MASTER KALEN-LI'S MESSAGE TO BUCK NELSON'S SPACECRAFT CONVENTION

(Note: The following special message from Master Kalen-Li of the planet Korendor was received via radio by Bob Renaud. It was read at Buck Nelson's Spacecraft Convention in Mountain View, Missouri, June 27th to 29th, 1964. It replaces our regular editorial because we feel that it more appropriately sums up the present situation than anything we might be able to contribute at this time. -Ed.)

"Good day, my Terran Brothers. I don't suppose that you would expect me, in the course of the next few minutes, to offer to you the solution to all your planet's problems. That would be impossible. However, I'd like to touch upon a few points that I consider important enough to warrant discussion in this type of gathering.

"The first is the saucer movement in general. As I sit here, I wonder how many of you, deep down inside, have been saying to yourselves, 'The movement is dying. Lately the papers haven't carried any reports of sightings, there haven't been any new contacts, and in general the world is going to pot.'

"I have news for you, friends. We are more active than ever. Now, however, rather than making all sorts of public scenes, we have been working quietly and unobtrusively amongst you, infiltrating every mode of your public life, from religion to entertainment to government. Our underground bases are being completed, or have been, and are in operation all over the world, pouring out hundreds --- yes, even thousands of operatives to work with you in secret, gradually changing your pattern of living to conform with Universal Laws. The change has been so gradual that an untrained mind might not even have noticed it. Consider however, that great changes seldom occur overnight, but rather by a long-term program of activity. You will see that, in the end, we are accomplishing far more this way than if we openly landed by the thousands and set up schools to teach you the things you need to know. I'm sure that there would be a great deal of resentment in the latter case, and our purpose would be lost in animosity and bitterness on your part.

"As to why the news has been scarce about saucers and related topics, the press is being told to censor this news, or else. This pressure on the news media from the higher echelons of government results in the conspicuous absence of UFO news. Take heart, however, as things are going to change.

"As we have told a few of you, and are now telling an entire convention, we have definitely scheduled an aerial display for you within three years that will make believers out of the staunchest of skeptics. The time has come when we must return to prominence, and this time we are going to do it on such a grand scale that no amount of official censure will be able to hide the reality of our existence in a dark file cabinet, stamped Top Secret.

"If you will recall the Washington, D.C. flap in 1952, and can imagine that --- repeated on a much vaster scale world-wide, you have a fair notion of the show you are due to get. Suffice it to say that when we're finished, there will be either believers or fools.

"Once we establish officially that we do exist, we will be able to carry out Phase Two of the program a few months later. For the moment, this plan shall remain secret, but you'll be safe in betting that the world hasn't seen anything like it in its entire history!

"Despite the censorship of saucer news in your press, 1963 was a banner year for sightings. This can be confirmed by any well known saucer research organization. What is important is that we are still around, more active than ever, and the best is yet to come.

"We were very much heartened to hear Mr. Johnson's speech stating that the production of fissionable materials will be cut, in the future. This is the second real step to a peaceful world, the first being the test ban, hailed in all circles which are interested in Earth's welfare, as a major bit of progress. Still, there is much to be done on your world concerning the problem of your remaining in existence. You know that as long as nations possess their own militaries, war is inevitable. What, then, is the solution?

"The United Nations is the answer. As of now the U.N. is weak and impotent. The first step, therefore, is to strengthen it. It, not the various war-mongering national governments, must determine the course of international relations. Only this way can war be cut off at the roots. There is a multipoint plan that we offer to effect this world unity through the authority of the United Nations.

"Point 1: All nations must be admitted, not just those that the western powers find convenient to acknowledge. Communist China is today an established world power, and no amount of hiding heads in the sand will change that fact one iota. While your politicians and patriots are fighting recognition of Communist China, she is steadily increasing her strength, absolutely unchecked and absolutely ignored!

"Do you go to a hospital when you are very sick, or do you stay at home and deny that you are ill, hoping the sickness will go away? Most people would of course follow the former course. It is the same with a nation such as Communist China, for she is a grave illness in the world. The hospital is the United Nations, and it is the only place where such a sickness can be put in check, and perhaps cured. All the time that the 'free' world fails to acknowledge in the United Nations the existence of Communist China, she grows like a malignant disease. It is time to be realistic, my friends. Pretense can be lethal in this game.

"Point 2: All nations must abide by U.N. decisions as law, though all nations must be able to question in a World Court any decision that seems to be unjust to that nation --- although not to its own special interests at the expense of other nations.

"Point 3: The body of the U.N. must be composed of delegates from each nation, elected by that nation. When elected, they become independent of that nation and are bound only by duty to the United Nations and to the preservation of peace, order, and justice.

"Point 4: Assuming that a military is necessary to preserve order until peace can be established via the vehicles of Brotherhood, compassion, love, and the establishment of Universal Economics to replace money-economics, then such military must be at the disposal of the United Nations alone. It must not be used by vindictive or agressive individual nations for their own ends. Naturally, each nation will have a police force to maintain internal order, but these will not be used for international conflict. Such a violation of U.N. rules must be dealt with accordingly in the General Council, if such a name fits, and appropriate corrective measures taken.

"Point 5: No nation or bloc of nations shall dominate the U.N. at any time, nor shall the United Nations favor any nation or bloc of nations, nor be prejudiced against any nation or bloc of nations.

"Point 6: The delegates to the U.N. may be advised by their respective countries. However, they are not required to vote as their country wishes if such a vote is for a special interest, or is against the common good of the world.

"If I sound a bit legalistic in my speech, forgive me.

However, I don't see how the ideas can be put across except by straight-forward, objective language. At any rate, I feel you are intelligent enough to follow my meaning without difficulty.

"I mentioned Universal Economics. Some of you might recall that it was originally called Prior Choice Economics. In essence, the major headache of your times, money, is eliminated. For a full explanation I suggest you contact Gabriel Green at AFSCA. He has an entire issue of their publication devoted to this non-money system of economics. Conversion to this system would eliminate poverty, debt, bankruptcy and economic stagnation. It would provide lifetime insurance, old-age comfort without worry, wealth that can only increase, and a full use of your manufacturing and farm facilities for the improvement of living.

"Your present money-economics causes wars, both because poor nations have no other recourse in some cases, and because certain manufacturers stand to profit from warfare, and therefore they promote it. In a system where wealth can be gained without danger of loss, and where consumer use of goods can more than fully occupy all your present industry for years to come, there is no need for war --- all are too busy waging peace and enjoying the benefits.

"Naturally, there will be those who oppose this new non-money economics. These are the ones who oppose everything new and different, mostly because they fear change, or they fear the unknown. Here is where your help is needed, my friends. You are responsible for the peace and security of the world. You will reap the rewards of plenty if you work now for this great goal. I say now, because there is very little time left for procrastination. The world situation is improving, to be sure, but there is still the increasing chance that war might come.

"We are hoping that our overflight will give needed change. However, it is still at least a year off, and before then there is a very good chance of a war, possibly starting in some spot like Vietnam, and escalating into world-wide holocaust. It is this that you are to prevent by your good works. We will do all we can short of stepping in and slapping wrists on a worldwide scale, which of course is contrary to the laws of Non-Interference.

"Each of you is like a letter in a fantastic alphabet, small in itself but indispensible to the whole. Imagine the letter 'E' removed from the English language. It is a small letter, but how very important it is to your language. Similarly, if you are lax in your duties or do not give of yourself in the cause to your fullest extent, then you are a missing letter, and the entire human alphabet will suffer as a result.

"What can you do? First and foremost, live the good life. Love your neighbor; respect him; try to understand him. Oppose all forms of violence and warfare. Treat all men as equals. Give no sorrow or suffering to your Brothers. Help them when they ask for help, and offer your assistance when they need it but are too proud to ask. In short --- lead an ethical, moral and happy life. Radiate the light of a joyous being.

Next, begin a campaign to bring others into the movement. Organize clubs, hold meetings and invite the public. If possible, get the local news media to carry coverage of events. Interviews on radio and TV facilities are a tremendous aid in publicizing the saucer movement message. I might suggest that radio programs at night are best, since radio stations in the broadcast band have much greater range after sunset and can therefore reach more listeners.

"Find out about Universal Economics from Mr. Green at AFSCA. Once you have a working knowledge of it, carry out an extensive campaign to inform leaders of government, business, commerce, etc., of its potentials and its innumerable advantages over the money system. This has definite appeal to the average businessman or executive whose main interest is profit, since there can be no loss under the UnEc system.

"Letters to the editor and the aforementioned radio-TV interviews will bring UnEc to the attention of the populace. It will be received well. Most of you are probably fed up with the money system and its multitude of failings, and would eagerly accept a system which produces only gain in wealth for you, never loss. It also resolves many of the foremost problems of your time such as automation, unemployment and inadequate financing of many public and private works which are necessary to progress.

"Perhaps you might think we are overstressing the economic factors, but, if a happy peaceful world is a body, then a sound, stable economy is its heart. There is no life without it. In fact, you can never hope to achieve lasting peace and Brotherhood unless you eliminate this obstacle, Money. This must be done first, before anything else is undertaken. We can not overstress this. Let us be practical --- as long as there are those who are hungry, poor, despairing --- do you suppose that you can sell them on a peaceful life? Such unnatural conditions drive people to acts of destruction and violence. Could you convince a nation whose very economic survival depends on war --- to follow the path to peace? Surely not. Not unless you provide a means by which the nation will survive and prosper without taking what it needs by force, or tries to keep its economy from collapsing by preparing for, or engaging in, war.

"Such are the cold, hard facts, my friends. The Earth needs physically sound living, as well as spiritually sound living. That, in essence, is why we of Korendor are here. We know that you have, in the past, been given sound advice from other planets for your spiritual existence. It is now our goal to deliver to you the scientific and economic advice and information with which to complement your spiritual teachings, so that in living a balanced life, your people will attain the greater freedom, abundance and happiness toward which men of Earth have so long been striving.

"For the moment, then, I shall leave you with these thoughts. You have enough to think about to keep you busy for awhile. Va i luce, friends of Earth. The Light be with you and in you."

RANGER 7 MOON ROCKET REPORT

SPECIAL RADIO MESSAGE RECEIVED BY BOB RENAUD, 1:05 A. M., AUGUST 1, 1964: "Good morning. As you know and have seen on TV this morning, the Ranger 7 was an unqualified success, for your scientists, rocket men, engineers, and others. We congratulate the men and women involved for this tremendous achievement, a milestone for your science. You will also note that we in no way interfered with the probe, until it was ten feet from the surface, when we picked it up after jamming the transmitters. At the rate of travel (over 5000 miles per hour) this amounted to very little difference anyway, a few thousandths of a second from what would have been its impact time. Therefore we allowed the maximum number of photos possible under the circumstances.

"Now, the Mare Nubium bases were caught briefly in your photos, perhaps 4 or 5 of them, as the shot landed in an area away from them. The bases are small ones, since the region is mostly for radio-telescopes and monitors. They were caught in the extreme outer edges of the 'A' camera photos, once they became visible at all. By the time they were recognizable as bases, they were out of the 25 degree field of view. We think, however, that your astronomers will classify them as unknown objects or features.

"In the future, even though you might chance to send a probe into the middle of a base complex, we won't interfere until it poses a real danger to our people. However, this policy may create some problems for your 'authorities' --- trying to explain away the bases as natural phenomena!

"Our analysis of the probe itself showed us that the camera fields of view were narrower than we had thought. If you had had a 45 degree or larger lens, you would have photographed the bases in the area quite clearly. We had assumed your cameras included one of that angle. As we said, the 'A' camera, with its 25 degree lens, barely caught the bases. Above a certain height, they were too small to show up on the photos, and below this they were rapidly getting out of the field of view. Those are 'the breaks,' as you say.

"As far as we are concerned, the 'Hands-off' policy for manned landings on other worlds is cancelled. What harm you can do is of no worry to us. Certainly, you won't have weapons. Since, according to your government, we don't even exist, you won't need anything to protect yourselves from us! So, as of now, we do not feel it necessary to prevent your landings.

"You might be seriously questioning our vacillation of policy. Unfortunately, when dealing with a world such as yours, so brilliant in some ways and so backward in others, there is almost always a strong difference of opinion among those involved. As new facts are being constantly gained about your people and your planet, the tide of opinion varies between the two factions. We seem to now have come to the point where we are almost unanimous in agreeing that you presently pose no threat to anyone of other worlds, and that you might as well be allowed to continue your space programs unhampered. So far, even though your military has played an active part in these programs, there has been no militaristic intent in your probes, which were all of a purely scientific nature. We think that you have actually realized that it would be ridiculous to extend your petty rivalries and tribal disputes into the realms of space. This is one major factor in your favor. Actually, you would find a space-war so incredibly expensive under your present propulsion techniques, and under your present economic system, that you could not seriously propose such a farce, even if you were so inclined.

"We have told you on occasion that we would delay your Apollo program until we could quietly provide you with the basic secrets of gravity and magnetic power and propulsion. This may still be done, but, at this time, there is increasing resistance to this in our ranks.

"Again, we congratulate you on your monumental achievement. We admire the perseverance of your scientists even after 13 successive failures; we honor those who, even with the threat of having their program scrapped by short-sighted politicians, managed to carry out such a tremendously precise and difficult feat with great accuracy and success. May you be as successful in the future. You have gained a lot of prestige in the world, and on other worlds. May you one day be a member of the space fraternity. We are all, as you say, 'in your corner.' Lin-Erri, out from Lunar Base TR-7U."

CONTACTEES BLASTED!

(Note: The following special message was received by Bob Renaud via radio at 11:30 P. M. on July 27, 1964 from Akim-Vesta Antiri, Elder Master of the planet Korendor. -Ed.)

IF THE SHOE FITS --- WEAR IT!: "What I have to say won't take long, and if I step on toes, so be it. I am directing this to all those who feel the saucer movement to be more than just a source of personal amusement or pecuniary reward.

"Ever since we of other worlds began to contact your people with the intent of spreading our word via these people so chosen, we have seen that, in many cases, our choices were a bit hasty, and in some few cases, actually mistakes.

"Some of those we contacted have lost any interest in philanthropic goals, and have become overbearing, inconsiderate, and greedy. From their original humanitarian beliefs they have turned to using these contacts as an easy way to make, as you say, 'a fast buck,' with minimum work involved.

"Others have lost any semblance of humility or Brotherhood, and have elevated themselves into self-appointed messengers from Almighty God. Their main purpose in life, to my observation, seems to be the attempt to convince others of their complete superiority to the masses.

"The time has arrived when some changes are needed. We can see only two alternatives.

"One, these people can continue their pompous, arrogant attitudes, and continue preaching only for profit, and without consideration for the welfare of the saucer movement as a whole. In this case, I'm afraid they will be left by the wayside, as it were. They will be deposited into the wastebasket of futile ventures by the people from other worlds, and we will turn our attention to more fruitful individuals, who will not let the baser human qualities destroy their usefulness to the cause.

"Two, these individuals --- and I'm sure they know who I'm talking about --- can face up to themselves and reflect, 'What have I done to further the work? Have I lived up to the expectations of the Space People or have I degenerated into one of those boorish people of whom the Master speaks?'

"Let's face facts. How many of the contactees really live by what they were taught? How many of them practice what they preach? Can they all say, without a twinge of conscience, that they have done their best?

"These, then, are the choices. Those who merely are in the movement for profit, for egoistic reasons, for publicity, or for the sake of perpetrating a hoax, will shortly find themselves dropped from the roster. They will be left behind in the coming insurgence of the movement. They are the ones who, in a very few years, will become the forgotten ones.

"On the other hand, those who find it in them to truly live as they have learned, and who are willing to work for others as well as for themselves, will find themselves to be integral parts of a growing, dynamic movement, soon to be a major factor in world affairs.

"We of other planets frankly admit that some of our choices were blunders, and we're willing to prove that we have learned by our mistakes. We are going to make up for lost time, my friends. There has been too much delay because of these unwise choices.

"Therefore, if they choose to remain as they are now, we will turn to new avenues of activity. There are many who would be very good for our purposes, and we will turn our attention from the old, outdated and now-useless ones to fresh, new, and dedicated individuals.

"We have a grand message to deliver to you, the people of Earth. We are annoyed that it has been lost because of the ways of those to whom we have given the responsibility for this message.

"Instead of gaining a wide following, the childish antics of some of the contactees have heaped ridicule and derision on the whole movement. The change is near --- and when it happens, the old-timers will either mend their ways or they'll become ineffectual anachronisms.

"You deserve a great and glorious future, Brothers of Earth. We intend to see that you get it. Too long you have suffered under the burdens of war, disease, violence, hunger, anger and hatred. You have borne the yoke of an outdated monetary economic system. You have seen millions killed, fighting for questionable 'principles' which in reality are the direct antitheses of Universal Law.

"You have seen suffering because of race, religion, and nationality. You see now the world split into antagonistic factions by the so-called nationalists and super-patriots who think the only good foreigner is a dead one.

"You are about to see the end of all this idiocy. You are all the harbingers of a New Era, a time of peace and plenty, free from the old miseries and sorrows. Say good-bye to this world of wrongs. It is on the way out.

"Think this over, you to whom I have referred. The time is short now. For the moment, va i luce, workers of Light."

THE BOB RENAUD STORY

By ROBERT P. RENAUD

PART 25

(Editor's note: We continue the remarkable narrative of Bob Renaud, which began in July of 1961 when he first made radio contact with the crew of a spacecraft, whose home was on the planet Korendor in a far distant solar system. Since January 6, 1962, Bob has viewed the Korendian's inside their spaceships on his own TV screen; met them in person on many occasions; taken pictures of and actually piloted some of their spaceships; visited their underground and undersea bases; and on February 4, 1964 he became the first Earthman to walk in outer space -- on the outer hull of a Flying Saucer, in a spacesuit with magnetic shoes. The first parts of his story are still available in issues #18, 19, 20, and 21 for 50¢ each.)

RADIO CONTACT--SEPTEMBER 28, 1963: Promptly at 2:00 A.M., just as they had promised during the last contact, my Korendian friends came in over the headset of my radio, which I now use instead of the loudspeaker --- so as to avoid the possibility of waking my parents. However, as it turned out, this contact was purely personal in nature and was not for publication.

I can now be in touch with the Korendians at anytime by sending out an electronic signal that triggers their monitor circuits to a condition of reception. They can also contact me, even when I am asleep, by beaming an electronic signal to my mind, which is my cue to switch on "the rig" (his TV and radio apparatus-Ed.) to see what's new. Since this September 28th contact I have had several other communications with them in this manner, but they have been either for technical or personal information.

PART 26

RADIO CONTACT--NOVEMBER 2, 1963; PANEL DISCUSSION OF MASTERS: At 1:00 A.M., E.S.T., the Korendians came through via radio, right on time. Master Kalen-Li was the first to speak:

"Kalo, Bob. Tonight, I want to have a sort of panel discussion. With me are Masters Endo-Saren, Vassi-Koln, and Kren-Lor. We will be discussing anything that comes to mind.

THE IRRATIONALITY OF WAR: "To begin, let me reflect for a while on your planet's history. Ever since Cain killed Abel, man has in some way been doing his fellows harm, on a personal level or on a larger scale, leading to wars. All I will consider at this time is wars, of which your planet has a notorious background.

"It seems that no period in your history has been without some kind of warfare. If it wasn't Caesar fighting the Gauls, it was the Crusaders fighting everybody, or the North fighting the South. Wars have been waged for all sorts of reasons, from eliminating dictatorships to avenging a nasty remark about a king's bald pate.

"It has yet to be shown that war has provided anything but a socially-acceptable form of population control."

Endo-Saren: "Just what has war brought to your world? To begin with there is hatred, which is self-perpetuating by the atrocities perpetrated by the other side. Then there is suspicion, since it is natural to mistrust those who have a long record of militarism. Then there is the poverty, injustice, sickness, misery, death and destruction that war produces --- the awful list goes on and on."

NUCLEAR BOMBS PROVIDE MEANS TO END WARS!: Kren-Lor: "I suppose you remember that World War I was to be the 'war to end all wars.' The same for World War II. Now at last there is truly a way to make this dream come true. A war to end all wars. Just think of it. Now with only a push of a button you can snuff out a million people, wipe out whole cities, fill the atmosphere with radioactive fallout and trigger the complete destruction of your civilization."

Vassi-Koln: "Indeed. And, if you believe the Civil Defense, when all the horror is over, you crawl out of your shelter and go on your merry way with life as usual.

"Such innocence. But do you really believe all that? Do you really think that the next war will be limited, that no atomic weapons will be used? This is one case where ignorance is not bliss. Poor deluded Earthlings! Your modern government propagandists have it all over Brother Grimm for spinning fairy tales!

WARMONGERS DISCREDIT THE UNITED NATIONS: Kalen-Li: "The one hope for your world at the present seems to be the United Nations. Here is the place where the nations can settle differences without resorting to the international vandalism called war. But of course the warmongers in the U.S. don't like this type of dealing. 'We are an almighty nation,' they say. 'Let us annihilate those who disagree with us. Why should we allow ourselves to be run by the world?' 'But how shall we go about bringing popular opinion against the United Nations?', they ask. Up pops a rightist. 'I have it! Let's say that it's Communist controlled.' 'Brilliant!', is the response. Next day, in the papers and on radio and TV, these fanatics begin their campaign. 'Beware of the United Nations, It is not what it seems. It is run by Communists, etc., etc.'

"These fanatics work on the assumption that the American people are extremely gullible. Perhaps they are, for they have not yet moved towards peace and the opportunity is lessening as the time grows shorter.

BIGOTS LABEL DIFFERING VIEWPOINTS "COMMUNIST": Kren-Lor: "It seems that much of what opposes, or is different from, some of your beliefs and customs is 'Communist-inspired.' It used to be that everything against established philosophies was the work of 'the devil.' That 'devil' has had many names. At one time it was Germany; another time Japan. Now it seems that Russia and China are branded with the label.

"Many things have been called Communist: Birth control; peace marches; integration; free-thinking; atheism; your presidents Mr. Truman and Mr. Eisenhower, and the entire U.S. Senate, for that matter. About the only thing that hasn't yet been disparaged is the Creator, and in time, the bigots may even get around to that."

ONE SIDE'S "HEROES" ARE OTHER SIDE'S "MURDERERS": Endo-Saren: "As I see war, it is a stupid contest between two teams who don't know themselves at all, much less their opponents, why they are there, or what they are doing.

"War has been an accepted form of human slaughter, since it is all very formal and 'civilized.' But in peacetime, such activity would be called mass murder."

Kren-Lor: "Consider a person referred to as the Mad Bomber. He was responsible for many deaths. During war time this sort of thing would no doubt have earned him a citation for valor. However, since New York was not officially at war with anybody, he was condemned as the perpetrator of horrible atrocities.

"Perhaps I should explain an atrocity. If a GI sneaks up on an enemy soldier, knifes him in the back, shoots him in the head, and then blows him to shreds with a grenade, that is honorable heroism. If an enemy soldier sneaks up on a GI, knifes him in the back, shoots him in the head, and then blows him to shreds with a grenade, that is a dastardly atrocity. It's all a matter of the way you look at it."

PEOPLE EVERYWHERE HAVE SAME BASIC NEEDS: Kalen-Li: "We noted that there was and still is much opposition to the atomic test ban. So your officials have taken to saber-rattling and bragging about the advanced atomic force that the U.S. has accumulated; about how many people they can wipe out and about the efficiency of their terror weapons.

"They seem to be completely unconcerned that they are responsible for millions of human lives. To them, it is irrelevant that on the other side of the dispute there are millions of people living and loving as we do. To those in power these people are foreigners and, therefore, are evil. To the warmongers, the people of the world are no more than digits on a sheet of paper or pawns on a chessboard. Exterminators have more compassion for termites than the warmongers have for human life.

APATHY LEADS TO DESTRUCTION: "The worst part of all this is that your people seem so indifferent to these things. Some will say, 'If God does not want us to die, we won't die.' Oh that such faith could be rewarded in fact! In reality it results in a laxity and apathy which has always led to destruction.

"It is time to assert yourselves! Think for yourselves and begin to mold your own future. It is your actions --- or lack of them --- which will make the difference. Perhaps, though, this is asking too much. Your race is so accustomed to letting a few do all the thinking, it may be too difficult to suddenly assert yourselves as individuals. If you are so apathetic that you think you deserve to die, then we can do nothing for you."

RIGHT ACTION CAN LEAD TO SURVIVAL: Vassi-Koln: "However, if you choose to survive, then you must act now. Don't wait until the missiles start flying before you do something. Once the hell-bombs are on their way, it will be to late to act."

Kalen-Li: "The time is ripe to do something constructive. Get up, all ye of Light, and speak out against the warmongers who have so long had you under their control. Show them up as the dangers to humanity that they are. Win people to your side by word and deed. Let not the anti-pacifists discourage you. Failure now can mean the end of your race and the destruction of a civilization which could have been truly magnificent.

"We will be speaking again of these things. For now it is time to depart, and go to the entertainment center to watch 'My Favorite Earthling!' We will communicate again with you on November 12th. Va i luce, Bob."

With that the signal faded --- and I was left to ponder again what the fate of our Earth would be.

PART 27

RADIO CONTACT--11:30 P.M., E.S.T.; NOVEMBER 12-13, 1963. Speaker--Lin-Erri. Subject--THE FLYING SAUCER MOVEMENT: "Kalo again, Bob. As we promised to do before, we will now delve into the saucer movement, its responsibilities, problems, and goals.

UNITY OF PURPOSE VITAL TO WELFARE OF MOVEMENT: "Perhaps most important in this time of trouble, and in any case a necessary goal, is an established unity of purpose among saucerites. It seems to us that there is an almost total lack of coordination among them, even though there are many who not only believe in saucers, but have seen them, and have conversed with their occupants.

"It is sad to see how one faction calls another group 'crackpots,' and the latter retaliates by calling the first group insufferable bigots. This name-calling achieves no useful purpose, since an individual without support is one against the world, and it degrades the general tone of the whole thing.

WORLD-WIDE UNION ADVOCATED: "Therefore, it behooves all in the movement to align in a world-wide union of forces. So far, the groups which crop up here and there are small and relatively uninformed, without backing and, more often than not, reaching only a few with information which should be disseminated internationally to the multitudes.

FEAR OF RIDICULE SUPPRESSES SAUCER REPORTS: "Suppose, for example, one of your people makes contact with a group from Venus. He hesitates to mention his experience because of the type of disparaging comments so many people make about such things. But finally he may decide to tell his story to the local newspaper. If they give it any coverage at all, it is usually a small notice where it will hardly be noticed, and is usually written in a sarcastic or ridiculing way.

Your Earth Brother, having thus been flaunted, may retract his story and the world loses valuable information, not to mention that the movement loses another leader.

"But perhaps he is not so easily defeated. He therefore organizes a group of followers, and they publish a few mimeographed pages now and then, and go on in relative insignificance.

"This is, in actuality, the pattern over the Earth. There are hundreds of small groups and every one of them is laboring under the burden of obscurity and official ridicule by the press and government, the 'scientists,' and the 'intelligentsia.'

STRENGTH THROUGH UNITY: "If only these groups would realize that while they continue to function independently they will not prosper, but that if they would unify, they would create great strength and would be far more effective than they can now imagine.

"There are several factors that stand in the way of immediate coalition. First, there is ignorance of the need for unity. Then, there is lack of knowledge as to how unity might be accomplished. Also, many do not know that there is an existing organization which is strong enough to form a core for unity. I refer to Mr. Green's group, AFSCA, which will soon have many branches throughout your country and the world. Another obstacle is that many times your people fear ridicule if they assert themselves. And there is the fact that many contactees conflict on certain points, and this causes friction. Also, each group's policies and philosophies differ from the others, making many people apathetic or actually hostile to the idea of unity. Finally, there is back-stabbing among the contactees themselves.

"It is obvious that there is great need to combine the many groups into a single large body. The problem in this case is locating and contacting all these groups, and then co-ordinating them into one.

"When all the groups have been located, there should be a meeting of their leaders to define the areas of common agreement, and their mutual goals. A desire for world peace should be the basis on which to begin. You will find that most of these people sincerely want peace, no matter how much their opinions and philosophies differ.

"Once the groups have joined ranks and have quietly considered and discussed each others views, many avenues of common interest and agreement will be discovered. Before long, the entire membership will have agreed upon a master philosophy, and the type of action to be taken. This is the first step in cooperation.

PROMOTIONAL CAMPAIGN TO REACH THE MASSES: "Once the internal tensions have been resolved, the organization should begin its campaign to reach individuals who are not associated with any group. This can be done by brochures, sample copies of publications, advertising post cards, etc. Next, interviews on radio and TV, articles in newspapers and magazines, public lectures and other forms of exposure to the masses should be undertaken.

"There are many people who are curious, if not already interested in this subject of Flying Saucers, but they don't know where to go to ask about it and to discuss it. Clubs should be formed in each city for this purpose, and public notice made of the fact that they exist.

"When finally the public's interest in the Flying Saucer subject is aroused, it will be necessary to enlighten them about the changes which can and must be made in order to bring about a far, far better way of life for everyone. They must become aware of the destruction which is inevitable under present courses of action. They should hear discourses on the United Nations and how it could be strengthened; and we will give them the benefit of our experience, and suggest patterns of activity for improving life on your planet.

"Once the people are aroused and demand to know the truth, then the way will open to influence the leaders of your country (in political, religious and social areas) to take the right action to bring about the desired conditions of peace, Brotherhood, and abundance.

ADOPT UNIVERSAL ECONOMICS BY LEGISLATION: "Bills will then be introduced, by lobbying and other legal means, into the various governments, to establish controlled disarmament, adoption of Universal Economics, and recognition of the existence of saucers. This will release government files on the subject and lift the censorship which has silenced government personnel who have seen saucers, enabling them to add their voices to the growing numbers of people who will admit their experiences.

WORLD GOVERNMENT IS PRELUDE TO MEMBERSHIP IN UNIVERSAL ALLIANCE: "Eventually, the United Nations will be made the controlling force in your world government, according to the principles of Alliance government. With the U.N. forces taking over international policing, the vast amounts of energy which have been squandered on militarism can then be turned to peaceful purposes. Manpower which was formerly employed in warmongering can be redirected into peaceful activities. Medical and scientific research will be given priority. Food surpluses will be eliminated by two means: 1. Shipping surpluses to underdeveloped countries on the stipulation that they, in turn, will contribute to society when they become independent. 2. Production according to the consumers needs, by efficient management of farmlands and other food-producing facilities, keeping only nominal surpluses for emergencies.

"In the more remote future, it is quite probable that your planet will unite with the Alliance, as your social, ethical, and scientific progress continues.

"To sum up, the motive should be the same for all members of the Flying Saucer Movement. It should not be personal esteem or monetary reward. It must be world peace, Brotherhood and plenty, for all mankind.

Man Tells Of Encounter With A 'Flying Saucer'

HARRISONBURG — Horace Burns told a crowd of several hundred people at Eastern Mennonite College auditorium last night about his sighting of a "flying saucer" on Dec. 21.

Burns, a Grottoes gunsmith, said he saw the object near Fishersville as he was driving on from Staunton to Waynesboro on U.S. 250.

He described the object as looking like an old-fashioned beehive, with six concentric rings from bottom to top.

In Washington, Burns' description was termed "pretty typical" by Richard Hall, acting director of the National Investigating Committee on Aerial Phenomenon.

Hall said Burns' report that his car engine stopped when the saucer passed in front of him is also fairly common.

"This electro-magnetic effect has been reported a dozen times," Hall said, in reports of unidentified flying objects (UFO) and that the first such report was made in 1952.

UFO reports are becoming more numerous, Hall said, the latest having reportedly been seen Monday over Washington by six people. A naval air station tracked an object by radar Dec. 29 and reported it was traveling 4,800 miles an hour, he added.

Prof. Ernest Gehman of Eastern Mennonite College told the crowd at Harrisonburg that at least four other people saw the same UFO that Burns reported, but are reluctant to make public statements for fear of ridicule.

Gehman said he received a telephone call yesterday from a Staunton man whose son supposedly saw the object Burns described.

The boy made a sketch, which closely resembled Burns's description, Gehman said.

Burns said the object was dark-colored and appeared to be metallic but he could not be certain. There were no obvious doors or windows on the craft, he said.

No seams were visible and although there was no apparent means of control or guidance, he said he was certain it had intelligent direction. The UFO landed, Burns said, in a field near the Woodrow Wilson Rehabilitation Center at Fishersville.

It rested on the ground for about one-and-a-half minutes then rose slowly in the air for several hundred feet then suddenly shot off at a 90 degree turn to the northeast at a very rapid pace.

Burns said Thursday night there was no evidence of heat, or turbulence at the base of the vehicle. He said he was frightened when he saw the object and said it was as big as two ordinary houses.

Several hundred persons filled the seats at the Eastern Mennonite College auditorium and some stood in the aisles to hear the report.

Burns withstood a barrage of questions—some indicating a great deal of skepticism without contradicting his story. The craft settled on the field "as lightly as a bubble." When the object stopped in front of him, the gunsmith said, his car's motor stopped as if it had run out of gasoline.

Burns said Thursday he regrets he didn't investigate the field after the object departed.

Prof. Gehman said he examined the landing area with a Geiger counter and found it to be highly radioactive. One area, he said, caused the needle to jump off the register and he had to take the plate glass off to clean it before he could begin measuring the radiation. The needle again jumped off the register, the professor said, and upon closer examination found that a piece of radioactive grass less than an inch long was causing the needle to react so radically.

Prof. Gehman again adjusted the needle, he said, and then walked over the area holding the counter five feet off the ground and it still registered very high.

A team of Air Force investigators from Wright-Patterson Air Base, Dayton, Ohio, came to Fishersville Jan. 7 to study the case but found no evidence of radiation in the area—some three weeks after the sighting by a blast of air.

The Air Force specialists said, however that the radioactivity could have dissipated between the time of the landing and the time of their investigation.

However, the airmen reported a significant radiation reading on the left side of Burns' automobile.

Burns said when the object passed over him he felt a definite force exerted on his automobile as if he had been struck by a blast of air.

Prof. Gehman said he has also witness to his Geiger counter readings who is an engineer at Du Pont in Waynesboro. The engineer told Gehman he knows of at least three other people who sighted the object but have been reluctant to report it.

"I think it is a tragedy that people are so reluctant to tell something which could be so significant to the human race," Gehman said.

"I can't help feeling there is a prophetic significance to these sightings," he added. Gehman said it could possibly foretell the second coming of Christ. He quoted a passage from the New Testament which said there will be signs in the heavens before Christ returns to earth.

Werner Will, assistant German teacher at the college, said that the faculty thinks this is "a big hoax. We are not behind it at all."

Watsonville's Weird Story --A Ride on a Spaceship

2 S.F. News Call Bulletin ☆☆☆☆ Fri., Feb. 12, 1965

A Watsonville television repairman told today of a two-hour visit, and a brief ride, aboard a spacecraft that came from a world "a long ways, a terrific distance" away.

His was the third report of strange aerial activity since Dec. 28 in the Monterey Bay Area.

Sid Padrick, 45, said he was invited aboard with assurances that the nine-man crew was "absolutely not hostile" and that the craft spent most of the time perched on a hillside not more than 10 minutes' ride from his beachside home.

HE BROUGHT back little in the way of specific information about the other world or the means by which the spaceship operated.

"But I asked if any other person, with more scientific or technical background, could have gained more knowledge," he reported. "The answer was 'absolutely no.'"

Padrick said his strange adventure occurred about 2 a. m. on Jan. 30, when he was taking a customary night-time walk on Manresa Beach, about 1,500 feet from the house where his wife and three sons lay sleeping.

HE HEARD a "humming" sound, he related, and then became aware of the ship some distance above him. A voice assured him, before and after it landed, that the craft was friendly.

At the invitation of a person whom he assumed to be the commander — a Mr. "Ziena," as best he could spell a name he heard only once — he entered from ground level through a large, square door.

Inside, he said, the ship consisted of at least two levels, and possibly a third which he didn't see. There were 3 rooms or compartments.

"THE crew was dressed pretty much alike, in two-piece suits of bluish-white," Padrick related. "The color was almost that of the light inside the ship, which was indirect and seemed to come from the walls."

The crewmen appeared to be normal humans, of average size, wearing short dark hair that seemed never to have been cut—"as though that was its normal length."

"Ziena spoke English," Padrick said. "He told me they could speak any language among them, but he was the only one who could speak mine. They seemed to communicate between themselves with hand-gestures and perhaps facial gestures.

"HE TOLD ME where they were from in terms I did not understand. I don't know much about space. I wouldn't be sure their world is in the solar system.

"He said they had been here before, but not how many times, or when their most recent visit was. He did say they would come again."

Padrick said the ship's motive power came from "energy transferred through a light source known to them."

"I didn't know what he was talking about," he admitted frankly. "I was frightened—very much so —all the time. Wouldn't you be?".

HE SAID the commander allowed him to go outside when the ship landed on the hilltop, and he walked about for a few minutes hoping to see a landmark for identification. No one accompanied him outside.

Once, when he was in the ship, he was shown a diffuse glass-type plate on which the image of a "navigation craft," many miles where far above, appeared.

But Padrick declined to describe the appearance of either ship, beyond saying the one he boarded was about 50 feet long and 30 feet high.

"The Air Force asked me not to discuss it in detail," he explained. He made a report of his adventure to Major D. B. Reeder at Hamilton AFB, and the data has been forwarded to the Unidentified Flying Center at Dayton, Ohio.

PADRICK said the commander told him the visit was for "exploratory reasons only."

"But I think it was more than that, truthfully," he added. "There was a religious facet which I was unable to decipher."

Two other reports of sightings of unidentified objects were made in the Watsonville area about the same time.

A crew of Santa Clara County park rangers reported "a saucer-like thing" over the Hecker Mountains east of Watsonville on Dec. 28, and Monterey Mayor George M. Clemins said he saw a bright object over Monterey Bay on the evening of Jan. 29.

State Residents Report Sightings Of Unidentified Flying Objects

BINGHAMTON (UPI)—"Humbug" may be the official reaction to unidentified flying objects (UFO) but many people in this Southern Tier New York area prefer to call them "Martians."

The latest sighting of a UFO was Tuesday night by a woman employe of a newspaper who said she and her friends saw an object over the city's west side.

"I don't want to be identified, though," she said. "People might think I'm crazy."

Earlier this month, five children said a "little man, wearing a helmet and plastic goggles" walked up to them "making strange clicking sounds." Several other persons, including a local Fire Department lieutenant, have reported objects in the sky.

The first report in the current series came in April from a farmer in Newark Valley, N.Y., a rural hamlet to the northwest, who said two "little men wanted water" appeared one morning, particularly organic material such as fertilizer."

Doesn't Appear Believable

Authorities bwd no explanation for the sightings. They said the people making the reports were sincere and their stories almost believable.

The woman said the object made no noise and had red and green blinking lights.

"It was the size of a compact car," she said, "and looked like a nose cone standing straight up and down. It was flying about tree-top level, moving south to north. It disappeared and then came back again and went off. It all happened about 10:25 pm."

Lt. John Callabrisi of the Binghamton Fire Department and chairman of the Roberson Memorial Cultural Center Astronomical Society, said he saw an "object sporting fire across the sky." He said at first he thought it might be the Echo II satellite but saw the satellite later.

Louis Subert of Norwich, N.Y. said he saw an eliptical object Monday night hovering about 50 feet off the ground near Sherburne, northeast of here. Other persons in the area also reported seeing the object.

Boys See 'Man'

Earlier this month, Mrs. Edmund Travis of Conklin, N.Y. in hamlet south of here, told authorities that five children, including two of her children, told her about "their little man."

"They said he came up to them and then walked back to his vehicle and climbed on it," she said. "Then the boys ran away. I questioned them separately and the stories were pretty much the same."

Farmer Gary T. Wilcox, 28, of Newark Valley, told Tioga County sheriff's officers that on April 34 he found a large, shiny egg-shaped object on one of his two dairy farms. When he approached, he said, two men, about four feet tall, came up to him.

"I couldn't see any facial expression," he said, "because of a full face mask hood they wore."

He said the clothing appeared to have no seams.

"They talked to me in smooth English," he said. "Just as good English as you or most of us. The voices seemed to come from their bodies rather than from the head.

"They said they were interested in organic materials for growing food. They grow their food in the atmosphere but a change is expected to create problems," the farmer said.

Authorities said Wilcox had an excellent reputation. Neighbors told them the young farmer was "serious and hardworking and did not drink."

They said almost all the people making reports seemed fairly level headed.

"We listened to them all," a police official said. "We made our investigations but there is still no explanation."

BROOKSVILLE MAN'S STORY:

'I Saw A Flying Saucer . . . A Robot-Like Thing . . . Then It Went Whoosh'

St. Petersburg Times March 4, 1965

By SHIRLEY CHASTAIN
And ROBERT BOWDEN
Of The Times Staff

BROOKSVILLE — A fantastic tale of a flying saucer with a robot-like pilot was told here yesterday by Jo Reeves, resident of a trailer park 3½ miles east of Weeki Wachee Spring on Highway 50.

Reeves, a retired longshoreman from Brooklyn, gave this account of events he said occurred as he walked through some woods near here about 1:55 p.m.:

"I often walk through these woods," Reeves said, "to hunt snakes for my son in the Navy. He studies them and I've supplied quite a few. As I walked through some bushes (about 1½ miles from the trailer park), I saw a flying saucer about 700 yards away.

"IT WAS BLUISH-GREEN and reddish-purple in color, about 20 to 30 feet in diameter with two windows on top. (The windows, he said, were about two feet in diameter). It stood on a four-legged landing gear about four feet high with a top about six feet thick.

"I went around the bushes, walking back for a hundred yards so I could come in unobtected. Then I walked to within a hundred feet of the saucer. I crawled into some bushes to watch it.

"Then I saw someting like a robot walk from bushes about 200 to 300 feet away. He came over by the spaceship. Then the robot-like thing saw me in the bushes. He walked over to within 15 feet of me and looked right at me. I stared back at his giass dome."

(Reeves described the robot thusly: About five feet tall with a human-like figure. Wearing a canvas-like suit of a gray-silver color with a glass dome helmet. He said the robot's eyes were farther apart than a normal human's and its chin more pointed, but added this could have been caused by glass distortion.)

"HE LOOKED AT ME for about a minute and a half. I couldn't even blink an eye, I was so scared," Reeves said.

"Then he pulled something from his left side, lifted it to chin level and it flashed. (Reeves said he thought this was a camera. He described it as being six to seven inches in diameter and black in color.)

"He flashed again and I took off from the bushes. As I ran out the bushes knocked my hat off and I fell to the ground. My glasses fell off and I just lay there. I was in a kind of sitting position and looked back at the robot. He flashed the thing again and walked away to the saucer.

"There was some kind of an opening under the saucer and he got inside. (Reeves said the opening had round, cylindrical steps leading up into it. He described the chamber opening as being about 18 inches in diameter.)

"AFTER HE was inside some blades on the rim of the saucer started to move like venetian blinds. They opened and closed. Then the rim started going around — counterclockwise. It made a whooshing and rumbling sound and then started going around faster.

"I've heard all the sounds aircraft make and this was unlike any I'd ever heard before," Reeves said.

"Then the gear retracted into the saucer and the saucer went straight up. I watched it and it was out of sight in less than 10 seconds."

(Reeves said the robot dropped a piece of paper on his way back to the saucer. This piece of evidence was found and turned over to investigators from MacDill Air Force Base in Tampa. Reeves said the paper was like "tissue but very strong" and had "writing on it." He said it looked like Chinese writing but wasn't. MacDill would not comment.)

REEVES SAID the saucer left holes about "four or five inches in diameter and four inches deep" in the ground. He also said the robot left footprints in the ground. These he described as being "round on both ends and very narrow in the middle."

Reeves said there were an "awful lot of prints." He traced them but said they "didn't go very far from the saucer."

Capt. Raymond H. Henry, public relations for MacDill Air Force Base, said any information gained by investigators is "highly confidential."

"We cannot release that information tonight, next week or anytime," Capt. Henry said.

He said the results of an investigation into the unidentified flying object report will be forwarded to Wright-Patterson Air Force Base as a "standard form for such things."

Capt. Henry said the federal government could then order an additional investigative team into the area if warranted.

UFO's Seen As Vehicles By Local Saucer Sighter

By Christopher Owens

The United States Air Force is persisting in its "Big Brother" attitude toward the American people as regards unidentified flying objects, according to a Cinnaminson man.

Michael J. Campione, 2202 New Albany road, director of a new local branch of Amalgamated Flying Saucer Clubs of America, Inc., claims a personal sighting of a UFO, plus personal knowledge of a mass sighting in Philadelphia, which he offers as evidence that UFO's are not only real, they are most likely manned vehicles from outer space. Still, according to Campione, the Air Force will not acknowledge that UFO's exist.

"I used to follow the news of UFO's in the papers before it became too commonplace and they stopped carrying it. This was back around 1950 or '51.

"I never saw one myself until last winter---right here in Cinnaminson. It wasn't a saucer, but a UFO of another shape.

LIKE A JET

Campione described the craft as a flying object resembling an Air Force jet trainer, but bristling with antenna-like fuzzalong the edges of its silhouette. The object had no semblance of a tail section such as is commonto conventional airships.

According to Campione, the sighting took place at 5:20 a.m., December 13, 1963, and started with his observation of a "bright pinpoint of light." He said that as the object grew larger rapidly, as though traveling at enormous speed, the whole of it was glowing with a light green phosphorescent color, two narrow, wing-like projections extended out from either side of the 'fuselage' in the same relative position as wings on a conventional aircraft. On each 'wing tip' was what resembled a conventional wingtip fuel tank, only it was shorter and stubbier."

LASTED SECONDS

Campione said that the sighting lasted only about three or four seconds, beginning when the craft was over Route 73, as viewed from his New Albany road home, and ending with the object disappearing in the sky over Moorestown. The distance covered was approximately eight miles, he said, at an altitude of perhaps 3000 feet.

The Cinnaminson man also cited the experience of his friend, Zigmund Hill, Philadelphia, who, with his wife, daughter, and niece, was relaxing at his home when sighting occurred, May 23, 1962. In addition to his son, who called Hill's attention to th e object, five neighbors also bore witness.

CRAFT 'HOVERS'

According to Hill's account, the craft was hovering 2 blocks away. It appeared to resemble an inverted saucer, with six portholes and a dome-cabin with a large window from which glowed a green light.

Two jet planes appeared on the scene, to be joined by two propeller-driven planes. As theyconverged, the UFO made a figure 6 maneuver and disappeared. When the planes tired of searching and retired, the UFO returned.

The original sighting had lasted 5 minutes, and, after it returned, it continued its hide-and-seek game with the planes for another 40 minutes.

Hill said the craft was so close on occasion that it looked like "a grapefruit held at arms length."

CHIDED BY AIR FORCE

Later, according to Campione, an Air Force representative in uniform visited Hill and chided him about the sighting. The Air Force man made reference to "weather balloons, hallucinations and the like" in explaining away the UFO.

Campione exhibited an Air Force form purported to be used in such cases, which would point out that the Air Force is seeking information on objects that they claim do not exist.

There are three possibilities in regard to the UFO puzzle, according to Campione: 1) they are United States devices or vehicles; 2) they are Russian devices or vehicles; 3) they are (as hardcore UFO believers insist) interplanetary vehicles or vehicles from under the surface of the earth. Campione favors number 3 because sightings predate man's ability to fly.

As far as the Amalgamated Flying Saucer Clubs of America is concerned, it is an organization said to have 3000 members from all over theworld. It was organized in 1959 in Los Angeles by a man named Gabriel Green

WILDER WORDS

Campione's statements represent a point of view not generally embraced by most citizens, but Green's pronouncements, asprinted in his "UFO International," cannot be described in so charitable a manner. Following are excerpts from the text of a radio message, supposedly received by a UFO believer, from "space people":

(Special radio message received by Bob Renaud, 3 a.m., February 2, 1964.) "Greetings, Brother: We, your space friends from the planet Korendor, are speaking to you now from your moon, specifically Mare Serenitatis (Sea of Tranquility), where, as you know, the Ranger 7 space probe was scheduled to take pictures before crash landing on the lunar surface this A.M.

"You will recall that in our brief communication to you yesterday morning, we told you that the probe was approaching a temporary base that we had just recently set up in this area. Also, that we would be forced to prevent the taking of any pictures of this area, for security reasons.

"Your news reports have now con-firmed that this action was taken. What they do NOT say, because they do not KNOW, is that the probe never hit the surface. It was taken aboard one of our spaceships a mile from the lunar surface, and is now under intensive study in our labs here on the moon.

"This may be the required action for the next probe also, unless we can finish our work in Mare Serenitatis and dismantle the base before Ranger 7 is sent on its way."

That isn't all that is included in the UFO watchers' journal, not by a long shot. Therein is also included a warning to mentalis (Sea of Tranquility), where, as you know, the Ranger 7 space probe was scheduled to take pictures before crash landing on the lunar surface this A.M.

Reports continue to come in. The Times about an object spotted in the sky about 9:30 P.M. on Monday, July 27, northwest of the Scranton-Wilkes-Barre Airport at Avoca.

The reports all say the object moved toward the airport, hovered for several seconds and then moved in southwest direction out of sight.

The Weather Bureau at the airport does not record any unusual occurrences such as this in its reports. Aug. 1964

Australia Excited by UFO's

3-7-65

SYDNEY, Australia (UPI) — Sighting of unidentified flying objects with long, red, incandescent tails streaming across the Australian skies Friday night sent thousands of Aussies scurrying to their telephones to find out what it was all about.

There was no official explanation.

Thousands of calls jammed switchboards of radio stations, newspapers and telephone companies. The objects were reported sighted over New South Wales. The lights moved from the northwest to southeast between 7:45 p.m. and 8 p.m., the callers said.

THE ROYAL Australian Air Force and civilian aviation authorities said there were no planes in that area at that time.

Amateur astronomers confirmed seeing the lights and fifty members of an astronomical society meeting at an observatory said the lights passed directly overhead, startling the members who were eyeing the skies in a routine star-gazing session.

Most observers counted eight lights at 30 degrees above the horizon.

★TO SPEAK—Gabriel Green founder of Amalgamated Flying Saucer Clubs of America, will be one of the outstanding speakers at the summer gathering of the School of Thought at the Winnedumah Hotel at Independence Saturday and Sunday of this week, Green will speak Saturday evening on "The First Earthman to Walk in Outer Space."

Montanans Tell Story of Spaceship

MISSOULA (AP) — A Missoula-area couple claimed Friday that a large, top-shaped spaceship has landed on a mountain behind their ranch home several times in the past three months.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Lund said the craft, about the size of a house, is encircled by lights and disappeared while their cattle herd stampeded in terror.

Their report followed a series of purported sighting of unidentified flying objects in the Missoula area in recent days.

"The surface of the ship looks like rough aluminum," said Mrs. the Lunds told the newspaper. "It makes no real sound but there is the impression of noise."

They told a newsman that no one had emerged from the ship.

"The oil furnace starts up and the ranch animals all start running when it arrives," they said.

The Lunds said they last saw the craft three weeks ago when it joined four others and sped away.

'Men From Mars' Land on Farm At Newark Valley, Farmer Says

THE DAILY REVIEW, TOWANDA, PA. FRIDAY MORNING, MAY 8, 1964.

The Owego area is agog over the report of a Newark Valley dairy farmer that "space men" have visited his farm and he talked with them for two hours.

The "visit" is supposed to have taken place the morning of April 24 but it was kept quiet for a while because the Federal Bureau of Investigation was notified. That began sheriff's dept. took a statement from the farmer, Gary Wilcox, 27, who said a fantasy agent also had been to see him.

School children in Newark Valley began spreading the startling story and it then got down to Owego where it is now a frequent topic in street conversation.

In a telephone conversation last night Fred Nathan Hall, supervising principal of the Newark Valley Consolidated Schools and a former principal at Rome and East Smithfield in this county, said Wilcox was a good, dependable student in high school and "was a good, substantial farmer of fine reputation." Mr. Hall said he knew nothing about the "space man" story, however, and appeared inclined to think possibly it was a "gag" of some kind but he said he had no means of knowing.

Like others, however, he wondered how the "men from Mars" were able to speak such good English.

According to Wilcox' story he was spreading manure in an open field on his 300-acre farm just northeast of Newark Valley. Shortly before 10 o'clock he decided to check another part of the farm which is almost surrounded by woods, to see whether that piece of ground was ready for plowing.

As he stepped through the woods toward the spot — which is about a mile from his home — he saw a shiny object which he thought at first was a discarded refrigerator. As he approached closer he saw it was not a refrigerator and he thought possibly it was a wing tank dropped from an airplane.

Wilcox said it was 20 feet long, 16 feet wide and shaped like an egg. It looked like aluminum but more durable and seemed to have different metallic characteristics. He touched it and felt no heat. There was no visible door or escape hatch.

Suddenly two beings appeared. They seemed to be about four feet tall and had clothing with no seams and a headdress with a dull-faced hood. He could not distinguish facial features. The beings appeared to have arms and legs but he couldn't tell whether or not they had fingers and toes because their extremities were covered.

The one being stood by the craft and the other came within about five feet of Wilcox, saying, "Do not be alarmed. We have spoken to earth people before. We come from what you folks call Mars."

Wilcox said he thought it was a joke someone was pulling on him and tried to laugh it off but the men appeared dead serious and he didn't know what to make of it.

The conversation continued for some time. The men said they were interested in fertilizer and soils and asked why Wilcox was spreading manure. They said they grew food in the atmosphere but changes in the atmosphere are creating problems and they are visiting earth to learn about organic materials. Wilcox explained what wonderful fertilizer manure is but that where that is not available, commercial fertilizer does a good job.

Wilcox said both men had trays in which they scooped up soil samples.

He said they told him they can travel here only every two years and that they chose the Western Hemisphere for this year's visit. Incidentally, they told him earthlings never will make it to fly to the moon or other planets because they cannot withstand acceleration. Martians are constituted differently and their bodies can take it without trouble, Wilcox said he was told.

The creatures said they land only in daylight because they are less readily visible in daylight. They expressed surprise that Wilcox saw them.

The Martians, Wilcox said, asked for some commercial fertilizer to take back with them and he said he would get them a bag from his barn. All the while they were talking the "space craft" sounded like an auto idling, he said. As he turned to go for the fertilizer he heard a slight sound and looked around. In a matter of seconds the craft was out of sight. There was no exhaust or fire or raising of dust, he said.

Since he had promised the fertilizer he went and got the bag and left it in the field. The next day it was gone.

Sheriff Will Protect Little Green Men

STAUNTON, Va. (AP) — Sheriff John E. Kent of Augusta County says he will crack down on flying saucer-believers who go out with guns to hunt saucer-riding "little green men."

Reports of unidentified flying objects have been frequent in this area. Tuesday night three boys said they saw a small, green man east of here.

Kent said some residents armed themselves and went out to hunt the creature.

"This thing has gotten completely out of hand," he said. "Anyone carrying firearms in the county without good reason will be dealt with according to the law."

Besides, Kent added, suppose there really were creatures around from outer space — "Who's got a right to mow them down?"

Lansing Area People Still Seeing UFOs

LANSING (AP) — These hot summer nights produce a lot of phone calls to police and Tuesday night was no exception.

The state police headquarters at Lansing got two calls about a mysterious unidentified flying object making "a great loud humming noise."

Cpl. Jim Arndt said the calls about the object started May 27, and since then the UFOs have been reported on eight more nights.

"These people say it's white. They all marvel at the speed at which it travels. They all say it's oval, round or oblong."

The corporal said all describe it as having a central white light and making a strange noise.

Powerful Lens Spots UFO

Montana, July 1964

Missoulian - Sentinel staff member Phil Hess, skeptical though not unbelieving, decided to attempt a photograph of the unidentified flying object which has been seen by Dr. Reuben Dietzert, 57 Marilyn Dr., and his family and neighbors.

The Dietzerts have reported the UFO sightings every night for the past week and a half. Hess borrowed a 500 mm (127 inch) focal length mirror lens from Chuck Johnson of Catlin's Professional Photography and waited for the UFO. About 10:35 Tuesday night it was spotted moving rapidly on a line from southwest to northeast.

The top photograph, a five-second time exposure, was taken as the object moved into the northern sky. The object then stopped and held its position for almost 30 minutes. It then began to drift slowly to the east. It seemed to move about the same rate as the stars, but in the opposite direction.

The lower photograph, a three-minute time exposure, shows the easterly movement. The UFO seemed to stop momentarily in its path, then rise and continue east.

Dr. Dietzert, a professor and chairman of the department of botany and microbiology at Montana State University, viewed the object through binoculars (right). Hess reported seeing the red and green lights of the object. Dietzert had earlier described the "two alternately pulsating red and green lights."

Air Force, Weather Bureau and Federal Aviation Agency officials said they have not seen the object and have received no other reports of sightings. (Staff Photos by Phil Hess)

Return Of The Saucers...

By BOB LINDSEY
Argonaut Writer

SUNNYVALE—Keep your eye on the sky, folks, it's flying saucer season again.

Glowing saucers are zooming through Santa Clara Valley and Central Coast skies with shocking regularity lately. A Sunnyvale saucer searcher reported Tuesday.

"There have been five or six sightings in the area during the past two months. It seems to be part of a pattern," said Paul Cerny, chairman of the Bay Area subcommittee of the National Investigating Committee on Aerial Phenomena (NICAP).

It's Cerny's job to check reports of unidentified flying objects (UFOs) to determine if the sightings are authentic.

Cerny, an employe of the Sylvania electronic laboratory at Mountain View, said he and other NICAP representatives feel many of the recent sightings — mostly in the South County and Monterey County areas — are of extraterrestrial origin.

"On Dec. 29, eight persons at Mt. Madonna Park (near Gilroy) saw something we feel is rather an outstanding sighting.

"Tom Goold, a park maintenance man, the principal reportee, said he saw a round metallic disc, bluish-silver in color without any portholes, come out of the clouds about 4 in the afternoon.

"It hovered about 1,500 feet high. He described it as a 'double saucer,' like two saucers facing each other. It was about 200 feet across, larger than a jet airliner," he said.

"He called others, and all eight verified his report. Some were park rangers, who we consider especially good observers because they become trained in using their eyes for observation."

Cerny said he had tape-recorded reports of the witnesses and there were no inconsistencies.

There were no reports of a missile shot from Vandenberg Air Force Base at the time and no other known logical explanations for the report.

"We think it was legitimate. These were reputable people, experienced observers. We'll buy it."

Cerny is considerably less convinced about the report of a Watsonville businessman, Sydney Padrick, who claims he was picked up on La Selva beach by the crew of a saucer which let him roam the ship for two hours before it bade him good by.

"There's no witness to back up the account; there's no evidence at the scene. We feel it was not authentic."

George M. Clemens, Mayor of Monterey, Cerny said, reported seeing a bright object over Monterey Bay last month. It went up vertically about 500 feet, hovering, over the Bay then disappeared after a few minutes," Cerny said.

Early this month, Cerny continued, motorists reported seeing a bright, saucer-shaped object over the Permanente plant behind Superime. "They seem to be related," he said.

Cerny urged area residents to report any unusual sightings to him at Sunnyvale.

Many persons, he said, are reluctant to make the reports because they are afraid of being ridiculed or don't trust their eyes.

But, he said, his group wants all information to learn if there are patterns indicating we're under surveillance from other worlds.

Musicians Spy Odd Objects In The Sky--Like Dumbbells

2-2-65

Two strange objects in the sky that resembled crazy patterns were seen over the Benson Highway at 6:15 o'clock Sunday evening by a group of musicians.

William E. Bolson of Maple Valley said he and his companions first spotted the objects over the highway at about S. 18th St. while traveling from Kent to Renton in an automobile. The objects traveled together and seemed to be connected by some invisible rod, he said.

BOLSON SAID the objects looked to him liked a flying dumbbell.

"They moved back and forth across the landscape," Bolson said. "Then they flew off and almost disappeared from sight. Had they came back and seemed to hang over some high television wires. The original color was white, like a glowing light bulb. Then the color changed to red, then green and back to white."

The objects finally disappeared and Bolson called the sheriff's office to make a report.

Up In The Air About Saucers?

CANYON FERRY VILLAGE, Mont. (ÆReports of a glowing object in the sky yesterday brightened what might have been a dull news day in Montana. The description of Montana's unidentified flying object matched one reported in New Mexico.

The Montana sightings were made by a group of youngsters in Canyon Ferry Village, a tiny community about 20 miles east of Helena.

They said they saw it land and takeoff Wednesday night less than 100 yards from where they live.

"It made a sound like wh-o-o-osh," Linda Davis, 11, reported. She said she saw it flying outside her bedroom window, just beyond the back fence.

The youngsters reported the object to the Lewis and Clark County sheriff's office and got the brush-off.

The sheriff's office became interested when adult residents of the village called back.

Skeptical newsmen viewed the area and still were skeptical after seeing marks supposedly left by the space ship's landing legs, four shallow holes that formed an imperfect rectangle.

The holes framed a patch of scorched grass and a cactus that appeared to have been singed.

The holes and the burned spot jibed with descriptions of another flying object the Air Force is investigating in New Mexico

The spokesman for an Air Force investigating group, Lt. Col. H. L. Newfeld, said: "We are not at liberty to say anything at this point. I'm not sure we will make a positive statement about this anytime."

Newfeld is base director of operations at Malmstrom Air Force Base near Great Falls. Four other Air Force men accompanied him.

"We came at the request of the sheriff's office," Newfeld said.

Meanwhile — three California traveling by car to Las Vegas, Nev., reported sighting yesterday a mysterious dome-shaped object the size of an airship which disappeared while their attention was momentarily diverted from it.

Mr. and Mrs. Gus Biggs and Mrs. Lorene Ayres, all of Main St., Barstow, said Thursday they had spotted the object crouched on a hilltop just off U. S. Highway 91, some 10 miles west of Baker, Calif.

Mrs. Gloria Biggs was quoted as saying:

"At first we thought it was a water tower, but as we got closer we knew it was something we'd never seen before."

Suffield Cleric Sees UFO

11-16-64

SUFFIELD, Conn. — Rev. Ray Haas retired minister of Suffield Congregational Church told The Union he saw an object in the sky Friday night similar to the one reported by a resident of Shutesbury, Mass. at the same time. Until he read the story about the Shutesbury incident in the Saturday evening paper, he thought he might have been mistaken.

Looking west from his home in North Main St., about 7:30 p.m. Friday, he saw a bright orange object in the sky.

He said he could not get a full view because he had to look through tree branches. He looked at it about a minute, but unlike Mrs. Harriet Smith of Shutesbury, he did not see it move, he said.

Mr. Haas told other residents of West Suffield Saturday night, and one of them, Forrest Spears of North Grand St., said he saw the same thing.

'Flying Silo' Seen

Mont. July 1964

STEVENSVILLE — An unidentified flying object which looked "almost like an aluminum granary flew over the George Sacks ranch south of Stevensville last Thursday evening, according to Sacks.

Sacks said the object appeared cylindrical in shape and was about 18-20 feet in circumference and about the same height. The UFO seemed to be only ½ mile high.

It was first spotted by a young boy on the ranch who ran to the house to report it. Four adults and five children went outside and observed the object in its "slow, steady flight north through the valley toward Missoula," according to Sacks

Sacks said the object, which had no visible lights was first spotted at 6:45 p.m. He said the group watched the UFO for 25 or 30 minutes until it disappeared from sight. The object made no sound as it floated through the air, according to Sacks.

PEACEFULLY, we hope! A Saginaw News staffer driving on M-81 listening to a car radio was surprised to have a program interrupted with "Attention all earth people, we are trying to contact your constellation!"

12-6-64

That was all there was to it. No other contact was made. It would appear a rehearsal studio got switched into the broadcast for a few seconds.

Livingston Woman Reports Seeing UFO

Montana, July 1964

LIVINGSTON (AP) — An unidentified flying object "too bright to look at" was reported sighted a few miles east of Livingston.

A woman who asked that her name not be used claimed she watched a semitransparent object which resembled a "big, big ball of fire" for nearly two hours before it rose silently at dawn and passed out of view.

The woman said she noticed the object sitting on a hill near her home after she was awakened by her Siamese cat which was "just going crazy."

She said the object had no particular shape but resembled a "washing machine lid" and was extremely bright.

Meanwhile, a radio newsman from Deer Lodge went to the top of 7,300-foot Blizzard Mountain Wednesday night to look for UFOs. He and four others spent the night in a fire lookout tower but failed to see anything unusual.

About 25 Deer Lodge residents had reported seeing strange lights in the night sky east of Deer Lodge the past week.

Navy Radar Spots Mystery Objects

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP). —The Air Force is investigating the reported sighting of two high-speed unidentified flying objects by Navy radar operators at Patuxent Naval Air Station, Md.

1-6-65

The Navy said Tuesday that the operators observed "two objects on their scope approaching at approximately 4800 miles an hour from 30 to 40 miles south" of the base at 9:30 P. M. Dec. 30.

The objects approached the naval air station, executed a tight turn and disappeared from the scope, the Navy said.

About the fastest aircraft in existence is the X-15 experimental plane, which has flown at 4104 miles an hour. The X-15 is based on the West Coast. It has a very short range.

brute force to operate.

"Whether they are prop-driven or whether they are jets, they have one thing in common: the engines provide all the motivating power for both propulsion and maintaining altitude.

"By this I mean that, rather than working with gravity, your craft fight it from the time they take off until their landing. Lift is dependent on velocity in any case. Below a certain speed, the pressure on the lower surface of the wings is not sufficient to maintain suspension, and the craft loses altitude.

POOR MAINTAINANCE CAUSES MANY CRASHES: "We suggest that better maintenance of aircraft engines would eliminate many of your crashes, especially of private planes. They should be checked and tested whenever possible and at least once a week. All the associated plumbing and wiring should be maintained in A-1 condition, and the connections checked and tightened after every flight, since some of the 'mysterious' disasters have been caused by wires pulling off, hoses disconnecting, etc.

"The engines should be disassembled periodically, and all the bearings, shafts, pistons, valves, etc., checked for wear, cracks, burns, warpage, and other factors that come from usage. Any imperfect fits should be repaired or the parts replaced. Lubricating equipment must be kept in top condition. Fuel pumps, lines, etc., should be checked frequently for breaks, leaks, and wear. This is, of course, standard procedure on responsible airlines and military aircraft. Too often, however, these rules are overlooked by careless or indifferent ground crews, who may be rushed into doing an incomplete and irresponsible job. Also, there are a few instances of incompetant maintenance mechanics who just don't know their job well enough.

"The engine and associated equipment require top-notch care, and anyone responsible for a craft should see that it gets just that.

LANDING GEAR: "Also, there are many landing-gear failures on record. This equipment should be given the greatest care, and probably could use a little 'beefing up' in most cases for added strength and life.

PLUG-IN ELECTRONIC MODULES SHOULD BE REPLACEABLE IN FLIGHT: "Then there is the electronic equipment. That is where most failures take place. Expert and delicate care are required for the up keep of this equipment, which is the 'brain' of the craft. All current-carrying conductors should be ample for the load, and if possible fused to the maximum allowable rating of the wire, the fuse being paralled with an indicator-light to indicate blowout.

"Next, all circuitry should be in plug-in modules which can be replaced in flight, by the pilot, and a spare of every module should be kept on board, and easily accessible. All non-modular wiring should be securely soldered and supported, and checked often.

ALL AIRCRAFT SHOULD HAVE AUTOMATIC LANDING DEVICES: "All aircraft should be equipped with a system similar to one which we use on our ships. If, for example, something should happen to the pilot, and the co-pilot is unable to take control of the craft, he opens a small door and flips a switch marked Emergency. This completely disconnects all pilot-controlled equipment, activates a transmitter which sends out a mayday code to the nearest airport, and locks the controls to maintain a straight level flight.

"When the ground control facility (GCF) receives the signal, the operator presses a button marked GCA, Ground Control Activate. This closes a radio-control relay in the ship, activating a multi-channel RC receiver, and simultaneously unlocking the controls. Also, all readings, such as altitude, speed, direction of flight, and remaining fuel (if fuel powered) are transmitted to GCF, and are displayed on a large board. At this point there are two courses of action which can be taken.

TAPE CONTROLLED LANDINGS: "GCF can push another button labeled Ground Autopilot, and the center's computer complex takes over control of the craft, bringing it in by radar-homing and by preset flight plans on electronic 'aerial highways.' The radar shows the computer where the craft is at each instant and, in a matter of minutes, it brings the plane into a highway where a tape-controlled landing is made. The radio relays of instrument readings from the plane give the computer a running account of conditions immediate to the craft. These relayed readings serve to alter the basic tape impulses to account for such conditions as weather, wind effects, magnetic flux variations, etc.

PILOT MAY OVERRIDE AUTOMATIC CONTROLS: "At all times during this landing, a fully licensed pilot sits at the controls at a simulated cockpit. Before him, on a color TV screen, a picture is projected which is transmitted by a wide-angle TV camera peering out the front window of the craft's control cabin. If he notices any sudden discrepancy in the computer control, he throws a switch marked 'Manual,' and takes over control of the landing. Every movement he makes on the controls in this Substitute Control Cabin is instantly relayed by the multi-channel radio-control to the ship's controls, so that it responds exactly as if the pilot in the ship were working the controls.

"We also have a computer on board the ship which can land it in the case of Condition X-Ray emergencies. These are situations which occur when the craft is either out of ordinary transmitting range of the GCF, or when it does not respond to the radio-control signals. In these cases, the computer takes over aircraft-control automatically. Before take-off, a taped program of our flight plan is inserted into the controls of the ship. The tape unreels as the flight progresses, and is synchronized with the ship's travel speed and direction. If a Condition X-Ray should occur, the tape instructs the computer to maintain a certain relationship with ground beacons. Then when it enters a 'highway' of any air facility, the computer keeps it following the beam right down to the landing area. There the Condition X-Ray can be corrected and normal travel resumed. This system is almost infallible and should be seriously considered by your air facilities.

MOST "MYSTERIOUS" CRASHES DUE TO MAGNETIC INTERFERENCE: "Getting back to your ships, the causes of most of the 'mysterious' and 'unexplainable' crashes can be traced to three basic reasons: 1. Outside interference with controls or instruments. 2. Magnetic flux of sufficient intensity to jam equipment. 3. A magnetic vortex which literally destroys the ship.

"In the first case, it might be lightning, a strong aurora, excessive solar activity, a strong radio signal from the ground, or a deliberate jamming beam from the ground or from another aircraft.

"Sometimes strong eddy currents will throw the instruments off and, in attempting to correct these readings, the pilot may lose control of the plane.

"In the second case, the instruments relying on magnetism are made useless, and often the electronically-activated controls will lock.

"In the third situation, which is all too common, a plane enters a strong flux vortex. Due to the planes irregular shape, regions of fantastic flux strength are instantly set up in the ship's metallic surface, due to both sympathetic magnetism and eddy currents in the order of thousands of amperes. In any case, every part of the surface repels every other part strongly, and at the point of least strength, the plane comes apart with explosive violence. Once it begins to shatter, the points of dense flux increase every time a jagged edge appears and, in a phenomenally powerful chain-reaction, the entire plane disintegrates. This also happens on rare occasions when a plane enters the field of a saucer.

SPACESHIPS DESIGNED TO ELIMINATE VORTEX FLUX PROBLEMS: "Our ships, especially the round ones, are designed to distribute this vortex flux evenly throughout the craft, and to allow no build-up of great field strengths. At the edges, such as around the circumference of the lower flanges on Martian and Venusian ships, reinforcements are added. The area is made in one piece to eliminate joints. Sometimes a non-magnetic material, which is also an electrical insulator, is used to give the aerodynamic shape, while the metallic structure is rounded inside.

"Also, our ships generate strong magnetic fields of their own, giving us further protection by negating most of the vortex's effect. Your planes do not have this protection, unfortunately.

VORTEX CHARTING UNKNOWN TO EARTHLINGS: "If accurate charts of the location of vortices could be made, many problems would be solved. However, their locations and strength are as inconsistent as the weather. There might be a 5000-unit vortex at a certain place one day, and the next day it might vanish. Or a 10,000-unit field might pop up right in the middle of an established flight lane.

"Now, we know where these areas are. You do not, and you probably wouldn't believe it if we told you. We can tell you that you have somehow made your flight lanes avoid the more active areas, perhaps by sheer luck, and perhaps due to psychprinting. We won't say. This is one reason why your aircraft have not crashed any more than they have.

SHIELDING NEEDED TO ELIMINATE MAGNETIC INTERFERENCE OF INSTRUMENTS: "We would suggest that you shield your instruments in soft iron cases, to eliminate as much magnetic interference as possible. Also, any control parts which cannot be shielded should be made of a material that is non-magnetic.

"Finally, you should do more research on gravity control, and magnetic propulsion techniques.

"One more thing. Adopt the Ground Control Facility system. It can save many lives.

"Va i luce, Bren. Anta Verron, out."

RADIO CONTACT--NOVEMBER 25, 1963. Speaker-Lin-Erri Elani. Subject--PRESIDENT KENNEDY'S ASSASSINATION. "We greet you in great sorrow this day, Brother. The events of these past few days have filled us with deep grief.

"Last Friday will be long remembered by your people and ours, for it occasioned the tragic loss of a truly great man and leader, John F. Kennedy.

"Members of the crew of our RK-11 craft were in the process of planning a contact with him when the news reached us. Immediately all operations ceased, and we rushed to the communications center here on Mars. As we entered, radio receivers monitoring Earth frequencies were proclaiming the distressing facts --- John F. Kennedy had been assassinated.

ENTIRE GALAXY MOURNS PRESIDENT KENNEDY: "In a matter of moments, this news transmission had been switched onto the Universal Broadcasting relay, and all the Alliance was informed. It is a matter of record that everything on the entire Alliance's millions of planets stopped, and all ears were glued to receivers. Within thirty minutes, an official day of mourning was proclaimed for the entire Alliance, which was to be the day of John F. Kennedy's Funeral.

"Flags on all worlds were flown at half-mast. We have never known this to happen before, since our means of indicating death of a high official are very different. This had a great emotional effect on all of us, and more than ever we felt a oneness with the people of Earth in this hour of tragedy.

MASTERS PAY TRIBUTE TO J. F. K.: "Within two hours, television relays had been established from Earth. Your major networks were monitored, and all important programs were sent out over Universal Broadcasting transmitters to all Alliance planets. All regularly scheduled programing on the U. B. was cancelled, and an uninterrupted tribute to the late President began. When the network was not relaying directly from your world, our Masters went on the program to pay their own respects.

SPACE TV NETWORK RECORDS FUNERAL IN 3-D: "This morning our own camera discs were set up along the entire route of the funeral cordon, from the Capitol building to the church --- and then to the final resting place at Arlington. These were located in buildings, on poles, and at other inconspicuous places along the course. Also, high up, a telephoto-camera-equipped fleet of discs followed the procession.

"The church services were broadcast by cameras located around the interior.

"It was an awesome spectacle to witness on our screens, since we have full color and depth in our pictures.

"The rest of the day was devoted to occasional live relays from Earth, and a continuing series of tributes, from our Masters and others.

"We now turn you over to Master Kalen-Li, who is here with us."

MASTER KALEN-LI'S EULOGY: "In sorrow, alen, Bren. I would like to deliver to you a short message of condolence and, at the same time of encouragement.

"I have noticed that for the first time in many years, the people of your world are united as one, in common remorse, in sympathy, and in Brotherhood. For once the differences of the many countries are forgotten, to express world-wide distress at this tragedy.

"Is it not a terrible thing that it takes such a precious price to bring your people together? You have demonstrated that below all the official pomp, the international strife, and the political-ideological disputes that threaten your existence, there is an underlying love of each other, a deep feeling of unison that goes beyond any differences of opinion.

"Both sides of the Iron Curtain were represented at the funeral today. They were there not to meet with each other, but to mourn the loss of a leader. There was no fighting, no gnashing of teeth, no flashing of swords, no clashing of beliefs. Instead, there was a lapse in the world tension when all these leaders came as ambassadors, and as fellow human beings.

"Why is this type of mutual love and respect not carried on in daily life, as it is on other worlds? Why must it take a great tragedy to bring you together? Must men die to keep you united in Brotherhood?

"In respect to the late President himself, I can only say that I feel a deep sense of loss and sorrow. For this brilliant man and leader to be taken from you at this time, is a terrible trial.

"He was loved the world over. There are those of you who may not have agreed with his politics, but most of you did not feel any antagonism toward the man himself. You could disagree with his opinions without hating him. He had your respect, even though he may not have had your support.

"His death sets in motion a course of action completely different from that which had been started before his demise. No one can forsee all the consequences of this national disaster. But perhaps it will initiate a re-examination of the forces in your world that would promote hatred, death and destruction. If this occurs, maybe it will precipitate a change for the better in world relations, in which case he will not have died in vain.

"Mr. Kennedy was basically a peace-loving man. Young and vigorous, he pursued his goals with a vitality unseen in any previous president. He went directly to the people for support, and they loved him for it. Now that he has been taken from you, you have begun to realize how great is your loss. It seems that on your planet a man is taken for granted until he is departed. But then it is too late.

"A man's worth should be judged by his actions while he is still alive, not by the praises he gets after he leaves the world. In my opinion Mr. Kennedy, while alive, showed himself to be a great and good leader.

"But now, even though he has left your midst, the affairs of the world continue --- the problems of daily living must be met. And I am afraid that all too soon you will again return to a state where man will hate man, and nation will hate nation --- where the memory of the Brotherhood of these last few days will be lost in the same old race for power and the satisfaction of greed and ego. Your people seem almost to prefer living in constant fear and uncertainty. Have you wondered why? It is because you refuse to help yourselves. So many are busy pawning off the responsibility on others, that it results in no action being taken at all.

"You realize that the world does not really have to be a place of terror, hatred, and violence. It is entirely possible for you all to live in peace and love, as you witnessed at the time of Mr. Kennedy's death and funeral. He worked for these things in life. Now his spirit will continue to do so after his physical 'death.'

"For his memory and for the sake of your world, work for peace --- so that all may live in peace. The burden rests with you, my Brothers."

"Lin-Erri again. Our next contact will be on December 7th. Until then, va i luce (go in Light)."

RADIO CONTACT--1:00 A.M., DECEMBER 7, 1963. Speaker--Arel-Lon, RK-11 Terratologist. Subject--SURFACE CONDITIONS ON YOUR LOCAL PLANETS: "In peace, alen, Bren Bob. You will no doubt be pleased to know that we have arranged a tour for you of our Massachuesetts base on the morning of December 28th of this year, and of the California base on the morning of January 4, 1964. Instructions will be given you by radio, just prior to the time we pick you up.

"Now, do you have any questions for us on anything at this time?"

"Yes, I do. Mr. Green has asked me to find out if you can provide us with data about the other planets in our solar system, such as: surface gravity, temperature range, percentage of oxygen in the air, and the like. Can you provide us with such data?"

"Yes. In fact, now is as good a time as any. A note of warning, however: this will not agree with what your astronomers have told you, since their conclusions are based on faulty data.

SEVEN INHABITED PLANETS IN SOLAR SYSTEM: "First, these are the inhabited planets in your solar system: Mercury, Venus, Earth, Clarion, Mars, Jupiter, and Saturn. The others are hostile to other than exploratory life because of atmosphere, etc.

ARTIFICIAL SUN LIGHTS UNDERGROUND WORLD ON MERCURY: "We will begin with Mercury. All life here is underground, away from the adverse surface conditions, which include no air on the sun side, and solid air on the dark side. The interior of the world has been hollowed out to make living conditions. It is not exactly a pastoral type of living, but there is plenty of food, drink, air, and the other necessities of life for a very happy existence. Gravity is artificially generated, and is the same as Earth's. The air is about 1% richer in oxygen, 1% less than yours in nitrogen. Otherwise, the percentages are equal. Temperatures hover around 72 degrees Fahrenheit. There is rain when needed or desired, and there are clouds. Sunlight is artificial, but has all the components of real sunlight. It is gradually dimmed for the 'night,' which is about 8 hours long.

NO SNOW ON VENUS: "On Venus, the most prominent features, the clouds, are artificial. They are for the purpose of filtering out ultraviolet rays that otherwise would destroy life. They do not filter out other sunlight, although they do diminish it somewhat. The sky is light blue, and regular vapor clouds drift beneath the cloud screen. Observing from outside, the cloud screen reflects sunlight very strongly, and gives the appearance of great density and opaqueness.

"Gravity on Venus is slightly less than on Earth. Temperatures range from about 40 degrees Fahrenheit to about 130 degrees in the equatorial regions. All life is in the temperate areas.

"The air is about the same in oxygen, but has 2% more nitrogen. It is 95% as dense.

"The length of a day is 25 hours, 10 minutes, 13 seconds in Earth Time.

MARS TO FLOURISH AGAIN WITH ATOMICALLY MADE WATER: "Mars you know much about. It's day is 24 hours, 37 minutes. The air is considerably more dense than you might think, since the gravity is quite a bit more than your instruments show. In fact, it is about 92% of your air in density. Percentage of oxygen is a full four percent more than on Earth, to make up for lower density. Gravity is 90% Earth. Temperatures range from -45 degrees to about 85 degrees. There is snow all year in polar regions, some of the year elsewhere. The large red areas are oxides, and are barren except for sparse plant growth. Living is centered about the irrigation 'canals.'

"Do not be misled, though. Mars is not dying. In fact, it is in the process of growth. Recently, it has been discovered that the oxides of iron and silicon on Mars, in prodigious quantities, can be broken down, and the iron or silicon further atomically sheared to form hydrogen. This is then combined with oxygen to form many tons of water per day, as well as providing a vast source of energy for other uses. It is expected that in 100 years, mighty Mars will again flourish as it once did, eons ago, when Earth was still in its infancy.

JUPITER'S ATMOSPHERE TRAPS HEAT FOR TEMPERATE CLIMATE: "All we need tell you about Jupiter is that it is not cold; the temperature averages around 70 degrees. The atmosphere is similar to Earth's; gravity is about 1.2 times Earth's, due to less mass than you suppose; finally, while sunlight is scarce, what heat it does bring is entrapped in the air by the upper layers.

SATURN 'RINGS' ARE WONDER OF THE UNIVERSE: "Saturn, the Tribunal planet in this system, is quite comfortable to live on. The air is about the same as Earth's. Gravity is about 1.3 times as great. The climate is very mild in comparison with that of Earth's; the temperature is usually around 70 degrees both at the poles and the equatorial regions.

"It is a fascinating sight at night to see what your astronomers call 'The Rings of Saturn.' They stretch from horizon to horizon in a thin, brilliant bridge of light. This is one of the wonders of the universe. People from planets many thousands of light years distant have come to Saturn to see and photograph these striking rings. In reality they are composed of tiny ice crystals, very thinly scattered. The rings are about 7 miles thick and only appear solid at a distance.

AVERAGE LIFE SPAN IS OVER 400 YEARS: "Incidentally, all the inhabitants of your local planets are humanoid in form and are indistinguishable in appearance from any of your own people. The average height of the men is 5'10". Women average 5'5" in height. Their average life span is about 400 years with the maximum being in excess of 600 years.

"We hope this is sufficient answer for the time being. Do you have any other questions?"

"One more. Do you have a specific timetable for your activities?"

BRIGHT FUTURE CAN BE EARNED BY CONSTRUCTIVE ACTIONS: "No. We have a basic program, but much depends on the course of activity of your own people. We cannot commit ourselves to any definite schedule of activity, since unexpected events may occur on Earth to completely change our plans. Hence we must remain flexible in our operations. Rigid courses of action are too risky and expensive. Be assured, however, that all you wish to happen will come to pass in good time.

"Much depends on your own people and their work for such goals as peace and Brotherhood. We cannot do what you can, namely make personal appeals to your Brothers for action. We can encourage and inform. We cannot act directly. For now, we must sign off. We will see you on the 28th of December. Until then, va i luce. Arel-Lon for RK-11, clearing."

FLYING SAUCER NEWS IN BRIEF

BUCK NELSON'S 9th ANNUAL SPACECRAFT CONVENTION will be held on June 26, 27, 28, 1965 at Buck's Mountain View Ranch; Route 1, Box 236; Mountain View, Missouri 65548. Admission: Adults $1.00; school children 50¢; under school age = free. Free camping and wood. Food and drinks available at cafeteria. Speakers wanted. Plan to attend!

UNDERSTANDORAMA #8 will be held at Harmony Grove Camp near Escondido, California on May 29, 30, and 31, 1965. Host, Bob Crichton, has scheduled an impressive array of speakers on New Age subjects for the 3 day convention.

VAN TASSEL PLANS LECTURE TOUR: George W. Van Tassel, pioneer contactee and host of eleven annual Spacecraft Conventions at Giant Rock Airport, is planning a lecture tour during May and June from Los Angeles to New York City, returning via Cleveland, Chicago, Kansas City, and Denver. Persons interested in arranging lectures or radio and TV appearances along this route for Mr. Van Tassel should write: George W. Van Tassel; Ministry of Universal Wisdom, Inc.; P.O. Box 458; Yucca Valley, California 92284.

AMERICAN TOOK FIRST WALK IN SPACE, BUT RUSSIAN GOT THE CREDIT: Although Russia's Lt. Col. Alexei Leonov got the credit, Bob Renaud claims the distinction of being the first Earthman to walk in space. He beat the Russian by over 13 months when on Feb. 4, 1964 he actually walked in space, in a spacesuit with magnetic shoes, on the outside surface of a 200 foot diameter Flying Saucer.

COULD BE DEPT.: Were the "silent" astronauts (Virgil 'Gus' Grissom and John W. Young) on the March 23rd Gemini "Molly Brown" flight, struck speechless by all the Flying Saucers they saw escorting them, or were they ordered in advance to keep quiet?

SOVIET COSMONAUTS, on their historic flight in the Voskhod II, discovered that they were not alone in space, and reported that another "man-made satellite" loomed up scarcely more than half a mile away, as they watched out a porthole of their ship. Could it be that the mysterious "satellite" was actually of extra-terrestrial construction and origin?

MARS, VENUS, AND EARTH'S INTERIOR ALL VISITED IN SAME DAY!: Los Angeles' space-roving contactee, Elary Willsie, appeared on Louis Lomax's popular new TV show on KTTV, Sunday, Feb. 28th and March 7th. Again on March 21st, he reported on his trip of March 13th to the planets Mars and Venus, and to the Inner Earth, all done in the same day!

Willsie says he arranged for the trip telepathically with one of his spaceman friends (4 feet tall Renton, of Alpha Centauri) who later met him in person on the morning of his trip. A black chauffeur-driven limousine took him to Griffith Park where he boarded a small two-seated remotely-controlled scout ship which entered through an air lock of a 'mother' ship hovering about 75 miles up.

Flying close by the opposite side of the Moon (it looks about the same as this side, and has trees, streams and breathable air in the gulleys), Willsie was told that most of the cities are underground, with some dome-covered bases on the surface. Going past the two artificially constructed Moons of Mars (they help to stabilize the planet's axis, and also serve as communication stations and spaceports) there was a good view of the vast Martian deserts and intricate canal system which distributes the water from the North Polar ice cap. Soon they landed at a Martian spaceport in the small scout ship, and from there they drove into town in a four-wheeled free-energy-powered auto. In town Elary met a contactee from Earth who said he was now living with his family on Mars since, when the Martian's had offered him the chance, he had not hesitated to literally "Go out of this world!"

After spending 2 hours on Mars, they flew past the planet Clarion with its many beautiful trees, rivers, lakes and oceans. (Clarion is reported to be in Earth's orbit, 180 degrees opposite, always behind the Sun, and unseen from Earth.) Then they flew under the ionospheric cloud cover of Venus which is called "the mist", and then over the vast oceans and tropical countryside. (There is no snow there, although the polar regions are cooler.) For 3 hours they visited a bustling Venusian city, where Elary rode in a free-energy push-button auto, saw anti-grav sleds, floating cargo platforms, saucers and people who were flying about by the aid of flying belts.

After a 45 minute return trip to Earth aboard the mother ship, the scout craft entered on of the small funnel-shaped openings in the ice near the North Pole and flew into the perpetually-lighted interior of the Earth, where there is no night. A voice came over the scout craft radio and welcomed Elary and the pilot to "Elderland," and hoped that they would enjoy their scenic visit to the rivers, lakes and forests of the Inner Earth. While flying low they waved to people about 10 feet tall, and observed herds of buffalo, shaggy elephants, Kodiak bears, and flocks of the supposedly-extinct Passenger pigeons. Elary was told that farther south, in the land of "Agharta," the dinosaurs and other prehistoric animals still exist.

When they returned Elary to Griffith Park he was chauffeured to his home where he arrived in time for dinner, after a memorable 9 hour trip.

JOKE?: Who is the leader of the Civil Rights Movement on Mars? Answer: Martian Luther King.

MR. WAVENEY GIRVAN, for the past several years editor of "Flying Saucer Review" of London, England, and author of "Flying Saucers and Common Sense" (1955), passed away on October 22, 1964, a few weeks after undergoing a major operation. Mr. Girvan was largely responsible for launching the Flying Saucer subject in Great Britain in 1954. In 1953 he published

SCIENTIST PHOTOGRAPHS FLYING SAUCER

DR. DANIEL W. FRY (inset above), world famous contactee and Founder-President of Understanding, Inc., with International Headquarters at P. O. Box 76; Merlin, Oregon 97532, took the above photograph of a Flying Saucer hovering near his home in Merlin in May of last year, with his Bell and Howell 16mm movie camera. Your editor enlarged it from one frame of a short strip of the 16mm film, which is in color. Black and White postcard-sized glossy photographs of the above saucer photo are available for 25¢ each from Understanding Headquarters. We have no further details at this time. On July 4,1950, Dr. Fry became the first Earthman of modern times to ride in a spaceship. Coming from a man like Dr. Fry, this type of evidence is especially interesting and adds impressive support to the already overwhelming evidence that Flying Saucers Are Real! Long one of the most respected men and tireless workers in the Flying Saucer Movement, he is the author of several books which include "The White Sands Incident", "To Men of Earth", and "Atoms, Galaxies and Understanding."
