THE FUTURE
HOME JOURNAL

Vol. 1  Julv 1908  No. 3

BIRTH OF OUR NATION

U.S.A.
JULY 4th, 1776
12:17 NOON
PHILA. PA.

HOROSCOPE of the UNITED STATES
for the minute of its birth
JULY 4th, 1776

Chart and design Copyrighted 1908, Future Home Pub. Co.

A MONTHLY JOURNAL OF INSPIRATION, PROGRESS AND SUCCESS.
(Copyrighted 1908, Future Home Publishing Company, 208 Fifth Ave., New York)
WHY NOT OWN A PIECE OF GROUND?

WHEN YOU CAN GET IT ABSOLUTELY FREE!

The Future Home Publishing Company has secured several hundred full-size building lots for distribution among enterprising men, women, boys and girls everywhere.

Show a copy of this Magazine to your friends and acquaintances, it will help you to secure the lot. (Sample copies 10c each.)

Induce 25 persons to subscribe to this paper for one year and we will send you a deed to a lot, making you the owner of a piece of property that will some day be worth a great deal of money.

The First Subscription you send will reserve the lot for you. Send in the person's name and address and one dollar and make the start. You can have several months' time in which to send in the 25 subscriptions. Send them as fast as you get them and we will send you a receipt for each subscription. When the twenty-five subscriptions are all sent in, we will send you a deed properly executed, with full description and title. You should be able to sell your lot for a good price, in a short time, if you desire to do so.

Act promptly and secure a lot.

Address all correspondence and subscriptions to THE FUTURE HOME PUB. CO., 208 Fifth Ave., New York City.

NEW TRANSPORTATION UNDER WAY.

All shrewd and successful investors recognize that there is no element so necessary to a sure and rapid rise in real estate values as the element of transportation.

The investor who would secure the greatest profit must, with a prophetic eye, anticipate the pending transportation improvement and invest in advance of the masses, and consequently at a low level of values.

From a careful perusal of the facts following, one perceives with remarkable clearness that the present is the opportune moment to invest in properly located property on Long Island.

There is at the present time under construction additional transportation facilities leading into Long Island to cost the almost inconceivable sum of more than SIX HUNDRED AND SEVENTY-EIGHT MILLIONS OF DOLLARS.

Namely—

The Pennsylvania R. R. Long Island four tube tunnels from 32d and 33d Streets, Manhattan, to Long Island, connecting with L. I. Pennsylvania R. R. system.

The Municipal Tunnel to be built under 59th Street and the East River, from 11th Avenue, Manhattan, to Woodside, Long Island.

The Blackwell's Island Bridge, from 59th Street and 2d Avenue, Manhattan, to Long Island City, providing connections for the entrance into Queens Borough, Long Island, of the Manhattan Elevated system.

The Ward and Randall's Island Bridge, to be used also by the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, together with the Pennsylvania R. R., making a direct connection through New York City to the New England States and the East and West, thereby providing quick and direct transportation from all sections of the city into Long Island.

CANT YOU TELL A STORY?

$10.00 IN GOLD

If you know a story and can write it clearly and interestingly, you can compete for this prize of Ten Dollars in gold.

The Future Home Journal desires to obtain some fiction stories of a different nature. Stories can be purchased from regular story writers for less than $10, but these stories ARE MADE TO SELL, and they lack the interest, the DISTINCTIVENESS, which is always found in a story written by one who is not a professional writer.

We want stories of about 3,000 words. The story may be taken from life or may be pure fiction, but it must be interesting. This competition is open freely to all who may desire to compete, without conditions of any kind. You do not have to be a subscriber in order to compete.

We Will Give You $10.00 In Gold For The Best Story sent to us by the first of November, 1908. All who compete for the $10 must follow these rules:

All stories must be written plainly on white paper. Postage for return must be sent with each story.

All stories submitted, and which show merit, will be examined by the Editor. The best story will be published and the writer awarded the prize of $10. All stories should be sent to us as soon as possible. None will be considered after November 1st, 1908.

Address all manuscripts and communications to LITERARY EDITOR, FUTURE HOME JOURNAL 208 FIFTH AVENUE - - NEW YORK
Lady Walton's Love
A Romance
BY CATHERINE MITCHELL

She always felt that she had been born a lady and that her birth in the little New Jersey town had cheated her of the life and royal environment which should have been hers. She had re-christened herself "Lady Walton" and in her day-dreams lived the life of one of England's noble women. Of course there really was no "Lady Walton" in life, but in dreams—there lived a "Lady Walton" in castles ethereal. Humbly she made her living. Day after day was spent in menial servitude at Whiley's, the elite confectionery. Like the poor, homeless, unknown waif she was, she toiled for bread and at night, after six o'clock, she passed into another sphere and lived the life of "Lady Earl Walton."

Her idle hours were spent on the top floor of an old-fashioned brick house in one of the comfortless hall-rooms which make the New York furnished-room house so famous. Standing for many hours waiting upon the ever-thankless throngs of the ultra-fashionable men and women who sought the pleasures of sweets, and then climbing five flights of stairs to her little room often left the girl tired and weary at the close of day.

At these times Betty,—for her real name was Betty Thorne,—would throw herself upon the bed, and dream. She would try and imagine what her life would have been as a real Lady Walton, with servants, a beautiful home, pretty dresses and gowns, and, yes—a handsome, good, loving husband. What pictures Betty could see mentally! Then there were days when Lady Walton would arouse herself and stand for hours before her mirror, rearranging her hair and making pretty poses.

"I am sure that Lady Walton would have her hair dressed like this. Yes, it must be quite high,—there! Just a tinge of rouge on each cheek; not much, just a little. Here, Estelle, tell his lordship I am quite ready for the reception—and, Estelle, order (continued on page 46.)

A VIEW FROM THE EDITOR'S WINDOW

LOOKING FROM FIFTH AVE. EAST TOWARD MADISON AVE. TO THE READER'S LEFT IS THE TOWER OF MADISON SQUARE GARDEN AND IN FRONT OF IT THE HEADQUARTERS OF THE SOCIETY FOR THE PREVENTION OF CRUELTY TO ANIMALS. TO THE LEFT OF MADISON SQUARE IS THE FAMOUS "MANHATTAN CLUB." A LITTLE TO THE RIGHT IS THE FAMOUS "DR. PARKHURST CHURCH" WITH DOME, AND BACK OF IT AND TO THE RIGHT IS THE HIGHEST OFFICE BUILDING IN THE WORLD.

THE "METROPOLITAN," THE HIGHEST OFFICE BUILDING, IS THE TOWER OF THE METROPOLITAN LIFE INSURANCE CO. FROM FOUNDATION TO SUMMIT IT IS 733 FEET HIGH. THE GREATEST PYRAMID IS ONLY 461 FEET HIGH. (THIS SKETCH SHOWS THE TOWER UNCOMPLETED. MANY STORIES WILL BE ADDED TO IT.) MADISON SQUARE PARK IS IN THE FOREGROUND.
Nations as well as individuals are born, live and die. A nation or country is as susceptible to the laws of astral influences as is an individual, and for this reason it is possible to predict the life and death of a country as accurately as is predicted the life and death of an individual. Nor is this phase of Astrology uncommon; for a search through ancient history will reveal the fact that Astrologers were consulted when new kingdoms were to arise and when new governments were to come into power. The Egyptians were not the only people who consulted the stars before the establishment of laws, nor were they the only people who were guided by Astrology in their governmental affairs.

Truly many nations and countries seemed to have been born gradually and without any particular birthday, but when a nation is born almost spontaneously, as were the United States, then we find it possible to make of this nation a horoscope for its life.

Many, even hundreds, of attempts have been made to cast a horoscope for the United States. Some of the greatest Astrologers of America and Europe have devoted years of research to the end that they might cast a true map for the time of this nation's birth. Many such maps are to be found in various old scientific records, but they vary so greatly as to the time of birth of the nation that the investigator or student is quickly discouraged, and in despair believes that our nation is without a true horoscopical map.

Such is not the case, however; for although no map heretofore published has been reliable and trustworthy, such a map could have been made by any proficient Astrologer could he have ascertained the correct minute of birth. But there was the rub. In order to cast a correct map for any birth, whether of an individual, a nation or an idea, the exact minute of time of that birth must be known. Now our nation was born on July 4th, 1776. This is known to every school-boy, but the hour of birth seems to have been lost track of. Our most complete histories fail to mention this time and the most complete records have failed to make note of it.

The actual time of birth was the minute and second when, on that day, the unanimous vote made the Declaration of Independence a fact; for at that moment the thirteen States were united and our nation was born.

Sibley, the famous Astrologer, claimed for many years that his horoscope of the United States was correct. The time he used was 10 minutes past 10 in the evening. He claimed that the Declaration of Independence was adopted at that time. Then there are other Astrologers who claim that the correct time is 3 p.m., while others say 10 a.m. When we consider that a few minutes make a great difference in the rising sign we at once appreciate the fact that this variation in the time of birth is disastrous to exact Astrological work.

The writer of this horoscope of the United States has made exhaustive researches for many months, reading carefully document after document, history after history, and in not one of the many consulted was found the time in hours even. The time is recorded by that able historian and collector of historical documents, Benson J. Lossing.

Mr. Lossing, in one of his detailed and exhaustive histories of the signing of the Declaration of Independence, written in 1851, says: "At a little past meridian on the Fourth of July, 1776, a unanimous vote of the thirteen colonies was given in favor of declaring themselves free and independent States."

Thus we find that those who claim the hour to have been in the evening are wrong. Many have said that the true time was when the Declaration was signed, and that this was in the evening. But this is refuted by Lossing, who says that the Declaration was not signed until August 2nd after Jefferson had spent many days in engrossing the Declaration on parchment. Lossing further states that: "It was almost two o'clock in the afternoon when the final draft was announced by Secretary Thompson to the assembled Congress in Independence Hall."

According to this reliable information the paper was adopted some time between noon and 2 o'clock and the writer has found from another reliable source that this time was 17 minutes past 12. This would accord with Lossing's statement that it was signed "at a little past meridian." The Future Home Journal is pleased to present to its readers on the first page of this issue the true and most accurate horoscope of the United States ever cast. Considerable space has been taken to present the map in attractive form so that those who wish may cut from the Journal the entire page and frame it as a historical document of the most vital importance. No other document in American history is as important and valuable as this map of the nation, which is the product of exhaustive researches for many months, reading carefully document after document, history after history, and in not one of the many consulted was found the time in hours even. The time is recorded by that able historian and collector of historical documents, Benson J. Lossing.

The Future Home Journal is pleased to present to its readers on the first page of this issue the true and most accurate horoscope of the United States ever cast. Considerable space has been taken to present the map in attractive form so that those who wish may cut from the Journal the entire page and frame it as a historical document of the most vital importance. No other document in American history is as important and valuable as this map of the nation, which is the product of exhaustive researches for many months, reading carefully document after document, history after history, and in not one of the many consulted was found the time in hours even. The time is recorded by that able historian and collector of historical documents, Benson J. Lossing.
The accompanying horoscopical map is the Solar Return for the United States for the year beginning July 4th, 1908. It shows the positions of the planets for the above date and from this map we may learn what may be expected during the next year.

We find the following important aspects:

There are other minor aspects, but the above are the most important. The Mars-Neptune Aspersion is very close and there is a Mars-Saturn conjunction in the first house in thenatal horoscope to the cusp of the 7th house in the yearly horoscope. Aries, the ruler of England, is upon this cusp and this would indicate that disagreements or unpleasant feelings will, at least, exist between the United States and England during the coming year. It will also be noticed that Saturn in this position is exactly opposite (to the exact degree) of the National Ascendant and therefore exerting an opposing influence upon the United States.

We find also that Saturn has progressed from its position in the natal horoscope to the cusp of the 7th house in the yearly horoscope. Aries, the ruler of England, is upon this cusp and its ruler is the Moon, which is also the ruler of money in the yearly horoscope. This would indicate that New York City would feel or realize the first and last phases of any war troubles or disagreements we may have with foreign countries during the coming year and since, as already shown, New York will figure strongly in these matters and will become the centre for the diplomatic and forceful planning of many important affairs during 1908. During the fall of 1908 New York will be the seat of some National matters of importance ending very favorably.

The tenth house of the horoscope is occupied by many planets giving great importance to this house. The tenth house always refers to the worldly standing, honor, preeminence, dignity and kingdoms or empires. Cancer, the co-ruler of New York, occupies the cusp of this house and its ruler is the Moon, which is also the ruler of the United States. We find gathered here Mars, the lord of war, the energizer: Venus, the lady of pleasures, and pleasing conditions and also the National co-ruler: Neptune, the planet of hope, of wishes and desires and the great mystic representative; Mercury, the swift messenger, the ruler of mind, thinking, planning, writing and dreams; Jupiter, the power of life, power and determination. All this would indicate great advancement, the gain of power and strength, through energetic, diplomatic, forceful plans, which will eventually result satisfactorily and as desired by us. New York will figure strongly in these matters and will become the centre for the diplomatic and forceful planning of many important affairs during 1908. During the fall of 1908 New York will be the seat of some National matters of importance ending very favorably.

The Sun will be well aspected in the 11th house and the Moon, our co-ruler, being here too, indicate some strong friendships and we can look to France for aid and help which will be given.

Financial conditions will improve according to the rise and advancement of the National standing. Mars is ruler of the money house and he will steadily improve conditions.

Uranus, in Capricorn, opposing Neptune the mystic, indicates that the Government will intervene in some way with the advancement of various forms of psychic and occult matters during the coming year.

Saturn being in square aspect to Cancer at the mid-heaven would indicate that New York City would feel or realize the first and last phases of any war troubles or disagreements we may have with foreign countries during the coming year and since, as already shown, New York may be the seat of such plans and preparations as we may make, this seems only natural.

Truly the coming twelve months will be fraught with scientific achievements and great literary work. Much diplomacy will have to be exercised and the result will be a greater advancement in national power and prestige and preeminence and dignity. But let us sound one note of warning. More disastrous than war will be the great religious revolution which threatens this country for many years to come. Especially will there be dissension and radicalism among the higher powers and the rulers of the various denominations. Modernism will affect this country more strongly than ever and the people will suffer accordingly, but for the better.

OUR AUGUST ISSUE.
So successful have been the articles by Maxwell Fuller, and so interesting have we proved, we have been requested to have him prepare, scientific articles on "Our Moon." It will be beautifully illustrated. Then there will be many other valuable articles in addition to the regular departments. If you have not subscribed to The Future Home Journal, do so at once and secure all this interesting information.
THE FUTURE HOME JOURNAL.

A DEPARTMENT FOR THE HIGHER MENTAL, MORAL AND PHYSICAL DEVELOPMENT OF CHILDREN.

Conducted by Mrs. Florence Hoff.

The greatest blessing to woman is motherhood. But how often it is looked upon otherwise. While nature and God's divine laws are forming the body of the child, the mother is forming the mind and mental characteristics of the child.

How important then becomes the duties of motherhood! How grand the responsibility, and how little it is understood! Nothing is more important to the success in life of any child than its mental characteristics. For these make its nature, its character, its moral temperaments and its individuality. Think of a selfish child, a mentally weak child, a cruel child and a deceitful child. Would you have your child like these? Or would you have them perfectly balanced, mentally and physically? Upon you rests the result.

Expectant mothers who continually crave personal things, who are extremely selfish in their wants and desires, will instill this selfishness into their child. Those who lead a listless life, never thinking; never using their mental abilities and never having giv- en much thought to things that are of importance, will instill this same mental listlessness into their child. The expectant mother who through ignorance continually laments her condition and tries to free herself from the consequences is instilling thoughts of murder and cruelty into her child's mind. Oh, ye mothers, think of this! Remember the sin will come back upon you, and then, in your prayers and in your despair you will cry to God for relief and ask how it is possible that you should have brought such a nature. Now is the time to ask and answer that question. Keep kind and loving thoughts in your mind at all times. Especially during the vital period seek pure pleasures of mind and body. Listen to sweet and inspiring music. Gaze long and seriously upon pretty pictures. Associate with pretty and loving children and give to the unborn your love, your constant thought and your blessing. Time will tell and God's greatest blessing will come to you when in later life you hear the sweetest words of all,—the words of thy heart from a kind and grateful child.

THE WAY.

However certain of the way thou art,
Take not the self-appointed leader's part.
Follow no man, and by no man be led,
And no man lead. Awake, and go ahead.
Thy path, though leading straight to the goal,
Might prove confusing to another soul.
The goal is central; but from east, and west,
And north, and south, we set out on the quest;
From lofty mountains, and from valleys low:
How could all find one common way to go?

Lord Buddha to the wilderness was brought,
Lord Jesus to the Cross. And yet, not
By solitude, or cross, thou canst achieve,
Lest in thine own true Self thou dost believe.
Know thou art One, with life's Almighty Source,
Then are thy feet set on the certain Course.

Nor does it matter if thou feast, or fast,
Or what thy creed—or where thy lot is cast;
In halls of pleasure, or in crowd-ed mart,
In city streets, or from all men apart—
Thy path leads to the Light; and peace and power Shall be the portion, growing hour by hour.
Follow no man, and by no man be led.
And no man lead. But know and go ahead.

ELLA WHEELER WILcox IN NAUTILUS.

LADY WALTON'S LOVE.

(Continued from Page 43.)

James to look carefully after my jewels this evening for I cannot, with propriety, wear all of them to-night.

Thus would Lady Walton stand and talk for hours, and while never giving one thought to poor Betty Thorne.

Other days Lady Walton would be more serious. Pleasures would be cast aside and her entire thoughts would be of the future—and, Lord Walton; for to Betty, there was a Lord Walton; and certainly as there was a Lady Walton.

"But his Lordship is not home this evening," she would say, as she addressed the humble Betty reflected in the mirror. "He is on a hunting trip in,—oh, dear, I hardly know where; for he's been away so for long; but he will come to me and then we shall settle in our new home in Naples and Athens."

But Lady Walton had never really seen her Lord; for although he lived so near to her heart she knew him only in her dreams. But he would come to her some day in real life; of this Lady Walton was quite sure.

And Lady Walton fail to search for her Lord. When leading her other life, as she called it, she watched the men who came to Whiley's for bon-bons and sometimes Betty would say: "Ah, there is a man whom Lady Walton would consider nearly her ideal." Sporting watching the pictures and photographic galleries for the face and figure of some man who might take the mental place of "my Lord."

At last the expected happened. His Lordship came to Whiley's for bon-bons and Betty waited upon him. He was handsome, tall, athletic and so polite; a gentle man and a Lord in every word and manner. Betty was quite sure.

"I must tell Lady Walton that her Lord is in New York." And she did; and Lady Walton was startled at the possibilities.

Again and again he called,—five times within three days and Lady Walton was jealous; for were not the bon-bons for some other lady? Then Betty found an old newspaper containing an excellent likeness of Mr. Thurbur Langton, who, she was certain, he had arrived from England and was stopping at the Astor, incognito. For she always served her guests with trey and trunks, and, the reporter insinuated, was probably other than "Mr. Langton."

But Betty knew. He was Lord Walton; and Lady Walton was likewise quite sure. Betty observed him more closely the next day and handed him a five-pound box of bon-bons.

For many days our Lady was quite upset. His Lordship was in residence and she wished to com- municate with him. But how? She had never met him nor did she know him except as the long, lanky ideal whom she believed was his companion.

But Betty—or rather, Lady (continued on page 49.)

PHYSICAL DEVELOPMENT OF CHILDREN.

And north, and south, we set out
Thy path, though leading straight to the goal,
Might prove confusing to another soul.
The goal is central; but from east, and west,
And north, and south, we set out on the quest;
From lofty mountains, and from valleys low:
—ella wheeler wilcox in nautilus.

LADY WALTON'S LOVE.

(Continued from Page 43.)

James to look carefully after my jewels this evening for I cannot, with propriety, wear all of them to-night.

Thus would Lady Walton stand and talk for hours, and while never giving one thought to poor Betty Thorne.

Other days Lady Walton would be more serious. Pleasures would be cast aside and her entire thoughts would be of the future—and, Lord Walton; for to Betty, there was a Lord Walton; and certainly as there was a Lady Walton.

"But his Lordship is not home this evening," she would say, as she addressed the humble Betty reflected in the mirror. "He is on a hunting trip in,—oh, dear, I hardly know where; for he's been away so for long; but he will come to me and then we shall settle in our new home in Naples and Athens."

But Lady Walton had never really seen her Lord; for although he lived so near to her heart she knew him only in her dreams. But he would come to her some day in real life; of this Lady Walton was quite sure.

And Lady Walton fail to search for her Lord. When leading her other life, as she called it, she watched the men who came to Whiley's for bon-bons and sometimes Betty would say: "Ah, there is a man whom Lady Walton would consider nearly her ideal." Sporting watching the pictures and photographic galleries for the face and figure of some man who might take the mental place of "my Lord."

At last the expected happened. His Lordship came to Whiley's for bon-bons and Betty waited upon him. He was handsome, tall, athletic and so polite; a gentle man and a Lord in every word and manner. Betty was quite sure.

"I must tell Lady Walton that her Lord is in New York." And she did; and Lady Walton was startled at the possibilities.

Again and again he called,—five times within three days and Lady Walton was jealous; for were not the bon-bons for some other lady? Then Betty found an old newspaper containing an excellent likeness of Mr. Thurbur Langton, who, she was certain, he had arrived from England and was stopping at the Astor, incognito. For she always served her guests with trey and trunks, and, the reporter insinuated, was probably other than "Mr. Langton."

But Betty knew. He was Lord Walton; and Lady Walton was likewise quite sure. Betty observed him more closely the next day and handed him a five-pound box of bon-bons.

For many days our Lady was quite upset. His Lordship was in residence and she wished to com- municate with him. But how? She had never met him nor did she know him except as the long, lanky ideal whom she believed was his companion.

But Betty—or rather, Lady (continued on page 49.)

DRAMA.

One of the most remarkable and daring plays ever presented is now being performed in New York City. Opinion as to its merit is divided; some praising it and others are just as vehement in its denunciation.

"The Servant in the House" to me is particularly strong and forceful since it illustrates fully those things which I think, beyond a doubt, it stands for the principle of Universal Brotherhood. Never have I seen my ideal of Christ portrayed so vividly and as I thought, correctly as he was brought to my mind when I witnessed the play.

A sermon on the stage. Some people think this improper, but recollect for a moment, and you will remember that the modern stage of to-day had it's inception in a church—during the Middle Ages. It presents some religious truths and so boldly, that it makes one wonder.

To quote:

"He that saith he is in the light and hateth his brother, is in darkness even until now. He that loveth his brother abideth in the light, and there is none occasion of stumbling in him. But he that hateth his brother is in darkness, and walketh in darkness and knoweth not whither he goeth, because that darkness hath blind- ed his eyes."

Space forbids me to go into detail—but I want to say that many prominent preachers have taken the name of the play, "The Servant in the House," for a text and much profitable discussion has been had.

The author, the Mr. Charles Renn Kennedy, is to be congratulated in writing and producing such a powerful play, and the Mr. Arthur Lewis, Mr. Charles Dalton, Miss Edith Wynne Mat- thison, Miss Mabel Moore, Mr. Tyrone Power, Mr. Galwey Her- bert, and Mr. Walter Hampden are to be congratulated for portraying such noble characters.

The character which Miss Mat- thison portrayed, that of a weakly woman, who is ambitious for her husband and strives to advance his interests in every pos- sible way even to the detriment of her home life. She does not realize that she should be true and honest in every detail of life to be a success.

The incident of the girl and her father, ably played by Miss Moore and that great character actor, Mr. Powers, where he so poor, "drain-man," finds his little "kid" and they both wish and long and much. He finds the beautiful be- lief of the child, that if he is long and hard enough your wish will come true, is realized, for it is the result according to the belief of the child.

Everybody who has the oppor- tunity should see this play, which stands out so boldly and promi- nently for BROTHERHOOD.

THOMAS ANDREWS.
that suggestion and mental therapeutics have been established as powerful and effectual remedies for our physical troubles is evidenced by the support they receive at the hands of some of the world's greatest scientists and thinkers. Only a few years ago the scientific investigation of hypnotism and suggestion was carried on by a few and then always in privacy and without the opportunity to publicly test the various theories. In fact it is only in recent years that the subject has received publicity and public endorsement because of modern science shedding its light and destroying the shadow of doubt and superstition which seemed to hang over the entire field of mental phenomena.

One hundred and thirty years ago, in 1778, Franz A. Mesmer came to Paris with the most astounding theory and claims, which he said, had been verified in Berlin. He was considered a charlatan and finally was imprisoned.

Sixty-five years ago Andrew Jackson Davis, known as the "Poughkeepsie Seer," launched a medical system of religion; Dr. Frederick Emanuel Church of Boston which has added mental treatment to its system of religion; Dr. Grand March of New York; Drs. Boris Sidis; Dr. Prince; Dr. Os-good Mason of New York; Drs. Emanuel of the United States proclaiming the importance of the understanding of its finer laws. The Great Secret by Dr. S. Weir Mitchell; Prof. Hugo Munsterberg, who has invented an instrument which aids in reading mental thoughts and sensations; Dr. Samuel McComb, Assistant Rector of the Emanuel Church of Boston which has added mental treatment to its system of religion; Dr. Frederick Van Eden, the Dutch poet, author and humanitarian, who lately visited the United States proclaiming his belief in mental cures, and scores of others well known as physicians, ministers of the gospel, lawyers and philanthropists.

A short summary like this cannot consider in detail the work accomplished in this direction by all of the great scientists, but we must give due credit to the famous Dr. Liebault, of Paris; Dr. Grossman of Berlin; Dr. Boris Sidis; Dr. Prince; Dr. Os-good Mason of New York; Drs. Emanuel of the United States proclaiming the importance of the understanding of its finer laws. The Great Secret by Dr. S. Weir Mitchell; Prof. Hugo Munsterberg, who has invented an instrument which aids in reading mental thoughts and sensations; Dr. Samuel McComb, Assistant Rector of the Emanuel Church of Boston which has added mental treatment to its system of religion; Dr. Frederick Van Eden, the Dutch poet, author and humanitarian, who lately visited the United States proclaiming his belief in mental cures, and scores of others well known as physicians, ministers of the gospel, lawyers and philanthropists.

A short summary like this cannot consider in detail the work accomplished in this direction by all of the great scientists, but we must give due credit to the famous Dr. Liebault, of Paris; Dr. Grossman of Berlin; Dr. Boris Sidis; Dr. Prince; Dr. Os-good Mason of New York; Drs. Emanuel of the United States proclaiming the importance of the understanding of its finer laws. The Great Secret by Dr. S. Weir Mitchell; Prof. Hugo Munsterberg, who has invented an instrument which aids in reading mental thoughts and sensations; Dr. Samuel McComb, Assistant Rector of the Emanuel Church of Boston which has added mental treatment to its system of religion; Dr. Frederick Van Eden, the Dutch poet, author and humanitarian, who lately visited the United States proclaiming his belief in mental cures, and scores of others well known as physicians, ministers of the gospel, lawyers and philanthropists.

A short summary like this cannot consider in detail the work accomplished in this direction by all of the great scientists, but we must give due credit to the famous Dr. Liebault, of Paris; Dr. Grossman of Berlin; Dr. Boris Sidis; Dr. Prince; Dr. Os-good Mason of New York; Drs. Emanuel of the United States proclaiming the importance of the understanding of its finer laws. The Great Secret by Dr. S. Weir Mitchell; Prof. Hugo Munsterberg, who has invented an instrument which aids in reading mental thoughts and sensations; Dr. Samuel McComb, Assistant Rector of the Emanuel Church of Boston which has added mental treatment to its system of religion; Dr. Frederick Van Eden, the Dutch poet, author and humanitarian, who lately visited the United States proclaiming his belief in mental cures, and scores of others well known as physicians, ministers of the gospel, lawyers and philanthropists.

A short summary like this cannot consider in detail the work accomplished in this direction by all of the great scientists, but we must give due credit to the famous Dr. Liebault, of Paris; Dr. Grossman of Berlin; Dr. Boris Sidis; Dr. Prince; Dr. Os-good Mason of New York; Drs. Emanuel of the United States proclaiming the importance of the understanding of its finer laws. The Great Secret by Dr. S. Weir Mitchell; Prof. Hugo Munsterberg, who has invented an instrument which aids in reading mental thoughts and sensations; Dr. Samuel McComb, Assistant Rector of the Emanuel Church of Boston which has added mental treatment to its system of religion; Dr. Frederick Van Eden, the Dutch poet, author and humanitarian, who lately visited the United States proclaiming his belief in mental cures, and scores of others well known as physicians, ministers of the gospel, lawyers and philanthropists.

A short summary like this cannot consider in detail the work accomplished in this direction by all of the great scientists, but we must give due credit to the famous Dr. Liebault, of Paris; Dr. Grossman of Berlin; Dr. Boris Sidis; Dr. Prince; Dr. Os-good Mason of New York; Drs. Emanuel of the United States proclaiming the importance of the understanding of its finer laws. The Great Secret by Dr. S. Weir Mitchell; Prof. Hugo Munsterberg, who has invented an instrument which aids in reading mental thoughts and sensations; Dr. Samuel McComb, Assistant Rector of the Emanuel Church of Boston which has added mental treatment to its system of religion; Dr. Frederick Van Eden, the Dutch poet, author and humanitarian, who lately visited the United States proclaiming his belief in mental cures, and scores of others well known as physicians, ministers of the gospel, lawyers and philanthropists.

A short summary like this cannot consider in detail the work accomplished in this direction by all of the great scientists, but we must give due credit to the famous Dr. Liebault, of Paris; Dr. Grossman of Berlin; Dr. Boris Sidis; Dr. Prince; Dr. Os-good Mason of New York; Drs. Emanuel of the United States proclaiming the importance of the understanding of its finer laws. The Great Secret by Dr. S. Weir Mitchell; Prof. Hugo Munsterberg, who has invented an instrument which aids in reading mental thoughts and sensations; Dr. Samuel McComb, Assistant Rector of the Emanuel Church of Boston which has added mental treatment to its system of religion; Dr. Frederick Van Eden, the Dutch poet, author and humanitarian, who lately visited the United States proclaiming his belief in mental cures, and scores of others well known as physicians, ministers of the gospel, lawyers and philanthropists.

A short summary like this cannot consider in detail the work accomplished in this direction by all of the great scientists, but we must give due credit to the famous Dr. Liebault, of Paris; Dr. Grossman of Berlin; Dr. Boris Sidis; Dr. Prince; Dr. Os-good Mason of New York; Drs. Emanuel of the United States proclaiming the importance of the understanding of its finer laws. The Great Secret by Dr. S. Weir Mitchell; Prof. Hugo Munsterberg, who has invented an instrument which aids in reading mental thoughts and sensations; Dr. Samuel McComb, Assistant Rector of the Emanuel Church of Boston which has added mental treatment to its system of religion; Dr. Frederick Van Eden, the Dutch poet, author and humanitarian, who lately visited the United States proclaiming his belief in mental cures, and scores of others well known as physicians, ministers of the gospel, lawyers and philanthropists.

A short summary like this cannot consider in detail the work accomplished in this direction by all of the great scientists, but we must give due credit to the famous Dr. Liebault, of Paris; Dr. Grossman of Berlin; Dr. Boris Sidis; Dr. Prince; Dr. Os-good Mason of New York; Drs. Emanuel of the United States proclaiming the importance of the understanding of its finer laws. The Great Secret by Dr. S. Weir Mitchell; Prof. Hugo Munsterberg, who has invented an instrument which aids in reading mental thoughts and sensations; Dr. Samuel McComb, Assistant Rector of the Emanuel Church of Boston which has added mental treatment to its system of religion; Dr. Frederick Van Eden, the Dutch poet, author and humanitarian, who lately visited the United States proclaiming his belief in mental cures, and scores of others well known as physicians, ministers of the gospel, lawyers and philanthropists.

A short summary like this cannot consider in detail the work accomplished in this direction by all of the great scientists, but we must give due credit to the famous Dr. Liebault, of Paris; Dr. Grossman of Berlin; Dr. Boris Sidis; Dr. Prince; Dr. Os-good Mason of New York; Drs. Emanuel of the United States proclaiming the importance of the understanding of its finer laws. The Great Secret by Dr. S. Weir Mitchell; Prof. Hugo Munsterberg, who has invented an instrument which aids in reading mental thoughts and sensations; Dr. Samuel McComb, Assistant Rector of the Emanuel Church of Boston which has added mental treatment to its system of religion; Dr. Frederick Van Eden, the Dutch poet, author and humanitarian, who lately visited the United States proclaiming his belief in mental cures, and scores of others well known as physicians, ministers of the gospel, lawyers and philanthropists.

A short summary like this cannot consider in detail the work accomplished in this direction by all of the great scientists, but we must give due credit to the famous Dr. Liebault, of Paris; Dr. Grossman of Berlin; Dr. Boris Sidis; Dr. Prince; Dr. Os-good Mason of New York; Drs. Emanuel of the United States proclaiming the importance of the understanding of its finer laws. The Great Secret by Dr. S. Weir Mitchell; Prof. Hugo Munsterberg, who has invented an instrument which aids in reading mental thoughts and sensations; Dr. Samuel McComb, Assistant Rector of the Emanuel Church of Boston which has added mental treatment to its system of religion; Dr. Frederick Van Eden, the Dutch poet, author and humanitarian, who lately visited the United States proclaiming his belief in mental cures, and scores of others well known as physicians, ministers of the gospel, lawyers and philanthropists.

A short summary like this cannot consider in detail the work accomplished in this direction by all of the great scientists, but we must give due credit to the famous Dr. Liebault, of Paris; Dr. Grossman of Berlin; Dr. Boris Sidis; Dr. Prince; Dr. Os-good Mason of New York; Drs. Emanuel of the United States proclaiming the importance of the understanding of its finer laws. The Great Secret by Dr. S. Weir Mitchell; Prof. Hugo Munsterberg, who has invented an instrument which aids in reading mental thoughts and sensations; Dr. Samuel McComb, Assistant Rector of the Emanuel Church of Boston which has added mental treatment to its system of religion; Dr. Frederick Van Eden, the Dutch poet, author and humanitarian, who lately visited the United States proclaiming his belief in mental cures, and scores of others well known as physicians, ministers of the gospel, lawyers and philanthropists.
Depart from evil and do good; seek peace and pursue it. Ps. xxxiv. 14.

These simple words sung by the psalmist of old to the assembled multitudes gathered around him have been an inspiration to many. Though centuries have passed these words still stand and the cry, "Depart from evil and do good" is not only heard by people, but of the soul as well, and rings true and triumphantly throughout the world.

Words simple in themselves, but having such a vast significance and portent that many hesitate and know not the reason for such words.

Depart from evil and do good! I can almost see the prophet standing before the multitude in long robe and flowing beard, his eyes flashing as he admonishes those about him to live better and cleaner lives.

And you too, my friends, have the same vision that I have—There! Yonder on the hill he stands, his arms upraised praying to the Most High for courage and enlightenment, praying for those assembled, to go out from wicked ways and live righteously.

Depart from evil! Not only from doing wicked things but also from having bad and wicked thoughts, for many afraid to do anything bad, still do not hesitate to think bad things. And to think bad things—to have evil constantly in heart and soul—is much worse than to actually do a bad thing.

What would those around you say and think—if they knew that your heart and soul were black with evil. Make it right! Make it right with God. Tear out those dark thoughts. Depart from evil! Walk in the paths of righteousness and goodness.

Let you take up its high residence in your heart and soul and make the world brighter and happier, because of your transformation to purity and holiness. Keep your conscience clear and let it lead you on. Be good, honest with those around you and to yourself—for if you are not honest with yourself first, you will fail when trying to be so with those around you.

The influence that an upright, honest life wields, cannot be seen in a day or a week, but persistent effort, perseverance, on, on to the end leaves a mark on the world which refuses to be stamped out.

Do good! Not in the way most people do it, when the world is looking on, for you are not seeking the plaudits of people, but do good to all whenever an opportunity present itself. When such a time comes do not stop to consider, but plunge in and make others happy, for that is the only sure way of being happy yourself.

The second part of my text—"Seek peace and pursue it"—goes hand in hand with the first.

Have you never felt a peculiar thrill of satisfaction and contentment after having done something that makes you feel at peace with the whole world? Yes, I know, without seeing you, that you have. Be contented, but do not feel satisfied. Strive more vigorously after happiness, move forward, onward and upward. Maybe there are those around you who purposely misinterpret, who will not give you the credit which is justly yours, or those who would like to see harm done to you, but what of those? Do good, be kind to them, and though there be no immediate reward, there is in your heart the knowledge of having done that which will please the Most High and that in itself is a sufficient reward.

Remember the words of the prophet: "When a man's ways please the Lord, he maketh even his enemies to be at peace with him."

What though discouragements and troubles encompass you, what though the future be dark and cloudy—seek peace and pursue it and you will find light and an easy and happy way out of your difficulties.

God is ever watchful and knows your goings and comings. Knows your thoughts, sees your deeds. Be true and upright in the sight of God and it follows as night the day that you will be true and honest with yourself and fellowman.

"To be carnally minded is death; but to be spiritually minded is life and peace" (Rom. viii. 6).

You ask, What is peace? Peace, my friend, is the absence of sin, the absence of bad deeds, evil thoughts. Peace means to have a clean heart and mind. Peace means to be in harmony with the everyday disappointments and worries, to make the best of them.

And to keep that peace which is past all understanding, live up to the best that is in you, live noble lives, act unselfishly, being guided by God!

Do as your own conscience dictates. Follow its promptings without hesitation and fear. Put your faith in the Lord and go on through this life to life eternal, peaceably guided by God.

Depart from evil and do good and you will attain the kingdom of God.

Is your name in "THE BOOK"?

Special Notice to Church Members.

In accordance with the original plans of the Universal Church of the Future, a record book is kept in which is recorded all marriages, births and deaths occurring in the families of our members. No Church history is complete without a record of the lives of the living and the dead. If you knew the consolation and the feeling of contentment of one who has sent his name to be recorded in this book, you would not hesitate or wait a single day. You would write for particulars at once. Do it to-day.
THE VALUE OF HOME STUDY.

Every man, woman and child has several hours each day which, if devoted to practical study will fit them to advance in their present vocation or to enter a broader and more profitable field. There is no question of this. In New York City several of the largest office buildings, notably the Metropolitan Building, whose tower is the highest office building in the world, have been built by men who learned construction and building at home by correspondence. Some of our best architects have learned their profession through home study and if we were to enumerate the lawyers, builders, scientists, story-writers, electricians and others who have learned their trades and professions at home with spare-time study we would fill many large volumes.

Home study has every advantage. It can be just as successful, if not more than school study. The greatest educators and presidents of large colleges admit that home study generally means successful study.

Already many have taken advantage of our offer to learn, free of charge, any trade or profession they desire. In a recent issue we spoke of learning at home "Building and Carpentry." We offer a most complete and exhaustive course of study on this subject to our readers free of cost to them. It was surprising how many applied for the course. All of them stated that they were anxious to improve their earnings, to become independent, and praised The Future Home Journal for its work in this direction.

No matter where you live nor what your present vocation may be you can learn a trade or profession at home through our list nearly 100 trades, professions and arts and from these our readers can select courses as they wish. If you have not seen this list send us 15c. to cover cost and mailing of the issue containing the list and see for yourself the work we are doing.

Idle hours produce waste, no profit and a dull mind. Hours of study, even though be but one hour each day, produces brainpower, knowledge, strength, success and prosperity with independence.

Have you spare hours? How are you using them?

Some day you may have to account for these idle hours, so why not let your future success show that your idle hours were spent profitably? Now is the time to start to study. Your vacation, your days of rest can be made more restful and profitable by study than in any other way.

LADY WALTON'S LOVE.

(continued from page 46)

Waltontower is not without resource.

She telephoned.

"I wish to speak to his lordship,—I mean, Mr. Thurlber, or rather, Mr. Langton," she almost sobbed.

"Yes, yes. I wish to say that,—but really now, I've quite forgotten what I intended to say.

"What did I intend to say? Oh, merely that I am very glad you had returned,—or, rather, to come to New York again.

"You were never here before? Why, I was sure that you had been.

"Am I living here permanently? Oh, no! You see I am only waiting for the return of his lordship,—that is,—I really mean, I suppose Mr. Langton would discover when I shall return to England.

"His lordship? Why, I didn't say that I was married; did I? I don't mean to say,—Oh, rather, I did mean that my husband, his lordship, is dead.

"Oh, yes! I am here all alone; without any aids of course.

"Oh, no! That cannot be. Really now, I must say adieu for the present.

"My address! Really, you know, I cannot tell. That would be,—ah, rather unconventional.

"You don't think it's fair? Of course I know you; why I've even spoken to you,—ah, that is, I've seen you; but I'll call you up again. Goodbye!"

And Lady Walton was startled, yes, even half scared to death. He wanted to call on her! No! no! Well, I never knew Mr. Langton was poor; humble Betty, living in a small, cheaply-furnished room. He must be satisfied with being called to her door and she would be satisfied, she felt quite sure, with hearing her own voice at the sly she gave. If she would study him more carefully now when she saw him. She would put him through a severe examination on the morrow.

But he did not call the next day. Lady Walton was sad and, perhaps, a little jealous. At six-thirty she telephoned again.

"Yes, I forgot to say yesterday, that I've known you quite some time," she stammered, bashfully, "I've been quite an admirer of yours for many years,—and yesterday she added quickly, recalling years of dreams.

"Oh, no! I cannot think of it. Yes, sometimes. I've been to few shows this season though.

Lady Walton was necessarily quite saving.

"That would be just lovely. But you will scarce find many social engagements really prohibit." (She should have said business engagements.)

"No, really, I cannot tell you. You would like to meet me? You are alone in New York, too?

"And are you,—that is,—have you no one else here?"

"I'm so glad,—that is, I am glad you have no ties which prohibit you from enjoying these monthly trials.

"A tour in the country? Oh, yes, I'd dearly love to go automobilizing but being alone, that is, how this is everlasting. I must sacrifice the pleasures of my former auto jaunts.

"I'm sure of it! It's really kind of you but—"

"Do you really think so?"

"Well, really, you are quite a mind-reader!"

"You think I am very young?"

"I'm not though. Let me see; I am,—twenty-one,—and, oh, yes, seventy-eight.

"You don't think so? Why?"

"My voice sounds younger?"

"No! I've said no before!"

"Angry? Oh, no, but—"

"Well, I'll see to-morrow.

Good-bye."

But Betty could not telephone the next day for she was ill.

Three days passed and she did not see him nor did she telephone again. Slowly the news of her illness and for fear that he might leave the City. Slowly her health improved and in a few days she was able to spend a part of the day in the public parks.

One afternoon while returning from a long walk which had exhausted her, she was caught between a carriage and a car and while stepping to the side she was thrown down by a touring auto. Although she had fallen badly she had time to notice that the occupant of the auto was Mr. Langton. Then she lost consciousness.

Two days later she awoke suddenly from a deep sleep, and tried to locate her surroundings. There was a strange but richly furnished room and a uniformed nurse. In the room she had time to notice that the occupant of the auto was Mr. Langton. Then she lost consciousness.

Two days later she awoke suddenly from a deep sleep, and tried to locate her surroundings. There was a strange but richly furnished room and a uniformed nurse. In the room she had time to notice that the occupant of the auto was Mr. Langton. Then she lost consciousness.

"I do hope you feel better, dear," said the nurse sweetly. "It was so sad, but Mr. Langton could not stop his car in time and he feels very sad about it. They could not find your address, so he placed you in his car and brought you here. You are in good hands and need not worry. Now rest quietly and do not think."

"Do not think! But Betty did think. Where was she and how could she afford to be kept from her position at Whiley's so long? But fate often acts wisely, if strangely, and Betty was destined to remain several days in bed. The doctor came daily and slowly she regained her strength and never saw Mr. Langton. The nurse was kind and attentive, but discreetly silent, and for that matter, Betty was not complaining."

Then Betty began to recall her flirtation over the phone. Supposing Mr. Langton would discover who she was, and, oh, suppose, by any chance, they should look (continued at bottom of page 54).
The Future Home Journal

PUBLISHED MONTHLY BY
208 Fifth Avenue - New York

F. T. McIntyre . . . Pres.
N. Beckman . . . Sec. and Treas.
208 Fifth Ave., N. Y.

Subscription Price, $1.00 Yearly, 10c. Per Copy.

Advertising Rate Upon Application.

The designs, Illustrations and matter reproduced in The Future Home Journal are fully protected by Copyright. In- IMPORTANT and material reproduced in render this additional cost necessary.

31st Day of July, 1908.

EDITORIAL

It was near midnight—standing on the corner was a small boy about ten years old. Dirty, clothes torn and ragged, he was leaning up against the door of a brilliantly lighted confectionery, counting his earnings— all pennies. Under his arm he still carried fifteen or twenty pennies. The theatres had just closed; the wealthy, the poor and the middle-class were passing the door. They had spent their money for amusement and were now homeward bound. Many entered carriages and automobiles, while others walked down the street to board a car. Those who remained on the street discussed the performance while others entered the confectionery for a cool drink, for the night was hot, unbearable, many thought.

Few noticed the boy, and why should they? The evening was ended and they had little use for the wares the boy offered. Some looked with pity upon him, but to offer him a coin was out of the question, for he was not begging, but selling, and they did not want to put a paper. Others looked with contempt; the wealthy do not like to see the beggarly poor for it seems unbecoming to them. Some of the boys dropped two pennies into the outstretched hand of the boy. A few minutes later the same boy—hungry, half-starved, with a wizened, pinched face—yet with good features. They seemed so hateful to have had he not had to sell newspapers and maybe support others at home.

And perhaps he was given a beating if he did not bring the correct amount with him, who knows? One of the little gentleman stopped and asked for a paper. The boy looked up and gave him one and the man dropped two pennies into the outstretched hand of the boy.

A few minutes later the same man was coming out of the store and stopping for a moment said to the boy, "How much did you make?"
The little fellow replied, "Six cents," in a sad tone. "Six cents, is that all?" "Yes, sir," said the boy, looking at the gentleman, and in the manner of a boy a quarter.

You should have seen how bright his eyes became and the smile. Dirty as he was, it perfectly transformed the boy's face. Probably thoughts of escaping a beating, thoughts that now his mother could have a loaf of bread on the morrow and his sisters and brothers maybe something instead of the usual hard crust—came to his mind.

That simple amble reward for the man, for he walked with a lighter tread and his eyes glistered as he turned the corner.

Conditions like the one above described exist in all large cities and in small towns where the metropolis thinking to meet with the swell of the city? No one can reckon or calculate the number of New York.

Think what he might have been—a young man—growing up in the city. A few minutes later the same man—walking with a lighter tread and his eyes glistered as he turned the corner. He is a child—not even ten years old. Dirty, clothes torn and ragged, he was leaning up against the door of a brilliantly lighted confectionery, counting his earnings— all pennies. Under his arm he still carried fifteen or twenty pennies. The theatres had just closed; the wealthy, the poor and the middle-class were passing the door. They had spent their money for amusement and were now homeward bound. Many entered carriages and automobiles, while others walked down the street to board a car. Those who remained on the street discussed the performance while others entered the confectionery for a cool drink, for the night was hot, unbearable, many thought.

Few noticed the boy, and why should they? The evening was ended and they had little use for the wares the boy offered. Some looked with pity upon him, but to offer him a coin was out of the question, for he was not begging, but selling, and they did not want to put a paper. Others looked with contempt; the wealthy do not like to see the beggarly poor for it seems unbecoming to them. Some of the boys dropped two pennies into the outstretched hand of the boy. A few minutes later the same boy—hungry, half-starved, with a wizened, pinched face—yet with good features. They seemed so hateful to have had he not had to sell newspapers and maybe support others at home.

And perhaps he was given a beating if he did not bring the correct amount with him, who knows? One of the little gentleman stopped and asked for a paper. The boy looked up and gave him one and the man dropped two pennies into the outstretched hand of the boy.

A few minutes later the same man was coming out of the store and stopping for a moment said to the boy, "How much did you make?"
The little fellow replied, "Six cents," in a sad tone. "Six cents, is that all?" "Yes, sir," said the boy, looking at the gentleman, and in the manner of a boy a quarter.

You should have seen how bright his eyes became and the smile. Dirty as he was, it perfectly transformed the boy's face. Probably thoughts of escaping a beating, thoughts that now his mother could have a loaf of bread on the morrow and his sisters and brothers maybe something instead of the usual hard crust—came to his mind.

Not only for the man, for he walked with a lighter tread and his eyes glistered as he turned the corner.

Boys should never be allowed to work in the streets, but the question is, that all members must write to the Secretary of the Church once each month stating their spiritual and material success. Complete instructions are given for the reading of them and also for ascertaining the right vibrations in which to live. The author has presented the matter clearly and concisely. Those who are interested in the subject will do well to secure a copy of this book. Published by Roger Bros., New York. Price $1.20.

The Ancient Science of Numbers

By Luo Clement. A neatly bound volume containing the practical application of the science of numbers to the attainment of health, success and happiness. Complete instructions are given for the reading of the names and numbers of the names and for ascertaining the right vibrations in which to live. The author has presented the matter clearly and concisely. Those who are interested in the subject will do well to secure a copy of this book. Published by Roger Bros., New York. Price $1.20.

Success and Power. Join the Future Magnetic Success Club. Membership is free to all subscribers. Read the announcement on the Future Magnetic Success Club Page.
Our Chats With Women and Girls

I have before me a letter from Mrs. D. Dorn, which says in part:

"All women are not interested in receipts (a man edits that column every time, in interest of his stomach) and fashions. Some women are not only capable, but do think. I'd like to see a page conducted entirely on new lines, divorced without alimony or privilege of remarriage, from cooking, economy, male persons and fashion. The 'Improving the Home Department' is space wasted. Use it for women of brains to suggest questions that a woman of brains can answer."

Now Mrs. Dorn suggests a good plan and I have put the matter before the Editor; but Mrs. Dorn is mistaken when she says that the "Improving the Home Department" is space wasted. Note, for instance, the practical advice and help it gives housewives in this issue. Can any woman (or man, for that matter) say that the space is wasted in this issue? And from the letters received from women regarding the value of the previous articles on Carpets and Rugs we do not believe that as yet any space in that department has been wasted. Really, from what I have seen from letters received at the editorial office I do not believe there is any space in the magazine wasted unless it is this space devoted to chats with my sisters. However, Mrs. Dorn deserves credit for her suggestions and original comments.

It is true that usually a man edits the "Cooking Department" and for this reason THE FUTURE HOME JOURNAL has no such department. And, the editor assures me, the JOURNAL will not have fashions either. There are too many magazines devoted exclusively to cooking and fashions, and since this Journal wants to give what others do not, we shall at once prepare to carry out the plan of having women of brains answer questions put to us by other women who think. This is after all along the plans of this department, and now let the good work begin.
THE NEW ONTOLOGY
A Complete Course of Lessons on a New Science Which Explains Life, Death & Spiritual Phenomena
BY ROYLE THURSTON

Note: We have secured from Mr. Thurston the sole right to publish from month to month the entire lessons which comprise the four parts of his science. This is the first time any magazine has ever attempted to publish in its entirety the whole of Mr. Thurston's complete and wonderful science ever written, and was prepared during a period of three years, while Mr. Thurston was testing his methods and systems in connection with his work before The New York Institute for Psychical Research. This science is not in the book form and can only be learned through the series published in this magazine.—Editor.

SPECIAL NOTE.
During the past month there have been so many calls for the pre
We wish to announce that many of our readers have written to us requesting the giving of asking a few questions relative to the lessons in the current issues. For this reason we have made arrange ments with Mr. Thurston to have our readers send in their questions to us, which he will answer in the following issue. We should be glad to have all our readers take advantage of this unusual privilege, sending their questions, which should pertain only to matters p

Lesson Number Five.
Since therefore the principles to a magnet and three evidences necessary to demonstrate and make possible these principles of the mind are already given, my student cannot doubt that the human body is a magnet. There is but one more principle to which I wish to call the attention of my student. It has been stated that the degrees or proportion of the two electrical qualities or forces are properly proportioned in each. Therefore the magnetic qualities of each human body vary also. If the two electrical qualities are properly proportioned in a human body the magnetic qualities of that body will be stronger than those in a body whose quality of positive and negative qualities are not properly propor

If the magnetic qualities in some human beings are very strong, while in other bodies they are very weak, will my students be kind enough to keep this in mind throughout the future lessons?

THE RELATION OF THE MIND AND LIFE FORCE.
In previous lessons it was stated that the Soul possesses the life force, or life, and the Soul consists of the vital life force. It was also stated that the Soul possesses the Mind as an attribute, which of itself is without any manifestation of life whatsoever.

Life depends upon a positive electrical magnetic force acting upon the negative substance of which the body or all matter is composed.

This positive electrical magnetic force pervades this earth, all the planets and all space through the vibrations of the Sun.

Although the Sun and its vibrations are the source of all life, this force depends upon the positive substance of the earth with its negative qualities in order that life can manifest itself.

The vibration of the Sun's positive electrical force manifests life and is the most potent force in life and having intelligence, the Sun is the guiding Divine Intelligence and Force of the Universe. God in omnipotence rules and controls the directing power and force of the

When the positive qualities of life from the Sun come in contact with the negative, earthly substances, life is manifest and in a human body a soul is created.

This Soul is immortal. It cannot be destroyed or lost to life.

The Mind is also the guiding intelligence of the Soul while in the human body and since Man is but a living Soul, independent of earthly substances, the Mind is Man's guiding intelligence and power while he lives upon this earth.

All students will do well to memorize the above summary, for much depends upon a knowledge of these principles.

The Mind being an attribute of the Soul, it is too immortal and cannot be destroyed or lost to life.

The Mind is the intelligence which governs the action of the vital functions and for this reason the Mind must be the ACTION OF THE LIFE FORCE.

Since the vital life force, or life, of the Soul is composed of positive electricity, the Mind must govern the action of the positive quality of the life force.

The Mind can have no control over the action of the negative quality of the life force, because this quality is of the earth and its elements and is merely the most negative or of no actual quality.

The foregoing being true, then it follows that through the Mind, in its positive and negative attributes and faculties, the POSITIVE qualities of the life force, or the vital quality itself, can be controlled in its action within the human body.

A BRIEF REVIEW.
Before proceeding further and entering upon the most serious part of the science, I must ask my student to bear with me while I briefly review the principal statements in the foregoing lessons. I am substance they were as follows:

Man is primarily made of a physical, negative substance, giving one explanation for the condition known as Hypno sis, while science will give another explanation.

It may be apparent that explanations for these phenomena cannot be made to order to suit the various experiences. The principles which explain life, must explain death, if the explanation or the principles involved be correct.

An explanation which is offered to explain life and its action upon the body must explain the peculiar physical demonstration known as "physis force differences." How absurd it is to hear science offering various explanations for the phenomena known as Spiritualistic when none of these explanations embody the fundamental principles of their theory of life. If the Spiritualistic demonstrations are actual their explanations should embody the principles of life, and death, and all occurring phenomena.

It is through these inconsistencies which make medicine and science ludicrous theories. Medicine has failed in its system of curing disease simply because it has not found the true principles of life. Science has failed to scientifically explain life simply because it has failed to recognize the true cause of life.

This science is a complete hypothesis which will readily explain, scientifically and consistently, all the phenomena of life. This being true, it is the first and only science which has ever been able to do this.

For this reason carefully follow the explanations given in this part of my work and note the references made.

PHYSIOLOGY OF LIFE.
INTRODUCTION.
My students will find this part of my work, to be the greatest proof I can present to uphold my science. Therefore serious study is strongly advised. My students will note with sat isfaction how easily and consistently the physiology of life can be explained with the theory I have already outlined, without deviating from the principles and explanations given in previous lessons.

Science and medicine offer hundreds of explanations for the phenomena, some of which these phenomena are so related that the principles which explain one, should explain all of them. But this we do not. We find med icine and science at variance in regard to the principle or quality of the life force, and we find med Inexpensive Decoration of Rooms.

A study of the most fashionable and costly homes reveals the fact that the most expensive and artistic rooms have painted walls. Often there are borders or panels in stucco or plaster, which are decorated in gold or colors, but on the other hand some of the poorer homes in wealthy homes are absolutely plain in color.

Interior decorators are reaping a fortune these days simply because of this appreciation of true art. Most of these decorators are Italians for they have a truer eye for color and design and have excelled in this line of work. Of course the paint is of an excellent quality and expensive decoration shows that the materials used are much cheaper than good wall-paper and the labor involved is less than is required for papering a room. The decorator does not charge for the materials or the time, but for his knowledge, his ideas and his color schemes.

The average country home, no matter how humble, can be improved one hundred per cent through adopting this idea of painted walls. These homes can be made artistic palaces if the "man of the house" will devote his spare hours to doing the work we shall from month to month outline on this page.

For this month we show for the first a simple treatment of a room—a bed-room for instance. Of course the paint is an artistic treatment and the plaster must be made clean, smooth and applied to the rough places. If there is a picture moulding on the wall it can be left there, or if it is poor or broken, it should be taken down.

After the walls are dry, the space above the picture moulding, indicated in the illustration by the letter B, should be papered with some lightly colored and delicately designed paper. This is the only place where the walls are papered, for unless one can afford to have an artist paint a border in the space, paper must be used.

In the large space between the picture moulding and the baseboard, indicated in the illustration by D, should be painted a very light green, blue or pink, according to your idea of the color of the room. Some bed-rooms may be "pink rooms," others "blue rooms," and "green rooms." It must be a light shade, however, so that the room will look cool and airy.

The border of paper used in space B should of course match in color the paint used in space D. If light green paint is used in the large space, it would be best to use a still lighter design of green on the border paper. If blue paint is used then a light blue border should be used. Contrasts may be had by painting the large space with a light pink, a very light shade, and placing above this, in the border, a very light design in pale blue. If this is done and the ceiling is white, the effect will be very pleasing.

Do not use a design for the border paper which contains several colors, like red, blue, brown or green. Such a paper would not harmonize with the walls no matter what color they might be. Then again the border must not be made smooth. This is not so difficult, for a little plaster can be made rough with salt before it is dried.

In the June issue I stated that I would give some advice this time as to the care of the hands and face. Let us begin plainly at the very start that I am not going to explain how an artificial complexion may be obtained. The only successful method of removing them, if they occur to ruin the skin, is to set the patient in a chair in the bright sunlight and use a magnifying glass so that the sun rays will be brought to a concentrated point on the mole. If these rays are allowed to bear on the mole for five minutes every day for three weeks, the mole will scale off and be removed.

Face. Such spots as are commonly known as "Fleshworms" may be removed and the skin improved by first squeezing the spot from the skin and then wash the part with alcohol and ether diluted with a few drops of pure alcohol and ether made a paste. Apply on retiring.

To Remove Moles. Moles should be trifled with very little. They should never be cut and acids used on them do more harm than good. The only successful method of removing them, if they are not permitted to grow, is to set the patient in a chair in the bright sunlight and use a magnifying glass so that the sun rays will be brought to a concentrated point on the mole. If these rays are allowed to bear on the mole for five minutes every day for three weeks, the mole will scale off and new skin appear.
Chapter 1

Lesson No. One.

In my previous lessons I have fully explained the law of vibration. I have shown how all matter in the universe is manifested through vibrations. I have further shown that everything which exists, not only matter, but light, sound, sight, etc., have vibrations of a different nature and that these vibrations, according to the fundamental law, attract and repel other vibrations of a different or similar nature.

The application of this to names is plain. All sounds have vibrations. Such vibrations either attract other vibrations or repel them. Now a name of any kind is composed of various sounds, often ten to twenty different sounds composing one name. These various sounds then have thousands and often millions of vibrations which vibrate every time the name is pronounced. Thus the continual pronouncing of a name attracts to that person the vibrations which his name contains and these in turn also attract or repel other vibrations which may be favorable or unfavorable to the owner of the name.

Below is given a chart which gives the letters of the alphabet, the numeral belonging to that letter, its Egyptian Hieroglyph and the Egyptian Hieratic as well as the planet denoted by the Egyptians as ruling each letter.

Such a chart as this has never been published before and it is needless to say that it has taken years of serious research to find the numbers and hieroglyphs. While I offer this chart to my students for use in the further lessons of this science, I warn anyone against using this chart in any other course or treatise upon names.

RATINGS OF NAMES

A COURSE OF LESSONS ON CHARACTER READING FROM NAMES

BY JOSE COLARDO

Lesson No. Three.

In my previous lessons I have fully explained the law of vibration. I have shown how all matter in the universe is manifested through vibrations. I have further shown that everything which exists, not only matter, but light, sound, sight, etc., have vibrations of a different nature and that these vibrations, according to the fundamental law, attract and repel other vibrations of a different or similar nature.

The application of this to names is plain. All sounds have vibrations. Such vibrations either attract other vibrations or repel them. Now a name of any kind is composed of various sounds, often ten to twenty different sounds composing one name. These various sounds then have thousands and often millions of vibrations which vibrate every time the name is pronounced. Thus the continual pronouncing of a name attracts to that person the vibrations which his name contains and these in turn also attract or repel other vibrations which may be favorable or unfavorable to the owner of the name.

Below is given a chart which gives the letters of the alphabet, the numeral belonging to that letter, its Egyptian Hieroglyph and the Egyptian Hieratic as well as the planet denoted by the Egyptians as ruling each letter. Such a chart as this has never been published before and it is needless to say that it has taken years of serious research to find the numbers and hieroglyphs. While I offer this chart to my students for use in the further lessons of this science, I warn anyone against using this chart in any other course or treatise upon names.

HOME DECORATING.

(continued from page 53.)

LADY WALTON'S LOVE.

(continued from page 49.)

CHART COPYRIGHTED 1908

FUTURE HOME PUB. CO.

"I am really so glad for, although it was rather sudden, and as you said, rather unconventional, you really did take an auto-ride with me." "Did I" replied Betty, startled and puzzled. "What could he refer to? Did he know? No, that was impossible.

And Betty knew. Her daydreams were ended.
ONWARD, FORWARD TO SUCCESS, SAYS EVERY MEMBER before the publication of this paper many were induced to join, knowing that the young men and girls will take advantage of these lessons. Additional information will be given or questions pertaining to the lessons will be answered if a stamp is enclosed for reply.—Bevans.

Lesson No. 2.

In Lesson No. 1 we were shown how to make flat, even tints on the paper. If you have learned how to do this you will find the rest of the work simple and interesting.

For this lesson we will make a frame to hold a photograph. They make attractive gifts at all times and are always appreciated.

The young ladies like them espe­cially because they are ornament­al and neat and everyone appre­ciates a hand-painted ornament.

The frame can be bought at any large stationery store or at all art stores. They cost from $1.50 to $5.00, according to their sizes. They are made of card­board padded and covered with high-grade watercolor paper.

The shape of the frame can be oblong or square and may have a square, circular or oval opening in the centre behind which a photograph may be placed and securely fastened. When bought, these frames have no design upon them; the paper is perfectly plain.

Flowers usually make the best show on such frames. If you are making the frame as a gift learn to give the frame, in the lower left hand corner of the frame (as shown in the drawing), this ribbon should be the same color as the flowers, only very light in shade.

Then go back to the flowers again and darken them in various places with a darker shade of the

WHY SOME ARE SUCCESS­FUL AND SOME ARE NOT.

Success does not mean the at­tainment of great heights nor the possession of worldly goods; it does not mean fame and glory nor the reaching of worldly po­sitions. It means the attainment of peace and harmony with all mankind and the final triumph of our mental abilities.

Success can one person may mean the election to the highest office of the government; it may mean the possession of an enormous wealth and of worldly power. To another in more humble circum­stances, it may mean the accom­plishment of some invention or the triumph over some great difficulty. To others it may mean the peaceful ending of a disagreement leading to harmony with friends and as­sociates. Success is an indefinite quality, but within the reach of all and independent of circum­stances, environment or belief.

Is he, who, having worldly wealth and power, but sick in body, as successful as he, who la­bors humbly for his daily bread and who is healthy and strong, mentally and physically? Is the man who finally reaches the office of President of the United States, after years of work and endeavor, but who must bear the worry and responsibility of the nation, as successful as the man who, after years of toil and labor, invests his meager savings in a small cottage and lives free and comfortably in his old age?

A few days ago an aged man who had served his City as Mayor or for nearly fifty years retired penniless. He had been a success in so far as attaining a govern­mental position was concerned and who is healthy and strong, mentally and physically? Is the man who finally reaches the office of President of the United States, after years of work and endeavor, but who must bear the worry and responsibility of the nation, as successful as the man who, after years of toil and labor, invests his meager savings in a small cottage and lives free and comfortably in his old age?

A few days ago an aged man who had served his City as Mayor or for nearly fifty years retired penniless. He had been a success in so far as attaining a govern­mental position was concerned and who is healthy and strong, mentally and physically? Is the man who finally reaches the office of President of the United States, after years of work and endeavor, but who must bear the worry and responsibility of the nation, as successful as the man who, after years of toil and labor, invests his meager savings in a small cottage and lives free and comfortably in his old age?

A few days ago an aged man who had served his City as Mayor or for nearly fifty years retired penniless. He had been a success in so far as attaining a govern­mental position was concerned and who is healthy and strong, mentally and physically? Is the man who finally reaches the office of President of the United States, after years of work and endeavor, but who must bear the worry and responsibility of the nation, as successful as the man who, after years of toil and labor, invests his meager savings in a small cottage and lives free and comfortably in his old age?
Do You Believe In God?

DO YOU GO TO CHURCH?

If you do, you will be interested in the new Church now being founded by this magazine. If you believe there is a God and that you should worship Him you will find this new Church to be all that you desire. It gives you an opportunity to worship God in a manner which is void of all denomination, dogma and all the things that go with the Universal Church with a Universal Religion and a Universal God.

IF YOU DO NOT GO TO CHURCH

you will find the Universal Church to be just what you wish. You may remain at home and worship the true God as devotedly and sincerely as you can by attending the services at any church building. God is Universal; He is everywhere and can give His blessings to the humble in their homes as well as to the wealthy in their costly edifices. There is more true religion in the home than there is in stately towering Cathedrals, and the American Institute of Universal Religion will come to the houses.

No matter where you live, you can become a member of The Universal Church of the Future and receive the weekly sermons and prayers, and the monthly communion with God. Let your home on Sunday be your church, and there, in the solemn quietness, speak with God through this new Universal Religion.

IF YOU DO NOT BELIEVE IN GOD

There must be a reason for your doubt, and this new Universal Religion will teach you the TRUTH and remove this reason for doubting. The Universal Church of the Future does not have unnecessary systems of worship nor does it ask you to believe in anything which cannot be proven. There are no secret doctrines nor misleading creeds. The truth of the Bible is revealed and the TRUTH of God is presented to you. One month's membership to this Church will convince the most skeptical, and he will learn of God what no other Church cares to reveal or admit.

Join the New Church Today.

Send for Information and Application Blank.—

No matter what nationality, what creed, religion or denomination you are by birth or belief, you are entitled to membership.

No Fees or Charges of Any Kind

The Universal Church of the Future

CARE OF

The Future Home Journal

208 Fifth Avenue, New York