THE MYSTERIES OF ADONI.

some extent by Persian and Babylonian ideas, but still retaining the Phœnician impress. The name of the Phœnician Highest God is Bal, Bol, Bul, Sadak, Suduk, Adoni. This last is the Phœnician-Greek Adonis, the Phœnician-Hebrew Adon, Adon, Zadak (Jupiter), ZADIK (JUST ONE). It is true that the Rabbins and the modern clergy call the Hebrew God’s name Adonai; but before the Rabbins added their points to the text the Old Hebrew letters were Adni (Adoni). The Hebrew iod (i) occupies the same place in the Phœnician-Hebrew alphabet that iota (i) occupies in the Greek; iota in Greek was never read ai, but i. So the Greek fixes the Phœnician (being derived from it), and the Phœnician the Hebrew.

This treatise attempts in part to restore some of the Jewish Scriptures as they were prior to Musah, or, before the last Revision of the Sacred Statutes; and it will enable the reader to form some conception of the state of the Jewish ideas before that Revision of the Scriptures appeared which goes under the name of Musah! That there were other statutory scriptures in vogue prior to this Revision we doubt not; and that they may have borne the name of Bal, Mus, Moso, Musaiah (Musaeus), or some other mythical name, is not impossible. Nay, we believe that the name of Musah was given to laws or writings earlier than the Pentateuch (?). It is remarkable that Josephus explains the Hebrew customs, no matter how PREFACE.

"The same thing which is now called Christian religion existed, says St. Augustin, among the ancients. . . . They have begun to call Christian the true religion which existed before."—Pauthier, La Chine, I. 117. Our subject is the pre-historic Jesus, the secret gathering, the Mysteries of Religion and the Religion of the Mysteries. A column of matter borrowed from the Mysteries is here directed upon Judaism! To connect the Mosaic Religion with the Mysteries is to wrest from the Church its position, and to show that the Old Testament is the result of human efforts,—the progress which God inspired the human mind to attain in the midst of the ancient civilization! The Old Testament is the first offshoot from the Mysteries; the New Testament is the second. The Old Testament is the work of the Reformed Judaeo-Phoenician, or Rabbinical Church—the New Testament is the Essene-Nazarene Glad Tidings! Adon, Adoni, Adonis, called also Bol, was the Deity in both the Old-Phoenician and the Judaeo-Phoenician styles of worship.

The Hebrew Religion stepped out from the noblest side of the Dionysus-worship, influenced, no doubt, to ancient according to the Bible, by those of heathen nations in the first century.

We ought to esteem truth to be the strongest of all things, and that what is unrighteous is of no force against it.—Josephus, Ant., Book xi.

The truth will make you free!—John, viii. 32.

"American History knows but one avenue to success in American legislation—freedom from ancient prejudice!"—Bancroft, II. 145.

"The Lord has more truth yet to break forth out of his holy word! Luther and Calvin were great and shining lights in their times, yet they penetrated not into the whole counsel of God. It is an article of your Church covenant,—that you be ready to receive whatever truth shall be made known to you from the written word of God."—Robinson's charge, July, 1620.

This our second volume appears under another name which indicates its particular aim. Some few etymological facts will be repeated from the former treatise without repeating the authority already given. In this work the author relies on the authorities given in the previous volume.

We generally change the Attic eta back again into the Dorian α (alpha), its ancieneter form. Besides giving the reference from which an extract has been taken, we have usually added other interesting references; connecting them by semi-colons immediately after the first authority. We use, as before, Dios as Deus. The words "Spirit-Hist." refer to "Vestiges of the Spirit-History of Man." In quoting Franck, our copy is Gelinek's German translation. We insert by parentheses; but some parentheses are the originals. In writing we have used the expressions of the original, translating them literally into English. And the reader will take notice that what he reads is a literal quotation, notwithstanding the quotation marks are not inserted. It is a book written by quotations. We have taken the liberty of sometimes restoring the first h in Iahoh to its original ch; and the second h to its primal s. S softens to h in Greece and Asia: Iachos, Iachoh, Iahoh. We have usually read the Hebrew square letters alone; leaving out the more modern vowel-points, as they are often a Rabbinical commentary upon the ancient word. It was not difficult for an ancient Rabbin, Before Christ, to change a מ into a כ; and the popular reverence for anything "written" (scripture) prevented close criticism; or it had been perhaps acquiesced in by the learned as an advance in idea, tending to an improvement upon the old religion.

The two books are one work! It is necessary to fix this statement in the reader's mind. We have no wish to give an unfair reviewer the opportunity to cut our work in twain and then criticise each part by itself. Having made this preliminary observation, the burden is thrown on any censorious critic to show that he has fairly examined both volumes together.
It would certainly be requiring too much of an author that the authorities given in the first should all be quoted over again in the second; more especially where they are massed in such numbers as to render this nearly if not quite impossible. It has been a peculiarity of this work, in both volumes, that the author accompanies the statement of each fact by a reference to the authority for it; the same as in a lawyer's pleading. The accumulation of authorities therefore becomes necessarily very great, but not more so, we trust, than the importance of the questions demands at our hands.

The author of this treatise is a believer in Revealed Religion—the Revelation by Power. That which the divinely-inspired Power in men has revealed is a Revelation unto us! No matter what materials these prophets have had to work with, no matter that they have uttered it from within them—their improvement, if you please, upon modes of thought long passed away—still it is a Revelation to us; for it is the Power of God manifested through man! The last twenty centuries have not passed in vain. We have not to retrace our steps to the point of divergence between the religions of the ancient world, and to begin human life anew; what we have won is ours! We cannot go back again to the paths of Arabian thought; for it is not given to us to tabernacle in forms and customs which no longer live on earth. Our life is founded in the present; and from it we must gather the sources of our own fruitfulness. Let us act in accordance with our confession, and, being limited, let us confine our reasonings and our assertions respecting God's Providence to the facts within reach of human observation. Since God ordained these he intended us to take account of them.

It is a rule of pleading that the attorney must state in his declaration only the facts out of which his cause of action arises. After the facts have been given the Court applies the law to the case. It is this rule which we have followed in our preceding volume, and continue to observe in this. We put in the facts, and Human Opinion, sufficiently educated, will pass judgment on them.

INTRODUCTION.

THE SOURCES OF MOSES AND THE PROPHETS.

Moses will be summoned upwards, the Steward and Guardian of "the Sacred Mysteries of the living God."—Philos Judæus.

Lex et Prophetae primitus
Hoc protulerunt.—Ancient Christian Hymn.

If they hear not Moses and the Prophets, neither will they be persuaded if one rose from the dead.—Luke, xvi. 31.

Open your ears, O ye Initiated, and receive the most sacred mysteries.—Philos Judæus.

"The Mysteries were religious solemnities in which no one could participate without having undergone a previous ceremony of admission and initiation.

In the Orphic Mysteries, the worship of Dionysus was the centre of all religious ideas. He was the God from whom the liberation of souls was expected. All the Greek religious poetry treating of death and the world beyond the grave refers to the Deities whose influence was supposed to be exercised in the dark region of the Earth. The Mysteries of the Greeks were connected with the worship of these Gods alone. Neither the Eleusinian nor any other of the 'Established Mysteries' of Greece obtained any influence upon the literature of the nation, since the hymns sung and the prayers recited at them were only intended for particular parts of the imposing ceremony, and were not imparted to the public.

On the other hand, there was a society of persons who performed the rites of a mystical worship, but were not exclusively attached to a particular temple and festival, and who did not confine their notions to the initiated, but published them to others and committed them to literary works. These were the followers of Orpheus, the Orphikoi, who, under the guidance of the ancient mystical poet Orpheus, dedicated themselves to the worship of Bacchus, in which they hoped to find satisfaction for an ardent longing after the soothing and elevating influences of religion! The Orphic legends and poems related in great part to Dionysus Zagreus (closely connected with Demeter and Cora), who was combined as an Infernal Deity (Osiris) with Hades (Pluto), and upon whom the followers of Orpheus founded their hopes of the purification and ultimate immortality of the soul! But their mode of celebrating this worship was very different from the popular rites of Bacchus. When they had tasted the mystic sacrificial feast of raw flesh torn from the ox of Dionysus they partook of no other animal food. They wore white linen garments like Oriental (Hebrew, Syrian, Arab, Persian) and Egyptian priests.”—Otfried Muller, Hist. Greek Lit., 16, 230-238; Maury, II. p. 337.

Discussion fails to convince. The author therefore tried to find a point in the Bible that would be vital and save talking;—one clearly exposing the Bible's point of departure. This is to be found in the word Son (a Mystery). It also means a secret gathering, synod, assembly, association, communion.

1 As in the Hebrew Sacred Books.
INTRODUCTION.

SODalem in Lupercis (priests of Pan; the priests alone celebrated his feast, the Lupercalian Mysteries).

SODalitas germanorum Lupercorum, quorum coitio (Sod, Meeting, Assembly, Collegium) ante est instituta quam humanitas atque leges.—Cicero, Coel., 11, 26.

SODalitates autem constitutae sunt SACRIS IDAEIS MAGNAE MATRIS. Epulabar igitur cum sodalibus.

SODalities were constituted in the Idaean Mysteries of the Mighty Mother.—Cicero, de Senectute, 13, 45.

The members of the Priest-Colleges were called SODales.—Freund's Latin Lexicon, iv. 448.

Into their SOD let my soul not come!—Gen., xlix. 6.

Maury supposes the origin of the Mysteries of Bacchus and Demeter comparatively modern: (the sixth century before Christ).—Maury, II. 316, 319. The name of Abal, Bol, Baal, Epul, Apollo, was much older than Dionysus, and certainly was ancient among the Hebrew-Phoenicians and Babylonians.

It is clear that Judaism turned its back upon the Baal or Adonis (Bacchus) worship with its groves, mysteries and festivals.—Kings and Chronicles passim; Spirit-Hist., 222; Wisdom of Solomon, xiv. 23, Greek copy. The Old Testament particularly denounces "Baal (Adonis)" and the groves!—Judges, iii. 7; vi. 28, 25.

1 Kings, xiv. 15, 23; xv. 13; xvi. 33; 2 Kings, xiii. 6; xvii. 16, they made two little bulls and a grove, and worshipped the Stars, and Bol (Baal); xxi. 3, 7, 5; xxiii. 6.

Baal is Adonis.—Movers, 195, 184. Aglibal, Aglibelos (Agal or Gallus-Baal).—Movers, 171. Baal had his prophets, priests, and his solemn assembly or feast, like Adonis.—2 Kings, x. 19, 20.
INTRODUCTION.

Sod¹ Ihoh (the MYSTERIES of Ihoh) are for those who fear him.²—Psalm, xxv. 14.

This is the gate of Ihoh,
Let the Zadikim (the just, the INITIATED, THE PRIESTS) enter through it.
—Psalm, cxviii. 19, 20.

Al is terrible in the great Sod (assembly, MYSTERIES) of the Kedeshim (THE PRIESTS, the holy, INITIATED).—Psalm, lxxxix. 8.

And his Sod (MYSTERIES) are for the Isarim (the good, INITIATED).—Proverbs, iii. 32.

We have together made sweet the Sod (MYSTERIES);
In the house of ALAHIM we have walked with the throng.
—Psalm, lv. 14.

Al Ihoh o-larn ino
Al. is Ihoh and shines (far the Sun in Egypt) to us!
Bind the feast (sacrifice) with cords unto the altar’s horns.
—Psalm, cxviii. 27.

We find a MYSTERY (Orgion) used for a part of the MYSTERIES, Lucian, iv. 268; it means the same as Orgia "Secret Mysteries."—Donnegan, 913.

We leave others to judge whether Araza "arcanum" (—Seder Lason, 27) is obviously derived from the Ionian Araz (Demeter), the Hebrew Aratz (Aras), Earth, Aras the Sun.—Compare Eraze, the Earth, used as an adverb by Homer. Compare Raza "arcanum."—The Sohar, Idra Rabba, xxxii. 688. Rosenroth.

Kadosh is Ihoh.—Psalm, lxxxix. 18. Kedeshim is the plural.

Tacitus, Hist., v. 5, says that the gloomy Jewish forms of worship have no conformity to the rites of Bacchus which were celebrated with mirth and gaiety. Tacitus differs from the Mishna, for this asserts the contrary. He is also contradicted by passages taken from the Psalms of David. Tacitus lived in the time of Vespasian, and the ceremonies of the Rabbis at Rome might well have appeared gloomy enough to a Roman. But Ehrmann (Beiträge z. c. Gesch. der Schulen und der Cultur unter den Juden, p. 37) says Tacitus shows great ignorance of the Jewish Religion. The Orphic Mysteries differed (like the Jewish rites) from the “popular rites” of Bacchus.—K. O. Müller, 282.

The followers of Orpens aimed at an ascetic purity of manners, and did not indulge in unrestrained pleasure.—K. O. Müller, Hist. Greek Lit., 282.
INTRODUCTION.

The dark-colored ivy and the untrodden grove of God with its myriad fruits, sunless, and without wind in all storms: where always the frenzied Dionysus dwells!—Sophocles, Oidip. Kol., 675.

Adonis is Dionysos! "The grove of the Golden Aphrodite."—Justin, ad Graecos, p. 27.

But the Mysteries lie at the foundation of the Mosaic Religion, and, consequently, are the basis of our own faith. Moses was learned in all the "wisdom" of the Egyptians.—Acts, vii. 22.

The things relating to Initiations and Mysteries and such jugglery and buffoonery, Moses removes from the sacred legislation; not thinking it proper that those brought up in such institutions as the Hebrew should be busied with and devoted to mystic matters, to neglect the truth and pursue after those things that have obtained night and darkness for their lot, passing by such as are worthy of light and of day! Let no one then of those that are the followers and acquaintances of Moses either be initiated or initiate others. For each of the two, both the learning and the teaching Mysteries is no small profanity. For why, if these things are excellent, O Mustai, and beneficial, do ye, shutting yourselves up in profound darkness, help only three or four when you can expose the benefits to all men in the full forum.—Philo, de victimas offerent., 12.

That which was secret in time was revealed. The

They cried out with a loud voice and cut themselves according to their custom with knives and lances till they shed the blood over themselves.—1 Kings, xviii: 28, 29.

1 Origen mentions the Mysteries of the Egyptians.—Origen, II. 417. Franck mentions an ancient book entitled "Egyptian Mysteries."—Gelinek, 214. Philo mentions the Mysteries of the Magi in Persia.—Philo Judaeus, III. 328. The religious philosophy of the Magi was famous under the name "Oriental Wisdom."—Franck, 84.
publishing of the Mysteries scattered their doctrines among the revealed religions of the Jews, Persians and Hindus. "Under the influence of the Orphic sect the rites of initiation began to be surrounded with a secret less impenetrable."—Maury, II. 338.

The Old Testament is the work of men who adhered to the views and opinions of the upper classes. It leaves out the demonology of the Zendavesta and New Testament, which was so popular with the lower orders. Anciently a sort of state-religion existed in the Orient. It was the worship of the "God of heaven," as in Greece, Rome, Persia, Jerusalem.—Nehemiah, i. 4. This Deity was called Zeus, Jupiter, Alah, Aloh, Alohim, Iahoh and Ahuramazda. To this national-cultus the Mysteries, the worship of Heaven and Earth (Dionysus and Demeter), may be regarded as an appendage, just as in Greece and Rome. The relationship of the Dionysus-cultus with that of Bel, Iao, Iahoh or Iachoh (Iachos) is shown in Movers, 547, 548, 544 ff. The identity of Zeus and Dionysus (Bacchus) appears on pages 109, 243, 244, 211, 212, 144, 194, 195, 199 of the Vestiges of the Spirit-History of Man.

The doctrines taught in the Mysteries were united with the old national-cultus and its fire-worship to form the Old Testament in its present condition. We therefore call it the offspring of the Mysteries; because advanced notions of morality and religion were especially taught in them. It is also the offspring of Euhemerism (taught likewise in the Mysteries) and the Egyptian philosophical writings which have reached us; it preceded the Book of the Dead in the shape in which it is now published; it is anterior to the Old Testament as one volume; it is prior to the Phœnician philosophy that has reached us, and is found in the midst of the Greek, Hindu and Persian polytheism. The Jewish Philo tells us that it was both male and female. Accordingly we find it called Amon, Neith, Ptah, Osiris and Thoth in Egypt, Taaut and Kadmus in Phœnicia, Amon in the Bible (Proverbs, viii. 30), also Adam, Thamus, Moses; Bel and Oannes in Babylon, Tao in Chinese philosophy, Ormuzd's Intelligence in Persia, Brahma and Sarasvati in India, Vulcan, Prometheus, Athena, Logos and Hermes in Greece. "The Intelligence is God, possessing the double fecundity of the two sexes." — Spirit-Hist. of Man, pp. 174, 164, 228, 229, 172, 178, 180. Pythagoras taught that God is the Universal Mind diffused through all things. The Wisdom is effused from Oulom (Time, Kronos, Adoni) just as the Armed Minerva issues from the head of Jupiter.

Proverbs, viii.

"Speaks of her as the Intelligence of God. She is the God-mind!" — Plato, Cratylus; Stallbaum, p. 117.

Adon, Adonis, Attien, is the male; Athena is the female Wisdom! Bacchus is the Divine Mind. He is Adonis, the Nutritive and Generative Spirit. — Plutarch, Quaest. Conviv., iv. 671, 672; de Iside, xl.

Apollo (Bol, Bel-Adan, Bel-itan) is the Wisdom (at Delphi), the Brazen Serpent NAMUSATAN (Esclapion), the Male Serpent. — Matthew, x. 16. Minerva is the Female Serpent. — Plutarch de Iside, lxxv. lxxi.
of the legal, historical, literary, religious and social experience as well as the improved culture of the nation. Above all it proceeded forth from the hands of the priests, the ancient clergy. The Phoenician symbolik, the Oriental philosophy and the great diffusion of civilization among the priest caste lent their aid in the formation of the Jewish Scriptures.

"Those however among the Greeks who philosophized in accordance with truth were not ignorant of anything of those things that have been said respecting the Deity; nor did they fail to perceive the chilling superficialities of the mythical allegories. On which account indeed they justly despised them. But as to the true and proper opinion about God they agreed in opinion with us. By which thing Plato being moved says it is not necessary to admit any one of the other poets into the Commonwealth, and he dismisses Homer blandly, after having crowned him and pouring unguent upon him, in order that indeed he should not destroy by his myths the orthodox belief respecting God!"—Josephus, Against Apion, II. p. 1079; edition Coloniae mdcxcl.

"Our ears being accustomed from infancy to the fictions of Hesiod and the Cyclic poets, with whose fables all things resound, now the very truth is held to be nonsense, but adulterated and spurious tales to be the truth!"—Sanchoniathon; Orelli, p. 41; Eusebius.

On the basis of polytheism the ancient philosophers constructed a different philosophy, which yet made use of the language of polytheism to convey its ideas. This philosophy may be called the Wisdom school, from the prominence of the idea of the Divine Wisdom as the Logos, the Strength, Intelligence and Demiurgic-Creator. It preceded some of

And they took a bullock and invoked the name of Abol¹ (Abel, Bel, Bol, Bol-aten)—saying: Abol (Habol, Habel, Abel, Bol), Answer to us!—1 Kings, xviii. 26.

And Død (David) departed, and all the people that was with him, out of Boli (city of Bol or Baal)² of Iehudah, to make the ark of the Alohim go up thence.—2 Sam., vi. 2.

The Hebrews burned incense to Bol, to Shemes (the Sun), to Irah (the Moon), to (the Mazaloth) the twelve Houses of the Planets, and to all the Host of the heavens.—2 Kings, xxiii. 5.

The Children of Isaral (Israel) served Baals and Astarte (Venus), and the gods of Syria, and the gods of Zidon (Phoenicia), and the gods of Moab, and the gods of the Children of Ammon, and the gods of the Philistines.—Judges, x. 6.

CHAPTER I.

THE HEBREW MYSTERY.

Nicht Mond noch Sterne geben Schein.

Ich reit' am finstern Garten hin,
Die dürren Bäume sausen drin,
Die welken Blätter fallen.

Ho has departed to the banquet of the blest!
This is the Lake, by Jupiter!
This it is which he mentioned, and I see the boat!
By Neptune, and this here is indeed Charon!
Hail O Charon, hail O Charon, hail O Charon!

CHARON.

Who is for the resting places from ills and labors?
Who for Lethe's plain, or for the fleece of an ass?
Or for the Cerberians, or for the crows, or to Taenarus?

BACCHUS.

I. !!!

CHARON.

Go quickly on board. For thou wilt hear
The sweetest strains when once you have dipped your oar.
Whose?
Frogs', swans', wonderful!
Give the word then.
Oop op, Oop op!
CHORUS OF FROGS.

Brekekekex, koax, koax!
Brekekekex, koax, koax!
LAKE children of the founts,
A concordant voice of hymns
Let us cry, my song sweet-sounding,
Koax, koax!
Which around Nusalian Bacchus
Son of Deus in Lakes we iaechoed,
When rambling in drunken revelry,
At the Sacred Fons, advances
To my shrine the crowd of people
Brekekekex, koax, koax!

CHORUS

IN THE ELYSIAN FIELDS, CHAUNTED BY THE INITIATED IN THE MYSTERIES OF BACCHUS.

Wake burning torches (for thou comest Shaking them in thy hands), Iacche, PHOSPHOROS STAR of the nightly rite!
But the meadow shines with flame:
The knee of old men leaps:
And they shake off pains,
Chronic, annual,
Of old years, by the sacred worship!
But thou want to FLASH WITH THE TORCH
Lead straight on to the flowery meadowy plain
O Blessed, with thy chorus-instituting young LIFE

You must keep still, and depart from our choruses
Whoever is unskilled in these stories and is not pure in thought.

—Aristophanes, Frogs, 155–329.

1 The Elders of the Byblians.—Ezekiel, xxvii. 9; Septuagint.

“...And I saw in Byblus a great temple of the Byblian Venus in which they celebrate the Mysteries to Adonis. But I was also taught the Mysteries (Orgia). For they say indeed that the deed done to Adonis by the Boar happened in their region, and in memory of the misfortune they beat themselves every year and lament and perform the Mysteries (Orgia), and great mournings are established by them throughout the region. A river from the Liban, the chain of mountains, empties into the sea: Adonis is the river’s name. But the river every year is bloodied.”—Lucian, de Syria Dea.

The celebration of the Adonia began with the disappearance of Adonis, after which follows the search for him by the women. The Myth represents this by the search of the goddess after her beloved; which is analogous to the search of Persephone in the Eleusinia, of Harmonia at Samothrace, of Io in Antioch. In Autumn, when the rains washed the red earth on its banks, the river Adonis was of a blood-red color, which was the signal for the Byblians to begin the Lament. Then they said that Adonis in hunting was killed by Mars, or the Boar, and his blood running into the river colored the water. Hence the name of the river Adon; for Adm (interchanged with Adn) means “blood.”—Taken from Movers, 200. “Adonis is mourned in most states of the Orient as the husband of Venus, albeit this evil has passed over even to us.”—Firmicus, p. 15, ed. Where they agitate the sacra sancta with shrill screams

While thus the new woman Atys sung to his associates

Nonnus describes Inachus (Enoch) very much as Lucian gives us the Byblian Attes-Adonis. For, according to Lucian's Holy Story, "Attes first taught the Mysteries of Rhea. The Phrygians, Lydians and Samothracians celebrate them, and they learned them all from Attes. He ceased to be a man; and was clothed with a female form, and put on women's clothes, and, wandering about to every land, both celebrated Mysteries and told what he had suffered and sang Rhea. And the "feminine God" comes to Rhea with many signs. For lions carry her and she has the drum and upon her head wears a tower, just as the Ludians dress Rhea. There was a remarkable rite which consisted in the drawing of water and solemnly pouring it out upon the altar. Every morning during the Feast, when the parts of the morning sacrifice were laid upon the altar, one of the priests went to the fountain of Siloam and filled a golden vessel which he carried in his hand with its water. This he then brought into the court and, having first mingled it with some wine (Corn we call Ceres, wine Bacchus.—Cicero¹), poured it out as a drink-offering on the top of the altar. . . . Every night there was a most extraordinary exhibition of joy styled the rejoicing for the drawing of water. Ascanius (Asac-A.nius). The inhabitants of Cius (Kios) yearly celebrated a FESTIVAL in honor of Hulas, and called upon him with loud cries!—Anthon, 650.

Bormus was a beautiful BOY, who having gone to fetch WATER for the reapers in the heat of the day was borne down by the nymphs of the stream.

The Mysteries at Eleusis and Athens were celebrated during nine days, in the month September. On the third day they FASTED. The fifth day the women remained all night in the temple of Demeter. The sixth day, called Iacchos, was the most solemn of all. His statue was borne with joyous shouts. The seventh day the Initiated returned to Athens. The ceremonies originally (like the Hebrew) lasted but seven days. The eighth was an additional day, added later. The ninth and last day two small vessels, containing each about half a pint, were filled with water or wine and the contents of one thrown to the east, those of the other to the west.—Anthon, Dict. Ant., Eleusinia.

The people of Hierapolis, Syria, all Arabia, and beyond the Euphrates, twice every year brought water from the neighboring sea and poured it into the temple, from which it fell into a large chasm.

The greatest ceremony is that which they observe by the sea-side. . . . On their return every one bring a vessel filled with water, which is sealed up with wax. Lucian, iv. 279, mentions a statue of gold with a golden pigeon on its head; this was sent every year to bring up the water from the sea. Some said it was Bacchus, others Deucalion, others Semiramis.—Lucian, de Dea Syria. It is evidently the Bi-sex Xisuthrus or Noah. “It is called Equinoctial Point by the Assyrians (Syrians) themselves.”—Ibid. “For on top of it a golden dove stood. Therefore indeed they tell that this is the Equinoctial-point of Semiramis. But twice every year it goes away to the sea, for the conveyance of the said water.”—Lucian, iv. 279. Noah is Neptune, Bacchus and Osiris.—See Sod, I. p. 111, 140. Noah also sent away his dove.

Apion says that Moses instead of obelisks set up pillars and under them was the image of a boat (the Boat of the Sun), to intimate that He, who is in the Aether, always accompanies the sun upon its course.—Apion's Aegyptiaca quoted by Josephus contra Apion; Movers, 296. See in particular Spirit-Hist., 49, 50, 148, 149.

“Instead of obelisks he (Moses) set up pillars upon which was a model (representation), a bark, and the shadow of a Man disposed upon it; as if that in the Aether He accompanies the sun through this his eternal course.”—Josephus.

The two pillars were a means, perhaps, of determining the Sun's crossing the line. The Peruvians determined the period of the equinoxes by the help of a solitary pillar placed in the centre of a circle which was described in the area of the Great Temple, and traversed by a diameter that was drawn from east to west.—Prescott's Peru, I. 126.

"On the top of one of the two pillars (phalli) which Bacchus set up (at Byblus) a man remains seven days; he does this twice every year.”—Lucian, iv. 276. He was evidently on the look-out for Noah's ark.—See Gen., vii. 10, 12. But Lucian says it was Deucalion for whom this was done; only he intimates that he was himself wanting in faith as to this account of the origin of the custom. He rather thought it was done out of respect to Bacchus. “For those who erect phalli to Bacchus (Nuh) place wooden men on them.” Here one of Herodotus's religious misgivings seems to have come over Lucian's

Later editions have altered it as follows: ὑφ᾽ ὣς ἦν ἐκτύπωμα σκάφης σκιὰ δ᾽ ἄνδρος, . . . ὅν ἐπὶ αἰθέρι.—Josephus, Leipzig ed., 1785.

In the same ship (of the Sun) a fountain of aetherial light, flowing with hidden (arcanis) streams, was poured into the lighthouse of the whole world.—Martianus Capella, de Nupt. Phil., II; Taylor's Iamblichus, p. 287.

But as if they had made an agreement "to defile the Deity, they left the dead putrifying in the Sun.”—Josephus, Wars, v. cap. 2 (iv. 6).

But in the very naos (of the Temple at Byblus), on the right as you go in, first lies the Sun's throne; but there is no image of him upon it, for of the Sun alone and Moon they show no statues!—Lucian, iv. 280.

2 The descendants of Seth invented the wisdom that is concerned with the heavenly bodies and their orderly arrangement. Having made two steles (pillars), one of brick, but the other of stones, on both they inscribed their discoveries.—Josephus, Ant., I. 3. Compare Zethes, the Argonaut, on his heavenly voyage.
Ashurah, the Hebrew Feast of Tabernacles, at the end of the dry and heated term.—Spirit-Hist., 221.

Nah (Osiris) enters the ark about the seventeenth of the second month, April 24th.—Gen., vii. 11. The Pleiads rose April 22nd–May 10th, and commonly brought in fine weather. It was the Harvest season. The water gods Nus (Nusios), Nuh, Osiris, Bacchus, Noah, Shem, Ham, Iapet, (Put, Ptah), always sungods, then went into the ark.—Gen., vii. 13.

O Solon, you only mention one Deluge of the earth, whereas there had been many before.—Plato, Timaeus, Davis II. 326; Genesis vi. 17. Genesis vii. 4, seems to be fairly met by Hesiod, Works and Days:

Begin thy ploughing when the Pleiads set.

All-powerful Zeus rains in the autumnal season.

1 The Jewish poets, like the Greeks, took great liberties with the sacred myths. As soon as Euhemerism turned the god into a man the poet could alter the myth very much at his pleasure, as long as enough of the main features of the story remained by which it could be again recognized. Nobody knows through how many hands the story passed before it became a part of the Hebrew Bible. In examining these subjects the reader will do well to distinguish in his mind between Religion, History and Superstition; confining each to its own domain and not permitting one to invade the province of the other.

THE DIALOGUE OF ELIAS AND HIS BOY (slave).

Eliaso.

Boy.
There isn’t anything!

Eliaso.
Look again; seven times!!!

When it was done the seventh time that the slave said:

Lo! a little cloud, just like a man’s hand, ascending out of the sea!

Eliaso.
Harness and descend, lest the Rain prevent thee!

Therefore it was done even so and even so, when the heavens were darkened with clouds and wind, and there was a great Rain.—1 Kings, xviii. 43, 44, 45.

NAH, Noh, is the second Adam.—Hyde, 168. Nahi means “light.”—Seder Lasôn, 211. Nah is the Sun-god as the Source of Rain, Bacchus, Adonis!

The Ark rested in the seventh month (September) on the seventeenth day of the month, the time of the Eleusinia and the Feast of Tabernacles.—Gen., viii. 4. NAH (Noh, Noah) the Productive Principle (the Rain-god), called also Osiris, comes in his Ark at the beginning of the Rainy Season (October and November). Therefore the Arabs connect the arrival of Noah’s Ark, in the mountain cloud (at the time of the Equinox), with the September festival, the Arab.

1 In Persia, the Angel Chordad (“who gives light,” the Sun) presided anciently over the month of September and the running waters and all waters.—Hyde, Relig. vet. Pers., 241, 188, 334. Later Chordad is May, instead of September.
And said Iahoh to Nah (Bacchus): Go thou and all thy house into the ark! (Osiris or Bacchus enters the Moon).

Yet seven days, and I will make to rain over the earth forty days and forty nights.—Gen., vii. 1, 4.

This is the Iore, the October Rain of the Hebrews. According to Hesiod, the Pleiads set November 11th; it rained when they set.—Josephus, Ant., xiii. chap. 8; Banks, Hesiod, 94; Theocr., xiii. 25; Virgil, Georg., iv. 231, 232. "In the Sacra of Proserpine a cut tree is fashioned into the image and form of the Virgin, and when it has been brought into the city it is mourned forty nights, but on the fortieth night it is burned."—Firmicus, 27. A ship ascended with the Virgin!—Firmicus, 7; Genesis, vii. 4.

How Zeus the Rainy deluged all the cities with vast seas, bringing lifted water: how Notus after Boreas and Eurus from Libya scourging raised up Deucalion's ark, a rover, a neighbor of the Moon, to an air-wandering voyage.—Nonnus, xii. 61, 62.

The Sun and Moon (Virgin) were both the sources of rain. When the Sun-deity enters the moon she becomes the Male Virgin (Persephone, Semiramis, Artemis-Hecate-Diana), the Deus Lunus and the Dea Luna. The Babylonian Noah is the Sun in the sign of the Waterman in the Zodiac.—Movers, 165, 589, 634, 384, 645. The Sun began to enter the Waterman January 16th.—Compare the Lenaean Feast of Bacchus-Noah. He is the lunar Saturn.—Movers, 674, 164. He is a bisex deity, and was regarded as Semiramis.—Ibid, 674.

On the left of the temple (in Byblus) stood a statue of Semiramis pointing to the temple, and it stood there for this reason; she made a law for the men that inhabit Syria to worship her as God, but to take no notice of the other gods and Hera herself; and they did so. But afterwards, when the diseases from God and misfortune and griefs came, she stopped that mania and confessed herself a mortal (Euhemerism), and ordered her subjects to turn again to Hera. Therefore she still stands thus, pointing to the comers to worship Hera (Juno), and confessing that She and not herself is God!—Lucian, de Dea Syria; Lucian, iv. 281, 282.

With Plutarch's account of Anubis (Mercury) as the companion of Isis in the search after Horus (the Only-begotten) and his (Mercury's) guarding the gods as the dogs¹ guard men, compare the story of Io the beloved of Jupiter, turned into a Cow (Moon, Nature-goddess), and guarded by Argus whom Mercury slays. Io brings forth Epaphus (the Bull-god, the husband of Paphia; compare Pappas, Adonis, Abōbas, Bacchus the bull-horned God) and marries Osiris and becomes an Egyptian goddess under the name of Isis. IEUō and Heuah (Adam and Eve) are Adonis and Venus, Bacchus and Ceres, Guas and Gua (Chuah), Osiris and Isis, Iaō and Io (Iah and Ioh).—Spirit-Hist., 148, 149.

"The Male Virgin IoEL."—Beausobre, II. 458.

The Divine Wisdom (Holy Ghost) was both male and female in the heathen² and Jewish philosophy.—

¹ Anubis and Hecate were represented dog-headed.
² The Holy Ghost was regarded by the Kabbalists as feminine. The Sophia (Wisdom) was referred to the Holy Ghost.—Proverbs, iii. 19. The dove was the attribute of Mary in the apocryphal Evangelia.—Protevangel, Jacobii, c. 8.
³ Ipsum hominem Christum ex Spiritu sancto et virgine Maria conceptum Spirit-Hist. of Man, pp. 227-229, 150, 171, 146, 232, 138, 189, 385. The dove was an emblem of Noah (Xisuthrus) and the Holy Spirit; also of Baal, Bacchus, Semiramis, Vena (the Moon) and Venus.—Compare Euripides, Bacchae, 1090.

Hogs were particularly sacrificed in the Mysteries of Ceres and Bacchus.—Wheelwright, Aristoph., I. 151.

They appease the Good Goddess with a young sow's stomach.—Juvenal, ii. 86; xi. 82, 83.

O revered, very-honored Daughter of Demeter,
How sweet to me it smells of hogs' flesh!—Aristoph., Frogs, 326.

"Hogs of the Mysteries."—Ibid., Acharn., 702, 717, 719.1

The Moon is male (Janus) and female; Mene is Minerva or Mertha in Etruria, a name probably formed from Mene-Arba or Mene-Orpheus, Mene-Orpha in the moon, and the Repha-ih in (Hades).—See Spirit-Hist., 399, 285, 214. "Osiris in the moon" is the Divine Wisdom, the Creative Wisdom, the Male and Female Nus (Anos, Enos), Nah, Nuh, Nasios, "Bacchus in the moon," and Mene-rra in the moon.—Spirit-Hist., 228. Thus we have Anos (Janus, Bacchus-Nasios) and Anna (the Moon).

1 The integrity of animals offered in sacrifice was as essential a part of the Heathen as of the Jewish ritual.—Wheelwright, Arist., II. 138; Acharn., 739 ff. Bothe.

The Syro-Phoenicians held the two opinions, that swine were holy, and unholy. Plutarch questions whether the Jews abstained from swine's flesh through reverence or aversion. The Cretans held swine holy. In Cyprus the swine was holy to Aphrodite. The Babylonian Magi avoided and killed mice as unholy. Swine offerings were brought to Aphrodite, and these were offered in Argos and Judea. Swine offerings were brought to Hercules; but they were kept away from the temple of the Tyrian Hercules.—Movers, 219, 220; Isaiah, lxv. 4; lxvi. 3, 17; Silius Italicus, III. 23; and the other authorities cited by Movers. The reason why the hated swine was offered, is, that it represented the Evil Demon, the Devil. Compare Movers, 221, 219, 216 et passim. The Devil was giving chase to a pig about full-moon when he fell in with the body of Osiris and tore him all to pieos, according to the myth in Plutarch, de Iside, vii. In the Thesmophorian Feast "pigs of the new born" were driven into a chasm. They said these stayed in Hades until the next season of the year.—Movers, 220; Paussanias, ix. 8, 1. This calls to mind a similar idea in Matthew, viii. 31, 32, where the devils leave human beings to enter the herd of swine and they go down off a steep place into the sea (to Hades). See p. 63, note 2 of this work. No one could enter the temple of the Persian national Goddess Hemitha who had touched a swine.—Movers, 221; Diodor., v. 62.
Purifications by blood-offerings of swine at the altar of the god Phoeb (Abab).—

Together shall they perish, says Jahw—he.
Lend me three drachmas to get a little pig,
For I must be INITIATED ere I die!—Aristophanes, Eirene, 367, 368.

A people (the Jews) that sacrifices in gardens, and burns incense upon altars of brick.

That remain among the graves and lodge in the tombs, that eat swine's flesh!

That say: Stand by thyself, Come not near to me; for I AM HOLIER than thou!—Isaiah, lxv. 3, 4, 5, 7, 11.

The Egyptian priests sacrificed the swine (emblem of Typhon) only to Bacchus and Osiris, and to the Moon when she was full.—De Sacy, I. 184; Herodot., II. 47; Plutarch, De Iside, viii. Bacchus was the Son of Luna.—Cicero, de Nat. Deor., iii. 25. Then Bacchus is WATER! According to Spirit-Hist., p. 229, Adam, Aion, Noah, Ulom, Xisothrus, Phanes, being male and female, are SONS OF THE MOON.—See Spirit-Hist., p. 146. According to Faustus, Christ's Power dwelt in the sun, his WISDOM in the moon.—Milman, Hist. Christ., 280 note. See Spirit-Hist., pp. 228, 229. This makes him to be Horus.—Spirit-Hist., p. 192.

At Delphi, in the holy of holies of the temple, they showed together with a golden statue of Apollo the GRAVE of Bacchus, at which the Chief Priest brought secret offerings at the time of the SHORTEST DAY.—Preller, I. 427.

He is the Phenician Esmun and brother of the Seven Cabiri. He is identical with Ptah (the Creative INTELLECT, the Divine WISDOM).—Spirit-Hist., 172. He is Apollo (Baal, Bol), Atys, Adonis, and Hercules. He is the late- autumnal Sun, without strength; also Horus, Harpocrates, Sem, Serapis; and, having offered himself on the EIGHTH day, he was INITIATED into the Eleusinian MYSTERIES.—Anthon, 67. His emblems were a cock (Sun), the serpent (Sun, Life and Immortality), the ram (Sun). He was represented as an Infant holding in one hand a sceptre, in the other a pinecone (an emblem in sun-worship).—Ibid. As an Infant, he resembles Adonis, and Eros!

PROSERPINE'S FEMALE ATTENDANT IN HADES GOES TO THE DOOR.

O DEAREST Hercules are you come? Come in hither,
For when the Goddess learned that you were coming, at once
She baked loaves; laid hold of pots (chinthas) of bruised pulse
Two or three porridges of pulse; roasted a whole ox on the coals;
Baked by the fire flat cakes, little loaves.—But come in.

Enter not into the house of mourning nor depart to wail: nor shall thou comfort them!

Let great and small die in this land; let them not be buried, neither lament for them; let not cuttings (in the flesh) be made, nor baldness be induced because of them!

They shall not break (bread) for them, in mourning, to console him for the dead; nor make them drunk with the cup of consolations on account of their father and on account of their mother.

On the evening of the day when the corpse is burnt, water and milk must be suspended in earthen vessels before the door, in honor of the deceased, with this address to him:

"Such a one deceased! Bathe here, drink this!"

And the same ceremony may be repeated every evening until the period of mourning expire.

During ten days, funeral cakes together with libations of water and tila (sesamum) must be offered.

On the third and fifth days, as also on the seventh and ninth, the kinsmen assemble, bathe in the open air, offer tila and water to the deceased and take a repast together; they place lamps at cross roads and in their own houses, and likewise on the way to the cemetery.

On the last day of mourning (for the dead) the nearest relation offers the tenth funeral cake. He makes ten libations of water from the palms of his hands, causes the hair of his head and body to be shaved, etc.—Colebrooke, Hindu Relig., 100-109.

When a body, formed of five elements to receive the reward of deeds done in its own former person, reverts to its five original principles, what room is there for regret?

The earth is perishable, the ocean, the Gods themselves pass away; how should not that bubble, mortal man, meet destruction?

All that is low must finally perish; all that is elevated must ultimately fall; all compound bodies must end in dissolution, and life is concluded with death.

Unwillingly do the manes of the deceased taste the tears and rheum shed by their kinsmen, then do not wail, but diligently perform the obsequies of the dead!—Colbrooke, Relig. Ceremonies of the Hindus, 100.

The body of a young child under two years old must not be burnt, but buried. It is decked with wreaths of fragrant flowers, and carried out by the relations, who bury it in a clean spot, saying ‘Namó! namah!’ while a priest chants the song of YAMA:

There are some of the Byblians who say that the Egyptian Osiris was buried in their district, and that the MOURNINGS and the MYSTERIES (Orgia) are performed not to the Adonis, but all to the Osiris!—Lucian, iv. 262, 263.

There are many sepulchres of Osiris in Egypt, but the body lies in Bousir; and this is the native country of Osiris; no longer is there need of argument to show that it is Taphosiris; for the very name means TAPHEN Osiridos the SEPULCHRE of Osiris. But I pass over the cleaving of the wood and the cutting of the linen and the PITCHERS Poured (as sacrifices to the dead) because many of the Mysteries are mixed up with them.—Plutarch de Iside, xxi.

The image of the corpse of Adonis was washed, anointed with spices and wrapped around with linen or wool (compare Matth. xxvii. 59; Joh., xix. 39). According to Plutarch, Isis wrapped the Osiris-pillar (a hollowed pine-tree) in linen and anointed it with Myrrh.—Plut. de Iside, xvi. The embalmed image of Adonis was then laid in a coffin. Hence the myth that Aphrodite (the women) has delivered to Persephone (the Goddess of death and life), in a box, the Adonis born from a tree! The coffin was laid out on a bier, they showed on the image the wound which the Boar had given him, and the Boar himself (The Devil, Mars in Swine-form) was also laid out on the bier. They sat down on the earth with the bier and their clothes were rent!

On the sixth day of the Eleusinian Mysteries the image of Bacchus was borne crowned with its myrtle wreath and bearing a torch in its hand! It was accompanied by the mystic van (sieve, fan), the basket, and other insignia. The mystic basket held oil-seed, a sort of biscuit, little tarts, grains of salt, some poppies, and cakes made of flour kneaded with cheese; also pomegranates, some ivy, fennel, pith of trees, finally the figure of a serpent consecrated to Bacchus. —De Sacy, 318, 319. “Also in the most ancient Mysteries of the Greeks they shouted Eua and at the same time a serpent was shown.” “In the Sebadian (Bacchic) rites a golden serpent is let down into the bosom of the consecrated.”—Orelli, Sanchon., pp. 14, 45. Alone of the demi-gods (as they say), dear Adonis, thou comest here and to Acheron (Hell)!—Theocritus, Idyl., xv.; Davis, Transl.

What means that PINE which on stated days you always introduce into the sanctuary of the Mother of the gods? Is it not the image of that tree under which the furious and unhappy Youth laid hands upon himself, and which the Genetrix of the gods has consecrated in solace of her own wound? What mean the fleeces of woofs with which ye bind together and wrap round the trunk of a tree? Is it not a repetition of those woofs in which La\(^1\) covered Him failing and thought that She could gain a little heat for the limbs becoming cold? What are the Galli with dishevelled hairs beating their breasts with their hands? Do they not recall to memory those mournings in which the turreted Mother with the tearful Acdestis (semimale) followed the BOY with wailing? What the Bread mixed with alimonium (a preparation of herbs) to which thing you have given the name Castus? Is it not the imitation of that time when through the violence of his grief the Divinity refrained from the Bread of Ceres?—Arnobius, V. xvi.

Farewell, beloved Adonis, and go to those who rejoice at your coming.—Theocrit., xv. Thou flyest afar, O Adonis, and comest unto Acheron ... I feel insatiate grief and mourn for Adonis!—Bion, I.

The women searched after a WOODEN IMAGE of Adonis, called ADONION!—Movers, 200. (Iachoh Adonīno = Our Adoni, Iachoh!

I wail (niazō) for Adonis; beauteous Adonis is dead. Rise, wretched Goddess, in thy robes of woe, and BEAT THE BOSOM. Aphrodite, having let fall her braided hair, wanders up and down the glades, sad, unkept, unsandaled, and the brambles tear her as she goes, and curr her sacred blood: then wailing piercingly she is borne through long valleys, crying for her Assurian Spouse, and calling on her Youth. But around him dark blood was gushing up about his navel, and his breasts were empurpled from his thighs, and the parts beneath his breasts, white before, became (now) deep-red to Adonis. All mountains and the oaks say: Ai Adonin (Hoi Adon). And rivers sorrow for the woes of Aphrodite, and springs on the mountains weep for her Adonis, and flowers redden from grief; whilst Kuthereia sings mournfully along woody mountain-passes, and along cities.

Alas, alas for Kuthereia, beauteous Adonis has perished!

The Paphian Goddess sheds as many tears as Adonis pours forth blood; and these all on the ground became flowers: the blood begets a rose and the tears the anemone. Lament no more, Cupris, thy Wooster in the glades; there is a goodly couch, there is a bed of leaves ready for Adonis: this bed of thine, Kuthereia, dead Adonis occupies, and though a corpse, he is beautiful, a beautiful corpse, as if sleeping!

Lay him amid chaplets and flowers; all with him, since he is dead, aye all flowers have become withered: but sprinkle him with myrtles, sprinkle him with unguents, with perfumes!

The tender Adonis lies in purple garments!

How admirably is he (represented) reclining on a silver couch, just shedding the first down from his temples, the thrice-beloved Adonis, who is beloved even in Acheron (Hell, Saturn’s abode)!

Beside him lie fruits in their season whosoever the topmost branches bear. And beside him tender quick-growing plants (αὐξάνω καρποὶ), kept grave of Christ,” and there caused an explosion of light (Lichtexplosion) in reference to the Re-birth of the God of Light.—Ibid.

Bor נֶב is “fire” in Hebrew.—Orelli, Sanchon., 16. Pur is “fire” in Greek. The PURA (Fires) was a festival at Tyre and Gades in honor of the Sun-god, who is Fire-god.—Movers, 14. Pure FIRE was distributed in the Samothracian Mysteries. The Jews kept the feast of Purim (Fires, or Lots). “In order to heighten the general joy on this festival, Buxtorf relates that some Jews wore particolored garments and young foxes’ tails in their hats.” It was celebrated the 14th and 15th of Adar (February). These two days are the Bacchanalia of the modern Jews who drink to intoxication in memory of (?) Esther’s banquet of wine (?).—Horne, II. 128. Josephus says the Jewish FESTIVAL in Adar 13th (February 12th) was in memory of the victory of Judas Maccabeus (Josephus, Ant., xii. chap. 10); but the Book of Esther and Josephus (xi. 6) say it was in commemoration of Esther’s Fast.—Burder, II. 358 note.

Ceres with a torch seeks Proserpine, whom Pluto has carried below. Jupiter would have restored her provided she had tasted no fruit of the Infernal World; but Proserpine like Eua (Eve) had already eaten of the apple or pomegranate.—Ibid., 427 ; Spirit-Hist., 213.

The greatest of all the festivals which I saw (in Byblus) they celebrate when Spring (Eiar, Aiar) commences. And some call it pura, but others the lamp. Among the Jews the 13th of Adar (Feb. 11th) was a feast-day, on which they fasted.—Jahn, Hist. Heb. Com., 234. The Greek Dionysia lasted three days the 11th, 12th, 13th in Anthesterion (February).

On the first day of the Jewish Feast of Lights one light was kindled, and an additional light added every day during the eight days.—Schroder, 15. But I go with these girls and women, bearing the sacred lamp, where they all night perform rites to the Goddess.—Aristoph., Frogs, 415 ff.

In the city Bousir how they celebrate the Feast of Isis has been already related. After the sacrifice, all men and women flagellate themselves, many thousand men. But whom (Osiris) this beating is for, it is not religious for me to tell. But those of the Carians who dwell in Egypt do yet more than these, inasmuch as they cut their faces with swords.

The Thracian princes worshipped Mercury most of gods. They swore by Him alone, and called themselves born from Hermes! The Pelasgians told a certain sacred story concerning Him; the things which in the Samothracian Mysteries are shown forth.—Herodot., IV. 7; II. 51. Maury says Pluton was called Adamas in the Samothracian Mysteries; and that the first male (Adan, Adon), or Archetypal Man, was called Adam. This is Sol Adamatus, Mithra Invictus!

The fast of the fourth month (Thammus—Adonis dies in June), and the fast of the fifth (Feast of Horus in July—Epiphi), and the fast of the seventh (The Eleusinia, the Adonim and the Ethanim in September) and the fast of the tenth (the birth of Mithra and the Resurrection of the Hercules, the Unconquered Sun, on the 25th of December) shall be to the house of Judah joy and gladness and cheerful feasts.—Zachariah, viii. 19; vii. 1, 5; see Hospinianus, I. 45.

On the seventh of Tobi (December 14th or 15th) Isis came out of Phœnicia, and a few days after, probably the eleventh of Tobi (Dec. 18th or 19th) they began the search, the feast of the again-found Osiris!—Creuzer, Symb., I. 261. Trumpets commenced other feasts also.

The twenty-fifth of March was fixed as tempus resurrectionis, because the Hilaria, the Feast of Joy, was then celebrated to the Unconquered Sun.—Nork, Bibl. Mythol., II. 361. On the twenty-fifth of March Christus rose from the dead.—Easter-day Prayers. The Hebrew Passover was Nisan 14th, and the Feast of unleavened bread lasted seven days from the Vernal Equinox (March 21st). The Romans have the Feast of Cuculele solemnized by Galli, and the Hilaria, about the time of the Vernal Equinox.—Hospianus, I. 155; Anthon, Hilaria.

The Feast of the Eleusinian Mysteries began Boedronion 15th (September) and lasted to the 23rd inclusive.—Anthon, Dict. Ant., 395. The Hebrew Feast of Tabernacles began on the same day of the month, Tisri 15th—22nd (September).—Leviticus, xxiii. 34. It actually lasted one day longer than the laws of Moses prescribed.—Philo, On the Tenth Festival. The Eleusinian Dionysus bore the particular name Iachchos! The Hebrew, Iacho!

Minerva was the Inventor of the war-trumpets (like Vulcan).—Preller's Greek Mythology, I. 147; Genesis, iv. 22. The Tubilustria (TubAL, TubALCain) were celebrated May 23rd to Vulcan.—Eschenburg's Manual, 573.

Skira, a festival of Athena about June 10th (Skirophorion 12th, near the summer solstice), some say, of Demeter and Kora (the Sun's goddess) in which the priest of the Erectheus (Man-fish, Dagon, Sun) brings Minerva's white canopy. It was carried from the Acropolis to a certain spot sacred to Minerva and the Sun!—Bothe, Aristoph., viii. 15. Sonne-Minerva!—Creuzer, II. 316. There was "a temple of Hephaistos and Athena."—Ibid., III. Hephaistos and Earth.—Plato, Timaeus, p. 94. Minerva, the first, was Mother of Apollo.—De Nat. Deor., III. 23.

ATHENA (the feminine Atten, Adonis) was a Goddess of seeds (sowing). She had three Holy Ploughs. —Preller, I. 136.

Minerva (the Etruscan Menrfa—Mene-Orphea: Rephaem) is the Iris of the Styx, the Isis-Persephone residing in the moon, and the goddess of the dead. At the festival in June (Skirophoria) the priest of the Sun and the priestess of Athena went together in procession. The ancient Athenian coins displayed the Moon, the owl and the olive-branch.—Anthon; see also Genesis, viii. 11; Arnobius, III. xxxi., quote; Aristotle that Minerva is Luna.

The Hebrew Feast of Trumpets was held on the first and second days of the month Tisri (September). The second day of the Feast of Cubele they sounded the trumpet!—De Sacy’s Sainte Croix, I. 85. See Spirit-Hist. of Man, 221 note.

Kalo Iana Novella!

The New Moon or commencement of the month was always a day of festivity among the Greeks, as among the Hebrews.—Mitchell, Aristoph., II. 115; Herodot., vi. 106; Ezek., xliv. 18; Numb., x. 10. The Greeks called them Noumënia, and Hekateia.

Iuno, Luna and Lucina (Lux) are the same Goddess. As soon as the pontifex discovered the thin disc, a hymn was sung, beginning: IANA Novella.—Anthon, Dict. Ant., 192. Varro, de Re Rustica.

And since we gave up burning incense to the Queen (Iuno, Anna !) of heaven and pouring libations to Her we have been in want of all things!

1 The Roman Euhemerism says that Anna (the Goddess Isis, Ceres) was either the Sister of Dido, or an Old Gentlewoman who at a famine in Rome furnished the common people with corn.—Kennett’s Rom. Ant., p. 94.
Moreover when we burned incense to the Queen of heaven and made libations unto her; without our men did we not make cakes to Her (the Bona Dea).—Jeremiah, xlv. 18, 19.

To the Queen (of heaven) we slaughter a snowy lamb!—Juvenal, xii. 3; Hospianius, I. 85. "Demeter Anassa!"—Justin, ad Graecos.

Every New moon, among the Greeks, there was a public supper.—Potter, I. 446. They were kept to Hecate-Selene-Artemis.

To-morrow is Chodesh (New moon) when I am accustomed to sit with the king at food.—1 Sam., xx. 5, 18. The Jews are not permitted to labor on this day. The women especially were commanded to abstain from all works. They fast the day before. At noon of the New-moon they dine sumptuously and hilariously. On the next Sabbath after, when the moon begins to shine somewhat, they rise at night, and raising their eyes to the moon in gardens or streets, thrice jump up towards heaven and bless the moon!—Hospianius, I. 53; Geneva, 1674.

The New-moon was kept in Egypt also.

O Moon shine brightly, for I will sing softly to thee, O Goddess, and to Infernal Hecate.—Theocr. I.

It is for Me to govern, the King, the shining Lord of the congregations at the Feasts, the Most Holy (Os-har-ham), the Good Spirit, the Weigher and Measurer; Who have established the years of the Sun-god, Who ordained a Feast of the Sabbath day, the New-Moon's Feast in Heliopolis.

I am my priest in the land of light, the slaughterer of the offering in Abot the lovely city, who offers the sin-offering for thee, the divine High-priest in Abot the lovely city, the Lord of the guilt-offering for thee, the Lord of the burnt and blood offerings for Him who has made the earth.

I am the Slaughterer of the sacrifice of the ram of sins for thee in the land of light, who consumes it in his flames.—Book of the Dead; Seyffarth and Uhlemann.

He placed the Loim (Levites) in the house of Jahoh with cymbals, with stringed-instruments and with citharas;

The Levites therefore stood with the instruments of Dold and the priests with the trumpets.

When therefore the Holocaust began, the song of Jahoh and of the trumpets began.

Thus all the Congregation adoring, and the singing was sounding, and the trumpets were clanging; all this until the Holocaust was ended!—2 Chron., xxix.
MUSAII, HIS MYSTERIES. 133

Some states keep the holy festival only once in the month, counting from the New moon as a day sacred to God; but the nation of the Jews keep every seventh day regularly after each interval of six days. —Philo, On the Ten Commandments, xx., Bohn.

In the beginnings of your months ye shall offer a burnt-offering to Jehovah.—Numb., xxviii. 11.

The Greek sabbath festivals were called Ebdome (seventh); the Hebrew were called Sabbata (seventh; seba=seven) or Sabath. Apollo (Phoib, Babus, Abib) is called Ebdomaios (Sabath). The Greeks kept holy the seventh day of every lunar month to Apollo!—Potter, I. 444; Ezek., xlv. 20.

The Seventh Day sacred to Apollo (Baal-Saturn, "die Saturno").—Hesiod, Works and Days, 716 ff.

Pentecost, a harvest feast (Exodus, xxiii. 16), fell about the time of the Roman Lemuria (May 9th). The Greeks had a feast of fruits in May.—Eschenburg, 699. The Jews differ about the exact day.—Hospinianus, I. 51, 52. It was the beginning of summer. The idea of the growing up of plants or fruits was connected with the idea of the Resurrection of the dead taught in the Mysteries.—Spirit-Hist., 213.

The Jews sacrificed flour and wine at the Passover (Pesach, Bezek), the emblems of Bacchus and Ceres. —Leviticus, xxiii., 13. The Delians, at the Feast Thesmophoria, baked large loaves (achainai) which they ushered in with great solemnity.—Potter, I. 463.

1 "Owing to the remoteness of some places from Jerusalem, the announcement of the New-moon did not regularly reach them at the right time. Hence arose a double celebration of the Feast-days, the "Second Feast-day of the exiled." So that the Feast of the Passover was celebrated eight days, the Pentecost Feast two days, the Feast of Tabernacles nine days."—Saalschütz, Das Mos. Recht, I. 403.
Rabbon Gamaliel said: "They never used in my father's house to bake large loaves on the festival, but thin cakes only."—Mishna, Treatise, Yom Tob, ii. 6. Jars of wine were carried from one place to another during the festival.—Yom Tob, iv. 1. The public wine!—Iliad, xvii, 250; iii. 246.

The twelve Hebrew Shewbreads would perhaps harmonize with the loaves of Ceres.—Aristoph. Frogs, Act. II. scenes, 4, 6. The name of the Hebrew seraphim (serpa, serpens) seems to come from Sarapis (Osiris) in the Mysteries; they are a kind of Cherub with basilisk-heads. Cherobim comes from Kharob, Kherub, Corubas, in the Cretan and Samothracian Mysteries.—Spirit-Hist., 85, 404; De Wette Bibl. Dogm., I. 83. Bread and wine were sacred in the Mysteries of Mithra.—Nork, Lex., II. 174.

My bread for my sacrifices by fire.—Numb, xxviii. 2. In the holy place pour a libation of wine (Sakar) to Iahor.—Numb, xxviii 7. Flour mixed with oil was offered.—Ibid., 5, 9, 12, 20, 28.

When the first cup has been poured out.—Mishna, Pesachim, x. 2. UNLEAVENED OAKES.—x. 5.

The priests could not entirely give up the symbols of the Bacchus-faith, because the SPIRIT (Bacchus, Iao) and MATTER (Venus) philosophy was the groundwork of their thought, and the belief of all the nation. Then they would not have got any oil; by retaining these symbols they saved their fees. We find offerings of oil in Leviticus; oil-cakes in the Bacchus and Ceres rites; and again, in Leviticus, "cakes of fine flour mingled with oil," or "unleavened wafers anointed with oil;" "fine flour and oil baked in a pan."—Levit., ii. 4. 7; vi. 20, 21. Exod., xxix. 23–33. Libations (drink-offerings) were poured, and the bread set before Jahoh.—Exodus, xl. 23.

Fruges Cererem, vinum Liberum dici mus.—Cicero, de Nat. Deor., III. 16. With meat and wine he questioned Ianus and Vesta!—Juvenal, vi. 385. They prayed and sprinkled the pounded barley.—Iliad, I. 457. He put the table in the tent of the meeting (assembly) . . . And he set the bread in order upon it before laron, as laron directed m s r (Masses, Mosah, Moses).—Exodus, xl. 22, 23; Hebrews, lx. 2; Levit., xxii. 21; xxiii. 14, 17.

The Greek seem to have changed the Oriental Mourning for Attis (Adonis) and the Search for him into the Search and Mourning of the "Mater dolorosa for Persephone," as Cubele seeks Attis, Aphrodite Adonis, Isis Osiris. Persephone eats the pomegranate (apple) of Aioneus (Adonis-Pluto) and becomes his spouse.—Preller, I. 471, 472. This shows how far the latest author of Genesis has deviated from the original story. The seed-month (in Boeotia) was called Damatrios. Some writers speak of the Laws of Demeter as well

But Phrygians to this day call the brilliant and wonderful works Man-aica, because Mänis, some one of the former kings (Euhemerism; Amanus, Aman, Manes, Mino, Manu, Menes), was a good and powerful Man among them; whom some call Laws (Nomimoi Biblioi or Thesmoi), and it was called Thesmophoria, Introducing the Law! It was a Feast of Sorrow and Joy, lasting five and perhaps seven days.—Gerhard, Griech. Mythol., I. 461; Creuzer, Symb., iv. 373, quotes John of Philadelphia in Lydus de Mensibus, 32, 88 ff.

When the Nile falls (Oct. 15th), the Egyptians perform various sad ceremonies and carry about in procession a gold Cow in a black cotton dress from the twenty-sixth to the twenty-ninth of October (Athur 17th–20th); for they consider the cow “the image of Isis,” and Earth.—Plutarch, de Iside, xxxix. As Jaroboam celebrated the Feast of Tabernacles the fifteenth of Marcheson (Markazana, October), we have perhaps another agreement of the Hebrew and Greek Feasts; for the Thesmophoria was held Pusanepsion 14th (Oct. 15th). Chi Azon! The Sun lives!!! The Nineteenth of Athur they go to the Sea (Oct. 28th) and shout Osiris is found!—Plutarch, de Iside, xxxix.; Movers, 205.

The ApaTouria was a festival to Jupiter and Bacchus Melanaigis (Black-goat). It was celebrated three (four) days in October, 15th–18th. The second day, victims were offered to Jupiter and Minerva. Torches were taken out of the fire and people ran about singing hymns to Vulcan. The third day two ewes and a she-goat were offered to Diana.—Potter, I. 428; Anthon, 66.

Purifications by Water, Fire, Torch-swinging, as of her Sacred Books or Rolls which the wives and virgins used to carry in procession to Eleusis, and also of old kings who had lived with Demeter Thesmophoros and first founded a temple to her, like Kadmus in Thebes.

Marcus Lombardus writes concerning the Jewish Feast of the Joy of the Law as follows: The Feast which they call Joy of the Law they celebrate on the twenty-third of October. On that night each one lights his own wax candles. They call the following day of the same month "Bind the Feast" (from Psalm cxviii. 27, 15); at which time they celebrate banquets. On this Feast they carry in procession the Books of the Law and dance around the Ark with the Books, and with great pomp shut them up again in the Ark.—Hospinianus, I. 56. The Boeotians called this month Damatrion (Demeter), as if you said the month of Ceres! The Egyptians called it Athur, the Athenians Puanepsion.—Ibid., 217. Corresponding with the Jewish Feast we find at Athens the Thesmophoria, in October, beginning Puanepsion 11th. Three days were taken up in preparations; the Feast proper lasted from Puanepsion 14th to the 17th inclusive. The 11th was called Anodos (Ascent); the 16th was kept as a fast!—Eschenburg, 494. HINDU HYMN CENTURIES BEFORE CHRIST.

In the Beginning there arose the Source of golden light—He was the Only born Lord of all that is. He established the earth and this sky (compare Gen., i. 1);—Who is the God to whom we shall offer our sacrifice?

He who gives life, He who gives strength; whose shadow is immortality; whose shadow is death;—Who is the God to whom we shall offer our sacrifice?

He who through His power is the only King of the breathing and awakening world;—He through whom the heaven was established—nay, the highest heaven—He who measured out the light in the air;—Who is the God to whom we shall offer our sacrifice?

He to whom heaven and earth, standing firm by his will, look up, trembling inwardly—He over whom the rising sun shines forth;—etc.

Wherever the mighty water-clouds went, where they placed the seed and lit the fire, thence arose He who is the only life of the bright gods;—Who is the God to whom we shall offer our sacrifice?

He who by His might looked even over the water-clouds, the clouds which gave strength and lit the sacrifice, He "who is God above all gods;"—Who is the God to whom we shall offer our sacrifice?

May He not destroy us—He the Creator of the earth; or He, the righteous, who created the heaven; He who also created the bright and mighty waters;—Who is the God to whom we shall offer our sacrifice?

The Phoenicians and the "Syrians of Palestine" (the Jews) acknowledge that they borrowed this custom (circumcision) from Egypt. Those Syrians who live near the rivers Thermidon and Parthenus, and their neighbors the Macrones, confess that they learned it, recently, from the Colchians. For these are the only men who use circumcision; and these appear to do it exactly like the Egyptians. But of the Egyptians themselves and Ethiopians I am not able to say which of the two learned it from the other: for verily it seems to be something ancient! But, that mixing with Egypt they learned it, this very thing is a great proof to my mind; those of the Phoenicians who mix with Greece no longer imitate Egyptians . . ., but do not circumcise their children.—Herodotus, Euterpe, civ. In later times it was confined to the Egyptian priests and scholars.—Kenrick, I. 377; Joshua, v. 9; Exodus, iv. 24. The originator of the Zodiac divided it into two equal parts, the limits of which were the points of the winter and summer solstices in the Ecliptic. It is on that account that the 12 Signs of the Zodiac were called the Houses of the Planets, and their Masters, the Planets, named Oikodespotai (Lords of the Houses). As then every Planet, except the Sun and the Moon, had two Houses each, the ancients, in order to distinguish the two Signs of the same Planet, made the one male, the other female; and thus it is clear why the 12 Oikodespotai, or the 12 Great Divinities of all the ancient nations, consist half of male, half of female deities.

The Planets, moving from west to east, were represented looking or walking in the direction of the Oikodespotai; while the retrograde Planets, i.e., those moving from east to west, were represented facing in the opposite direction of the other deities. — *Seyfarth, Trans. "Among the Egyptians Pan is the most ancient even of the "Eight" who are called "the first Gods." But Hercules is considered to belong to "the second," called the "Twelve."—Herodot., II. 145. The Kainite table (Genesis, iv. 16–18) only mentions "Eight" Patriarchs (the Eight Great Gods) while Gen. v. mentions "Twelve" Patriarchs (the Twelve Great Gods). The names of the Sethite table are transplanted into the Kainite table, in part, wholly, in part, somewhat altered.—Knobel's Genesis, 49. In order to show that the Twelve Gods are later than the Seven who became Eight (Lepsius Einl., 505; Kenrick, I. 307) the compiler of Genesis, after finishing with the Kainites, lets Adam know his wife again, and Seth appears at the end of chap. iv. to lead the Sethite table in chapter v: "Alohim has appointed another seed instead of Abel whom Kain slew."

Mathus-Ael, Methus-Allah or Methus-Elah was not as long-lived as the Divine Wisdom whom the Greeks called P-r-ome-theus, Hermes (Hermode, Hermodeus) and Minerva. Josephus follows the reading Thobel, which the Septuagint, Gen. iv. 22, adopts. Aeschylus represents the Devil, Typhon, or Tob (Tuphos) pressed down beneath the roots of Mount Atma, and the Fire-god Hephaistus-Vulcan, sitting on the topmost peaks, forges the molten masses.—Aeschylus, Prometheus, 251 ff. * Tobal, a land.—Isaiah, lxvi. 19.
him the longest-lived of the Patriarchs. With the name Metheus compare muth "spirit" and metis "mind." Mada "mind" (Seder Lashôn, p. 165), Amad (Sal, Sol, Usil, Dionysus), Muth (Pluto), meth(im) "the souls" or "manes," Math-Usal-os or Mathus-Al(ah), Pro-Metheus.—Spirit-Hist., 81, 25, 84, 94, 161. Mada "mind" (soul), by the rule (t changes to d, and th), becomes matha, metha (methim in the plural). Prometheus is the Divine Forethought, existing before the souls of men. The mere usage of the grammarians to make meth the participle derived from muth (death, to die) amounts to nothing; for the ancient grammarians were both fanciful and incorrect, while people derived one idea from another, without waiting to see whether the first idea was in the form of a verb a noun!

Prometheus (Before the soul) is the Author of the soul. Hermes, the Leader of the souls, Prometheus or Muth-Sol, steals fire (spirit, life) from heaven to bring men to life. A philosophical myth, in Plato, says that the gods formed man and other animals of clay and fire (Breath of life) within the earth. As the day for their emerging from the earth was at hand Prometheus stole the fire.

Lo, I bring my spirit (fire) upon you that you live!—Ezekiel, xxxvii. Adonis is the Creator of men and God of the Resurrection of the dead; and Prometheus is the Creator hominum, like Iahoh, Hermes, and El. Euhemerus held that the gods had been men. Euhemerism existed among the Hebrews (Wisdom of Solomon, xiv. 20) and Phoenicians.—Spirit-Hist., 381, 382, 388, 389. That Meth (Metheus) is the root of the word is obvious from Epi-metheus; pro and epi being Greek prepositions, as the Prometheus myth now stands. Genesis probably takes up the name at or near this stage, and puts El-Metheus among the Patriarchs.

For the Sethite Machal-aleel (Mahalaleel, Gen. v.) the Kainite table (Gen. iv.) has Machoial; but the Septuagint Gen. iv. 18 again reads Mal-elel. It is either Machael (Michael-Eliel) the Strength of God; or it is the Sun-god Amal, Mal (Jumala, Mol-ok, Melkarth). Compare the names Melo, Melius, Amil-kar. The Arab-Hebrews, having turned the gods into angels, added El as a termination to the names, signifying that they are the Powers or Angels of God.

—Spirit-Hist., 77, 78, 309.

Alam, Elam, was the Sun (Alam-melech, Moloch), the god Lamus (Lamas), Lamah (Lamach). We have the god El-Amak, El-Magos (Magos a god, in Sanchoniathon), the Patriarchal War-god Lamech, Gen., iv. 23. Compare the Warlike god or hero in Homer, Telemach (Tal-Amak), and the Athenian name Lamach, in Aristophanes: also Machomai "to fight;" Mich-ael the Warlike angel, and Mag, an Aion or sun-god of the Codex Nasaraeus.

Kainan is the Syrian god Kenau, Canaan, Kanoon. "Kanun, Lord of Splendor," is mentioned among the angels (gods and daimons).—Codex Nazaraeus, 1. 183.

Then on account of their virtue and the utility of the things they invented, astronomy and geometry, God gave them longer life; which things it was not possible for them to predict with certainty unless they lived six hundred years, for the great Year is made up of just so many (years). . . . Hesiod also and Hecataeus and Hellanicus and Acousilaus, and, besides these, Ephorus and Nicolaus, narrate in history that the Ancients lived a thousand years!—But concerning these, as each pleases, so let them think.
—Josephus, Ant., I. 4. Philo says Abraham was an Astronomer and addicted to Chaldean doctrines.—Philo, On Abraham, xvii.; Yonge.

"From Chaos direct and the first Origin of the Universe he must know all things down to those relating to the Egyptian Kleopatra; for by this interval let the much learning of the mimic dancer be bounded (defined) by us, and the subjects that lie between let him know especially: the mutilation of Saturn (Adonis), the generations of Venus, the contest of the Giants (Titans), etc."—Lucian, II. 319, de Saltatione. "Hesiod and the Cyclic poets resounding round about with Theogonies and Gigantomachies (Gen. vi. 4) etc. of their own, being borne about with which they completely conquered the truth."—Sanchoniathon, Orelli, p. 40.

Ancient nobility (of birth) is equal to a prodigy; Therefore I would prefer to be the Giants' little brother.—Juvenal, iv. 97, 98.
If lofty names delight you, put the whole Titan Battle, and Prometheus himself among your ancestors.—Juvenal, viii. 131 ff; Genesis, vi. 4.

For many angels of God having united themselves to women begat ungovernable children, contemners of all that is right on account of their confidence in their strength. Even these are reported (traditionally) to have done things like those which the Greeks say the Giants ventured to attempt.—Josephus, Ant., I. 4.

In the Beginning also, when the proud Giants perished, the hope (Nah) of the world, governed by thy hand, escaping on a boat, . . . .—Wisdom of Solomon, xiv. 6.
But when Zeus (Jupiter Pluvius, the Rain-god, Nab) drove out the Titans from heaven,
The Titans dwell beyond gloomy Chaos!—Hesiod, Theog., 820, 814; 638, 682 ff.

The Titans and Tiphæus are Lucifer (the Devil) and his angels who fell.—Hesiod, by Banks, pp. 41, 42. Cain-Satan is “Saturn who hated his Father Adam-Ouranos” (God of Heaven).—Hesiod, Theog., 138; Spirit-Hist., 307; Nehemiah, i. 4.

The Kabiri are “Sons of Elohim” like the Gabarim (the Gibborim). They are the seven sons of Saduk called Dioscuri, Samothraces and Kabiri.—Movers, 528; Sanchon., 22, 25. Therefore Genesis says that the Kabiri¹ were once men of renown.—Gen., vi. 4. This is the doctrine of Euhemerus. They are the Anakês of the Greeks, the Anakim (Giants) of the Hebrews.—Orelli, Sanchon., 24. It is evident that Iakob,² like the Phoenician Sydyk, was, in the Mysteries of Samothrace, the Father of the Seven Kabiri. —Orelli, Sanchon., 39. Kronos (Saturn, Sun) had seven sons.—Orelli, 30. The Kabiri are the “Wanderers” (the Seven Wandering Planets, according to Wagner). They are perhaps the Watchers, since they describe events. The Zophasemin, the Watchers (katoptai) of heaven, were egg-shaped. They were according to Cumberland the Wandering Stars (Angels and Planets.)—Sanchoniathon, Orelli, p. 10. Philo Judaeus wittily remarks that “men attributed to the heavenly bodies their own propensity to wander,” calling them Planets, “Wanderers,” from planao, to wander.—Philo, On the Ten Commandments, xxiv.

² The Bacchus Argobonos, whom the Titans tore into Seven Pieces.—Problemer, I. 442; Spirit-Hist., 243.
This shows that the Phoenician Philo of Byblus was correct in his assertion of Sanchoniathon's genuineess; for the Jewish Philo is here evidently familiar with the material of Sanchoniathon's story. In Sanchoniathon, the children of Agar (Agros) (Adonis, Kuros, Jacob or Isaac) and Agrouer or Agröt (Esau or Ishmael) are called "the WANDERERS and Titans" and are declared to be "husbandmen, fishermen and hunters."—Orelli, 22, 38.

Saturn (as Heaven's God) conquers the Giants.—Preller, I. 36; Anthon, Class. Dict., p. 1348. The Titans are demoniacal Powers.—Preller, I. 50. Saturn is also the Devil.—Hesiod, Theog., 138. But all the earth was one lip and the same words!
And it happened when they were going out from the East they found a plain in the land Sanaar (Senaar) and they settled there.
Then they said, Come, let us build us a city and a Tower whose head (is) in heaven!—Gen., xi. 1, 2, 4.
And the place in which they built the Tower is now called Babulon on account of the confounding of what was at first a plain dialect! For the Hebrews call "mingling" babel. But concerning this Tower, and the confusion of tongues of the men, the Sibyl makes mention, saying thus: When all the men spoke one language some built a very lofty Tower as if about to ascend to heaven by means of it. And the gods, having sent winds against it, overturned the Tower and gave to each one his own peculiar language. And on this account it happened that the city was called Babulon. But concerning the place called Senaar, in the country Babylonia, Hesicles makes mention, saying as follows: "Those of the priests who were saved (after the Flood), having taken the sacred utensils of Enwali Deus, came unto Senaar of Babylonia."

—Josephus, Ant., I. 5.

Bacchus is superior to Enualios; for your
An (Fire-god, Mars) he (Jupiter) only sowed (begat), and did not bring forth from his thigh.—Nonnus, Dionysiac, ix. 222.

Enualios is evidently a Moon-god and Water-god like Bacchus (Enuo, Noah, Nuah); and this is why Nonnus is led to compare them, which would otherwise be superfluous and without point. Hestiaeus says: Of the priests those that were preserved (after the Flood) taking the sacred vessels of Enuelios Deus, came to Sennaar (Shinar) of Babylonia.—Josephus, Ant., I. 5. This is El Anu, or El Nuah, the Rain-god.

When the Devil (Typhon) is represented in Egypt as tearing into fourteen pieces the Good Principle (Osiris) near (the time of) the Full-moon, it is evident that this is akin to the idea in Nonnus:

But Enuo (Ino, Luna) was equally balanced;
Common to both Deus and Typhon.

—Nonnus, ii. 475; Spirit-Hist., 172.

Sometimes the Devil is associated with the moon's water; as in the Flood, which is Typhon.—Nonnus, ii. 439; Seyffarth's Chronology, 118; Spirit-Hist., 168. The Devil was in the water, just as, in a Typhon, the Devil is in the wind. Herodotus says swine were sacrificed only on the Full-moon; and to the Moon and Bacchus!—Herodot., II. 47.

Saturn's three Sons are Kronos, Zeus-Bél and Apollo (Chomaeus, Chom). The Sibyl mentions Kronos, Titan and Iapet. The Bible gives Shem, Cham or Ham and Iaphet. Vulcan, Iapet and Prometheus are mentioned by Nonnus.—Spirit-Hist., 283, 280, 235.

Abram's Father Terah gives his name to Terra. His Wife is Keturah; which resembles the name Kuthereaia (Venus). There would be nothing strange in Bromius having 'Kidaria² (Demeter) for a wife.

But that Assuria (Assyria) was called from Sourceim; but from the two, Aphra and Iaphros, the city Aphra and the country Africa were named.”—Josephus, Ant., I. 16.

The Father Abram exceedingly loved Isak, being his Only-begotten!

And both the Titanian contests (Titanika) and perfect night are suited to the so called dismemberments of Osiris and his returns to life and rebirths; and the same also is the case with the narrations about the burials of him. For both the Egyptians point out tombs of Osiris in many places, and Delphians think the remains of Bacchus lie among them near the oracle; and the Holy sacrifice a mysterious sacrifice in the temple of the Apollo, when the Thyades arouse the God of the Fan (Lichnites).—Plutarch, de Iside, xxxv.; Banks, Callimachus, p. 180, note 4.

In the neighborhood of Thebes, Bacchus, named Aigobolos, had a temple.—Gerhard, Grieich. Mythol., I. 478. This only proves what was before advanced, that Iacob and Cubele would go well together. Vide the amusing operation described in Genesis xxx., by which Iacob gets the advantage of Libanus-Adonis or Laban. The Hebrews seem to have turned him at some time into the Angel Akibeel. Aigobol (Gebal) and Cubele suit with Bublos, which holy city of Adonis was also called Gebal (Akabal). Gabal was the Sun-god.—Creuzer, Symbolik, I. 259. Iacob or Jacob seems to have been mourned as the Only-begotten in the Sacred Rites of Palaestinus and

When the people of Ascalon refused to pay taxes, Joseph seized upon about twenty of the principal inhabitants, and slew them and gathered what they had.—Josephus, Ant., xii. Joseph's son Hyrcanus was greatly envied by his brethren. Joseph loved him as if he were his only genuine son, while his brethren were much troubled at it. Hyrcanus was sent into Egypt and his brethren sought to destroy him. He was the youngest son. He lived, finally, in caves in Arabia.—Whiston's Josephus, by Burder, II. 322, 323, 325-328. Joseph went to Egypt with a caravan (about 225 B. C.) in which several rich Coele-Syrians and Phœnicians were travelling to Alexandria to obtain the farming of the revenues. From their conversation he learned the amount of these revenues, and, in consequence of this information, he afterwards offered a much larger sum than they for the privilege of farming. He so insinuated himself into the royal favor, that when he took the revenues to farm he had the boldness to offer the king and queen as his sureties, and he was intrusted with the business without bondsmen. In this manner Joseph became the farmer of the revenues of Judaea, Samaria, Phœnicia and

This date, 225 before Christ, suits with other circumstances such as the monotheism or Mosaicism of some of Cicero’s and Virgil’s remarks, so that one might perhaps infer that the Old Testament, or rather Genesis, in its present form, is later than 225 B.C. The Talmud often quotes passages of the Bible which can no longer be found.—Ehrmann, 31; Berachoth, 10; 76; Baba Bathra, 123. The date of the Septuagint translation of the five books of Moses, about one hundred and fifty years before Christ under Ptolemy Philometor (Grätz, Geschichte der Juden, III. pp. 41 ff, 477 ff), allowed the priests to interpolate them up to this time. The Samaritans recognized only the Five Books of Moses and the Book of Joshua, which leads Dr. Jost to the inference that at the time of the Separation of the two nations, this was all that the Jewish copies contained.—Jost, I. 51. "The collection of the Old Testament writings, as we now possess them, appears to have been concluded about 150 years* before Christ. The Jews now sought out the books which had been scattered in war, and brought them into one collection."—Ghillany, Menschenopfer der Hebräer, p. 1; 2 Maccabees, ii. 13, 14. Just so Judas brought together all the books that had been lost owing to the war, and they are in our possession.—2 Macc., ii. 14. The Old Testament quotes the Book of the Wars of Jahoh (Numb., xxv. 14), the Book of the Isar (Joshua, x. 13), the Book of Samuel the Seer, the Book of Nathan the Prophet (2 Chron., ix. 29; 1 Chron., xix. 29), the Book of the Acts of Salamah (1 Kings, xi. 41), the Story of the Prophet Ado (2 Chron., xiii. 22), the Book of Chronicles of the Kings of Israel and the Book of
The Jewish Sacred Books were destroyed by Antiochus Epiphanes.—
Josephus, Ant. xii.

Jerusalem suffered severely in 168 B.C.; its walls were overthrown, its buildings burned, the temple plundered and any Sacred Book or Law found was destroyed.—Burder’s Josephus, II. 331, 332, 335. Its power began to increase about 165 before Christ.—Ibid., II. 345. But the Jews did not yet possess even Samaria.—Ibid., II. 338, 313.

While the Assyrians and after them the Medes and Persians were masters of the Oriental world, the Jews of all the nations then held in subjection were deemed the most despised. In process of time when the Macedonians were by degrees enfeebled, when the Parthian state was in its infancy and the Romans were yet at a distance, the Jews seized the opportunity to erect a monarchy of their own.—Tacitus, v. 8.

In the year 277 before Christ, Antiochus the Great decreed that the work about the Temple (of the Jews) should be finished, and the cloisters; that the Serives of the Temple and Sacred Singers should pay no taxes; and, in order that the city may the sooner recover its inhabitants, a discharge from taxes for three years. He orders the removal of 2,000 Jewish families out of Mesopotamia and Babylon with their effects, into the neighboring castles and places of Judea. Antiochus declares that his predecessors had borne testimony to the faithfulness of the Jews, and recommends his general to take care of that nation as far as he could.—Burder’s Josephus, II. 316. In the year 226 B.C., the Samaritans, being in a flourishing condition, distressed the Jews, cutting off part of their land and carrying off slaves.—Ibid., II. 317. By a decree of Demetrius in the year 150 B.C., in the time of Ptolemy Philometor, they acquired power over the three toparchies (Samaria, Galilee, and Perea), and the Highpriest had power to take care that no one Jew should have any other temple for worship except that at Jerusalem.—Ibid., II. 371, 385, 386. King Demetrius allowed them to build the walls of the city and to repair and rebuild the Temple; also to erect high towers.—Ibid., II. 371, 377. The temple of Dagon still (B.C. 148) existed at Asdod, but was now burned by the Jewish Highpriest Jonathan.—Ibid., II. 380. The Jews utterly destroyed Pella (B.C. 84) because its inhabitants would not change their religious rites for those of the Jews.—Josephus, xiii. 15. The temple of Astarte (Venus) was at Bethan; in the Jew-country.—Burder’s Josephus, I. 431. Izabel, the daughter of the Pharaoh, king Tahelah, and wife of Selaunah, built a temple at ment at this time, had an eye to dominion over all Galilee and a large part of Phoenicia and Coele-Syria.—Compare Burder's Josephus, II. 236. They appear to have passed from the cununisticus of the Adonis-worship in the Syran and Osirian Mysteries to the "Circumcision (a milder rite) of Adoni" according to the Reformed Judaico-Phoenician religious system. Accordingly Joshua, by Eusebius, turns the sun-god ARAB (ARABAH) into the "Great Man" ARABA.—Josh. xiv. 15. The name of Shechem before was Kiriath-Arbo (city of Turbo), who was a "Great Man" among the Anakim.—Josh. xiv. 15. "Turbo whom the Aborivi (Born out of time; the Jews) call Adoni."—Codex Nasar., III. 73. The Hebrews passing out of Egypt adored Turbo, Ruach and Alhu (Alaha).—Codex Nasar., III. 75.

The Hyskos (Ukssos, Ascasos) were the Arab-Hebrew worshippers of "Kozz" or "Krzaah" ("Zeus Aesasos" "Mount Casius in Arabia"), and, "out of fear of the Assyrians (Assyrians), who at that time had greater power, fortified the Egyptian border."—Chwolson, I. 328; Josephus, e. Apion, I.; Spirit-Hist. 280. Coming back from the Red Sea they dwelt in Iebus (Jerusalem). "The Iebnisi (Jebusites), inhabitants of Jerusalem (Jerusalem), the sons of Iubnash (Iubbah) could not expel; and the Iebnisi dwelt with the Beni Iubnash in Jerusalem unto this day."—Joshua, xv. 63. The arrival of the Hyskos (Arabs, Hebrews) in Iebus is after the march of the Assyrian armies to the West (800—700 B.C.).—See Spirit-Hist. of Man, 265. Josephus says "Our ancestors carried an army into Egypt, but, being expelled soon after, they settled in Judea and built a city by the name of Jerusalem and erected a temple."—Josephus, e. Apion, I. The Hebrew and Egyptian history had undoubtedly been perverted for the purpose of giving the appearance of greater antiquity to those nations.—Spirit-Hist., 261, 270, 278. One thing is clear. The Hyskos-Hebrews entered Iebus (Jerusalem) having fear of the Assyrians at a time when the Assyrians were masters of Asia; for Josephus uses these words.

—Josephus, e. Apion, I.

Certain significant statements of Manetho and Josephus respecting the Assyrians would thus be reconciled with the general history of the Hebrews, allowing the accounts of Daud's and Salamah's reigns and the Judges to be mythical in the extreme. But Lysimachus stated that the invasion of these Arabs (Hyskos) took place when Bocchoris was king of Egypt.—Josephus, e. Apion, I. 24. Bocharis, the first king of Manetho's XXIVth Dynasty, reigned 755 before Christ.—Scyphurth's Chronology, 218. And this period considerably antedates the Assyrian Salamassar's invasion of Samaria, in 720, and the Assyrian Salamah's conquest of the city Jerusalem about 700 before Christ. So that it is very probable that Jerusalem (Arasala) or Iebus was entered by the Arab-Hyskos (Hebrews) about 750 before Christ.

1 Cities and countries bore deity-names.—Joshua, xv. 32 with note of Rev. Julius Bate; Rev. Land. Soc., xii. 425; Burder's Josephus, II. p. 403; Josephus, xii. 15. These cities bore the sun's name, Bolah (Apollo), Azar-Saule, Hermah (Hermes), Rimon, Saco Osatosh (Osago), Anabah, Sainak, Osan, Sabah, Semir, Duna, Abu, Dnumah, Assas, Ida, Iles (Iamus), Apazur, Arbo, Musn Carmel, Israel (Israel), Zor, Iddom (Achad), Zadun (Sandoch), Akin (Iakin), Anabah (Hamebusan), the name of Neba (Naba) and Assan.—Joshua, xiv. 32. We refer Julius Bate and Schmid.

In the mas (shrine) Musah places a Table resembling the Delphic (Tables). And it had feet answering to those which Dorus put to the couches.—Josephus, Ant., III. 7.

No proof can be adduced of the existence of these books (of Musas) among the remnant of the ten tribes previous to the time of Memashah, in the fourth century before Christ. —Von Bollhen, Litt. to Gesenius, I. 293.

It was the custom of the Parthians in the year 56 before Christ to carry with them all the idols that they worship.—Burder's Josephus, III. 194. This date is significant! For if Genesis was written as late as 150—125 before Christ, a late custom is charged upon Rachel and Leah.

The Passover is in fact no other than the great Spring festival of the ancient world, known under the names of Hel, Narus, Hilular, Diabatm. "Passing through" (Philoh, III. 885, and Pasch (the Sun's Passage), Pascha (Pasch, or Pasah "he passed through").—Von Bollhen, II. 225: Robertson's Heb. Dict. p. 270; by Nahuah Joseph. In its celebration the Jews and Chronicles of the Kings of Judah; showing a Hebrew Literature previous to its own compilation. The agreement of Plato, Psalms and Proverbs in the use of the Wisdom as Logos, and the coincidence of Herodotus, ii. 145 with Genesis, v., is a clue to some parts of the Scriptures.

Kabbalist passages were very early interpolated into Genesis, and the Hebrew Text was altered by the Rabbins later than the time of the Septuagint translation. Compare the Hebrew Psalm xix., 4, with the same in the Septuagint and Vulgate.—Spirit-Hist., 144.

Know that the Scintilla (vital spark or point) of Abraham, our Father, was taken from Michael, and the Scintilla of Ischak (Ishak) from Gabriel, and of Jacob from Uriel. These are of the substance of the soul of Adam primus, under (subject to) the mystery of the repetition (Revolutionis) of his parts, to wit, of the right side and of the left side, and of the middle, to dissever the impurity which it (Adam's soul) received from Samael and the Serpent his companion. Kabbala Denudata, II. 303. Seir (the Microprosopus) is Adam primus. And Hebel (Abel, Bel) is the form of the Seir ab intra (from within). Seir was previously Hebel; and Chanoch (Hanoeh, Enoch) was Adam primus; and he is called Spiritus decisorius, which is that form ab intra (from within); and the change (vicissitudo) of the Spiritus decisorius is Noah. And the permutation (changing) of Israel is Mosah. Mosah was Hebel and Seth.—Ibid., II. 305. This shows that all the Patriarchs were forms of the Hebrew God or gods.

Aharôn, Aarôn is the name of the Arôn (ark) of the god Musês or Mosah. The ark of the Hebrews is called H-ARÓN.—Exodus, xxv. 21. From an examination of the profane accounts no one would suppose that the names Muses or Aharon had originally been connected with the Exodus. H-aron means "the Urn," or ark.

"Sarapis is the name of Him who orders the universe" (Saturn); also he is Pluto, Bacchus, and Osiris.—Plutarch, de Iside, xxix., xxviii. Saturn's name in Egypt was Sev. If Saturn is Sarapis and Joseph is Sarapis, then JOSEPH is Sev.¹ The Talmud calls Joseph SARAPIS.—Talmud, Treatise Avodasara, p. 43; Transl. Dr. Cruse.

IOSAB (Asab, Sabos, Sabi, Asaf) ... His first-born BULL (Apis), honor belongs to him.—Deut., xxxiii. 18, 17. Iosef is a name of Osiris (-Serapis). Both were youngest sons of Saturn (Keb)²; and Osiris and Sabos were names of Dionysus.

Moses took the BONES of JOSEPH with him (arrbeta, arcana).

And they took their journey from SUCCOTH, and encamped in ATAM (city of the Sun), on the edge of the wilderness.—Exod., xiii. 19, 20. Iosef is the Arab god Asaf and Osiris. "In Tyrus the ashes of the God, with the burned bones, were preserved, (The sepulchre of Hercules³ is shown at Tyre, where "Two pairs of sponges, Pater and Mater, also Microprosopus the man-woman."—Kabbala Derud., II. 370. For the proper conception (idea) of Microprosopus is under the name of Iaocob (Ieud, the Only-begotten Son), whose wife is Rachel.—Ibid., II. 555. Archel (Harakles) and Rachel are the man-woman (Adonis), the Microprosopus who is the Son of the Father. Rachel, Hercules and Iacob-Isaral were mourned as the Only-begotten, Adonis, etc. They all descend to Hades!—Gen., xxxv. 19; L. 19; see above p. 81, 96, 92. fire was burned.—Clem. recognit., X. 24), and from this we can infer with grounds, that they were in a box on the holy ship which accompanied the Phœnician fleet, like the Israelite ark of the covenant in dangerous wars; but was usually set up in the temple (Arrian, Expedit. Al., II. 24). This myth belongs to popular superstition; but it can be supposed with probability that the arrheta were bones of children formerly sacrificed in the holy Fire for magic purposes. If the remains of offered children were collected in this box then it is clear how out of the tightly-closed space the pestilence really could break forth when a Roman Soldier opened the receptacle in the temple of Baal-Chomaeus. Ammian seems really to refer to this: Milites fanum scrutantes invenere foramen angustum; quo reserato, ut pretiosum aliquid invenirent, ex adito quodam concluso a Chaldaeorum arcanis labes primordialis exsilivit, qua insanabilium vi concepta morborum eiusdem Veri et Marci Antonini temporibus ab ipsis Persarum finibus ad usque Rhenum et Gallias cuncta contagiis polluebat et mortibus.—Movers, 357.

Moses is Thoth, the DIVINE WISDOM ehumerized, the SOLAR INTELLIGENCE, “the Author of the Laws.”—Spirit-Hist., 74, 260, 224, 257.

Josephus uses the name AMos for Amon.—Burder’s Whiston’s Josephus, II. p. 180. Mosah is evidently Amon, the God of Wisdom, the Egypto-Phoenician Thoth-Amon-Horamon-Hermaôn-Hermes. The LAWS of Minos, Menu, Moses.

According to Diodorus, I. 16, Hermes was the Sacred Scribe of Osiris, and, having invented language, music, letters, the gymnastic art and astronomy, accompanied his Master in his progress over the world and communicated these inventions wherever he came. Thoth (Hermes) appears to have been especially the Symbol of the knowledge possessed by the sacerdotal caste in Egypt, which was comprised in order what pertained to the worship of God, out of the ignorance of the herd into scientific practical skill; to whom, after very many generations, a god Saurmoubal and Thouro, She who was afterwards named Chrousartha, succeeding, brought to light Taaut's theology which had been concealed and covered up with allegories.—Porphyry; Eusebius, I. x.; Orelli, Sanch., 42. "Iamblichus says; Verily this way, which leads to God, Mercury has taught and written; but the prophet Puthis (priest of Phut) has accordingly explained and translated the same for the king Amnon, which he had found in the sanctuary, written with hieroglyphic letters in the Egyptian city named Sain (San, Sun).—Patricius, Vorrede, § 83. Lactantium (Book I.) says: Hermes, although a man, yet the oldest and most experienced in all learning, so that the knowledge of many subjects and arts has given him the name Trismegistus. He has written Books, and very many to be sure, which belong to the knowledge of divine things, in which he confesses the majesty of the great and Only God, and calls Him, by such name as we, God and Father.—Borr. Hermet. Aegypt. Sapient., 4. Lactantium (Book, iv.) says: I doubt not that Trismegistus reached the truth, who has written much about God the Father as well as about the Son, which is contained in the holy Mysteries.—Ibid., 4, 18."—Scheible, 57. The rod of Mercury was entwined with serpents; but that of Mus (Jamus, Iama) becomes itself a serpent in the sight of Pharah. Mashi, Justice, is the Goddess of Masses or Muses the Lawgiver. Moso, a Hebrew Woman, was authoress of the Hebrew Laws.—Suidas.

During the Babylonian Captivity the Hebrews had forty-two Books of Hermes and included, besides sacred literature proper, astronomy and geometry.—Kenrick, I. 358, 359. Mazeus, Mosah, is the God of the priestly wisdom.

The origin and preservation of the Sacred Literature, among the Phœnicians (Hebrews) as well as among the Babylonians, were enveloped in many myths.—Movers, 101.

"Hermes, the God who presides over language, was formerly very properly considered as common to all priests; and the power who presides over 'the true science concerning the gods' is one and the same in all (universis). Hence our ancestors dedicated to Him the inventions of their wisdom, inscribing all their own commentaries with the name of Hermes.” Iamblichus, de Mysteriis, I. 1. Hermes drew up Commentaries from Noa (Nuh), the Father of all the Chamephi.—Scheible, 26; Patric. Vorrede über Herm., §§ 36, 37. Hermes was regarded as a veritable man. —Scheible, 27. Canaan is Hermes, Iannes (Janus) and Mercury.—Ibid., 24, 25; Borr. de Ort. et Prog. Chem., 53–55. The Egyptian priests named Mosah Hermes, on account of his interpretation (Auslegung) of the holy writings.—Scheible, 30; Borrichius, 45; Artabanus in Eusebius, praep. Ev. 9.

When we consider the Wisdom of Moses and that it was a Revelation to men (like the laws of Thoth in Egypt), it is obvious that it is the teachings of Hermes (the Divine WISDOM) to the priests which we reverence in the Mosaic Law. Hermes was Inventor of Music, like Mus-aeus, Moses.—Borr. Hermet. Aegypt. Sapient. 8; Scheible, 32.

Taaut, whom the Egyptians surname Thoth, surpassing in wisdom all the Phœnicians, first set in forgotten their mother tongue, and the Writing had to be explained to them in Aramean. Yet the Holy Writing still sustained itself among the little prophets who appeared at that time; but it sunk in the schools which, after these, were founded by the Tannaim, the authors of the Mishna. Gradually the Aramean also was spoiled by admixture with the Hebrew, and out of this mingling (to which were added elements, although few, of the language of the Romans, who were the masters, of the Greeks, who were the neighbors, of Palestine) proceeded the so called Jerusalem Dialect, the language of the Talmud and Sohar.¹ After the completion of the Talmud, towards the 6th century, this dialect also disappeared and Jewish writers used sometimes Arabic, sometimes a Hebrew which was more or less pure.—Franck, 74, 75.

The author of the second Apocryphal Book of Esdras says that Ezra restored the whole body of the scriptures, which had been entirely lost.—Horne’s Introduction, II. 290; 2 Esdras, xiv. 21, 22 ff, 42, 44–46.

And when thou hast done, some things thou shalt publish, and some things thou shalt show secretly to the wise!

In forty days they wrote two hundred and four Books.

But keep the seventy last, that thou mayest deliver them only to such as be wise among the people.—2 Esdras, xiv. 26, 44, 46.

Here we have the esoteric (Mysteri es) doctrines and exoteric doctrines of the priesthood. The 2nd Book of Esdras is prior to the Christian era.—Horne,

When the Jewish Highpriest Eleazar sent the Law into Egypt to Ptolemy, in order that the Septuagint Version might be made, he asks him when he has done with it to "send it safely back to him."—Josephus, Ant. xii. We must infer from this request that if it was not the only copy he had, at least it was kept carefully and exclusively in the hands of the priests. —Nehemiah, viii. 8; Ezra, vii. 10, 12, 21, 23; 2 Esdras, xiv.

But as the highpriest was bringing out the gold, he found the holy books of Mouses that were laid up in the Temple.—Josephus, Ant., Book, x. chap. 4. The Sacred Books or at any rate those of the Law were entirely in the hands of the priests. This accounts for the sacerdotal bias which is found in them. Genesis would, in its present shape, not seem to be older than 200-150 before Christ; after Herodotus, and later than the Osiris-myths. It is not impossible that the Old Testament was finally brought into something like its present shape about one hundred and fifty years before Christ, in the time when the Highpriests were the ethnarchs.—Compare Burder's Josephus, II. pp. 395, 396, 390, 338, etc. A time nearer to Plato would suit all the circumstances of the case much better. Although it may be presumed that the Sacred Books being in the possession of the priests were at all times exposed to interpolations. But the Targums, the Midrashim, the Talmudic originals, all tend to throw the compilation of the Old Testament, in its present form, further back towards the time of Plato (?). Plato and his school are for us the indication of the commencement a period of the highest civilization (among the learned) which lasts to the Christian Era; the Old Testament was compiled and rewritten during this period, and the New Testament appears at the close of it when the excitement of thought gave birth to many Syrian and other Oriental sects.

The I AM of Exodus (Ahiah) and the θεόν ὁ θεόν, ἀληθὴς ὁ λόγος " the eternal, unborn " of Plato’s Timaeus, 27, are on the same plateau of philosophy and belong to the same scale of civilization. "Zan (Zeus-Deus) the Maker, who made this universe."—Plato, Euthyphron. "The Architect framed this universe."—Plato, Timaeus, 29.

The Kabbalist philosophers in their Mysticism expounded the Holy Writ without regard to the literal meaning of the Sacred Text: "Woe to the man who says that the Doctrine delivers common stories and daily words! For if this were so, then we also in our time could compose a Doctrine in daily words which would deserve far more praise. If it delivered usual words then we should only have to follow the lawgivers of the earth, among whom we find far loftier words, to be able to compose a Doctrine. Therefore we must believe that every word of the Doctrine contains in it a loftier sense and a higher Mystery. The narratives of the Doctrine are its cloak. Woe to him who takes the covering for the Doctrine itself. The simple look only at the garment, that is, upon the narratives of the Doctrine; more they know not. The instructed (initiated) however see not merely the cloak, but what the cloak covers."—The Sohar, III. 152; Franck, 119. "Through this assumption of a hidden meaning which to the profane remained unknown the Kabbalists have taken no notice of the historical events and the positive laws which make up the Holy Writ.” “Every word hides in itself a lofty meaning; every narrative contains more than the event which it seems to recite. This holy and lofty Doctrine is the true Doctrine.”—Sohar, III. One of the Fathers of the Church has the same opinion and nearly the same words: “If we hold to the letters and must understand what stands written in the Law after the manner of the Jews and common people, then I should blush to confess aloud that it is God who has given these laws: then the laws of men appear more excellent and reasonable.”—Origen, Homil., 7, in Levit. “What man of sense will agree with the statement that the first, second and third days, in which the evening is named and the morning, were without Sun, Moon and Stars, and the first day without a heaven? What man is found such an idiot as to suppose that God planted trees in Paradise, in Eden, like a husbandman, etc.? I believe that every man must hold these things for images under which a hidden sense lies concealed.”—Origen; Huet., Orig- geniana, 167; Franck, 121.

They built High Places of Baal, to burn their own sons in the fire as a holocaust to Bol.—Jeremiah, xix. 5; Leviticus, xx. 2, 4; Micah, vi. 7.

The Old Testament in many places speaks of the Hebrew sacrifice of children to Moloch, much as the Mexican priests offered babies to Tlaloc the Rain-god. In the year 169 before Christ, Antiochus Epi-phanes found in the Jewish temple a man kept to be offered up.—Apion, Joseph., contr. Apion, II. 8; Ghillany, 545, 546, 547, 549; II. Moses, xiii. 12; Ezekiel, xx. 25; III. Moses, xx. 1; V. xii. 31; xviii. 10; Ghillany, pp. 231, 233. Ghillany intimates that Josephus might well be ignorant of it, for it happened long before his time.—Spirit-Hist., 107, 109, 207. At a very early period of Grecian history Bacchic festivals were solemnized with human sacrifices, and traces of this custom are discernible until very late. In Chios this custom was superseded by another, according to which the Bacchae ate the raw pieces of the flesh of the victim!—Anthon, 365. This was the Ox of Dionysus.

SAOL sent messengers to take David. But they saw the band of the prophets prophesying, and SAOEL was standing praefect over them; and there came upon the messengers of SAOEL the SPIRIT of ALAHIM so that even they prophesied.

Therefore SAOEL went thither, to Naioth in Ramah; but there came upon him also the SPIRIT of ALAHIM, so that he went along, and prophesied even until he came to Naioth in Ramah, Where himself also stripped off his clothes and prophesied also himself in the presence of SAOEL and fell down naked all that day and the whole night; therefore they say: Is SAOEL too among the PROPHETS?

In these days PROPHETS came down to Antioch from Jerusalem; and one of them having stood up, Achabos by name, through the PNEUMA (SPIRIT) made known that a famine was about to be upon all the world: which also happened in the reign of Claudins.—Acts, xi. 27, 28. Philip's four daughters prophesied.—Acts, xxi. 9.

There are many oracles among the Greeks, but many also among the Egyptians. But also some in Libya; and in this Asia there are many others which are uttered not without the intervention of holy PROPHETS. But this (prophet) is himself disturbed and he himself performs the act of prophecy to its end. Whenever he wishes to deliver an oracle first he is agitated on the seat (tripod?). And the priests immediately lift him up. But if they do not, he sweats and is agitated even to his middle.

But when stooping under they bring him, he sweeps them along, whirling round in every way and leaping from one to another. Finally the High priest accosting asks him questions about all matters. If he consents, he sweeps to the front those who bring him, as if he were driving! Thus they collect the oracles of God ('God's sayings'), and they perform no religious or private act without this. And he tells about the year and all its times, and when they will not be. And he also speaks about the Equinoctial-point (the Statue), when it ought to be absent on its travels. And I will tell also another thing which he did in my presence. The priests lifting brought him, but he left them down on the ground while he himself was borne alone in the air!—Lucian, iv. 280, 281, ed. Lipsiae; Acts, ii. 17.

xviii. 5; Mark, i. 12; Luke, i. 67. There were prophets on both sides of Mount Lebanon, as well as in Greece and all the countries of the East. Jugglery undoubtedly lent its aid to the priests who sought to strike the fancy of the ignorant and the superstitious. The ancient jugglers were very skilful.—Bekker's Charicles, 86, 87, 153, 154; Josephus, Ant., II. 5 (xiii). It is said that the trick of turning a walking stick into a snake is still practised in Egypt, as in Exodus, vii. 11. The words "Pharaoh hardened his heart" only mean that he understood what the priests were doing and would not submit to ecclesiastical dictation.—Burder's Josephus, vol. I., p. 130.

The prophets prophesy falsely and the priests bear rule by their means.—Jeremiah, v. 31; vi. 13.

Then said Jehovah unto me, the prophets prophesy lies in my name.—Jeremiah, xiv. 14.

Among the Byblians, at the temple of the Lebanon Venus, verily the statues sweat and are agitated and utter oracles; and often there was a cry in the naos, when the temple was locked up, and many came!—Lucian, iv. 264.

"If any one of these (priests of Byblus) should behold a corpse, that day he stays away from the temple; but the next day but one he goes, after having purified himself. And among them all the relatives of the corpse (are unclean and) shun (the temple); after thirty days, and having shaved their heads, they enter. Before doing this it is unholy for them to go in."—Lucian, iv. 285, 286, de Dea Syria.

"And swine alone they esteem unclean; they neither sacrifice them, nor eat them! Other nations consider them not unclean but sacred. And they sacrifice oxen and ewes and goats and sheep. And of birds

Therefore the Egyptian priests wore linen but no wool. “Woollen clothes are not worn into the temples, nor are they buried with them; for it is not holy (impure). And in this they (the Egyptians) agree with what are called the Orphic and Bacchic ceremonies, which are the Egyptian and the Pythagorean. For it is not holy that a partaker in these Mysteries should be buried in woollen garments. And there is a sacred story told about them.”—Herodot., II. 81.

“The Egyptians consider the swine an unholy animal.”—Plutarch, de Iside, viii. But they sacrificed and ate a pig once on the Full-moon, saying that Typhon (the Devil) chasing a pig at full-moon found the wooden ark in which the body of Osiris lay. Others said that this was not heard correctly. The Egyptians considered the ass not a pure but a demoniac animal.—De Iside, xxx.

Many priests are pointed out by the Byblians; more than three hundred came to the thaurusia (incense-sacrifice in the temple at Byblus) when I was present.—Lucian, iv. 282.

Jerusalem had 1760 for the temple.—1 Chron., ix. 18. There were 212 porters in the gates of the house of Jahob. Some of them kept the fine flour, oil, wine, incense, etc. Of course these 1760 priests were not all assembled on ordinary occasions, but they relieved one another in smaller divisions.—1 Chron., ix. 25; Luke, i. 5, 8-10; 2 Chron., viii. 14; xxvi. 17.

The Hebrew priests were the judiciary.—Ezekiel, xlviii. 24; Deut. xvii. 8-12; Josh., xx. 6. In the Hebrew commonwealth every city had its elders who formed a court of judicature with a power of determining lesser matters in their respective districts.—Jennings, 21. Jehosaphat set of the Levites and of the priests, along with the chief of the Fathers of Israel, for the judgment of Iahoh and for lawsuits.—2 Chron. xix. 8. In the most ancient Roman law the judges were the priests (pontifices) in all matters of law, which were placed under religious protection. The king was the pontifex maximus (High Priest).—Puchta, Institutionen des Rom. Rechts. I. 141, notes.

Thou shalt set up great stones and plaster them with plaster.

And thou shalt write upon them the words of this law.—Deut., xxvii. 2, 8. See Levit., xxvi. 1; Num., xxxiii. 52.

This is the way the laws and other records were kept in Phoenicia; for Philo's Sanchoniathon claims to have been compiled from "the pillars." It was also a Greek usage.

What have you determined to inscribe upon the stele concerning the covenants.—Aristophanes, Lysistr. Bothe, 483; Deut. xii. 2; Josephus, passim. The Jews waited outside praying, while Zacharias, the priest, was to burn the incense on the incense altar inside of the temple.—Luke, i. 10.

"Outside of the temple (in the court of the temple at Byblus) lies a great altar of brass."—Lucian, iv. 281. Hecataeus, speaking of the temple at Jerusalem, says: In this enclosure is a quadrangular altar of unwrought stone. Its sides are twenty cubits long and its height is twelve cubits. Near this altar is a great edifice (the temple) in which there is an altar and a golden candlestick. The light is not extinguished day or night (as in Phoenicia). The priests are employed therein night and day.—Jahn, Hist. Hebr. Com., 177; Spirit-Hist., 113, 300, 301; Paul, Epist. to Heb., ix. 2.

The Sacra pro montibus (?) appear in Numbers, xxviii. 8, 6, in the holocaust for the hills. Again they appear in Deuteronomy, xxxiii. 15, in the primitis montium orientis (of the rising Sun), and in the pretiosis colium aeternitatis (Oulom).—Schmidt. Orelli, p. 22; Movers, 658. Misor seems to have given his name to Misraim, Egypt.
While the New Testament records the prevalent belief in demons or devils the incessant mention of devils (evil spirits) in the Avesta of the Persians leaves Judaism far behind.—Spiegol, II. 74, 85, 120. If the Jews attached importance to purity, it becomes a nuisance by the abundant mention of it in the Persian Liturgy. For if the power were in them, then they would attend to good order among themselves. Discourse of the nature and way of the Creator, the God, and of the trumpets as well as of the lightning of the clouds of heaven.

Thus speaks Osiris N. N., the justified, blest: It is I who cover with darkness the gleaming garment of the heavenly floods when I speak through the trumpets as Lord. Think of the trumpets and of him who illuminates the clouds of heaven; and of the thunder of heaven, together with the summons: Fall down ye women and with the summons: Fear ye, Fear ye, ye men! I lead my people which fears my arms and the mighty force of my mouth. I execute justice with annihilation, I walk around, calling: Be subject to Me the Ruler who oversees the lands of the world and the city Abydos (Abot) which I have selected for Me. I am one who cares for men and I lead to me the pious of the city. I have appointed the time of destruction and I bring up the clouds of heaven at the appointed season!

I am the Lord of the trumpets and of the clouds of heaven. Praise me O my trumpets and the clouds of heaven all time, as often as I let my mouth speak! Offer to Me, the Annihilator of the godless, the Chastiser of the reviler who does not celebrate the Feast of the fifteenth day (the Fullmoon).

I am the Lord of the trumpets and of the clouds of heaven. Praise me ye my trumpets and the clouds of heaven at the time when I let my mouth speak! Cast yourselves down before me when the stones of the houses under the heaven fall to the glorification of the Prince and Governor (the Thunder-God).

I am the Lord of the trumpets and of the clouds of heaven. Praise

The Hebrew word Ṣoniah (I am; oniah, niah, to be) means LIFE. Its root is Ṣon, with the vowelic prefix, Ṣach, the Arabic Ṣak the Sun-god whose emblem is a horse.—Spirit-Hist. of Man, 67, 69, 78, 86, 90, 330. Adding the termination as we have Ṣach, Iaehos, meaning LIFE.—Sod, I. 20, 54, 21. S softens into h, therefore Iaehos becomes Iachoh.—Spirit-Hist., 72, 73. Since the Hebrew verb oniah "life" "to be" appears also in the softened form Ṣiah "to be;" Iachoh softens into Iaehoh. So the Syriac Massiah softens into Messiah, the Hebrew Ṣach (Alas) into Ah in English; Ṣach in German. Chi Iaehoh (Iaehoh) May the Lord (Iaehos) live!—Ruth, iii. 13; 1 Sam. xiv. 45; 2 Sam., iv. 9. Chi is also an adjective, as Al chi "the living God. Iaehoh Al = "God lives."

Therefore when St. John said Christ was the Light and the Life he was speaking Oriental Philosophy; for the Anointed was the Solar Logos of the Supreme Being.

The Day of the Feast of Pots at Athens began with offerings for the Dead arising from the grave like the Spring-seed from the quick Earth!—Gerhard, 102. A like Festival of the Dead was connected with the Hydrophoria (Water-bringings) and other feasts. The Hydrophoria were Athenian Feasts or the Dead. After the Ascension of Kora (Anthesterion 13th) the evening of the same day was probably devoted to the Torch-procession of Iacchos.—Ibid. 192. There is no evidence to show that circumcision was essential to health. In fact it was at last only used by the priests and great scholars of Egypt. Jervis gives us (from St. Ambrose) the hint! He says "No one was compelled to conform to this ordinance unless INITIATED INTO THE MYSTERIES." The Hebrew circumcision, therefore, like the Egyptian, is one of the ceremonies of the ancient MYSTERIES; and is another evidence that the basis and starting-point of the Old Testament was the MYSTERIES. Pythagoras submitted to it in order to be entitled to a greater participation in the MYSTERIES!—Jervis, 296, 297.

Hanoch was the Inventor of letters and learning. In short, he was the "all-knowing Sun," Hermes. "The Greeks anciently had the same notion of him, as appears from Eupolemus, where it is said that this Patriarch was the first who taught the knowledge of the stars . . . and was the same as Atlas." (Talus, the Sun).—Jervis, Genesis, 111; Eusebius, Præp. Ev., ix. 17; Stephanus Byz., de Urbibus; see Spirit-Hist. of Man, 60, 61, 67, 55, 171, 172, 144, 145, 230, 191, 250, 327.

Hanoch was also a "land of the Sun."—Gen., xxv. 4; Jervis, Genesis, 865, 866. These were their names in their villages.—Gen., xxv. 16.

He is the Sol-Leo, Judah's Sun-god that (as Baal Adon) is the paramour of Thamar 1 (Ariadne, the feminine of Baal-Thammar).—Movers, 661; Judges, xx. 33. Movers says Tamar 2 is a name of the Arabian Dionysus; and that he is Sanchoniathon's Zeus-Demar a son of Saturn (Kronos-Exoron). His wife was Astarte (Venus). His holy river was called Damour in Phcenicia, now called Nahr-Damur.—Movers, 657.

1 Amazon-Tamar.—Gen., xiv. 8. The reference to Tamar the Goddess Asarah, Astarte, Venus, is rendered more certain by the use of the word Kedeshah.—Gen., xxxviii. 21. Kedeshah means a temple-slave in the Bacchus and Venus temples. It is not the ordinary word for harlot. There was an order of females "dedicated" to the worship of Ashtoreth (Astarte, Venus) who practised dances and prostitution in honor of their god, bringing their impure gain into the treasury of the temple, or expending it in sacrifices as priestesses of the Goddess. With this latter object the kid seems to have been offered to Tamar.—Jervis, 504. These are the Hierodulen.

3 The name Aso appears in the Egyptian Mysteries. The Hebrew mentions Asu or Ose (Esau) in the Euhemeristic narratives of Genesis. Aso is in the Egyptian mythus an ally of the Devil and Esau is the Enemy of Jacob, red-haired like the Devil.
consequently Bel-Thamar was male and female. Nork says that the ass and palm in Jewish symbolism symbolized the end of the year (autumn). The palm was sacred to the Sun, and was borne in the procession at the Jewish Eleusinia, the Feast of Tents. At the end of the year the palm (Phoenix) was burned as the symbol of departed time, like the Phoenix. Tamar also, whose connection with the Sun-god of Isræl is now easier comprehended, was ordered to be burned. — Gen., xxxviii. 25; Nork, 274. Tamar means “palm-tree.” — Jervis, 505.

Pp. 159, 165.

The Syriac reads, “thou hast strove with the Angel, even with the MAN;” which agrees with Hos., xii. 4. The name Isræl is given to him, because Asar is the Sun-god, called also Asara, Asaral, Suryal, Surya, and Sur. As Hercules (Arechal) is the Sun, Hercules is the God-fighter, Isræl. Israh-el means “God strives,” Azur (Isar) being the War-god’s name. Patrick allows that many of the Christian Fathers understood this “man” to be the “Eternal Logos.” — Jervis, 433. Hercules is Son of Saturn, in later times. Therefore He is the MAN, the Son of the MAN. Isræl may be rendered “good God”! The scene is laid by the river Ibâk, called Iabhok: the water of Bacchus filled all the rivers. It is interesting to note the closeness with which the Rabbinical writer sticks to his text. He carries Saturn-Israïel-Akub, or Koh, first to Laban, or the Lebanon of Adonis, then to the water of Ibâchus (Ibâk), or Bacchus, and finally leads him to the “tents” or booths, or sheds, of Succoth or Venus. He also makes him swear by Isak or Ishak. And we all know that the oath, to be binding, must be by the name of the God, whatever name they chose to call the Sun-god. The oath was the "fear of the Elohim!"—Gen., xlii. 18. Jacob, euhemerized into a man, is made to use the oath the "fear of Isak," or Isahak.—Gen., xxi. 54, 42.

The names of the Edomites and Arabs, given in Genesis as names of the relations and connections of the Patriarchs, are all names of tribes.—See Jervis, Genesis, 407, 342, 357, 358-400. Jacob came to Salem, the city Sanctem. Asach and Asal are both names of the Sun! Sol! E1, Elohi, Israel, are three deity-names of Saturn! Eusebius says that Saturn was called Israel.

We must bear in mind that the Rabbinical author, "the inspired writer," had in view to turn the Arabs and Syrians from the ancient Syrian-Arab-Phenician worship of Adoni to the worship of the "Deity adored in Jerusalem." If this work succeeded, Jerusalem's priesthood got the benefit of it. For Jerusalem was at that time governed by the Highpriests, as Ethnarchs. After representing the Jews as in the right line of descent, and the Syrian and Arab nations or tribes as their collateral relations, the Rabbinical author humorously touches the question of Eternal Good and Evil, personified in the hostility of Jacob and Osu (Esau). The Oriental belief was that these Two Principles could never be conciliated. They were as irreconcilable as Ahriman and Ormuzd, Typhon and Osiris. Jacob is therefore described as a Bedawin constantly on his guard against Esau: "And Osu said unto him, Let us take up our tents and depart; and I will go before thee. And Jacob said unto him, My lord knows that the children are tender; and the flocks and the herds are with young, on my hands (upon me); and by overdriving them one day all the flocks would die. Let now my lord pass on before his slave: and I will proceed gently, on account of the cattle that is before me, and on account of the children; till that I come unto my lord to Seir. And Osu (Aso) said, Let me then leave with thee some of the people that is with me. And Jacob said, Wherefore this honor to me? Let me find favor in the eyes of my lord! So Osu (Esau) returned on that day on his way to Seir!"—See Jervis, Gen., 441, 438.

Thus Jacob escapes the Evil One's snares by being constantly on his guard. Plutarch, de Iside et Osiride, xxii., relates that Typhon, the Egyptian Devil, was red-skinned.—Spirit-Hist., 380. The same idea is repeated in Genesis, xxv. 25. Osu (Aso) "first came out red-haired all over." Plutarch relates of Typhon that he hunted near the moon. Genesis says Osu (Aso) was "skilled in hunting," And Satan is represented in Job as roaming about the earth as the Arabs do. We find the Sun-city Satanah.—Gen., xxvi. 21.

When Ishubah (Judah) is made by the earlier Rabbins, for geographical and political purposes, to lie with his daughter in law, he supposes her to be a harlot. But, for the purpose of ridiculing or destroying the Adonis and Lebanon worship, and rooting it out of the country in which the Jerusalem Priests and Pharisees governed, the Rabbinical author of Genesis also calls her a "kedeshah" (a temple-harlot, attached to the Adonis-services in Syrian, Phoenician and Palestine temples).—Gen., xxxviii. 21, 22. All this displays the attitude of the Rabbins and the Jerusalem Hierarchy towards the worship of Astarte (Ashtoreth, Venus) and Adonis. Yet they preserved the name Adoni, as a name of the Hebrew God, through the Old Testament. In short, we understand the later Osiris myths in Plutarch to indicate the existence of similar myths in Phoenicia and Jerusalem, which the Rabbincal author of Genesis alludes to. See Söd, I. 28, 29; Spirit-Hist., 396; Gen., xxxviii. 11, 14; et passim. There is a certainty that the date of the Book of Genesis is posterior to the year 500 before Christ. As authorities we give Gen., xlix. 10; Jervis, Gen., 573, 587; Söd, I. 166, 206 ff.; Spirit-Hist., 247, 256, 245. The passage respecting Siloh (Sol-Messiah) is Messiania; and this idea was first known in Persia, probably, 837 before Christ, in the time of Artaxeres Ochus.—See Spiegel Vendidad, 16, 32. "Then from the SUN God shall send a KING!"—Sibylline Books; De Wette, Bibl. Dogm., 160.

"The Egyptian Sacred Books are older than the oldest parts of the Book of Genesis, which paints the life of the priests just as it was known to be in later times."—Movers, 112, 118. "A priest-college occupied with the expounding of dreams and magic appears at the court of Pharaoh as early as the history of Joseph. Even the name Hierogrammaten (Sacred Scriba, Chartamim, in the plural) occurs in the Hebrew translation in the Pentateuch," Gen., xli. 24.—Movers, Phénixier, 112, 113; Spirit-Hist., 261; Jervis-White Jervis, Genesis, 492. The Rabbins said that the Law of Moses only enacted what was formerly practised.—Jervis, Genesis, 508.

Plutarch, de Iside et Osiride, the Psalm 139th and Ecclesiastes, ix. 2, show the advanced stage of philosophical speculation that the Rabbins had reached almost 200 years before Christ. They doubted much!—Ecclesiastes, ix. 2. The Rabbincal author of Genesis gives us the very best Oriental style; and the literary merit of the treatise is not sufficiently noticed.

While throughout the Old Testament the Phoenician symbolism is constantly gleaming through the Rabbincal, as its base, and historical foundation, certain particulars of sun-worship occur to our mind, although not strictly in this connection. The three sons of Noh, Shem, Cham, Iapet, are names of the sun-god. Anos is Iannus (Nos, Noh); Shem is Shemesh the Sun; Cham is Chamaah, the Sun in Hebrew; Iapet is Aphantos, Phthah, Phunt or Put, the Egyptian Sun, Apollo Pathios, and the Sol-Titan Iapetos. The Hebrew ox-angels, the Cherubs (from Kar, Kur, the Sun, Kherubs, or Kur-Apises), are related to the Apsaras (water-nymphs) and the Ribhus (Solar and Rain-angels) of India. As solar compound names of any length are most common in ancient Orientalism, it matters little, in point of meaning, whether they were called Ribhus, or Kur-Ribhus (the b and bh being radically one letter in
The proper name "San-cherib" contains the roots of the solar names San, Cherubs (Corubus, as the Maeonians called Adonis) and the Ribhus all together. From Arab, Ereb-us, Orpheus, Inrba (who is Sol,—Codex, Nas., I. 47), Jarbas (Apollo) and Baal-Iarob, names of the Sun, we derive the name of the Ribh-us and the Hebrew Rephaim.—Spirit-Hist., pp. 8, 12. The ox-angels are the beneficent water-angels, the Hebrew and Egyptian symbolism of fruitfulness. The Vedas call the waters "cows" in their poetical symbolism. Compare the superb use of this figure in the Rabbinical story of Pharaoh's fat kine coming up from the Nile, the source of abundant or bad harvest. But it is far more agreeable for the reader, who knows not the Ancient Names, to return to the names of the Arab tribes personified in the Patriarchs of Genesis.

The Sacred Scribe, or Rabbinical author of Genesis, has made the geographical and political aim of his treatise most obvious by its unmistakable reference to Arab tribes whose names are given in the genealogies of Ishmael and Asu (Esau). The Phoenician Israelites came from the Red Sea, perhaps from Akabah in the east coast of the Red Sea.—Jervis, Genesis, 359, 464-465; Herodotus, vii. 89. Iacob is assumed as the Founder of the tribe, and the other tribes or nations are 1 The Sun is called Ribhu in the Vedas, and is the Source of Rain! He is called "the germ of the waters," "satisfying with rain the reservoirs," "Agni, the embryo of the waters." "The germ of many waters he issues from the ocean." "He breathes amidst the waters like a sitting swan; awakened at the dawn he restores consciousness to men;" "born from the waters . . . his light spread afar."—Rig Veda, Wilson; Spirit-Hist., 134, 331.

"Orpheus is the same word as the Sanskrit Ribhu or Arhbu, which, though it is best known as the name of the three Ribhus, was used in the Veda as an epithet of Indra, and a name of the Sun." "Eurudike is one of the many names of the Dawn."—Müller, Comp. Mythol., 79, 61. "There may have been an old poet of the name of Orpheus, for old poets delight in solar names."—Müller, 79. See Cod. 2 See Spirit Hist., 399, 89 ff 95-103, 388; also "Origin of Ancient Names of Countries, Cities, Individuals and Go is," by the author. Names of Nations or Tribes should have been enumerated in the title above given, as they have the same origin, namely deity-names.

3 Akab, Keb, who is Saturn, gave the name to this country.—Spirit-Hist., 74, 269. We find the name Akin, a district or tribe, and "Tell el Gansie."—Wetzstein, Hausen, 42, 100, 119, 120. Gana is mentioned in Zachariah, xiv. 10.
then included and personified in the genealogies of Jacob, Ishmael, Esau and Noah. "Undeniable accordance with geographical names is found in 1 Moses, xxv. 13, 14, 15, compared with 1 Chron., i. 29, 30, 31, where the tribes and places on the east border of Palestine are personified as Children of Israel: the first-born Son of Israel Nebiot, Kedar, Adabiel, Mibsam, Misa, Duma, Massa, Hadar, Tema, Itur, Naphis, Kedma."—Wetstein, 88. Ishmael appears to have been the God El of the Shammah tribe which still inhabits the same desert. The Chief of the Shammah is mentioned, Genesis, xxxvi. 17, as one of the Beni Asu (Esau) in Adum. Some things go to show that Sarah (or Sarach) is intended geographically as the designation of the Arab district of the Saracens (Jervis, Gen., 464), instead of mythologically as the Euhemerist account of the native goddess Asarah. The political aim of the Scribe was as important as the ecclesiastical. Allowing that Sarah's name is the name of the country of the Saracens or the city Sarach or Sarah, still Arab tribes, cities and countries bore deity-names (Spirit-Hist., 74 et passim) like Asar, Asaraq, Sar, Sari, Sarah. "Many Ismaelite names already quoted may have been names of Nomad Tribes (as Abaram), and with regard to those which we meet in the Bible the present names are of no assistance, since the tribes vanish by emigration, war, absorption into other tribes, or, not unfrequently, change their names. But where the Bible gives us names of places, there is hope of finding most of them, for the tradition of the Arabs is wonderfully true. Duma and Téma are to-day two stately places in east Haurán."—Wetstein, 93. The small Arab tribes of the Euphrates have always two names and sometimes four, the names of the place, tribe, the great tribe to which it is tributary, and of the Sheikh.—Jervis, 385; Col. Chesney, Rep. Euphrat., 38.

John Jervis-White Jervis says: The names of the sons of Aesau (Asu, Oesu) are still legible on this whole tract of country from Egypt to the Euphrates, being preserved in the national denominations of the great Arab tribes which people it at the present day.—Jervis, 466, 467. These tribes are mentioned at length, Genesis, xxxvi., xxxvi., xxxvi., xxxvi.; Jervis, 342, 363, 366-8, 448-9, 472, 536-7. The sons of Jacob turn out to be 6 As to Euhemerism, this connection between Philo's Sagchoniathon and Genesis is clear enough. The political and sacerdotal expectations of the rulers of Jerusalem and the Rabbinical or priestly authorship of Genesis would be enough, in a general way, to account for the difference between the two Books. But even Sagchoniathon claims a Jewish origin, the Hebrew priest of the god Ievo, Hebrew Iesu מְלַלְסָל. So it is clear that the author knew the connection existing between the two works.

personified nations, the sons of Esau the same. Besides the Shammah, Asuri and Nebioth, other well-known tribes are named as persons! For a fuller account than we have room for, see John Jervis-White Jervis's Genesis. London, Bagster & Sons, 1852.

Take the story of Iahudah's twins by Tamar: the story of the "breaking forth" and the "scarlet thread" is woven to account for the names of the tribes, the Parasiens or Perezites, and the Zarchites.—Genesis, xxxviii. 30; Jervis, 456, 221. So with the story of Afarim and Manasah: the object was to prefer one to the other for some political object. — Genesis, xlvi. 19, 20; see Jervis, 571, 580. While the priest or rabbin compliments the Arabians as the older branch he affirms politically that the Jacobites are the preferred. Of course the interests of Jerusalem would give this turn to his story. He says, "These are the genealogies of Osu (Esau) Father of Adom in the mountain district of Seir."—Gen., xxxvi. 9. The policy was to raise the power of Jerusalem, the capital of Indah. It had the best claims, since it was most difficult to take by siege. But it would never do to say openly that Indah was the favored

1 Respecting the four tribes, Iudah, Beniamin, Ephrim and Manassah, it is very plain why they are the most favored of the "twelve." Benjamin lies next Indah and sided with Indah against the other ten tribes, of the kingdom of Israel. Of course the Rabbinical author, writing in Jerusalem, the capital of Iudah, could not overlook Benjamin's proximity or its faithfulness. Next to Benjamin, on the north, comes Joseph, the two kingdoms of Ephrim and Manassah. The proximity of Ephrim to Indah renders it more fit for incorporation and annexation to it. Of course it is preferred to Manassah, which is more distant, in Jacob's blessing. Jacob's blessing follows history strictly, nasmuch as Abarim, Aparim, Afarim, Ephrim, Epurim, was a great notion over against Iudah and Beni-Ammin. The tribes usually bore some kind of name of the sun-god, Baal, Apollo, Adon, or Baccelus. Apollo was called Epure from Abar, the Sun.— Spirit-Hist., 68, 71, 46, 94. The Hebrew tribe Ephrim is therefore named from Abar (Eber) the Sun and Fire-god, or from Epure the Solar Apollo, or "from the torches" (parim) that at the nocturnal celebrations in honor of Adonis-Tele-Bacchus lit up the Apollo-mountain Epurim. And Ibrabom built Sakem on Mount Epurem, and dwelt in it.—1 Kings, xii. 25. Here the "sin of Israel," the Adonis and Venus worship, was probably celebrated in the licentious booths called acloth. He made two golden bulls (of Baccelus-Adoni). The rabbinical author of Exod. xxxii. 4, 8, has the same aversion to the Adoni-symbols. Ibrabom also made "a temple of High Places." On the full-moon, the 15th of the Jewish month of October he made a feast of the Sun (Adoni), having regard to the lunar character of the Adonis-worship. He burned incense, as was usual in the Adonis-worship, which we learn from the Bible, and from Lucian de Dea Syria.—1 Kings, xii. After all, Jerusalem had not recently abolished the Adonis-worship, for Asa (and, later, Iahesaphat) king of Iahudah (Iudah) took away the "High Places," images, and "Grove" from the cities of Iahudah.—2 Chron. xiv., if we are to believe the rabbinical author!
ruins of the Yauktaane Empire of the Sabeans.—Ibid., 468. The name of Ez-Zerak among the Rawalla tribes appears to connect the Zerah with his father Raual.—Ibid., 472; Gen., xxxvi. 17. The Shammah, Gen., xxxvi. 17, are Pliny's Zamareni and Burekhardt's Beni Shammar. Their territory borders on the northern desert, near Ez-Zerak, Er-Rawalla, and other branches of the Aeneyzeh.—Ibid., 473. “These are the names of the chiefs of Osu (Aesau) after their tribes (nations), after their places, by their names.”—Gen., xxxvi. 40. The ideas of geography were confined to the knowledge of the tribes of Shem, the nations of Kene (Cham, Kham, Egypt), and the peoples north of Canon (Phoenicia), who have the name Iaphet (Japetus, or “far-spreading”). Then follows a willful and voluntary genealogy, since we hardly can suppose that Sidon is the offspring of Africa.—Gen., ix. 18; x. 15.

The Patriarch Peleg is the personification of the place Phaliga or Phalga not far from the entrance of the Chabur into the Euphrates.—See Chwolsohn, I. 312. Sarag was a Mesopotamian city near the Hauran.—Jervis, 228; Chwolsohn, I. 450. Terach must have been the mythic ancestor of Tarkat (Sarkat), Derketo (Venus), the Goddess Tarkata.—Jervis, 231, 235; Chwolsohn, I. 321. He was also called Ader (Adar), and by the Persians Tarkat; the Talmud calls him Zarah, and Enochius calls him Athar.—Jervis, 235. Haran was the city Haran in Mesopotamia.

Kemuel is Strabo's Kamiletes, a Syrian tribe west of the Euphrates; Kasad is the Chasdim.—Jervis, 347. Katurah is Ptolemy's Katara.—Ibid., 357, 358. We have not space to extract more, but recommend the reader to read Jervis's excellent work for himself. The whole of Genesis is written with consummate ability, and, as a literary effort, is the best specimen of ancient civilization which has come down to us. It preserves such an even balance between Euhemerism and Arabian and Semitic Geography as indicates the highest culture and the highest art. Its object was to blot out the Bacchic or Adonis worship from Palestine, and to create a new ecclesiastical and political state.

The Saracens in the age of Ptolemy appeared to have stretched quite across the neck of the Arabian peninsula; partly in an inner line behind the Nabathaens, and partly interspersed with the Ishmaelite tribes. Ptolemy's Saracens, which adjoined these "mountains of Sarah," is the same with the land Amalak, the primitive seat of the Amalekites and their subordinate Edomite tribes. The classical boundaries of the Saracens and the Scriptural boundaries of the Amalekites, in their largest sense, are identical, extending, along the same parallel of latitude, across the neck of the peninsula from the Nile to the Euphrates. The early Muslim Saracens were termed "Amalekites" by the Greeks. The mountaneous land of Adom (Seir, Edom) was situated south and east of the Dead Sea, forming a continuation of the eastern Syrian chain of mountains beginning with Anti-Libanus and extending from thence to the eastern gulf of the Red Sea. Amalak, "the first of the nations," gave name to the whole race of Aesau, as Midian did to that of Keturah. Ptolemy's Saracens of the Egyptian border are the tribe of Amalak, and its dependents; his inland Saracens are the Edomite tribes of Rual, Kenaz and Shammah, or the Rawalla, the Aeneyzeh, and the Beni Shammah; whilst his Thamudites are "Saracen horsemen of the tribe Thamud."—Jervis, 464–467.

Although we are prepared to admit that the Canonical books of the Jews, of which we have been endeavoring to trace the literary history, existed both in Hebrew and Greek at the time when our Saviour quoted from them, we have no reason to believe that the text was settled precisely in the state in which it is now found. No Hebrew MS. is known to be older than Kennicott’s No. 154, which belongs to A.D. 1106; and though there are much older MSS. of the Septuagint, there is so much discrepancy between this version and the original, that it furnishes only a precarious guide for the establishment of doubtful texts. It seems, indeed, pretty clear that the editors of the Complutensian text arbitrarily accommodated the Greek to the Hebrew; and even in the Pentateuch, which is the oldest and best translation, the Greek in many places corresponds to the Samaritan rather than to the Hebrew. With regard to the Pentateuch, Gesenius supposed that the Samaritan and Septuagint versions were both translated from a text older than the present Masoretic, and there is nothing to invalidate this reasonable conjecture except the absurd hypothesis that the Canon was closed and our present Masoretic text established under the influence of inspired editors! The Samaritan text itself, for the reasons mentioned by Gesenius, must have been formed subsequently to the Exile, probably in the reign of Darius Codomannus, when Manasseh, the brother of the High Priest at Jerusalem, married the daughter of Sanballat, the Satrap of the Samaritans, and, in order to keep both his wife and his priesthood, established on Mount Gerizim a temple-worship in opposition to that at Jerusalem. It may be inferred that the text thus received by the Samaritans was the same in the main as that which was adopted by the Sanhedrim in Judea; and, as the tradition respecting the 72 interpreters of the Septuagint points to the number of the Sanhedrim who sanctioned that translation, as the Samaritan version of the Pentateuch stated to have been made by the pontiff Nathaniel a little before Christ agrees with the Targum of Onkelios, who flourished about the same time, and also with the Septuagint published about 100 years before, it would seem to be a fair conclusion, that, making allowance for the intentional alterations of the Samaritans, these four versions represent to us the text of the Pentateuch, as it was from the Maccabaean age to that of our Saviour, more fully, on the whole, than the Hebrew text which we have derived from the subsequent labors of the Masorah, although this later recension is in itself better than any of the four. It is clear that the Masoretic School at Tiberias was engaged in settling or unsettling the Hebrew text until the final publication of the Masorah itself. The most recent researches on this important subject incline to the conclusion that the view of Elias Levita (b. 1472, d. at Venice 1549) - “the Massorah was committed to writing in 506 after Christ” - is correct. ... Jolowicz has undertaken to show that the Talmudists and the later Rabbis as well as the Chaldee paraphrast Jonathan ben Uziel not only knew various readings most strikingly differing from our Canonical text, but also determined by the interpretations of the same the most important usages of life; and in his postscript (p. 15) he gives special proofs that the Talmudists had copies of the Pentateuch containing different readings, and that they sometimes used one MS. roll to correct many others. If then we take into consideration all the facts of the case—the variations of the Hebrew MSS., none of which can boast any great antiquity, the discrepancies between the Hebrew text and that of the Samaritan and Greek versions, the evidences of different readings furnished by the Talmud, Targumim, and other Rabbinical authorities, the change of the Hebrew character from the older Phenician form to the square letters borrowed from the Syrians after the captivity, the late introduction of points and distinctions between medial and final letters, the probability that the Jewish editors may have accommodated the Hebrew text to the Septuagint, and the evidence furnished by the very remarkable fact that some of the Jewish computations of time in the text of the Old Testament involve the date of the destruction of Jerusalem, and therefore presume a tampering with the text subsequent to this date,—all this and a great deal more that might be alleged shows that we cannot place implicit reliance on the Masoretic text, and that if conjectural emendation is allowable in the case of the classical authors it is a still more legitimate instrument in the case of these compiled, revised, and perpetually reedited remains of the ancient Jewish literature.—Donaldson, Chr. Orth., 237-241.

The priests and scribes, who were the literary men of the nation, reduced to a complete and elaborate system the ritual observances which had gradually come into vogue. It would be a waste of words to show that the priestly caste, who took it upon themselves to say what books should be regarded as sacred and what excluded from the Canon, did not during the period from 400 B.C. to 150 B.C. abstain from remodeling, perhaps rewriting, some of the older books.—Donaldson, 203, 191.

Deuteronomy is the Old Copy of the “Book of the Law.”—Donaldson, 200. This is the name of the Book that was found in Josiah’s time; its date is probably not prior to 667-640 before Christ.—Ibid., 201. It was probably much later. The order of succession may have been somewhat as follows: first the Laws of Demeter or Mose, next a compilation of the Mysteries of Musah, then the Book of the Lea, then Deuteronomy, then, perhaps, the Pentateuch, and, finally, the whole Old Testament.

1 At the time of Jonathan’s translation, five Hebrew final letters were not in use.—Donaldson, 239, note. Tsade, Shin and He were not originally in the alphabet.—Dr. Heinrich Wuttke, Zeitschr., D. M. G., xi. 95.

a connection with Bacchus who, born in Egypt and exposed in the Nilo (Osiris), bore the name "Muses" among the Orphics. Bacchus (like Moses) was preserved from the water. He was shut up in a box and thrown into the sea. Ino (Luna) preserved and brought him up.—Nork, 390; Sod, I., 31, 32; Spirit-Hist., 396 ff; Exodus, ii. 8.

Iehudah's territory originally extended from the Idumean mountains to the north point of the Dead Sea. From there the boundary line ran above Jerusalem to the Mediterranean.—Josh., xxv. 1; Nork, 274. It was mostly mountainous. Hence the usual victories of the mountaineers (Arimi) over the lowlanders (Canani) or Phcenicians; for the terms Cananite and Phcenician are used one for the other in Hebrew Scripture.—Jervis, 167.

Herodotus says that the Syrians of Palestine (the Jews), whom he also calls Phcenicians, anciently dwelt, as they themselves said, upon the Red Sea. According to the same author they went out from the Red Sea (from Egypt, according to the Bible, Manetho, Chaeremon, Polemo, Artapanus, Lysimachus, Diocorus) and settled in that part of Syria which lies upon the Mediterranean Sea and is called Palestine.—Sod, I. 102; Herodotus, vii. 89. Who they were is well settled: Herodotus, Manetho and the learned Movers have fixed them as Phcenicians. 1 Added to this we have the testimony of the Hebrew Scriptures, which describe the relations of Tyre and Jerusalem as those of kindred peoples. Solomon writes to the king of Tyre as to one upon whom he had peculiar claims, and Hiram responds in a spirit suited to the international affinity. After entering Jerusalem the new Phcenicians and the old Cananite Phcenicians 2 must have soon coalesced. 3 It matters little whether the Book of Joshua gives us the most ancient account of this, or only the Rabbinical Version. There they remained! They remained among the Phcenicians, otherwise called Cananites. There Herodotus, the Bible, Manetho and all antiquity locate them.

Their religion was the adoration of the Sun, Moon, Stars and other Spirits—Bal and all the Host of Heaven—later their philosophy was the worship of the Male and Female Principles, taught by the Magi in all the Schools of the Semitic philosophers from Babylon to Egypt, from Greece to the extreme coasts of Arabia. Their philosophy shaped their creed. It could not be otherwise—since men can hardly be rationally convinced of a thing without believing it; therefore they associated the Great Male Being, the Source of Light, Water, Heat, Animation, Fire, with a Goddess. The Sidonian Bel or Baal-Adonis was associated with the "Queen of Heaven" to whom offerings were made by the Hebrews. 4 Their name, according to the usage of those times, was that of the Shining God Abar (Heber), the "Shining Bar" of the Assyrian bas reliefs. If they also called Him Bagu (God), Bacchus, Eacus, Iachos, Iachoh, Iahoh, Acush, or Zeus Acasios (Hyksos), who can blame them?

In the time of Plato the Mysteries were too much in vogue to have been openly attacked. At what time would it have been most safe to attack the Bol-Adonis Mysteries of the Hebrews? Clearly at a time when their influence began to wane! When would the Jews have been most inclined to the work for political reasons? Just at the time when from a Persian colony established in a strong fortress they had grown, and conceived hopes of extending the sway of Jerusalem over all Palestine! "It was now, probably, that the Jews discarded the Canonite from the genealogy of Shem and enrolled among their kindred the victorious and sympathizing Persian.—Gen., x. 22. They recoiled from acts once common to themselves, and found in their improved practice a new warrant for their old invasion of Canon."—Mackay, Rise and Progress of Christianity, 39; Joshua, xvii. 16, 18. It is well known that no Asiatic nation has Historical writings properly speaking. No history is to be found among the Hindus. So, in Judea, the Hebrew writings have preserved to us only perverted annals rewritten in ecclesiastical and political interests.—Josh., xiii. 5, 6; Donaldson, 246.

Careful investigation has proved that the formation of the Canon of the Old Testament originated in a wish to collect all the remains of Hebrew literature extant after the captivity; that the process of collection commenced about 450 before Christ and lasted for nearly three centuries.—Donaldson, 160. There is abundant evidence to show that the provisions of the Levitical law did not emanate from Moses, but were subsequently invented by the Priestly caste.—Ibid., 162.

If they had many names for Ilam, calling upon Abad, Abodios, Apat, Apthas (Phthah, Phut), Put, Iapet, Iapetos, Iapeter, why cast an orthodox stone at them? If, among other names, they called Ilam Al, El (Helios, Asan, San, Zion, Saad, Sadi (Shaddai), Eloi, Alahi, Alahim (Alah), Adoni and Iahoh, they had a perfect right to do so if they pleased. And the later Rabbins were perhaps equally justified in putting enough vowel points under the text to lengthen the "Four Letters" IHOH (Tetragrammaton) into IAHOUAI; otherwise, according to rule, it was read Iahoh; the Greeks, later, reading it Iao and Ieuo. To return, however, to their Bacchic starting point, the Hebrews were fond of "little bulls," the emblem of Osiris-Bacchus-Adonis; and this we have shown to be a Phoenician custom. This inspiring religion, according to which Bacchus-Adonis was the Life, Light and Life-giving Water, proclaimed the Male Principle under the name of the SPIRIT or Holy PNEUMA (Ghost). Established in the territories of the Southern Phœnicians, the Old Testament is profuse in its descriptions of their Bacchic worship as it continued to exist all the way up to the boundaries of the Sidonians, both among the native Phœnicians, and among the Hyksos settlers returned from the Red Sea! Powerful, a fortress nearly impregnable, Jerusalem remained under her kings until the Exile. Returned from Babylon, as a Persian Colony, authorized by a royal edict, the priesthood replaced the ancient kings. A priest of the "Sun and Fire god," Azara (Ezra), replaces or restores the ancient Sacred Books, and is the Satrap. Here began the temptation for priestly persons to grasp the power and to reform the Scriptures with this aim perpetually before them—to found a government of priests, in which a priest should be Ethnarch! Their hand may be traced in every provision, every statute, and almost every narrative contained in their Scriptures; everything, even the accounts of the prophets, is turned in favor of the priests and prophets, the highest order of sacerdos. But the chief object was to extend the power of Jerusalem beyond the city and the province of Judea. The aim was to exercise authority over the other cities and tribes of Palestine! The whole Old Testament agrees with this view. Their jealousy of the Baal or Bacchus-worship as celebrated on the hills of Palestine, and under every green tree, is abundantly evidenced in their Sacred Scriptures. Their Prophetical Books are loud in denunciation of all shrines except that in Jerusalem, and prophecies of the coming greatness of the Jewish State are thickly strewn upon the record. Their Scriptures claim the country over the Jordan—the land of the Sabeans. There were many points in which they once agreed with the Sabeans, especially in the Bacchic-worship, the adoration of the Sun, Moon and Five Planets, the Sabaoth of the realms of light. They had been in

Babylon, they knew the worship of the Seven-Rayed God, the Heptaktis of the Book of Revelation, and their Sacred Books refer to Sabaiism in the account of Balom's Seven Altars, to the Sun, Moon and Five Planets. The chronology of Sod I. 118, 119 ff, et passim, is founded mainly on the following data:

The Hebrew priests began their festival year March 8th, bringing the Passover on the Vernal Equinox, and the Feast of Tabernacles on the Autumnal Equinox—Philo, On the Fifth and Tenth Festivals, and on the Ten Commandments; compare Seyffarth's Chronology, 170, to the same point. The Sacred Year beginning in March is Solar; for Shana (Shanah) is rather to be referred to the Solar year.—Saalschutz, Mon. Recht, I. 388. Moses makes no mention of an intercalary month, and we find the duration of the Deluge reckoned by months of thirty days!—Gen., vii. 11, viii. 4, v. 3; Saalschutz, I. 397.

The Egyptians began their month Pharmuthi about the eighth or ninth of March. An epigram says: The rising of the Pleiades aptly marks the time of Arthur (Arthur aequo tempore signat).—Hospinianus, I. 81. But the Pleiades rise October 10th!—Anthon, Dict. Ant., 209, from Paulin's Real-Encyclopädie; Hospinianus, I. 81. Arthur is then from October 10th to November 9th.

On the 17th of Arthur (Oct. 26th) Osiris is put into the Ark.—Plutarch, de Iside, xiii. They say that Osiris dies when the Nile recedes and the soil is laid bare.—Ibid., xxxix. The Nile recedes in Arthur.—Plutarch, de Iside, xxxix. The quotation from Plutarch (de Iside iii), "On the eighth day of the moon's wane in Phaophi after the Autumnal Equinox," shows that Phaophi is September 10th—October 10th. In the month Phaophi the Nile ceases to increase!—Hospinianus, I. 80. It reaches its maximum from the 20th to the 30th of September. It then remains stationary for fourteen days (up to October 15th).—Kenrick, I. 70. Thus the Nile "ceases to increase" before October 10th, before the close of Phaophi! Plutarch says that Sol passes through Scorpio in the month Arthur.—De Iside, xiii. The Sun entered Scorpio October 19th.—Anthon, Dict. Ant., p. 206. MDCCCLXI.
THE growing power of the infant Gnosticism acting with inspiration upon the quick warm nature of the Jordan Nazarenes laid the seed which, nourished by the accumulated Wisdom of the illustrious teachers of the Pharisees, ultimately ripened into the New Testament—the priceless pearl of the Jewish conception. The earliest Gnosticism in Irenæus extends a hand to the Gnosticism of the Kabbala. Irenæus's Gnostica, the Codex Nasaraeus, the oldest parts of Kabbala, the first three chapters of Genesis, the New Testament theology, Hippolytus, and some extracts from the Rabbins, all are brought together.

Although the Codex Nazaraeus is dated the year 1042 some of its material is much earlier; thus some of it is found in Irenæus (in the second century), some in the Kabbala, and some seems to belong to traditions or myths connected with the patriarchal names in Genesis. The basis of the material common to Irenæus and the Codex Nasaraeus must be at least as early as the first century; for time was needed to produce so many different doctrinal systems; and if they were collected in the second century some of them must have been formed previously.

The early rabbinical period seems to have mostly passed out of record; excepting the Old Testament and some other works, its books are destroyed, its systems and philosophical dogmas forgotten. It is the same with Babylonian treatises and systems. They have perished. But because they are not all within reach it will not do to reason as if they never had existed! We want other testimony besides partisan Christian and Jewish!

PRELIMINARY CHAPTER.

The word of Alaha (Alah) was upon Iochanan bar Zacharia in the Desert, and he came into all the region about the Jordan, proclaiming the Baptism of Repentance for the forgiveness of sins.—Luke, iii. 2, 3, Syriac.

Progenies viperarum, quis monstravit vobis fugere a futura ira.—Ioan; Matthew, iii. 7.

This work touches upon ancient Scholasticism, Rabbinical Conceptions, and the Nazorenes. The Nasarene Codex gives us Ferho (the Unknown Formless LIFE) and then Seven Aeons = Mano (Rex Lucis), Aiar Zivo, Ignis Vivus, Lux, Vita, Aqua viva, and Vita ipsa.—Norberg, Preface to Cod. Nas.

"The Nazorenes are Jews,¹ honoring the ANOINTED as a just man, and using the Evangel called 'according to Peter'. —Theodoret, Haeretic. Fab. lib. II. ii.

This is the word of the wise which Iachia bar Zakaria uttered and declared in Jerusalem city of the abortives.² —Cod. Nas., II. 72.

In the name of LIFE the greatest, the last! Re­mission of Sins.—Cod. Nas., II. 73.

When I, Anos, a Genius, came into this world I preached the word of Life, I sowed the plant of Life. —Cod. Nas., II. 295.

Do not depart to diviners and Chaldeans that lie, who dwell in darkness.—Bib. I. 41. So also Zachariah, x. 2.

² LIFE has sent me to destroy the city Jerusalem. . . . The city Jerusalem in which the blood of my Disciples (John's Disciples) was poured forth I have destroyed, the abortive I have killed.—Codex Nasaraeus, II. 301, 303. See Zachariah, xii. 2.
Having put on a mortal form I entered Jerusalem and speaking with my voice I held meetings, curing the sick, curing the sick, therefore everlasting Physician I was called, Medicus justitiae, curing yet taking no pay: which my sick (when they had) gone into the Jordan I baptized.—Codex Nasaraeus, II. 301.

This is the Hidden Doctrine, discourse and treatise which the Messenger of Life has set before the men distinguished for good action, and before all the family of Adam.—Ibid., II. 75.

Preach the word of Life that it may cause those that lie down to stand up. Give them mysterious words by which they may be taught. Interpret for them the Great Life, speak concerning the assemblies of Life, and instruct Nazoria living in the world, that they put on robes of splendor and, following Thee, go above! Give us wisdom that those Nazoria may rise and pray to the Lords. Inform them concerning the creatures of Light and the secret abodes in which these Lords sit. Inform them about the Aeons, inform them also concerning the celestial Crown which is placed in its own habitation of the Life supreme.”—Codex Nas., II. 305.

There is a point on the map from which proceeds the religious history of the last eighteen hundred years. It is the mountain region which belongs to Phoenicia and Israel, Lebanon and the land of Galilee! From these mountains the rain of Adonis descended in Jordan’s stream, the autumnal and vernal rain. 1 Flowing south among “John’s Disciples” and

1 Eden or Adan, a town of Mount Libanus, not far from the River Adonis, is named from the God Adan, Adon. The Jordan issues from the Lebanon. It is formed by the confluence of three little rivers, one of which is named the Dan (from Adan, Adonis).—Munk, p. 8. The snows of the Anti-Lebanon are Another Aphek, belonging to the tribe Asar, was near the territory of Sidon. Sur (Tyre) was the city of the Sun (Asar, Sur, Surya, Suryal, Isaral, Isaracl, Israeel, Israel-Krones).

All together they hastened to come to the Holy Day (of Adonis)—Ecclesiastes, v. 26.

The Lebanon subsides into a range of elevations running through Issachar and Manassnah as far as Mount Tabor and the Great Plain of Israel (Izrael). Here was the place Nazare (Nazareth, or Nazaret, now Nazra). It is mentioned neither in the Old Testament, nor in the writings of Josephus, nor in the Talmud. The relations with the neighboring countries always exercised a great influence upon the character of the Galileans. They showed less aversion for the religion of the stranger (the Etrian Lebanese as well as the Phoenician worshipper of Belus and Adonis), and less zeal for the "Religion of Moses (Messen)." The relations between the Galileans and the pagans were very extended; for the province included within its borders a large number of the latter. Hence the contempt which the Jews felt towards the Galileans.

Munc, 35.

Thou wast with Jesus the Galilean, Jesus the Nazarene; with Issua the Nazara, Issua the Nazaria!—Matthew, xxvi. 69, 71, Greek and Syriac; John, xviii. 5, 7. Hence Galilean and Nazarene were nearly synonymous. Nazaréan vows belonged to the Adonis-worship.—Numbers, vi. The Nazaréate was an institution established before the Laws of Moses.—Munc, 169.

"Nazarenes" letting the hair grow long and not drinking wine—when they consecrate the hair and offer it for a sacrifice, their locks are given to the priests.—Josephus, Ant. iv. 4. Elias el (Elijah) is described as a hairy man, girl with a girdle of leather.—Josephus, Ant. ix. The prophet of Isachoh resembles the Nazaréan or Nazarite Baptist John. Nazah "sprinkling:"

The Great Plain of Izrael, and its neighborhood, including the cities Israel (Izreal), Megiddon, Tannach and Nazareth (the Arab Nasirah), was a sort of head-quarters of the Adonis-worship! On the west is the village Adam. The waters of Megiddo (the river Mukutta), the Great Kishon and the Little Kishon (the stream of Julud in the valley Izreal), flowed through this district; it had the Sea on the west and the Waters of the Jordan on the east.—See Jos. i. 100, 191, 28, 29; Judges, iii. 3, 7, 15; vi. 23, 26. The sacrifices of the Delity below were called Faebra. His rites were performed in the night.—Eschenburg, 416.

2 Robinson, Bibl. Res. ii. 519. We also find the city Adam, on the river Saras* in Cilicia, and the town Adam (Eden) on the Lebanon. The kings around Mount Lebanon were Channath (Phœnician).—Josephus, Ant. v. 7. The Hebrew tribe Asher (Asar) included the Phœnician country about Tyre (Sidon, Sarra), up to the neighborhood of Sidon.—Vide Map. This was the scene of the Baptism of the Jordan! Over the Jordan and beyond the Lake dwelt the Nasarenes, a sect said to have existed already at the birth of Jesus, and to have counted him among its number. They must have extended along the east of the Jordan, and south-easterly among the Arabians and Sabaeans in the direction of Basra; and again they must have gone far north over the Lebanon to Antioch, also to the north-east to the Nasarian settlement in Berœa where St. Jerome found them. In the Desert the Mysteries of Adonis may have still prevailed; in the mountains Aiai Adonis was still a cry!

The Nazarenes were intermingled with Iessaeans and "All the Prophets, nearly, announce the low and abject condition of Christ, no one his origin from Nazareth."—Lightfoot, p. 209; Munk, 35. Why then does Matthew state that the prophet said he should be called Nazaria? Simply because he belonged to that sect; and a prophesy would confirm his claims to the Messiahship. Now it does not appear that the Prophets anywhere state that the Messiah will be called a Nazarene! If you derive Nazoraios (Syriac Nazia) from Nazir, Naziraios, this word denotes not only Separation to God but separation generally.—Compare Lightfoot, 209, 722. Now the sect of John the Baptist lived separate and apart from men in the solitudes of the Desert and the Jordan;—Luke, i. 80, and those who wanted his Baptism must go out unto him.

zirites. They abstained from wine, etc., and were Nazirians, Nazoraian, or "set apart." A reader of the Talmud informs us that there was a sect of them. "They were physicians, healers of the sick! They existed before Christ; but it is not known how ancient they were. They went about performing cures." The Nazir is one who devotes his life wholly to God, who separates himself for the service of God. The treatise Nazir in the Talmud "has nine chapters, and discusses chiefly the rules and statutes concerning Nazarenes."—Israelites Indeed, II. 239; Mark, vi. 55, 56. As Jesus was going out of Jericho with his disciples and a rather large crowd, blind Bartimaeus called for help as soon as he heard it was the Nazarene.—Mark, x. 47. Let us alone, Iesus thou Nazaria!—Luke, iv. 34. "This kind (of demon) can come forth by nothing but by prayer and fasting."—Mark, ix. 29. Matthew no sooner calls Iesus a Nazoraios (Peshito, Nazaria) than he begins to speak of John! The name Nazorene brought the "Set apart," the Baptist with his Girdle of hide, at once to his mind. "Those among the Jews who assumed the Naziraeate of their own will were nearly without number; but two only by divine appointment: Sampson and the Baptist!"

— Lightfoot, 722.

John and Iesus preached the End of the Age, they both baptized, and are represented as belonging to the same mission! And being of the sect of Nazarenes, a prophesy is declared to have located the Messiahship among that sect. The Es-senes were strict, "set apart" (Nasiria), healers (Asaya) of the sick, and dwellers of the Desert! They rejected pleasures, despised riches, loved one another and more than other sects, neglected wedlock, deeming the conquest of the passions to be virtuous; everyone gave what he had to him that asked for it, in the very spirit of St. Matthew, v. 42, as Josephus testifies, Wars, Book II. chap. 7: "Self-control (continence) and the not yielding to the affections (passions) they consider a virtue."—Ibid., II. 7; see Matthew, x. 36; xii. 36 ff; Mark, iii. 33 ff; John, ii. 4; Luke, xii. 15; xiv. 26. "Being dirty (unwashed) they esteem honorable, and to be clad in white throughout!"

— Josephus, II. 7.

Why walk not thy disciples according to the tradition of the Elders, but eat bread with their hands unwashed? — Mark, vii. 5.

"Toward the Deity (to theion) they are peculiarly pious. For before the Sun rises they utter none of the uninitiated (prayers); but certain ancestral prayers to Him, as if beseeching Him to go up!"—Josephus, Wars, II. 7. "Having worked diligently up to the fifth hour they are then gathered again unto one place. And clothed in linen coverings, thus they wash the body with cold waters. And after this purification they go together into their own abode, where no one of the heterodox is suffered to enter! . . . The priest prays before the meal."—Josephus, Wars, II. 7; Matthew, xxvi. 26. "They are allowed freely to assist those that want, and to have compassion! Everything spoken by them is stronger than an oath. Swearing is shunned by them! And they are unusually zealous respecting the writings of the ancients, selecting most those for the profit of soul and body. Hence roots and medicines are sought out by them for the cure of sicknesses. . . . But to those striving after their Haïresy (alpeus, a taking by the hand) not straight is the way!, but for a year to him remaining outside they give the same diet, and a hatchet and the aforesaid girdle and white raiment!—Josephus, II. 7; Matthew, xvii. 2. And when in this period he gives proof of his self-control he goes in nearer to their diet, and partakes of the purer waters, those for purification! But he is not yet taken in to live with them. For after the exhibition of the endurance his moral is tested by two more years. . . . He must swear to keep faith always to all, but most toward the rulers; for the government is not given to any one except from God!"—Josephus, II. 7; see Luke, xx. 25; John, iii. 27. If any one wishes to come after me let him deny himself.—Matth., xvi. 24. "To the Hairetists that come from elsewhere what they have is spread out (by the Essenes) as if it were theirs, and they enter into the houses of those whom they never saw previously, as if they were their most intimate friends. Therefore when they make the travels they carry nothing at all with them."—Josephus, II. 7. Carry neither purse nor scrip nor shoes... remain in the same house eating and drinking what they have!—Luke, x. 4 ff; Matthew, x. 9. But Jesus separated himself both from the Essenes, and from the Baptist! The Essenes considered oil a defilement.—Josephus, Wars, II. 7. Jesus ordered it.—Matth., vi. 17; Luke, vii. 46. His disciples anointed the sick with oil.1—Mark, vi. 13. The Baptist’s disciples fasted, those of Jesus did not.—Matthew, ix. 14. He seems to have encouraged the moderate use of wine; while John and the Essenes were total abstinence!—Matthew, xi. 18, 19; vi. 31.

In those days came John the Baptist, preaching in the desert of the Judea, saying Repent, for the Kingdom of the Heavens is nigh! His salutation to the Pharisees was far from complimentary. The rabbis were out of favor among the adherents of the Gospel of the Jordan that was preached between the Testaments. "The Nazoreans (Nazoraioi) come next2 to the Cerinthians,3 being at the same time with them; whether also before them or with them or after them, nevertheless synchronous: for I am not able to say more exactly which succeeded to which! . . . And all Christians at that time were equally called Nazoraeans." — Epiphanius, ed. Petav., I. p. 117. "Iasous 1 in the Hebrew is called Therapeutes (a Healer and Savior). They were called Iessaeans 2 before they were called Christians." — Ibid., I. 120.

1 Ye about to go forth from your bodies, ye will not be able to ascend without pure oil!—Codex Nasaraeus, ii. 281; also Irenæus, I. xviii. p. 108.

Ye have heard that Antichrist is coming; even now Antichrists there are many; by which we know that it is the last time (End of the world).

They went out from us, but they were not of us; for if they had been of us they would have continued with us!

Many false prophets are gone out into the world!

And every spirit that does not confess that Jesus, the Anointed, is come in the flesh . . . is that spirit of antichrist whereof we have heard that it should come! — John, Epistle i. ii. 22, 18, 19; iv. 1, 2, 3; compare Luke, xxii. 8 ff.

But those who are called Ebionites agree indeed in thinking that the world is made by God; but those things which have reference to the Lord (Jesus) they regard differently from Cerinthus and Carpocrates. But they only use the Evangel of Matthew, and deny the apostle Paul, calling him an apostate from "the Law." — Irenæus, I. xxvi. They considered Jesus only a man.—Ibid., p. 127, note 2. They preached not only at Rome and in Asia, and sent forth the roots of their thorn branches from Nabatha, Paneadis, Moabitis and the region of the Cocabi in the land Basantis, but also in Cyprus (Epiphanius is a witness), and at the same time from the abomination of the Samaritans, the wickedness of the Jews, the opinion of the Essenes and Nazarenes, etc.—Irenæus, with the notes of Billius, Ducange and Feuer-Adentius, p. 127, note 1. The fathers were such partisans that they would abuse these primitive unitarians.

1 Iasomai, Iasomai, Iasomen, to heal, to cure.—Liddell & Scott's Greek Lexicon. Iasous is a Hebrew name; see Spirit-Hist., 225.

2 Those admitted among the Essaeans must swear to communicate their doctrines to no one any otherwise than as he received them himself, to preserve the books belonging to their haeresy and the names of the angels.—Josephus, War., II. 7. This mention of the names of the angels looks like a prelude to the worship of angels which Paul mentions, Coloss., ii. 18. Mention is made in the preaching of Peter, Antient. Rec., part II. page 669, regarding a kind of worship of angels and of the moon; and not celebrating the new-moons or other festivals unless the moon appeared.—Burder's Josephus, III. 474; note, New York ed. Compare Numbers, xxiii. 1; Revelations, ii. 14, iv. 5, v. 6. The Sadducees say there are no angels.—Acts, xxiii. 8.

The doctrine of angels took the greatest development in the Christian doctrine and in that of the Kabbalists.—Munk's Palestine, 513.
This is more fully treated in Philo on the Iessacans (Essenes).—Epiphanius, I. 120. Josephus carries them back, as one of the three principal sects, to 144 Before Christ.—Josephus, Ant., xiii. 9. Munk derives their name from the Syriac Asaya (the Physicians) and wishes to connect them with the Therapeutae of Egypt.—Munk’s Palestine, p. 515. There were four thousand of them living in the Desert and in cities. They had their mystic books, and predicted the future.—Munk, 525, 517. Their views were in many respects those of Iesus.—Josephus, Wars, ii. 7. Burder, III. 473. The Nazarenes were Jews and adhered to the Law and Circumcision.—Epiphanius, I. 120. “For the Haeresy of the Nazarenes was before Christ, and knew not Christ.”—Epiphanius, I. 121. Paul said: In the way which these call Haeresy I worship, believing in all which are in the Law and in the Prophets.—Epiphanius, I. 121; Acts, xxiv. 14. Many thousands of Jews believed, but they were all zealous for the Law of Moses.—Acts, xxi. 20. Even Paul conformed to it when he was in Jerusalem.

I inquired of one of the Angels . . . who showed me every secret thing concerning this Son of the MAN.—Enoch, xiv. 2.

The names of the Original Seven Aeons are not those given above in the Codex Nasaraeus; for one thousand years must have changed these in the changes of the religious idea. Jesus stayed in Ephraim, a city of the Desert.—Epiphanius, I. 117. Farther on the Sabaeans continued to Bassora where the Codex Nasarae was published. There was a sound from the heaven, as if of a violent Blast rushing . . . and there appeared to them cloven tongues as if of fire! And it sat upon each one of them, and all were filled with Holy PNEUMA.—Acts, ii. 2 ff. Not all were Galileans! There were Parthians, Medes, Elamites, Mesopotamians, Arabs, Egyptians, &c.—Acts, ii. “In the LAST DAYS (of the Aeon) I will pour my SPIRIT upon all flesh.” That great and famous day of the KURIOS!—Acts, ii.; Matthew, xiii. 49.

Jesus resided in Galilee.—Matth., xvii. 22; iv. 23; i. 23; John, iv. 43 ff. Josephus calls him “a wise man.” Wise man means Rabbi.—Israelite Ind., III. 25. The Jews addressed him by the title, Rabbi, Rabboni.—Mark, xiv. 14, Peshito. He cast out demons! He raised the dead!
by shaving his head. “Among the Jews I was a Jew, among the Heathens a heathen.” And it happened to me on my journey and approaching Damascus about midday that suddenly a great light flashed round about me! Who art thou O Lord of Light? And he said to me I am Iasous the Nazorene whom thou dost persecute.—Acts, xxii. 6ff.

Letting fall the name of Iesus they neither have called themselves IESSAEANS nor continued to hold the name of the Jews nor named themselves Christians, but Nazoraeans, from the name of the place Nazareth (?) In all things they are Jews and nothing else.—Epiphanius, I. p. 122. The resurrection of the dead is confessed by them. And concerning Christ I cannot say if they think him a mere man, or, as the truth is, confess that he was born through the Holy PNEUMA from the Virgin Mary.—Ibid., I. 123. But this haeresy of the Nazorenes is in the city of the Beroeans toward Coele-Syria, and in the Decapolis toward the parts of Pella, and in the Basantis.—Ibid., p. 123. They have the Evangel of Matthew most fully in Hebrew. This is manifestly still preserved by them just as it was originally written in Hebrew letters.—Ibid., I. p. 124. Which St. Jerome translated into Greek: quod nuper in Graecum de Hebraeo sermone transtulimus, et quod vocatur a plerisque Matthaei authentieum.—Ibid., II. Dion. Petav. animadv., p. 54; Hieronym., in Cap. xii., Matth., Cap. 13.

Palestine is the source of Christianity, we had almost said, of the Jewish Kabbala. In the time of its origin Christianity seems to have joined with the Gnostic Jews in opposition to the Rabbis¹ and the

The TEN PATRIARCHATES or "LIVES" ("Aiôns," Ages) are the Ten Primal Aeons or "Manus" euhemeristically set out by the author of Genesis. The Babylonian SARS³ were Ages or Times.

Gnostics (heathen-Christians) existed already before Christ.—Seyffarth’s Chronology, 180.

² Taauth, Hermes, the Wisdom, the Male and Female Wisdom. Adam and Eua are "Logos and Zoe." Abram and Sarah seem to be Bromius and Asarah Asherah (Venus) euhemerized. "This Bilanx hangs in a place which is not."—Book of the Concealment or Mystery, I, § 5. "The Babylonians pass over in silence the One Principle of the Universe."—Damascius, 258; Movers, 276. Paul mentions the "Hidden God."—Syriac, Acts, xvii. 23; Murdoch.

³ Sar, San, An, On, Alon, are names of the Sun or Time. Sanah, Shanah, means year; Sar a solar period or Times; and Aeon the same. The "Great Year" of the Hebrews was 600 years.—Josephus, Ant., I. 8.
(Mar) and the Binah (Venus, Myrrha, Martha "our Lady") are Mars and Venus. Mar, or Mar-na, means "Our God."

The Deity was regarded in the Hebrew philosophy as Semimale. This occurs all through the Kabbalistic writings of the Hebrews. Two pairs of Spouses, Pater and Mater, also Microprosopus Androgyne.—

Rosenroth's Kabbala Den. II. 370; Liber Mysterii, iii. 32. "Buthos and Sige, Mind and Aletheia."—Irenæus, I. i. 12. The Buthos, Mind, Logos and Man are each of them male-female.—Irenæus, I. i. 1; I. v. The ancient Jewish Kabbala gives the Macroprosopus His Spouse, and the Microprosopus his Uxor; like the Gnostic Haeretics. "The Mother ... by the Father, brought forth Short-face."—Kabbal. Denud., II. 375. Sed et Microprosopus ad Uxorem accedebat.—Ibid., II. 354; Liber Mysterii, I. 35, 38. "The Anointed they call male-female."—Cyril of Jerusalem, VI. xi. Bardesanes is Kabbalistic. In his system, the Supreme Being created His companion, the Mother of the Anointed Son. The Son has the Pneuma as his spouse.—Dictionnaire de la Conversation, II. 514. He was born at Edessa towards the commencement of the second century.

The first Quaternation is thus: Monotes1 and Henotes (the Power that exists in union with Him); This Monotes and Henotes, being the one, sent forth, not producing, a Beginning (Arché) before all things Intelligible, Unborn and Invisible, which Arché the story calls Monad (Monad from the One).2 With this

1 Proarché, Proanemoestos, Mysterious and not to be named!—Irenæus, I. v. These two Duads are male and female.
Something similar may be seen in parts of the Nazarene Codex which treats the patriarchs as Aeons. According to the Babylonians each of the TEN patriarchal KINGS, excluding Bel (Adam) and Beltis (Eua), ruled ten SARS, each SAR being 3600 years.—Movers, 165.

The Ten Hebrew Aeons emitted by Logos and Zoe, the Ten Babylonian Aeons ending with ANos, Illinos and Aos, the Ten Hebrew Patriarchs ending with Noh (Nos), the Ten Babylonian Mythic Kings (Gods) ruling down to the Flood, the Ten Sephiroth of the Hebrew Kabbala, all point to a concentration upon the number 10 of the Kabbala; and go to show a proximity, in date perhaps, between the Genesis of the Bible and the genesis of the Kabbala. The Adam and Heuah of the Bible, the Apason (Azon, Apis) and Taantha (the Mother of the Gods, Cybele, Rhea) and Moum (the Only-begotten Son) show where the theology of the (Old and) New Testament originally came from. The Nazaraean Codex, Ireneæus and the Kabbala Denudata are at hand to fill up and supply anything that may be wanting to complete conviction. Adam 3 Movers, 275.

Before the heaven existed, there were, through Logos, Idea and Matter and the God who is the Demiurg.—Timaeus, Locrius, 94.

Atten (Adoni) and Athena are the Male (Logos) and the Female Wisdom.

“But the God of Israel is the eternal Wisdom, Ha-Chakamah Ha-Kadomah, united with the Soul of the Anointed.—Knorr von Rosenroth, Kabbala Den., III. 271. Seir anpin is in truth the Soul of the Messiah joined with the Eternal Logos.”—Ibid., III. 241.

Kadmah (Kodmus) and Semele, Dionysus and Proserpine (Isis, Venus), would make the Quaternion.

ANos (Noh, Noah) is the eighth Patriarch in the Babylonian Kosmogony; and the eighth in St. Peter.—Damascius, from Eudemus; Movers, 275; 2 Peter, ii. 8, Syriac and Greek.
Monad coëxists a Power homoousian to it, which (itself) also I call the one. These Powers (the Quater ternation), the Monotes and Henotes and the Monad and the One (four in number) produced the other emissions of the Aéons.—Irenæus, I. v. There is a Duad, of which the one is called MYSTERIOUS, the other Sige. From this Duad a second duad is emitted, of which he calls the one, FATHER, the other Aletheia.
—Irenæus, I. v. Some say BUTHOS is without Wife, neither male nor female, nor anything in general. And others say He is male-female, attributing to Him the nature of Hermaphroditus. Again others join Sige as a Spouse to Him, that there may be a First Pair.—Ibid., I. v. Patrem enim aliquando cum conjuge Sige, modo vero et pro masculo et femina
God who manifested Himself through Iesous ANOINTED
His Son, who is His eternal Logos, not proceeding forth from Sige (Silence).”—Ignatius ad Magn., viii.
It is absurd to profess Iesus ANOINTED, and judaize.
For Christianity did not believe in Judaism, but Judaism in Christianity!—Ibid., x. For you take up arms against Haeresies, against Judeans and Samaritans and Gentiles.—Cyril of Jerusalem, Preface, vi.
The Syrian-Jewish sacred literature of the New Testament Era (from a.d. 50 to the middle of the second century) and the century preceding was pro-mimently Gnostic.

Gnosticism has borrowed much from the traditions and theories preserved in the Sohar.—Franck, die Kabbala, 82, ed. Gelinek. The Kabbalist Book Je-zira was composed in the time of the first Mishnateachers, that is, during the first century before Christ and the first fifty years of the Christian era.—Franck,
65. “We feel no doubt that all important metaphysical and religious principles which make up the basis of the Kabbala are older than the Christian dogmas.” —Franck, 249. The Gnostic Emanation-doctrine existed in the time of the Apostles and was widely spread; while the writings of Paul and John show that that higher and secret doctrine of Judaism was no result of the Alexandrian philosophy.—Kleuker, 77.

“Iēsou Nazārēne!”—Luke, iv. 34, Greek; Tischendorf.

“Jordan (was) the Beginning of the evangelists.”—Cyril of Jerusalem, III. ii.; XIV. viii. Among those born of women none was greater than John.—Matthew, xi. 11. Matthew, Mark, Luke and John, all Jews and “men without learning,” yet who had not been able to escape hearing of Kabbalistic and Gnostic conceptions then prevalent, issue exclusively Hebrew opinions which in time are in foreign lands maintained first by Jews, later taken up by Gentiles, and finally consecrated to the uses of the papacy. The origin is wholly Jewish; and of course the New Scripture must be considered in a Jewish point of view. If Jews started the doctrine, Judaism, not Christianity is called to be its interpreter. No man, except Jews, was charged with the preparation of the Four Gospels! Judaism with its numerous sects and abundant Gnosticism, its Kabbala,² its Old Testament, its Ancient Doctors and Schools, its rabbinical Commentaries, its Mishna, its Talmud, its reverence for Seven Planets and Seven Aeons, its recognition of the Father and His Mind, Wisdom (Adan, Adam, Athena) or Only-begotten Son, the Anointed; its use of Horus' Amon,\(^1\) and other Egyptian philosophical expressions, its Ialkuts, Shalshelets, etc., also its lost literature, its Parsism, its Chaldaisim, and its Arabian Mythology must all be taken into account, together with what are called the Syrian Heresies (\(! \!\)!), in forming an estimate of the Gospels.

The religious philosophy of the Magi was famous under the name "Oriental Wisdom."—Franck, 84. Simon Magus (like other wise men among the Jews) was perfectly familiar with most of the Oriental philosophy, and accordingly speaks with fluency of the Father, Son, and Holy Spirit, as of familiar doctrines: saying that he had himself appeared among the Jews as Son, among the Samaritans as Father (Pater) and in other nations as the Holy Spirit.—Irenæus, I. xx. p. 115. This is not the language of a man just learning these doctrines for the first time! He carried with him a certain Selene or Helena (as Luna, Binah) whom he announced as the primal Conception of his Mens (Mind), the "Mother of all," by whom in the Beginning he conceived in his Mind to make angels and archangels. He talks of Aeons, Powers and Angels (Virtutibus, Potestatibus et Angelis)\(^2\) in the style of St. Paul, and while the Apostles asserted that Iesus was the Logos, he claimed this rank for himself as Highest Aeon.—Irenæus, I. xx. The Lion was his image, but Selene-Helena was worshipped as Minerva.—Ibid.

THE BAPTISM OF THE JORDAN:

The earliest Nazarenes were not the Christians. The Nazarenes held that John the Baptist was the true Prophet. John the Baptist and his disciples were Nazarenes. "For the Haeresy of the Nazarenes was before Christ, and knew not Christ."—Epiphanius, I. 121. "In the way which these (Jews) call Haeresy I worship."—Paul, Acts, xxiv. 14; John, iii. 25.

The Nazarenes were distinguished for abstinence. The John the Baptist Nazarenes ate neither flesh nor wine.—Codex Nazar, II. 253; Sōd, II. 141, 102, and p. viii.; Matthew, iii. 4; Codex Nazar, I. 81, 33; Matthew, iii. 13, 16; iv. 2; Sōd, II. x, xi, xiii. xv, 140, 142. "Nazarenes who have not eaten the food of the children of the world!"—Codex Nazar, II. 253. "It is good not to eat flesh nor to drink wine!"—Romans, xiv. 21; Timothy, iv. 3; Acts, xxiv. 6.

For there must be sects among you.—1 Cor., xi. 19. Pharisees, Sadducees, Essenes, Nazarenes, Dositheans, all existed before Christ.

Paul (called by the Jews "a leader of the sect of Nazarenes") found Disciples at Ephesus, and said to them, Did you receive the Holy Inspiration (Pneuma) when you believed? And they replied to him: But we have not heard if there is any Holy Inspiration! 2

1 Let him deny himself!—Matthew, xvi. 24. Nazarenes fasted; and, just after his Baptism into the Sect, Jesus fasted for forty days—Matthew, iv. 2.

2 The Nazarene Codex is very hostile to the doctrine of the Holy Spiritus. —Sōd, II. 102, 109; Codex Nazar, II. 94, 95; III. 65.

The Nazarenes were baptized in the Jordan—Codex Nazar, III. 38, 39; II. 211, 217. Vocemque Vitae prae dicantes in Iardana descenderunt.—Ibid., II. 243.
And Paul said, Into what then were you baptized? And they said, Into the Baptism of John!—Acts, xix; Luke, vii. 28, 30; Matthew, xxi. 25.

The Baptism of John whence was it? Jordan is the beginning of the evangels!—Cyril of Jerusalem, III. ii; XIV. viii. John, son of the Aba Saba Zacharia, conceived by his mother *Anasabet*¹ in her hundredth year, had baptized for 42 years when Iesu Messias came to the Jordan to be baptized with John’s Baptism. But he will pervert John’s Doctrine, changing the Baptism of the Jordan, and perverting the Sayings of Justice.—Codex Nazar, I. 109. "There is not a greater prophet than John the Baptist; but the least in the Kingdom of God is greater than he!" And all the people justified God, having been baptized with the Baptism of John!—Luke, vii. 28, 29; John, iii. 25.

John preached the End of the Age, saying, Repent, for the Kingdom of the Heavens approaches! Flee from the wrath that comes! Bring forth the fruits therefore that accord with Repentance. Lo, the axe is put to the root of the trees! Every tree therefore that bears not good fruit shall be cut down and cast into the fire. I indeed baptize you with water unto Repentance; but He that comes after me is more powerful than I. He will baptize you with the Holy Spirit and with Fire! His winnowing shovel is in his hand and He makes clean his threshing-floor. The wheat He will gather into his Storehouse: and the chaff He will burn with Fire not extinguished.

Codex Nazar, I. 327.

This is the Lesson of the JORDAN! Amen.

In the name of the supreme LIFE! When I came, Apostle of Light, King sprung from Light, gravely I came hither. Doctrine and Splendor in my hand, and upon me light and laudation, brightness and doctrine, voice and preaching, character and baptism. Darkened hearts with my voice and preaching I illuminate. My voice is sent forth in the world; my voice in the world is sent forth from the head to the foot of the world; my voice in the world is sent forth! Let every man attend; and each attending shall be freed from Consuming Fire!
Happy ye who act JUSTLY, peaceful and faithful; happy peaceful, abstaining far from every evil. I am Apostle of Light, whom the Lord has sent into this world. I am Apostle\(^2\) the JUST, in whom is nothing false, JUST, in whom there is nothing false, and to whom nothing is wanting and deficient. I am Apostle of Light: whoever breathes the odor of Life, who receives this doctrine, his eye is full of light, his eye full of light, his mouth full of hymns, his mouth full of hymns, and his heart full of wisdom.

I am the VINE, the VINE OF LIFE, in whom dwells nothing false, the Tree of Glory: whoever follows Life his heart is full of JUSTICE. The wicked shall

I am BAPTIST of all who have put faith in JUSTICE and this Baptism! I am Life which was from itself, was from its own Splendor, which will remain in the same SECRET PLACE in which it was; whose Splendor shone forth from Itself, whose Light is copious, whose Splendor is Sublime, which (Life) is superior in its own Light, and whose Light is itself stablished by itself. LIFE considering in secret with itself, determined in secret, to call forth a Son. Also LIFE knew that the Son which it intended to call forth into existence would also procreate Sons. Then LIFE procreated this Son like Himself. And him when begotten He placed in Jordan of living water sprung from LIFE, endowed him with JUSTICE, clothed him with Splendor, covered him with Light, and "From the Sun God will send a King" was said of the Messias. The Persian Anointed resided in the Sun.—Spirit-Hist. 245, 247. A new Offspring is sent down from heaven, the Boy (Metatron) now being born, with whom the Iron Race shall end and a Golden arise in all the world!—Virgil, Eclogue, 4. Metatron was called Nôr (Nar, Anar, Onuris, the Forming Principle, the Water-god Nereus, Noh; Nhr "stream"), which (nor) also means Boy!—Nork, I. xx; II. 279; Bodenschatz, III. 165; Sōd, I. 163, 117 note, 55, 21, 39, notes; Spirit-Hist., 61. Anos is the Sun (Metatron).—Ibid. 49. Nuriia is the wife of Noah (Nus, Nuh, Nar, Nereus, Nor, Anos).—Codex Nazar, I. 96. A voice went out from the Cloud of the angel Anos.—Codex Nazar, II. 296. The angel Anos (the Messiah, Metatron) will come into the world, and walk in Jerusalem. He will cure the sick, restore sight to the blind, purify the leprous, give speech to the deaf and dumb.—Codex Nazar, I. 57, 101.

I am Abel (Gabriel) whom Life has sent, . . . Gabriel the Messenger, called, delegated and sent to create the world . . . . Abel Aeon, most splendid of all the angels.—Codex Nazar, I. 267, 165, 283. Abel Ziua is called the First-begotten.—Ibid., I. 247.
Life, my parent, said: Abel Ior, Concealed Watchman, cui manus imposita patris fuit, and whom I have made equal with myself... Go, our Son, first-begotten, and ordained for all creatures.—Codex Nazar, I. 291, 287.

The Jews themselves held that, before the Coming of the Messias, Elias would first come, and be visible on the mountains of Israel.—The Book Psikta rabbatha, fol. 62, col. 1; Ialkut Shimonij über Jesaiam, fol. 53, col. 3, num. 337; in Bodenschatz, 189. Even to this day the Jews pray in their synagogues for the Coming of Elias! They hold that the Messias will come riding on an ass.—Ibid. 189. The ass was a symbol of the Sun (Asal, Sol, Asellus, Esel, Asan, San, Sun, Asinus, Atana in the Nazarene-Syrian, from Atan, Atten, Adonis); Siloh, Silenus,¹ Anos, Onos, and Asellus go together. The ass of Silenus symbolized the End of the year, the Harvest, the Vintage; but the ass of the Messias indicated the End of the world and the Last Judgment.—Sød, I. 198; II. 117, 118, 131; Matthew, xxiv. 3; xxv. 32-34, 40, 46; Spirit-Hist. 356-359, 247, 248; 2 Esdras, ii. 34; iv. 26; vi. 7-9. Persian and Chaldean Magi came from the country “SABA” to Jerusa-

¹ Bacchus becomes bearded and then is called Silenus.—Norr, Bibl. Myth., I. 1. Selenus and Selene are Sol (Sol) and Luna.

Apollo is made “son of” Silenus, and is called Dionysodotus; Dionysus or Poseidon preceded Apollo in the oracular office.—Mackay, II. 123, 124.

Compare the Golden head of an ass* worshipped in the Jewish Temple and carried away by Antiocbus Epiphanes, as mentioned by Apion, and the Consecrated winged Ass in the Mysteries.—Mackay, II. 136; Guigniale, iii. 289, 295, 339. Beth H Asal (Beth Esel) is the city of the Sun (Ausel, Usil, Azael, Sol).—Micah, i. 11. Compare the myth of Silenus and Midas, who built the temple of Cubile Pessinuntia at Pessinus. He was the Deus Lunus, Osiris-Bacchus in the moon.

lem.—Söd, II. 127; Isaiah, lx. 6; Matthew, ii, 1, 9, 10. And the Jews expected that the Sign of the Messiah would appear in the heavens.—Matthew, xxiv. 30. “Ascend thou Blessed Virgo!” Euoi, Bacchus, thou alone art worthy of “the Virgin!” “Adoni himself gives you a Sign, Lo, “the Virgin” shall conceive and bear a Son, and he shall call his name “Amanuel.” For always the Sun rising takes on one sign (of the Zodiac).—Söd, II. 126.

Out of Bethlehem (Abaratha, Ephrata) shall come a Musal (Savior) in Israel, whose “Going forth” has been from the Beginning and from Eternity.—Micha, v. 2, 5; Nork, II. 66. And I will pluck up thy Groves (of Adonis and Venus) out of the midst of thee!—Ibid. v. 14.

The Persian Messias, Sosios, will suddenly appear unexpected. He will come in the clouds; upon the White Horse (sosa) of the Sun; he will wake the dead and hold Judgment.—Nork, II. 164, 165; Daniel, ix. 25; vii. 13; Matthew, xxvii. 52; xxiv. 37, 39. The Logos-doctrine cannot have been first formed at a late period among the Aramean-speaking Jews. Already the Hebrew text speaks emphatically of an Angel of the Lord (2 M. 3, 2. 14, 19. 23, 20; 4 M. 20, 16). The Zohar names Metatron “the First-born Being” and “Beginning of all creatures.” “Metatron will be conjoined to a body in a maternal uterus” (because he as Messias shall descend upon the earth).—Nork, Bibl. Mythol. II. 278; Sohar, I. 77. col. 2, Sulzb. Metatron is Adam Kadmon.—Nork, II. 281.

that the Messiah would suffer.\(^1\) Repent and be converted; that so your sins may be blotted out, and times of rest may come to you from before the face of the Lord; and he may send you Him, the Messiah, whom the heavens must retain until the completion of the times of those things which God hath spoken by the mouth of his holy Nabia (prophets) of old. For Musa (Moses) said: A Prophet like me will Maria (the Lord) raise up to you from among your brethren. To Him hearken ye in all that He shall say to you. And it will be that every soul who will not hearken to that Prophet, that soul shall perish from his people. And all the prophets that have been, from Samool (Samuel) and those after him, have spoken and proclaimed of these days!—Acts, iii. Syriac; Murdock.

Our Rabbins of blessed memory have learned through a tradition that the Messias, the “Son of Daud,” is living in the Paradise even unto the present day.—Avodath hakkodesh, fol. 55, col. 2, cap. 43. in Bodenschatz, 184, 90.

John the Sabian preached in the Desert of Judea, wearing the coarse dress of hair and the Iessene Girdle of Leather. The Iezidi priests still make their pilgrimage to some place near Jerusalem (probably in the Lebanon); while the Nazarenes (Sabians\(^2\)) dwelt in Coele-Syria, in the Decapolis\(^3\) (up to the Lebanon) and in Bashan, beyond the Jordan.—Söd, II. xvi. The New Testament expressly connects itself with the “Nazarene sect” over the Jordan.—Matthew, ii. 23; iii. 1, 4, 13; Söd, II. 34, 47, 48; Acts, xxiv. 6; xxvi. 9. The Essenes practised self-denial, a severer discipline; and their justice is worthy of admiration.—Jos., Ant., xviii. 2; Wars, ii. 7. They respected the “Rays of the Deity.”—Wars, ii. 7. They kept the Seventh day; and some of them lived in Syria.—Philo Judaeus, iii. pp. 523, 524. We find a Sabean people on the Euphrates named “Nasrites.”—Wetzstein, 105; Söd, II. 8. The Iezidi\textsuperscript{2} are Sabians, and, like John the Baptist, their priests still use the raiment of hair.—Haxthausen, 232. They have their religious overseer, Sheikh Nasr.—Ibid., 227.

The Iezidi are the followers of Iezid son of Anisah. He believed that God will send a Messenger out of the midst of the Persians and reveal to him a book which already is written in heaven, and which as one whole he will reveal to him at one time.—Shahrastani; Ohwolsohn, II. 625. The Iezidi have a tradition that they originally came to Syria from Busrah and the country watered by the lower part of the Euphrates. They use baptism, and believe in seven archangels. The marshes of the Nabatheans are between Wasith and Basra (Jervis, 379) and Nabatheans inhabited part of the Lebanon. After death the body of a Iezidi is washed with running water.—Layard, 94. The Sabians derive their religion from Seth (Asad, Azad, Set). From Azed (Seth), an ancient name of their God, the name Iezidi is said to be derived.—Layard, 94. The Lebanon and other Sabians swear “by Seth.”—Jervis, 107.

It also contains many other follies which awake the sensible man's contempt.—Ibid., 458. That skill which expels Demons is a useful science to men.—Josephus, viii. 2. Josephus says that Solomon composed incantations by which diseases are expelled, and left written methods of exorcisms by which demons are so driven away that they never dare to return; "and this mode of cure has the greatest prevalence among us to this day."—Josephus, viii. 2. He then proceeds to relate that one Eleazar freed men from demons in the presence of Vespasian and his officers; he put a ring containing one of the roots mentioned by Solomon to the nose of the demoniac, and drew the demon out through his nostrils, making mention of Solomon and using the incantations composed by him.—Josephus, viii. 2.

Thus said Iachoh against the Nabia (Prophets) that seduce my people, that bite with their teeth and exclaim Salom (!); but whoever does not kiss their mouth, against him they prepare war.—Micha, iii. 5; Söd, II. 37. 360 Prophets shall go out from the city Jerusalem; and indeed in the name of the Lord of Majesty; and those vagabund.—Codex Nazar, I. 59.

The twelve loaves the (twelve signs) circle of the Zodiac.—Ibid., IV. 202. When he ordered twelve loaves to be set on the table, he denoted the Year, as distinguished into so many months.—Burder’s Josephus, I. 172. When he made the Candlestick of 70 parts, he secretly intimated the 12 allotted Divisions (Houses) of the Planets: and as to the Seven Lamps upon the Candlestick, they referred to the Course of the Planets.—Josephus, III. 9.

The later strict observance of the Sabbath dates probably from the Pharisaic period out of which came at last the absurdities of the Mishna.—Numbers, xv. 33; Matth. ii. 7; xxiii. 4, 14, 16, 25, 27.

CHAPTER I.

SABA.

Beam of the Sun, that hath shone the fairest light of all before to seven-gated Thebes, thou hast at length gleamed forth, O Eye of golden Day!—Sophocles, Antigone.

Bless Iachoh ye his Angeles, GABARI (the Cabiri, the Mighty) in strength!
Bless Iachoh all his HOSTS, his SERVANTS.—Psalm, ciii. 20, 21.

Praise Iahoh all his SABA!—Psalm, cxviii., 1, 2.
Praise IAO all his SABA!
Praise the Kuries all his Dunameis!—Septuagint.
Praise the Lord of Light all his "Powers"!—Justin c. Trypho, 312.

RABBI SIMEON hove his hands up, wept and said: Wo to him who shall live to see the TIME (of the Messias)! Then a fire-pillar will appear which for forty days will reach from heaven to earth and be visible to all nations of the world. On this day the KING, the MESSIAS, will depart from the Garden Oden, out of the place named KN ZPOR (Birdnest), and appear in Galil (Galilee). And on the day of his coming then the whole world will quake and all children of the world will hide themselves in holes and caverns, for they can no longer think to be saved!—Auszüge aus dem Sohar, p. 30. From the East a STAR, shining with all colors, with seven other stars about it, will become visible.—Ibid., p. 31. As the Jews despised the Christians too much to borrow from them, it is probable that the passage from the Sohar and the one which we give from the Evangelists were both originally taken from a common source,—Judaeo-Persian prophesies of the coming of Sosiosh and the Last Judgment.—Spirit-Hist., 247.

Metatron stands before the THRONE.¹ The King ANOINTED (Messiah) has been appointed to reign over all HOSTS.—Sohar, Comment. Gen., xl. 10. The SPIRIT of ALAHim is the SPIRIT of the King MESSIAH!—Ibid., xl. 10. "Why is the Archangel Metatron called the Mediating PILLAR? Because he is a Mediator between God and the Israelites!"—The Sohar; Nork, 101 Frage, p. 135. The pillar is the Sun’s emblem. The solar radiance is painted around the head of the Messiac. "Hanoch (Enoch, Inachus, Sol) is the Angel Metatron who includes all the Seven Angels that see the face of the King!"—Kabbala Den., II. 304.

The LORD OF LIGHT² himself, with the command, with the voice of the archangel, and with the TRUMPET of God, shall descend from heaven, and the "DEAD in the Anointed" shall rise!—1 Thess., iv. 16.

¹ Metatron is the "ANGEL of the Lord," Legatus Shechinae, Princeps faciei, who is also called Nor* (Boy); of whom it is said that his name is like the name of his Lord. He is said to have seventy names, like God.—Kabbala Den., I. 528. Metatron is the Tree of Life.—Ibid., I. 498.

"The Demiurg of the world, he who was proclaimed by Moses."—Julian; Movers, 552. "In the Chaldean philosophy this intelligible light is an emanation out of the intelligent life, and is the light-principle (the light-Aether) from which the souls emanate and to which they return. The planets dance their course around the Chaldean Sun-god, but the Father is the intelligible world, Bel-Saturn, from whom the seven planetary rays go over to the Sun-god!"—Movers, 553.

Seest thou not what they do in the cities of Jehudah and in the streets of Jerusalem? The women knead dough to make cakes to the Queen of Heaven (Astaroth, Astarte).—Jeremiah, vii., 18. The Sun and Moon and all the Host of Heaven they have worshipped.—Jer., viii. 2. They burned incense to Bel, to the Sun, and to the Moon, and to the planets and to all the Host of Heaven.—2 Kings, xxiii., 5; xxi. 5; Numbers, xxiii. 29; Zechariah, iv. 2, 10.

The Angel Raphael describes himself as one of Seven holy Angels which present the prayers of the holy and go in before the Glory of the Holy One!—Tobit, xii. 15. The Demiurg is Iao who is over the Seven Circles of the Seven Ghebers, the Seven Spirits of Fire, the Seven Gabborim or the Seven Gabiri, the Seven Wandering Stars! The ancient religion had become astronomical in character in the hands of learned priests or Magi.—Spirit-Hist., 267; Movers, 110. Consequently we find Seven Terraces in the Temple of Borsippa (Babel):

1 The Supreme Being produced from his own substance two secondary existences, Christ, who resided in the sun (Sabaath, Heptaktis) and corresponded to the Persian Mithras (teaching in Chaldean Mysteries the Resurrection of the dead) the Mediater!—Donaldson, Chr. Orth., 144; Movers, 390, 391, 392, 554. Sab is Sol; Sabatai is Sol-Saturnus; Sabaath, the Seven Planetary Rays, the Heptaktis.

Christos is Demiurg of the sun, not the sun which is visible.—Cyril, Cat. XI. viii. For whether visible or invisible, whether Thrones or Lordships, or any thing that is named, all existed through the Anointed.—Ibid., viii.

3 From the Seven Spirits: Raphael, the Sun’s angel, Gabriel, the Moon’s angel, Chamuel, the angel of Mars, Michael, Mercury’s angel, Zadokiel, Jupiter’s angel, Anacl, Venus’s angel, Sahathiel or Kephziel, Saturn’s angel.—Nork, Rabbin. Quellen, 383, 384.

4 We may also connect with Sabaism the Sevens of the Noah-myths and I am Nabu-kuduri-uzur, King of Babylon; the established Governor, he who pays homage to Merodach, adorer of the Gods, glorifier of Nabu, the supreme chief (muda emga), he who cultivates worship in honor of the great Gods, the subduer of the disobedient man, repairer of the temples of Bit-Saggat’u (Beth Shaggeth) and Bit Tzida, the eldest son of Nabu-pal-uzur, King of Babylon;

Behold now, Merodach, my great Lord, has established me in strength, and has urged me to repair his buildings. Nabu, the guardian over the heavens and the earth (shami’e and irzit), has committed to my hands the sceptre of royalty, (therefore) Bit Saggat’u, the palace of the heavens and the earth for Merodach, the supreme chief of the gods, and Bit Kua, the shrine of his divinity, and adorned with shining gold, I have appointed them. Bit Tzida (also) I have firmly built. With silver and gold and a facing of stone, with wood of fir, and plane, and pine, I have completed it.

The building named ‘the Planisphere,’ which was the Tower of Babylon, I have made and finished. With bricks enriched with lapis lazuli I have exalted its head.

Now the building named the Stages of the Seven Spheres, which was the Tower of Borsippa, had been built by a former king. He had completed forty-two cubits, but he did not finish its head; from the lapse of time it had become ruined; they had not taken the SEVENS of the Apollo-mythus and the Minotaur legend. Seven boys and seven maidens were the tribute to the Minotaur.—Gen., vii. 2. See also Spirit-Hist., 35, 36, 310-312. Müller, Comp. care of the exits of the waters, so the rain and wet (Zunnu and radu) had penetrated into the brick-work; the casing of burnt brick had bulged out, and the terraces of crude brick lay scattered in heaps; Merodach my Great Lord inclined my heart to repair the building. I did not change its site, nor did I destroy its foundation platform, but, in a fortunate month and upon an auspicious day, I undertook the rebuilding of the crude brick terraces and the burnt brick casing. I strengthened its foundation, and I placed the writing of my name in the part that I had rebuilt. I set my hand to build it up and to finish its summit. As it had been in former days, so I exalted its head. Nabu the strengthener of his children, he who ministers to the Gods, and Merodach, the Supporter of sovereignty, may they cause this my work to be established for ever; may it last through the Seven Ages; may the stability of my throne and the antiquity of my empire, secure against strangers and triumphant over many foes, continue to the end of time.—Rawlinson, p. 30–32, R. A. S. vol. xvii.

We suppose the first chapter of Genesis to be the latest portion added to the scriptures, because its ideas of cosmogony are late! The astronomical ideas are evidently later than Sabaism, because to Balom's Seven Altars and the Seven Planets, as well as to the Seven Circles, no allusion is made, although the Seven days of the week are retained in the order of the Creation. But while the Pharisees had left Sabaism behind, the common people in the Desert had not wholly given up the ideas belonging to it.

1 Donaldson's reasons seem conclusive on this point.—Christian Orthodoxy, pp. 201, 232, 233.

2 Paul went to Arabia, and returned to Damascus.—Gal., i. 17.
The Sabians, or worshippers of the SABA (Host) of heaven, believed in One God, and produce many strong arguments for His Unity; but they also pay an adoration to the Stars (Paul, Colossians, ii. 18), or the Angels or Intelligences which they suppose reside in them and govern the world under the Supreme Deity. They go on a pilgrimage to a place near the city of Hauran in Mesopotamia, where great numbers of them dwell!—Jervis, 234; Sale, Prelim. Disc., sect. i.

Nabuchadonazar says in his cylinders: The building named "the Stages of the Seven Spheres," which was the tower of Borsippa, had been built by a former king, . . . but he did not finish its head.—Rawlinson, 30. The Birs Nimrud or temple of Borsippa has seven stages symbolical of the concentric circles of the seven spheres, and each colored with the peculiar tint which belonged to the ruling planet. The lowest stage, Saturn's, is black, the second, Jupiter's, is orange. The third, that of Mars, is red; the fourth, the Sun's, must have been golden. Rawlinson suspects that it was originally gilt, or "clothed with gold." The fifth, Venus's, is light yellow (white-yellow). The sixth, Mercury's, was probably dark-blue; the seventh, Luna's, was white, perhaps encased with silver plates. At this temple of Borsippa, Hermes (Nebo) was worshipped.—Rawlinson, R. A. S. xvii. part 2; see Loftus, 28. Compare Balaam's seven altars to the seven planets. This is the old Sabaean, Chaldean, and Ancient Arab¹ worship.— Rawlinson, ibid., p. 17, 18, 19. It is the worship of Adoni Sabaoth of the Arabian-Hebrew races.—Spirit-Hist., 181, 225.

The temple had the emphatic name Bith Iachoh Zabaoth (House of Iachoh Sabaoth).—Zachariah, vii. 3; Neumann, Sakhariah, 286. This Sabian worship of the Seven Sons of Sabus (Sab, Seb, Saturn, Dionysus) continues among the Sabians of the Desert and is seen in the Desert-Christian Religion of the Nazarenes of the Jordan:

He that hath the Seven Spirits of the God, and the Seven Stars. In the midst of the Seven Lights (One) like a son of man, girded with a Girdle of Gold! The Harrânîṭes of the 6th century preserved the old religion of the land.—Chwolsohn, die Sabier, I. 15, 141, 144, 152, 153, 154. Hamzah Isfahâni, a historian of the 10th century, remarks that what is left of the Chaldeans is now in the two cities Harrân and Rohâ, and that they in the time of el-Mâmûn gave up the name Chaldeans and took the name Sabians.—Ibid., I. 142, 141. But the real Sabians (of the Koran) were a Christian sect and dwelt in the Marsh districts.—Ibid., 142. Another Arab historian, a contemporary of the former, says likewise that the remains of the Chaldeans who call themselves Sabians and Harrânîṭes, sojourn in Harrân and Iraq, and first took the name Sabians in the time of el-Mâmûn.—Ibid., 143. The Sabians are named “the Chaldean Harrânîṭes.” The Arabs have not made a strong distinction between Chaldeans, Nabatheans and Syrians but rather identified them in great measure. So Masudi says the Chaldeans are the same as Syrians, identical with the Syrians, and the Syrians with Chaldeans.—Ibid., 162, 163. The Arabs call the Syrians Nabatheans.—Ibid., 163, 164, 441. Ibn Chaldûn identifies Babylonians, Chaldeans, Nabatheans and Syrians together.—Ibid., 164. The heathen of Harrân and the Heathen Sabians of Harrân are identified by Chwolsohn, I. p. 108. They had their Deus Lunus and their Dea Luna.—Ibid., 170. We know from the Bible that Chaldean races dwelt in the neighborhood of Harrân.—Ibid., I. 313. A Chaldean race dwelt in Harrân itself.—Gen., xxii. 22. Distinct accounts of the emigration of Semitic races into Harrân are preserved in the accounts of the Inroad of the shepherd Terah and his sons.—Gen., xi. 31; xxii. 20; Chwolsohn, 313, 314. It was the passage to the West! The population was Aramean. 'Aram means Harrân.—Chwolsohn, I. 314. 315; quotes Isa bar Ali; Chananjeshu bar Sarushwai. The Harrânians burned Seven male lambs for the Seven Deities!—Ibid., 412. The Harranites also kept an Easter-feast, Nisan 20th.—Ibid., 465, 535. And another (Nisan, 28th) to Hermes, the Seven Deities, etc.—Ibid., I. 498.

The usual expression, of the Rabbins, for heathen is "Worshippers of the Stars and Planets;" and for heathenism "Adoration of the Stars and Planets." —Chwolsohn, I. 182.

The Nabatheans2 inhabited the southern foot of Mount Libanus. They agreed with the Jews in being hostile to Syria, which was repeatedly overrun by Nabatheans and Sabeans.3—Jervis, 382. They were

John the Baptist and the Nazarenes, their guests or neighbors, they _drank no wine_, and denied themselves many things. They occupied a tract of country near Galod or the Hauran.\(^1\)._Ibid._, 380, 382. Some of them raised camels and sheep, and others engaged in commerce with caravans, transporting merchandise.

binical Pharisee who wrote Genesis with having bought up Joseph in the pit:

We find the Nabatheans mentioned, Genesis, xxv.

_Isaiah_, ix., 5, 7. They were an "independent people;" and this accounts for the position of John the Baptist, the Nazarenes and Jesus toward the Pharisees of Jerusalem. It was among them that the Nazarene preachers found a refuge, in the security of their deserts. It is really expedient to refer

\(^1\) About Hauran the inhabitants experience an extreme climate, the thermometer being as high as 110 under a tent in July, and 8 below zero in winter, with a continuance of snow for some weeks during the coldest parts of the latter period.—_Jervis_, 455; _Chwolson_, I, 310, 810.

Basan was the land which stretched north and east from the mountains of Galod, comprising the plain Hauran and the mountain range Hauran.—_Neumann_, Sakhariab, 392. In the Hauran we have to seek the kingdom of Og, king of Basan.—_Weitzstein_, 81.
This excellent and learned man gives a detailed account of the life, customs and country of the Nabatheans, describing the home of the Nazarenes, the life of John the Baptist, and the refuge of Christ. This is the "Over the Jordan" where "John ate the wild honey" and whence Christ drew the references to the "lost sheep" and the "camel" in his comparisons. The Nabatheans were forbidden to use wine; they were breeders of camels and sheep, and used the desert honey, which was found in great abundance. They occupied a tract of country in the neighborhood of Galad and the parts of Syria bordering on the Lebanon! "His fame went throughout all Syria."—Matt., iv. 24.

By the aid of Burckhardt, Strabo, Ptolemy, Pliny, Niebuhr, Forster and other writers, Mr. Jervis finds all these names of Esau's descendants to be the names of the various Arabian tribes. Amalek and the tribe of the Shammah, known to modern tourists, are mentioned.—Gen., xxxvi. 13; Jervis, 448 ff, 472 ff, 379 ff. The enumeration in Genesis of these Arab tribes, known to Ptolemy and Pliny, plainly fixes the composition or compilation of Genesis in times nearer to Ptolemy than to the creation of this planet. The Rabbinitical era suits with all the circumstances of the case. On the tribe of the Shammah see Layard's Babylon and Nineveh, 260, 541, et passim.

All these nomad tribes roving about northern Arabia were comprised by the Greeks under the name of Nabathian Arabs.—Heeren, Asia, II. 103.

The Nabatheans ruled from the Nile to the Euphrates, and from Lebanon to Mount Zametas.—Jervis, 383. Thus we see that the Nazarenes could travel from the Jordan even to the city Bassora (Basra) and still be among their friends the Nabatheans or Sabeaus. Since some thousand Essenes dwelt in the Desert, John and Jesus made it their base of operations; their protection was from the Arabs. The Nabatheans and Timaneans were neighboring tribes, and the neighborhood of Mount Zametas was common to both. The Timaneans (Teman) were masters of the entire tract of country occupied in Pliny's time by the Saraceni, Thabeni and Suelleni.—Jervis, 393.

According to Strabo, the whole mountain chain between Lebanon and Bosrah (situated at the southern termination of the Hauran) was peopled by the Ituraeans, or the Arabs of the tribe of Ietur. The Arabs and Ituraeans dwelt intermingled in the mountains south of Trachonitis and Damascus. According to Burckhardt, the Hauran comprises part of Trachonitis and Ituraea, the whole of Auranitis, and the northern districts of Batanaea. The alliance spoken of in 1 Chronicles between Ietur, on the borders of the Hauran, and Kadmah, on the shores of the Persian Gulf, is curiously illustrated by Burckhardt when speaking of the intercommunication still maintained by the roving tribes of the great northern desert which separates these widely distant regions: he says that, during the last century, the Wadi Hauran was the continual scene of conflict between the Muweyli Arabs (who at present inhabit the Desert about Aleppo) and the Beni Khalid tribe from Basra. For Muweyli and Khalid, substitute the tribes Reuben, Gad and Manassah on the one hand, and the Ishmaelite tribes Itur (Ietur), Naupish and Kadmah on the other, and we have the same conflict, on the same ground, for the same cause, at an interval of more than two thousand years. The existence of the Nazarenes on the Jordan and at the same time on the Persian Gulf is thus explained. And the publication of the Codex Nasaraeus at Basra is all the same as if it had been arranged and committed to writing on the banks of the Jordan, in Galilee, or Gilead.

Hottinger speaks of the Religio Nabathaea, or Chaldaea, to which Chaldeans, Persians and, more than others, the Sabaeans were addicted; Sabaeos, Chaldaeos, Nabatheos, Charaneos, quo ad ritus, ceremonias, universamque superstitionem, scriptoribus Arabicis esse eosdem.—Chwolson, I. 28, 29, 82. "The author of the Agricultura Nabathaeorum wrote that the Babylonian and Harrân Sabians mourn Tammuz; under the first he understands the Mendaites, who really had their abode in Babylonia."

It was in Wasith and Basrah.—Ibid., I., 105, 106, 143. The Mendaites or Johnchristians dwell not far from the Persian Gulf. Chwolson, I. 21, 22. The Mendaites are named Sabians.—Ibid., 24, 69, 70, 74. Up to the year 830 after Christ Sabaism was understood to mean John's-Christians.—Ibid., I. 19.

The Mahometans of the sixth, seventh and eighth centuries (the first three centuries of the Hegirah) gave the name Sabians exclusively to the Johnchristians (the Mendaites).—Chwolson, I. 100, 101, 102. Mahomet mentions the Jews, Christians and Sabians all together as Believers.—Ibid., I. 102. A Mahometan historian says that the real Sabians (of the Koran) were a Christian sect who dwell between the Desert and the Marshes, dissent from the main “Spirit and Matter” Philosophy; also the Hebrew Spirit of God with the Hindu Purusha, the Hebrew Word or Logos with the Brahman Word of Creation.—Ibid., 239. It on the same pages identifies the Hebrew Philosophy with the Persian and the universal Oriental Philosophy.

On the soil of Asia, from speculations of the Oriental philosophers two conceptions were derived that have mainly determined the religious convictions of the Christian world. The first is the doctrine of One Existence which is the primal and sole principle of the universe. The second is that the Light-god (later the Logos), who previously was held to be the king of the gods, is an emanation from this Supreme being. The Primal Existence manifests itself by its Intelligence (Logos or Wisdom) considered as the Primal Male Principle, and often depicted as resident in the sun. In this stage of the conception the Wisdom is identical with the Spirit, or Purusha, which is the Primal Male Principle. The Old Testament uses the Wisdom, Spirit and Word as synonymous expressions. —Spirit-Hist., 232. The Hindu, Egyptian and Greek, as well as the Phœnician, Babylonian and Persian, taught this philosophy in their schools.—Spirit-Hist., ch. vii. viii. passim. These two existences were, from their relation one to the other, most naturally termed the Father and the Son.—Compare Spirit-Hist. 174, 179-182. While this was going on, Religion had continued to be influenced by Philosophy until the Wisdom, Word and Spirit were worshipped as Divine Persons in Egyptian, Persian, Hebrew and Hindu liturgies and sacred writings.—Spirit-Hist., 172, 228, 238-241. The Chaldeans are described as worshipping Bel the Older, the Supreme Existence withdrawn into Himself, and as also worshipping Bel the Younger, who is the Sun-god Mithra, and the LOGOS.—Movers, 265, 553, 555, et passim; Spirit-Hist., 182, 196, 222.

In this philosophy, Adoni, Adonis, Osiris, Bacchus, Iach, Bel-Mithra, Aion and Christ are names of the LOGOS who dwells mainly in the solar orb, as the SPIRIT, the LIGHT and the LIFE of men. Therefore we find the sun-names El (Bel), Sadi, Eli, Alah, Aloh (Helios), Adoni (Baal), retained in the Hebrew Bible as names of Iahoh, Iacho, or Iacchos.

Zoroaster had delivered the Living Word, the astronomical observations of many centuries had been sent to Aristotle from Babylon, the Mourning for Adonis was slowly passing away, and the reputations of philosophers, astrologers, prophets and teachers were still in their bloom, when a chorus of angels, a gathering of the Magi, and a star of wonderful fulgence, signified the advent of a Child of the SPIRIT of God and a virgin mother.

But the difficulty was that the gospels declared that John, a BAPTIST, saw the SPIRIT (the Power of God) descend upon Iesus after he had reached manhood; and if the SPIRIT then first descended upon him, there was some ground for the opinion of the Ebionites and Nazarenes who denied his preceding existence and refused him the attributes of the LOGOS. The Gnostics, on the other hand, objected to the FLESH, but conceded the LOGOS. Against these views the

* Cyril, Bishop of Jerusalem, calls Christ "Life begotten from LIFE."—Cyril, IV. v.
The Old Testament does not appear to have made due allowance for the popular belief in spirits; on the other hand we find a superabundance of demonology, in the Evangelics and Zendavesta (Vendidad passim), which represented the prevalent notions of the common people. Now in the fetich philosophy a spirit may be housed anywhere; and the Jews thought that several spirits might enter the same man. If a good or an evil spirit could thus enter the human body, how much more could the Angel of God, His Brightest Emanation, "come out from God" and enter the body of Jesus. It had been already maintained that the "Power" of the INACTIVE SUPREME BEING could become incarnate in a human being: Simon Magus' offered himself as an instance of this.—Acts, of the second century (that is, for about sixty or eighty years) the only Christian writers were those called the Apostolic Fathers; whose writings are few and meagre, and scarcely throw any light on sacred literature and the occurrences in the churches. Hence that early period was, emphatically, the obscur age of the Church, and one which has baffled the attempts of learned theologians to explore, from the times of Eusebius to the present day.”—Murdock, Transl. Syriac Test., p. 493.

Simon Magus taught that he was himself the Highest Power, that is, He who is Father over all things.—Irenaeus, I, xxiii. The word "father" is elsewhere applied to the Son, to the Nous, to the Mind of the God.

Colorbasus says that the first Ogdoad (of Aeons) was not produced gradually one after the other, but that the Emission of the Six Aeons was delivered at the same time and at once by the Primal FATHER and His ENNOIA (Intelligence, the Binah).—Irenaeus, I. vi. p. 84. Paris, 1675. What the Primal FATHER intended to emit, this was called "Father;" and since what he emitted was truth, this was called Truth. When then He wished to manifest Himself, this was called ANTHROPOS; and those whom He previously hoped for when He emitted, this was named Ecclesia (the Church). And ANTHROPOS spoke the Logos; this is the First-begotten Son. And the Life follows the Logos. And thus the first Ogdoad was completed.—Ibid., p 84.

Many deceivers deny that the ANOINTED has come in the FLESH!—1 John, iii. 1, 2.

Some of the Gnostics say "that there is a certain Primal LIGHT . . . without end! But that This is the 'FATHER of all' and is called First MAN. But they say that the MIND is His forth-going SON, (Son) of Him sending him out, and this one is Son of the Man; Second Man! Afterward they say, when the FIRST MAN exulted with His Son over the beauty of the SPIRIT, that is, of the Woman, and illuminated Her, He generated Incorruptible Light from Her, the Third Male, whom they call the ANOINTED, Son of the First and Second MAN and of the First Woman the Sacred SPIRIT."—Irenæus, II.

1 "Filium Hominis."
2 The Book of Enoch also has the expression: "Son of the Woman."
3 No man's ideas are based in himself, but are founded in what he gets from others before him. The doctrines mentioned in Irenæus are therefore earlier than his time. If Irenæus is giving us the Heresies of the Orient during the first two centuries, they materially aid us to comprehend early Christian dogmas. These Heresies are based on the same Gnostic substratum which underlies the primitive New Testament theology. Irenæus himself says the doctrines of the Valentinians are ancient (archaias, antiquas).—Iren. I. v. The term Heresy meant a part of contemporaneous Religious-philosophy—Other people's religious views. Heresy was a component part of public opinion; being a part of the res gestæ, it is admissible in evidence. Valentinus was twice excommunicated and twice received again into the bosom of the Church.—Milman, 211. It would be safe to assert the Church's early Gnosticism. The worship of the ANOINTED as God is a part of Gnosticism.—See Milman, p. 219; Irenæus I. passim. Genesis, Ezekiel, Daniel and parts of the Septuagint are clearly Gnostic. Gnosticism was the Lex non scripta (the Common Law) of Christianity.

Avoiding the antithesis of the falsely-named Gnosis, which some proclaiming have erred concerning the faith.—Paul, 1 Tim. vi. 21. Paul himself speaks of the Principalities and Powers in the realms above the heaven.—Ephes., iii. 10. Every Principality, Power, Domains and Lordship (Kuriotetos).—Ibid. i. 21.

Justin Martyr calls Jesus Christus "God’s First-born and Dunamis (Power, Aeon)".—Justin, Apol. I. 69. "The First Dunamis (Power, Aeon), after God the Father and Lord of all, is also Son the Logos."—Justin Martyr, Apologia, II. p. 74. "The Pneuma (SPIRIT) then and the Dunamis (Power) which is from The God it is right to consider nothing else than the Logos who is also First-begotten to The God."—

For there are many gods and many Lords (Kurioi).—1 Cor., viii. 5. Angels, Dunamides (Powers), Principalities.—Paul, Rom. viii. 38; Justin, Expos. Fidei, 4. "O God of Angels and Powers (Dunameon)"—Polycarp's prayer; Hefele, p. 291. Some of the Gnostics used this form of baptism: Into the name of the Unknown Father of all things, into Truth the Mother of all, into Him who descended upon Jesus for the uniting and redemption and communion of the Powers (Dunameon, Virtutum). Above every Dunamis (Power) of The Father I invoke that which is named Light, and Good Spirit and Life, because Thou hast reigned in the body. . . . The Name, which is concealed from every deity (Theoteos) and Lordship (Kuriotetos) and Truth (Aletheias), which Jesus the Nazarene assumed in the Livas (or Zones) of "the Light the ANointed" that lives through the Holy Spirit unto angelical redemption, the Name of Restoration (re-establishment) Messia, etc.: I do not divide the "Spirit" of the ANointed, the heart and the Supercosmatel Power full of pity. Let me enjoy thy Name, O Saviour of truth! The initiated answers: I am confirmed and redeemed, and I wash my soul from this Life and from all things which are from it, in the name of the IAO who redeemed his own soul unto purification in the ANointed the LIVING!—Irenæus, I. xviii. According to Saturninus, the God (Iahoh, Iao) of the Jews was one of the Angels.—Ibid, I. xxiii. (Iao) the Demiurg of the world, proclaimed by Moses. Julian, in Cyrill. adv. Cerinthus in Asia taught that the world was not made by the First GOD but by a certain Aeon (Virtute) very much separated and distant from that Princeliness Which is over all things, (an Aeon) ignorant of Him who is above all things. But he subordinated Iesus, not born from a virgin (for this appeared to him impossible). But he said that he was the son of Joseph and Maria, just like all other men. And that he had more justice, prudence and wisdom than all (others), and after his baptism Christus (the Anointed) descended upon him, from that Princelness Which is above all things, in the figure of a dove (ionah), and then announced the unknown FATHER and performed powers; but finally the Christus flew back again from Iesus, and Iesus suffered and rose from the dead: but that the Christus continued without having suffered (impassibile), existing pneumatically (in Spirit).—Irenæus, I. xxv.

"He said: The First Power [Dunamis] after the FIRST GOD was decassated in the Universe"; "not knowing nor understanding that it was the sign of the cross."—Justin, p. 93. "Iesus 'the Anointed' is Son of God and Messenger, being formerly Logos, and at one time appearing in the idea (image, form) of fire (in the burning bush),* and again in the likeness of the bodiless, but now become a man!"—Ibid., p. 96.

In the name of LIFE the CONCEALED, the FIRST, hidden in a secret place, in the name of the Aëons MANO (Ammanuel) and Demuto, in the name of my father the "Messenger of Life."—Codex Nasaraeus.

duced from Himself a certain Rational Power (Dunamin, Aeon),\(^1\) which is called the Lord of Light's Glory, at one time, Son, at another, Wisdom, now Angel, now God, now Kurios and Logos.—Justin Martyr, cum Trypho, p. 284. Angels and Powers are in the heavens: Praise Him all His Powers (Dunameis).—Justin, cum Trypho, p. 312; Psalm 148 reads "Zaba" in Hebrew, "Dunameis" in the Septuagint. "This Power is not disjoined nor separated from the FATHER." "This Power is not disjoined nor separated from the FATHER."—Justin, p. 358. "Should I touch upon the Secret Initiation into the Sacred Mysteries, which the Chaldean bacchised (ebakeheuse) respecting the Seven-rayed God, lifting up the souls through Him, I should say things unknown, and very unknown to the rabble, but well-known to the blessed theurgists. Therefore, I will keep silence respecting them at this time!"—Julian in Matrem, p. 172; see \(^1\) Aìon means Sun, Demiurg, Soul, Aeon, Life, Time, Age. As an adjective, Aìonos, it means living, eternal, immortal. "The temple of Aìon the Sun."—Julian, Oratio, iv. in Solem. On, Aìn, is the Sun, Aìn means "time," "hour" in Persian; Aìon means "soul" in Homer, on means "mind" in Philo, and in "soul" in Persian. The Aìons or Aëons are the "Souls" or "Intelligible Gods."—Spirit-Hist., p. 179, 182, 49, 129, 240, 241. The early fathers admitted that the heresies were ancient matter; and yet either assumed to lay them on the shoulders of Simon Magnus, or ascribed a vague heretical origin to them. But their origin is Chaldean, the same source from which the Christian dogmatism originally sprung. But the latter came through the Nazarenes into Christianity, from the simpler and less philosophical air of the country, from over the Jordan in Peraea, through the preachings of John and Jesus in the desert.

The patterns of the first Christian Teachers were the earlier rabbins. The style of their writings is an improved rabbinical method. But the rabbins were so much hampered by their efforts to pervert the early mythology and superstitions into subordination to orthodox Judaism that they had very little opportunity to talk common sense, while the early Christian teachers were not thus tied; and accordingly they adhered to the path that John and Jesus trod, preaching morality and religion, righteousness, temperance and judgment to come, the end of the world, the resurrection of the dead and the life to come, and ardently proclaiming the worship of the Anointed!
Build me here "SEVEN ALTARS."
—Numb., xxiii. 1. "Saba raba, the great Seven."

"SOPHIA" spoke many things concerning the FIRST MAN and incorruptible AEON, also predicting concerning that "ANOINTED (Christo)" who is on high (Christo sedente ad dexteram Patris Ialdaboth), et rememorantem homines in incorruptibile lumen et in PRIMUM HOMINEM.—Irenæus, I. xxxiv. pp. 136, 137. The Mother asked of the FIRST MAN that Christ should be sent!—Ibid., p. 136. The Sethianites, whom some call Ophianites or Ophites, call the God of all HOMINEM (MAN), and again name his Light: but the "Comprehension" of His Mind they call SON of MAN and SECOND MAN.—Theodoret quoted in Irenæus, p. 37. Paris, 1675.

The Kabbalists (ancient Jews) named the FIRST-BORN, "Light of LIGHT." God's FIRST-BORN went out from the Most High, together with SOMETHING that they name the "SPIRIT OF THE ANOINTING."¹ He is the "ANOINTED of the Highest" and His holy "Veil.”—Kleuker, Natur und Ursprung der Emanationslehre

¹ The FATHER seeing this "Light," anointed it with His own benignity, that it might become perfect. This they say is the Christus (ANOINTED).—Irenæus, I. xxxiii.

He that abides in "the doctrine of the ANOINTED" hath both the FATHER and the Son!—John, II. 10. Whoever denies the Son, the same hath not the FATHER; he that acknowledges the Son hath the FATHER also.—John, I. ii. 23. The ANOINTED is Son of the BLESSED.—Mark, xiv. 6. Who being in God's form thought it not robbery to be equal with God.—Philippians, ii. 6; John v. 18 ff. GOD has most recently, in these days, spoken to us through a Son, by whom he made also the Aeons.

1 The Orphic school was acquainted with the idea of six world-ages.—Spirit-Hist., 291. If therefore to Oulom, or Oulomus, we add six Ages (Aions), we have Seven Aeons.

In an Aeon (kalpa) there are fourteen manus (856,890 years = a manu). In each manvantara arises another Manu (Sun, Moon, "Aeon"), who becomes for his own period the Progenitor (the Sun) of mankind.—The Sûrya-Siddhânta; American Orient. Soc., VI. p. 154.

Thy throne, O God, is from the Aion of the Aion!—Epist. to the Hebrews, i. Thy throne, Alahim, is on Oulom (Time) and Ad (Time, Eternity).—Psalm xliv. 7.

What shall be the parting asunder of the times; or when shall be the end of the first and the beginning of the one that follows?

Esau is the end of the world and Iacob is the beginning of the one that follows.—2 Esdras, vi. 7, 9.

And when the world that shall begin to vanish away shall be finished, then I will show these tokens: . . .

And the trumpet shall give a sound which when every man hears they shall be suddenly afraid! . . .

Whosoever remaineth from all these that I have told thee, shall escape and see my salvation and the end of the world.—2 Esdras, vi.

For thou shalt be taken away from all, and from henceforth thou shalt remain with my Son . . . until the times (Aions) be ended!—2 Esdras, xiv. 9.

By the Logos of the God were the heavens of old, and the earth standing forth from water and in water, by which the then world, being overflowed with water, perished.—2 Peter, iii. 5, 6. Here are two manvantaras.

The Only-begotten again emitted another pair (Union), the Anointed and the Holy Spirit, in order to render firm and prop the Pleroma, by whom (a quisus) they say the Aeons were made.—Irenæus, I. i. pp. 14, 15; Milman, pp. 212, 214. The Son created the Intelligible Gods or Souls, Aeons (souls, minds).—Spirit-Hist. p. 179, 49, 52.

The Seven (hebdomada) is finished with those (7 Aeons), the "Mother" holding the eighth place.—Irenæus, I. xxxiv. p. 186. "By each one of them one heaven (coelum) was made, and each dwelt in his own."—Theodoret; see Note to Irenæus, I. p. 188; quotes also Tertullian de Præscript. Ouranous te nun tons Aionas eirasthai legousi: and they say that the Aeons were now called Heavens.—Irenæus, I. xvii.

Bless Iahoh all his ZAbar, his ministers, doing his will.—Psalm ciii. 21.

Among the Chaldeans 1A0 is Sebaoth; "Seven Heavens over which they say is the Demiurg" (Iao, ó ὡπερ των ἑπτα ἄνων), "on which account they call him Hebdomada" (Sabaoth). . . . The Seven Heavens they say are not Intelligible, but hold them to be Angels, and the Creator Himself an Angel like to (Times, Ages). Who since he is the SPLENDOR (Radiation) of His LIGHT and the imprint (figure) of his personality, being made so much better than the angels, has come into possession of a name more distinguished than theirs.—Hebrews, i.; St. Jerome and Tischendorf.

SEVEN golden candlesticks, and in the midst One like a son of man. He who has the SEVEN SPIRITS of the God, and the Seven Stars. SEVEN LAMPS OF FIRE which are the Seven Spirits of the GOD. And before the throne, as it were a glass sea, like to crystal!—Rev., i. 13, iii. 1, iv. 5, 6.

God; just as also the Paradise, which is above the third heaven, they say is fourth Angel in power.—Irenæus I. i. p. 22; see Movers, 550 ff.

Aristotle says that after the First GOD there are certain Intelligible (Notos) Gods.—Justin, ad Graecos, p. 7, Coloniae, 1686.

Thee, Father of the worlds, Father of the Aeons, Artificer of the gods, it is holy to praise. Thee O KING!—The Platonist Bishop Synesius, the Wisest and Best of the Ancient Christians.—Spirit-Hist. 311, 312; see Milman, Hist. Christ., pp. 212, 213.

"There are two PARAPHUADES (Sources, Germs) of all the Aions (Aeons), having neither beginning nor end, from one Root, which Power is silence invisible, incomprehensible; one of them appears above, which is a Great Power, the MIND of the universe, directing all things, Male: but the other, the great INTELLECT, Female, giving birth to all things."—Simon Magus; Hippolytus, 251, 253.

The Aeons (Ages) were formed by the Word of God.—Paul, Heb., xi. 3. In Jesus ANOINTED, before the Aeonian Times (Ages).—Paul, 2 Tim., i. 9. The MYSTERY HIDDEN from the Aeons (Ages) and from the generations.—Coloss., i. 26; Ephes., iii. 9. The MYSTERY kept secret in the Aeonian Times (Ages).—Romans, xvi 25. The Primal Father (Propator) was invisible, everlasting, and unborn, in silence and in much quiet, in boundless Aeons (Ages) of time.—Irenæus, I.; The Only-begotten emitted Logos and Zoe the Father of all those (Aeons) who should be after him, and the Beginning and Formation of the whole Pleroma.—Ibid., I. i. The other Aeons all, tacitly in a manner, desired to see the Extender (Prolator) of his seed, and to contemplate that Root Which is without beginning.—Ibid., I. i. p. 13. These are the Thirty Aeons of their error.—Ibid., I. i. p. 11.

Holy is God the Father of all being, holy is God whose wisdom is carried out into execution by his own "Powers."

The Nasaraean people dwelt just like the tribe Manassa, in Galaitis and Basantis, regions beyond Jordan;¹ so that, I think, the former forgot its language even as the latter the misery of its forefathers (ratio nominis subjecta.—Gen., 46, 20). Samaritan words were sounding round about them, and Syriac and Galilean words resounded in their ears (iis resoneae).—Codex Nas., Preface, note 3. The language of Galilee was corrupt Syriac, unpolished, with a mixture of other languages.—Anthon.

Iasous, the prophet, from Nazareth of Galilee.—Matth., xxi. 11, 46.

"The material of the Nasaraean language is Hebrew. And its form is so much the more like the Syriac as Galilee is nearer to Syria; but this has been corrupted in barbarum. Galileanism will be remarked, up to this time entirely unknown. I am uncertain whether it will receive the greater favor for its novelty, or reverence for its sanctity. For it was the vernacular of Christ and his Apostles. Also the Gnosis of the New Testament will be apparent. The Gnosis, the Oriental Philosophy, will be not less patent: Preface, Cod. Nas. Norberg:

The Divine MIND is eternal. And it is pure light, and poured out through splendid and immense space (Gr. Pleroma). It is Genetrix of the Aæons. But one of them (the Demiurg) went to Matter (which was) stirring up confused (turbulentos) movements

1 Weightier than all else is the similarity both of language and thought, between the Kabbala and all sects of Gnosticism, especially those of which Syria is the cradle; as the Religion-Codex of the Nazareans.—Franck, p. 81. The Sohar was written in Aramean-Syrian.—Ibid., p. 76.

"It was not until the second century that the combination of Orientalism with Christianity was matured into the more perfect Gnosticism. This was perhaps at its height from about the year 120 to 140. In all the great cities of the East in which Christianity had established its most flourishing communities, sprung up this rival."—Milman, p. 208. It is useless to object to the extreme Gnosticism of the Nazarene Codex, since the Nazarene people were Gnostics; and just those parts of the Codex Nasaraeus which are the most Gnostic are the ones to which we find parallel passages in the New Testament. St. Jerome found peculiarities in the Hebrew-Christian Gospel of Matthew. This he appears to have translated only into Greek. "The Nazarenes boasted that they had the Hebrew Gospel of Matthew!"—Opera Epiph., Vol. II. Dion Petav. Animad., p. 50. Testatur Hieronymus se vidisse Evangelium Matthei apud Nazaraeos, sed id confitereturuisse tum Apocrypha, tum eodem Syriaco aut Chaldæo sermo conscriptum.—Mattth. Flacius Illyricus in Glossis in N. T.; Praefat. in Mattheum, p. 1; Gutbrius, Nov. Test. Syriac.

2 According to the Valentinians there was a perfect Aion who existed before, called Buthon and Propator. Ennoia (Intelligence) is the Mother, and MIND (Nous) the Son. Him they call Only-begotten and Father, and Beginning of all things.—Irenæus, I. 16. The Propator is known only to the Only-begotten Son, that is, to the MIND.—Ibid., I. ii.; xii. No man has seen God at any time, the Only-begotten Son who is in the bosom of the Father, he has declared Him.—John, i. 18.

"In the name of LIFE the CONCEALED, the FIRST, hidden in a secret place; in the name of the Aeons MANO and Demuto, in the name of my father the ‘Messenger of Life,' and of the doctrine of the Genii."—Codex Nasaraeus.

(motus); and by a certain portion of Heavenly Light fashioned it properly constituted for use and appearance, but the beginning of every evil. The Demiurg claimed divine honor. Therefore Christ ("the Anointed"), the Prince of the Aeons, was sent (expeditus), who taking on the person of a most devout Jew (Iesu) was to conquer him; but who, having laid it aside (it was done upon the cross, by the contrivance of the Demiurg), departed on high! This Gnostic superstition has been briefly set forth, that the Nasaraean, resembling it, although opposed to it and just as intricate, might by comparison of each be more clearly understood. But which, commenced with equal appetite for making up fictions and facility of gaining belief, and the remedy being so much slower than the evil, was continued (uninterrupted) up to our time even. And Simon Magus was first (?) informed of it (Gnosticism) who wished to be regarded as the first Aeon himself! That also the Nazarenes did not at that time reject such (Aeons), is credible. For of the Ebionites, who acknowledged such, these were the instructors."—Preface, Cod. Nas., p. v.

"Ebion had the opinion of the Nazarenes, the form (doctrine) of the Cerinthians (who fable that the world was put together by angels), and the appellation of Christians; and having been joined (conjunctus) to them (the Nazarenes), each imparted to the other out of his own wickedness and decided that Christ was of the seed of a man."—Epiphanius, contra Ebionitas.

And I shall be in doubt if even our Nazarenes were not their disciples. The name is the same. This is ancient and the nation's. More recently the name Nabathaeans was added. The Ebionites and Nazarenes inhabited a place, for a long time, between Syria and Egypt, a desert; it was called Nabathaeæ. They were called Baptists, Sabaeans and Day-Baptists, and "John's Christians." They believed that the Messias was not the Son of God, but a prophet following John. They hold honey and locusts as a sacrament. And the day on which this is done is "a feast."—Preface, Cod. Nas., p. v. ff.

What went ye out into the Desert to see? A prophet? Yea, and a Greater than a prophet! For this is he of whom it is written: Lo, I send my Messenger!—Matth., xi. 8 ff. The Angel Metatron will descend upon the earth. "He will be conjoined to a body in the maternal uterus."—Sochar in Genes., 24, 2. Part I. p. 77, col. 2, Sulzbach ed.; Nork, Bibl. Myth., II. p. 278.

The Haeresy of the Elcesites shaped itself beyond Jordan; there lay, in Galilee (Hier. ad Nahum, I. i.), in Bag-abar of the tribe Simeon (Epip. de Vitis Proph., p. 18), a small place Elkesai.—Franck, Die

5 A certain just man, Elchasai, received a book from the Seri of Parthia,
During "the Reign of the Messiah" the General Resurrection shall take place! Consider that there are Four Worlds,—Ages or Dispensations. The first is the age in which we live; the second is the age of the Messiah; the third is the age of the General Resurrection; the fourth is the long or eternal age, the everlasting Sabbath. "Would" said Messiah "that I should be able to raise all, even those who are born out of time (Compare the 'Abortive' of the Codex Nazareus), that all might live."—Israelite Indeed, iv. 150, 151; Rabbinical Extracts.

If then they should say to you "See, he is in the Desert," go not out (into the Desert)! If any one should say to you, "Lo, the Messiah is here, or there," do not believe it!—Matthew, xxiv. 23-26.

When God created his world, he put his hand under the throne of glory, and brought forth the soul of the Messiah, and those of his suite! Then God spake to her (the soul), saying, "Wilt thou be created (that is to say, 'come in the flesh'), and redeem my children after six thousand years?"—Rabbinical Extracts; Israelite Indeed, iv. 150; Spirit-Hist., 357, 358, 359; 2 Esdras, ii. 84, 35, 36, 42, 48; xiii. 3, 26, 31, 52; Matthew, xxv. 31; xxiv. 3, 6, 14, 23, 30.

God (ha. Kabah) orders the "Angel who presides over the souls (ha Rochoth)" to bring that soul (Roch, Ruach) which He specially designates. And this law, eternal in the creation (ba Baram), is observed. The soul goes to the presence of the Kabah (God, Kebah, Kebo) and humbly prostrates itself. To whom God says: Betake yourself into this!! Again comes the Angel (Angelus conceptionis) and restores the animated seed to the mother's womb, giving it two guardian Genii; and a lighted candle is set upon the soul's head.—Wagenstein, Sota, Excerpta Gemara, pp. 72, 73.

And this "THE GLAD TIDINGS of the Kingdom (of the Anointed)" shall be proclaimed in the whole inhabited earth for a testimony to all the nations, and then will come the END (of the Age)! Whenever then ye see the Desolation (the Roman Cohort on guard in the Temple with the images of their idols on their ensigns) standing in the Holy Place, then let those in the Iounea flee to the mountains!—Matthew, xxiv. 15-20; Burder's Josephus, IV. 15; III. 142 ff, 276. After the destruction of Jerusalem the Christians fled to Pella, in the mountains of Peraea.

And when ye shall see Jerusalem encompassed with encampments, then know that its Desolation is nigh!—Luke, xxii. 20, 21. Vespasian garrisoned the neighboring cities Iamnia, Azotus and Emmaus, besides villages; and his camp was at Emmanus.—Burder, III. 111, 149, 150. He conquered a large part of Peraea, put garrisons in the villages of Idumea, laid waste the whole mountainous country, and pitched his camp at Korea.—Ibid., 150. He had now fortified all the places round about Jerusalem, also putting garrisons in Jericho and Adida, encompassing the City round about on all sides.—Ibid., 164, 160. Simon's army held other fortresses.—Ibid., 157, 158.

Kabbala, p. 253, note. The limits of Galilee were to Jordan; and it contained a part of Peraea, or the country beyond Jordan.—Anthon.

"Phoenicia indeed and Suria surround the Two Galilees, both the Upper and the Lower. ... And the Peraea is much larger, and much of it rough and desert, and wilder in respect to the growth of cultivated fruits. But the cultivated part of this region, and the all-producing and the plains planted with all sorts of trees, are mostly worked for the olive and vine and palm-trees. ... And its length is from Machairoun unto Pella."—Josephus, Wars, III. 2.

The region over which Jesus walked and taught was an oblong square, running northward into Phoenicia which he gave to some one called Sobias; this book was delivered (procured) by an Angel whose height was twenty-four schoeni, which is ninety-six miles, but his width four schoeni, and from shoulder to shoulder six schoeni; but the tracks of his feet three and a half schoeni in length, which is fourteen miles, but the breadth of one schoenus and a half, and the depth half a schoenus. And there is with Him also a Female whose measurements he says are in accordance with those above mentioned; and that the Male is SON of the God, but the Female is called the Holy SPIRIT (Ghost). A new remission of sins was announced in the third year of Trajan, and he defines a baptism ... But he says that Christ was born a man, like all men, and that he was not now born for the first time, from a virgin, but also before and again having been and being born he appeared and existed, changing his births, and having been transmigrated.

These Elechasites also apply themselves to mathematics, astrological and magic arts as if true, and, using these, they alarm the senseless so that they think these people possess the magic word (logou dunatou); they teach both incantations and epilogues to those dog-hitten and afflicted with demons and possessed by other sicknesses.

These are the wonderful MYSTERIES of the Elechasai (Elnai), the secret and great which he delivered to his disciples.—Hippolytus, II, pp. 463–467. He says thus: There are wicked Stars of impiety. and Syria, having the Jordan winding south through its middle. The Baptists and the followers of the Baptism of Jesus could start on the east side of the Jordan in Galaitis (Galaad or Gilead), thence go northward through Basan, on the east of the Gadarenes, Girgeshites and Chorazin, on the east of the Lake of Gennesaret, pass up into Syria, Lebanon, the parts around Tyre and Sidon, and come down on the west through Galilee of the Gentiles, Lower Galilee, visit Capernaum, Bethsaida, Tiberias, Cana of Galilee, Nazareth, and go southward into Samaria, to Sychar and Jacob’s Well. But if these followers of new teachers would enter Jerusalem, they must leave the provincial rectangle wherein they had previously remained. Thus the origin of the Baptists and Nazarenes was altogether in the country, in the provinces, north and northeast of the Holy City.

THE SON OF THE MAN.

At this very time was Iasous; a "wise man," if at least it is right to call him a man (ἀνθρώπος), for he was a doer of surprising works, and a teacher of such men as receive with pleasure "the truths." And many Jews and many Greeks he drew away to himself. This was "the Anointed." And on an accusation by the first men among us, having been condemned by Pilate to the cross, they did not stop loving him who first had loved him. For he appeared to them on the third day alive; and the divine prophets having said these and many other wonderful things concerning him. And to this day the sect of Christians, named from him, is not extinct.—Josephus, Ant., xviii. 4.

OLSHAUSEN'S TESTIMONY.

As soon as the learned began to search out how the New Testament was made, they fell upon accounts in the oldest writers of the Church, that already before all the Writings of the New Testament were put together into One Collection many teachers of the Church had felt doubts of the genuineness of individual Writings. Their reasons were held

1 John, i. 9, 10.
2 Josephus and the Nazarenes evidently considered Jesus to be a prophet.—Matth., xvi. 14. Hence the Nazarene expression, retained in the New Testament Scriptures, "Iasous Christos, a man shown forth." Elijah is called the man of God. And this expression, man, was usually applied to the prophets; although they were more than men, having a larger share of the Holy Spirit than fell to the lot of ordinary mortals. As Josephus failed to become a Christian, preferring Judaism, his remark (if it be his) must not be taken in the fullest sense of which the words are capable.
3 Nork says that the authors of the Canonical Books are as little known to us as those of the Apocryphal Evangelia.—Nork, II. 371.
weighty enough to consider those older doubts of the genuineness well founded. After the Reformation especially, this free examination of the Bible began to extend itself, and it was particularly Luther among the Reformers who pursued it.

The oldest traces of the existence of the entire New Testament, as a completely finished collection, are first found 300 years after the times of the Apostles! The especial reason why so much time elapsed before this body of Writings was exactly fixed (settled) is that the individual Books thereof, which naturally existed earlier than the Collection, were in circulation at first partly separate, partly in Smaller Collections.—Olshausen, 11.

“Since Jew-christians, Marcionites and Gnostics, not to mention other more unimportant sects, unsettled the unity of the Church, they saw themselves compelled to assert with all emphasis the purity of the Apostolic doctrine. Now was the time come when a sifting and separation of the manifold Christian Writings which were scattered in the Church was necessary! The different parties of Haeretics (Ihrlehrer) had moreover also all kinds of invented Writings in their circles, in which they taught their particular views under famous prophetic and apostolic names; against such Writings they must declare themselves in the most decided manner, in order to preserve the true apostolic doctrine from intermixture with Heresy and Confused Faith. But since individual teachers of the Church had naturally little power in opposition to the firmly-bound sects of the Haeretics, they felt the necessity of uniting themselves nearer and closer together; and out of this effort proceeded the so-called Catholic (General) Church.” and the Nazarenes had some Evangel of the Hebrews. The Ebionites and Marcionites used altered recensions of Matthew and Luke.—Olshausen, 30. But the Ebionites used only the Evangel according to Matthew.—Irenæus, I. xxvi. Prior to the Evangel there must have been "short accounts" of portions of the life and teachings of Jesus. Olshausen speaks of "shorter memoirs" (kleinere Aufsätze) about separate portions of the Evangel. "If two evangelists used the same memoir then a resemblance of recital naturally arose."—Olshausen. Nachweis der Echtheit der sämtlichen Schriften des Neuen Test., p. 32.

"It is remarkable that, while all Church Fathers say that Matthew wrote in Hebrew, the whole of them use the Greek text as the genuine apostolic Writing without mentioning what relation the Hebrew Matthew has to our Greek one! It had many peculiar additions which are wanting in our (Greek) Evangel!"—Ibid., 35.

Matthew who is also Lewis (Levi), an Apostle, from publicans, in Judea first with a view to those believing in circumcision put together an Evangel of the Anointed, in Hebrew letters and words (sentences); it is not known who translated it into Greek. The Hebrew (Syriac) up to this time is in the library of Caesarea. I received permission from the Nasaraeans, who at Beroea (Beroia) of Syria used this (evangel), to translate this.—Hieronymus, de Viris illustr., cap. 3. In the Evangel according to the Hebrews, which indeed was written in the Chaldean and Syrian language, but with Hebrew letters, which the

In this way the different sects were gradually crushed by the preponderance of the General Church; yet some of them sustained themselves up to the fifth and sixth centuries.—Olshausen, 18, 19.

In the effort to place the genuine apostolic writings together, some were very easily distinguished as genuine apostolic works; these they named “Generally Recognized Writings” (Confessedly Genuine). First they had the four Evangels together in a particular Collection, called the Evangelium. The other writings formed a Second Collection, which they called the Apostles. To this Collection of the Epistles of Paul the Acts of the Apostles was later added.

Besides these Generally Recognized Writings, there were others which many considered apostolic, but which others had doubts about: the second letter of Peter, the second and third of John, the letters of James and Jude, the Epistle to the Hebrews, and the Apocalypse. These they called Antilegomena (Spoken against). First toward the end of the second or the beginning of the third century the most teachers of the General Church agreed upon the genuineness of the above-mentioned Scriptures, excepting the Epistle to the Hebrews and the Apocalypse. These Epistles and the two great Epistles of John and Peter made up the Third Collection.—Olshausen, 21.

Some Christian communities used Evangels which seem to be different from ours. At Rhossus in Cilicia there was the Evangel of Peter; at Alexandria, there was the Evangel of the Egyptians (Olshausen, Nazarenes use even to-day, according to the Apostles, or as most suppose according to Matthew, which also is contained in the library at Caesarea, the history narrates: "Lo the mother of the Lord and his brothers said to him, Ioan the Baptist baptizes unto remission of sins; let us go and be baptized by him. But he said to them: What sin have I committed that I should go and be baptized by him? Unless perhaps this very word which I have spoken is ignorance."—Hieronymus, adv. Pelagianos, III. 2. Another extract from the Hebrew Matthew is, "If thy brother shall have sinned in word and has made satisfaction to thee, . . . For among the Prophets even, after they were anointed with holy Ghost, was found the word of sin."—Hieronymus, adv. Pelagianos, III. 2. In the evangel which Nazarenes and Ebionites use (which recently I translated from Hebrew into Greek, and which is called by most persons the Genuine gospel of Matthew), that man who has a dried hand is written a mason, praying help in words of this sort: "I was a mason, gaining my living by my hands; I pray thee, Iesu, to restore the soundness to me, that I may not basely beg for food." Even until the Saviour's coming the dried hand was in the synagogue of the Jews, and the works of God were not done in it: after he came upon the earths, the right hand was given back to those believing in the Apostles, and restored to its pristine work.—Hieronymus, book 2nd, Com. to Matth., xii. 13.

Barabbas, in the "Evangel which is written according to the Hebrews," is interpreted son of their master.—St. Jerome, Com. to Matth., xxvii. 16.

And it happened that this book, having been published by a disciple of Manichaeus, named Seleucus, who also wrote falsely the Acts of the Apostles, exhibited matter not for edification, but for destruction; and that this (book) was approved in a synod which the ears of the Church properly refused to listen to. —Jerome, v. 445.

The Hebrew Gospel of Matthew remained in Phrygia and in Palestine with all sorts of heterogeneous additions on the part of the Jew-Christians.—Olshausen, 37.

His Disciples coming by night, stole him while we (the guard) were asleep. And this story was circulated among the Jews down to the present day!—Matthew, xxviii. 13, 15. "A difficult work is enjoined, since this (the translation of Matthew) has been commanded me by your Felicities (Bishops Chromatius and Heliodorus), which St. Matthew himself, the Apostle and Evangelist, did not wish to be openly written! For if this had not been secret, he would have added to the Evangel that what he gave forth was his; but he made this book sealed up in the Hebrew characters: which he put forth even in such a way that the book, written in Hebrew letters and by the hand of himself, might be possessed by the men most religious; who also in the course (successus) of time (temporum) received it from those who preceded them. But this very book they never gave to any one to be transcribed (transferendum): and its text they related some one way and some another (aliter atque aliter)."—St. Jerome, v. 445. There was then a controversial inquiry on the part of "John's Disciples" (the Nazarenes) with a Ioudaean about Purification (Baptism). And they came to the John and said to him, Rabbi, he who was with thee over the Jordan (to whom thou didst bear testimony) behold he baptizes, and all men come to him! John answered and said, A man cannot receive anything if it has not been given to him from the Heaven!—John, iii. 25. But this Gabriel, august father of the genii, no mention having been made of the spring-water of the Styx, did not instruct and teach him in the knowledge of it. Yet Fetahil, the Genius, rose up, went away and descended into the lowest seat that was without a single creature. But placing himself in the depth of mud and immersed in the abyss, he thus spoke with himself: How changed was Living Fire, how changed was Living Fire! And elated in heart he said: I am Son of the Lords, why was Living Fire changed? But when Fetahil Genius had said these words, the "Spirit" strengthening herself, the "Spirit" strengthening herself, and, boasting herself, it being discovered that the Splendor was changed, and that for the Splendor existed "decrease and damage (detriment"), rose up. Bak means LIGHT, and Baga the Sun. We suppose that the Hebrew scriptural writers breathed in an "ah," so as to lengthen a word: as, Mahalaleel for Malalceel, Isabak for Isak (Asak), Bahak for Bak, Bauch-us (Light, Spirit and Water). The Nasarenes treat their "Spirit" as an evil Power, a different conception from THE SPIRIT. Justin Martyr also compares the Spirit that moved on the face of the waters with Kora; making the Spirit feminine.—Justin, Apol., II. p. 97. Christ, the Kurios, and Kora would then be the Light-god and his feminine Spiritus: Christ and the Holy Ghost are the Gnostic Pair that produce the Aeons.—Irenæus, I. pp. 11, 13, 15, ff. Thus we identify the early Gnostic-Christian conception of Christ and the Holy Ghost with that of Dionysus and Demeter—a Nasarene opinion. Justin also makes a closer comparison by substituting Minerva, the Female Wisdom (Sophia).—Justin, p. 97. The Kurios and Minerva-Kora are thus the Jewish Logos and Logess, the Son and Daughter of God (—Spirit-Hist., 228, 229 ff, 172), the Dionysus and Kora-Demeter of Phoenician-Jewish-Greek Mythology. Justin Martyr runs a

The FIRST LIFE pours forth prayers, not by giving thanks by words, to the greatest Mano, who dwells with the greatest FERHO. Then Mano, that Lord, rose up in splendor, light and glory; he called Kebar the lord, who was named Kebar Zivo, and by another name, Nebat Iavar bar Iufin Itafin, also Sam Mano, Helm and VINE of the food of Life, and, commiserating the Genii (Angels) on account of the magnitude of their ambition, said to him: Genie,¹ Lord of the Genii, see what the Genii (Angels) do, and about what they are consulting!—Cod. Nas., I. 135. They say: Let us call forth (provocemus) the world, and let us call the "Powers" into existence. The Genii are the Princes (principes) Sons of Light,² but Thou art the Messenger of Life.—I. 135.

This Second Life, the ISH AMON, the Place of the "forms" (ideas) in which the THOUGHT of the Creation, whose loftiest and purest Ideal it is, first sprung up—this Second Life has produced a Third, which is called the Superior Father (Abatur), the Mysterious Ancient, and the Ancient of the world (Senem sui obtegentem et grandaevum mundi). Abatur arose, and, having opened a gate, looked forth into the DARK water. But immediately a Son was formed, the Image of Himself, in that DARK water,¹ and Fetahil (the Demiurg or Architect of the world) was completely formed.—Codex Naz., II. 211; I. 308; Franck, 257.

² The idea and name, "the Son of (the) MAN," existed before Christ appeared.—Archbishop Laurence, Ezra, p. 320, 321, Oxford, 1820; Lawrence, Enoch, p. xlviii.; General Remarks to Ezra First (Fourth), p. 318-320. Dillmann dates the Book of Enoch 110 Before Christ.—Kurtz, die Ehen, 13. The Aethiopian text reads either Son of MAN or Son of the MAN, in the original Aethiopic. Like the Latin and Syriac it does not express the definite article.

We find among them the three highest attributes and seven lower; which are the Ten Sephiroth of the Kabbala. "At the gate of the House of Life the throne is fitly placed for the Lord of Splendor. And there are three habitations. And in like manner seven lives were procreated which are from Cabar Zio (the Mighty Light or Life=Zeus God of Light, Zio) and are those bright (ones) shining in their own form and splendor that comes from on high.—Cod. Naz., III. 61.

In respect to the mode of origin of the Demiurg and the production, which continually becomes more imperfect, of the subordinate Genii, they are the mythological expression of the Principle—that for the rest is very clearly spoken out in the Codex Nazareus—that the darkness and the Bad are merely a gradual waning of the Divine Light (caligo ubi exstiterat etiam exstitisse decrementum et detrimentum).

The Messias shall stand forth a Prophet of sinners, who will call with his own voice the Seven-stellars, and will collect and consecrate to himself all without distinction. But those Seven impostor Daemons (Angels) will deceive all the sons of Adam. One’s name is Sol; another’s is Spiritus Venecius,¹ Astro, Star of Venus, who has also the name Lehbat Amamet; the third’s name is NEBU, Mercurius, a false Messias, who will deprave the ancient worship of God; the name of a fourth is SIN Luna, called also Shuril (and Siro); the fifth is KTUN (Kivan) Saturnus; the sixth Bel Jupiter; the seventh Nerig Mars. . . . But that Messias will appear to his male and female worshippers, about to say to them: See my Splendor that has arisen in the world. And these will not understand that his exterior is not splendor, but that he is playing with the world, even to infatuation (insaniam) . . . The Daemons (lords) of the star Nerig (Mars) will despoil the sons of man, making an attack, and, their flesh having been torn, will spill blood throughout the earth; and these shall be called Excioriatores, sacrificing priests, immolators and smitters.² But the Messias after this shall be born in another form (species), clothed with fire, covered with fire and about to display prodigies in fire. EMUNEL his name! He shall also call himself IESU WHO GIVETH LIFE . . .

The False Messias shall say: I am Deus, Son of Deus, my Father sent me here. I am the first Legate (Messenger), I am Aebel Zivo, I am come from on high! But distrust him; for he will not be Aebel Zivo. Aebel Zivo will not permit himself to be seen in this age!—Codex Nasaraeus, p. 57.

The False Messias will say: I am he who was from God (Alaha). I am Son of God, my Father sent me hither. I am the first Apostle of all, I am Aebel Zivo, I am come from the height on high!—Ibid., 101.

This is the Arcanum, this the assembly of Splendor lighted by MANO¹ to whom the Scintillas of Splendor owe origin, like as also the innermost Jordans theirs. From which Jordans appeared JORDAN, the Lord of all Jordans, even as, from this JORDAN unfolding herself, Netubto (Netufto) went forth, a Mistress hidden, everlasting. And from this came forth the Lord of loftiness, Lord of all Genii. Who in turn is Father of all that preach the Gospel. And his Son (is) Lehdoio a just Lord. From whom issued the proper Sons of the PRIMAL LIFE. And these, uniting in returning thanks (by words), adore and celebrate this MANO, the Lord powerful. Who said to them: Arise, go out into the visible Jordan, flowing water, consult, call forth the ONLY BEGOTTEN SON, of an imperishable image, and who cannot be conceived by thought. Gentle is he, easy, quiet, pleasant, and like the Genii who live in light. After this was said, they rose up and venerating Him with the expression of thanks, celebrating, magnifying and extolling they answered: What thou hast commanded, that is concluded (fixed, done). They rose, they went out to the visible Jordan, and flowing water, they took counsel, they called forth the ONLY BEGOTTEN SON,² of an imperishable image, and who cannot be conceived by reflection, Lehdoio, the just Lord, and sprung from Lehdoio, the just Lord, whom the LIFE

The allegorical explanation of Holy Writ in the Alexandrian schools and synagogues went yet further beyond the notions of the common people than the illustration of the moral doctrine by parables, and could not suit the great mass. This explains the resistless power which the discourses of Iesus,¹ apart from his healings and the supernatural powers ascribed to him, exercised over the populace. The people saw here for the first time a teacher who descended to their level,² who abjured all learning, in order to elevate the thought of the simple, which was only chained to religion by outer customs, and to edify out of the idea within. The conceptions of the Gnosis (Oriental Philosophy) led to more or less clear designations of the nature of Iesus. His mission was raised above the human and the visible nature, they declared him to be the external appearance or the reflection of the Deity, the Manifestation of God entered into life, or, otherwise expressed, the Word of God (the Logos), the same through which the world was created, the Son of God ruling from the Beginning, and the promised Redeemer of the world. Thus the Jew-Christians separated from their former companions. They remained in outer behavior true to Judaism, like Christ himself; they were distinguished from their brothers only by the doctrine that Iesus is the expected Messias. — Jost, 412–414.

"Christ, who to the vulgar Jew was to be a temporal king, to the Cabalist or the Chaldean became a Sephiroth, an Aeon, an emanation from the One Supreme. While the author of the religion remained on earth, and while the religion itself was still in its infancy, Iesus was in danger of being degraded into a king of the Jews." — Milman, 200. "Directly as it (the Gospel) got beyond the borders of Palestine and the name of 'Christ' had acquired sanctity and veneration in the Eastern cities, he became a kind of metaphysical impersonation, while the religion lost its purely moral cast and assumed the character of a speculative theogony." — Milman, 200.

Christianity, in its primitive form, was a separated "tendency of Judaism." Of the Essenes many went over to the doctrine of the new religion. — Jost, I. 411. Christianity created for the Essene doctrines a stronger sympathy and produced an Ebionite tendency, in which the so called Gnosis shaped itself entirely as a spiritual science called for by the expounding of the Law. — Jost, I. 393. The altogether mystic coloring of Christianity harmonized with the Essene rules of life and opinions, and it is not improbable that Iesus and the Baptist John were initiated into the Essene mysteries, to which Christianity may be indebted for many a form of expression; as indeed the community of Therapeutae, an offspring of the Essene order, soon belonged wholly to Christianity. — Jost, I. 411. Thus gradually distinct communities formed themselves. History names them, now Nazarenes, now, with a slight distinction\(^1\) no longer known to us, Ebionites. The Jews called the apostate brothers Minim,\(^2\) which can be translated degenerates or sectaries.—Jost, I. 414.

Finding this man (Paul) a plague and a leader of the heresy of the Nazarenes.—Acts, xxiv. 5; xxii. 8.

According to Schwegler (Nachapostol. Zeitalter, I., 179 ff) the Nazarene was only the “earliest primitive stage of Ebionite development.” The Ebionites are those Nazarenes (Jew-christians) that sunk back into Judaism and so became heretical.—Hagenbach, 37. The Ebionites held to the Messiah as a man; the Gnostics and the Orthodox to the Logos, a God.—Ibid., 88. Origen says the Ebionites “dared with the

\(^{1}\) The Jew-Christians denied the Divine Nature of Jesus, while the Marcionites (Gnostics) denied his human nature. The Ebionites denied his true divinity and held him to be a son of Joseph.—Olshauen, Nachweis, 15, 16. The Ebionites believed in the necessity of circumcision and observance of the “Law.” The milder, truly Christian view of the observance of the “Law” supported itself continually among many Jew-Christians in Palestine, whom later they named Nazarenes (Matt, viii. 4, 6). Many, on the other hand, fell into the wrong course which had been pursued in Galatia by those whom Paul chastises; and these obtained the name Ebionites.—Olshauen, 15; Paul, Gal., ii. iii. v. 6–12.

Some Ebionites held that a higher (abstract) power was united with Jesus at the baptism, others, at his birth (von Anfang an).—Ibid., 137.

A general tradition, preserved by Eusebius, (H. E., III. 5), intimates that the Christian community before the siege of Jerusalem took refuge in the town of Pella, beyond the Jordan. These Jew-christians were distinguished by their own Gospel, most probably the original Hebrew of St. Matthew.—Milman, Hist. Chr., 169, 173. A part returned to the New City, on the site of Jerusalem.—Ibid., 173. See Sulpicius Severus, H. E.; Mosheim de Rebus Christ. ante Constant. Pella is in Peraea, Beyond Jordan in Basan, where the Nazarenes or Nasaraean-Christs dwelt.—Munk’s Palestine, Maps 4, 71. Before and after the death of John the Baptist Jesus went into Peraea.—Munk, 567.

The Apostle John makes the position of the Christian sect perfectly clear. They believed that “the ‘WISDOM’ became FLESH.”—John, i. 14; viii, 42. Various sects of the time were not of this opinion, although they conceded much of what was asserted by the Christians.—1 John, iii. 1, 2; Gibbon, II. 238, 239. It is sufficient for our purpose that the Christians and Gnostics agreed on one point; namely, that the ANOINTED is the “WISDOM,” the LOGOS. This nails the Christian Religion fast to the platform of the Oriental philosophy! In this point of view we can afford to wholly disregard the question whether the LOGOS became flesh in Jesus, for a more important point must first be decided; whether Christianity, being based on the Oriental Philosophy, will not have to stand or fall with the error of that Philosophy! Was there any "WISDOM" (technically speaking) at all? The doctrine that the "WISDOM" is the Demiurg, the SON of God, belongs to the Gnosis (the old "Oriental Philosophy") and to Gnosticism. We have already shown the existence of this Philosophy in the Old Testament.—Spirit-Hist., chapters 7 and 8.

"The Emanation-doctrine of the Kabbalists is the soul of a system that, after it was present among the Hebrews, put forth its secret and higher theology and was taught and propagated only in secret schools by its most speculative minds. This system was known just at a time when men in nearly all lands from India to Arabia and Egypt philosophized on the same or similar fundamental principles.

Through various political revolutions of Great and Lesser Asia, Syria, and Egypt, the spread of Chaldean and Persian Wisdom was so much advanced that particularly about the time of Christ sects everywhere came forth which philosophized after the same spirit; who founded themselves together upon a certain primateval-Wisdom as the original mother of their own; on the oldest primitive doctrine of the human race which held in itself the original light of the true and higher knowledge.

This is true as well of the Kabbalists of that time as of later times."—Kleuker, 57.

remain idle in the seed; because He is not idle He alters the seed, which being altered receives Growth and Greatness.—Herm., xvi. 13.

Without leaving Palestine we at once, in the times of the Apostles, in Samaria, and probably in an age already advanced, meet with the most wonderful person, Simon the Magician. Simon Magus taught that he was himself the Highest Power, that is, he who is Father over all things.—Irenæus, I. xxiii.

Hic est Virtus Dei quae vocatur Magna!
This is the Power (Aeon) of God, which is called the Great Power.—Acts, viii. 10.

Now Hieronymus informs us that our Samaritan prophet understood by this the WORD (Sermo) of God.—Hier. Com. in Matth., 6, 24, 5, vol. 7, Venice ed. Simon the Magician, who held himself to be a visible manifestation of the WORD, wished also to personify (in a woman) the Divine INTELLECT, the Female Principle, the Spouse of the WORD. This remarkable notion connects itself very well (sehr gut) with the Kabbalist system, where the WISDOM, that is, the WORD, is conceived as a Male and has its wife, its half; this is that Sefira which bears the name "INTELLECT (Binah, Verstand)," and which many Gnostics have taken for the Holy Ghost, because the Holy Ghost was always represented by them under the image of a wife. To this number the Jew

According to Origen, Iesus is the "Magna Virtus" "the Great Power" of God.—Contra Celsum, II.; Origen, II. p. 481. Quis posset esse tanti paterni mandati executor quam ille, ut sic loquar, animatus ejus Sermo et Veritas!—Ibid. Neque angelii, neque principatus, neque Potestates (Powers), neque ulla alia creatura.—Romans, viii.

Elxai belongs, who has many traits like those of the prophets of Samaria. Not only does this Heresiarch conceive the Holy Ghost as a Female Principle, but the ANOINTED (Christus) is in his eyes merely a Divine "Power," which sometimes assumes a sensible shape, whose colossal limbs he describes even to minuteness. Remember now that in the Sohar we have found a similar description of the WHITE HEAD,\(^1\) and another work, very famous among the \(^1\) See Idr Suta, xi. 435 ff; xv.; xxii.; xvi. 635.

To forty thousands of worlds the White of the Scull of his head is extended, and from the LIGHT of this whiteness the Right shall receive in the world to come four hundred worlds.—The Sohar, Idr Rabba, iii. § 41.

One SPIRIT goes forth to the Microprosopus. And one is the SPIRIT of LIFE. And the SPIRIT goes forth from the shut up brain and at some time will rest upon the King Messia.—The Great Synod, x. 177-179. This makes the Messiah the Son of the MAN.

From this Nose (of the ANCIENT), from the fenestra (window, opening) of that Projection, the SPIRIT of LIFE is breathed out (effluus) upon the Small Face (the Son, the Microprosopus).

And that SPIRIT goes out from the hidden brain, and through that SPIRIT they (men) will know Wisdom in the time of the Messiah the King.—Sohar, Minor Synod, Sectio v.

This Nose is LIFE on every part (of it).—Ibid. iv, 140.

"Spiritus" qui effunditur in Microprosopum, ut eodem vestiatur. . . .

By the intermediation of the "Father" and "Mother," the "SPIRIT" of the Ancient descends upon the Microprosopos.—Kabb. Den., II. 101; e libro. Ennek Hammolech. The Mother impregnated by the Father brought forth Shortface.—Ibid. II. 875. Patrem enim aliquando quidem cum conjuge Sig, modo vero et pro masculo et femina esse voluit (ὅπερ ἀρνητυ καὶ ὅπερ ἀρνητυ).—Irenæus I p. 13. Paris, 1675.

The Cranium of the WHITE HEAD has no beginning; but its end is the roundness (convexity) of its joining together (structure) which is extended, and shines.

And from it the Right inherit 400 desirable worlds in the future world.

And from this convexity of the joining together (structure) of this WHITE HEAD daily distils Dew upon that Microprosopus (Son of the MAN) upon the place which is called Heaven: and by that very thing the dead will be revived in the future time.

This ANCIENT Most Sacred is absconditus and occultatus, and the supernal WISDOM hidden in that CRANIUM is found again and not found.—Ibid., Sectio ii.

The Face of the Microprosopus is like two gardens of aroma (spice). But these two little inclosures of aroma are white and red.
Kabbalists, the pseudonym "Alphabet of the Rabbi Akiba," speaks of God in nearly the same terms. Together with this mode of conceiving of the WORD, of the Holy Ghost, and, generally, of the Divine Pair of which the Pleroma consists, we also find "the cosmogonish Principle" of the Kabbala in what has been preserved for us by the Syrian Gnostic Bardesanes.

The concealed FATHER, who dwells in light, has a Son; this is CHRIST, or the HEAVENLY MAN. Christ and the Holy Ghost (Pneuma) produce the four Elements, air, water, fire, earth.—Franck, 254, 255. This agrees with the christianity of Paul, who says that Christ "Created all things."—Coloss., i. 14-17.

Thus we find Christianity, in its inception, part and parcel of the Oriental Philosophy. We are nothing but Jew-christians after all, and pure Gnostics. Nothing then remains but to give judgment accordingly, since "In the Chaldean sacred-learning . . . the MIDDLE-BEING (Mediator) usually is called Bel-Mithra, Zeus, that is, Zeus-Bel, or Intelligible SUN (Invisible Sun-god), LOGOS, ONLY-BEGOTTEN, and, just as in the case of Philo's LOGOS, whose Theology has certainly flowed out from the CHALDEAN theology, is only the other self of Bel-Saturn."—Movers, Phönizier, 553. "The KURios is the "SUN or Intelligible LIGHT that the mind alone can perceive;" or, to use the stronger Nasaraean expression, "that cannot be conceived by reflection." The Christians named "the Anointed" KURios!

In our Tradition indeed we have determined by how many thousand paces the Whiteness is distant from the Redness.

But still in himself they unite in one at the same time, under the genus (general term, description) of whiteness; for when he is illuminated by the Light of the Whiteness of the Ancient, then that Whiteness covers redness, and all things are found in light.—Idra Suta, xvii. 633 ff.
That LIGHT which is manifested is called the Garment: for the KING himself is the innermost LIGHT of all (lights).—Idra Suta, ix.

Come and see! When Hillel the Older was pleased at a water-libation's-feast he was wont to say: If ANI is here all is here. If the Shechina (the Light, the Garment), which is called ANI (Ani the Sun), is here the All is here, whither each is summoned who will unite himself with it.—Auszüge aus dem Sohar, pp. 10, 11.

Thou art Son in heaven, Son of God and of the Shechinah (the FEMALE), which is the GRACE. . . Is he a KING so is she a QUEEN. He (Jehovah) is only named with the name of the Shechinah (Adni, Adoni). Therefore the Rabbins say (of the name of Jehovah): Not as I (Jehovah) am written will I be read! In this world my name will be written Jehovah and read ADONAI.—Auszüge aus dem Sohar, pp. 11, 12.

The KING is obviously the Heavenly WISDOM. The FATHER spoke through his WORD (Logos) to the MOTHER!

O COMPANIONS, COMPANIONS (says the Rabbi), man, as (God's) emanation, was both man and woman; as well on the side of the FATHER as on the side of the MOTHER. And this is the sense of the words: And Elohim spoke, Let there be Light and it was Light! That is, it becomes Light on the side of the FATHER, and it was Light on the side of the MOTHER. And this is the "two-fold Man!"—Ibid.,

2 Arceanum patet ex eo quod scriptum est: Et fluvius egreditur ex Eden. Quid est Eden? Haec est Sapientia superna.—Idra Suta, viii. Jerome speaks of certain Hebrew Traditions which hold the paradise, the Adan (Eden), for older than the world.—Fraynck, 80, 81; Jerome, Paris ed. last vol.; also see Quaest. Hebr. in Genesim. Eden is the Solar paradise.
13, 15. The Sohar here refers to Adam as double-man, before Eua (Heuah) was removed from his ribs. —Spirit-Hist., 229. “They regard the First-born (Adam Kadmon) as Man and Wife, in so far as his Light includes in itself all other lights and in so far as his Spirit of Life or Breath of Life includes all other life-spirits (souls) in itself.” —Kleuker, Nat. und Urspr. d. Emanationslehre, b. d. Kabbalisten, p. 11.

In the Mysteries of the Cabiri Pluton (Adonis in Hades, Bol-aten, Bel-itan) was called Adamas. The author of Origen’s Philosophumena says that Adam was given in the Mysteries of Samothrace as the Archetypal Man, the First Male in the order of generation, a character which perfectly suits to Axio-keresa (Adonis) —Maury, Bel. de la Grèce antique, II. 309; Origen, Philosophumena, edit. Miller, p. 108. The Three Cabiri were Axioeres (Adonis), Axiokeres (Adam), Axiokeres (Eua, Venus). Les mystères de la Grèce étaient presque toujours liés à l’adoration de divinités de la génération et de la production. —Maury, II. 810. Adon’s incense ascended upon Lebanon—a smoke of many altars from Greece to Syria, and from Syria to Babylon.

Phanes the Man-woman is Saturn who separates into Heaven and Earth, Adam and Eua; and Bel, who was both male and female in himself, separated into Heaven (Adam Epigeios, Bæcchus) and Earth. —Spirit-Hist., 185, 186; Movers, 271, 554.

Bæcchus the Father of all the race! —Nonnus, xxii. 338. For you have sprung from the heart of the First-ancestor, hymned Dionysus! —Nonnus, xxiv. 49. Zagreus, called the First-ancestor Dionysus. —Nonnus, xxvii. 341. Zagreus is the Hebrew Zakar “the Male Principle.”

Night-shining Dionysus, having a bull’s form,

Ad, or Adad, Ádes, Dis, Ditus, has his feminine part, Aditi (Rhea). The Vedic singer, speaking of the death of an Aryan, says that he is gone to the Great Aditi (Cora) to see again his father and his mother. —Maury, I. 94. Athom presided (like Yom, or Yama) in Amenthe. —Spirit-Hist., 284. Piré-Atmou-Tamus is the Sun in Hades, the God of the Resurrection of the dead! Atamu weighs the souls in the under-world before their transmigration takes place. —Champollion, Egypte, 131, Univ. pittoresque, p. 121.

The first two chapters of Genesis seem to be a part of the "Earliest Kabbala" before Christ. — Spirit-Hist., 229.

"The FATHER and Son lie with 'the Woman' whom they call the 'Mother of all that live'" (Eua; Gen., iii. 20). — Irenæus, I. xxxiv. ; see also Spirit-Hist., 200. They call the SPIRIT feminine-ized, and say that She was borne over the Elements, that the FIRST and SECOND MAN loved her beauty (formam) and procreated the LIGHT whom they call Christum (the ANOINTED). — Irenæus, p. 137; Theodoret is quoted in a note. This shows what we have all along been seeing, that the "Christ," the "Anointed," is the Adam, with whom the Rabbins were constantly comparing him. — Spirit-Hist., 224. The Euah (from Ah "life" Iah "Life") is the Zoe (Life) the Spouse of the Logos. — Irenæus, I. i. 1. Thus we connect "Adam" and "Eve" with theEarliest Hebrew Gnosticism and Kabbala. — Compare Irenæus, I. xxxiv. p. 135, Paris, 1675. Calling the Deity (Aeon) the FIRST MAN; the Son (the Mind, or Adam) is the Second MAN!

The Duad is the two-fold Monad. If Janus (Janus, Anos) is "the Pristine Thing," then Anas-Anah-Anos-Noh-Noah and Ana perennial would be the Duad (primal pair) in the Garden of Adîn or Adan (Eden). Adam (Adan) is the Abal-âh, Iabalâh (Jabal); Adan is the Apollo (Abol, Bol, Abolâh, Apollos), and Enul the Balâh (Daâmah, Demâterra, Bilhâh, Eve), the First Pair in Adoni's Garden. But no one knows the Superior Adan (Eden, Adam) nor His paths, except that Long face (Macroprosopus, the Supreme GOD).—Idra Rabba, viii. 107–109. Compare the Idra Rabba, x. 177.

The 16th Way is called the eternal Wisdom, and is so called because He is the Adon (delight) of The Glory, under whom there is no Glory to be compared with her; and he is called the Garden of Adan (or Odan, י'ע), which is prepared for the pious.—Meyer’s Jezira, p. 3.

The 7th Way is called the Hidden Wisdom,² and is so called because He is the Splendor shining upon all intelligible Powers, which are looked upon with the eye of the Wisdom and with faithful contemplation. Meyer’s Jezira, p. 2.

Buddha said: "Let all the sins that have been committed in this world fall on me, that the world may be delivered"1—Max Müller, Hist. Sanskrit Lit., p. 80.

Buddha is Son of Maya, the Virgin; Maia is Mother of Mercury. Buddha means "the Wise" and Mercury is God of Wisdom (Hermes). Caput supernum est Senior Sanctissimus absconditus omnibus occultationibus.

Caput omnium capitum; caput quod non est caput, nec scit nec cognoscitur quid sit in capite isto: quod non comprehenditur Sapientia nec intellectu.—Idra Suta, sectio ii.

Et pendet ab influentialia gloria Abscerebrum alterum quod expanditur in triginta duas semitas; (quod) cum illuminatur, tunc splendet ab influentialia gloria.

And it is conformed in THEE heads, which one head includes.

And those three are extended (down) upon the Short Face (the Son) and from them all things shine with light . . .

Who is the Image of the Invisible God, the first-born of every creature. For by him were all things created!—Coloss., I. 16; John, I. 2. Who being in the form of God thought it not robbery to be equal with God!—Philippians, ii. 6. I came out from God.—John, xvi. 27; John, v. 18.

Knowing that (God) the Father has given all things into his hands, and that from God he issued (went out) and to the God returns (proston Theon—into union with the Father).—John, xiii. 3; Peter, I. 20, 21; John, xviii. 5; Matthew, xxvi. 63, 64; Rev., vii. 17.

For the Life was manifested, and we have seen and bear witness and show unto you that Eternal Life which was with the Father and was manifested unto us.—John, Epistle I. i.; John, vi. 46; viii. 42; xiv. 9–11.

God was in “Christ” reconciling the world unto himself.—2 Cor., v. 19.

The Jews—whose are the fathers, and of whom (as concerning the flesh) the Anointed came, who is over all God blessed forever!—Rom., ix. 5.

— As early as the seventh century, Rambach, I. 182.

"Not to redeem himself but to redeem us who were dead, came the immortal God; not for himself suffered he, but for us, in order that thereby, taking on him our abjectness and poverty, he might give us his riches; for his suffering is our unsuffering, his death our immortality, his tears our joy, his burial our resurrection, his baptism our sanctification, for: I sanctify myself, says he (John, 17, 19) for them, that they themselves may be sanctified in the truth; his stripes our healing, for by his stripes have we been healed (Isaiah, 53, 5), his punishment our salvation, ... his DESCENT our ANODOS (Ascension)."

Athanasius, de Incarnat., T. I. II. p. 698; Larso w, 110.

This is my blood which is shed for many!—Mark, xiv. 24.

By works of the Law shall no flesh be justified.

Being justified freely by his Grace through the redemption that is in Christ Jesus, whom God set forth to be a propitiation, through the faith in his blood!—Rom., iii.

Ye are saved by Grace through Faith.—Eph., ii. 8.

If uncircumcision should keep the precepts of the Law, would not that uncircumcision be accounted as circumcision?—Rom., ii. 26.

What then is the superiority of the Jew (or the Jew-Christian)? Or what is the advantage of circumcision?—Rom., iii. 1.
There is one Alaha who justifies the circumcision by Faith, and the uncircumcision by the same Faith. —Rom., iii. 28, 30. Syriac. Murdock.

The blood of Iesus, His SON, cleanses us from all sin! —I John, i. 7; iv. 10.

The moral doctrines that appear in the New Testament, even the sayings of the Sermon on the mount and the Lord's prayer, are found with slight variations also among the Rabbins who have certainly borrowed nothing out of the New Testament! They lived since the flourishing period of Rabbinism in the people.—Jost, I, 412. Paul shows in his epistles the high rabbinical mode of teaching.—Ibid.

"The Midrashim (Jewish Commentaries) are the Bridge from the Old Covenant to the New!"—Hundert und ein Frage, p. xvii.; see also Israelite Indeed, I. pp. 221, 248, 131. The Bereshith Rabba, the oldest part of the Midrash Rabboth, was known to the Church Fathers in a Greek Translation!—Hundert und ein Frage, p. xvii. Parts of the Midrashim and the Targum of Onkelos are prior to the New Testament in the antiquity of their contents.—Hundert und ein Frage, p. xvii., xiv.

The Targums, the Talmud, the Kabbalistic and Rabbinical Books contain, among much that is later, also much that is old! But its separation has not hitherto been made with sufficient circumspection.—De Wette, Bibl. Dogm., I. p. 61. Many "Mishna-collections by Rabbi Iuda the Naszi" are mentioned.

"For about one hundred years after the death of Christ the disciples of the Messiah were indulged in a freer latitude both of faith and practice than has ever been allowed in succeeding ages."—Gibbon, I 403. Dion. Petavius enumerates eighty heresies; so that really a much greater liberty of thought anciently existed than the orthodox are now willing to avail themselves of. The rule of common sense and the best human experience is facts before faith; unless you wish to retrace your steps. Neither deny nor believe until the facts are shown and the authority unimpeachable, whether on the ground of ancient rabbinism or oriental credulity, priestcraft and exaggeration.
Of these and other works no trace remains. Through the persecutions of Antiochus Epiphanes, and, later, of the Roman Caesars the entire Hebrew literature of that period was lost; for both the Jews and their literature were persecuted, and many Jewish martyrs were burnt with the holy Scripture.—Ehrmann, Geschichte der Schulen, p. 30.

After the downfall of the Persian monarchy and the rise of the Grecian; and after Syria and Judea became parts of that empire, at that time a class of learned men was already formed, and schools and high-schools existed whose presidents assumed the title Rabbon, then Rabbi. The Jews were oppressed on account of their religion, the people rallied closer and closer around the central point of their nationality, their religion, and the leading men, the teachers, judges and priests, gained an unlimited influence over the people.—Israelite Indeed, II. 247.

The Tanaim, the oldest and most valued of all teachers in Israel, first make their appearance at the beginning of the third century before Christ, as teachers of the “Tradition.” Under this name they taught all that was not expressed sufficiently plainly in the Holy Writ. They form a long chain whose last link is Iehuda the Holy, Compiler of the Mishna, who delivered to posterity the doctrines of his predecessors. Among these must be placed the composers of the oldest monuments of the Kabbala, namely, Rabbi Akiba and Simon ben Iochai with his son and his friends.—Franck, 38.

Out of Babylon the Israelites brought the first germs of the Kabbala (Secret Doctrine).—Ehrmann, 24. The Teachers (Rabbis) used riddles (parables) which they at once solved to the astonished hearer; and these made an important ingredient of the discourses. Rabbi Iuda had at his discourses 1200 scholars, Rabbi Huna 800, Rabbi Elieser 400, some say, 700.—Ibid., 22. About 100 years before the destruction of the Temple, Hilel, from Babylon, had an important academy in Palestine.—Ibid., 19.

The Kabbala is a valuable remnant of a Religion-philosophy of the Orient.—Franck, 251 ff. The Hebrew Sohar was written by or composed from the writings of Simeon ben Iochai who lived in the second century before Christ.—Korn (Nork), Hundert und ein Frage, p. xviii. The Sohar is full of Messianic passages, so that almost all the Christian doctrines preached by Paul and other apostles are to be found in it!—Israelite Indeed, I. 213.

The Aramean Translation, by Onkelos, of the five books of Moses, uses Memra (Word, Thought) instead of Jehovah (Iahoh). It cannot be denied that in the Translation a spirit rules which is opposed to the Mishna, the Talmud, ordinary Judaism and the Pentateuch itself; in short, the traces of Mysticism are not few. It reads: The THOUGHT or the Divine WORD made man in his image; in an Image that was before (the face of, devant) the Eternal, created he him.—Gen., ii. 27; Franck, 49. Among some Tannaim, the oldest Jewish doctors, a certain philosophy, religious metaphysics, was taught secretly.—Franck, 40-44. Jehuda the holy merely collected the precepts and traditions which were delivered to him by the Tannaim who preceded him. The Mishna, Chagiga, 2nd section, says the table of contents of the Mercaba must only be delivered to a wise man; the Gemara Jews (established by Alexander the Great as original settlers of Alexandria) it is clear how the Jews returned from Babylon could not only teach the same sort of system of secret or Kabbalistic theology as those who remained there, but also the same as the Egyptian-Alexandrian Jews.—Kleuker, 73, 71; Josephus, Ant., II. 8.

The Kabbala had its first origin in Babylon during the exile; but the whole system entire could only be formed later in the Jewish schools.—Munk, Palestine, 520; Franck, Kabbala, by Gelinek, pp. 261, 265 ff; Milman, Hist. Christ., p. 42; Kleuker, 45, 46 ff.

Those initiated in the doctrines of the Kabbala were called companions.—Franck, 95. They were found both in Babylon and Judea.—Ibid., 95.

Happy ye, O Zadikim, because to you is manifested the arcanum of the arcana of the Law which was not manifested to the former kedeshim (Saints).—Kabbala, Idra Rabba, 26. Alacres estate soci sancti; certe enim in tali statu non erit (mundus), usque dum veniat Rex Messias.—The Idra Rabba, xiii. 346.

I know that Messias comes who is called ANOINTED!—John, iv. 25, Greek. I know that Messia will come!—Ibid., Syriac. Messias Sosiosh will appear! The Jewish doctrine of the END of the world has the closest connection with the Persian!—Spiegel, Vendidad, I. 16, 35, 37.

Gnosticism has borrowed much from the Traditions and Theories preserved in the Sohar.—Franck, 82. The Kabbalistic Book Jezira was composed in the time of the first Mishna-teachers, that is, during the first century before Christ and the first fifty years of the Christian era.—Franck, 65. "We feel no doubt is still stronger. This prohibition to divulge the mysteries of the Mercaba is consequently older than the book which contains them.—Franck, 47.

Before the end of the first century of our Era a science, regarded with deep awe, had already spread among the Jews, which was distinct from the Mishna, the Talmud and the holy books: a mystical doctrine which called to its aid the united credit of Tradition and Holy Writ.—Franck, die Kabbala, 52. Rabbi Jehoshua ben Chanania, who was an old man in the year 73, and died toward the end of the first century, boasted that he had performed miracles by means of the Book Jezira (Kabbalist Book). The Jerusalem Talmud says this.—Franck, 48, 55, 56; Jerusalem Talmud, Synhedrin, c. 7 ad finem. The Babylonian Talmud, Synhedrin, p. 67, b., says the same of Rabbis Chanina and Oshaia, the first of whom died toward the end of the first century.—Franck, 55, 56. Before the end of the first century this Kabbalistic Book Jezira existed.—Ibid., 57. The language in which it is written shows that it belongs to a time in which the teachers of the Mishna lived. It is not Bible Hebrew nor Talmudic.—Ibid., 58. Philo, who was born about thirty years before Christ, passes with the critics and the most modern historians of Judaism for the inventor of the Hebrew Mysticism, and resemblances are traced between his ideas and Kabbalistic notions.—Franck, 215; Jost, I. 392, 393.

Out of that union of Babylonians, Persians and that all important metaphysical and religious principles which make up the basis of the Kabbala are older than the Christian dogmas.” — Franck, 249. Not a word is said of Christ or Christianity. — Franck, 77. Not a word is uttered against Christianity, as generally is the case in later Jewish writings. — Kabb. Denud. Praef., p. 7. “Not only the most general principles but all the elements of the Kabbala are to be shown in the Zend-Avesta and its Commentaries.” — Franck, 262; Kleuker, 48 ff.

“The Metaphysical ideas which are the basis of the Kabbala are not borrowed from the Greek philosophy nor did they spring up in the heathen or Jewish Schools of Alexandria, but were transplanted there out of Palestine. Even Palestine, or at least Judea proper, was not its cradle; for we find it, it is true in a less abstract and less pure form, in the unbelieving chief city of the Samaritans and among the Syrian Haeretics. The actual substance of these ideas, the relationship between them, remains ever the same.” — Franck, 259, 260.

The Kabbala (Sohar) occupies itself with angels and demons, paradise and hell, the transmigration of souls, etc. All this part is purely mythologic; these myths are borrowed from the Chaldeans and Persians; but the Kabbalists have not failed to exercise their imagination upon them and to amplify the foreign fables in their own way. . . . The stars, the different kingdoms in Nature, the elements, men, their virtues, their passions, finally everything material and intellectual in Nature, finds itself under the influence of angels or genii (compare the Arabian Nights and Hebrew Testament). — Munk’s Palestine, 522.

The Gnostic Emanation-doctrine existed in the time of the Apostles and was widely spread; while the writings of Paul and John show that that higher and secret doctrine of Judaism was no result of the Alexandrian philosophy. John's writings presuppose the existence of a body of secret doctrine which can be no other than the Kabbalistic.—Kleuker, 77.

The Kabbalist Rabbins quote constantly from the Old Testament, just as its texts are interwoven with every page of the New Testament.—Compare Franch, Die Kabbala, 126, et passim; Rosenroth, Kabbala Denudata, passim, the Sohar, and Sharpe’s transl. of Griesbach’s New Testament.

"Meuschen has in his work which appeared at the beginning of the preceding century—Novum Testamentum ex Talmude illustratum—exposed the striking similarity in the form of the Evangelist parables and doctrinal-discourses with the Talmudic; and yet earlier the Englishman Lightfoot called attention to the fact that the style, idiom and manner of thinking (stylum, idiom, loquendi, formam normamque) of the Rabbins (the learned writers of the time of the Apostles) is reflected, as in a mirror, in the Evangels and Apostolic Epistles."—Hundert und ein Frage, p. xvii.

The Saducees and the other Jewish sects during the time of the second temple were more or less imitations of the Pythagoreans and Essenes. The Pythagoreans were a sort of pattern to the Essenes. Of both the moral purity is well known. Rabbi Gamaliel had a school in which 500 Jewish youths were instructed in Greek science. The Essenes were acquainted with the Grecian learning and wrote even historical and other works in Greek which are lost.—Ehrmann, p. 26. After the return from Babylon, the High Priests, who at that time held the highest rank in the state, encouraged Grecian culture.—Ibid., 18.

The Pharisees were believers in the doctrine of the transmigration of souls. This is heathenism. Pythagoras, the Egyptians, Hindus and others held this

1 Jonathan the Hebrew Highpriest informs the Spartans by letter, that the Bible showed the Jews and Lacedaemonians to be of kin: "for we believed it from the Sacred Writings."—Josephus, Ant., xiii. 9; xii. 5. belief. Their fasts, washings and ablutions are similar to the heathenism of the Greek Mysteries. The Essenes held that Fate governs all things.—Burder’s Josephus, II. 391; see John, xiii. 1. This is the doctrine of the Greek dramatists! The Pharisees are mentioned as prominent about 150 before Christ.—Josephus, Ant., xiii.; Burder, II. 415. They delivered to the people a great many observances by succession from their fathers, which are not written in the Laws of Moses.—Josephus, Ant., xiii. 18. This is the foundation of the Targums, Midrashim, Mishna and Talmud. The Sadducees were no better than some of the Greeks and Romans for they denied a future state. Neither did they believe in angels. They also denied the observances that were not written in the Laws of Moses.—Burder’s Josephus, II. 414, 417; III. 135. The punishments in Hades and rewards they take away.—Josephus, Wars, II. 7. The Essenes avoided swearing. Their word was better than an oath.—Josephus, Wars, II. 7. Christ follows the Essene mode, in Matthew, v. 34, 37; xxiii. 16. A priest (of the Essenes) said grace before meat.—Josephus, Wars, II. 7. Christ did the same.—Luke, xxii. 19. They were prophets.—Wars, I. 3; II. 7. So were John the Baptist and Christ. The Essenes taught the immortality of souls.—Josephus, Ant., xviii. Christ taught the same. They did not store up treasures.—Philo; Bohn, III. p. 523. Christ taught the identical doctrine.—Matthew, vi. 19. They had among them no makers of weapons. Christ was opposed to using the sword.—Matth., xxvi. 52.

Simon ben Iochai died some years after the destruction of Jerusalem, in the beginning of the second century; and the Sohar was partly written down by his scholars from his teachings, partly added to by others in later times.—Franck, 70, 67, 88. He really delivered to a small number of scholars and friends, among them to his son, the metaphysical and religious system which forms the basis of the Sohar. This was originally delivered as a mystery not to be published, but verbally communicated. These traditions with notes and commentaries came from Palestine to Europe toward the end of the thirteenth century.—Ibid., 88. Simon ben Iochai himself says he had predecessors.—Franck, 97. He repeatedly tells his scholars what the companions have taught in the old works. He particularly cites Ie ba the Old, and Hamnuna the Old.—Ibid., 96, 95. The Mystical-allegorical mode of teaching was already prevalent in the time of Ptolemy Philometor, B.C. 150.—Jost, I. 371; compare 393. Iamblichus wrote of the Mystery of the Egyptians. The oldest part of the Kabbala is the "Book of the Mystery."—Franck, by Gelinek, p. 89, 80. The ancients were not satisfied to let religious conviction alone, but, moved by the genius of priestcraft, they made that which was already a mystery a still greater one. The New Testament was conceived in the shadow of mysticism—under the influence of the early Mystic Philosophy. The writings of Philo are tinged with it, while the Kabbalist Books and the New Testament are filled with it.—Gelinek. die Kaβbala. 221 ff, 246 ff. 215, 283, 285, 287, 87; Muiman, ch. 5, p. 207, a. Hence the perpetual use of the word "Mystery."¹ in the New Testament! The clergy and Mysticism are inseparable; for Mysticism has enabled the priests to encumber the path of religion for the laity, while it has increased the power of the ministry. Reason is defied, truth perverted, and monstrous doctrines thrown in the way both of God and man in the name of Religion, Mystery and Revelation.

But when the Son of the MAN (Abatur, the Man) shall come in his Splendor, and all the angels with him, then he will sit on the throne of his Splendor. Then the JUST shall answer to him, saying KURie (King of Light)! And the KING shall answering say:—Matthew, xxv.; Tischendorff; Written partly in Galilee by the Nazarene Kabbalists. I am the true VINE, and the "Superior Father" (Abatur) is the Husbandman!—John, xv. 1, in the light of the Kabbala and the Codex Nazarene.

The "LIVING Father" (Abatur, who is the Third LIFE of the Kabbalists) sent me!—John, vi. 57; See p. 56.

Qui Fetahil . . . . Et Qui, relictum quem procreaverat mundo, ad Abatur suum patrem contendit.—Codex. Nas., II. 123.

Fetahil who, having left the world which he had created, goes to Abatur his Father! See also John, xiv. 28, xvi. 5, 16, 17, 28, xvii. 5, viii. 21, 22 ff:

When ye have lifted up the Son of THE MAN then ye shall know that I am (he).—John, viii. 28; Tischendorff.

I am the LIGHT of the world!—John, viii. 12.

Who is this "the Son of THE MAN"?—John, xii. 34.

"The ANointed," the Son of "The LIVING God."—Matthew, xvi. 17.

The Christian dogmas offer numerous affinities with those of the Kabbalists.—Munk, Palestine, 567. See the Kabbalistic numbers in Revelations.

In the name of the Supreme LIFE, the FIRST. Brightness has arisen and LIGHT, Life: and the Messenger of Life has appeared! ... Life has appeared to the world! And the splendor and LIGHT of LIFE having been seen, the sea turns itself (back), Jordan retires—

Cedars of Lebanon, for whom were ye broken? Earth, whom seeing, wert thou agitated? King of the Sea, seeing whom hast thou fled! Depths of the sea, for whom were ye disturbed, and for whom did ye prepare the swellings of the sea? On account of the Splendor and the Light of the MESSENGER OF LIFE! ...

Your name, O LIFE, we have not mentioned, nor have we known fear of Thee! This LIFE is of LIGHT, which, (when it was) declared, the proved by well-doing celebrated. Said the MESSENGER OF LIFE: I have come to dwell with you, to place you also in the LIGHT of LIFE.—Codex Nasaraeus (Nazarite Gospel), p. 321.

Christianity is an Oriental religion transplanted. Even with its somewhat mutilated proportions in the English version it still preserves its Oriental Gnosis and its Kabbalistic similarities.
Gaining ground toward the centre of the spirit-history of man, the reader has pierced through Judaism by the way of the Mysteries, and advanced to the earliest sources of the Jew-Christian's belief.

RELGIOUS CIVILIZATION.

Quod autem, ut plurimum, ad praestantissimam vitae rationem conferat.—

PHILODEMUS, de Vitiis et Virtutibus oppositis.

Diliges Kunion Theon tuum ex toto corde tuo! Diliges proximum tuum, sicut teipsum.—MATTHEW, xxii. 37, 39.

It is unnecessary to sum up. The reader remembers the description of the Mysteries in the first volume of the Sód. He sees where the Old Testament issued forth from their midst, bearing the Jerusalem flag. Then the religious picture changes, and Galilean and Jordan Nazarenes come upon the scene proclaiming the use of oil, the worship of the "Anointed," the healing of the sick, the casting out of demons. Finally Jordan’s waters overflowed a district, and created a Church. The rabbinical mode then perpetuated itself in the Christian, Romish and Reformed churches.

It would not have required an excess of intelligence to have reflected that the Hebrews, Phoenicians, Egyptians, Ionians, and Greeks, living all together in the eastern corner of the Mediterranean, must have thought in common and had the same religious philosophy. Then came the Jewish doctors and the schools of the Pharisees succeeding to the teachers of the Mysteries. To these ancient Rabbis we are indebted for the Old Testament very much as it now stands. At last the Oriental Gnosis makes its way into the midst of Judea; the cities of Galilee and the fords of Jordan gather up its inspiration. It associates itself with the mysteries of the Kabbala, with the conception of the MAN and his Anointed Son.¹

The New Testament is the Midrash of a haeretical sect—a beautiful wild-flower of the Rabbinical theology, watered by the Jordan and tended by men of a party hostile to the Pharisees. We are not bound by the precedents which antiquity affords in science, philosophy, religion and laws during centuries when the grossest ancient superstitions prevailed. The creeds are formed in some rough natural order. One follows the other to its grave among the religious systems which time has destroyed. On its natal soil Christianity has faded away² before the Moslem creed, and like Buddhism, struck root in foreign lands. There it has been fostered and built up—a mingling of the living and the dead, of truth and error, a practical working system wrought out of man's time-honored mental efforts and superstitions, confirmed by blind faith, unhesitating ignorance, and a cloud of priests from Oxford to Rome laboring for daily bread, for ecclesiastical preferment, ploughing the soil of other people's consciences—till from some height of ancient rabbinism a portion of neglected truth gives way, making a ruined Goldau of their work. It was an error to leave the Church exposed to landslides of truth.

If one should attempt to write the basis of a new religion, he would fail; for religions have been the works of society, superstition, and conventions of the clergy, in particular portions of the globe. This age is unfavorable to such an attempt, unless performed in convention.

We shall briefly glance at the religious aspect of power, and its proper management. If religion is at variance with human power in any respect, but a poor account can be rendered to its Maker by this planet. But by the cooperation of religious conviction with human power, with the power already inherent in existing facts and realities, unity and harmony are restored to its operations on earth and a better account can thus be rendered of the whole.

It is not intended here to intimate that priests are not now necessary to certain classes. The religious instinct, such as it is, must be represented. According to Napoleon, the merit of the priests consists simply in the ministration of the consolations of religion. It is the excess of hierarchy which we deplore, the turning the human conscience and credulity into a patrimony, rewarding ambition, dexterity, or success. A hierarchical establishment, with power, is opposed to the spread of truth and to that mental growth* which God has authorized in giving us the faculty. An establishment, like a party, offers rewards only to those who conform.

* See London Times, Dec. 29, 1859 : Le Pape et le Congrès, 9, 10, 11.
If the sun is the agent of the Supreme Being and the planets his ministers, why not man, men each with peculiar powers, fitted for different spheres of usefulness! Religion must then recognize the facts of human power, and philosophy direct its management and exercise.

Man is older than the institutions that he made, the social and religious institutions which he has created with an infinite variety, changing with the nature of races and the progress of centuries. He is superior to them because God gave him the control over them. Our institutions ought then to be adapted to the protection, relief, preservation, and development of human power, the effectuation of its efforts, and the concentration of the power gained to further results. We want a religious sentiment suited to all classes of minds, one that will justify each individual in the minds of others, and protect him from censure in the enjoyment of his peculiar views. We need a belief in the Divine Mission of other men—the Mission of those with whom we cannot agree. Natures, physiques, temperaments, powers, all differ by divine appointment! Existence is a warrant for the development of the individual on the basis of the particular nature with which God has clothed him. The conviction of the especial fitness of each to know best his own peculiar nature and powers explains the position of one to another. It is only from the conviction of their Mission that men will be induced to voluntarily grant others space for the display of talents that they are by nature unfitted to comprehend or appreciate.

Judge not, because you are not competent to judge. You only infer according to the bent of your own nature; you cannot fairly consider the thoughts, motives, or causes that influence a different nature from your own, but only what you yourself would do under the same circumstances. Doing unto others as we would think it right for them to do to us often works injustice. It subjects one to be judged by another's standard—a standard in reference to which he was not created! Do unto others more good sometimes than you would wish done to yourself, for one is no standard to judge another by. God would not exhibit his power uselessly or without an object. As He has designedly manifested it in the garb of created beings and things, this power is the immediate object of religious regard, and veneration! To society is confided its preservation, cultivation, training, development, so that it shall produce the greatest and best results.

Power has its Mission! All that it requires is orderly arrangement and government, or restraint, refined and detailed enough that the mission of every one may be accomplished. This brings practical religion to its main object, for which the Supreme Being implanted the religious sentiment in man! Government! On this subject the religious sentiment may legitimately spend itself—government; not merely self-government, which consists in taking our proper place in the world and not preventing others, but the government which governs or should govern society, regulating human intercourse, to carry out the design, the Will, of God. The whole subject of practical religion merges in the question of government and the social relations.

In all situations we are more or less controlled by external circumstances, our individual will limited by the nature of our powers and modified by our sphere of action. Society limits us! Let us then incorporate practical religion with the science of social action—Social Government and self-government: we propose to sink it altogether, as a separate, distinct, priestly science.

The characteristics of power are perpetual alteration and eternal growth. That the superstitions of one age and its idea that God's providence in the flesh is all evil should govern subsequent ages is not only wrong, but a hindrance to the free action and development of power which God has put forth and ordained. The laws of development depend on innate vitality and the circumstances in which this vitality is found; and its "spontaneous action" can hardly be wrong, considering the source from which it springs, unless it violates the natural or acquired rights of others and impedes their just development. Still less ought "the course of vitality which God ordains" and "its spontaneous and healthy action" to be annulled by the antiquated superstitions of the Mysteries and the purifications, fasts, vigils and other chaste observances of the Mystae and the Pharisees.

We are acting for our Maker! But no one can have a consciousness of this without exerting himself to place humanity on a footing sufficient for the development of individual fruits. What man can feel that he acts for God unless he enables others to develop, each in his way, the mind and spirit that is in him! What men want, in order to treat others properly, is to feel a religious veneration for God's power, which He exhibits in individuals! Respect, aid and protect them, because of the life and the power that God placed in them!
The body must first be attended to and the physical claims protected and guaranteed by government, laws, tribunals, police, hospitals, alms-houses, a national intelligence department for the oversight and employment of labor, proper laws concerning the domestic relations: everything must be not merely done but done rightly, and then you have only prepared a sphere for the mind and power of mankind to begin to develop themselves with freedom, and to furnish to God and the world the fruits arising from natural, harmonious and legitimate action.

It is in vain, or comparatively so, to exert power unless this is done rightly. The work will have to be done as it has been done over and over again by man after man, generation after generation, century after century, nation after nation, until not the whims and prejudices of men are satisfied, but rather until the designs of God are so fulfilled that the practical result attained is sufficiently correct to take its place among the imperishable bulwarks of human progress, as an enduring basis for further creations.

By new facts God has never ceased to create this world! The work continually goes on by the operation of the already constituted elements in the creation of new ones. What you or I add produces its result, and enters into the Almighty Concentration of force that is perpetually accumulating for the production of further results.

Power is a vast agency. Although invisible the mind recognizes it. It perpetually reappears in embryo. Its manifested form and condition have had no previous existence, and its life looks to the future: if it is not made to accomplish good it works evil. It is the duty of leading minds, if not to guide it, certainly to hinder it from being destructive!

The basis of the world is power! It lives in us and in everything. From the beginning it came forth from God, and was uttered in the philosophies of great teachers and prophets of the ancient world. God has not placed it here to remain inactive, it strives, creates, institutes. So long as the world is filled with it so long will its efforts continue, for power expresses the will of
APPENDIX.

I.

KABBALA.

The Kabbala occupies itself with angels and demons and their different divisions, the different departments of paradise and hell, the transmigration of souls, etc. All this part is purely mythologic; these myths are borrowed from the Chaldeans and Persians, but the Kabbalists have not failed to exercise upon them their imagination and to amplify the foreign fables in their own way. In the visions of Ezekiel we see God upon a throne surrounded with different figures of winged animals; the figures of Ezekiel have some analogy with those which we find represented upon the ruins of Persepolis; . . . The stars, the different kingdoms in Nature, the elements, men, their virtues, their passions, finally everything material and intellectual in Nature finds itself under the influence of angels or genii. The good angels are under the command of Metatron (the Angel of the Divine Presence). The bad are commanded by Samael who is the Satan and the Angel of Death.—Munk, 522; Specimen Theologiae Zoharicae, 1, Gotth, 1734.

The Sohar is one of the Cabbalistic books, often called “holy.” We have no certainty about its author. Some suppose that Rabbi Akiba was the author; some trace it back to one of the great Tannaim before Christ. This book is full of Messianic passages, so that almost all the Christian doctrines preached by Paul and other apostles are to be found in it!—The Israelite Indeed, I, 213. “The Midrashim are the Bridge from the Old Covenant to the New!”—Hundert und Ein Frage, p. xvii. See The Israelite Indeed, I, pp. 221, 248, 131.

The Bereshith Rabba, the oldest part of the Midrash Rabboth, was known to the Church Fathers in a Greek Translation!—Hundert und Ein Frage, p. xvii.

“Binding his foal unto the vine he washed his garments in wine, and his clothes in the blood of grapes.—Gen., 49, 11. He (Jacob) should have said: 'he shall wash' (as in the future); but he says 'he washed' (as in the past); that is, he washed from the very creation of the world; and who is it? It is the King Messiah. The King Messiah has been appointed to reign over all hosts, to break their powers above and beneath (in heaven and on earth). Further it is written: 'And the Spirit of Alahirn moved upon the face of the waters.' This is the Spirit of the King Messiah, who, from the creation of the world, washed his garments in the wine from above.'—Sohar, commentary on Gen., 40, 10; The Israelites Indeed, vol. I. p. 92. King Messiah is called Zebaoth.—Ibid., III. 61.

Naso (Necho, Nagah, "light") is "the Sun," or the Morning Star.—Burder's Josephus, II. 208 note. Hanoch (Enoch) is the Angel Metatron who includes (in himself) all the 7 angels that see the face of the King.—Intr. in Sohar, p. 304.

Why is the Archangel Metatron called the mediating Pillar? Because he is a Mediator between God and the Israelites.—Sohar, to Numbers, 101 Frage, p. 135. The pillar is emblematic of the Sun.—The Solar radiance is depicted around the head of the Messias.—Metatron is called Princeps faciei (Prince of the face of God).—Intr. in Sohar; Kabbala Denudata, II. 804, Francofort, 1884.

And know that that Uriel, before he came into Jacob, came into Hanoch, whence Hanoch, when he had entered into this material world, entered with body and soul into the garden of Eden and ate of the Tree of life: And in the midst of the Tree he found the Book of Rasiel and took it and read it through; from it he composed another book which is called the Book of Enoch. And this very thing is what is written Gen., v. 22, 24, And Enoch walked with God . . . . And when Hanoch was taken up and became the Angel Metatron who includes in himself all angels, etc . . . .—Kabbala Denudata, II. 304.

After Adam ate of the Tree of the knowledge of good and evil, and the Serpent had touched him, evil is mixed with good.—Ibid., 309. "Samuel (the Devil and Death-angel) and the Serpent his associate."—Ibid., 304.

And yet to-day the Son of David will go out and return from the Garden of Eden into this world to restore the state of the First Adam in the Garden of Eden which he was obliged to restore.—Ibid., 309.

Adam himself occupied the place of the three worlds Bariah, Iezirah and Asiah (Creation, Formation, Fabrication); and all generations have need to be restored, even to the coming of the Redeemer and the revivification of the Dead! Therefore they ascend into the Four Elements, Fire, Air, Water, Earth, and from these into Inanimate, Vegetable, Brute, and Speaking. And when they have thus become plants or vegetables, and living creatures eat of them, then they are exalted: and when again man eats of living creatures then again are they elevated into a worthier grade and are taken up into man internally. . . .

And this is that mystery, that many of the just die from a disease of the intestines, in order that the world of Asiah (Manufacture) may be purified, according to the mystery of its interiority (secretness), which restoration notice!—Ibid., II. 310.

"Seir (Osiris), Hanoch (Enoch), Abraham, Isaac and Jacob are all the first Adam."—Int. in Sohar., p. 305.

"The first Adam contained all the souls of the Israelites."—Introductive in Sohar., pp. 305, 311. "He is the Spiritual Light which combines all the Light of the lives of Israel."—Ibid., 305. "He (Seir) is called Spiritus decisorius, which is his form interiorly; and the change of the Spirit decisorius ("that cuts through the Garment") is Noah."—Ibid., 305. This only means that Noah is the Equinoctial Point, when the Aether is condensed into RAIN, the external form of the Spirit.—Author.

Philosophers call the first Air Animam mundi. But the Garment is higher than the First Air since it adheres closer to the AIN Soph, the Infinite.—Kabbala Denudata, II. 286.

For the extension of the light, which denotes judgment out of Gerunah and descends by a fixed course (fall), happens through the mystery of the Name of 42 letters . . . .—Ibid., II. 241.

Et tunc quoque Arich comprehendetur in Adamo primo, et Seir et Uxor ejus ascendent in locum suum per Patrem et Matrem.—Kabbala Denud., II. 283, 328, 345.

When the Son of the Man shall come in his glory and all the holy angels with him, then shall he sit upon the throne of his glory!

I heard as it were a voice of a great multitude and as a voice of many waters and as a voice of mighty thunderings, saying: ALALOUIA! for KUR

God, the KURios, gives light!—Rev., xxii. 5.

KUR is the SUN.—ANTHON, CURATES; Ritter Vorhalle, p. 410. Christ's FEAST was on the SUN's day, IAHOH's was on SATURN's day.

But in the NAOS itself (of the Temple at Byblus), on the right as you go in, first lies the SUN's throne; but there is no image of him upon it, for of the SUN ALONE and MOON they show no statues!—Lucian, iv. 290.
The Hebrews also disliked images excessively, and the Persians were perfectly furious at sight of them.—Movers, 66, 157.

Pliny xxix. c. 6, speaks of the God ACHORE to whom the people sacri-fied.—Burder's Josephus, II. 108. The Hebrew valley of Achor is also the SUN's name. Adonis is invoked as "Kuros."—Movers, 233; Orphic Hymn, ixii. 4.

Adonis, at Cyprus, bore the name KURios.—Movers, 198, 228. The Persians call the SUN KURios.—Clésias in Plutarch, Artaxerxes, cap. I.
KURios means Adoni (the Lord).

The word KURios identifies Christ with Mithra, just as the Gnostics said.—Milman Hist. Chrst, 290, 281. It also identifies Christ with Adoni and IAHOH.—Psalm, ii. 4; Hebrew and Septuagint.

Whether The God is ELOIS or KURios of ELOIS (Lord of the sun) and FATHER.—Plutarch de defunct. oraculor., vii.; Numb., xxv. 4.

Bad daemons having imitated the statement of Jesus THIS IS MY BLOOD, taught it in the MYSTERIES of Mithra. For you either know or can know that BREAD and a CUP of water are given out in the consecrations of the person who is being INITIATED in the Mysteries of Mithra, some words being added.—Justin Martyr, Apolog. Quid sit Eucharistic, I. 66; Hammer, 161. Tertullian observes that in the Mysteries of Mithra they signed the INITIATED on the forehead (like the Christians at the Confirmation).—Tertullian de Corona, xv. 216, 217; Hammer, 168. Tertull.
de praescript. xl.

For also in certain sacred rites of some Isles or Mithra, they are INITI-ATED by a BATH; even their own very gods they consecrate (carry out) with WASHINGS.—Tertullian de Baptist., v. 226.
There is a relation between the cult of Mithra and those of Belus, Djemschid, Joseph, Osiris or Bacchus.—Hammer, 144, 183; Athenaeus, II.; Diodor. Sic., I. 98. Mithra, the Old Medo-Arian Sun-god considerably more than a thousand years before Christ, the Babylonian Bel-Mithra, has the lion, serpent, bull, as his emblems. The Bacchic rites existed in Persia.—Vestiges of the Spirit-Hist. of Man, p. 201.

II.

The Virgin of the Church before Christ.

The masses were convinced of the influence of the Two Lights (Mar-oth) of heaven upon the creatures of the earth. Osiris and Isis were named Apollo and Diana in the lands of the West. And when the Christian bishops accommodated things to the spirit of the times, they said: Not Apollo or Diana, not Balder or Freia, but Christus and Maria.—Norr, Bibl. Mythol., II. 343. "The modern Athenians are as superstitious as the ancient; Athene was never more devoutly addressed than is now the Panagia, or Virgin."—Laurent's Tour, 114.

It was customary at Athens to appoint persons to bear LAMPS at the Promethean, Vulcanian and Panathenaean games. On these occasions they contended who could bear the torches of the greatest size in the course. The place of running was from the altar of the three gods, Prometheus, Athena (Virgo) and Hephaistos. This honor was paid to Artemis (The Virgin) called by Sophocles Amphipiron and worshipped as the Moon.—Anthon, Art. Lampadephoria; Wheelwright, Aristoph., I. 185, note. According to the Scholiast there were three TORCHBEARINGS... held in the Ceramics within the city, called by the names of Minerva, Vulcan and Prometheus.—Wheelerwright, Aristoph., I. 140.

"They deliver up the Lamp of Life!"—Lucretius, II. 78.
The torch is the symbol of new life!
The torch-lighted shores where the "awful Goddesses" foster for mortals those hallowed rites albeit the golden key (exclusive power) of which hath come upon the tongue of the ministering Eumolpides (hereditary priests of the Eleusinian Mysteries).—Sophocles, Oedip. Col., 1049.
Receiving the lamp sacred to the Infernal Goddesses, 0 girls.—Aristoph. Thesmoph., 101.
Sacred is the Chorns of Artemis!—Xenophon, Cyri. Exp., I. iii. 13.
Diana was represented in the ancient Mysteries as bearing a torch in each hand.—Buckley's Sophocles, p. 209, note.
Ornaments of the Goddess and young lambs ... and the light of lamps and the other purifications.—Euripides, Iph. in Taur., 1233 ff.
Sacrifice to the Light-Bearing Goddess whatever the year should produce most beautiful.—Iph. in Tauris, 20. Hephaistos (Vulcan) the noble (Orph) skilled in light.—Plato, Cratylus.
But this is the way to the Thalusia (The Harvest Feast of Talus the Sun): for our friends are making a feast to Demeter, offering the firstfruits of their abundance; since for them the Female Daimon hath piled the threshing-floor full of barley.—Theocrit., vii.
Artemis furious, because Oineus had not performed the Thalusia with the fertility of the threshing-floor.—Iliad, ix. 529. Diana was called Orthia (Earth) and Upis (Ops)—Callimachus, Hymn to Artemis. Astarte was the Ving Coelestis Urania! She is Venus and married Adonis (Bacchus).—Sancho et alii, ed. Orelli, p. 36, note 95. Anaitis (Anahid) is Vingin. Annette, the Nymph, is the Vingin Anna-Berith. Pronouncing h in Anaitis (Naith) makes Anahid. Replacing h in Ieud gives Iehud (Iehud) the Only-Begotten, who was born of a Vingin. Iehud is the Only-Begotten in Hebrew. Isack is called Iehud.—Gen., xxii. 2. Hod means "Glory," Halo, Hailos, Helios.
They honored Ceres and Proserpine by continence. The mystic beds and the strings of purple designate the state of Virgoity of Proserpine when she reached hell.—De Locy, I. 520. Purple was the color of death. —De Sacré's Sainte Croix ; Iliad, xxiv. The women represented the Goddess in the Mourning for the Sponsa snatched from Venus, and therefore they were chastised during the Mourning!—Movers, 205.
His betrothed VIRGIN, 1 who was named Ia, covers the breast of

1 Virgo sponsa quam Valerius Pontifex Iam nomine suasse conscibit, ... says the myth in Arnobius, I.e. p. 200; from Movers, 203. "Through the Virgin EVA came the death."—Cyril, XII. vi. Iam, according to the Kabbal-(Adonis) half dead with softer wools.—The myth in Arnobius, I. e. p. 200. And the Church-father gives the explanation: "Is it not a repetition of those tears with which Ia covered him falling (dying) and in her troubles thought that she could bring some vigor into the limbs.—Ibid., p. 210; Movers, 208. The limbs of the Dionysus Zues delivers to his Son Apollo to bury.—Clemens Al., p. 15. Ia is the Henah (Eua) of Genesis.

On the identity of several of the goddesses, see Sainte Croix by De Sacy, I. 144, 173, 177, 180, 182, 184, 197.

Besides the stars of the Bear are so to be observed
By us and the day of the goats, and the Shining Serpent!
—Virgil, Georg. I. 205.

More remote now rises the Serpent with shining body.—Cicero, Aeat. Phan., 386.

This is the fourth house! Thus says Osiris N., N., the Just! I am the Watchman and Lord of the gleaming house, of the habitation which walks in the morning. There is a heavenly ridge long and great, which God the Creator of the worlds has made. There is in it a heavenly valley. It is of this sort: three hundred fathoms in its length and thirty fathoms in its breadth. There is my hole; in it is a Giant-snake, a wonderful fellow; thus it is: seventy ells in the length of its body, living for the poisonous destruction of men, for the annihilation of the enemies of God the Creator of the worlds. . . .

Praise me the mighty Sun-god, who have made the Serpent-figure (akori), I who have put together the place of the nightly firmament, I who illumine the heaven by walking about in the sight of the worlds, who diminishes and abolishes thy manifold sorrows upon earth, the Producer, the Great God of Heliopolis, the Mighty who has created the worlds.—Book of the Dead, cap., 149; Uehlemann, iv. 233.

The frightful Dragon glides rolling himself under and over.

Not only does he glitter adorning his head with one star, lists, is I (Father) and AH (Mother); composed of I, the Male, and IH, the Mother.—Nork, Bibl. Mythol., I. 164, 165 note, 166; II. 334. Iah is Adam; Euah (Iah) is Eve. Together they are the Double-man of Genesis and the Kabbala.—See Spirit-Hist., 229.

Nork says the "Woman clothed with the sign of the Sun and the Moon" is the bisexed or male-female Deity; hence Her name is Iah (composed of the masculine I and the feminine ah).—Nork, Bibl. Mythol., II. 364; Kabbala Deudata, II. 371; Book of the Mystery, iii. 35. O (u) is androgyne; since it is written: male and female he created them and named them Adam.—Ibid., iii. 35.
But his temples are distinguished by a two-fold brightness,
And out of fierce eyes two fervid lights flame!
And his chin shines with one radiant star (constellation),
The head inclined on one side and bent back with slender neck
You may say fixed its look upon the tail of the greater.

And the rest of the body of the DRAGON we behold on all nights.
The SNAKEHOLDER whom the Greeks call Ophiuchus of famous name
He holds the SNAKE by the double pressure of the palms
And himself remains tied all over his body,
For the SERPENT girds the middle of the man under the breast,
But he striving treads heavily,
And with his feet presses the eyes and breast of NEPA!

—In Cicero, De Nat. Deor., II. 42.

Here Hydra (a good divinity) raises himself up from the infernal parts (whose long body is stretched out): (Job, xxvi., 13):
And in the middle fold the resplendent Cup gleams.
The RAVEN shining with plumèd body strikes
With his beak the outside (extremam partem).—Cicero, De Nat. Deor., II. 44.

YOU, O MOST FAMOUS LIGHTS
Of the world, who lead the year gliding away in heaven,
Liber and BOUNTIFUL CERES (Signs in the heavens).—Virgil, Georg., I. 5 ff.
The attributes of Demeter (Ceres, Isis) and Persephone are ears of corn, poppy and a torch.—Preller, I. 492. Her representation is very nearly identical with the figure of the Virgo in Albumazar, 73, 94.—Eschenburg plate xi.; p. 428, § 64. Her dragons which draw her chariot seem to indicate the return from Haides (hell), like the serpents of Mercury’s caduceus.
Proserpine is the female Pneuma (SPIRIT).—Plutarch de Iside, lxvi.
Through a VIRGIN, the Eva, came the death, it was necessary through a VIRGIN, but more from a VIRGIN, that the LIFE should appear.—Cyril Hierol., XII., vi. Ascend thou Blessed VIRGIN!—Euripides, Hippolyt., 1440.

Great Leo vibrating a tremulous flame from his body.—Cicero, de Nat. Deor., II. 43.

The Lion was a symbol of Bacchus and always a symbol of Hercules (the Sun). Cœsæus sent a golden LION to Apollo’s temple as an offering.—Anthon; Herodot., I. 50.

The Lion of the tribe IouJ.A (Ibud the Only-begotten)!—Rev., v. 5.

The Sun’s house is in the sign Leo.—Nork, II. 175. It enters Leo July 23d, anciently July 20th.—Anthon, 199.
The Lion and the Virgin... whence will be the ripening of the grape.—Nonnus, xii. 37, 38.

ON FINDING INSTRUMENTS WITH REPRESENTATIONS UPON THEM.

The Mishna:

If the representation (figure) of a Nursing Mother, and (a) Sar Apis ¹ (is found), then the Nursing Mother is to be referred to the name of Eve (Eua) who nursed all the entire world. Sar Apis refers to the name of Joseph who ruled and satisfied the whole entire world. He carries a measure; and so She carries her Son and so suckles him.—Talmud, Tract. Avodasara, p. 49, Amsterdam edition. Transl. Dr. Crusé.

When one finds implements (vessels) on which stands the representation of a Nurse, or that of Serapis, then these are forbidden. The Nurse means Eva who was the Nurse (wet-nurse) of the whole world; Serapis means Joseph, who was a prince and provided the whole world with bread and thereby appeased men. Only then is the image of a man forbidden when he has a Measure in his hand; and the representation of a Nurse, when she has a Son in her arms.—Abodah Sarah, Eccald, p. 308.

Now too the Virgin returns—
Begin Little Boy to know thy Mother by a smile:
Ten Months have caused a long delay to the Mother.
Begin Little Boy: on whom parents have not smiled,
Nor god thought worthy of a table nor goddess of her bed.—Virgil, Eclogue, iv.

Referring the birth of Jove and the rise of the Virgin² to physiology, he separates (them) from fable.—Cicero, de Nat. Deor., I. 15.

¹ ² Between Virgo and Libra stands a “God with an Ox-head” (the Bull-god), named Bos-Tore, that is, the planet Jupiter (Egyptian Astrology). In the Steer (the sign of the Bull) is the sixth planet-deity, depicted as a Woman with a lion’s head.—Uhlemann, Aegyptische Alterthumskunde, iv. 223, 222.

Ammon-lAR with the lion’s head (the Logos, the Demiurgic Mind, the Creator) is born in July.

“Thou art the God (the KURios) swift-coming from the Sun, the greatly-glorious, lion-shaped, the very white forever!”—Spirit-Hist., 190, 191, 192.

Between Leo and Virgo is a deity, with two Musa leaves on his head, named SEB (Saturn).—Uhlemann, iv. 221.

Christus invictus Leo
Draco (Typhon) surgens obruto,
A morte functos excitat.—Ancient Christian Hymn; Rambach, I. 224. Compare the Seal IAR, the God of Light with the Lion’s head; in the Abbet Egyptian Museum. Also Hercules (the Sun) with the Lion’s skin.—Anthon, 509.

Deut., iv. 16, 19.
This day ILIThia (Alitta, Venus), presiding over births, shall bring into the light a certain MAN who shall be a Ruler over all his neighbors, of the men of the generation who are of my blood.

He shall indeed be a Ruler over all his neighbors, who shall this day fall between the feet of a woman. And she indeed was pregnant of her BELOVED SON; and the Seventh Month was at hand! And she brought Him into light, being deficient the number of months; but kept back the delivery of Alenea.

A noble MAN is now born who shall rule the Argives, EURUS-THEUS (Araz-Attes, Adonis-Deus), the Son of PERSEUS (the Sun-God), Thy SON!

FATHER Zeus (Deus, Iahoh) the Hurler of the red lightning (2 Sam., xxii. 14, 15) immediately took ATM (Matter, Goddess of Evil) by her head of shining curls! He always groaned when He beheld his Beloved Son suffering! —Iliad, xix.; Spirit-Hist., 90, 393, 247.

Screaming Enoe Baoone, Thou alone art worthy of the VIRGIN. —Aeneid, viii. 389.

But at Delphi a virgin acts the prophetess, a symbol of the VIRGIN OF THE HEAVENS. —Lucian de Astrologia, 24.

In the starry circle

He established Erigone alongside of the Lion.
The soul of Erigone he assigned to the STAR of the Heavenly VIRGIN and Child (stachus = child; ear of corn) to go in company. —Nonnus, xlvii. 247, 258, 259 ff.

The resplendent VIRGIN with gleaming body follows Leo.
The VIRGIN rises, glowing with bright light.

For always the Sun rising takes on one sign. —Cicero; Arat. Phœn., 343, 380, 321, 322.

ASCEND, thou Blessed Virgin! —Euripides, Hippol., 1440.

Adoniz Himself gives you a SIGN: Lo the VIRGIN (η παρθενος) shall conceive and bear a Son and he shall call his name AMMANUEL ("OMNIAVL"). —Isaiah, vii. 14. Sol entered the VIRGIN August 20. —

1 ATM "Evil."
2 S softens into h. In Hebrew a and e are the same letter. Dorie and Attic a and è.
Antlwin, 200. Sol entered the Lion July 20th, and the Egyptian God "AMMONIOS" (AMMON-IAR, or AMMON-EL, or Immanuel) with the Lion's head was commemorated as "the God swift-coming from the sun," AMMON-Helios or AMMON-EL, on a seal, now exhibited in the Egyptian Museum of Dr. Abbot in New York, a fac-simile of which is given in Vestiges of the Spirit-Hist. of Man, p. 190. This is the Logos!—Movers, 268; Spirit-Hist., 191, Note. It is ADONIS coming on the clouds of heaven as AUTUMNAL God!—Spirit-Hist., 195, 208, 251, 252, 355, 380.

I will send wonders in heaven above, and signs upon the earth beneath.—Acts, ii. 19.

The "Powers" of the heavens shall be shaken (tossed)!

And then shall appear the sign of the Son of the Man in heaven (the "Heavenly Man" of the Kabbala)!

And then all the tribes of the earth shall mourn!

And they shall see the Son of the Man coming upon the clouds of the heaven with power and much glory!—Matthew, xxiv. 30.

"Above in heaven are signs in which the deepest secrets lie hidden. These signs are the constellations and the stars which are watched and studied by the wise."—The Sohar, II. 70, a.

"These (the Magi) from the rise of a new star, truly, from knowledge of the stars, most learnedly judged and avowed that the King and Saviour of the entire world was born; and having departed from the Orient for this reason toward Jerusalem they attained to a true knowledge of the formerly promised Messias: and thus Magi knew Christ from the heavens before that the Jews recognized Him from the Scriptures."—Wolius, p. 12.

"In the year when the Saviour Christ was born, on the thirteenth day (at Vincentius lib. 7, refer c. 91) Magi from Persia and Chaldaea, coming from the country Saba to Jerusalem, a most splendid star (going before as) leader, offered to the "King" of the Jews gold, incense and myrrh; at the miracle of which thing not only Herod and the inhabitants of Jerusalem, but even all Judaea was excited. But this star, as Fulgentius has handed down, was different from the others and had its place neither in the Firmament with lesser stars nor in the Aether with the Planets; but took its position in the Air near the earth."—Wolius, p. 12, Lect. Mem. et Recondit. Lauringen, 1600.

"The Messiah will first in Galilee reveal himself, afterwards a star in the east will become visible."—Sohar, fol. 74, col. 293; 101 Frage pp. 17, 18. The Sohar, in the 2d century before Christ, by Simeon ben Iochai.—Ibid., p. xvii. Franck holds that he died some years after the year 70 A.D.—Gelmeck, Die Kabbala, 70.

1 This mourning is at the time of the Vintage; and the Last Judgment.—Rev., xiv.; xx.

2 Fulgentius lived A.D. 500.
A star showed "the before the sun Logos"
To the Magi . . . —John of Damascus; died A.D. 754.
I see him, yet not now,
I behold him although he is not near;
A Star shall arise out of Jacob!!! —Numbers, xxiv. 17.

"As the Square on the head (of the coffin) always contains the OEcodespota of the Sun-house, the Virgo, and as Isis sometimes signifies the female Sun, this deity expresses the House of the Sun, the Virgo. The joined legend contains the following words: Eshk masi kore-t, amonihor, heri hur-t pe mesh toto kab (i.e., Isis, Genetrix powerful, Nurse divine, adored Mistress of the plenitude of the lands); which predicates clearly notice the Sun-god, the OEcodespota of the Sign Virgo!"—Seysfirth, St. Louis, Acad., p. 15. "Intimately connected with Magic was the worship of Isis."—Bulloer, Last Days of Pompeii, p. 141.

Since the Nativity of Christ was first revealed to the Magi in Persia (Matthew, ii. 1, 2), we may be sure that the Jews got their ideas of a Messiah from the Persians.—Hyde, 385. Abul Pharajius says Zoroaster taught the Persians concerning the manifestation of Our Lord Christ, ordering them to bring him gifts; . . . when the Child should be born a star would appear which would shine in the day-time, and in the middle of it the figure of a maid, of a Virgin, should be seen.—AbulPharaj., 54.

A learned Persian Astrologer, Giamasp, in the sixth century before Christ (?) wrote a book containing "Judgments on the grand conjunctions of the planets, and on the events produced by them." An Arabian version of it was published in A.D. 1280. The preface of this latter work contained an account of the rise of new religions and monarchies to come! He gave notice that Jesus was to appear, and Mohammed.—Univ. Hist., V. 416 ; Hyde, p. 385 ; D'Herbelot, Bibl. Orient., art. Giamasp.

In the "sphere" of Persia, saith Aben Ezra, there ariseth upon the face of the sign Virgo a beautiful maiden, she holding two ears of corn in her hand and a child in her arm: She feedeth him and giveth him suck, etc. This maiden, saith Albumazar, we call Adreneidesa, the pure Virgin. She bringeth up a child in a place which is called Ars (the Hebrew land or sphere); and the Child's name is called Esi (Jesu).—Univ. Hist., V. 418, quotes Mr. John Gregory's Notes, p. 152.

Virgo, a fertile sign, bipartite, then triform. There rises in its first decan, as Persians, Caldeans, Egyptians, and, among the last two, Hermes and Ascalius, teach us, a Maid in the extreme of youth who has a Persian name Secdeidos de damama, in Arabic interpreted Adreneidesa-, pure Virgin, a Maid, I say, a Virgin Immaculate: comely in body: beautiful in face, modest in habit: with long hair, holding two ears in her hand, sitting upon a golden throne: nursing a boy and justly satisfying (him) in the place which has the name HEBRÆA; a boy, I say, by certain nations named Ihesus, who signify Eizã whom we call in Greek Christus (the Anointed), who has risen with that Virgin as if sitting on the same throne and not touching; at the same time also the star of the ear of corn which is the end of the Serpent. Then the Second (Part) has the head of a stag and the head of a lion. Near to the Indi a Maid, Virgin, dressed in fine cotton stuff (muslin) and antique clothes, her face in her hand grasped with both hands, standing in the midst beautifully, admirably; wishing to go to the homes of her parents and friends to seek garments and ornaments. After the Greeks comes the point of the tail of Draco, the tail of the Bear with his chain, the buttock of Leo, the feet and tail, together with the Cup near the head of the Snake, and a part of the Snake.—Albumazar, Introductorium in Astronomiam, p. 78.2

1 Eisz, Isa, Jesus.

2 Albumazar lived about 805–885 A.D. “Albumazar wrote expressly from the Persic astrologers.”—Univ.-Hist., V. 419. The more cultivated Persians were the teachers of the Arabians.—Spiegel, Avesta, I. 39.

When Alexander entered Babylon he was presented with the archives of the empire verified by astronomical calculations that extended over a period of many centuries; and Callisthenes was able to send to his relation and friend, Aristotle, the celestial observations of nineteen hundred years(?).—Layard’s Nineveh, 445; Simplicius, Aristot. de Coelo, p. 123; Kenrick, I. 285, 283; Univ.-Hist., VIII. 550. Seyffarth says that the Egyptian Astronomical observations go back to 2555 n.c.(?)—Evangelical Review, p. 72. There is no doubt that they went back to the eighth century n.c. But beyond this period the priests are unsafe authorities, and such matters came under their cognizance.

“The king is led by the priest of Isis into the place which is called ADYTUM, and is bound by an oath that neither day nor month is to be intercalated.”—Scholia Lat. Vet. in Arat. Germanici, Ideler; Kenrick, I. 279. They forced him to keep up the old reckoning and not allow the quarter day to be intercalated.—Kenrick, I. 279.

Because both prophet and priest practise hypocrisies, Even in My House I have discovered their wickedness, saith Jehovah!
—Jeremiah, xxiii. 11; 9, 15, 17, 21.

Lo, I am against the prophets [saith Jehovah,]
That render bland their tongue and say: an Oracle!—Jeremiah, xxiii. 51 ff; Sebastian Schmid.

Then said Jehovah to me, the prophets prophesy lies in my name.—Jeremiah, xiv. 14.

Many pastors have destroyed my VINEYARD!
They have trodden my portion under foot!—Jeremiah, xii.; Jeremiah, xiii. 23, 24.

The ancient and honorable, he is the head; and the prophet that teaches lies, he is the tail.—Isaiah, ix. 16.
the name of the Messiah? Rabbi Shila replied, His name is Shilo (Siloh, Ausel, Usil, Sal) —Israelite Indeed, III. 69.

A Fiery Column will appear reaching from the highest to the lowest, during forty days, which all peoples of the world will be able to contemplate. And at this time King Messiah will be revealed going out from the Garden of Eden (Adam, Eden). And he will be revealed in the land Galil, since that was the first place which was devastated in the holy land; therefore he will be revealed there first, in preference to all places. —Sohar Ec. fol. 11, edit. Sulsbaeswi; Bertholdt, 85; also Specimen Theologiae Soharicae, pp. 81, 82; Gottha, 1734.

In this time Messiah ben David will go forth, but to him another Messias will be added, the son of Joseph. —Sohar, part 3, fol. 82, b. edit. Salzb.; Bertholdt, 77.

But after the threescore and two weeks (sebaim) Messiah shall be cut off but not for him! —Daniel, ix. 26; see Bereshith Rabba, section Mikets; The Israelite Indeed, I. 131.

Spiegel considers the Persian expectation of one Messiah following another a borrowed idea from the Buddhistic view that several Buddhas follow in succession. —Spirit-Hist., 247.

Messias, son of Joseph, will be first revealed in Galilée, for there the Captivity began. —Jalkut chadash, fol. 142, col. 1; Bertholdt, 80.

Messiahs ben Joseph will be head over the ten tribes, which are in all Scriptures named Ephraim. —Mikveh Israel, fol. 48, col. 1; Bertholdt, 80.

Messiahs Josephida will be pierced with the sword of Gog and Magog.

1 "This is certainly 'The Prophet!" Others said, This is 'The Anointed!" Others said, For does not 'The Anointed' come from Galilæa?" —John, vii. 40, 41. This shows the Zohar to contain matter older than the time of Christ. Simon ben Iochai himself says that he had predecessors in his doctrines. —Franck's Kabbala by Gelinek, 97. The principles of the Kabbala are older than the Christian dogmas. —Ibid., 219. It is a valuable remnant of a Religious philosophy of the Orient. —Ibid., 251 ff.

Franck points out the connection of the Jewish Kabbala with the religion of the Chaldeans and Persians. —Gelinek, Die Kabbala, pp. 261-288. He finds not only the general principles but all elements of the Kabbala in the Zendavesta of the Persians and the religious commentaries attached to it. "In the land of the captivity the Jews had founded religious schools of equal reputation with those of the metropolis. Of the teachers that proceeded from their midst Hillel was a Babylonian, who died forty years before the coming of Christ, after he had been the instructor of that Iochanan ben Sokkai who plays so great a part in the above quoted Kabbalistic Narratives. Moreover these schools put forth to the world the Babylonian Talmud, the last and most complete expression of Judaism." —Ibid., 264. The account of our first parents in Paradise, their punishment and disgrace, the Last Judgment and its horrors, also the Resurrection of the souls and bodies of the dead, all these are found in the Bundesbuch and the Zendavesta in as plain a form as in Genesis. —Ibid., 266, 267, 268, 270 ff.

A great sign was seen in the heaven, a Woman who has come into possession of the Sun, and being with Child, travelling and being tortured to bring forth.

And another sign was seen in the heaven, and lo! a great Fiery Serpent!

And the Serpent stood before the Woman about to be delivered, in order that when She should bear her Child he might devour it.

And She bore a Son, a male, who is about to govern all the nations with an iron staff: and her Child was caught up to God the Father and to his throne.

And the Woman fled into "the Desert," where She has a place prepared there by The God (the Father)!

And there arose a war in heaven, Michael and his angels fighting against the Serpent.—Revelation, xii. 1–8, Greek.

The Sohar, on Exodus, fol. 52, says: Wherever Scripture speaks of a Melieh (King), without special name, we have always to understand:
King Messiah. The Talmud, Tract Sanhedrin, fol. 98, 2, says: What is and of Aphrodite to the Moon; for fire is nearer as some think; but brightness and heat is sweet and generative, that borne by the Sun gives nourishment light and increase to the body; but that which comes from Eros, to the minds.—Plutarch, Mor., p. 934.

From the Wisdom (Logos, Amon) which Philo called the First-born, from this Wisdom, as the Divine Thought (Logos endiathetos), goes forth another Logos which represents the Word (the Logos proforikos). This is in accordance with the philosophy of the Kabbala.—Gelinek's Franck, 223, 274, 275. Now all that the founders of Christianity had to do was to proclaim that Jesus was this Word in the flesh.—John, i. 14. Here was the nucleus of a new theology, that the Word had appeared in the person of Jesus whose teachings had already become famous in Judea. In other words, "Bel the Younger," the Sun-god, the Son of the Father, like an angel entered the man Jesus.

"The SON, Zeus-Belus or Sol-Mithra, is an image of the Father, an Emanation from the SUPREME LIGHT... This BEL of the Chaldean-Babylonian MAGIANISM passed for Creator."—Movers, 265, 390. See Paul, Coloss., i. 16.

Since the Magi saw the star of Jesus, we must look for a part of the origin of Christianity in the "SPHERES" of ancient Astrology and Magianism.—Matthew, ii. 1, 2; Dan., ii. 2; Isaiah, xliv. 13; Münster, Bab., 91, 92; Jer., x. 2; Movers, 167, 169 ff, 167, 71, 79; Job., xxxi. 26, 27; ix. 9; Isaiah, xlvii. 13; 2 Esdras, xv. 40.

"In Syriac, Magusba: which word in the Talmudic books sounds badly and denotes, those given to Magic arts; but in the Syriac Testament, as among the Persians, the word is honorable, and signifies men famous as well for wisdom as for religion."—Tremellius, note to Matthew, ii. 1. According to Strabo, xvi. p. 789, they marched about the country as casters of nativities, and were mostly despised by the Wise of Babylon.—Kleuker, 44.

But when they had seen the star itself they rejoiced with a very great joy.—Peshito Testament, Matthew, ii. 10, Tremellius.

And all this happened in order that the word of the Lord might be fulfilled which was spoken by the Prophet who says: Lo! the virgin shall conceive and bear a Son, and they shall call his name Emmanuel (the Wisdom of God).—Matthew, i. 23, Tischendorf; Isaiah, vii. 14; Spirit-Hist., 172, 228.

The Persians held that their three successively expected prophets Oshedar-bami, Oshedar-mah, the Messiah Sosion (or Senioethotius) were each to be born of a virgin.—Spirit-Hist., 247; Univ. Hist., V. 408; Spiegel, Aesta, I. 33, 34. Tavernier, I. 393, says, "a dearly-loved maid."

This is the Prophet that was to come into the world!—John, vi. 14; from Deut., xviii. 15, 18.

1 Christianity was itself a Jewish heresy; for Paul is styled "a plague and a mover of sedition among all the Jews throughout the world, and a ring-leader of the sect of the Nazarenes."—Acts, xxiv. 5.

4 For before these days (the prophet) Theudas rose up, saying that he was somebody; and a number of men, about four hundred, joined him; and he was slain, and all that obeyed him were scattered and were brought to nothing. After him, Judas, the Galilean, rose up in the days of "the Registering," and drew a multitude after him; he also perished and all that obeyed him were dispersed.—New Testament; Acts, v.; Munk's Palestine, 572, 568. I saw the heaven opened, and lo a white Horse (the Horse of the Sun); and He that sat on him is called faithful and true, and in righteousness He judges and wars. His name is the Logos of the God!—Revelation, xix. 11, 14.

In Babylon the Jews had become acquainted with the Zoroastrian religious books and had heard about Sosiosh, who, according to the Book Bun-Dehesh, at the End of the days will come suddenly and unexpectedly; upon a white horse, as Redeemer; will overcome the bad spirits and death, give new life to the dead and hold a Judgment over the black art. Both of these, the Goetic and the Theurgic, appear to be of Egyptian origin; and it is evident, at least, that their practitioners appeared to pride themselves on drawing their chief secrets from that ancient source; and both are intimately connected with Astrology!”—Ibid., p. 161.

Magi promise that they have commendatory prayers by which I know not what Powers softened afford easy ways to those striving to fly up to heaven.—Arnobius, ii. lxii.

wise man, drew away many to himself.—Josephus, xviii. 4. Simon Magus claimed to be the Power of God. The times were wild; “the country was filled with impostors who deluded the multitude” (Josephus, Ant., Book XX); the lower class believed anything.—Tobit, vi. viii; Burder’s Josephus, II. 13; New Test. passim. All sorts of sects and crude opinions multiplied. Some lived in cloisters and religious orders; prophets led the way like John to the wilderness. An impostor stirred up the Samaritans to disinter the sacred vessels buried by Moses on Mount Garizim; and, being opposed by the Roman troops, many lost their lives.

Dr. Jost, after speaking of the agitated state of the Jews during the century or more which preceded our era, says: “Out of that confusion, after many bubbles had risen and exploded, there appeared a new phenomenon, the offspring of the revealed doctrines of Judaism, which, rapidly advancing with gigantic step, soon passed the limited sphere of its birth, and moved forwards to overthrow the wide reign of heathenism, and threatened the world with transformation. That phenomenon was Christianity.”—The Israelite Indeed, I. 167.

Leviticus is full of Magism; also Numbers, xvi. 46-50; Jer. xix. 13.

“And Saul, king of the Hebrews, happened to have cast out from the district the diviners and the ventriloquists, and all that sort of craft with the exception of the Prophets!”—Josephus, Ant., vi. 15. Daniel was chief of the Magicians.—Daniel, iv. 9.

I send to you prophets, wise men and scribes.—Matthew, xxiii 34. “Jesus, a wise man.”—Josephus, xviii. 4.

Daniel was very busy with the interpretation of dreams.—Burder’s Josephus, II. 216; Daniel, i. 20; compare Matthew, i. ii. Pharaoh summoned the wise men and enchanters and prognosticators of Egypt.—Exodus, vii. 11. The Chartanim were the Magi, Magicians and jugglers.—Exodus, ix. 11; Seder Lason, p. 111.

Magi from the East came to Jerusalem, saying: Where is he who was born King of the Jews? For we have seen his star in the east and are here to adore him. But king Herod, hearing (it), was disturbed and all Jerusalem with him. Herod having secretly called the Magi learned carefully from them the time of the star which appeared to them.—Matthew, ii. by Jerome. “Tbe theurgic or benevolent magic, the Goetic or dark and evil necromancy, were alike in preeminent repute during the first century of the Christian era.”—Bulwer, Last Days of Pompeii, p. 147. “But the Magicians of this sort were Philosophers!—excellent men and pious; there were others of a far darker and deadlier knowledge, the followers of the Goetic Magic, in other words,

For my son Jesus (Sosiosh) shall be revealed with those that be with him; and they that remain shall rejoice within four hundred years.

After these years shall my Anointed son die, and all men that have life!

And the earth shall restore those that are asleep in her, and so shall the dust those that dwell in silence, and the secret places shall deliver those souls that were committed to them.

And the Most High shall appear upon the Seat of Judgment; and misery shall pass away, and the long-suffering shall have an end!

The Chaldee paraphrases of the Old Testament changed 4 Mos. xxiii. 21 "Iahoh his Alah is with him and a king's trumpet among Dogm., p. 160; Numb., xxv. 4. Parts of the Midrashim and Onkelos are prior to the New Testament in antiquity.—101 Frage, pp. xvii., xiv. The many resemblances between the Talmud and the Gospels are due to the teachings of men who lived and taught before the composition of the Gospels; these last being despised by the Jews would not be quoted by them.—Ibid., pp. xv., xvi.

The Spiritus Decisorius cuts off and divides the Garment into two parts, and descends into Iezirah (son) 1 through the mystery of the 70 names of Metatron.—Ibid. And in a future time from this Garment (Shechinah) shall come the pleasantness of Sheim (the Sun) (Malachi, iv, 2). And grief and sighs shall flee before Him (the Messiah), and judgment shall come upon those who are removed from God and a future day shall burn them up! But Israel will be saved. And then the moon will be in its plenitude and perfection as it was in the days of king Salomon.

And Asa and Asael 2 even yet teach men portents and Magianism; for they are skilled in the Magian art.

The word Setsim the author considers the same as Sethim, the Jews. The Sabians derive their religion from Seth. Those of Mount Lebanon, says Hyde, have so high a veneration for Him that they lay more stress on an oath made in His name than on one made in the name of God, “Wa Sheyth,” “By Seth,” was the most solemn oath.—Jervis, Genesis, 107. Sad, the Arabic Saad, Hebrew El Shadi, Semitic Set, Sat and Saturn, are probably identical. Therefore “irrigating the river of the Setim,” or Sethim, would be very natural and proper in the mouths of Jews as well as Arabs.

The Sabians profess a great veneration for John the Baptist, styling themselves in their language, which is composed of Chaldee and Syriac, MENDALAHIA, Disciples of John. They pray at sunrise, noon and sunset. They sacrificed a cock. They celebrate the feast of every planet and derive their religion from Noah.—Univ. Hist., xviii. 381–888.

Whether St. Paul preached in any part of Arabia, we cannot pretend to determine; but that the Christian religion was planted very early in this country will not admit of a dispute.—Ibid., 390. "Paul went to Arabia, and returned to Damascus."—Gal., i. 17.

"The Galilean nation formerly occupied a part of the Holy Land. A century and a half ago they removed from it and settled in the Lebanon district which is called Mercab. . . . It boasts John the Baptist as its founder!"—Codez Nasar. I. vi ff.; Norberg quotes Germanus Conti, the Maronite, Vicar in Syria. The temple shines during divine worship with lights and candles! The priest holds a staff in his hand: and when he is about to speak he begins his address in Galilean, but continues in Arabic; for all are ignorant of the ancient tongue except the priests and men of letters. The day on which John the Baptist instituted Baptism they all go together to the water. The priest drinks and sprinkles water, and says to those coming out of the river: Renew your baptism in the name of the Father, and of our Savior John; who, just as he baptized Jews in Jordan and saved them, will save you also! The remembrance of John's miracle was celebrated in Galilee, whether they went barefoot, taking their sick with them.—Ibid.

Epiphanius says that Cerinthus and Carpocrates (who used the Gospel of the Ebionites, which was probably the Original Gospel of Matthew, written in the Hebrew language for the use of the Jewish believers) argued from the genealogy at the beginning of the gospel that Christ was the son of Joseph and Mary; but that the Ebionites had taken away even the genealogy, beginning their Gospel with these words: “And it came to pass in the days of Herod the king, etc.” See Epiphanius, Haeres., 30, N. 13. It is probable therefore that the first sixteen verses of this chapter are genuine. The eighteenth verse begins a new story which contradicts the design of the genealogy, namely to show that Christ was descended from Abraham and David. If the genealogy is genuine, this narrative must be spurious.—New Test. published by a Society for promoting Christian knowledge, etc., London, 1808. All the verses of Matthew 1st chap. after verse 16 and all the second chapter were wanting (according to Epiphanius and Jerome) in the copies used by the Nazarenes (Nazirites) and Ebionites (the poor), that is, by the ancient Hebrew Christians; to whom the account of the miraculous conception of Jesus Christ could not have been unacceptable if it had been found in the genuine narrative.—Ibid., p. 2.

The author of Mystagogos divides the Gospels as follows. He assigns the Gospel of the Hebrews and the Evangel of Peter to the Jew-Christians, but the three Gospels Matthew, Mark and Luke to the opposite party, the liberal Christians.—Mystagogos, 12, 81.

The Sabians, the inhabitants of Harrān and its neighborhood, were Syrians; and the best Syrian dialect was spoken in Harrān and Edessa.—Ibid., I. 159. Among the Nabathœan (Babylonian) Heathens, who lived in the Marsh-districts in the northeast of Arabia and in the extreme southern part of Mesopotamia around Wasith and Bassrub, appeared in the last decennium of the first century a man named Elohaesai:

Elaesai, or Elchasai, was the founder of the Mendaites.—Chirolosohn, I. 108, 112, 186. “In this Elras we believe we have before us one of the oldest if not the very oldest representative of the postchristian Gnosis.” The genesis and the whole development of the Gnosis have been, so far, not yet shown with rigid historical exactness. But there is no doubt that before Christ, in western Asia and especially among the Jews, individual gnostic elements were in circulation. He joined the Essenœs (Ossenes), a Jewish sect, who had their abodes in Nabathaæan, Ituræan and Moabitæs beyond the Dead Sea.—Ibid., 112, 116. He declared himself the founder of the Ebionites, Nazarenes, Ossenes and Nasarenœs; and these sects used his book.—Ibid., I. 117. Sabians and Sabians are obviously the same.—Ibid., 121.

The eating the raw flesh torn from the quivering victim by the worshippers of Dionysus Zagreus is an instance of a diametrically opposite superstition having its origin in the same religious philosophy.—See K.
