WOMAN'S LIBERATION

and the

SPACE SISTERS

"Women are indeed an admirable sex. Through the centuries they have been wept upon, stepped upon, and slept upon and still find something in men to love."

— Liz Carpenter, member of the National Women's Political Caucus.

This period is one of increasing liberation for women and will continue to be so. Why is this? Because a true emergence of the woman soul on the world scene is imperative if a balance of the sexes is to be achieved. Each sex is the balance of the other, a half of the whole, an expression of the one androgynous being created in the beginning by God. For ages woman has been held in subjection to animal-man whereas god-man knows her to be his equal and his companion and would never place her beneath him.

One of the main reasons for the state of utter chaos existing on planet Earth has been the appalling war between the sexes: man domineering by brute strength and power, and woman scheming, behind the scenes to subtly control man through his passions and his weaknesses.

Where does all this ugly scene connect with the Space sisters, women met on Space-craft by contactees, women spoken of as Space commanders, "queens" of canals, crew members, technicians, liason officers with Earth, channellers of information through telepathic sources? No indication has ever been given that Space women were considered inferior beings or that Space men considered them as competing with the male sex when they performed their duties or graced occasions with their beauty, intelligence and wit. Why were they not regarded as competitors to be fought with or "put down"? The answer is very simple: because Space men are not interested in the stupid sport of competing nor are their healthy egos so fragile or insecure that they feel threatened by intelligent woman as a sex.

No false code of rules taught them that a woman had a set role from which she must not deviate. No society taught their women to feel guilty if they considered themselves as individuals in their own right, creative at many levels. For Space men are co-operators, not competitors. They know the true joy of companionship of the mind and soul as well as the sharing of love with Space women.

Now on this Earth after centuries of subjection and humiliation women have started to arise, as a sex, in the last fifty or sixty years and have become militant. That they have arisen was inevitable but that they have become militant is, in a sense, unfortunate. Now we not only have angry violent men running around fighting among themselves; we have in certain aspects of woman's Lib, angry unlovely women, hating men and screaming for centuries-long vengeance. Is this last state any better than the first? The militants in women's Lib would stoutly affirm it is. But like warfare, it does not cease when you take up the enemy's weapons but merely grows more ferocious and bloody. In the fray everybody gets hurt and the victories which are won are small triumphs in a never-ending bitterness of spirit.

Many men are now actively hostile to woman's liberation and feel acutely threatened. Many men are becoming passive and unsure of their "correct" role as women become more aggressive and 'unfeminine' in their behaviour. Yet why are "roles" necessary? Why cannot men and women be themselves, expressing both active and passive qualities: love, creativity, tenderness, passion of soul and flesh, conviction, adventuressness...meeting challenges and crises secure in a companionship of spirit: No longer divided and warring between themselves, but united in equality of purpose to save a planet threatened with many dangers.

The common enemy of both sexes is a society, or set of rules, customs, habits which precludes free expression of the qualities of the soul of either sex. Any society which largely defines woman as a sex object for the purposes of copulation or reproduction, in other words: a body without a mind or soul, is sick or primitive. Any society which forces the male into intense competition with other males, with material "goodies" such as a fat bank account, an expensive car and a sexy young woman as the prize, is a society devoid of spiritual values. For all tender qualities of real love and companionship are minimal in such a society. All true spiritual creativity is stifled. Both sexes "use" the other in a sense to obtain position, prestige, gratification of physical drives. Neither truly relates to the other at a level of mind and soul.

Man as a sex MUST express freely the tender qualities of the heart, selfless love, empathy and compassion. Women as a sex must be free to express their adventuressness, to meet challenges of the mind and control their own destinies and lives devoid of double standards and constant "put-downs". One wonders what it was that inspired the United States government to place a statue of a woman as "Freedom" on the capitol building and as the statue of Liberty in the entrance to New York harbor!!

Yes, women must be liberated but so must men from the material miasma and its death-dealing qualities.

On awakening from this illusion both sexes must seek a common good and, in finding each other, truly find the point of equilibrium which is peace: Peace for each other and peace for the planet.

The Nature of Man

- Clytron

I come from the star-studded night of Space to speak with thee concerning the nature of Man. I, who am called Clytron in your consciousness, would converse with thee this night across the distances of Space. For where mind links with mind, distance no longer exists.

Man is a composite being, a creature of restlessness and vagaries, at once spiritual as the highest stars in heaven's vault and then again as the merest animal who plods the surface of your fields. Man of Earth has within him the heights and the depths of all creation, for he can rise to godhood or sink to bestiality. He can give of his compassion or descend into a violence and destructiveness that far out-matches the most ferocious of Earth's beasts.

Is there any other like unto Man in the species called Man, throughout this system or in the other galaxies of God? If Man was not a hybrid being, compounded of the essence of angel and devil, God-Man and animal, would he be as he is?

In the confusion, which spreads itself in ever widening circles on your planet, lies the stamp of Earthman's complexities, his search for himself and his frustration in not finding that self. Man is a random breed compounded of stars and legends, of gods and men. Yet when he will, he rises to the stature of his innate godhood and when he will not, he descends into the pit of his own iniquities.

Mark well that as this time and this cycle draws to a close, Man as a race, as a being incarnate on planet Earth, faces a decision of much magnitude: A decision to live or die, to live immortally, eternally, part of the eternal race of Man throughout Space or to die destroying himself and his kind on a dying planet.... dying from the very sickness of its own confusions.

In the making of that decision falter and, finding the dual nature within themselves, become confused and lost for awhile until they, in turn, re-establish their own focal point of inner Light. So, that humanity which flees in confusion within itself from the approaching holocaust it has created, that humanity in its flight to find one last reality of enduring worth and if finding none, becomes lost in the morass. But, if finding that one, that anchor point of enduring worth... if that then also is lost thee, is naught left but to flounder?

For humanity of planet Earth is composed of men and women and each in their turn, in their own way, seek to find an anchor of Light. Some find it in the stars, some in their fellowman, some in religion, some in art and some in the fields of their birth. Yet each man's anchor is his own expression of his godhood and his own unique, individual contribution to LIFE and not to death.

Take from the stars their light and you have naught but a darkened sky. Take from mankind the anchors of Light and you have a pall of darkness which falls to a day of doom. Each "child" of Light, each focal point of Light, is as an anchor point to the children of Men, held there by those who serve from the highest levels to the lowest, by those who incarnated from the realms of Light and from those below who saw the Light and served.

If that one Light remained on thy planet, it could of itself shut out the ever-encroaching tide of darkness and destruction which sweeps remorselessly onward through the cities of man and through the citadels of men's minds.

If you would be as a lighted candle, then claim thy immortal heritage of Light, for the darkness shall not, cannot, may not, will NOT, engulf the Light: - No matter how small that Light, if it burn constantly and with a one-pointed flame, it may not be extinguished.

So thou, who art of candles of Light, children of Light upon the Earth planet, stand tall and straight and rise up and with a loud voice claim thy heritage of Light. For even as thou claim'st this heritage, the protection of the Light, the link with divine source, that Light within, will flare out until it becomes at one with the greater Light which is eternal and the one gives sustenance to the other and becomes of that great ocean of effulgent Light from realms divine.

Most true it is that darkness seeks to extinguish Light... that darkened forces and darkened beings would overthrow the children of Light at this time on thy planet. Yet this shall NOT be if thou wilt but link thyself with the greater source which supercedes all darkness, all evil and knows naught of its existence save as illusion, shadow, devoid of reality.

Dwell therefore upon that which is eternal even as your ancient Sanscrit has said: "From the unreal to the REAL, From darkness into Light, from death to immortality".

Light shall permeate thy beings and Light shall fill thy days and of Light alone shalt thou be.

In my journeyings through Space, my consciousness linked with thine, I find we are well met and will meet again in another hour, of another day and a splendor of Light shall encompass thy souls.

From the star-studded night of Space to the small emerald of Earth, I carry my consciousness and am out again to the worlds of Light.

you with this one thought: IT IS FOR YOU TO EXPERIENCE, OUR BROTHERS, OUR SISTERS. It is for you to find anew, as once in very ancient days you KNEW, of the essence of being that you indeed are part of ALL THAT IS.

In the Light of Our Radiant One, I give you my salutations of Light. - Adonai vassu.

WHICH DO YOU CHOOSE?

Greetings, our brothers and sisters of Earth. I identify at this time as Sut-Ko of the Saturn Council. I have not communicated with you for some short period of time, but again I find myself called upon to bring to your consciousness my thoughts and certain concepts still alien to the consciousness of Earthman. You stand at the end of an era, an era which has been marked by greed and violence, by disharmony and by great disturbances of nature upon the surface of your planet. This era has lasted for many thousands of your Earth years. It is now ending, and nothing that Earthman in his consciousness of this time can do, will stop or break the ending of this cycle.

You have a saying in your language that "the mills of God grind slowly, but they grind exceedingly small", and this is indeed so and through long periods of your time, Earthman has pursued a course which has led him further and further away from the Laws of the One Creator of all beings. Now the cycle comes full circle and Earthman and his brothers from Space find a time fast approaching when they must meet once more and recognize each other as creations of the One God.

A time is here for the upswing of spiritual evolution towards the divinity which lies within Man: not flesh man, but God-Man. Yet God-Man is incarnate in fleshly vehicles! My peoples and many from this System have watched the long descent of man on planet Earth, into a densified state of matter which you call materialism. They have watched it reach its zenith, and they have known that this too must end, that a brighter day must dawn when a realization must come to the men of Earth that out in the stars and the heavens exist other beings, other life waves, other ways of life. We have waited through long, long periods of time until this cycle came upon the planet Earth, when once more it would regain its rightful place, as you have heard, in a Brotherhood of Man.

In a Solar System and a Galaxy which teems with life, the many millions of people who dwell upon your surface must either come to a realization of this reality or perish in great numbers from the surface of your Earth: NOT by any act of a vengeful God, NOT by any descent of men from Space to punish, BUT by their own decision to live life in its fullness or to die in the trap of materialism.

For he who believes that his existence is bounded by walls of flesh cannot soar in spirit, or in mind, beyond those limitations which he has created until he passes from out of his fleshly vehicle. It is sad to my peoples' understanding that on a planet of such great beauty, mankind would not understand of the nature of a Creator who gave of himself to his creation and brought about this beauty, to the many life waves which exist side by side, to experience and to learn from each other. So it is that this time is upon you, this time of Change of which we have spoken so many times; so it is that our craft have come to your planet in great numbers and our peoples watch over you and walk among you and bring with them the radiations of their beings, not the concepts of their minds alone, though this also they bring, but the radiation of their beings. It is this radiation, extended to, given freely, and shared among the Earth's people, awakening the love which exists, truly exists in the hearts of all peoples, even in that which is considered the most degraded, that will bring about the change, that will bring about the beginning of a new cycle: The cycle wherein Earthman will find fulfillment of his deepest yearnings, will find the love of his soul, the superlative creations of his inventive mind, and the tranquility of his spirit indwelling.

When once more, after many, many long thousands of years, Earthman walks among the stars with his brothers, he will know that there are no limitations, that the Universe is his to explore; he will know many things. Yet until that time, only those who have the courage to venture forth beyond the confines of their culture, beyond the confines of these civilizations which you call your Earth and its patterns, only as each man and each woman, in equal measure, walk hand in hand towards a destiny of Light, will they find enlightenment and fulfillment. What more truly do your peoples desire, each one, than the fulfillment of their inner beings and the finding of that love that each seeks thru devious pathways.

I speak with you, my Earth brothers, my Earth sisters, to many minds, some puzzled, some questioning, some gladly accepting my thoughts as they reach you. I speak to you at this time of the things which come upon your planet and upon you, each one. I ask you not to be afraid of the changes which you see around you or to resist them in your consciousness, not to build walls of fear, of hatred, of prejudice toward any being, for if you build these walls, they will enclose only you and shut out from you the sunlight which would otherwise reach you and illumine your days. Discover first who you are, and what it is that you most truly represent: the god-spark within? Or do you represent simply the conglomerate pattern of your early environment, your parents' prejudices and your own unfortunate experiences?

Which do you choose, our brothers, to express? Each one has the choice. Which one do you choose to express: The love of your beings, or the bitterness of the pathways which many have trodden? It has been truly written in our records, that only as each man and each woman gives forth of their own essence, shall they receive those things which shall bring forth to them the fulfillment of their beings. The essence of the God spark is love; the essence of the God spark is understanding, it is empathy, it is expression, it is sharing. So it is that your cycle of a new pattern on the planet Earth begins with the individual, not with the talking of many men in council chambers, nor the arguing of many voices raised in dissent and war and preparation for war, but in the individual and that which they choose to express. Each one who chooses to express the God spark, or as we have spoken of it, the godself, joins with another until so much Light emanates from these radiant beings on your planet, that they alone, though small in number, will bring about the change. Those who are left behind and who wander in darkness of their own making, will question and will say, "Why is it that certain of our brothers have found peace and joy and fulfillment, and yet we live in darkness and degradation; why is it that there is this great difference?"

Your Christian Bible has spoken of a "separation of the wheat from the chaff". This separation takes place even before your very eyes; the separation is by individual choice of every man and every woman who stands upon your planet as the frequencies quicken and the energies from outside pour in and irradiate this small plot of mud called the planet Earth. Small, yet so great in its beauty that many men and women come from outside of your system, traveling to see of the change, the great experiment which is taking place.

I, Sut-Ko, of the Saturn Council, who inhabit a body not unlike your own, yet perhaps more perfect, more etherealized than your concept of flesh, yet none-the-less humanoid in your understanding...I send to you at this time, in my consciousness the radiation of my being, and I leave with you my thoughts, my great love for Earth's peoples and I bid you take these things into your beings and, as you would, make them a part of yourselves also.

Now my brothers, my sisters of Earth, I withdraw my consciousness in that my communication has been of some length. Again I will speak thru this one who is our own, whose thoughts are attuned to you, at another time. I ask that the Light of Our Radiant One, whom you know as your God, Who is Creator of all beings everywhere, be with you, that you may walk, each one, in His Pathway of Light.

TRUE ESSENCE OF BEING

Devic Kingdom

We speak to Man of a consciousness not his own. We who come from the Devic plane of manifestations speak from the spheres of Light of a dimension beyond the physical, of a consciousness evolving into an ascending spiral reaching to the God-head and the Source of Light: Light itself, Light in its essence, Light out-pouring through the many levels or spheres of conscious existence reaching down unto Man of planet Earth, clad in a garment of flesh yet immortal in essence, struggling to express beyond the garment, beyond the covering, of that essence of being from which he came.

We who speak from the Devic Kingdoms draw near unto the kingdom called Man that he may partake of our strength, of our energies, to take within himself that strength which is of immortal, eternal things, to gird himself against the coming storms of mortal intent, bringing with them the breaking of a chrysalis, the emergence of Man from his shell of matter: Not in the space of an hour or a day, but on the space of a cycle, and in the ending of a cycle and the beginning of a new. In that time and in that sense which is timeless shall Man emerge and know the source of his own being...limitless...expanding...shining in Light... naked of covering, yet needing no garment to hide from him his own Light.

If Man but glimpsed for one moment of his existence this reality which he is and which he shall be, he would no longer be caught in the trappings of flesh, but he would soar as an eagle and he would illumine the flesh within which he dwells, making it shine as a raiment of Light, transparent, glowing from within.

We speak of things which are mystical to the minds of Man, yet are realities in the planes of Light where Man and his many concerns are but an illusion, but a dream that is dreamt in the night and is forgotten. From that point of reality, from that point at the essence of being, we seek to impress Man, to strengthen Man, to bring him unto himself so that as change comes upon his mode of existence, upon his planet, bringing with it the cyclic patterns of evolution on their ever spiralling modulations, he may be carried into a consciousness in which he shall find peace, joy, contentment and the creativity which goes ever outward from the God-head, the Source of all being.

As the winds of change blow upon the planet, we of the Devic Kingdom who communicate now with Man, do so with an awareness of the ever increasing pace of the cycles within cycles, and the rapidly accelerating frequencies of energy which are carrying this planet and the planets of this System into a new extension of being, into new levels of awareness: For all patterns, all planets move onward and nothing remains stable within the creations of One Creator. As change comes, that which is old and crumbling with the decay of its past, dies, sometimes an agonizing death and the struggle is titanic; yet die it must, for ever onward and upward move the cycles of Man, of animal, of plant, of rock, of all created essence of One Creator seeking to express on levels of consciousness, seeking to tell in voice, or voiceless endeavor, of the source of their beings, of the out-pourings of Light, of energy, from that One which you have called God, that they might give expression in their own mode of being to the beauty and the wonder of creation.

We come not to tell Man of that which he has termed destruction, for we know naught of destruction; we know only of change. We know only of death and re-birth, of changing awareness from one level of consciousness, from the leaf which dies, to the tree which is reborn each Spring, to the man who lays down his mortal shell, or garment of Earth, and emerges at another level of dimension and continues to be. We know NAUGHT of destruction, we know only of CHANGE.

We speak to man in terms of awareness, of himself, his own being, his own essence and his oneness with all created life. For is not one pebble on the shore that part of the many, or one grain of sand as part of that vast ocean of consciousness. And if Man will but immerse himself in that ocean or sea of consciousness which is the spirit of all created life, he will emerge reborn and he will have within himself the power which is his from the Godhead. He has but to reach out with his hands and to draw from that essence, from that ocean, from that limitless expanse of substance in order to receive his sustenance, not from Men, but from the Creator. And when he learns, each one, each man, each woman, to do this then there is naught of life incarnate or discarnate which is as a barrier to his expression or to the filling of his cup with joy. For all that is necessary to his being lies there, for his sustenance, if he will but reach out his hands and ask of the Being who created him to give of His substance. It was never withheld, oh beings of Earth, only thou hast shielded thyself from it. It was never taken from thee, thou hast taken thyself from it.

It was never told to thee that thy endeavorings or thy journeyings were of sin, but only that thou might learn of the Laws of the Creator. It was never said to thee that thou would be punished, but only that thou punished thyself and hid thy heads in shame and cut thyself off from the substance from which thou wert created.

It has been said to thee, beings of Earth, by others who have come in consciousness from other planets in thy System, "Come home", and we also have said to thee, Come home, to the essence of thine own beings, to the Source from which thou wert created. Come home to the unity of Universal life throughout this System and return in consciousness to the inner core of thine own essence and no longer shall thou wander as a stranger in an alien land.

The time fast comes, oh beings of Earth, when a veil shall part and many shall be aware of our being and our reality and the reality of many things previously hidden. And in that day shall Earthman return and a resurgence take place of the springs of eternal life.

We who communicate with thee, through this one who is our channel, speak to those of you gathered here in consciousness, to give only of our Light, of our consciousness, to bring to thee a greater awareness and the blessings of Light eternal.

May that Light which is of our One Creator rest with thee at this time and in the days which lie before thee.

EMERGENCE INTO LIGHT

— Raymere

Greetings, our brothers, our sisters in Light. We of the XY7 craft transmit to you upon this occasion relevant to another phase of activities.

In our endeavors in the past, we have communicated with you over a period of some years, through this our channel, data relevant to changes taking place and about to take place on the surface and under the surface and in the skies of your planet. This phase in a sense now is ending; much data has been transmitted, much data is within your record archives and has been distributed to many of your peoples...those who have ears to hear, eyes to see, and minds to understand.

We have spoken in the past in our transmissions of three phases of activity and some little time ago we spoke of the ending of Phase Two and the beginning of Phase Three. The first was a preparatory period for many of you, not only in this area of southern Oregon where I am transmitting, but in many areas where our peoples are communicating to your peoples...a preparatory period of training, an understanding of others to be brought about, thus linking Light groups, lighted individuals throughout your planet in what we have termed a web or network of Light. This phase was to enable the Light energies which are being transmitted from higher realms...both etherealized realms and also from our own physical/etheric existence...from our craft, from our planetary stations as anchor points of actual Light energy on your planet, to hold it against the time of the greater upheavals: Upheavals not only of MIND but upheavals of a very physical nature.

That phase ended some four years ago and Phase Two began with the actual manifestation (as we stated in our transmission of that name) of that which was destructive...manifestation in two phases: the higher and lower octave of expressions. You have witnessed on your planet, in your civilization, in your culture, the outworking of this particular phase: Phase Two, in the tremendous patterns of change which have shown themselves, in the changing standards of life, of what you have termed morality, of what you have termed Man's relationship to Man. Now you stand at the door of Phase Three, as does our own particular channel of communication and in this phase you will witness that which you have not previously understood, not only in your own lives, but in the lives of many about you.

You will witness what might be termed an initiatory experience into higher realms of consciousness of Light itself. During Phase Two of manifestation of Light and dark energies, a tremendous releasing of ancient energy patterns (you may term them Karmic debts) has taken place in many individuals. And in the releasing of these energies, much chaos, in a sense, has appeared to ensue on your planet. Yet this, again, was necessary in that the bringing of dross to the surface could only bring about in the final analysis a cleansing of man: A cleansing of his entire realm of consciousness so that he might bring forth from the depths of his ancient memory those things which of necessity had to be expressed, experienced and released at this time prior to the dawning of the New Age of Light: This Age, variously called the Aquarian Age and the Solar Age of Man.

It is not necessary for me to explain to you or to our own channel the tremendous force inherent within these ancient energy patterns, for many of you who have experienced them, have known of the almost devastating effect of these as they work themselves through the various levels of Mind: through the various vehicles of Man and express fear patterns, violence, anger, patterns varied, numerous, and at times difficult of emergence. As Phase Two now ends, you may witness many of these taking place. We have stated to you in the months which have passed, that it is of great value that you assist one another at this time...this you have done within your own center of activity and within those other centers which we have witnessed. There has been comradeship, much sharing and greater depths of understanding between those who are the children of Light of the New Age. Thus, even in the midst of what might be termed devastating experiences, there has been a closer drawing together...a sharing and an understanding of that which has been another's experience, that which was another's pain. In that sharing has been a greater understanding of the nature of Man.

As you walk now into the future, this decade of your 70's, you walk into a period of expression of that which lies beyond...the poor wording of your language to explain...-it can only be experienced. We told you many years ago of your time that there would come a period which we could foresee, which we ourselves have experienced in which there would be no words to explain to you until you actually experienced and KNEW for yourselves and that period is now beginning.

Each man, each woman's experience of this which is Light (and there is no other word in your vocabulary to express it) will be different to some degree and yet there will be a common meeting point. There will be within that Light a great outpouring of Love, of compassion, of understanding, of true brotherhood of Man at last on the planet called Earth even in the midst of the greater chaos which still will outwork at levels physical, geological, in the rising and sinking of lands and changes of many of your ocean currents, your temperature belts and your areas of abode. You walk now into the future of this Aquarian Age. It is for you, our brothers, our sisters, to experience with your entire being, reborn in a sense, as only a child is reborn: in innocence, able to experience with new-found joy those things which are of the soul's essence: those things which defy the materialistic castles of Man which have been built on sand and which crumble now in every direction, building at last upon a firm foundation toward a bridge between our peoples and your peoples, between your people and the domains of Light from which their beings once came and to which they return.

In this period of time the actual etherialization, to a certain degree, of the physical body of certain individuals will take place. The need for physical sustenance to the degree which has previously manifested will no longer be required, for sustenance actually lies in the Light energies themselves, in the forces of Nature and in the actual energy of Love which is transmitted through the brotherhood of Man from one individual to another.

As you venture into this period, we, your brothers from other planets, a little further on the pathway at this time, will be enabled to walk with you. As you reach a certain point of consciousness and emerge, in a sense as the chick from the egg, you will be aware of things, beings, forces, energies, which previously have been veiled from your sight. In that period, we of the XY7 craft who transmit to you, will, one day, not far distant, beckon to certain of your peoples, that you may walk upon our craft and talk with us and share of your experiences as we will share with you...no longer through telethought or Tensor beam transmission alone, but through the actual mingling of our peoples with yours. For this we have long waited and many of our peoples have united for the time when Earth, the erring planet, would return to the brotherhood of the Confederation and would once more know of life existent within this system and many other systems throughout the galaxies of the One Creator.

I, Raymere, who transmit to you at this time through the XY7 craft, give to you of our salutations, the essence of our beings and we leave (Concluded on Page 9)

Newton's Second Law of Motion Reviewed: A Case For Sir Isaac

There is a great deal of concern these days about challenging some of the fundamental laws of physics known as Newton's laws of motion and their application which are called Newtonian mechanics. Those of us who have personally experienced or believe in Flying Saucers insist that something must be wrong with such laws if they cannot explain, let alone acknowledge, the existence of phenomena in the skies that make right angle turns and accelerate to phenomenal speeds far in excess of anything even remotely possible by our own technology.

But Newton's laws work! the physicist might say (ignoring the above UFO observations). They describe the behavior of moving bodies. Granted, they don't work when applied to atomic or sub-atomic particles or to bodies traveling at velocities approaching that of light. In such cases we must use Einstein's relativistic modifications. But, so long as we restrict our mechanics to medium or astronomical sized bodies, we can successfully apply the classical laws. Besides, so continues the physicist, our space program is a triumph of applied Newtonian mechanics.

Most unsatisfying, Mr. Physicist, we might say (remembering the above UFO observations). You are wrong, even though your argument seems strong.

Ever try to tell someone to his face that he was wrong? How successful were you in changing his mind, or did you encounter resistance? Did he eventually change, and if so, did it take a lot or a little of persuasive force? Or was your argument so overpowering that he could not help converting even though his resistance was strong? We use the words, "forceful", "resistance", and "change", deliberately to illustrate how one of Newton's classic laws might be discussed and even appreciated in a different light.

One of the most fundamental and earliest known of physical phenomena is the simple fact that it takes some effort to push any object. To set some objects into motion by pushing is easier for some than for others. This property by virtue of which every body, however small, requires some force to push it is called "inertia". (We might also call it "resistance to change" for the purpose of our illustration or analogy.) A quantitative measure of inertia is "mass" which is closely related to "heaviness" or "weight". (Let our analog of "mass" be called "resistance".) Newton's second law of motion tells us that the larger the mass of an object, the more force it takes to change its motion by a given amount, i.e., to give it a certain acceleration. (In our analogy we might correspondingly say that the greater the resistance of our prospective convert, the more forceful our argument must be in order to bring about a desired change rate.) This law can be stated thus:

$$\text{Force} = \text{mass} \times \text{acceleration}$$

or, to use our analogy: $\text{Forcefulness} = \text{resistance} \times \text{rate of change}$

How can we use such an analogy? Note that if the resistance is small, a correspondingly smaller force is needed to bring about a given rate of change. Or, a larger force can make a given resistance change at a greater rate. Or, for a given force, the larger the resistance, the smaller the corresponding rate of change; or, the lesser the resistance, the greater the rate of change. All these observations are contained in the above equation.

Now, why do we make such a point of this analogy? It all centers around the word "mass", the concept of inertia, or resistance to change. It is with respect to mass that physics attributes the property of gravitational attraction. And these two concepts, mass and gravity, lie at the heart of all modern and classical physics. Physics, as a discipline, is recognized as the apex of science. Science, in turn, is revered as a pattern for social, political, and even ecclesiastical disciplines around which the rest of our modern, technological world revolves. The concept of mass rests comfortably at the hub of it all: it is the central concept.

But, suppose there is a subtle error in a central concept; that it is not quite right. What would the implications be? Consider again the physical concept of mass and our discussion of resistance. Let us think about it from the opposite direction. Whereas mass seems a rather inflexible or "solid" concept, we can consider resistance in a somewhat different way. Perhaps there are influences other than force that will cause resistance to change? Its nature under such circumstances would not necessarily be restricted to a Newton's second law formulation. For example, love, rather than force, is one different way to change resistance. And there may be a number of other ways. With this in mind, let us return to mass and wonder if there might be another way to influence it other than force. What might the physical counterpart of love be, and could it have an analogous effect on mass?

But perhaps we go too far here. Have we any right to stretch our analogy in this manner? It seems worth thinking about. The stakes are very high.

The Science Corner: A THOUGHT GEM BY A FAMOUS SCIENTIST

In his book, The Nature of Science, the late astronomer, Edwin Hubble, (father of Mt. Palomar's famous 200-inch telescope) discusses probability as the foundation of all modern science. Because of this fact, Hubble points out, modern science functions with an important flaw in that foundation, although it is hardly recognized as serious. The flaw is a logical one and it is this:

"Probability is based on the inductive process of logic." There are two processes of logic: 1) Deduction and 2) Induction. Deduction, in contrast to induction, is distinguished by the fact that the conclusion is certain and necessary if the premises are also. However, in general, conclusions reached by induction are only probable. Deduction is a solved logical problem, whereas induction is not, and that is the essential element of the flaw: the foundation of science is based on an unsolved logical problem. Science uses probability not because there is anything certain about it, but because it works. Its importance lies in its usefulness.

Having discussed this problem, Hubble goes on to say a very important and beautiful thing:

"The world of pure values, that world which science cannot enter, has no concern whatever with probable knowledge. There finality, that is: eternal, ultimate truth, is sought. And sometimes, through the strangely compelling experience of mystical insight, a man knows beyond a shadow of a doubt that he has been in touch with a reality that lies behind mere phenomena. He, himself, is completely convinced, but he cannot communicate his certainty. It is a private revelation. He may be right, but unless we share his ecstasy, we cannot know..."

Geodesic Dome Laboratory

At long last a laboratory is under construction! The winter weather has slowed building down considerably, but the foundation and floor joists are in. When completed it will be a 24-foot diameter geodesic dome, located just across Avenue of the Sun and partially hidden under fir, oak, and madrona trees near the Retreat. This writer is doing most of the work himself with occasional but important help from good friends of the Retreat. Since he is not really experienced nor used to such building activity, he has been dismayed at watching parts of himself not wearing too well at different stages of construction. For example, the left shoulder went out during the digging of the foundation trench, not to mention a muscle spasm in the back that had him unable to straighten up for a couple of days. The left wrist went during the pounding of joists together (he's left handed). And then the right thigh went...ah, and so it goes. Anyone out there care to challenge the mauling effect of this building? It's all rather humorous and doesn't hurt much...as long as he doesn't laugh!

A few words about the geodesic dome. It is a new indigenous architecture springing up in the deserts, valleys and mountains of America. Originally designed and patented by Buckminster Fuller and displayed at Expo '67 in Toronto, this structure is perhaps the strongest per unit weight yet devised by man. It was inspired, if memory is correct, by observing microscopic structures in nature. It is relatively simple and inexpensive, made of a structural network of short struts in triangles to approximate a part of a sphere. Imagine an orange cut in half and you have the idea. Inside the spaces soar; there are no posts. Rather than walls and roof, there's a skin as protection from the rain, wind and snow. Windows aren't holes punched in walls, but can arch overhead for a flowing view of what's outside.

Our dome will be built of Douglas fir struts covered by a plywood skin. Windows will probably be of plexiglass or vinyl. There is a natural feeling to a hemispherical structure, a freeing feeling. Inside there is a monolithic concrete laboratory table for experiments which was quite a job to pour as it had to be done in one operation.

A completion date depends on many factors: weather, funds, and available help. Originally we had hoped to have the plywood skin on before the snow came, but winter came a month early this year and appears to be staying quite awhile. Now we hope for an early Spring!

DOME BUILDING FUND

As we go to press, Winter appears to be over and the Dome building construction will be resuming. Donations or grants are being accepted now for the laboratory. Please make checks payable to: Dome Building Fund, Solar Light Retreat.

This is a new year...a 1 (one) year. Let's all work together to make it a truly New Age New Year.

Can No Wrong Be Righted?

Greetings, our brothers, our sisters in Light. We attune with you once more in consciousness to deliver unto you at this time a transmission of Light on communication lines from the XY-7 communication craft.

You have thought much (our channel and others of you) of the effect of past karmic patterns on your lives and your consciousness of the NOW, and we say unto you, "Can no wrong be righted?" Give thought to that which we say. Can no wrong be righted? For you know in your hearts that many wrongs are put to right. Therefore, those karmic patterns which were of past (shall we say) misdeeds or ignorance of Cosmic Law can most truly be righted or re-established in a balanced pattern of the now. That you carry these patterns in your consciousness and manifest and perpetuate them in your lives does not imply that they must continue to be perpetuated ad infinitum. Can no wrong be righted?

Would it be reasonable, our brothers, that the Infinite Being who created a soul would give no ending to the perpetuating of an energy pattern? For that is actually all that karmic patterns are, in the outworking through consciousness: energy patterns. In the key to the pattern which emerges is the intensity of the energy which seeks to express itself through that pattern, not only in the intensity of that energy but, shall we say, the driving force of that energy in its almost dying attempts and struggles to express itself at the expense of the higher indwelling consciousness of the soul which governs and resides within that body. That these energy patterns are seeking with such intensity to express, indicates the dying struggles of their existence. For that which is close to extinction seeks with an almost, shall we say, fanatical determination to perpetuate itself, almost giving rise to the thought that it has a consciousness or entity of its own.

You find yourselves, our brothers, our sisters (and we speak not only now to those present) caught in the web of these patterns, struggling to express themselves, struggling to overmaster the soul itself. Very often, indeed, the greater percentage of the time, these patterns are destructive and spring from an ancient past where their imprint was of such depth, such intensity, that they stamped themselves almost indelibly upon the soul-entity itself, thereby perpetuating the pattern, to some degree or other, with the taking on of each new body. This is how the body itself becomes the receptacle of an energy pattern of ancient origin which the body is burdened by, does not understand, and struggles against. This in turn brings about a greater expenditure of energy in the resulting struggle between the determining soul-force and the old patterns, struggling against each other for which has dominance, and the body, the battleground upon which these are worked out. Many of you (as this is now the ending of the cycle and the bringing forth from deep levels of consciousness to the surface of the conscious mind)...many of you are experiencing these patterns. Your bodies of this time are the shaping, as a resultant factor, of the accumulated soul patterns of the past.

Therefore our brothers, our sisters in Light, we say to you: "May a wrong not be righted?" It is not necessary to carry the accumulated patterns of other incarnations and their sorrows and their misunderstandings of Law, Cosmic Law, into the consciousness of a new dispensation. Therefore, the NOW becomes the battleground, and the time in which you find yourselves is the only time in which you can bring forth and eliminate forever those old patterns of the past, your past, your deeds, your consciousness of another time.

How to do this, you ask in your questioning, and you have observed that there are many ways by which these patterns may be released. (We are attempting now, through the picking up of the threads of consciousness of this one who is our channel, to convey to you a new concept and we do not know if we can yet strengthen the energy field in order to do this.) For there is a shortcut to the canceling out, shall we say, or the redirecting of negative energy fields or patterns into the creative flow of the higher soul expression. It is towards this redirecting of energy which you must address yourselves in order to circumvent the tremendous negative flows which not only seek to express themselves from out of the past, but which are being seized upon by forces which would most truly destroy all Light-bearers on the planet. Your very weaknesses, your very vulnerabilities become the battlefield of your souls and are utilized to bring about a confusion which is draining you of energies, each one (and again we speak now to a larger audience to whom our words will reach) is draining you each one, in lesser or greater degrees, according to your patterns, your consciousness level, and your attempts to become at one with the Cosmic Light.

As the energy flow begins, as that negative pattern struggles to express, then lay open your beings to the Christ Light and ask that there be a transmutation of energy. Call upon the forces of the Christus, call upon the Hierarchy, Michael,

Archangel of Light, Slayer of Evil. Call upon these forces as you feel the inrush of negative energy patterns seizing to control you, for this they will do. And at this time light a candle, not only within your own being or soul-self, but outwardly. Light a candle and hold it aloft and proclaim, "I am of Light. That which is of negative intent transmutes through me into a higher energy to be utilized for creative purposes only". As you do this the energies will be forced through a transmutation process, symbolized by the light of the candle, into the Greater Light and the Michael Force, and you will be assisted, you will receive aid. But you must have the presence of mind to do this as the first inrush of energy seeks to express. For if you wait you will find, for a time, it will consume you and will seek to destroy the astral, etheric, and physical vehicles through which these energy patterns express with the greatest intensity.

We have attempted to transmit to you instructions necessary, helpful, to aid you in your time of testing, for know that many are going through a last test by fire to purge and to purify, for that which lies beyond. In that purging by fire all dross is brought to the surface and is freed, consumed, released from the being in Light.

We do not say that other methods are not helpful, for there are many, there are many paths to all things. We seek only to give you at this time that which may be helpful in your immediate hour and which is simple to utilize at your times of trial.

I, Orlon, am transmitting at this time, and I address you in Light. My consciousness I blend with you and seek to bring in the revitalizing energy, shall we say, the tongue of flame within your midst. As I take leave of you in consciousness, I suggest that you link, as a group, your hands and you set within your midst a candle of light and gaze upon the light of the flame of that candle and visualize its glow spreading; visualize rays coming down, spreading out, filling your beings with Light. And as you do this we of the XY-7 craft will send down of our energies to pour forth into your beings. Extinguish all other lights at the time for we wish you to concentrate only upon that central point within your midst. Do not allow yourselves to be disheartened, for though it be true that there has been an ebbing of energy, this is for a time to allow of this purging, and when the energies flow back they will blow into cleansed vehicles and there will be a lightening and a revitalization of your beings. In the Light of Our Radiant One, I, Orlon, close this communication and leave with you the Love of our peoples. Adonai vassu.

GUEST CORNERW H I T E S T A RD I V I N E P R O C L A M A T I O N

This day marks the beginning of an ACTION upon the HIGHER PLANES to bring FORCES into the LOWER KINGDOMS. ARMIES OF LIGHT descend into the REALM OF EARTH ETHERS and the SWORD OF MICHAEL cleaves the TRUE from the FALSE. Actions of JUSTICE shall prevail, and the WILL of GOD shall no longer be successfully interfered with. Direct and instant action will be taken in all departments of INJUSTICE. These RESULTS shall immediately be seen. CHAOS shall appear, but from this CHAOS shall emerge ORDER. The TIME is NOW for the ARMIES of SPIRIT to wield their POWER upon the BATTLEFIELD of PLANETARY ACTION. All those who know of these things are called upon to see DIVINE RIGHT ACTION, and to call upon the HIGHER LIGHT to enter upon all situations of unbalance and injustice. Holding this VISION, and seeing DIVINE ANGELIC INTERCESSION in the affairs of EARTH, will call forth these POWERS to ACTION in any given instance.

WORKERS...WORK N O W ! N O W is the TIME for the POWERS of LIGHT to dispel the powers of darkness.

Do your part.... WARRIORS of HIS HAND of PEACE and LOVE.

CHRIST LIGHT REIGNS.... YOUR DAY OF ACTION IS N O W!

GREETINGS...!

As HAPPENINGS continue around the world...your mission is not to fear or to tremble...but to know these things must be, that HIS PERFECT CREATION might be brought forth into its PERFECT IMAGE. All false creations of man, must be cleared away, so that PERFECT PEACE can be established. You may see much suffering in the world, and find it in your heart to question...but you must place your faith and trust in HIS PERFECT WISDOM. Also, you must KNOW that each SOUL places itself in the position where its SPIRIT would have it to be...for lessons gained through experience bring forth the GLOWING POLISHED PERFECTION.

No man can see the PATH for another, for only the SPIRIT of a man knows. Learn to rely totally upon your own INNER DIRECTION, for if you seek answers from others for personal solutions, you can only receive a man's answer, and man is imperfect in his decisions regarding the direction of others. A man who knows SPIRIT, can aid only in bringing others unto the understanding of their RELATIONSHIP with GOD...and TWO or MORE together in PRAYER, brings forth greater POWER of attunement, yet, each man's answer comes to him from his own SPIRIT.

DIVINE GUIDANCE come with ACTION, and questions are answered by REVELATION through CIRCUMSTANCE. Placing your trust in DIVINE LIGHT, you will find your decisions are natural and without strain...as doors open to lead your WAY. Then your ACTION must be to walk through those doors. Man seeks to solve his problems by MENTAL strain...but, giving up...he finds GOD'S GUIDING LIGHT offers solutions without strain.

Be AWARE of that STILL SMALL VOICE which nudges you to RIGHT ACTION. If you find confusion, you are trying to do it yourself. Make your PEACE with your self...RIGHT WHERE YOU ARE... and when you relax and surrender to SPIRIT, you will know PEACE beyond belief. You will find your courage has been replaced by a total lack of fear...and that COURAGE is HIS ACTION through you...not something you must manufacture. You will SENSE...you will FEEL...HIS PRESENCE.

Let your COUNCIL be with HIM, and the reality of the COMFORTER will fill your heart with abundant JOY and LOVE.

(St. John 14..verses 12 through 18, esp.)

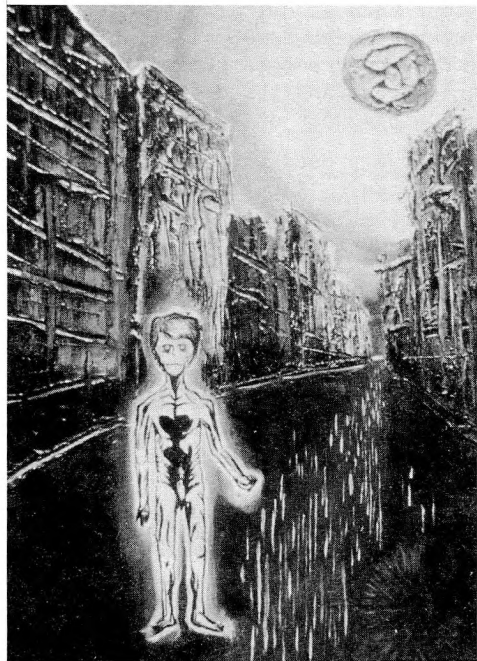

JOINING WITH YOU IN ONE GREAT FAMILY...TOGETHER WITH CHRIST...

SPACE AGE

Is the Space Age leading to the Atomic Age of wonders, where man's technology will create conditions of living comparable to a paradise? Is this what awaits us? Perhaps, but a paradise is not evaluated by the wealth of man's material dominion. It is very nice to achieve these things, but what makes a paradise is the people that dwell there, and most of all, their thoughts, thoughts of beauty, of love and of Light.

There are many potential paradises on Earth that are but too often turned into battlefields. The Earth itself is a potential paradise, but has man made it so?

Look closely around you. Do you find dissatisfaction in people's minds concerning religion, society, and life in general? Is it not quite obvious that an awareness of our blindness is coming upon us and that some people are asking and searching for the Light? Is it not true that every man strives to build a paradise, his own paradise where the sharing of it is out of the question? Is it not true also that those who are so busy with building their own greedy paradises they think very little of things outside of this physical realm?

The whole conditioning that we have undergone since childhood rotates around the attainment of material attributes. There will come a time, and I believe that it is fast approaching, when man will stop looking at the moon, or his little paradise, dreaming of Space Age, and will turn to look upon his human condition and perhaps realize his blindness. He will see that his streets have turned to rivers of blood and that in trying to create his paradise, he has destroyed everything around it.

Unless we rise above matter in consciousness and dwell on a thought level, seeking things of a peaceful nature, while placing human and spiritual values ahead of material luxuries, this paradise we will never see.

The children of the future must not be so materially conditioned, for though they may be fat with money and power, they will be famished of the Light, and they will be as blind children in a confused world.

RETREAT NEWS

A year has passed since I wrote the last Center news before leaving for southern California. At that time I had no idea it would prove impossible to publish an issue for so long and I have felt deeply concerned at not reaching all of you, my friends and subscribers. Many personal changes have taken place, a new partnership formed and some traumatic karmic memories have surged to the surface. Because of this my ability to relate to the world scene and its deep suffering has deepened even more, yet the magazine publication has been delayed.

January and Feb.('71)in southern Calif. (Balboa) proved very difficult due to the incredibly heavy vibrations present in that area. Early in February a large earthquake hit, which seemed somewhat to relieve the waves of pressure which had preceded it. News that our printer had closed down in Portland was another blow especially as no other economical printer was available. Struggling to make contacts with Light leaders and lecture during a very "flat" period of Saucer activity plus personal stress - (problems arose at base with heavy snows and furnace oil out, road impassable, and the "help" threatening to leave forthwith) finally resulted in the first real illness I have had in years. Mongolian 'flu was rampant in southern Calif. and people coughing their way into pneumonia by droves. A sore throat was all it seemed and fatigue...the next I knew I was coughing until I thought I would die...near pneumonia and a month of long slow recovery resulted.

Lesson learned: When the Brothers said all Light servers who are highly sensitized should stay out of negative vortex areas for prolonged periods, they knew what they were saying!!!

While in Calif. I met Kalidas and Bharati, a charming and beautiful couple, teachers of Hatha and Raja Yoga, in Costa Mesa. My love and I took classes with them and learned much of value. For those of you in their area my recommendation is that you take their classes.

Driving home to base the first week in March, coughing as I went, three lectures to give...one in Los Angeles had to be cancelled for lack of a voice! The second in Carmel at the Stone House, my hosts: John and Margaret Pawley, resulted in a contact with Ruth Robertson and Kay Ortman of Well Springs. Kay's Relax and Rebound therapy is highly recommended to all Light servers seeking to clarify problems and past life blocks. I was helped to relax and rest and later in the summer when my love and I spent several days there amid modeling clay and crayons, music and massage, some past life traumas emerged and cleared though more remain to clarify. Since then friends have been directed there and have in turn been helped.

Home in March to late snows and an almost impassable road...made it up the two miles to the house on a wing and a prayer and a lot of determination. Heat had been restored and four cold cats and a hound were feeling happier but oh so lonely, especially my sensitive silver Persian, Precious Jade.

Weeks of cold and a muddy impassable road, but after the long slack period of low interest in "Saucers" a sudden influx of letters, inquiries, warm appreciation. I had prayed for a sign that what I was doing was still needed and of value and now, looking back through the year, I believe those letters have been the answer to my prayer.

When Brad Steiger first requested some of our material, I had sent several scripts and some magazines. In February, his book "The Aquarian Revelations" was published and has gone into many countries. An entire chapter was devoted to our material and the response continues.

Due to the graduation of Eugene Lupo, previously our bookkeeper and assistant science director, from OTI and his new job with ESI in Portland, much help which had previously been given is no longer available. Please understand if your sub record is a little jumbled or your letter unanswered, bear with us. We are in a reorganization period, much remains to be attended to and I depend on very intermittent volunteer help.

In March a new venture was impressed from above: to use the talents of my love and myself, and to bring in a much needed income for us both. A partnership called "A Troubadour and His Lady" (in Song and Verse) is now in being and, as you will see (Page 5) we are open for engagements, in concert. Your prayers for our success will greatly help, and those of you who can arrange paying engagements for us in the near future are asked to write to us.

Another new idea is for meditation tapes which we plan to make - a sample has already been prepared - and which will be available by mail from this Retreat.

In early June "A Troubadour and His Lady" went into rehearsal and work with a drama coach at Southern Oregon College and a newly purchased piano began. The summer passed so fast:- a trip to Carmel and Santa Cruz, Bass Lake and Placer-ville. By October we felt ready to launch our "thing". Beautiful music is sadly missing on the music scene; beautiful words are in small supply, for so much discordant sound and "realistic" four letter words abound.

My poetry...words that sing of love and sorrow, other lives and other days, the Earth delusion and the Light of a New Day... This poetry, read dramatically, combined with my love's beautiful bass baritone voice in "a cappella" song, form the unique presentation, in concert, of a Troubadour and His Lady.

We drove to Vancouver, BC, and with the help of Herbert Clark and others, a small concert was arranged to try out the new venture. Three radio call-in shows and an appearance on Bob Switzer's show (CBC) preceded the concert and much was discussed re Saucers and signalling, song and verse. One interviewer on whose show I have many times appeared, teased about a Flying Saucer lecturer becoming a poet. My answer, "but I was always a poet, only you didn't know it!"

We need to express all our facets and talents and to feel free to be, to love, and to create new realities in this New Age. Limitation is of the old and all our fears and sorrows from the past must give way to joy and love and hope eternal.

Leaving Vancouver, we crossed to Vancouver Island and stayed with Holly and John at Victoria. They now live on a beautiful acreage overlooking a magnificent view. Holly had made a tepee and we spent the night with them and felt very Indian! Then on to John Pearson's in Victoria...an old friend giving much service as a sort of liason officer between Space and metaphysical groups. Then over to Orcas Island on the ferry and a stay at the Outlook Inn with Louis, generous and hospitable as ever. Our host made us feel very welcome and comfortable & Sunday morning service in the small chapel was a spiritual highlight; another was a long visit with an old friend, Roland Hunt, now resident on Orcas.

With reluctance we tore ourselves away from Orcas, that piece of old Lemuria, and returned home. Three months of blockages, delays, setbacks and odd, odd happenings awaited us. Emerging at last from these to new beginnings, we greeted the New Year with fresh hope, and now we plan new ventures and an expansion of professional activities. (See announcements)

May this year bring us all closer in understanding and New Age comradeship.

In Light,

Marianne Francis
