in the same range, they come up to the New England metrop- contained little but pictures, but possessing ohs, and to show to his children, bidding no special value, excepting from the fact them mark how independent of pomp and that they are all interpenetrated by the very circumstance is real greatness, and how a simplicity of Humboldt's whole existence. man who is invested by nature herself with Most men of letters, or if I do not say for lower degree, seen by men.

lection and possess it forever.

something grand and even expressive in it adorned. even seen from behind. The books of the one man, and as such of great worth.

comments. I took down many boo fly leaves are covered with that well known fine hand, the characters of which are so small that they almost require a glass to be easily read, and which are each perfect. I entire library embraced, as Seifert informed perseverance. which are some of great value. There are great value, not to speak of the perfect collection of maps and charts.

and attractive room, in which is the only us all that it would cost? Will not some arm-chair which I saw in the whole establicader of the Traveller see if $75,000 lishment-a room in which Humboldt sat to could not be raised to do it. If not, how he almost invariably sat to drink his coffee. definite offer for it. The room contains some books, but is more especially devoted to works of art. There The skeleton of a mammouth was recently disments in science. I noted particularly that enormous dimensions.

the train halted at a station, and his atten- hall-door, which, before he could reach it | pictures and maps, his books and casts, -- in | well-known engraving of Washington stand royalty is independent of the show which of letters, most men of sensibility, have some common men must make to have a royalty passion which displays itself in their houses, which you meet at every hand in their col-I grant that the money value which Sei- lections; with some it is pictures; with some fort puts upon the collection is great, very rare bindings; with some old books; with great, for more than the books and works some curious plate; with some even diverse of taste or art would bring, if divested of patterns of crockery ware-Sydney Smith's associations with the name of Humboldt, weakness. Humboldt seems to have had no As a collection, without associations, it such controlling special love; he was so adwould be valuable, indeed; probably the mirably organized, that every quality in most valuable that has ever been sold in him was tempered to its just use. Every Germany, but the name of Humboldt invests thing in his collection is good; nothing ineach book with a new and peculiar value, dicates a ruling love. The books are rewhich it would be hard to over-estimate. - markably well bound, yet not so as to give The price at which Seifert values it and of- rise to the thought that he had what we fers it for sale is $75,000. He is anxious will call "a weakness" for rich binding; the above all things that it should go to Amer- pictures are interesting, yet not displaying ica, because Humboldt loved America so any absorbing love for pictures or statuary; much and watched it so anxiously, and I all that is signally rich, is just what must promised him that I would urge the people with him have been rich -the very weapons of Boston to do a deed worthy of the litera- of his scientific studies, the invaluable colry metropolis of our land, and buy the col- lection of maps, and charts, and books, which bear upon the study of physical science.

One visiting the suite of rooms passes From this range of four rooms we turned first into a rather small and crowded room, to one side, and entered the "Arbeit Zumcontaining many books, piled in promiseuous mer," the North Room, the little dark confusion on the floor, and the specimens chamber where Humboldt gained his triof Natural History sent to Humboldt from umphs, and earned his fame. Some of my all parts of the world, over which a large readers have seen the lithographs by Hilstuffed owl sits supreme and keeps guard .- debrand, representing Humboldt in this There are pictures on the walls, amongst room, but that picture while it does juswhich I noticed specially a faded one of tice to the almost bold simplicity of the Rome, which looks old enough to have been furniture, gives an idea of size and comfort owned by Goethe's father, and a large lith- which the room does not possees. It is a ograph, by Hildebrand, of Humboldt in his small, dark room; it has no prospect from study, which some Americans have seen. its windows, not even the neat dull pave-The next room is the library, a long, spa- ment of a still Berlin street. The table on cious, well-proportioned room, crowded with which Cosmos was written is of pine, awkbooks, with a little space left for pictures, of ward and low; I did not notice an armwhich I remember but two,-I think there chair in the room; a few books were on were no more in that room,—a likeness of one side, a meteorological instrument or Wilhelm Humboldt, the statesman, a most two were in sight, and that was all. I penetrating and scholarly face, but not so have seen the study of many a boy at school strikingly handsome, I judge, as the broth- better furnished than the room where the er Alexander,-and a view of the late Bar- most renowned man of the age lived and on taken from behind, by Hildebrand, hav- thought and wrote. This room had a caring nothing but the outline of the form and pet, a plain worn oil cloth carpet; I did the magnificent head of Humboldt, with not notice that any other room was thus

And out of this work chamber you step library are twenty-four thousand in number, into the little bed-room where Humboldt are in all languages very miscellaneous in slept and where he died. I can give you their subject matter, and indicate the avery imperfect idea of its simplicity .bread h of their possessor's studies. Of The bed had been taken away and burned, course the larger share of them are of natu- in accordance with the German custom after ral science, and probably the most complete a death, I suppose; but the plain green body of scientific works ever collected by curtains indicated where the bed of the great departed man had stood. One or But yet they have their great value from two cheap German chairs were in the little But yet they have their great value from the two collateral circumstances that they a foot square—and that was all. It was were Humboldt's books, and that they are, the severest simplicity that I ever saw .in very many instances, enriched by his What sermons those two rooms might preach in our country, if their contents could be transferred there and set up just as they stand on the Oraninburg street in Berlin. Humboldt spent but four hours in bed, like the Duke of Wellington and Nathe Boston press, for Humboldt knew our poleon and other men whom nature has literature well and prized it highly. The gifted with equal ruggedness and equal

But I must not protract this letter. I me, twenty-four thousand volumes, among should be glad to give a little summary of collections of photographs from Central my conversation with Seifert touching his America, and large books of engravings of bids: I write this letter with one definite purpose, and I close it with arguing once more that Boston should enrich itself with From the library I passed into a large this fine collection which would be worth to reieeve his friends, and the chair in which much could be, that Seifert might have a hangs upon its walls the best portrait of covered in a quarry at Czortkow in Gallicia. One Humboldt ever executed, taken by the dis- of the teeth was much damaged by the workmen, tinguished Schreder, very little art work of mere fancy, mostly portraits and casts or marble busts of men of great attain-

GUZMAN.

RATIONAL EDUCATION.

[Extract from a paper read before the "Bristol Literary Club ' by Dr. J. B. F. Walker.]

tors. Says De Fellenberg. "I call that education improved without affecting the whole. o o which embraces the culture of the whole man "-Says Dr. Dick, that very learned, sound, and judicious Scotch writer; "Education ought to embrace everything that has a tendency to strengthen annual circular of Dun, Boyd & Co., merand expand the understanding; to regulate the number of failures in the United States the feelings and dispositions of the heart; etc. Dr. Horne says "Education should have for its aim the development and greatest possible perfection of the whole nature of man: his moral, number of failures since 1858 of 312, and intellectual, and physical nature."

Man, then, is not an educated being until every faculty and power, whether of body or mind, has become fully developed. Though he may read the dead languages as fluently as his native tongue; though he may be able from a heap of rest of Massachusetts; 61, with liabilities when absent, $3. Also healing by laying on of hands. fragmentary bones to construct the skel of $1.159,000 occurred in Maine; 25, with eton of some unknown animal; telling its species liabilities of $307.000 in New Hampshire; and habits; when and where it lived ;-though the science of figures be with him as tools in the hands of the mechanic, yet he may still fall far mont; 20, with liabilities of $246.000, in short of being educated. There is something be Providence, and 10, with debts amounting sides an intellect to be looked after, something to $359,000, in the rest of Rhode Island. more than mere book-knowledge. We are aware The number in New York city was 299, that the great masses of the people consider book-knowledge as the one thing essential; that if a person has pursued a regular course of study, been graduated, and received his diploma he is accounted educated; but is this the fact? Thanks ors, with obligations amounting to $5,650,to the Great Educator a light has commenced to 000; as not dishonest but will pay little shine, and the darkness and ignorance of past generations is fast being dissipated. With the Greek rhstorician, Longinus, we would exclaim $7,932,000. The number likely to pay in that the subli est passage ever uttered, is, "Let full is 130, whose indebtedness amounts to there be light !"

A man, to be educated, must have his intellect. ual faculties active and enlightened; his moral perfect and healthy, seeking to be as near the 073,000. Great Model as possible. When this is attained the world will have perfect men and women ;and as progression is sure, we believe the time is not far distant when such will be the fact.

doing everything which shall tend towards per fection. How many at the present time do this ? How many can do it if they would? and how many would if they could? Where is there a true education are carried out. Our colleges stuff one with book knowledge and endeavor to under four or five years. physical training receives a moderate share of those who have had but one nature educated at lie corporate companies. In 1857 the failthe expense of others; State Reform Schools are filled with young men and women who have either been educated on this one-sided principle, or not at all. Many of the youth who fill these cation, but the moral and physical being having been neglected, they are what they are. Jails, too, are crowded with those whose morals have education. Though people preach that an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, yet they practice the reverse. How consistent!

training, and he becomes as the savage; perfectly developed, perhaps perfectly healthy, but still ignorant and superstitious. He delights in nothing but the gratification of his own passions, and is but a little higher than the brute creation with which he is constantly at war or supremacy .-Educate the moral nature of man alone, and he cartridge-boxes, belts and straps, all which at once becomes a religious enthusiast; a self- had evidently seen service. The cartridgewilled, one-idead person. Some of these help boxes, which we are informed are as many to fill our Insane Asylum. Educate the moral and intellectual man, neglecting the physical, and we have a feeble, white-faced, chicken-hearted, theological student; one who, as it were, ranged as to carry a double complement .carries Death about with him; forever suffering With them were square cakes of blacking, from ill-health! Neglect everything but the in- in papers, neatly printed with a description tellect and we see the dishonest lawyer and of the article, and stating it to be "for tradesman-not that all lawyers and tradesmen are dishonest, but among them we oftener find are truthful-and who can doubt them ?-we shall naturally wish to know why it is that ed- Blacking, Prepared by Wm. Bayley, the ucation should embrace the culture of the whole man. We have seen the results which follow the education of one nature of man at the expense of the others, and that such results do fol- still "shining," and seem to be in first-rate low is a fact concurred in, by physi logists gen- condition. All bear the evident marks of more successfully promotes his intellectual and moral well-being; but that he may improve his physical cendition it is neccessary that he should know the laws of health, and to know the laws nity for an antiquarian .- [Courier.

of health he should be educated; hence the intellectual nature of man will become trained and developed, and in proportion as he becomes educated and improves his physical condition his Of what does true education consist? This all moral and spiritual nature will be educated .-Important question cannot be better answered Thus we see that the development of one nature than by taking a few extracts from the works of man depend upon the development of the othof some of our most learned and popular educa- er, and that one cannot be either neglected or

THE

THE BUSINESS OF 1859 .- From the and invigorate the animal system; to enlighten cantile agents, New York, it appears that the past year was 3913, involving liabilities of $64,294,000. This is a decrease in the in liabilities of $31,455,662. Of the failures last year, 123, with liabilities of $4 -659,000, occurred in Boston, and 160, with debts to the extents of $1,927,000, in the 36, with liabilities of $536,000, in Verwith liabilities of $13.218,000. Of the whole number of failures last year, 401 are classed as swindling and absconding debtor nothing, 675, with debts to the extent of $6,242,000.

The number of failures in Canada and sentiments firm and correct : his spiritual nature the British Provinces was three hundred purified and developed; his physical formation and fifty, with debts to the amount of $4,-

The business of the year, the circular remarks, exhibits a general improvement, although probably rot much money has To be a true educator one must be capable of been made. A healthy and moderate business has been realized, and the prospect is that an equally healthy and improving state of affairs will continue. The effects of truly educated man? Such interrogatories as the disasters of 1857 still remain, especialthese should be considered as "home questions" ly at the West, and no great enlargement meant for each and all of us. We know not of of business the coming year is to be looked a single institution where all the elements of a for. Such a cri is cannot be recovered from force upon the attention a few morals. Our The aggregate of the past three years academies and high schools follow in the wake shows a bankrupt debt in the United States of the colleges, except in rare instances, where and British North America of the enormous attention in our primary and common schools sum of $468,355,571, of which amount the defect is still greater. Nine tenths of these $262,908,508, will prove an absolute loss regard nothing but the training of the intellect. to the creditors. This is irrespective of the What is the result? Hospitals are filled with immense losses by railroad and other pubures in the city of New York were about eighteen and a half per cent. of the entire number; in 1858 a little over nine per institutions can read and write, and are often ad- cent., and, in 1859, rising seven per cent , vanced in other branches of an intellectual edu- thus proving that the effects of the crisis were more immediately felt in the cities of the Union, for the per centage of twentybeen wholly or partially neglected. These facts one cities shows about the same ratio. The show how defective our is our present system of failures of the past two years have been mostly confined to the country. The number appears large, but the amount involved Give a man neither a moral nor an intellectual is comparatively small .- [Boston Journal.

CURIOUS DISCOVERY .- In making repairs in a building of some antiquity in State street, the workmen discovered under the eaves a large number of ancient looking as four or five hundred, are more capacious than those of modern date, and are so ar-Shoes, Boots, or any Leather that requires to be kept Black." On the face of each If we are persuaded that the views presented cake is a label, setting forth as "By the King's Patent. Cakes For Shining Liquid Patentee, and Sold by Bayley and Blew, Cockspur Street, London." The cakes are an ancient date, and we learn that, from Man, by improving his physical condition, the what is known of the building, the articles must have been where they were found, for at least eighty years. Here is an opportu-

Advertisements.

MEDIUMS IN BOSTON.

Mrs. A. W. DELAFOLIE, Trance and Test Medi nm. Examinations and Prescriptions given in an accurate form. Rooms, No 11 La Grange Place. Hours, from 9 A. M., to 7 P. M.

J. V . MANSFIELD, Medium for answering sealde letters, will visit the principal cities South and West, during the fall and winter. Letters addressed to him at No

3 Winter street, Boston, will receive his attention as here-TERMS -Mr. M. charges a fee of $1 and four pos-money in thirty days from its reception. 37 Mr. Mansfield will act as Agent for the SPIRITUAL

MRS. E. B. DANFORTH, Examiner and Prescriber for the sick Also healing and developing and trance medium. Address No. 19 Green st., Boston.

GEORGE ATKINS, Clairvoyant Physician and Healing Medium, No. 3 Winter street, Boston at the rooms of J. V. Mansfield, Writing Medium. Examina ply all orders promptly, either at wholesale or retail. tion when the patient is present, $1, by a lock of hair

Mrs. BEAN, Writing, Trance and Test mediam, will The Philosophy of Special Providences-A Vision, continue to give sittings at No. 30 Elliot street, Poston -Special attention given to clairvoyant medical examina- The Harmonial Man; or, Thoughts for the Age, 30 cts.

Mrs. R. H. BURT, Writing and Trance Medium, No. 2 Columbia street (from Bedord street). Hours from 10 to 1, and from 2 to 7. 2-3m Mrs. LIZZIE KNIGHT, Writing Medium, 14 Montgomery place, up one tight of stairs, door No. 4 Hours 9 to 1 and 2 to 5: Terms 50 cents a seance. Mrs. SMITH, No. 43 Eliot street, a successful Healing

Medium; also, Writing, Developing and Test Medium and Spirit-Seer. Circles, Sunday, and Friday evenings.

18 South Russell street, Boston. Terms 50 cents for communication or examination of disease. Mrs. BEMAN, Clairvoyant and Healing Medium er, 14 Bromfield street, Boston. assisted by a trance Writing Medium, has taken rooms at 117 Hanover street, Boston. TERMS-For examination of patient, 1-2 tf. . " a communication,

MRS. ELLEN E. RICHARDS, Clairvoyant Medium, No

Mrs Pecallis Clark, Healing Medium and Clairvoyant Examiner. Under spirit direction, she has prepared a great variety of Medicines for the cure of disease, which have proved eminently successful. Office at 14 Bromfield street,

MRS. P. CLARK: Dear Madame-Allow me to thank you, and the power which directs you in healing he sick, and to express my unbiassed convictions that no medicine that I know of can at ail compare with your Tonic Bitters. Reof sickness. Happily for me, a triend presented me a bot | sale tle or your Tonic Bitters, and it cured me in a very short P. B. RANDOLPH.

POLYTECHNIC INSTITUTE

(For pupils of both sexes) 69 W. 19th st., N. Y., reopened Monday, September 5th. Two boarders can be accommo dated in the family of the Principal,

A T. DEANE. 3-2t.

Report of an Extraordinary Church Trial; being a Detailed Account of Overwhelming Testimony, giv-en by Sectarians against all leading Reform and Reformers; with the Summary Proceedings on the part of the Prosecution, aided by several Respectable Citizens, after an Irregular Readition of the Verdict.—Conservatives versus Progressives.—Photographically Reported and Prepared for Publication by Philo Hermes. Price 15 cents per copy, and sent to any part of the United States free of po tage. Quantities at wholesale, with reasonable discount, sent to order. Address the Publisher, Bela Marsh, 14 Bromfield street, Boston.

All the Books and Pamphlets of Theodore Parker, the works of A J. Davis, and all other Reform Publications, for sale as above. Sept. 24, 1859.

ATKINS' HEALING INSTITUTE.

Dr. Geo. Atkins, Clairveyant Physician and Healing festations, No 3 Winter street.

At this place will also be found the best collections of MAKSH, No. 14 Bromfield street, Boston. spirit drawings and portraits in the United States. Circles for musical manifestations held every Monday, Tuesday and Saturday evening, at 7 1-2 o'clock. Terms, examinations and prescription, $1,00. Admission to each n 20.

circle, 25 cts.

A WONDERFUL CLAIRVOYANT DISCOVERY ATKINS' ELIXIR PULMONARIA.

An instant relief and permanent cure for Consumption, Asthma, Coughs, Colds, Bleeding at the Lungs, Bronchi- and True Theology Price 8 cents each tis, or any disease of the Throat or Lungs, and Nervous | Parker's Four Sermons preached in the yearly Meeting

Fer sale, Wholesale and Retail by Geo. Atkins, No. 3 50 cts, and $1 per bottle.

DR. J. ESTES, ECLECTIC PHYSICIAN and HEALING MEDIUM. No. 7 Elliot street, Boston.

The Thinker; being the 5th volume of the "Great Harmonia," by A. J. Davis, is just published and ready for delivery. Price $1 Single copies sent by mail, postage free, on receipt of the price. The usual discount on wholesale orders. Address Bela Marsh, 14 Bromfield St., Boston.

PHRENOLOGICAL ROOMS,

142 Washington St., Boston.

EXAMINATIONS Day and Evening. SPECIAL ADVICE as to Occupation, &c. CLASS LECTURES from OCTOBER to MAY. All of FOWLER & WELLS' PUBLICATIONS. CABINET and MUSEUM FREE TO VISITORS.

D. P. BUTLER, Phrenologist and Bookseller,

No. 142 WASHINGTON STREET, BOSTON.

Bela Marsh's Advertisements.

ANTHROPOMORPHISM DISSECTED AND SPIRITUALISM VINDICATED, BY DIX-ON L. DAVIS, M. D.

When man is taught that his spiritual is, as his physical nature, governed by fixed laws, then superstition will die, and a rational system of mental philosophy prevail in stead. Price in paper covers, 35 cents; in cloth 50 cents.

A NEW SPIRITUAL BOOK! TWELVE MESSAGES FROM THE SPIRIT JOHN QUINCY ADAMS,

tage stamps for his efforts to obtain an answer. For $3 | Through Joseph D. Stiles, Medium, to Josiah Brigham. 494 he will guarantee an answer, or return both letter and pages 8vo. Price $1.50. Just published and for sale by BELA MARSH, 14 Bromfield St. Boston

THE GREAT HARMONIA, (BY A. J. DAVIS,) IN 4 VOLS.

Vol. I .- THE PHYSICIAN, price $1. Vol. II .- THE TEACHER, price $1. Vol. III .- THE SEER, price $1. Vol. IV .- THE REFORMER, price $1.

The publisher has recently issued the Fifth Edition of the above popular works of Mr. Davis, and is ready to sup-Address BELA MARSH, 14 Bromfield st., Boston.

B. M. has also published new editions of the following excellent works of Mr. Davis, viz:-

Price 15 cts. Free Thoughts concerning Religion, The Penetralia; being Harmonial Answers to Important

The History and Philosphy of Evil, 30 cts. and 50 cts. A liberal discount will be made when taken in quantities.

Questions,

FREE LOVE AND AFFINITY.

A Discourse delivered under spirit-influence, by Miss Lizzie Doten, at the Melodeon Boston, Sunday evening, March 20, 1859. Phonographically reported by James M. W. Yerrinton. Price 8 cents each, or $5 per hundred. This discourse contains much good advice, and was listened to with very general satisfaction. BELA MARSH, Publish-15-tf

MYSTIC HOURS,

Or, Spiritual Experiences of Dr G. A. REDMAN. Containing the more remarkable manifestations and communications that have been given through him, with names of witnesses, &c. Price $1.25. Just published, and for sale by BELA MARSH, 14 Bromfield st., who will mail it to order, to any part of the United States within 3000 miles, free of postage. Orders solicited.

WOODMAN'S REPLY TO DR. DWIGHT. A New Edition of this excellent work is just published. It has been carefully revised and stereotyped, in cently I was very unwell, and suffered extremely from a order to meet an increased demand, and is put at the low cold and general debility of system, so that I feared a fit price of 20 cents per copy. A liberal discount at whole-

BELA MARSH, publisher, 14 Bromfield street, Boston.

RICE'S SPIRIT MEDICINES.

Purifying Syrup, Price $1,00 per bottle. Nerve Soothing Elixir, Price 50 cents per bottle. Healing Ointment, Price 25 cents per box. Pulmonary Syrup, Price 50 cents

These Medicines have all been tested and can be relied upon ; they contain no poison. They are all prepared from spirit directions by WILLIAM E. RICE. For sale by BE LA MARSH, 14 Bromfield street, Boston.

HENRY C. WRIGHT'S BOOKS.

Marriage and Parentage; or, the Reproductive Element in Man, as a means to his Elevation and Happiness.

The Unwelcome Child; or, the Crime of an Undesigned and Undesired Maternity. Price in cloth, 45 cents; in paper covers, 30 cents.

ren, showing them how to prevent quarreling. Price 38 cents; illustrated edition, 62 cents.

The Errors of the Bible Demonstrated by the Truths Medium by laying on of hands, and Miss M. A. Knights, of Nature; or, Man's only Intallible Rule of Faith and medium for musical, apping, and other physical mani- Practice. Price in cloth, 38 cents; in paper covers, 25 cts. The above are for sale, at wholesale or retail, by BELA

ESOTERIC ANTHROPOLOGY

By T L. Nichols, M. D. Price $1,00. A new supply of this valuable work is just received and for sale by Bela Marsh, No. 14. Bromfield St. June 4.-tf

THEODORE PARKER'S RECENT PUELI CATIONS.

A Sermon for the New Year; What Religion may do for a Man; to which is auded Mr. Parker's Farewell Letter to his Society. Price 6 cents,

Parker's Two Sermons on Revivals; and one on false of Progressive Friends, at Longwood, Pa., May S0th and For Whooping Cough, Croup, etc., it is a complete 31st, 1858. Price 17 cents; also his speech delivered at the New England Anti-Slavery Convention in Boston, May 26, 1858; on the Relation of Slavery to a Republican Form of Winter St., Boston, and for sale by all druggists. Price Government; and also, his Forath of July Sermon, on the effect of Slavery on the American People. Price 8 cents ach Sermon of Immortal Life, Fifth Edition, 10 cents.

THEODORE PARKER'S EXPERIENCES AS A MINISTER.

With some account of his Early Life, and Education for the Ministry; contained in a Letter from him to the Twenty-Eighth Congregational Society of Boston. Price in paper covers, 30 cts., in cloth, 50 cents. Just published and for sale by Bela Marsh, 14 Bromfield st.

THE SPIRITUAL REGISTER F 1859. Price 10 cents, is just published and for sale by BELA MARSH, 14 Bromfield street, Boston.

MRS. METTLER'S MEDICINES. Restorative Syrup-Price $1 per bottle. Dysentery

Cordial-50 cents. Elixu- 50 cts. Neutralizing Mixture-50 cents. Pulmonaria-$1. Liniment $1-Healing Ointment-25 cents per box. For sale by BELA MARSH, No. 14 Bromfield street, Boston.

SUFFO K AT AND HOWARD STS. BOSTON CORNER

The Reformer's Home,

For the accommodation of Spiritualists and Friends of Lake street, Cleveland, Ohio! Office of the Vanguard | showing them and the terms of sale, will be given by Atledical Cards.

A Book of Thrilling Interest for the Young THE PREMATURE DECAY OF YOUTH!

Just published by Dr. STONE, Physician to the Troy Lung and Hygienic Institute, a treatise on the Early Decay of American Youth; the vice of self abuse, and its direful consequences; Seminal Weakness, Nervous and Spinal Debility, and other diseases of the Sexual Organs in both Male and Female.

The above work is one of the most thrilling interest to the Young of both Sexes ; detailing some of the most thrilling cases and incidents, in the practice of the Author, pointing out the great causes for such decline and decay of American

The Book is written in chaste anguage and should be read by every Parent and Guardian that has the least solicitude or the well-being of offspring and youth. It will be sent by ail in a scaled envelope to ony part of the country, free of charge, on receipt of two (3 cent) stamps for postage. In view of the awful destruction of human life and healtn, by marasmus or premature exhaustion and decay of the nervous system, caused by sexual diseases, such as the vice of Self-abuse, Seminal weakness, Spermatorrhoza, Syphilis and virulent affections, Gleet, Impotence, Leucorrheer and Sterility, and organic diseases of the Kidneys, and in view of the deceptions which are practiced upon the unfortunate victims of such diseases by quacks and base pre tenders, the Directors of the Troy Lung and Hygienic Institute have instructed their attending physician to treat this all-pervading class of modern maladies so productive Pulmonaay Consumption. The Institution is provided with the aids of the most improved practice of France, England, and the Oriental countries in order to insure the utmost and speedy success. The most scrupulous regard to confi dence and fiderity will be guaranteed every patient and ap plicant. The medicines used by the Institution are guaran teed free from Mercury, Minerals and Poisons of every na ture. The most approved medicines, of recent discovery imported from India and Japan-and concentrated in the form of Extracts and Alkaloids, are alone used-our remedies will not expose, nor sicken nor debilitate under any circumstance. The Institution has the honor of treating as pa tients some of the most distinguiseed men in the United States. Patients can at all times be treated by letter and cured at home, on receiving a full statement of their symptoms, and medicines can be sent by mail or express to any part of the United States and the Canadas. YOUNG MEN suffering from these dire ut ills, will receive for $5 a series of Health Rules and perfect Charts of cure, which will be to them a true Polar Star through life

TO FEMALES -The Monthly Pills, prepared by the In stitution, are a never-failing remedy for Suppresions of every nature, will be sent by mail to any part of the country on the receipt of $1, with ample instructions for the use, under

Address Dr. ANDREW STONE, Physician to the Troy Lung and Hygienic Institute, and Physician for the diseases of the Heart, Throat and Lungs, 96, Fifth st., Troy,

B. O. & G. C. WILSON,

WHOLESALE BOTANIC DRUGGISTS, Nos. 18 & 20 Central st., 7 doors from Kilby st., Boston, where may be found a large stock of BOTANIC MEDICINES, embracing every variety of Medicinal Roots, Herbs, Barks, Seeds, Leaves, Flowers, Gums, Resins, Oils, Solid and Fluid Extracts, Concentrated Preparations; together with a full assortment of

ALL OTHER KINDS OF MEDICINES,

Apothecaries' Glass Ware, Syringes, Medical Books, Liquors of the best quality, for medicinal purposes; and a great variety of Miscellaneous Articles, including atmost everything wanted by the Apothecary or Physician. Orders by mail or otherwise, promptly filled and warded to any part of the country. 18-y.

AN ASYLUM FOR THE AFFLICTED.

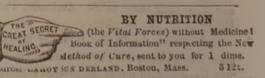

HEALING by laying on of hands. CHARLES MAIN, Healing Medium, has spened an Asylum for the Afflicted at No. 7 Davis street, Boston, where he is prepar ed to accommodate patients desiring treatment by the above process on moderate terms.

Patients desiring board shou give notic in advance, that suitable arrangements may be made before their

Those sending locks of hair to indicate their diseases, should enclose $1 for the examination, with a letter stamp to prepay their postage. Also, state leading symptoms, age and sex. Office hours from 9 to 12 A. M., and from 2

THE SICK ARE HEALED

WITHOUT MEDICINE. JAMES W. GREENWOOD Healing and Developing Medium, Rooms No. 15 Tremont street, opposite the Museum. Office hours from 9 A. M. to 5 P. M. Other hours he will visit the sick at their houses. Investigators will find a Test, Rapping, Writing and Trance Medium at the above rooms.

DR. JOHN SCOTT, MAGNETIC SICIA NO. 36 BOND STREET, NEW YORK.

Dr. S. cures Piles and Cancers without the use of the knife. Tr All Kneumatic and Chronic Complaints treated with certainty. Hours from 9 A M to 5 P M

DECAYED TEETH PRESERVED.

Dr. Ammi Brown, 24 1-2 Winter street (Ballou's Building), by a new article of Gold Filling, is prepared to restore teeth, however badly decayed or broken, to their original shape and strength, avoiding in most cases the necessi-

ARTIFICIAL TEETH, on Gold, Silver, Vulcanite and Platina, with Athelode Gums, from $15 to $65. Teeth extracted by Electricity without extra charge.

JUST PUBLISHED,

A graphic and truthful Narration, "Digging for Capt Kydd's Treasure!" By one of the diggers. Two Millions OF DOLLARS are said to be buried within two miles New York city. The Revelation of the spirit of Kydd thu far proved true. Sent by mail. Price 15 cts. Addres & B. CONKLIN, Test Medium. t4 Great Jones st. N. Y.

TO LECTURERS.

The undersigned hereby gives notice that he is authorized to sell the scenery of the spirit world, painted by the late R. Rodgers while in an entranced state. There are over thirty scenes, with a pair of dissolving view lanterns, said to be equal to any in the United States. A good lecturer would find this a rare opportunity to advance his own interests and the cause of Spiritualism. For further particulars I will send one of Mr. Rodgers' circulars to any gentlemen who may desire, as said circular gives a good idea of the nature Progress, at moderate charges, is centrally located at 109 of the scenes. Any information in regard to the manner of

B. M. NEWKIRK, Laporte, Ind.

THE CHURCH OF THE PRESENT.

A SHAKER'S CRITICISM UPON THE "CHURCH OF THE FUTURE."

SHAKER VILLAGE, New Lebanon, N. Y., January 7, 1860.

MESSRS. EDITORS.—Some person has sent me No. 18 (1)ec. 31) of the "SPIRITUAL AGE," and if its general contents are as valuable as are those of this copy, I do not marvel that it finds firm supporters in all its readers.

The article, "Church of the Future," as preliminary, and "No. 1, On Government," are worth a year's subscription. I freely indorse the idea of the "Church of the Future," with this amendment: that the "coming man," for whom the whole Theological world is so impatiently waiting, will surely prove to be a wo-

And what if she already stands in the midst of the people, and (like the Jews, in the parallel case of Jesus) they "Know it not,"-know her not?

When even the practical application, and severty year's successful operation of precisely the very principles enunciated in "No. 1," fail to attract the attention, and to engage the investigating powers, of those eagle-minded men and women, who, since the advent of the Angel Spiritualism, are known to exist, it proves that, as the midnight thief in the house may be diligently doing his work, unknown to its inmates, even so, in the nineteenth century as in the first, may the true Christ be in the very heart of the country, assiduously laying the foundation of a second Christian Dispensation and Church, and the inhabitants thereof know it not, any more than did the citizens of Jerusalem know that the "coming man," for whom they had been for ages in devout expectation. was, even at that time, working at the carpenter's trade as an apprentice to one of their own

I am astonished to find such clear views of the ultimate government, emanating from minds not claiming to stand in the light of Christ's secon I appearing in and through the female order. The writer's exposition of the "Divine right in one" to govern, is so simply expressed, and so logically demonstrated, that I am curious to see how it can be rebutted. Also his idea of "concentric races," each having their own sphere and center, is naturally true.

Considering the inveterate and deep-rooted prejudice created in men's minds, by the age of abuse of the "Divine right" of kings and priests to rule mankind, and by means of which they acquired power, and used it to the injury of their fellow-beings,- their own flesh and blood,-it proves the writer, who dares to utter sentiments so unpopular, unrepublican, and I may add, judged by the fashionabe standard, unreligious, to be a bold man.

The right to rule inheres in those who possess the capacity for ruling, even as the right to sing inheres in the poet; or the right to speak in such men as St. Ambrose, Patrick Henry or H. W. Beecher.

In England, the Divine right of kings and queens to govern, was interpreted to teach that "the King can do no wrong; -that a thing becomes right when it becomes law. While the truth is, that nothing should become law that in itself is not right; and that a man should become a king only when he would not, could not, do wrong. And nowhere in our language is this sentiment more sublimely expressed than in the second book of Samuel, (chapter

"Now these be the last words of David, David the son of Jesse said, and the man who was raised up on high, the anointed of the God of Jacob, and the sweet Psalmist of Israel, said: The Spirit of the Lord spake by me, and his word was in my tongue. The God of Israel said, the Rock of Israel spake to me, He that ruleth over men must be just, ruling in the tear of God."

That was what the Spirit said; and that is what this as yet "great unknown" writer says. The only possible "Divine right" consists in doing right, and not doing any wrong.

"The right man in the right place" is the right political and religious maxim. But we do not want two heads of even Peter, or Jesus, upon one body. If indeed a man possessed twenty heads, and they all directed him just alike, they would in effect be bat one head .-But, if they directed him diverse ways one from another, as do the hydra-heads at Washington, why, like them, they would prevent any consistent consecutive action, and each one would check-mate the other.

nilum. Upon this basis there is "perfect lar talent, or qualification. tions, and each in his and her own order.

it of God should select His and Her own, for and ignorance. we will go; only the Lord thy God be with cook.

monished and punished.

sight of God, as might a child, by wandering | ngs of the Holy Spirit :away from, lose sight of its father and mother. Upon thy right hand did stand the Queen It is "without God, and without hope, in the in gold of Ophir, whose name shall be rememworld," having no hold of any other world than bered in all generations," and whom "the peothis material one-earth.

the antipodes of Republicanism; for which it of the Lamb [Jesus] has come; and his wife is true "there is no analogy to be found in na- [Ann] has made herself ready;" and she is now ture." A perfect government, and voting, are making others ready to be clothed "in the inconsistent; because voting implies two an- righteousness of saints," that she was and is tagonistic parties. Thus on the political plane clothed with; and she shall be called The Lord one says, "I am of Buchanan, of Douglass, of our righteousness." (Jer. xxxiii. 16.)

Governor Wise; another, I am of Gerrit Smith, And the "new heaven and new earth, whereof Greeley, of John Brown : but if on the re- in dwell righteousness" and the righteous, are ligious plane, one says, "I am of Paul, or ot now by them (Jesus Christ and Mother Ann, Cephas, or of Mark, or of Peter, or of Jesus;" and their virgin followers) being created; for may it not be emphatically asked, "Is Christ they are determined, in all things,-physical divided?" Do Christians belong to opposing and spiritual-to do right; and also to give parties, or sects? They should see eye to eye, unto woman, even as unto man, her divine and the fittest man or woman, for a particular right to rule in her own sphere and order. place, should go into that place by acclamation,-by universal impression and pressure,- |-Christ-perfected a man, JESUs; so has by inspiration. Such a ruler would be the the second appearing of the Spirit-Christservant and the burthen-bearer of all, even as perfected a woman ANN LEE; and henceforth he was the election of all.

testimony, that these principles of govern- posterity unto the end of the world, and the ment were advanced seventy years ago, by beginning and establishment of the true spirit-"Mother Ann;" and they have been, and are ual order of the second and final Christian now, practically operative among those who Church, which is the "end of the world" to all claim to be her children in spirit and in the who enter it. For Shakers, or Christians, are truth,-the American Shakers.

Whether the "coming man" will be a man or come." a woman is a question upon which I wish to make a few remarks.

was the "coming man." He did all that a man Kansas and Harper's Ferry is now ready. It is beau "without the woman in the Lord" could do for tifully illustrated and embillished with a fine portrait of the redemption of the race. He was obedient the old Roman. P.ice $1,00 to truth unto death, internal and external ;consequently he accomplished all that any coming men" could ever accomplish. In Hanover street, Boston Office Hours from 9 A. M., to 6 P. M. Term., for private si tings $.00 per hour. what respect did he fail, that another man alone should sapply the lack?

your "coming man" is "You almost equal Jasus." The chiefest of his achievements would city. The rent must not be la ge, hence a retired street, be but an approximation to the doings of the with a reception or waiting, and an examining room is what is needed. Plainness and economy are the objects. "King of kings and Lord of lords,- Jesus."

Rely upon it, my friend, that the "coming and terms. man" will be a female.

The Lord will perform "a new thing on the e rth," and 'a g eat wonder in heaven :"A woman shall compass a man'-the natural man the past twelve years, and under the control of the present woman, "He will bring to pass his act, and woman. "He will bring to pass his act, his strange act, his great work, and a wonder, by the same individual in this country. which one shall not believe;" because it was a woman who first declared it to the world .- sgent in curing the fifth which first is heir to, but experi-Whereas it is just as true as was the declaration of the "man Jesus," that he would "come again in his glory"-a woman-his "Bride"-"the Lamb's wife;" for "the woman is the glory of the man" as man is the glory of God.

This woman has founded a successful Com munity system; a thing which the wisest of men in "modern times" have not been able to ery case. 121, Hudson St. do. The existence of eighteen Shaker commu-

It is true that we have "two persons in the nities attest and prove the truth of this state-Godhead;" but then we have only one of a kind,—a Male and a Female,—Father and wise men, and brought to nought the under-Mother. Nor do we want more than one of a kind as their vicegerents, to rule and govern us in all things, spiritual and temporal: a augurate a Divine Right Government, a social Father and a Mother, the Son and the Daughter, of Heaven and their successors ad infiequality," for all have an equal right to be re- And as the combined wisdom of men, as pentant, sincere, obedient, devout, joyful, and statesmen, has failed to secure to all (and to happy, according to the order of their crea- equalize) the means of physical existence; so have the theologians failed in every effort for Beautifully and truthfully expressed is the the salvation from sin, even of one individual, proposition, that absolute authority, absolute not excepting their own selves. "For, while dependence, and absolute independence, or they promise men liberty" themselves (the freedom, are synchymous. Also, that the Spir-priests) are the slaves of selffshuess, lust, pride the accomplishment of their own purposes, All that man alone, can do for humanity, he from among the masses, as in the cases of De- has had, outside of the first Christian Church, borah, Saul, David, Jesus, and Paul, together thousands of years to bring to pass; and he with the twelve Apostles, is consistent and has now had some eighteen hundred years reasonable. Thousands, in different ages. and inside of that Church to the same end; and to on different places, have been thus chosen.— what does it all amount? During the whole And to all such, it is right that the people period man has monopolized all power and should say, as the children of Israel did to rule. He has made all the laws, and has been Joshua: "All that thou commandest us we all the officers from the Pope to the Poor-maswill do; and whithersoever thou sendest us ter; from the emperor and king to the chief Presidents, senators, and representatives And, again, it is right, if this Divine right generals and admirals; judges and lawyers; ruler go wrong, as in the instances of Miriam, the strychnine-whiskey-water drinker, the door, Moses, David, Saul, Solo non, Peter, and Judas keeper and midshipman, are all men; and that, by the higher intelligence who anointed down even to the archbishops and bishops, and and appointed them, they should also be ad- to the pastor and the curate, they are all in the masculine gender. So that, if the world And when each of the "concentric races" is not what it should be, let man be silent, and of man, of which this writer speaks are thus lot woman speak; and, from her prison-house governed, they will stand in the same harmo- of lust "let her a tale unfold of man's inhumannious relations to each other, and to one gen- ity to woman, whose lightest word would hareral head, that do the members of the human cow up the soul, freeze the heart's blood, and make the hair to stand erect, like quills upon Republicanism and Infidelity (or rather Ma- the fretful porcupine." Nay, nay! my good terialism) are inseparable. The American friends, avaunt! let carnal men stand back!-Government indorses no religious system :- the "coming" spiritual women is the last hope it is un-religious. It is humanity that has lost of humanity. Hearken! listen to the breath-ple shall praise for ever and ever," because she Jesus said to his disciples, "Ye have not led "the virgin characters who followed her chosen me, but I have chosen you." This is unto the King"-Jesus. To us the "marriage

And thus, as the first appearing of the Spirit through their successors, the Christ continues This, then, is my criticism; and this is my to operate for the perfecting of their spiritual those "upon whom the ends of the world have F. W. EVANS.

LIFE OF CAPT. JOHN BROWN BY REDEATH

Jesus This exceedingly interesting biography of the Hano of

S. T. MUNSON, Sole Agent for N Y., 143, Fulton at,

WANTED

The highest praise you have in store for furnished. He is not always here, but expects to examine ne and give Psychomet ic readings when he is in the Addre a "ROSICRUCIAN," at this office, stating locality

New Graeffenberg Water Cure and Hinesipa-thic Institute, (near Utica, N. Y.)

This establishment has been in successful operation for rience has demonstrated that it is necessary to under stand the use of water for its most successful application Those who believer in cure by the laying on of hands, we will add that many of our most important cures have been effected in part by such means.

For particulars, address B. HOLLAND, M. D., New Gractienberg, N. Y.

Wm. Holland, Clairveyant and Electropathic Physician. Careful and thorough examinations made in ev-

Spiritual Meetings in Boston.

MISS MOULTON will hold circles in the first room of MISS MOULTON will hold circles in the first room on the second floor, No.171, corner of Court & Sudbury streets, Boston, every Monday night, for trance speak-ing; every Sunday and Wednesday night, for miscella-neous communications; and every Friday for develop-ment, commencing at 71.4 o'clock P. M. Admission 10 cts. She will also give private sittings for the develop-usent of mediums (for which her powers are specially adapted,) for which she will require to be paid a reason-able compensation, according to circumstances. 13tf able compensation, according to circumstances.

MEETINGS AT NO. 14 BROMFIELD St. -- A Spiritualist meeting is held every Sunday morning, at 10 1-2 o'clock, and afternoon at 3.

A Conference Meeting is held every Monday evening, 7 1-2 o'clock.

S. D. & H. W. SMITH,

ORGAN HARMONIUMS, PEDAL BASS HARMONIUMS, ORGAN MELODEONS, AND MELODEONS,

NO. 511 WASHINGTON ST, BOSION.
THE ORGAN HARM NIUM is designed both Church and Palor; contains four setts of reis whole, and thus give the effect of Grand Organ.— in an elegant rosewood case for $250.

THE FEDAL BASS HARMONIUM is arranged with wo manuals or banks of Keys, the lowest set running n octave higher than the other, and may be used sepaately, and thus get in one case two distinct instruments; rely the use of the consider the y, and thus get in one case where y the use of the coupler, the to banks of keys be played at the same time by the use of the front only. This connected with the Sub-Bass, will prosente effect of a large organ, and is sufficiently heavy if a house that seats from 1000 to 1500 persons. HE ORGAN MELODION is designed for parior private use. The construction is similar to the richinstrument, being arranged with two banks of is, and when used together, by means of the coupler apable of as great volume of power as the Church trument, when used together, by means of the coupler apable of as great volume of power as the Church trument, when used it thout the Pedals.

Mrs. R. H. I taking resumed the spacious Buildings, 511 one. Having resumed the spacious Buildings, 511 one. Having resumed the spacious Buildings, 511 one. Having resumed the spacious Buildings, 511 one.

Washington Street, we have every facility for manufacturing purposs, and employ none but the most experienced workness. In short, we will promise our customers an instrument equal if not superior to any man ufacturer, and guarantee entire and perfect satisfaction. Music Teachers, Leaders of Choirs, and others interested in music matters, are respectfully invited to visit our rooms at any time, and examine or test the instruments on exhibition for sale at their pleasure.

As a still further guarantee to the public as to the excellence of the Melodeons and Harmoniums from our manufactory, we beg leave to refer, by permission, to the following Piano Forte manufacturers of Boston, who have examined our Instruments, and will give their opinion when called upop:

Chickering & Sons; Wm P. Emerson; Geo. Hews; Hallet & Cumston; Brown & Allen; Woodward & Brown, T. Gilbert & Co; A. W. tadd & Co.; Newhall & Co. MLLODEONS AND HARMONIUMS RENTED.—Persons who wish to hire Melodeons and Harmoniums with a view of purchasing at the end of the year, can have the rent credited as part payment of the purchase money. This matter is worthy of special note, as it enables those who desire a fair test of the instruments before purchasing, to obtain it at the expense of the manufacturers, to the extent at least of a year's rent.

Orders from any part of the country or world, sent direct to the manufactory in Boston, with cash or satisfactory reference, will be promptly attended to, and as faithfully executed as if the parties were resert, or employ d an agent to select, and on as reasonable terms.

PRICE LIST.

PRICE LIST.

Scroll leg, 1 1-2 octave, $60; Scroll leg, 5 octave, $75; Piano style, 5 octave, $100; Piano style, extra finish, 5 octave, $110; Piano style, carved leg, $(25; Piano style, 2 sets of reeds, 150; Piano style, 5 octave, $130; Organ Melodeou, $200; Organ Harmonium, $250; Pedal Bass Hara onium, $275.

Illustrated Catalogue sent free on application to—

S. D. & H. W. SMITH, S. D. & H. W. SHILL, 511 WASHINGTON STREET, BOSTON. m25 ly.

Mr. Rand's Pamphlet, giving an account of the Davenport base and its is cartion from fail by the spirits, is for saleat the Spiritaal Book S tore of Bela Marsh, 14 Bromfield street, Boston.

N. FRANK WHITE will lecture in Taunton, Mass., Jan. 29ta; Troy. N Y., through Feb.; Plymouth, Mass., Mar.

Restorative Syrup. qts. $2,00; pints $1,00; Palmonia; $1.00; Neutralizing Mixture, 50 cts.; Elixir for Cholera, 50 cts.; Dysentery Cordial, 50 cts.; Liniment, $1,00; Ointment 25 cts.

S. T. MUNSON, 143 Fulton st. N. Y., Wholesale and

New and Valuable Works-Just Published.

GOD IN HIS PROVIDENCES—by FERNALD—a work which has received the highest commendations from the libe. ral Christian, Spiritual, and Secular press throughout the Country. I rice $1,00.

-by Robert Dale Owen. Price $1.25.

THE THINKER-by A. J. Davis Price $1,00. THE ARCANA OF NATURE-by Hudson Tuttle. Price

All of the above may be obtained, at wholesale and retail, of S. T. MUNSON, General Book Agent, 143 Fulton

A B. CHILD, M. D., Dentist,

MEDIUMS IN MAINE.

Mrs. Leach, Brewer, Writing and Trance Medium Mr. Bremhalt, Belfast, pewerful Healing Medium. Gibson Smith, Camden, Trance Speaking, Healing and cribing and Healing Medium, by the laying on of hands John P. Cotton, Searsport, Rapping and Physical Me-

Joseph N. Hodges, Monroe, Prescribing, Trance-Speak ng and Lecturing Medium.

G. B. Hopkins, Okltown, Trance-Speaking Medium. Rosan M. Smith, Hampden, Trance-Speaking Mediu Susan W. Jackson, Hampden, Rapping, Tipping and

Russell Severence, Bradford, powerful Healing and Trance Medium

Miss Emerice Cunningham, Bradford, Trance Speaking and Prescribing Medium.

Mrs. Keeu, Augusta, Writing and Trance Medium.

J. L. Lovell, Yarmouth, Clairvoyant, Healing, Trance

Mrs. Haskell, Buckfield, Trance-Speaking and Lectur Miss A. C. Cram, Stevens' Plains, Writing, Transc

peaking and Lecturing Medium.

Benj. Colson, Munroe, Prescribing and Trance Medium

Aunouncements.

[All persons announced as speakers, under this head are requested to use their influence in favor of procur-ing subscribers for, and extending the circulation of, the

Mrs. A. P. Tubmrson may be addressed at Lowell ti'l further notice. Will speak in the surrounding towns on the Sabbath if desired.

CHARLES A. HAYDEN, Trance Speaking Medium, will

F. L. WADSWORTH speaks Jan. 1st, in Delphia, Ind. 8th, in Elkhart, Ind.; 15th, in Sturgis, Mich.; 22d, in Odrian, Mich.; Feb. 5th, Battle Creek, Mich.; 11th, 18th and 24th, Rockford, Ill.; March 4th, 11th, 18th and 25th, Lyons, Mich. Address as above.

Miss A. W. SPRAGUE will speak at Davenport, Iowa, 1st, Sunday in Jan., at Cincinnati, 2nd., and 3d. Sunpays, at Terr Haute, Ind., 4th. and 5th. Sundays, and at Chicago hrough February.

H. P. FAIRFIELD will speak in Stafford, Ct , Dec. 18th; in New Eedford, Suneay, Dec. 25th . in Portland, Me., the two first Sabbaths in January; in Willimantic, port, Ct., the four Sundays of February. Applications for week evenings will be attended to. Address at the above places and dates.

Miss EMMA HARDINGE speaks in New Orleans in December; all applications for Southern cities to be addressed care of N. C. Folgar, Esq , New Orleans. In Jan. and Feb. 1860, in Memphis and Cincinnati; in March, April, &c., in Philadelphia, Providence and the East. Residence 8 Fourth' Avenue, New York City.

MRS J. W. CURRIER will lecture in Portsmouth, Dec. All S. W. Cornels win lecture in Forsmouth, Dec. 11th; Lawrence, Dec. 25th, and Jan 1st.; Huntington, 8th; Moodus, Ct., evenings of 10th & 12th; thickopee, 15th, 22d & 29th; Putnam, Ct., Feb 5th; Foxboro, 12th & 19th; Marblelead, 26 h. She will speak evenings, in the vicinity of the above places. Address, Box 815, Mrs. R. H. BURT will give lectures on every thing pertaining to Spiritual and Practical life, Religion and Meta physics under the influence of spirits. Address the above at No. 2, Columbta street, Boston, Mass.

Miss ROSA T. AMEDEY will lecture in Oswego, during the month of January, 1869. Friends desiring her services for Sabbath and week evenings in the two or three months following, will please address her at 32 Allen st, prior to Dec. 2stk and during the menth of January, in care of 1. L. Pool, Oswego, N. Y.

GEORGE ATKINS will receive calls to lecture on the Sabba h. Address, No. 3 Winter street, Boston.

LINDLEY M. ANDREWS, Superior Lecturer, will travel in the south and West this Fail and Winter. Persons de siring his services may address him either at Yellow Springs, Ohio, or at Mendota, Ill., until further notice #

Mrs. C. M. TUTTLE can be addressed at West Winsted, Conn., during the winter, and any triend communicating to her during her present state of health, which is exceed-ngly delicate, will be gratefully received and let those who can send any message from the spirit spheres that may aid to cheer and strengthen her.

J S LOVELAND, will lecture in Oswego. N. Y., during the months of Nov & Feb; and in Bos on the three Sundays in Jan. Will lecture week evenings in the vicinity of the above named places.

Address at 14 Bromfield st, care of Bela Marsh, Bes-

CHRISTIAN LINDA, Trance Speaking Medium, will receive calls to lecture in any part of this western country. A dress Christian Linda, care of Benj. Tea.dale, box 221, Al-

Jonn C. Cluer, and his daughter Susie, will answer calls to lecture and give Readings on Sunday or other evenings. Address No. 5 Bay street, or at this Office.— Mr. C. will act as agent for the AGE.

M. P. FAIRFIELD may be addressed at Greenwich VII-

Mrs. A. M. MIDDLEBROOK (formerly Mrs. Henderson,) will lecture in Providence, Dec, 18th & 25th, and Jan. 1st and 8th. Applications for the week evenings will be at tended to. She will visit Memphis, Tenn., in Feb. and St. Louis in March, and would request friends wishing All of Mrs. Mettler's Celebrated Clairyoyant to secure her services on her route, to address her as speedily as possible at her liox, 422, Bridgeport, Cons Br. James County & Constanting Tourism Tourism County (Constanting Tourism County) calls to lecture in trance state. JAMES H. SHEPARD, Speaking and Seeing Medium will answer calls to lecture whenever the Friends may desire. Post Office address, South Acworth, N. H.

N S GREENLEEF is ready to answer calls to lecture on the Sabbath. Address Lowe l, Mass. H F GARDINER of Boston, will answer calls to lecture n Sundays and week day evenings. Miss R_R AMEDY, 32 Allen street. Boston, Trance Speaking Medium, will answer calls for speaking en the Sabbath and at any other time the friends may desire .-Address her at 32 Allen street, Boston. 37 She will also H L BOWKER, Natick, Mass, will give lectures on Spiritualism and its proofs, for intuition, for such compensation above expenses as generosity may prompt.

G B STEBRINS speaks on Sundays through the year at that vicinity in the week.

A C ROBINSON, trance-speaker, will receive calls to lecture. Address at Fall River, Mass.

Rev JOHN PIERFONT will recive calls to speak on Spiritualism. Address West Medford, Mass.

BENJAMIN DANFORTH will receive calls to preach on Ancient and Modern Spiritualism synonymous with the Gospel of Christ, as he understands it. Address at Bos-

BOSTON SPIRITUAL CONFERENCE.

The Boston Spiritual Conference will be held every Wednes-day evening, commencing at 71 2 o'clock, * the Spiritual AGE HALL, for the discussion of questions connected with Spiritual sm and reform.

SKETCHES FROM NATURE; FOR MY JUVENILE FRIENDS.

BY PRANCES BROWN.

Price in cloth, 38 cts., in cloth, gilt, 50 cts. For sale by BELA MARSH, 14 Bromfield street.

The Bible: last of Divine origin, authority, and influence? Ry S. J. Finney. Price, in paper, 25 ets ; cloth, 40 cts.

A Dissertation on the Evidences of Divine Inspiration.
By Datus Kelley. Price, 60 etc. On receipt of the price, the above books will be sent, postage free Just published and for sale by Bela Marsh, 14 Bromfield street.