REVOLUTION OF AMERICA
In presenting this treatise on the subject of the New Astrology, I have aimed primarily at an exposition of its most useful phases. I want you, my reader, to realize wherein it can be most useful and helpful to you. As an applied science its scope is practically limitless. This is proven by the results attained. It renders invaluable service in vocational guidance, affording means for avoiding years, possibly a lifetime, of misspent energy and effort. It provides a basis for medical diagnosis, thus indicating the means for attaining perfect health, and happiness in life itself. It reveals a knowledge of the affairs of life,—personal, business, domestic and financial, thus affording direction for making the most of life and its obligations.

Unlike other philosophers who say, "Do as I say, but not as I do," I make use of my science in my everyday existence and it has been a protection for me. The majority of people are not getting the proper reaction out of life. When one takes to assorted phases of dissipation or unworthy activities, it simply means that he is not functioning at his best. This is particularly true of the so-called social world, which is suffering merely from boredom. These individuals are not functioning at their best. Mere leisure, that is to say, intellect—granting that they have it—unoccupied, is not of itself sufficient. Of course the other side—illiterate leisure —is a form of death, in verity a living doom!
An active life for the mind is not only a protection against boredom, but also wards off the pernicious effects of that state. It keeps you from improper associations, from the many dangers, misfortunes, losses and extravagances which the man who places his happiness entirely in the objective world is sure to encounter. Astrology reveals your aptitudes, temperament and character, affording a knowledge of just the channel in which you might successfully develop your mind so as to overcome the vicissitudes of your life. It also affords a knowledge of your compatibility with others and is of untold value where the opposite sex is concerned and where your heart’s interest is involved. If you are an ordinary man you place your life’s happiness in things external to you—in property, perhaps rank, friends, society, and even, (I might say this philosophically,) wife and children, so that when you lose them or find them disappointing, the foundation of your happiness is destroyed. In other words, you are not self-sufficient. The center of gravity is not in yourself. It is constantly changing its place with every wish and every whim of those whom you have idealized, and who, because they are human, are bound to fail you at some stage of the game, called LIFE. If you would proportion your feelings and cultivate your mind and work at that for which your natural and God-given abilities have fitted you, you would be living in a world of harmony—something like Utopia, if we may use that word in connection with this modern generation. On the other hand, if you are a man of means, one day it will be your house in the country, another, buying horses or entertaining friends or traveling—a life, in short, of general luxury. Here you find yourself seeking your pleasure in things outside yourself. Like one whose health and strength are gone you try to regain it, perhaps by the use of jellies and drugs, for after all over-eating, over-drinking, over-anything, is merely a drug that deadens the sensibility of some other function, instead of developing vital power.

Astrology affects the inner nature and man as a whole. It is an obvious fact which can not be called in question that the principle element in man’s well-being, indeed in the whole tenor of his existence, is what he is made of, his inner constitution; for this is the immediate source of that inward satisfaction or dissatisfaction resulting from the sum total of his sensations, desires and thoughts, while his surroundings, on the other hand, exert only an immediate or indirect influence upon him. This is why the same external events or circumstances affect no two people alike. Even with perfectly similar surroundings, each one lives in a world of his own because the planets at birth endowed each individual with certain and definite characteristics, and the same environment can not give individuals a similar expression of themselves.

The New Astrology is a veritable boon to humanity in indicating the proper direction in which to function, as from the instant of birth a human being is susceptible to, and is actually the recipient of, a multitude of influences and forces emanating and resulting from environment; which have an effect upon him, according to the nature with which he is endowed. Imagine a man endowed with Herculean strength who is compelled by circumstances or environment to follow a sedentary occupation—some minute, exquisite work of the hands for example,—or to engage in study and mental labor demanding quite other powers than just those which he possesses: compelled to leave unused the powers in which he is pre-eminently strong. A man placed like this will never feel happy all his life through and can not be successful. Even more miserable will be the lot of the man with intellectual powers of a very high order who has to leave them undeveloped and unemployed in the pursuit of a calling which does not require them—some bodily labor perhaps for which his strength is insufficient. Goethe describes how an unalterable destiny is assigned to every man at the hour of his birth, so that he can develop only in the lines laid down for him as it were by the conjunction of the stars; and how the prophets declare that hence man can never escape, nor any power avail to change the path on which his life is cast. This statement while true in the main is too binding, too limiting. The Stars incline but do not compel. Man masters his own destiny. So you see the great necessity of knowing exactly how you should function during life and the proper time to carry on. Modern astrologers believe that all activity, all life, is a matter of education, plus the knowledge as given through the science of Astrology. Through it, all this information is yours — mathematically made known to you. It is indeed a wonderful and marvelous age, this one in which we are living. You can think for just one moment, which is only a short time, whether you are receiving the proper reaction out of life; and if you are truly happy, and if not can you answer why? This mental analysis will do much to start you on the road to success. You owe it to yourself to know yourself, your possibilities and limitations, and you owe it to man and humanity at large to be thus cognizant of your capabilities. The following terse examples of the "working" or practical side of this great science will afford ample proof of the statements which I have made. They cover a wide field of interest and I am sure they will prove convincingly the need of astrology in every-day life.

Given over the Radio-Station W. O. R., New York—

Your letter interests me so much because of its very human touch that I want to read it and as I have not given your name but merely your initials I feel sure that you will not object. I am going to read both your letter and my answer to you, as I feel it will fill the need of many of the invisible listeners. I shall, however, omit the year of your birth, so you are perfectly safe as to your identity remaining unknown s.s.

"Dear Miss Bart:—I have heard you talk over the radio several times and understood you to say that you would answer a serious question and give some data in regard to those who may wish to avail themselves of this privilege. I was born June 18, and have been engaged to a man whose initials are R. L., and who was born March 17, 1891. Recently, about three weeks ago, we had a misunderstanding, which at the time seemed very serious, and I have not seen him since. Is there anything in our temperament or character which would make us incompatible, or that would make it inadvisable for us to marry? As I now feel, I would do anything to straighten matters out, but would certainly appreciate your advice before doing anything. I dislike to admit it, but I am certainly despondent over the situation.

Sincerely,
M. T. S."

"If the misunderstanding to which you refer actually occurred three weeks ago I believe I can tell you through the science of Astrology its significance in your life. The difficulty was very likely due to a discussion about religion, since Mars was in unfriendly aspect to Jupiter in the sign Sagittarius, governing the religious question. Your friend, R. L. is inclined to be just a little bit intolerant in matters of this kind. It was quite apparent that one word may have led to another, tending to leave you both very unhappy and dissatisfied with the other's attitude. This situation came about because of certain planetary conditions at the time of the discussion. You should both agree to avoid lengthy discourse on religious subjects for the present, I would say—for the balance of this year. There is a combination of conflicting influences in your horoscopes, and Mars, the planet causing irritability is enjoying full reign. I believe you will both get along admirably together as there is no other incompatibility that would make you unsuited for each other from the marital standpoint. There is no reason why you should not do so. You will both put your pride in your pocket and thus solve your situation.

I later learned that these two individuals were united in marriage and, since I gave them each a detailed manuscript of their characteristics and the matters of discussion to be avoided, I presume they will be happy and enjoy a successful career together.
INTRODUCTION

N this book I present a series of discourses showing what Astrology is, its purpose, its history, its scientific foundation and its field of usefulness in every-day life. It is the field of useful application that will undoubtedly most interest the majority of you, and, for that reason, it might be well to start with this phase of my subject. While Astrology in its origin was much a part and parcel of the theology of religious belief which was prevalent during its earlier history, today it has very little to do with religion other than to show the imperative necessity for religion in some form; and that all life, all peoples have a basic relationship, and come under the influence of the heavenly bodies, in degree or kind. While some of you may question its relationship to human activities and destinies, nevertheless many people who may be classed as skeptics unconsciously regulate their lives on a basis dependent upon a direct relation between life in this world and the stellar activities. Many farmers rely implicitly upon the influence of the Moon and its position, in planting their crops. Scientists assert without fear of contradiction the relationship between tides and the heavenly bodies. Financial economists have even gone so far as to show the relationship between financial conditions and the aspects of the planet Venus. This might seem incredible to the less informed; but nevertheless Professor Moore of Columbia University, who needs no apology or defense on my part, has written a very significant book entitled, "Generating Economic Cycles," in which he refers to this relationship. There are scientists today who can show the relationship between war and strife on this earth, and the various activities of the Sun, such as Sun-spots, eruptions, etc. A list of facts which are already accepted by the unbelieving and the skeptic could be multiplied to greater length. The examples which I have given are sufficient to establish the point that the planetary bodies are admittedly of effect in their reaction upon waves, tides, crops and have a physiological effect upon the human being. Therefore, any claim as to the effect of the planetary influences on mind, action and the destinies of mankind, are well worthy of investigation. The verity of these statements concerning the influence of the stars on human destiny can be proved experimentally, and, as we understand science today, scientifically. Life and matter, the scientists tell us today, are but manifestations of energy; and energy it appears, exists by virtue of vibrations in that very little understood medium called ether. Here we have the basis of the influence of the stellar bodies upon the life and destiny of an individual.

The New Astrology is scientific in its basis and also scientific in its co-ordination and correlation of facts. These facts permit the making of deductions and predictions. In other words, Astrology is susceptible of as positive and scientific a demonstration as anything else that science attempts to prove or elucidate. The position of the stars at the time of your birth reveals your aptitudes, characteristics, and latent abilities in all influences tending to bear upon your destiny. Today we are not as helpless as those who lived in the early days of this science. In the early centuries, a man born with tendencies pointing to an unfortunate existence did not have as free an opportunity for overcoming the influences actuating these tendencies as he would have today. The stars incline but they do not compel. The accumulated knowledge of today—our cultural inheritance—in fact, everything which tends to make life more bearable on this earth is at the disposal of the individual who is seeking light upon his pathway in life. The guidance gained through a knowledge of the effect of the planetary influences prevailing at your birth can be utilized for your betterment. Forewarned is forearmed. Our environment only bears us down when we permit it to do so. Knowledge of an impending disaster can be used to avoid that disaster. Vocational guidance is at the command of him who seeks it. The stars reveal clearly and with unassailable accuracy the knowledge of one's particular fitness and the best method of procedure as well as the most propitious times for activity in order to achieve the greatest possible success in life. To function adequately, efficiently and happily: to enjoy the fruits of this earth, to live harmoniously you must express intelligently, unhampered, unrestrained, untrammeled. This, and this alone means happiness and contentment to every one, in his career through life.

Astrology is usually regarded as a science so deep and so difficult that only the learned can ever hope to master it; but I will make it comprehensible to the reader of this volume and will show how vitally important it is to the needs of your every-day life. In doing so I shall exercise great care not to allow my conception of the sublimity and grandeur of the subject to obscure my vision; but shall view it from the standpoint of the reader who seeks information in this field of knowledge and enlightenment for the first time. I also wish to make clear how a knowledge of the stars will eliminate much of the toil and guesswork usually encountered in the struggle to reach your goal.
Astrology, the oldest of all sciences, can be traced so far into the past, (as we shall see in the historical development appearing later in the book,) that it becomes a task actually to discover when and where it had its origin. It is neither prevision nor prophecy. It is a mathematically correct science. It is the beginning of nearly all that we hold valuable in art, literature, religion and science; and has survived through the ages, to become the hope and the inspiration of the modern world. While in reality the profoundest of all studies, it is based upon simplicity. "But," you may ask, "How can the planets affect me and the every-day happenings of my life?" Let me further elucidate. The influence of the stars and planets acts upon the physical and the spiritual in all phases in life! There are twelve zodiacal signs, each governing the space of a month on our calendar. There are also nine planets governing these signs. The constellations or zodiacal signs are divided into four groups resembling in nature the four elements, water, earth, air and fire. Each of these zodiacal signs, while ruling individuals born under them; also rules countries that come within the latitude and longitude of these zodiacal signs. The date of the signing of the charter of a country establishes the birth of that nation and is astrologically used as the country’s date of birth. Nations are born and die, just as individuals. The World War was a shining example of this statement.

Space that is inter-planetary, inter-material, inter-organic, is not a vacuum. It is filled with a subtle fluid, that is, a force called ether or solar fire. This fluid, unchangeable in composition, indestructible, invisible, pervades everything; and all ponderable matter is charged with it. Man is charged with the vibrations according to the position of the planetary bodies at his birth, and these vibrations are carried through the ether to man. The rays of a planet directly over head are bound to be more forcefully felt upon an individual born on one day than if that planet were ninety or one hundred and twenty degrees away from the individual or locality of birth.

The planets are continually in motion, and as they move away from their position held at birth, their vibrations to that object or human being born under them change accordingly, producing greater motion or less vibration. Without these vibrations there could not be any motion, nor any impulse to excite particles into action. The ether connects the sun with the planet, planet with planet, man with planet, and man with man. Without these planetary vibrations there could be no communication in the universe, no light, no heat, no phenomena of motion, proving conclusively and scientifically that the planetary bodies affect man: that their influences cause the changes constantly taking place in his life and experience.

Through the Science of Astrology man may know in advance how his stars incline for him, just as the astronomer can tell the weather conditions in advance through a knowledge of the planetary bodies. Astrology reveals just what your life work should be: the things you can do best and the obstacles you may have to face. It proves that there is a definite scientific reason back of all the happenings of life. A knowledge of Astrology provides us with a tremendous conquering force by familiarizing us with our strength and our weakness and by showing us the most opportune time for carrying out our plans. As our comprehension of the science increases, we are filled with a new understanding, both for ourselves and those with whom we come into contact; because it furnishes a scientific reason for traits of character otherwise incomprehensible. We are given not only the power to analyze character, but we are taught how to correct our faults, and how to find a remedy for adverse conditions. We learn there is a right and wrong time for everything. You may utilize propitious planetary conditions to your own profit by furthering the affairs which they effect. For example, you may have a project in view and attempt to bring it to a successful culmination on a certain day. You do all you can, and to you there appears to be nothing wrong with your arrangements, but your plans fail utterly! On another day, with the same project, the same people, and practically the same circumstances, you proceed with your plans and they terminate successfully. Had you known the influences you were under when you first attempted the project, you could have prevented much trouble, and perhaps heartache and disappointment. The stars incline, but do not compel. Let me make that clear and emphatic! Man is a free agent mentally and morally, having the power of acceptance or non-acceptance according to his power of perception in his development. The individual who knows his natural aptitudes and his abilities does not waste years trying to accomplish that which is beyond his station or position in life. He who knows himself has marked a goal and knows the shortest way to that goal. Thus I make clear the position of Astrology and its great influence upon mankind throughout the Ages. It is just as potent for the man of today as in the time of the "Seers." Let us therefore study the stars and their position at our birth so that we may live according to the best of our ability; and may we be properly guided so that we shall not have lived in vain!
CHAPTER I

HISTORICAL SKETCH & SUMMARY

The root of Astrology lies in the study of the stars; their manifestations and their relation to the kindred study Astronomy, which has to do with their position and relationship in the heavens. The ancient could very well sing "The heavens declare the glory of God and the firmament showeth His handiwork!" The ancient as he lay on the roof of his house gazing at the blue canopy overhead was amazed and awed at the beauty of the celestial bodies: blindly worshipping their then indefinable influence—which made the appeal to him that we feel today in a much different and a more understandable manner. Astrology as a science has always been the means of foretelling future events by the study of the position of the stars, and it has always pointed out the relation of these "heavenly influences" upon human destiny. Natural Astrology is the means for predicting changes in the weather; while judicial Astrology foretells events bearing on the destiny of individuals—human beings—or on the race in general.
The Chinese, the Egyptians, and the Chaldeans, together with the Romans, and most all of the ancient nations, were followers of the science of Astrology. Literature and history are laden with references to what has often been called the "Divine Science." Later the Jews, the Arabs, and other Mohammedan races; also the Christians in Medieval Europe, took up Astrology and cultivated the study of it. "When the Jews were carried away into Babylon, Daniel is said to have been one of the prisoners, and to have risen to a very high situation at the court of the great king; in fact to have become almost his prime minister. (Dan. ii. 48.) On the taking of the city, he appears to have been a principal performer. He was occupied in explaining the meaning of the mystical writing on the wall at the very moment that the city was stormed. After the success of the Persians, we find him again in great power with the new king, who was of his own sect of religion; and as bitter against the idolaters as himself....I suspect that Daniel was a Chaldee or Culdee or Bramin priest,—a priest of the same order of which, in former times, Melchizedek had been a priest." The twelve signs of the Zodiac were symbols for the standards of the twelve tribes of Israel: The Scorpion, the typhon, the devil or emblem of destruction, being changed for the eagle by the tribe of Dan, to whom it was allotted. The Ark, an exact copy of the ark of Osiris, set afloat in the Nile every year, supposed to sail to Biblos, in Palestine. The pillars of Joacin and Boaz; the festival of the Passover at the vernal equinox, an exact copy of the Egyptian festival; and almost all the ornaments of the temple, altar, priests, etc., were astrological. The ordinary method of procedure in divination in the Middle Ages was to divide a globe or planisphere into twelve portions, by circles that ran from pole to pole, like those that now mark meridians of longitude. Each of the twelve spaces or intervals between these circles was called a "house" or mansion of heaven. The Sun, Moon and stars all pass once in twenty-four hours through that portion of the heavens represented by the twelve "houses." Nowhere, however, except at the equator are the same stars uniformly together in the same house. Every house has one of the twelve zodiacal signs ruling over it as its Lord. The houses symbolize the various attributes of life. The first is the house of life; the second, of riches; the third, of brethren; the fourth, of parents and the home; the fifth, of children and public success; the sixth, of health and employees; the seventh, of marriage and business partnerships; the eighth, of death, also signifying the personal condition at the end of life; the ninth, of religion, personal beliefs and foreign travels; the tenth, the profession and its personal dignities; the eleventh, of friends; and the twelfth, of enemies, and confinements. The houses vary in strength—the first one, that containing the part of the heavens about to rise, being the most powerful of all. It is called the ascendant, while the point of the ecliptic just rising is termed the horoscope. The important matter connected with this early development in the study of Astrology was the ascertaining of the house and star in the ascendant at the moment of a person's birth, from which his astrological control was deduced and the degree of success possible in his life predicted.

The attempt to reach a solution of life through Astrology was very much as the attempt to reach the truth in the Church of politics. Still Astrology, this marvel of sciences, has progressed and advanced and can take its place along with other great developments as having come through the fire and acid test of the centuries, as tried and true and found lacking in no degree. Thus we emerge upon the horizon of our modern era, with the dawn of a better understanding and Astrology is ready to bear a great message to all mankind who will but listen, and heed the call. It is to all men everywhere—the universal plea. She sets the challenge to all. May we who have eyes to see and ears to hear not be found lacking in appreciation and perception!

With regard to the practical and working side of my science I have but to present the following pages of "proof," which need no explanation. They are examples of hundreds of such questions that I am called upon to decipher and answer every day. My daily mail is full of such pleas from all over the world. Surely the fact that so many are interested, in different walks of life, proves that there is this very day need for, such help—that all men may have their burdens lightened and the perplexities of life lessened through scientific knowledge indicating the proper method for procedure in their daily activities. There is in the stars help for everyone. You must not feel that today with all of its modern inventions is different from that of the past centuries. In the great realm of time we are but passing through a very small division of space allotted to us. The stars existed long before man, and will probably be shining long after man has disappeared; but their message remains the same, today, tomorrow, and forever. It is unchanging and everlasting.

Question: There is one question, Miss Bart, that I have always wanted to ask you....What is the basis of Astrology? In this interview I intend to make my questions as short and as pointed as I can, but I fear it will not be possible for you to be as brief, and at the same time do justice to your subject—briefly—What is the basis of Astrology?

Answer: Astrology is the science that aims primarily at the solution of the numerous perplexities confronting humanity, and is based on a knowledge of the influence of the stars; on the destiny of mankind.
This knowledge has been gained by century after century of observation and experience, with the earliest observations of which we have any knowledge, dating back many thousands of years before our present era. I interpret the laws of the ancients in terms of the accumulated knowledge and experience today.

Question: Well, how can you prove that your interpretations of the planetary influences as affecting the life of an individual are correct?

Answer: Astrology is a practical science. Its results may be verified as conclusively as the findings arrived at by any other science. Briefly, my knowledge of the science has been gained largely through study and experience and its verification has been gained in the same way, that is, through study and experience.

Question: You seem to stress this word experience quite a bit. Now just what do you mean by experience?

Answer: It is a word that hardly needs explanation. I use it in this sense. A doctor goes to medical school to gain knowledge. He then puts in a number of years in hospital service where he gains experience, and thus he is able to verify in a practical way the knowledge he has acquired through study.
Question: So I am to understand that Astrology can be demonstrated in a practical way?

Answer: Yes, that is just the point! It is nothing, if not practical. It is humanity's greatest boon. In fact that is why I am so wrapped up in my work. It offers unlimited opportunity for service.

Question: This is very interesting indeed, but just what do you mean by service in this connection?

Answer: Much—as you undoubtedly know, much has been written about the idea of service; but what I mean by service is helping humanity— in fact that is the only true happiness in this world. There is nothing more substantial. All other roads to what we are pleased to call happiness are but ephemeral.

Question: I would be very much interested in knowing something about the technical side of your work?

Answer: Each individual is born under very definite planetary conditions. For instance, there are twelve principal aspects of the planets, each having its own effect. The position of the planets at the time of birth is first determined. This involves a very precise mathematical calculation; but right here it should be explained that the stars incline but they do not compel. It seems very strange to me that this simple law of Astrology is not very well understood but if it were not so, we would be helpless indeed. To be forewarned is to be forearmed. In some cases it is wise to combat, in other cases it may be better to yield or even take advantage of the planetary influences as revealed by astrological interpretation. Today we see the constructive side of the science more clearly than did those of the earlier days. The history of the science reveals innumerable instances of a hopeless, I might almost say tragic, yielding to adverse conditions. Today we know better. The same situation prevailed in the practice of medicine in the earlier days. There was a hopeless yielding to maladies that are today easily curable and the future of medicine holds out a hope that humanity may at some time be freed from disease as we now understand it and preventative medicine may be the order of the day. Astrology frees man from his accepted and environmental limitations;—permitting that something within, call it the Divine, if you will, to operate untrammeled. Astrology is the only true guide for an unfettered self-expression.

Question: I want to thank you for telling me so much about Astrology. I did not realize its vast significance. I was really more interested in finding out what there was in it.

Answer: Yes, most people who approach the subject for the first time feel much the same as you did and of course they all want a tangible proof: but they are soon convinced by practical demonstration. Consider this situation for a moment. We all take it for granted that the earth is round, yet how many know what constitutes a scientific demonstration. Yet it can of course be proved conclusively. The practical demonstration is most satisfactory and so it is with Astrology.

Question: Yes, it seems to be a wonderful and marvelous subject.

Answer: It is. It is my life's work, and I feel that it is worthy of the best that I have to give.

CHAPTER II

THE NEW ASTROLOGY

THE New Astrology of which I am a most ardent exponent, compares with the older or classic Astrology much in the same way that the new Psychology of today compares with the study of that great branch of the older science. In short, each is an outgrowth or development of the parent science. In the New Astrology we find a science that is concerned almost exclusively with practical applications; and it is in the realm of the revelation of self-knowledge that it offers its greatest field for service.

I can not stress the value of self-knowledge too much. It is the thing which we need most today. While the cry of mankind at the dawn of civilization was "Know Thyself;" the answer to this cry, even allowing for the lapse of time, is today being only vaguely heard.

The New Astrology alone supplies a dependable and usable solution. Some may say, "Why is it that we should know so much about ourselves and why is it not true that the less we know the better?" The answer is readily discernible. Our haphazard functioning has been found faulty and unreliable; it needs accurate guidance and control. Nothing should be left to chance that can be solved within the realm of conscious reasoning.

Astrology is a science of the summation and result of the planetary or heavenly bodies and their vibratory influence upon man and his life. So much can be said on this subject that I will endeavor to weave into as short an explanation as is possible and in as little of the technical terms as necessary to make my meaning comprehensible and sufficient.

Up to the present time there has been no vehicle by means of which man could analyze himself to gain self-knowledge, that would be of use to him. To know oneself is more important today than it was in the time of Socrates, because evolution has brought with itself wonderful scientific improvements. Therefore the vicissitudes of present day life need a greater force to over-ride them than at any previous time.

In the practice of the new Astrology we deal almost exclusively with practical conditions. As simple as this may seem as a conclusive statement, it may nevertheless be difficult to fully appreciate its significance. Where we are dealing with facts, an explanation of the basic principles involved is not of the greatest importance but it may be of interest. However, a fact is a fact. Today, the medical world is commencing to realize that the mental condition of the individual has more bearing on the case than was ever before realized. As we have seen, the planetary influences actually exert a powerful force upon the organism. So is the mind affected. External stimuli emanating from innumerable sources control the individual. These stimuli or forces have, in fact, throughout the ages so reacted as to produce all forms of life which we know today. This means that life is a result of endless modifications. So that, which we call mind, then, will be understood to exist as a by-product of these forces. Viewing life from this point, mind may seem to have a subordinate "offshoot" of material forces; and while in this sense, mind may seem to be a by-product, it would be inconsistent with our present knowledge to consider the by-product, mind, as dominating to a large extent those forces by means which caused its production in the beginning.

Therefore, the New Astrology is far-reaching, deep-searching, and comprehensive; but in all of its depth, it is practical. By that I mean it is applicable to everyday life. It is the development of a science which has existed throughout the ages. It is not new, but it bears a message to all men, everywhere, at all times. We are thus studying the present and much improved and better understood manifestation of the science of Astrology.
I have endeavored to show that the New Astrology is a definite science and that it is in no way connected with mysticism or occultism. The New Astrology is first of all a practical science, and I have shown conclusively its practical relations to the affairs of everyday life. The main value of the New Astrology lies in its great practical utility. Other points which I have stressed in my various addresses and talks have had to do with the history and development of the science. The New Astrology is in direct line with the ancient science which can be traced back to the earliest time of civilized man of which we have any records. The evidence all points to the fact that the ancient Astrology was developed through countless centuries by scholars who flourished at a time when civilization had attained a high intellectual standard. In the earlier days there were, of course, certain beliefs which we now look upon as superstition. Nevertheless, at the same time there dawned upon the understanding of man, certain truths which have been verified throughout the centuries and which today are commonly accepted. Those beliefs and customs possessing survival value, will obviously survive throughout time. In other words—truth is truth. Therefore, as Astrology is based on truth and inasmuch as truth is truth throughout time; one may readily understand why Astrology survives today. The New Astrology is a modern interpretation of the truth of the ancient science. To the reader this may sound like repetition, but I can not stress too often the value of the New Astrology: not only to those who may feel that they are somewhat enlightened, by previous knowledge of the subject; but to those, who for the first time are learning of the science in this my book of explanation. The New Astrology is an applied science in its utility, and a demonstration of its utility reveals the fact that it is a dependable guide: a clearing up of doubt and uncertainties which eases the rough and trying situations that one meets in daily affairs. It safeguards the future through dependable guidance and counsel. To be forewarned is to be forearmed, and this which I have repeated for emphasis' sake is taken in connection with the fact that the stars incline but do not compel. We have a basis, through the New Astrology, that permits every one to proceed with confidence and surety; and to cast forth all doubts and to attain that happiness which can be gained only through perfect understanding. Great intellectual leaders in the past have been staunch believers in Astrology and have been guided by its teaching. Great intellectual leaders of today are using Astrology as a guide in their daily affairs. The late Charles Steinmetz said: "The world belongs to the dissatisfied." I answered that I believed this to be only partially true, for I know that the world was made for the individual who understands it and himself. Although self-knowledge and guidance are attainable through many channels, the best possible means for knowing your innate characteristics and tendencies—and I absolutely know this to be true from my contact with thousands of people whose horoscopes I have delineated within the last five years—is through a horoscope delineation by means of the New Astrology.
Again, in order that the reader may see how very much in demand and what a tremendous appeal the New Astrology is making, I have deemed it wise to include in the following pages of this book some of the daily questions which are asked of me: questions in the daily routine of my office. You will readily see the need of such service which I am rendering as the exponent of the New Astrology. The value of this science is inestimable.

These following questions were mailed to me after various talks over the radio in which the listeners-in were invited to send their date of birth and ask one serious question in order to promote an interest in the New Astrology. They are self-explanatory. The position Astrology holds today is due in great measure to my unceasing efforts to afford opportunity for guidance for the masses.

Miss M. R.
Born April 22, 1907.
Your chart indicates success in the commercial world, preferably as an accountant.

Miss B. G.
Born June 6, 1906.
I do not think it advisable for you to change your position until the Spring of 1926. If you make the change at the present it will probably mean many changes since you would be making your move under a Uranus aspect bringing in the unexpected, upsetting influences and instability which would tend to discourage you.
Miss M. L. L.
Your horoscope indicates that you would be successful at designing and free-hand drawing.

Miss C. L. T.
Born June 27, 1902.
Your horoscope indicates that the change which you are making at the present time will be a fixed one, and will last four years, at which time another change of a fortunate nature will take place. Possibly marriage, for Venus will be in conjunction with the Sun.

Mr. M. R.
Born July 13, 1901.
Your horoscope indicates marriage at the age of thirty-three—a happy successful one. So keep yourself occupied in some useful work in the interim.

Mr. J. N. S.
Born February 16, 1901.
You have a very excellent mind and should spend every moment of your time in cultivating it. Take a night course (if work does not permit you the necessary time) in construction or engineering, for it is along this line of endeavor that your financial success will accrue to you.

Mrs. T. V. Christy,
Born October 1, 1896.
The most trying period for your brother is during the months of April and May of this year. There is a slight financial gain indicated in your husband’s horoscope; but on the whole he must be very cautious of investments at the present time.

Mrs. G. B.
Born August 29, 1912.
Your son’s chart indicates a vivid imagination which causes him to exaggerate, and it is in these early years that you can swerve his mind into the proper channels by teaching him to adhere strenuously to form. This you can do by asking him to describe certain objects to you and then making corrections when you find that he has exaggerated the size and color, by explanation to him.

Mr. E. Beck,
Born Sept. 10, 1895.
It would be better for you to begin your business affairs during this year. If you find this impossible at present then do not do so until 1927.

Miss A. L.
Born March 30, 1901.
By all means the stars indicate the characteristics of an individual as to innate tendencies. Your chart indicates an active, energetic nature, a keen, versatile mind, fitted for the legal profession.
CHAPTER III

THE NEW ASTROLOGY

The history of Astrology is very interesting because of the fact that it is interwoven with the early history of mankind. What makes it so constantly fascinating is its power of revealing to the human mind the influences centered on that mind. "Know Yourself" has come down through the ages like the proverbs of old. How can one know oneself without knowing the influences that affect one? That we are influenced before birth and after is proved day after day, and we have only to search for the cause. Profound articles are written on the power of environment; yet one has only to think of two brothers or two sisters brought up in the same environment who are completely different in their reactions to life.

An individual is born on a particular day. Planetary bodies in the heavens instil that individual by their vibrations with definite characteristics, aptitudes and abilities. That is why each individual can perform entirely in his own individual way, with no comparison with that of his sister, his brother, his mother or his father. People born under different influences have different temperaments; and must be approached accordingly, regardless of environment. For example:—Those who are born between March 21st and April 20th under the sign Aries—symbolised by the ram, desire straightforwardness in all activities and contacts. They wish to be told explicitly what is meant or wanted. When this is done, they can best use their minds in solving the problem, for that is their temperament. These Aries people have much the characteristic of the ram. They dash boldly onward, head down: not heeding results which are either beneficial or disastrous, as the individual horoscope may indicate.

Those born between June 21st and July 20th, under the sign Cancer symbolised by the crab, are best reached by an appeal to their emotions. They are however, very tenacious and will hold on to their desires even against their better judgment: crawling into a shell when difficulty faces them, much like their prototype the crab.

If they were born between July 21st and August 20th, under the zodiacal sign Leo symbolised by the lion, an appeal to the feelings or to the heart would reach them. They will lend their co-operation in cases where kindness and justice prevail. Like their prototype, the lion, they are dauntless and ferocious under attack.

Those born between October 21st and November 20th under the zodiacal sign Scorpio symbolised by the Scorpion, have a tremendous pride and a tenacity of purpose. They are capable of much success if they will overcome a tendency to strike back when their pride is hurt. It is worth the effort. These examples I have given are based only upon the influence of the Sun. There are nine planets and each one exerts its special influence. The Sun, however, being the major orb, would have the greatest vibration. A classification of your characteristics is only possible by a delineation of your entire horoscope.

Every one knows that without the influence of the Sun, all life would perish. The Moon rules the tides and other forms of growth in Nature. Analogically, the other planets vibrate their particular influence. Since man is the highest form of Nature, we expect and realize that somehow, somewhere, there is a force that guides our lives. All present scientific research is aiming at one goal—the discovery and unfoldment of the principle influencing the forces which play upon man. Up to the present time there has been no definite scientific method of ascertaining just what it is that brings the various episodes, conditions and vicissitudes that we meet as we career along through life.

One year everything goes our way, and we term it "luck." There is nothing in the world that happens by chance, nor are we fated to any particular groove. We all have a goal—a definite work; but we all do not reach that goal or recognise that work because of our non-knowledge. The purpose of life is activity. Every one of us has a mission to perform—regardless of what it is. A delineation of the horoscope will reveal to you your message. For those who understand Astrology there is no mystery; no occultism, no inexplicable situations connected with the practice of this—the oldest science known to man. Both student and qualified practitioner find great delight in delving into its early history.

Our knowledge of the evolution of civilization begins with the history of early civilized man. If archeologists would take into consideration the position occupied by Astrology in man's early development they would greatly extend their knowledge of the relations between the various eras of civilizations: the early existence of which we are now finding such definite proof. The early history of mankind is becoming known to us through excavating expeditions conducted in various parts of the world. In Egypt we find evidence of early Egyptian dynasties which existed thousands of years before the time of the ruler Tut-ank-amen; so much discussed because of the work of the late Lord Carnarvon and Howard Carter. I refer to excavations which prove a civilization at least 3,000 years earlier—roughly, 8,000 years before our present time, revealing tombs and other structures produced in the time of Cheops, one of the builders of the Pyramids. Here we have evidence of both Astronomical and Astrological knowledge. Excavations in Babylonia reveal the same; while hieroglyphics and various markings on columns and buildings excavated in Peru and Central America, also show that a knowledge of Astrology and Astronomy was known at a very early date in the Western World.

The present known data does not show clearly which civilization was the oldest or whether our present day knowledge of Astrology was derived from that source. Nevertheless, the Chaldeans show by the cuneiform records which they left behind, that Astrology flourished in that part of the world also, and at a very early though indeterminable date. The inference is, that one developed from the other. Following this line of reasoning, it is possible to trace a relationship between all of those early civilizations. Herodotus, who wrote in 450 B. C. tells us something about the practice of Astrology centuries earlier in both Egypt and Chaldea. Both Egyptian and Chaldean records were handed down century after century; and we find evidence of this in the Old Testament; with the old Kings of Israel following the guidance of the stars.

Reference to the influence of the planets upon terrestrial as well as human objects, as made by Jeremiah 7-18* is a conspicuous as well as strenuous plea that Astrology must have been in practice by generations of individuals; dating back to the time of the creation of the world when man first became a thinking entity—at least as far back as the time of which we have any knowledge, however indefinite and vague such knowledge must be. Jeremiah's attributing to the stars the special influences over vegetation, sets a standard of excellence for the knowledge of the stellar vibrations at so high a mark that it almost discourages emulation.

* The beauty and splendor that men observe in the stars, and the great advantages that they derive from thence, the wonderful order that they have discovered in their course, the influence that has been ascribed to them in the production and preservation of animals, of fruits, plants, and minerals prevails with a great number of people to impute to them life, knowledge, power and to pay them sovereign worship and adoration.

In Deuteronomy 4:19, we find the following statement: "The stars were not made for the worship, but for the use of men."

Invariably man will worship the means through which he has been able to attain happiness and success. To touch upon the realities of life without injury to his finer feelings; no matter how light the touch, or heavy the life, is every individual's desire. Knowledge is man's great contaminator as well as his great source of comfort. But knowledge of himself is a social demand, an indispensable sesame. It links the natural product, his innate ability, with the lavish flavor of his egotism. It supplies nutritive needs to animate his aspirations—his ambitions—without which mental and spiritual growth is impossible.

This is now generally believed to be true: that every individual is seeking to know himself. A reaching out for any supply to fill the niche: to the press, which supplies knowledge concerning what the world is doing or trying to do; because he knows he is a part and parcel of the world. He demands to know of new scientific inventions, educational functions—new governmental laws, climatic changes, discoveries in geological, geographical and anthropological fields: any enlightenment that leads primarily to satisfy the inner urge: to make life useful, natural and easy to live: to get the maximum success and joy at the minimum exertion. In this respect we stand pledged to knowledge. A knowledge of the planetary influences as they affect us at birth, puts distance between ambition and the realization of it into the dust-bin of time. To make use of the stars as a guide in his daily life, is a privilege that even those who have passed the meridian of life may expeditiously take advantage of. To know, without disturbing, distressing experiences, just what nature has fitted you for and to know how to direct your aptitudes is indispensable. All this knowing is possible through a delineation of the horoscope—the map of the heavens revealing the position of the planets at your birth and how they affect your life.

That the planets exercise an attractive force upon every plane of nature of which man is the highest embodiment in form, we have seen previously in this book; and that a knowledge of the effect of each planet upon man can be attained by him through a definite system of study, however simple or difficult it may appear—is the hopeful tantalization of every aspiring individual who seeks guidance in his daily life through planetary means.

Men who can and men who can not think for themselves need guidance, for the thought becomes an action and every individual action has its effect upon a community. The man who does not act rightly, that is, for the greatest good to the greatest number, regardless of the motive, is a burden to himself and a material obstruction to his community.

It has been definitely established that a knowledge of Astrology was attained by man at what we are pleased to term a very early date in the development of civilization. Here of course, we must realize that we are limiting the idea of civilization; as it is quite possible that man rose to great heights of cultural attainment even in the so-called pre-historic time. But inasmuch as our present day civilization differs so remarkably from what we know of these early times, we are perhaps without a basis for comprehension or significant comparison.

Various types of pre-historic man must have existed at a much earlier period than what is generally accepted at the present time. The Cromanian is considered by many scientists to be the immediate predecessor of modern man. The estimates indicate that he existed in Southern Europe about 20,000 years ago. If he is really the predecessor of modern man, this estimate seems to be contradicted by our knowledge of what was taking place in Southern Asia and Egypt at that time. I point to recent disclosures showing that a civilization was developing in Egypt at the same time that the Cromanian existed in Southern Europe. Also, it is evident that the civilization of the early Egyptians, which all scientific studies indicate was attained about 10,000 years ago, must have required many thousands of years to arrive or develop. The study of the stars by these early people undoubtedly required many thousands of years of observation, formulation and verification; as we find in the time of the ruler Cheops, a thorough grasp of Astrology. This would indicate that their knowledge was neither haphazard nor inexact, and most of this knowledge has been passed down through the centuries to modern man.

Considering the historical development of Astrology at a somewhat later period, we find reference to it as a definite science. We also find evidence of a firm belief in it in the writings of the Greek and Roman philosophers in the time before the Christian era. Pythagoras founded his school upon teachings derived from the priests of Egypt in the 7th and 8th centuries before the Christian era. We also find reference to Astrology in the New Testament. The birth of Christ was predicted by the three Astrologers mentioned in the Gospels. Later in history we find the leading philosophers of their time, staunch believers in Astrology. Such men as Galen, Tycho Brah, Galileo and Aristotle, clearly show the influences of Astrology in their lives. Galen, as you undoubtedly know, was one of the world’s greatest educators. He lived in the second century, about 130 A. D., and showed clearly by his writings that he believed in the influences of the stars, and used Astrology as a guide in daily life.

The New Astrology, as I have clearly pointed out, is an interpretation of the old Classic Science in terms of today's conditions. Here is an important factor which I would make emphatic—changes have come about in the Classical Science, and these changes have led directly to the science of today—the New Astrology.

Since the Middle Ages a new spirit has come upon humanity, exerting its influence upon every human activity. Obviously this influence has had its effect upon Astrological interpretation. The Brotherhood of Man may not have arrived as yet, but there is an influence—call it what you will—that suggests the "helping hand"... benevolence, or something very much akin, which it seems was lacking in the earlier period of human development.

This is one aspect of the present day trend as differing from that of the Middle Ages and of previous history. Man has found that he has an individuality to express, and a knowledge of himself will give him that complete confidence which is so necessary for self-expression. Psychological and psycho-analytical studies show very clearly that the individual must express himself to his fullest in order to live a normal, happy and vigorous life. This is verified by Astrology. But the New Astrology goes a step further. It shows definitely this knowledge of self, which can not be obtained by any other means. It eliminates haphazard functioning. It helps attain a definite goal in life with less difficulty than would otherwise be experienced. It mitigates the trials and tribulations which wreck the soul and dull the mind. It gives a definite understanding to the individual of himself and the best method of procedure with the least possible difficulty. It indicates the most propitious time for carrying out whatever project he may wish to further. Even in the material world—I mean Orthodox Material World, we have the Psychiatrist telling us that to function normally you must express yourself along lines compatible with your innate desires. This is logical and reasonable. While the psychiatrist's diagnosis may be ever so correct, there can be no cure without complete self-knowledge. Success is so seldom satisfying. I mean the kind of success that the story books and newspapers extol... because it so infrequently answers the basic cry from within. The New Astrology reveals self-knowledge to its fullest. It affords the necessary guidance for an efficient existence through a normal gratification of the innate desires. It leads to the kind of success you are proud of—success that satisfies and makes the world,—because of your efforts—a better place to live in.

In order to explain the significance of self-knowledge, I must first tell you what it is and then just what it means to the individual. Self-knowledge embraces a complete understanding of one's self; and therefore includes a thorough comprehension of all desires, aspirations, mental and physical requirements, both conscious and unconscious. By "conscious" I mean what is ever in the active mind and can be readily reached through the reasoning faculties; and as represented by your day-to-day or hour-to-hour wishes, which are so frequently present in your thoughts. Upon an analysis of impulse and behavior of individuals we are quickly brought to a realization of another force which is apparently below the threshold of consciousness. In action it is all-compelling. Introspection also makes us aware of our consciousness or to make my idea a little clearer, I might say, our "not-conscious" impulses. A complete knowledge of self must therefore include the trend or demand of the unconscious desires as well as those which are plainly conscious.

Besides desires there are aspirations, instincts, and bodily requirements, all of which are more or less merged into each other by means of which for analysis and discussion they are best taken up separately.

To begin with, there are certain instinctive desires of the individual which must be met or reckoned with in some way, before the individual can attain anything like a normal reaction from life. A thwarting of these instinctive requirements either partially or wholly will result in an unbalancing of the individual in some degree—perhaps physically—perhaps mentally—or possibly, both. Man does not attain to that harmony of existence which makes for a happy contented life without the gratification or at least the balancing up of these instinctive desires. They must be reckoned with. By "instinct," I mean the impulse to act without bringing into play the conscious reason—mainly in connection with, or for the purpose of self-preservation and for the perpetuation of the race. There is the element of heredity in instinct. As man is gregarious, that is, basically a herd animal; there is also that desire which is instinctive, to appear well before the herd.

The practical side of the New Astrology is most convincingly revealed in its portrayal of self-knowledge. There are two questions which naturally come to one's mind in this connection. How is it that the New Astrology reveals self-knowledge to the individual; and of what value is that so-called self-knowledge?

Answering the first, I wish to make clear that everything that Astrology is and stands for is involved in this revelation of the individual. Each and every one is born under certain definite planetary influences. Your characteristics, your aims, your aptitudes, are a result of these influences; although it is true that Cosmic influences which as a matter of fact constitute your environment, actually modify these planetary influences or aspects.

One of the fundamentals of Astrology, which I can not repeat too often, is that the stars incline but do not compel. You master your own destiny! The aspects of the Heavens reveal man as having certain tendencies. In the earlier days of the science the converse was invariably taken into consideration as well. The converse being that inasmuch as man was guided by certain constructive influences, that the destructive influences were equally operative. The yielding to this point of view inevitably leads to difficulty, or at least to great perplexity.
Today we know that it is not necessary to hopelessly bend to adverse circumstances or conditions.
All the good that Astrology has done and can do is brought to practical application in this situation. "To be forewarned is to be forearmed" always vibrates as a powerful truth, however homely the words may sound through familiarity.
Everyone knows the words, and many have pondered over their significance—their deep significance, "There is no terror in knowing if you have confidence"—confidence that the difficulty, however seemingly direful, may be overcome by the understanding of the situations involved. This has been proved again and again by practical demonstration. The New Astrology of today stands out in marked contrast to the Astrology of the Middle Ages.
The second question involves the value of self-knowledge and of its importance. From the time of Socrates to the present day great philosophers have written on this subject. Socrates' great message to humanity was "Man, Know Thyself." Socrates did not mean "Know Thyself" in connection with man's limitations, necessarily. He meant it in connection with man's natural or native abilities; so that knowing the natural inclinations, man could develop along the lines most suited for him. Various sciences have included this idea as a basis for research and experimentation. Modern psychology is largely a delving into the innate characteristics of the individual. Psychoanalysis, through its analytical probings, aims at much the same thing—a revealment of self—for self-expression which is a development of the herd instinct. Man is gregarious.

In our present state of civilization this demand for self-expression has become a very serious problem. In many respects Life is exceedingly complex; and the understanding of our instinctive faculties is not sufficiently reliable to guide us correctly in finding that sphere of activity for which our natural aptitudes best fit us.

This situation is the most difficult to face under present conditions. Everything that life holds dear seems to either depend upon or revolve around it. And there is only one source of information that will surely meet this difficulty—the guidance obtainable through an understanding of the planetary influences which reveal the innate characteristics.

Our present knowledge indicates that from the very beginning life on this planet on down through the ages, has been an evolutionary trend; a development, a change from one form to another. This evolution resulted at one stage in a primitive type of man having a highly developed physical organism and a high order of intelligence as well. Skeletal remains found at various places on the earth bear this out. The Cro-Magnon of Southern Europe of 10,000 or 20,000 years ago is an example. He was a splendid specimen—tall and of fine physique. He depended more on his instinctive faculties for guidance than upon reason. He was the man of instinct at his best, and we are not so far removed from that man, surprising as it may seem. To grasp this close relation consider for a moment the number of descendants in direct line occurring in one family in 100 years—that is one century. If we take an average of three individuals or descendants we have a fairly reasonable figure to use for our consideration or example. This would then mean that there are three direct descendants per family per century—illustrated, let us say, by grandfather, father and son, all born when the parent was at the average age of thirty-three years. Of course this is not true of every family, but I want to show you just how many individuals may be in direct descent in 100, 1,000 and 10,000 years. According to my example, three per century would mean only 30 in 1,000 years—that is 30 people in direct line and only 300 individuals in direct descent in 10,000 years—not very many you will admit. To grasp this idea a little more definitely, just imagine a line of 300 individuals with yourself at one end, and your forebear of 10,000 years ago at the other end. Can you imagine any marked change of difference in type? I am sure you can not. Nor can we show through our most exhaustive scientific studies that there is any change whatever, that might be indicative of intelligence. Difference in physical appearance there must have been, but this difference certainly must have been in favor of the man at the other end of the line; the primitive man of 10,000 years ago. In making this comparison my main idea has been to show that intelligence—I mean average intelligence, has apparently undergone very little, if any change during the course of civilization. Our instincts have become very much dulled. I must admit there are some who claim that there is evidence of a decline in intelligence, but this point of view is not generally accepted; and I will therefore not consider it in my present discussion. What is apparent is that many of our instinctive faculties have become dulled and at the same time our conscious knowledge has progressed in leaps and bounds. To fully realize this situation we need only to consider changes that have occurred within comparatively recent times. We have been careering along at such a terrific speed that we have apparently lost our sense of perspective. Today we have inventions, and the most remarkable thing about them, is that we take them, revolutionary as they are, almost for granted. We have the automobile in all its stages of development and perfection. Many children of from 8 to 10 years of age know more about the particular field of mechanics with which the automobile is concerned than the greatest engineer of 50 years ago; and he in turn knew more in his field than his predecessor. This merely means that our conscious knowledge is rapidly accumulating and that our intelligence is such as to assimilate it with a corresponding speed. I am sure that anyone would take this example as an illustration of the improvement of intelligence. There are examples innumerable and striking. Consider for a moment the evolution of the steamboat. Countless numbers of people today possess a knowledge of marine transportation that was undreamed of in the days of Robert Fulton. And here you will note that a difference in intelligence is not involved.

In this way we can delve back through the ages without finding any definite proof, that any such change in intelligence has taken place during the period to which I refer. In the matter of instinct; however, we have a much different situation to face as we have much evidence to support the idea that the trend of man's evolution is from the unconscious or instinctive phase to that of complete consciousness and complete understanding.

In this connection we catch a faint glimpse of the purpose of life. It seems that Nature with her unlimited resources is producing another force with which to complete a process initiated in the universe countless ages ago. This force is the Mind of Man.

Coincident with the unfoldment of our conscious faculties we note a loss of instinctive activity which is evident in many directions. Our acquisition of conscious knowledge seems to be responsible for this loss—a penalty for our enlightenment. Children between the ages of 6 and 12, under suitable conditions will swim instinctively. Most adults who have not learned to swim in their youth are obliged to go through a laborious course of instruction, and even then frequently fail to learn. Our teeth cause us a multitude of troubles because the instinctive guidance that would avoid these difficulties is denied us today. This is borne out by the fact that we have fairly reliable evidence to show that nature untrammelled would take care of these matters for us, much better than we can ourselves. This may seem rather startling, even shocking to many, as we are living in the age of the tooth-brush. But while the tooth-brush is undoubtedly a necessity today, we must not forget that it is not a part of man's equipment. Our instinctive guidance having become impaired; there is little wonder that our instinctive desire for self-expression is so exceedingly difficult to gratify. We must of necessity find some channel, for self-expression. It is an imperative demand and it must be met. Today we are just beginning to understand something about such a simple thing as diet—what man should and should not eat. Just think what this means! Science with its discovery of the importance of the accessory food factors, the vitamins, has opened up a field of knowledge to man that may actually change the whole trend of human events. The application of this knowledge will undoubtedly have a marked influence on the race. Countless ills and even death itself are now attributable to deficiencies in our food. Not only vitamines but many other constituents are now found to be of absolute necessity.

How then did primitive man survive without this knowledge? The answer can only be that his instinctive faculties were his only guide. He knew instinctively that which was required for his needs. He himself was a result of countless trials and errors; and on down through the years of civilization, we have been steadily losing our instinctive faculties not only in matters of diet, but in many other directions relating to the physical life. Hence the cry for self-knowledge from Aristotle and Socrates down to the present day, is the same imperative cry for self-knowledge.

What is true of the physical is also true of the mental. It is for chemistry and the medical sciences to supply much of this needed knowledge so that we may attain bodily efficiency.

The instinctive desire for self-expression which our psychologists have proved is so dominant a demand of every individual, can be furthered and adequately gratified along normal, productive channels only through a knowledge of the planetary influences as revealed through science—the New Astrology.

We have so many things to learn all over again—how to walk properly; and when I say "properly" I mean to the best advantage; how to breathe properly; how to exercise properly; how to eat properly and how to live happily and contentedly as gregarious animals—which we are. The other sciences have done much to better the lot of man in a material way. The New Astrology advances the cause of civilization by revealing man himself.

I offer the following information for my women readers especially, for never before in the evolution of mankind has there been so much uncertainty—so much apparent unhappiness, as is prevalent amongst women. This is attributable to a non-knowledge of self. Women are filling a new niche in the world—are claiming their right to an advanced evolution; and will, by the very nature of things, arrive at an absolute state of happiness—but only in well-doing—that for which nature intended them. It is in this spirit that the following classification of the various types of women is made in a more special sense than is given in the general discussion elsewhere in this book. There are twelve distinct classes.

If you were born in Aries, between March 21st and April 20th, you are natural leaders—energetic and active, and an absolute essential to your happiness is a definite amount of athletics daily. Those born under the heading of Aries find that their place in the world is that of a leader, either in social or business activities; but such activities must never be confined to personal gratification. They must include an interest in the uplift and happiness of others. Only in such a way can Aries people attain perfect happiness for themselves. You are a thinker; your place is either at the lead, or in the literary field.

If you were born in Taurus, between April 21st and May 20th, you have your own ideals; are constant and conservative; should be vastly interested in personal adornment, and make the artistic field your chief endeavor. You are entertaining—the singer, the artist, the painter; and have natural aptitude for all those creative activities which come under the heading of the Fine Arts. Unless you are functioning along one of these lines; and taking an unusual interest in feminine attire, you can not be completely happy, regardless of what your other activities may be.

If you were born between May 21st and June 20th, your sign is Gemini. You have a brilliant wit and versatile comprehension that make for success in the literary field. This is the age of writing, and unless you are exercising your imagination and contributing your share to the world of literature—be it verse, journalism, or the novel; you are not functioning properly. You must have a great amount of mental and physical activity to receive your measure of the world's happiness.

If you were born between June 21st and July 20th, your sign is Cancer. Your great sympathy, your tenacity and sensitiveness, and your great love for the home make you the mother of the world. Your long forte is in creating the home. You are the perfect hostess, and this is the field for your contentment. If you were born between July 21st and August 20th, your sign is Leo. You possess the faculty of combining the real and the ideal. You are a lover of comfort and luxury, and are most successful in club work, social uplift; and in general making this world a better place to live in, through the drama, the power of the pen or oratory; but you must create an opportunity for your sister which her judgment would have lost. Combined with your other duties this places you in your rightful strata in the world for the greatest happiness.

If you were born between August 21st and September 20th, your sign is Virgo. Your practicality, discrimination, and sagacious mind place you among the natural teachers of the world. As critic, scientist, statistician and in professional pursuits is where the greatest good may be realized for your personal efforts. It is particularly important for you not to neglect your personal appearance in your great desire to serve.

If you were born between September 21st and October 20th, your sign is Libra. Your love nature holds sway above all else in life. You believe in living and letting live. You are the romancer. You will probably have a great many affaires du coeur. Your right vocation is the stage; providing amusement for others, and you also have a natural ability for interior decorating. In personal attire you set the mark that others may follow.
If you were born between October 21st and November 20th, your sign is Scorpio. You are ever desirous of making a good impression. You have great magnetism, and should make constructive use of the higher wisdom inherent in you. Your natural vocation requires the active use of your physical as well as mental qualities. You would be successful in anything you undertook, provided your head and your aspirations are sufficiently high; but be frank to all, and do not expect more than you give.

If you were born between November 21st and December 20th, your sign is Sagittarius. Your greatest difficulty may be making a goal for yourself. Your greatest harmony would be in ultra-social circles—in the diplomatic field. You would make an excellent linguist and novelist.

If you were born between December 21st and January 20th, your sign is Capricorn. You are practical and concrete, and find your greatest happiness merely in doing. Your greatest success would be in the business world; and in order for you to receive the greatest return from life, you should be active in some pursuit that keeps you in contact with industrial situations.

If you were born between January 21st and February 20th your sign is Aquarius. You are the true humanitarian, with a high order of intellect and a craving for knowledge of profound subjects. You are by nature a collector of antiques and a promoter of large enterprises. In social life you may be called... upon for extemporaneous activities. In charitable causes you would be the power behind the throne.

If you were born between February 21st and March 20th, your sign is Pisces. You are one of the dreamers of the world. Your ideals are so high that it is difficult for others to live up to them. You would make a successful sensational novelist, autobiographer, dealer in Fine Arts, emotional actress; and should contribute from your mental powers to New Thought. From the foregoing may be deduced the fact that each has her rightful place in the world, and being constituted differently from one another, the planetary bodies mark for you a definite course of activity; which, if pursued, will be the cause of subsiding much of the present unrest among women.
CHAPTER IV

EXPERIENCE IN ASTROLOGY

IN THIS division of my book I shall present some of the thoughts and experiences which have come to me during my long experience as an astrologer. I hope that in them the reader may find much benefit and instruction. Such is my work before the various advertising clubs; and the many organizations with which I have to deal daily. I am constantly called to present to some organization, either of men or of women, the fundamentals of my profession. During the past four years I have given many public lectures and radio talks, and the response has met with unusual success. It has been more than gratifying. In all of my public appearances including my bi-weekly talks, I have never prepared anything in advance; and have relied upon my stenographer to take down my addresses so that they might be preserved. An interesting feature with regard to these talks is that I always allow for time in which the members of my audience are at liberty to ask questions pertaining to themselves. The reader will find examples of some of the questions asked of me and will see my response to the same. My fee for these addresses is necessarily large; and I have received for all my twenty-minute addresses a fee ranging from fifty to five hundred dollars. I have given over fifty addresses during the past year. It is hoped that the following pages will be convincing of the inestimable value of such endeavor and that this is one of the most interesting and profitable subjects in the whole field of human interest today. To understand the New Astrology as I present it is to understand life correctly and in its proper light. We all want to get the most out of life that we possibly can, and here is offered the key to the door of happiness, content, and joyful living.

If you are a helpless wayfarer, do not despair. There is a light to guide you out of the labyrinth of your perplexities. Look up into the Heavens. The stars are your guide.

Astrology has been called the science of kings, in the past; but its modern disciples have developed it to a point where it is applicable to the vital needs of everyday life. You, too, may reap its benefits if you will but open your eyes to its wonders.

A knowledge of Astrology brings another battering ram to bear against the citadel of success by showing you the most opportune time for carrying out your projects. The stars tell you what period of your life is favorable for one kind of work and what time is propitious for another type of enterprise. The possession of such knowledge is of incalculable value in any phase of life—be it business, social or domestic. Threatening dangers can be avoided or minimized. Opportunity can be recognized and employed to the best advantage. Again, forewarned is forearmed. Thus you mould fate, instead of being moulded by it. As your self-knowledge grows, your chances of happiness increase. If you have not yet found yourself—if you are groping in the dark for something which you know is there; but which you can not quite visualize, consult the stars. Discover what your goal is. The fact that your aspirations lean in a certain direction shows that you have inherent talent for that type of work. Let the stars make clear to you the path you should follow, and success and happiness are yours. When man realizes that he is doing the work for which Nature intended him, life is joy, not drudgery. It is therefore your duty to yourself and to humanity, in whose service you are enrolled to master your destiny—that you may make life worth the living.

As an idea of the effect of planetary influence let us suppose you were born between March 21st and April 20th. Your zodiacal sign is Aries. Your chief characteristics are energy and activity. You are a natural leader and should never work under orders. If you do, you are apt to lose your initiative. Unless you receive quick co-operation on a project you may lose your zeal. You are idealistic to a degree and have remarkable powers of perception.

If the presiding director of your individuality was in the sign Taurus—between April 21st and May 20th—your chief characteristics are constancy and conservatism. You have tremendous building powers, and your perseverance will enable you to carry out whatever you undertake. You work best associated with others; and are reliable, practical, and trustworthy. You must, however, be careful that under management of another you do not entirely submerge yourself. You are dogmatic and determined, and inclined to be obstinate.

If you were born when the Sun was in Gemini—between May 21st and June 20th—you are versatile and ready of comprehension. You delight in intellectual pursuits, but you may lack the concentration to succeed in them.

You are temperamental, and therefore, in order to make the best use of your powers and abilities, you should strive always to be active mentally and physically. You have a subtle sense of humor and brilliant wit, which, if made the dominant note, will gain advantage for you in your contact with people. You can take the reins in the successful management of many interests; but you have a tendency to start numerous enterprises without having the tenacity of purpose to bring them to a successful termination.

If your birthday falls between June 21st and July 20th, your strong features are tenacity and sensitiveness. You are quiet, reserved, emotional, and sentimental, and have a great love for the home and its surroundings. Your great sympathy for everything in general and your dislike of disappro-al may cause you untold heartaches. You should be careful in selecting your environment; as uncongenial associations have a most deleterious effect upon your health and character. A great deal of difficulty in shaping your life can be overcome if you will try to oust the spirit of jealousy.

If the Sun was in the sign Leo when you were born —from July 21st to August 20th—your chief characte-risics are faith and compassion. You should never work under command of others, as you are a natural leader. You possess the faculty of combining the ideal and the real. You are sensitive and intuitive, and respond readily to uplifting influences. You are capable of realizing all ambitions, and should follow the dictates of your heart, striving to put into actual form the lofty thoughts that possess you. Adverse conditions can never keep you down permanently. Therefore, when encountering trials in business or in personal matters, your greatest help lies in stimulating the fires of your inherent faith.

If you were born between August 21st and September 20th when the Sun was in the sign Virgo, your strong points are practicality, discrimination and censoriousness. You are a natural teacher, possessing a sagacious mind that should be used in self-development and in helping others. You have marked inventive talents and resourcefulness. You are ambitious and can become profound in knowledge.
You should never work under orders, nor as an executive; but associate yourself with another.

If the Sun was in the sign Libra when you were born—between September 21st and October 20th —your chief characteristics are a sense of justice and the desire for equilibrium. You are extremely sensitive and remarkably intuitive. Your love nature holds sway above all else in life. You have a most lovable and charming personality when highly developed. You are gentle, sensitive, and agreeable, but are likely to go to extremes, and are easily led by flattery.

If you were born between October 21st and November 20th, when the Sun was in the sign Scorpio, you have determination and penetration. You have a high regard for the conventionalities. You have great magnetism, and almost second sight, and can make constructive use of this higher wisdom. Your great love of rulership and your equally strong demand for obedience are apt to make you a most domineering and disliked person unless you govern wisely.

Were you born when the Sun was in the sign Sagittarius—between November 21st and December 20th—your chief characteristics are insight and fidelity. You are naturally prophetic and intuitive, self-confident and self-reliant. You are a lover of law and order, frank, generous, and sensitive. Your greatest difficulty lies in marking a goal for yourself. You should definitely decide what you want in life. Then all your forces will naturally tend toward the attainment of that goal. Unless you have a fixed objective you are apt to vacillate and squander your force and energy. Your happiness depends upon your ability to express yourself through some individual labor.
If you were born between December 21st and January 20th, when the Sun was in the sign Capricorn, you possess understanding and diplomacy. You have a high order of intelligence, being studious and ambitious. You are practical and concrete; and are willing to work matters out instead of awaiting opportunity. You are fond of pomp and honor, which, if you consider carefully, mean very little. You have a keen conception of money values, and are generally willing to plod along until you accumulate a competency. You are methodical and careful about matters entrusted to you; and will carry out instructions to the letter. You are, however, likely to become phlegmatic and find yourself hemmed in unless you bestir yourself occasionally.

If your birthday falls between January 21st and February 20th, when the Sun was in the sign Aquarius, your chief characteristics are idealism and benevolence. You are impulsive, and should think matters out before making a decision. Most events in life will come to you unexpectedly, either for good or for evil; and it is for you to determine by your attitude the amount of happiness you desire life to bring you. You are strong for principle, and because of your dogmatism you are likely to be labeled eccentric. You are apt to be abrupt, and have little or no respect for convention. You have the interests of the world at heart and are a true humanitarian when living up to your highest possibilities.

If you were born between February 21st and March 20th, when the Sun was in the sign Pisces, you are emotional and sympathetic. You are apt to go through life misunderstood, even by those close to you. You may lack self-confidence and therefore lose a great many possibilities. You seek and follow the advice of others to a great extent; so that for you it is most essential to associate with the right-thinking people whose influence is bound to be beneficial to you.

A letter from a man who was evidently much dissatisfied with himself and his surroundings, was recently printed in a newspaper. He was sincerely seeking guidance. He asked if someone could help him to determine what was wrong with him. He said he was a good carpenter, a good bookkeeper, a stenographer, and had been a soldier. He could teach people horsemanship; he had had charge of a factory; in fact, he had an excellent education and versatile enough to be able to do almost anything. This he modestly admitted. He knew when a thing was right and when it was not right. He was earning money—but—he was dissatisfied. He said it was not a case of companionship, for he was married to a real helpmeet, and had two fine children. Yet he was unhappy.

He omitted the prime factor in the analysis of himself. He failed to state in which of these positions he was at his best; whether as the directing force in the factory, or as the bookkeeper in the office. It is evident that he lacked this knowledge. If he had known, the printing of this letter would obviously have been unnecessary here. This is a case of a man absolutely sincere; seeking truth, seeking assistance, seeking guidance for his many versatilities. He has many real aptitudes but no fundamental knowledge of his capabilities, or the correct procedure for the use of his ability. With this man the process of elimination is the only course for him to pursue. How, then, can he know what to eliminate, and upon which ability to concentrate. The man who is a misfit, or a square peg in a round hole, is generally considered to be a person of inferior calibre. That this is erroneous can not be disputed. Men of great intellect, intelligence and learning, at some time in life, find it difficult to place themselves to get the greatest return from life—mentally, spiritually, physically and financially. Here the New Astrology again comes to the assistance of mankind, showing how the individual is governed by controlling planetary influences under which he is born. I want to make it clear that these influences do incline; but they do not compel. What these influences are by reason of the position of these heavenly bodies at the moment of his birth, can readily be ascertained and results reached in a specific way much as the general examples already given in this chapter. Through the delineation of the horoscope the individual can learn whether he was born to be an executive; or to be the man under orders; a lawyer or a physician, a laborer, or a journalist, through the entire gamut of human activity. As Astrology lays claim therefore to a scientific basis through which these conclusions are reached—so it must in itself be scientific, and this claim must of necessity be subject to verification. It was this scientific procedure that brought chemistry from its chaotic condition of Alchemy to its present high position among the modern sciences. The Alchemy of the ancients was on about the same basis as the cook-book of our grandfathers: a collection of apparently unrelated phenomena; and of course with no knowledge as to the why-for of the various reactions, observed and used. While the principle object of Alchemy was to find a means of transmuting the baser metals to gold, and while this was never accomplished; many important methods of producing the baser metals, some elements, many compounds and metallic alloys, owe their discovery to the alchemists. Even phosphorus was first produced by an alchemist who had little knowledge of the reaction involved in its production.

In the New Astrology we have evidence of a scientific basis practically from the start. The conclusions reached have never been erroneous. It was developed from the stage of experimental science to that of an exact science through observation, systematic compiling and computing; and actual verification of the planetary influences on the activities of man which were in force at the time of birth. It is quite evident that the effect of the Sun as I explained previously was first taken into consideration and the effect of the other planets added as the recorded data increased. Some of the oldest Chaldean writings refer to the science of Astrology and astrological development, in which the Sun plays a prominent part; whereby conclusions are reached and results verified as in the above material. \(\text{Time} \) is an illusion of the senses. Einstein and others have proved this mathematically. What seems to be \(\text{"Time"} \) is the succession in combinations of matter which is in a constant state of flux. These considerations led Einstein to insist in 1915 that the motion of all bodies is their apparent change in situation relatively to one another. The objects which constitute our universe will present appearances which differ in every case according to the situation and kind of motion as noted by the observer with his measuring instruments. These appearances are the actual reality. Absolute shape, position and measurement are all meaningless. Space and time disappear as self-subsistent and in their place we get a plurality of relative systems. All matter is composed of electrons. Nothing beyond this is known. The electrons have not been seen. Their presence has only been mathematically demonstrated—their nature is a guess. Matter, that is, the Material Universe, has no validity as substance. Attenuated it becomes invisible. Science has merely proved that each form of matter has its place in what is called that atomic scale, according to the number of electrons in each one of the atoms that compose it. The result is dissection, analyzation and classification in the most mathematical manner.
of forms of consciousness. And all of this has to do with the case in point—the proper elucidation of the horoscope. The New Astrology is concerned with the practical interpretations; and applications of this data to man's life and activity are made in terms of present-day knowledge and customs. The keynote is practicality; its demands are utility-usefulness. Any interpretations, any revealment through the New Astrology, must be primarily of definite value as a guide—an indicator for one's every action! The education of behavior, and an improvement of understanding and development of faith are the three requisites for a complete, useful and successful life. From one point of view life suggests the phenomena of a chemical reaction. Chemical reactions usually result in the producing of a primary and secondary matter—the characteristics of which in the comparison of primary and secondary matter depends upon the point of view. The chemical reactions associated with life result in the production of energy as the main product; and cause the products of metabolism which make for the repair and upkeep of the organism. Secondary products in the life reaction are those which result from oxidation and the process of producing energy; and are as a rule of an injurious organism unless very promptly removed upon production. They are the products, the accumulation of which will run counter to the cause of the reaction. That is they will stop the life reaction completely. In fact, this is commencing to be considered by many scientists today as the most definite explanation of death—that is of the life cycle.

Why should one form of life, say, an insect, have a life cycle of twenty-four hours while another insect will have a life cycle of many years, or even months? This may in part be explained upon the assumption that the organism has adapted itself to a reaction, which is auto-toxic with respect to a certain period of time: which means that the organism produces a self-destroying poison at a certain rate which rate apparently bears some relationship to its period of maturity. This may to some extent bear some relation to the law of Maltus; or it may be only an obvious sequel in the reproduction which is at first stimulated by an abundant food supply. This stimulation itself increases reproduction at such an increased rate that the increase in organisms which have passed through the life cycle automatically, check the increase in reproduction even before the food supply has been outstripped; though for many years the stock may have lain dormant because of unfavorable conditions for development. Herein we have an explanation of one of the main factors in Evolution—change takes place under favorable conditions. A dormant state or even retrogression may be the result of unfavorable conditions. The physical development of food stuffs must be plentiful but not over abundant. A certain amount of effort and strife is necessary for physical development. This may also be true of mental development; but here there must be an incentive. While it is true that life represents and constitutes a constant struggle for the betterment of the organism—this struggle must result in some measure of victory, however slight if the organism is to persist and develop. The saying "favorable conditions" sounds cheap and empty; but when you begin to dip into it, it essentially means a great deal.

Take the Jew in Russia. He was forced to live under the most unfavorable conditions. The struggle was so great, so terrific, it left no surplus energy for advancement. In Russia, under those conditions that were practically in a dormant state as far as development and progress were concerned; they had nevertheless culture of the ages behind them. They were descendants of a culture older than that of the Egyptians: representing a civilization that had attained a very high and exalted level when Europe was still inhabited by barbaric tribes: the immediate descendants of the primitive man. Now these people were able to maintain this dormant state for many hundreds of years. But whenever opportunity presents itself and development and advancement are offered, they show results, that are frequently amazing. Poor emigrants landing in this country apparently of the lowest types, uneducated and uncultured, produce no less than one generation of offspring of the highest mental attainments; and frequently they will produce leaders in many fields.
of human activity. The explanation is not far to seek, for, while the immediate forbears of these men of genius in finance, science, or art and music, as well, were apparently ignorant and without culture; they were nevertheless descendants of our highest cultural development.

And so we find that when conditions are favorable in the physical world we have a variety of results that is astounding. And when we think of the physical we generally think of the antithesis, the spiritual. If these conditions affect the physical in so great a degree think how very important and moving must be that force upon our lives which comes from the stars and is not of the earth, earthy. The key to the proper understanding and solution of all of this is in the New Astrology. There and there alone will you find it.

In presenting a basis for self-analysis in a recent talk I evaluated a list of characteristics, the basis of which could be arrived at by a summation of individual values—leading to a general appraisement of the individual.

I presented this means of self-analysis to explain that in a general way the same knowledge of self that is revealed through the New Astrology may be attained through other means, though necessarily less comprehensive; because of the personal equation involved in arriving at the result. The analysis indicated the advisability of strengthening particular weak points; and that those apparent shortcomings could be corrected by a very definite course of procedure. I selected "punctuality" as an example, but also explained that other factors, such as diligence, perseverance, and honesty, could be developed or perfected by the same means. If you do not believe that this law is productive of definite results, just follow out this method of procedure for one day. I refer to a force that has been known to man since the early days of Astrology, but which unfortunately has received little or no attention in the field of guidance for personal development. You may fulfil your round of duties in the direct or reflex way; but I refer essentially to the influence of the mind in assisting in bringing about the realization of our aspirations or desires through conscious direction. The law of consciousness abides.

If you feel that there is no room for improvement in this direction, you may modify the experiment to apply to some specific incident involving the keeping of an appointment. It is alike your interest and mine to use for yourself the practical example which I am advancing, and to prove to you that the secret of success and fortune really lies in your own hands. You can make your life just what you wish it to be... every mind is an individual classification as it is you yourself that have made this classification. If your individual mind has proven to be one of uncommon quality, you impose your classification on other men. Remember that great men are only so by comparison; because mankind is willing to permit a few to shine brilliantly above the rest. Then this handful of beings and their ideas become the motivating power behind commerce, behind industry, behind finance, behind nations and ultimately behind you as an individual. In order to have universal peace, we must have individual harmony, for nothing can sway me from the belief that every man is a lover of truth, regardless of how that truth is arrived at, or how poorly it is expressed. There is no absolute malignity in nature. You no doubt are questioning yourself as to what part you play in this great universal scheme and just what influence you in your humble way may bring to bear in the realization of world peace. Those who have tried the experiment on punctuality have marveled at its revelation; and therefore I wish to tell you that analogically the same method of procedure can bring about national peace if it is desired. It is simple: it is shorn of all emotional fluff, but it produces results and that is what everyone is seeking — beneficial results from daily activities. I can give you a practical demonstration by the electric light. We know its result. We do not know the nature of electricity, but we do know that by turning on a switch we receive light as a result. It may require further explanation for you to understand that a force which is in your daily life through conscious direction, can be used to bring about world peace. You are realizing in the home, in business, in your personal actions, in politics, in government, the result of your strivings, your aspirations; whether they are conscious or unconscious.
We know that life itself is profound, but who shall be our interpreter and what shall be the interpretation?—that has been the question, and through the New Astrology we find the key to the situation. Through it you may know just what your natural aptitudes and abilities fit you for. Through the correct delineation of a horoscope this is possible; and the creed of the future will be "I know," and that "know" will stand for "I know myself." Everyone is largely ruled by habit, and habit is merely a form of exercise. Up to a certain point exercise means increased strength; and that you can rectify and strengthen into useful component parts, by knowing just where there is a weakness and, in the correction, just how to pursue your aspirations. If life consists of action and reaction, why not mould these actions so that in reacting, your results will be the kind you would like to see? In so many letters that I receive the individual complains that the responsibilities thrust upon him have been overbearing. This is an accepted idea and merely proves my philosophy that individuals are constantly reacting to suggestions. Daily contact with my work leads me to believe that people who have shouldered responsibilities, regardless of what the nature of them has been; stand a very much better chance in the world race than those who have everything provided for them. The acceptance of the responsibility of caring for yourself and knowing yourself; your idiosyncracies and attempting to overcome them, is a necessary factor in your evolution: and, to make yourself exempt from the practical world—the world that gives the lessons of experience—is to run the risk of hampering your progress. If the kind godmother of the fairy tale were to appear before us and grant us two wishes, most of us would choose success and happiness. Men spend their lives in constant quest of these ends. A fortunate few find the right path early, and contentment is theirs. But many more wander about in a maze, glimpsing the goal afar off, yet unable to reach it. Obstacles spring up everywhere, retarding hope and thwarting ambition. Fate seems to laugh sardonically as she deals out one bitter experience after another; all of which can be overcome through understanding made possible through a delineation of the horoscope.

As the figures pertaining to the readings in Astrology are symbolical—in the closing pages of my work I shall conclude with a series of symbolic questions with their respective answers. In the culminating poem which is the final expression in this book; we find material and thought which are as old as time: and as meaningful as eternity itself, the goal which we have been seeking to reach through the proper understanding of Astrology—the key to our happiness and well being.

"New stars appear and others disappear on the sky. New ideas appear on the mental horizon, and old ideas are lost. If a new comet appears on the sky it fills the hearts of the ignorant with terror; if a new and grand idea appears on the mental horizon it creates fear in the camp of those that cling to old and accepted forms."

"Hail may destroy the fruits of the earth: evil planetary influences may be attracted by the soul of the earth and cause epidemic diseases, and the spiritual center in man may be devoid of wisdom, and darkness rule in its place. The earth, the animal kingdom, and physical man are subject to the government of the stars; but the spiritual man rules over the stars and over the elements, and conquers the world without and the world within, by the wisdom that comes from God. Stones, plants and animals obey the government of the mind, and man should obey the will and wisdom of God. The individual Terrestrial life should correspond to the laws governing the universe: Man’s spiritual aspirations should be directed to harmonize with the wisdom of God. If this is attained, the inner consciousness will awaken to an understanding of the influences of the stars, and the mysteries of Nature will be revealed to his spiritual perception”—Paracelsus.

A MASONIC ALLEGORY

The Death of the Sun
When down the zodiacal arch
The summer sun resumes his march, Descending from the summit high With eager steps he hastens by The "Lordly Lion" of July,
And clasps the virgin in his arms.

Through all the golden August days
The sun the ardent lover plays,
A captive to her dazzling charms.
But when the harvest time is o’er,
When gathered grapes perfume the air
And ruddy wine begins to pour,
The god resumes his way once more;
And weeping in her wild despair,
```
He leaves the royal virgin there.
What cares he now for Virgo's woes,
With scornful step, until, at last,
The equinoctial gate is passed.

Two misty columns black with storms.
While overhead there hangs between
A lurid thunder cloud, which forms
The frowning archway of the gate;
The gloomy equinoctial gate,
An evil place for travelers late,
Where envious Libra lurks unseen;
And near the portal lies in wait
September, filled with deadly hate.
With stately step the god draws nigh,
Yet such is his majestic mien,
That whether he shall strike or fly,
The trembling ruffian hardly knows,
As Phoebus through the gateway goes.

But as the shining form came near,
The wretch's hate subdued his fear,
And, nerving up his arm at length,
He aimed a blow with all his strength
Full at the god as he went by.
In anger Phoebus turned his head;
Away the trembling coward fled.

The god, though smarting with the blow,
Disdains to follow up his foe;
And down the zodiacal path
Pursues his gloomy way in wrath.

PART II

Still blacker turn the Autumn skies,
And red Antares, evil star,
Points out the place, more fatal far,
Where October ambushed lies,
The sun, as if he scorned his foes,
In pride and glory onward goes.
Not he from deadly Scorpio flies,
Nor pauses he, nor backward turns
Though redder yet Antares burns,
And darker yet his pathway grows.

Meanwhile October, from his lair,
On Phoebus rushes unaware,
His murderous purpose now confessed,
And smites the sun-god in the breast.
A ghastly wound the villain makes ...
With horrid joy his weapon shakes;
And, as he sees the god depart,
His hand upon his bosom pressed,
Believes the blow has reached the heart.

Along his way the sun-god goes,
Unmindful where the path may lead,
While from his breast the life-blood flows,
The clouds around him gather now,
The crown of light fades from his brow
And soon, advancing 'mid the night,
The archer on his pallid steed,
With bended bow, appears in sight.

November, bolder than the rest,
Hides not behind the gloomy west;
But, striding right across the path,
Defies the god and scorns his wrath
And raising high his frowning crest,
Their haughty words to him addressed:
"September and October, both,
You have escaped and still survive;
But I have sworn a deadly oath,
By me you can not pass alive.
That which I promise I perform,
For I am He who, 'mid the storm,
Rides on the pallid horse of death."

While even thus the specter spoke,
He drew his arrow to the head . . .
The god received the fatal stroke,
And at the Archer's feet fell dead.

Soon as the Sun's expiring breath
Had vanished in the ether dim,
And looking up, not a word he saith,
But o'er the dead doth gently throw
A spangled winding sheet of snow.
SOME CLASSICAL REFERENCES IN ASTROLOGY

CHAUCER:
Wrote a treatise on the Astrolabe.

MILTON:
Constantly referred in his works to planetary influence.

SHAKESPEARE:
In "King Lear" Gloucester and Edmund represent respectively the old and new faith. The world's greatest poet was a believer in Astrology, so far as realizing certain influences of the planets and stars in portending Pestilence and National visitations.
"O malignant and ill-boding stars! Now thou art come unto a feast of death."—Henry VI.
"We make guilty of our disasters, the Sun, Moon and Stars."—King Lear.
"It is the stars, the stars above us, govern our conditions."—King Lear.
"There was a star danced, and under that I was born."—Much Ado About Nothing.
"Thus pour the stars down plagues."—Love's Labors Lost.
"You were born under a charitable star—Mars."—All's Well That Ends Well.
"My mind misgives some consequence yet hanging in the stars."—Romeo and Juliet.
"Some say that ever against that season comes, Wherein our Savior's birth is celebrated, The bird of dawning singeth all night long: And then they say no spirit dare stir abroad; The nights are wholesome; Then no planets strike. Ha!"—Hamlet.

And so the list is endless, and the references are many. Astrology is a factor the force of which is felt through the ages and it is expressed in many ways.

In an essay on Astrology, usually ascribed to Lucian, we find that he is very sceptical in one way; since he denies the literal truth of various Greek myths and gives an astrological interpretation of them, as in the case of Zeus and Kronos and the so-called adultery of Mars. This is not inconsistent with Lucian's ridicule of the anthropomorphic Olympian divinities. What Orpheus taught the Greeks was Astrology, the planets being signified by the seven strings of his lyre. Tiresias taught them further to distinguish which stars were masculine. . . . . Bellerophon soared to the sky—not on a horse but by the scientific power of his mind. Daedalus taught Icarus Astrology, and the fable of Phaeton is to be similarly interpreted. Aeneas was not really the son of the goddess Venus, nor Minos of Jupiter, nor Aesculapius of Mars, nor Autolycus of Mercury. These are to be taken simply as the planets under whose rule they were born. The author also connects Egyptian animal worship with the signs of the Zodiac. He also delves into the history of Astrology, to which he assigns a high antiquity. The Ethiopians were the first to cultivate it, and handed it on in a still imperfect stage to the Egyptians who fully developed it. The Babylonians claim to have studied it before other people, but our author thinks that they did so long after the Ethiopians and Egyptians. The Greeks were instructed in the art neither by the Ethiopians nor the Egyptians, but as we have seen by Orpheus. Our author not only states that the ancient Greeks never built towns or walls or got married, without first resorting to divination; but that the Pythia at Delphi was a type of celestial purity and that the snake under the tripod represented the dragon among the constellations. Thus we have convincing and close reference as contributed by antiquity and from classic sources which is very valuable.

PERSONAL OBSERVATIONS

IMPERSONALLY OBSERVED

Here are those who believe and feel that they have an inferiority or superiority complex, and there are likewise those who do not know that they are possessed of one or both of these urges of vital expression. Man can not be and is not born into Grade "A." A distinction of classes as a topic for conversation, and for wielders of the pen is as age-worn as religious and political discussions and beliefs. In this present era where social contacts conflict and coordination is paramount, this is not an untimely personal opinion. That it may be indelibly impressed upon your mind, a repetition is acceptable to you: man can not be and is not born into Grade "A." Like milk, he is separated from bulk, skimmed, pasteurized, analyzed; and then classified. Man is gregarious—born with the herd instinct. Contact, environment, heredity, ambition, self-knowledge, conduct, habit, behavior, wisdom and the understanding of the use of these dominant factors, characterize his classification. There are three groups ranging from Grade "A" to Grade
"C." The highest grade into which man is born is Grade "B." Progress, not chance, or that misnomer "luck" rewards him with award of the "cream" title "A." Close inspection (and it is worth the time) will reveal to you that this grading of individuals is at least entitled to consideration. Probably some Boswell of this era may be energized with the thought revealed in this writing. If so, it will not have been in vain. You do not require an academic training to grade the individuals you come into contact with.

Grade "B" requires more than personal culture; more than enviable heredity; more than the beneficial influences endowed upon people because of racial characteristics; more than a knowledge of your aptitudes and abilities; more than a feeling of benevolence; more than an academic training; more than the belief in an "ism"—it requires a desire to advance through the use of all dormant faculties cognizant only through self-knowledge into that enviable almost unobtainable class called Grade "A." Some people have not the classifications for meeting the requisite demand of this grade. Some others have not the qualifications rightfully entitling them to a settling contact with Grade "B;" but all have the natural qualifications fitting them for Grade "C;" a similarity of endowments placed upon them through that organic metamorphosis called birth. Nine-tenths of the inhabitants of this sphere—and this statement is made advisedly—are either unhappy or discontented. Happiness is a personal haven. The act of being discontent is a state of emotion common to and possible to all. Qualifications in either class are therefore not determinable by introspection. The other tenth is so associated with life as to cause indifference to the state of being unhappy or discontented.

You will realize many scientific facts, one which is alchemic in base, that you can not make cream with buttermilk: that both are but natural constituents of the same fundamental. The more adjacent your thought to the knowledge of self-position, that of certain characteristics, aptitudes, and abilities awaiting development—the sooner you realize a successful goal—and the greater that goal.

A classification of self-analysis will stimulate in you a desire for reaching the goal—Grade "A."

The mere fact that you are reading what is expressed to you in these pages proves conclusively—unconsciously, perhaps—that there is somewhere a desire, however latent it may be. Whether your position is that of executive superior, amanuensis, servor or servee, banker, the President of a country, the Governor’s lady, or the housemaid, you can not disguise your grade. No position recognizes class distinction, but classes recognize position. You do not require a striving for advancement in life if you think the survey of your life does not warrant it; that is, if you are satisfied, you are marking time with that apparition called death. If you are unsatisfied with your lot in life, if you are in a blind alley job, or in a groove—socially, politically, economically, or what-not, you are still marking time with the apparition. That is the end to which all pomp, honor, glory, disgrace, sorrow and so-called unhappiness and discontent must eventually lead you. Only in this phenomena are we all in Grade "A." But it is your duty to leave it to your highest qualifications and to make the fullest use of your abilities. Men die equally. Men are not born equal.
Notwithstanding all arguments to the contrary nature has produced nothing finer, nobler, greater; more fully equipped to meet the vicissitudes of life than man in the mineral, vegetable and animal kingdom. He rules supreme.
Your equality with your next door neighbor with which nature has presented you can be only a similarity of physical anatomical construction; provided that you had not been wanting an award with an impediment. If you had been handicapped or blessed with such a failing, there is little doubt but that on some other plane you have failed to make the grade. You have been given a new chance, a new opportunity, in this life with which to begin again and make another attempt. Do not career to meet that apparition, death, without manifesting at least an unquenchable nerve, for who knows you may be one of the chosen ones; you may even make Grade "A."
Close inspection of a chance passing individual, often reveals a type of person equally fitted for Grade "C." No possible culture, no superficial training, no moulding, casting, contact or activity can in any way fit that individual for Grade "B." He just has not the qualifications. Try as you will, he remains in Grade "C,"—perhaps by some Divine Law awaiting his chance on some other plane. The only compensation that the Grade "B's" have (and I know that readers of these lines have classed themselves as such) for living with the mediocre or so-called Grade "C"—is that they are in the first line trenches awaiting promotion, provided that they have learned to live without the things that they can not get. This is only so because they have accepted the thought that they can not, which is erroneous. One can achieve anything which he desires; but the thought must be fostered first and then the act will immediately follow. Nothing humanly conceivable or utterable is beyond human grasp, and no thought ever harbored by human mind can not be put into activity. You may offer an apology as to environment, opportunity, possibility, limitations—all which is but an excuse to shield your shortcomings. It is self-knowledge that will clear the road upon which the few may trespass into that desirable realm called Grade "A." Knowledge is power. Alea jacta est.
SOME INTERESTING HOROSCOPES
DELINEATIONS
Upon the ascendant we find the regal sign Sagittarius, with Jupiter, its lord, located therein; which declares the native to inherit a most masculine and intrepid spirit, a poignant wit, and undaunted resolution; qualities which are greatly heightened by the degree ascending being in the dignities of the planet Mars.

In the twenty-first year of her age, she was oppressed and imprisoned, and suffered every species of persecution that could result from the vindictive jealousy and resentment of her enemies. During these troubles, she had operating a most malefic direction of Saturn to the quartile of the Sun, in the ninth house, which exactly describes the cause for which she was persecuted; namely, her hereditary right to the crown, and her attachment to the protestant religion.

When this illustrious princess attained her twenty-fifth year, she triumphed over her domestic enemies, and was crowned Queen of England. At this time the ascendant was directed to a trine aspect of the Sun, who is the patron of honour and sovereignty.

In the sixty-ninth year of her age, this celebrated princess made her exit, under the mortal direction of the ascendant to the quartile aspect of the Sun; leaving posterity to record the blessings of her reign, in which were laid the solid foundations of the protestant establishment.

This native is usually denominated Bloody Nero; and indeed, if we but cast our eyes upon the horoscope of his birth, we shall find ample demonstrations of a cruel and vindictive disposition. Mars is opposite to Jupiter and Venus in the twelfth house, an aspect of noxious and direful tendency. Neptune, we find, is lord of the tenth, and consequently significator of the native's mother. Mercury is lord of the ascendant, in exact quartile of the Moon, which is an obvious proof that the native should cruelly treat and abuse his mother; and, as Neptune is at the same time in aspect of Mars, it is a probable argument that he would become a murderer. The quartile of the Sun and Saturn is a configuration productive of every vicious inclination, and of every atrocious crime. Under the influence of this malignant direction, which held for a considerable length of time, he not only became hated by the people under his government; but exercised those bloody and unparalleled cruelties that darken and disgrace the annals of his reign.

In this nativity we find Mercury and Venus posited in the ascendant; a proof of volubility and freedom of speech: and being also in an airy sign, beheld by a benefic trine of Jupiter from the ninth house, declares the native to be a person of strong natural talents, and rich mental endowments.
In the nativity of this enterprising and extraordinary character, we find six planets essentially fortified, and four of them in friendly trine to each other, with the luminaries and Jupiter in sextile. The professors of this art, both ancient and modern agree, that, where only three planets are found essentially dignified in a nativity, it is an earnest of singular prosperity and good fortune to the native. Where six testimonies of the same nature occur, it is an evident proof that the person born under their influence will eclipse all his co-temporaries in his advancement to glory and fame. How far this was verified in the person of Oliver Cromwell, when the humble situation of himself and his ancestors is considered, we shall leave to the decision of the candid and intelligent reader.

Libra ascends the eastern horizon of this nativity, which is a sign of justice and mercy. To show that the native would be learned and pious, there are several stars of the nature of Jupiter and Mars culminating, which in many horoscopes have been found to raise the native even from the lowest degree in the church to the highest honours and preferments of ecclesiastical jurisdiction and authority. This illustrious native was not without his share of private enemies, who used every means to alienate the king's good opinion and favour towards him. But vain was the attempt; for, where the heavens form a unity of sentiment, it is beyond the subtlety of human invention to dissolve it.

In the year 1648, on the 23rd of August, this native, being near thirty-six years old, was basely assassinated. The Moon was that day in quartile of the ascendant at birth, and the sun in the radical place of Mars; and in the revolutionary figure for that year, the Moon was in exact quartile of Mars and Jupiter.

MARCUS TULLIUS CICERO
Born under the Latitude of Rome

We cannot question the time of this celebrated native's birth. The figure exactly corresponds with the description of his person given us by Plutarch, which is that of a lean, weak, and sickly temperament and constitution; which is aptly enough declared by the Moon in Capricorn. Plutarch tells us, that Cicero's nurse was admonished by an astrologer to bestow the utmost care and attention upon the child then at her breast; for that he should become the most distinguished character amongst all the Romans; and yet he was but the son of a bond-woman and of mean extract. He died by assassination in the sixty-fourth year of his age, having suffered the chief misfortunes of his life in his grand climacterical year as prognosticated by the astrologer.

MARTIN LUTHER
Born Oct. 21, 1483

The nativity of this celebrated divine is remarkable for having so many planets located in the ninth house. Saturn and Mercury are in conjunction, in the sign Scorpio, which afford a striking presage of the zeal and perseverance of his mind; while the five planets in the ninth house declare his success in religious controversy.
CHAPTER V

YOUR FUTURE

GIVING YOUR PLANETARY CONDITIONS UP TO THE YEAR 1933
Miss Belle Bart, horoscope reader of New York, with the head of the French debt commission at the French Embassy, where she was summoned yesterday. In August she read M. Caillaux’s horoscope in Paris, and advised his coming to America when he was undecided. On his arrival here he requested her aid a second time.
In reading the following planetary conditions affecting you throughout the year you may find that you come under the influence of more than one planet at the same time during a period of months. For example, you may be having a very successful period of months under Saturn which may influence your business relations and bring you an increase in your work; but at the same time you may have an unfavorable Jupiter period which will cause you difficulties in your home. One planetary vibration is not relative to the other one, but each effect of the planets according to their nature would influence you at the same time if the book so indicated for you. On the other hand, you may have a period where your finances are on the increase, but your health under a Mars influence may be affected. One planetary aspect may be adversely influencing your affairs and the other may be of a favorable nature. These planetary indications are not conflicting for should you have more than one favorable influence, your conditions will be emphatically good. If one planet's influence is adverse and the other planet is favorable, the good conditions under which you are careering will not mitigate the unfavorable ones.
The purpose of the New Astrology, as advocated successfully by me, is to act as a danger signal pointing out the pitfalls as you daily travel through life. By understanding your planetary future you are in a position to overcome the vicissitudes of life to your best advantage for success.

The Author
If You Were Born Between March 21st and April 20th

Indicating favorable and unfavorable periods from 1928 through 1932, inclusive

This is a favorable influence in your life. You may have greater strength of character during this time. You may receive recognition in some way from those who are in authority, or you may have honor and preferment shown you. It is a favorable time for dealing with the public. Speculations may bring you quick results. It does not mean, however, that you should rush to take chances simply because of this aspect. If you are, however, taking risks in financial matters, you may have some beneficial results. Foreign affairs may interest you to advantage. Should you have litigation of any kind, you may have some benefit through it. Writings and dealings with publishers or the signing of contracts may ultimately bring you added popularity and gain. You are now less likely to meet with opposition from those with whom you are connected than at other times. If you are married, you should experience better understanding in your home life, and where there are children, you may have some added pleasure through them. Business affairs prosper, but as Mars is of quick action, make the most of any project that may arise. This is not the time to hesitate, but essentially the time to do.

Indicating favorable and unfavorable periods from 1928 through 1932, inclusive

You should at this time be circumspect in all your dealings with people, especially those who are in any way in a position to be classed as superiors, or who exercise authority over you. It may seem to you as though unfairness and injustice are being brought to bear, but as this is but a passing influence and as you are likely to be greatly perturbed over even the smallest detail, do not place too much stress upon it. You may experience disappointment, and Mars in some way may tend to make this a trying and disagreeable time for you. You may have domestic troubles or estrangements and disappointments through those closely connected with you. Any undertakings or engagements into which you may enter during this aspect may not bring you the desired return, so avoid being impulsive. It is not a favorable time in which to make changes or to have dealings with other people or to allow your feelings to enter into your affairs in any way. Do not in any manner jeopardize your safety, as you are now under very quarrelsome and combative vibrations. It is not a favorable influence under which to plan or take journeys, as you may be limited through them in some manner. Love affairs may cause you anxiety and difficulty and financial conditions may prove to be a source of irritation to you. Control your desires and await more favorable influences under which to further any affairs that are of importance.
THE HEAVENS PROCLAIM

IF YOU WERE BORN BETWEEN MARCH 21ST AND APRIL 20TH

Indicating favorable and unfavorable periods from 1928 through 1932, inclusive

This is a propitious period in your life for the carrying out of any projects dealing with financial interests. Your mind will be active, with a clearer insight into the affairs with which you may at this time be concerned. You may receive the help of friends, enabling you to carry out your ideas, with less of the struggle encountered at other periods. Your mind will be keen and you will have more confidence in your ability to do the best in you. Do not refrain from furthering your plans. Ask favors of those whom you think will or can aid you materially. Your judgment is at its best, but it depends upon you to achieve. Your financial status may be greatly improved and you may receive benefit unexpectedly through channels not ordinarily associated with your money affairs. Your tendencies toward social activity will become greatly enhanced and you should take advantage of every opportunity to enlarge your circle of friendships, for unexpected opportunity may arise through contacts of this sort. Your health will be better and a keener sense of the joy of living will manifest itself. This is an era conducive to romance and possible marriage in your life. A better understanding between those in whom the love interest is uppermost may be expected and marriage, if possible, accrue as a result. If you are married, better conditions and congeniality will tend to make life worth while. Do not permit this period to pass without some definite effort on your part to improve your conditions. Business affairs will tend to prosper and if interested in speculation, your judgment will enable you to gain materially. Some beneficial journey may be taken, bringing new business interests and friends. If you are associated with organizations or politics, you may have some honor conferred upon you.

July to December

January to July

You may be subject during this period to many financial and personal difficulties. You should not attempt new projects of importance as the time is not ripe for success, unless Saturn is in friendly vibration in which case you may still experience financial problems. You may attract people of great prominence to you at this time but you need not expect any startling results through them. You are very likely to be over extravagant and waste your material. You are prone to financial losses and should you gain through partnerships you may have difficulty in obtaining it or litigation through it. You may at this time take peculiar views about personal relationships and may be very narrow through this attitude in your activities. Unless Saturn is also in aspect, this is not the time to try and force your ambitions into completion as obstacles may confront you. You may be separated from or lose someone very near and dear to you. You are very likely to have misunderstandings through friends. Men at the head of affairs will be prominent in your life at this time, but no immediate help can be expected. Delays and promises usually follow. You may suffer through the actions of others, so beware of any financial propositions made to you during this vibration. You may at this time find your circulation in a very depleted condition, and you should favor yourself as much as possible. The condition of the general system is apt to need a lubrication. The kidneys and heart are particularly susceptible to annoyance.

Indicating favorable and unfavorable periods from 1928 through 1932, inclusive

This is a time when the greatest caution must be exercised in all your contacts as well as with any activities in which you may be interested. You will be more magnetic and energetic and unless you wisely distribute your forces it may tend to bring upsets and difficulties. The unexpected is likely to occur and peculiar people contact you where the motive may not be entirely clear to you, and unless you refrain from hasty actions and judgments you are likely to cause yourself trials and obstacles. Hesitate, before signing any documents and question any new friendships which may enter into your life. In other words, take nothing for granted. It is very likely that some upset may make itself felt in your personal affairs, particularly in your home and social attachments. It may bring you a romance which unless you are circumspect may keep you constantly in difficulties. Your imagination and creative powers are now at the highest point and in any work requiring this element you may do the original and bring gain. It however is essential that you keep your equilibrium and rest more than at any other time. Your nervous system under this influence is very apt to be at high tension and you may find a sentiment of intolerance manifesting itself and unless you are careful you may break up some very desirable ties. In business interests the unexpected will occur and should you have an influence of Jupiter operating at the same time it may prove a period of great affluence but requiring caution in management. This vibration seldom passes without leaving some imprint on the social and romantic side of life.

<th>This is a period when you may begin to inaugurate any plans which may make themselves felt. It is a time when business opportunities and changes in occupation may be made. While the beneficial result of such interests may not be forthcoming immediately, yet you have begun under favorable planetary influences. Financial matters are no longer restricted and it is the time to purchase any real property or to transact any negotiations bearing upon such issues. Your judgment will be better and in every way your contacts will be constructive. Should you at this time have a joint aspect of Uranus it may bring some temporary upset in plans but Jupiter also would aid you in overcoming any difficulties. You may find unusual contacts with older people particularly in business associations and gains are likely to accrue you from such friendships. A new mental interest may assert itself and you will begin to find the philosophic and religious issue bearing weight propitiously upon your leanings. This aspect affects you by giving you more self-sufficiency and security. You may now proceed to change your environment should you so desire. Any friendships would prove lasting as well as would any activities involving the element of finance. You can in every way strike a better understanding of people and gain personality through any outside influences. This period may also incur the taking of a journey of considerable length but not purely for pleasure as it has the tendency to increase the commercial side of life.</th>

This is an unfortunate influence. You are very likely to suffer through the health. You may experience much opposition and many obstacles will come into your path. It will require all of your will power to overcome them. Disappointment and trials of different natures are indicated for you and you can not act too wisely while under this planetary influence. Your mind and moods are inclined to be gloomy and pessimistic and you will look on the dark side of things. If you find an irritable mood or depression coming over you, remember it is but a passing influence, and that you will in time overcome it. It is a very unfortunate vibration and brings many difficulties into your life requiring more than ordinary effort to overcome. You may suffer a great deal from headaches, and probably other mental pains. You may lack ambition and feel at odds with all persons with whom you come in contact, and it would not be wise to antagonize those with whom you have business dealings or those who play an active part in your life. Do not allow heartaches or love interests to be paramount in your life at this time—that is if you are not already married. Existing engagements are consequently in danger of being terminated. You may be cognizant of the danger and compromise accordingly. If you are married there may be much friction in the home life. Be on your guard, as control is the big factor for you at this time.

This is an active influence as it tends to make your mind very alert and may bring you success in some way. Since this is a very brief influence, take every possible advantage and do not delay your activities. You may be more courageous and enterprising, and thereby bring about some benefits. You may very likely make some new friendships or you may have a better understanding with old ones. Your judgment may be much more reserved and less likely to impulsiveness. Your mind will certainly be strengthened and it is time to attempt to further plans and wishes that you may have felt for some time in the past. You may be more temperate in carrying out your desires in connection with your business interests, as well as socially. You may seek fulfilment of projects; that is, if you have no other slowly moving planets to offset this. Financial matters take on new life and you may expect preferment and promotion as well as financial gain in connection with your home and business life. Your health will greatly improve and you may take or plan journeys. Love affairs may prosper and you may have added pleasure through heart interests. This is a temporary help to otherwise limiting influences.
If You Were Born Between April 21st and May 20th

Indicating favorable and unfavorable periods from 1928 through 1932, inclusive

This is not a propitious period. You are very likely to be over-energetic and permit impulsive acts to interfere with your business. There is also a likelihood to legal difficulties and unless you are circumspect, eventual financial loss. This is not a period in which to enter into transactions of any kind unless at the same time you happen to have a favorable Jupiter influence. Even should this be so you would have to temper your understanding so as not to permit sentiment to overtake common sense. Your judgment may not be as clear as would be desirable and you are likely to manifest a spirit of aggressiveness and bravado. It is a time when many trying situations may make themselves felt and the desire to retaliate strongly indicated in your activities. Since this is of very brief duration you can cope with your temperament through understanding with this information as a guide. Do not put too much faith in propositions made to you nor in those contracts you make during this period unless Jupiter also is in vibration. It is essential that you guard your health and do not take risks of any kind. Journeys may prove troublesome and love interests and romantic alliances may bring you some difficulties. There is also a likelihood of unhappy experiences through the home ties and some sorrow is likely to be felt through this source, particularly should you at the same time have an unfriendly aspect of Jupiter and Neptune, or Saturn.

If You Were Born Between April 21st and May 20th

Indicating favorable and unfavorable periods from 1928 through 1932, inclusive

This is not a favorable time in your life. It is likely to bring some annoyance because of financial affairs. This does not necessarily mean that serious difficulty will be encountered but that your income may not be sufficient to meet your outlay, and it is necessary that you curb any tendency toward extravagance. There is also an indication of difficulty through contacts, particularly with those people whom you may have heretofore looked upon as friends. Unexpected situations are likely to put in an appearance, preventing the carrying out of your plans because of lack of finances. This does not mean that you should give up affairs, unless you are at the same time under other restrictive planetary influences. It does mean, however, avoiding unnecessary waste and cutting down to almost necessities. Your surroundings may not, at this time, prove very stimulating to you and you may find yourself in a fault-finding but philosophical attitude. It is an excellent period to devote to the cultivation of your mind and to the reading of good literature, which will bring an understanding requisite under this aspect. It is not a favorable period for asking favors and you should avoid a tendency to exaggerate conditions that are in your life. Watch with great caution the romantic side of life and do not expect too great a return from new friends who enter into your affairs during this period, who may simply cost you time and money. Greater caution is necessary in dealing with your heart interests and, should foreign affairs or foreign people be associated with you, some misunderstanding may occur. It is not a particularly constructive period, unless spent in development of self. Avoid breaking off long-standing friendships and do not permit your imagination to run riot with you. Whenever you are annoyed or worried, you will find great help during this period in reading philosophical literature and cultivating faith.

Indicating favorable and unfavorable periods from 1928 through 1932, inclusive

This is a steady and persevering influence. You should do much to put matters on a firm basis and endeavor to improve your financial standing. Matters, particularly those connected with the home and social life, that have been uncertain or unsatisfactory should be adjusted to your liking during this vibration. You may form friendships with older people and come into closer contact with your everyday associates in the commercial world. Your mind will now be firm and tenacious and you will be capable of taking advantage of opportunities. It is a propitious period in which to make investments of a sound nature that have not a speculative aspect. Any changes or removals that may have been desired may now be furthered with more chance for success than at other times.

Indicating favorable and unfavorable periods from 1928 through 1932, inclusive

These are rather stressful times for you and it would be wise for you to watch your health. You are likely to experience disappointments, and probably sorrows and trials. The effect of this influence depends upon your ability to cope with conditions. You are likely to meet with opposition and you should be most circumspect as your mind may tend to dwell on the dark side of things. You may have financial difficulties and various other annoying conditions to cope with. It would not be wise for you to engage in any new undertakings, especially those requiring the expenditure of finances. You should curtail your expenses to meet your income. Do not place much confidence in people with whom you may come in contact for the first time during this period. You can greatly aid and benefit yourself during this influence by being optimistic and calm, and realizing that restricting conditions tend to make and build character, and that whatever is, is best. Refuse to accept destructive suggestions and realize that this aspect is soon over and that if you deal intelligently with it you will be the gainer, since knowledge is power.

A most favorable influence is vibrating for you at this time—one in which to further all your hopes, ambitions and desires. The mind should be more versatile and capable of doing the most difficult work, provided it is of a creative nature. You may be strangely impressed by your environment and find a new interest for mental stimulation, either in psychology, philosophy or religion. Your creative powers should now be stimulated to great heights and in the realm of music, art or literature, you may find a field for self-expression during this period. It is particularly a fortunate time for dealing with relatives. For those who write, it is a helpful period to deal with publishers and newspapers. You may change your entire view of life under this aspect and undertake some very worthy work. Financial conditions will improve greatly in any work in which you may be interested and you should endeavor to accumulate money. Marriage and love affairs may be the means of much happiness. You are likely to take a journey which may bring you benefit, both in health and home conditions. Avoid, however, the tendency to overwork, as the nervous system during this condition will be so highly sensitive that you might very easily injure it. You may require more sleep than at other times and will find your greatest source of relaxation in music and out-door exercise.
If You Were Born Between May 21st and June 20th

Indicating favorable and unfavorable periods from 1928 through 1932, inclusive

This is a favorable influence in your life, as all your energies and wits will be keen and alive. You may have a greater amount of strength of character during this aspect. You may receive recognition from those who are in authority, or you may have honour or preferment shown you. It is a favorable time for dealing with the public at large; therefore, should any of your interests center in this direction, concentrate your efforts upon the successful realization of them. Speculations may bring quick results; it does not mean, however, that you should rush to take chances simply because of this aspect. If you are involved financially, you may receive beneficial return. Foreign affairs may interest you and have a beneficial effect upon your life. If you should be engaged in litigation of any kind, you may receive benefit through it. Writings and dealings with publishers, or the signing of contracts, may ultimately bring you added popularity and gain. You are now less likely to meet with opposition from those with whom you are associated than at other times. If you are married, you should experience a better understanding in your home life, and where there are children, you may have some added pleasure through them. Business affairs should prosper, but as Mars is of such quick action, you should make the most of any project that may arise for successful termination. This is not the time to hesitate, but essentially the time to do.

This is a time in your life when you should use caution in all undertakings. Avoid being impulsive; undertake nothing of importance as you are not likely to meet with the desired success. Particularly is this true if you are associated with business affairs or people. It is not a favorable time to sign contracts or to engage in affairs of a serious nature. You are very likely under this influence to invite enmity and criticism, and it would be helpful for you to practice self-control. Use "caution" as your motto and you will overcome this vibration. Do nothing where you may become involved with the law as you are particularly susceptible to interference in some form. Do not enter into religious arguments or disputes as it may bring you mental anxiety. Your judgment is not at its best and you may be at cross purposes with your social and business associates, so keep away from these conflicting influences as much as possible until the passing of Mars. Journeys may bring you no benefit. Love affairs may cause you mental anxiety and worry. Pay particular attention to your health, that you do not expose yourself to any physical danger. Guard particularly against colds in the chest and arms, also difficulties with your feet.

Indicating favorable and unfavorable periods from 1928 through 1932, inclusive

This is a beneficial period in your life when you can accomplish more successfully the details as well as the important issues which may confront you. It is favorable for signing of papers and legal documents and anything of importance which is reasonable in nature may bring you some definite result. There will be a more optimistic outlook upon life and a mental buoyancy assisting you to cope with the other situations which may arise due to the influence of Saturn or any other contrary aspect which may exist at the same time. Financial gain may accrue you and it is the time to further to the utmost your personal coterie of friends in order that they may be of assistance to you. This is a time when journeys may prove advantageous and relatives may assist you. Your health will be in better condition and should you have an unfriendly aspect of Saturn and Uranus this Jupiter vibration will assist you to overcome it to a very great extent or at least lessen the difficulties encountered thereby. Litigation may bring some gain and it would be wise to seek advancement where preferment may be shown you through those in a position to offer it. Government interests and literature, any work dealing with the public would bring some recognition and gain; also financial and speculative activities. This however must be blended with the other aspects prevailing at this time. It is a favorable period for consummation of marriage and also for adjustment of personal interests. Some romantic interest may be forthcoming and it is essentially the time to take advantage of opportunity.

During this period it is necessary that you be circumspect in all your undertakings. Do not be overconfident and it would be to your advantage not to consider the gain until you actually have it. It is time when your health must be closely guarded and the greatest caution exercised in your contacts. If you are doing public work of any kind then it is certainly necessary that you keep as far from the limelight as possible and rather be the power behind the throne during this period, doing nothing which may in any way involve you legally. You may find that separations from people close to you may cause you difficulties and annoyance and it is not at all unlikely that you may experience some sorrow through your home ties. Be circumspect about what you put in writing, particularly in the signing of legal documents and do not take too much for granted. Journeys may prove annoying and may not bring the proper return for the expenditure involved. If you are married you may experience some difficulties through the home ties either through relatives or direct. Romances and love interests may prove disappointing and require handling. Do not antagonize people nor become over-buoyant of any sudden experiences which may on the surface seem beneficial. Curtail your expenditures to meet your income.

Indicating favorable and unfavorable periods from 1928 through 1932, inclusive

This is a favorable period and some benefit is likely to accrue from most unexpected sources. It is particularly circumspect for making changes or for doing anything where you may utilize your initiative, particularly so should you for any reason have been in a subservient position. There is a likelihood of unexpected journeys not purely from a pleasurable standpoint but where the industrial is apt to be blended and gain and new friendships result. It also will stimulate the mind and you will find an increase in enthusiasm. All matters will take on new interest. You will be ingenious and have original ideas which will prove to be of benefit to you later on. You may formulate new friendships under this influence but must be cautious should you at the same time have an unfriendly aspect of any of the other planets not to further matters over which they may have jurisdiction. In other words, even though this is a favorable influence you are likely to experience some chaos but will eventually adjust matters. Your mental condition will be greatly benefitted and the mind come to a better understanding of the higher principles of life. Romantic attachments may take on new activity and you may at this time have some heart interests which may prove favorable for matrimony. You may rise from an obscure position into one of leadership and under this vibration you can successfully engineer the situation. Preferment may be shown you. You are also likely to have some financial gain unexpected in nature.

New interests or renewals of old friendships that enter in your life at this period may tend to bring you more happiness than at any other time and it would be wise for you to further your affairs in this direction. THE HEAVENS PROCLAIM

Indicating favorable and unfavorable periods from 1928 through 1932, inclusive

This is an unfavorable period and denotes a critical time when many of your affairs are likely to be delayed and matters tend to prove trying. You must avoid depressing contacts. You require outdoor exercise and cheerful companions. It would be wise for you to keep physically active and to occupy your mind with the reading of constructive literature. You may find that added responsibilities are thrust upon you, tending to make you anxious and a desire to limit your affairs must be attempted with judgment. This is an active year for you and if you have Jupiter or Uranus or Mars in friendly aspect at any time it will greatly aid you to overcome but it will not entirely mitigate this condition. It is an unusually menacing period and great care must be exercised with your health, in your business affairs and also with your financial status. Do not get into litigation as delay may cause loss. You may find that your ideas along religious and philosophical lines take on a new attitude and it is therefore essential that you understand the influence which is operating and adjust it accordingly. It is not advisable while this vibration is in operation to take any foreign journeys as they would be apt to limit you and cause loss in other directions. Difficulties with older men may be experienced and contact in this direction should be attempted with the greatest circumspection. During this period you may find many trying experiences which if you cope with them through understanding may later in life prove to be the greatest lessons profitable in the future.

This is an unsettled period, as most affairs are inclined to be in an involved state and a deep depression likely to be experienced. This influence has a tendency to open up the mind with new insight and you should be prepared to devote your energies toward the enhancement of your mind rather than for the increase of material goods. In this way you can avoid the uncertain and hazy-like period which this aspect ushers in. You must guard well your actions. Your emotional nature may be stirred and you must avoid recklessness in your attitude toward conventionalities in life. Too much can not be said about curbing your emotions, particularly on the physical plane. This is a trying period and is essentially the time to use "caution" as the slogan in all your acts. Do not take yourself too seriously, as you may find it difficult to concentrate on any routine work. Business conditions may prove very trying and money may be a source of worry that keeps you on the hunt continually but without much success. This does not mean that you will be at a loss for finances, but that your expenditures may exceed your income. Love interests are very often shattered and misunderstandings take place, which you can avoid by exercising self-control, realizing that you are probably coloring matters with your own imagination. If you are married, home conditions may not be pleasant, and you may feel the desire for change. Where there are children in the family, you may experience annoyance through them. This aspect will soon pass—keep up your faith.

Curtail your expenses to meet conditions and your income, otherwise you may find yourself in financial straits. If You Were Born Between June 21st and July 20th

This is a period in your life when the greatest caution must be exercised in all contacts. The unexpected is likely to occur and while matters may seem to be furthering smoothly some unexpected difficulty may arise. Be prepared to meet any situation. It is not the time to permit your temperament to overcome your judgment nor to arrive at hasty deductions. Any new friendships may bring difficulties. You are also likely to feel the pressure of the influence of those who may be holding a superior office and in your commercial contacts do not antagonize nor demand unless you have a favorable influence of Jupiter at the same time. You are likely to have upsets and trials through your home contacts and your health must be closely guarded, particularly your digestive organs and your teeth. Plenty of outdoor exercise and quiet and rest is required. This aspect very often brings a separation through the home ties, which you can prevent if you will use judgment. You will during this vibration be much more courageous, more enterprising, and far more confident in your own ability, than at other times. It will give you, however, an adventurous spirit and you may come in contact with people who will stir you up both mentally and physically. You may give way to the feelings a great deal and if you feel in any way inclined to take a journey, you may meet with the one person in the world to help you or benefit you. That in itself does not mean that you should go off in search of anybody. But whatever is destined to come into your life may come in under this aspect. Financial matters may take on a very active turn and you may at this time make increases in your finances. The action of Mars being so rapid it is sure to at least cause you to have a very adventurous period. If you are in any way connected with the public or political life, this is the time to forge ahead and try to attain your desires. Caution, however, is the keynote for you during this period. You may, at this time, experience domestic troubles, disappointments, and estrangements from those in whom you have your greatest interest. This is a period in your life when financial interests may necessitate close adherence to economy to prevent unnecessary extravagance. It is sure to bring some outstanding romantic interest into your life and prove a stimulation. Your mind may be particularly active along creative lines, and, should you have an interest in literature, science or invention, some financial gain or recognition may be forthcoming, through which, however, there may be some slight annoyance. It is therefore requisite that you understand every situation and do not give up until you have expended every possible means for having your desires along these lines consummated. If you are doing public work of any kind, some recognition and preference may be shown you. It is the unexpected, both in financial affairs and in amusements, that mark the trend of this time. It is fortunate for asking favors from those people who are in a position to help you, but it may bring some misunderstandings unless you are circumspect as to how you make known your desires. If you are prudent, have courage and fortitude, you can make this a most beneficial aspect, provided there are no other detrimental planetary vibrations at the same time.
If You Were Born Between July 21st and August 20th

Indicating favorable and unfavorable periods from 1928 through 1932, inclusive

This is a good influence in every way, particularly where the mind is concerned. You may come into contact with those people who may have a permanent effect upon you, and mold much of your future during this aspect. You may expect honors and preferment from friends. New interests may enter your life and you should make every possible attempt to further them. Your ambitions may at this time be realized where the help of powerful friends can be utilized. In the management of your business dealings and other interests, your mind will be more stern and austere and you may feel at your best, and in harmony with the universe in general. Business will prosper and success is certainly apparent while this condition lasts. Your love affairs will take on new light and it is an auspicious time in which to arrange for the future. New interests or renewals of old friendships that enter in the life at this period may tend to bring you more happiness than at any other time and it would be wise for you to further your affairs in this direction. Financial conditions may improve and gains and success attend you. However a great deal is dependent upon your methods during the course of this vibration. The religious, political and philosophic side of life will interest you to a great degree—foreign journeys and contacts will be beneficial. If you have children some help and honor may attend you directly or indirectly through this source. Real estate and able solid investments may prove to be financially profitable.

This is a rather trying period for you. You are very likely to have difficulties in and through your home surroundings, and may find it trying to keep your mind free from worry. Do not take yourself or others too seriously, and bear in mind that most conditions that are hampering you are the result of mental attitude, and if you so desire, you can overcome any existing disturbances by refusing to accept experiences as necessities. You should not make any changes unless absolutely forced to. Be circumspect in your dealings with others, particularly in your associations with people older than yourself. You are likely to suffer disappointments and must exercise caution and stability in all your dealings. You may be somewhat lacking in concentration and you may find it difficult to apply yourself diligently and judiciously to routine matters. Financial conditions may be the cause of worry, and if you have children you may have some annoyances through them. It is assuredly the time when you should be satisfied if things run along in a general way and not force conditions. Watch your health, take plenty of outdoor exercise, and attempt to keep yourself in as optimistic a frame of mind as is possible. Do nothing where your attitude might be misconstrued, and take no risks either in a financial or personal way. By proper forethought and physical care you can mitigate any of the so-called adverse aspects.

Indicating favorable and unfavorable periods from 1928 through 1932, inclusive

You are now under favorable influences. You may gain suddenly through investments or by speculations, especially in those things that deal with railroads or money values. It is certainly a propitious time in which to advance the mind or make efforts toward the betterment of your personal surroundings, as fortune favors you. The affairs of others connected with you may take on new vim and will be a source of benefit to you. This condition promises a successful change in your pecuniary affairs and also in the business life. It would be very wise for you to make the most of your condition and to further to the utmost all matters that may come into your life naturally, or as a result of your own efforts, particularly through those people with whom you are intimately thrown. Preferment in public life will accrue to you. New friends and acquaintances and a general period of happiness may be looked forward to. It is certainly the correct time to let "bygones be bygones" and to mend any sad experiences that have been brought about at other times. Love affairs may prove interesting and bring happiness while this condition lasts. Many people marry under this aspect and particularly the home life will prove to be very attractive. It is the time for gaining your heart's desire. Any matters that may have been lying dormant should be furthered to the utmost. Gain and popularity will follow any public ventures. And in some manner people of the stage and public affairs will contact you beneficially. Creative work which you may do during this period would mean financial prosperity. Unexpected honor may attend you.

This is a favorable influence in your life. New ventures may be brought to light and you may gain suddenly through new friendships. You may find that you are more courageous and determined at the present time, and that a spirit of activity and adventure will make itself felt. You are well prepared to enter upon new schemes and undertakings. In a general way you may find yourself very busy and your mind alert. Should you have an aspect of Saturn, Jupiter or Uranus at this time you must be circumspect not to permit the ardour of Mars to misdirect your energy. Even though matters may seem to be progressing rapidly you may have unforeseen difficulties and delays and it would be wise to advance cautiously. Your health should improve and you should feel quite yourself although you must avoid over-doing things. You may gain in some way through inheritance, or financial matters, but have difficulties through this source. You may feel the inclination for travel, especially by water, and it would tend to make you happier than you have been in the past, provided you do not have an unfavorable planetary, Saturn or Uranus, aspect. In some way the mother’s health or her affairs will require your attention. Conditions in the home life should improve. Heart affairs take on new light and it is an auspicious time in which to further all affairs in this direction.
Under these vibrations, your mind may be combative and inclined to irony and sarcasm. This may lead you into difficulties and you are likely to be more than usually critical and exacting in your demands; therefore, do not make known your feelings. The greatest discretion is essential in the choice and use of words. It is not a very good influence under which to deal with the public and you should be careful of what you put in writing. It is not advisable for you to sign contracts or make demands while this aspect lasts. Wait for a more favorable influence, or you may cause lasting enmity and may find yourself involved in litigation. You can not be too careful. Pay particular attention to your diet during this vibration. Do not scatter your energies by attempting to put too many "irons in the fire." Stick to one thing and do not push that too energetically. Heart affairs may cause you more annoyance than usual. This influence may tend to bring about antagonism with loved ones, yet by carefully governing yourself, you may greatly overcome the baneful aspect of this vibration. Financial matters may prove a source of annoyance to you in some way, as this is a rather critical time in your life. Since this aspect is of very short duration, it would be to your advantage to permit most of your interests to lie dormant until after it has passed. Be most careful in all your dealings as you will realize that the greatest understanding is necessary in order to cope intelligently with any situations which may arise during this aspect.

This is a very favorable influence for you and denotes one of the most active and preferred times of your life. You have reached the epoch in your activities since the last twelve years. Anything of a reasonable nature that you may attempt may prove to be beneficial to you. There is, however, an aspect of Saturn operating during this year requiring great caution and you must not permit a brief space of favorable activity to mar your judgment. Financial matters will come greatly to the front and you may expect some gain through the many activities but not without delay and difficulty. You may at this time form lasting attachments and become linked in some way with people that may prove helpful. It is a most advantageous time in which to take some journey that may bring you marked benefit. This is an uplifting period and religious matters may come greatly to the front. You may be more philosophical in thought and wiser in your actions than at any other time of your life. It is essentially the time to be up and doing and to seek to increase your material goods in a way that may prove of great advantage to you later on in life. You will find that your home conditions will improve greatly and should there be any sorrow in your home life things will certainly begin to clear up for you. If you are in any way to receive legacies or gifts, this would be about the time for it. Love affairs take on new life and you may expect some activity in this direction. Your health should in every way improve, also the health of female members of your family, and you will require additional care and exercise because of Saturn at this time.
If You Were Born Between August 21st and Sept. 20th

You are now under unfortunate vibrations. You are very likely to suffer through the health. Pay particular attention to your digestion. It would be wise for you to adopt a diet during this aspect, as the intestines are likely to be over-sensitive, and your desire for rich foods greatly magnified and exaggerated. Financial matters may prove a source of annoyance to you and you may experience the unexpected during this time. It is an unfavorable influence under which to make changes of any kind. You may suffer through your superiors in some way and it would not be wise for you to antagonize people, especially those connected with business contacts or the public. Do nothing that may involve you with the law and refrain from litigation in any way. You may be separated from those people near and dear to you. It is not at all unlikely that you may experience some grave sorrow through your personal attachments. Any journeys taken at this time should be carefully thought over in advance as they may prove disappointing and cause you unnecessary expenditure. Should you also be influenced by Saturn or Uranus you would need to be most circumspect in your affairs and wisely expend your finances. Love affairs may cause you anxiety and it would be wise to hold in abeyance the furthering of any heart interests. If you are married you may experience difficulties through the marriage partner.

This is a constructive period in your life and you should attempt to put things in order. Any matters that may have been started at any other time should be furthered to the utmost, and you should make every effort to consummate outstanding unfulfilled desires. This applies particularly to business or commercial associations and undertakings. Your mind will be steady and perservering, and you will desire to get down to the practical in the application of most matters. If there are any changes or moves that you desire to make either in your home life or in your business connections, this is the time to do it. You may receive some advancement, and life will tend to go more smoothly for you than has been the case for some time. Your characteristics will become strengthened and you will be in a position to help yourself. You may receive gain or benefit through older people, and experience a greater trend of harmony than you have heretofore. These are the epoch-making times in life, and as you career along under this influence you should endeavor to make it a beneficial one.

This is an unfortunate direction. You may have a great many problems confronting you, particularly those of a sorrowful or grievous nature and it will require your best judgment to wisely cope with them. You may experience difficulties that cause delay and financial worry. You should at this time be most circumspect in all of your actions, especially in your mental attitude toward others, as you are very likely to suffer disappointment and be affected by those people closely connected with you. This vibration may separate you from loved ones and cause difficulties through inferiors and the law. It is not an auspicious time in which to undertake any commitments, particularly those pertaining to business ventures. You are apt to suffer criticism from the general public, and from those intimately concerned with you. It would be unwise for you to further matters that have been lying dormant or attempt to force any situations. Rather busy yourself with routine matters and let well enough alone. As this is a most trying influence, affairs of the heart can bring you nothing but disappointment, as you are bound to be in opposition with your better nature and therefore very much less magnetic. Losses are apt to accrue to you. Avoid arguments and govern all your activities, by using judgment and understanding and giving every matter, no matter how trivial it may seem, your utmost attention. You can solve many of the powerful influences of this vibration by right application of thought.

This is a deeply subtle influence and is not very closely connected with material matters. You are liable to experience the unexpected and to have a mental awakening as a result of it. You may have some experience connected with the sea or voyages. Under this influence, be very careful of speculation and you must be most circumspect in your judgment regarding money matters. Avoid radical ideas pertaining to sex or marriage ties, as you are very likely to be adverse to all ceremonies or restrictions concerning these matters. Under these vibrations you are likely to be complicated through the emotions and the sex nature. You may have a liaison if you are married, or an attachment with another who is married, and ultimate difficulties through such adventures. You are bound to be stimulated mentally, and as you are very likely to feel the need of pleasure, your emotions will be extremely stirred. It is an excellent period for creative work in art, literature or music. You must exercise your power to its greatest degree, and handle with care these dominating influences. Where there are children, there may be suffering caused through them, and you should watch your nervous system. Do nothing hastily and make allowances for irritation caused through everyday contacts.

You may be more energetic and industrious. You may find new schemes and undertakings and be generally busy on a number of projects. Your home affairs may prosper and you may have a friendly feeling toward all in every way. Business should improve and you may have financial gains. Your health should be very much better and you may feel more inclined to take exercise than formerly and also improve your general surroundings. You are now at your best for harmonious work with others, and it is a propitious time in which to consummate marriage or to form some agreement in this direction. You should be circumspect in all your dealings with people, especially those who are in any way in a position to be classed as superiors, or who can in any way exercise authority over you. It may seem to you that unfairness and injustices are being brought to bear upon you but as this is but a passing influence and as you are likely to be greatly perturbed over even the smallest detail, do not put too much stress upon it. You may experience disappointment, and Mars may tend in some way to make this a trying and disagreeable time for you. You may have serious domestic troubles or estrangements and disappointments from those closely connected with you. Undertakings or engagements into which you may enter during this aspect may bring you trouble, therefore avoid being impulsive. It is not a favorable time in which to undertake to make changes, or to have important dealings or to allow sentiment to enter into your affairs in any way. Do not jeopardize your safety, as you are now under very quarrelsome and combative vibrations. It is not a favorable influence under which to plan or make journeys as you may suffer through them. This is a time in your life when you should attempt to realize your ambitions. The unexpected is the outstanding feature of this aspect. Take advantage of every invitation and opportunity which presents itself, for under this vibration every invitation may hold the possibility of an offer to assist you in achieving your goal. New friendships may enter into the life, bringing benefit and pleasant conditions. Your financial affairs should prosper, and should you be involved in litigation, this would be a favorable time in which to further it. Any long-standing difficulties can be readjusted during this period with success. Any work of a public nature would bring you preferment and gain. It is a favorable period for signing papers or contracts. This is an especially vital aspect for gain through friendships; therefore endeavor to enlarge your social circle. Romantic interests take on added vigor and home affairs prove more congenial and inviting, and it is an excellent time under which to consummate marriage. You may be subject during this period to many financial and personal difficulties. You should not attempt new projects of importance as the time is not ripe for success, unless Saturn is in friendly vibration in which case you may still experience financial problems. You may attract people of great prominence to you at this time but you need not expect any startling results through them. You are very likely to be over extravagant and waste your material. You are prone to financial losses and should you gain through partnerships you may have difficulty in obtaining it or litigation through it. You may at this time take peculiar views about personal relationships and may be very narrowed through this attitude in your activities. Unless Saturn is also in aspect, this is not the time to try and force your ambitions into completion as obstacles may confront you. You may be separated from or lose someone very near and dear to you. You are very likely to have misunderstandings through friends. Men at the head of affairs will be prominent in your life at this time, but no immediate help can be expected. Delays and promises usually follow. You may suffer through the actions of others, so beware of any financial propositions made to you during this vibration. You may at this time find your circulation in a very depleted condition, and you should favor yourself as much as possible. The condition of the general system is apt to need a lubrication. The kidneys and heart are particularly susceptible to annoyance.

This is a very good influence, an important one in which you are very likely to be strengthened both in your character and in your ability to cope with business problems. You may meet with people older than yourself and your mind will be steady, more capable of handling the titanic influences that greet you during this period. You should do all in your power to place yourself in positions of trust or where the future may be secured. This aspect is auspicious for business, and financial enterprise. In the home life you may experience better feeling and your health should improve. There is a tendency toward your being particularly attracted towards speculation and acquiring an attitude of risk which must be continually managed since you are likely to have an unfriendly Uranus and Jupiter aspect upsetting all your good plans. You may have a keen desire for pleasures and if partaken of wisely they will stimulate your mind, and make you much more magnetic. You are at this time particularly sensitive where the love nature plays an important part, and you should exercise great care, so that the desire for gratification does not overcome your better judgment. You will probably be more at ease and experience a feeling of friendship with the world in general but do not be merely optimistic. If you are married, you may expect much better conditions through your home life. Dealings with the public, also business ventures where tact and diplomacy are the vital essentials will bring you some success, unless you should also have an unfriendly Uranus or Jupiter aspect in which case this beneficial vibration would be modified.

This is a very unfavorable period and denotes a critical time, in which all your affairs may tend to go wrong. You may become more than usually suspicious. You may find added responsibilities thrust upon you, which may make you more anxious. Beware of becoming narrow and limited in your viewpoint. You should govern your actions with more than the usual amount of tact, as this is a particularly menacing period. This condition will affect you not only in your health but in business and heart affairs, and you are in danger of losses that may mean your entire financial status. Lawsuits are threatened and losses resulting therefrom. You may experience a great deal of quarreling, and as your mind is not in a state to cope with important conditions it can not be stressed too strongly that you handle with care any important projects. Domestic affairs are threatened, and separations and bickerings in your home life. In love affairs you may experience many disappointments and heartaches. You must exercise much judgment in all your dealings, as you will be less magnetic under this influence, therefore less attractive even to those vitally interested in you. Be circumspect in your business enterprises and avoid risks, troubles, or difficulties through partnerships of any kind. You may find however that you will be greatly strengthened by the ordeals through which you may be obliged to pass.
If You Were Born Between Sept. 21st and Oct. 10th

This is a disturbing influence and brings about the unexpected. Your affairs are very likely to suddenly go wrong. This condition may bring upsets of personal interests astounding in nature, unless you think carefully and proceed slowly. You should avoid making business changes or traveling unless you have other favorable aspects in operation which would aid you through this vibration. You are very likely to meet with strenuous opposition and to suffer estrangements and separations. Trouble through partnerships and the home is threatened. Impulsive actions are very likely to prove inimical to your future welfare. It is certainly not an auspicious aspect under which to force conditions! Avoid disputes, and keep clear of all legal affairs. Your mind may be very active but it is certain that important issues need handling. This is also a chaotic influence under which to further any new friendships. Pay marked attention to the health and immediate care to any bodily disorders, that may manifest themselves at this time. The love nature may bring conditions that are disappointing. This vibration may usher in a period marking an epoch in your life unless you use caution. It will require every possible resisting power of yours to overcome desire and avoid throwing discretion to the winds. Bear in mind that nothing of a sudden nature during this condition can bring you any marked benefits. Await a more favorable influence in which to further your interests.

This is a fortunate influence as it tends to make your mind very alert and may bring you some marked success. This, however, owing to other planetary influences prevailing throughout this year, must be taken advantage of immediately; otherwise, it is not sufficiently strong to overcome the other vibrations. You may be more courageous and enterprising and thereby bring about some decided benefits, which may, however, take some time for materialization. You may very likely make some new friendships, or have a better understanding with old ones, but do not take these friendships too seriously, as they may be of short duration.

Your judgment may be much more reserved and less likely to impulsiveness. Your character will certainly be strengthened and it is the time to devote yourself to routine work. Many new projects may arise in which you may have a temporary interest; but unless you benefit immediately, do not look for any startling return. You are apt to be much more temperate in a general way, in your activities in business, as well as socially. You may seek fulfilment of projects. Financial matters take on new life, but no great preferment or promotion can be expected this year because of the other planetary vibrations prevailing. This aspect will, however, bring in a breathing spell and permit some activity for a time. Some activity in your romantic affairs may be apparent.

Under this aspect, you should avoid over-activity and impulsiveness in all your dealings. Do not speculate or take risks of any kind, as this is not a favorable influence and your judgment may not be at its best. During this period some news of a depressing nature may bring unpleasantness, but your understanding will enable you to overcome any of the vicissitudes of life through faith and intelligent coping with situations. It would be wise for you to realize that this is not the time in which to attempt to further any of your affairs, rather than to attend to routine duties. Financial matters may prove a great strain to you and you may lose through litigation, so do nothing where you are involved in any way with the law. You may be susceptible to physical disturbances at this time, but as Mars is so quick in action, this will soon pass away. Watch your diet closely and pay marked attention to your health, and at the least symptom of disorder, take some corrective measure. Avoid risks of any kind. Love affairs may not seem to prosper, or they may cause you annoyance. If you are married, you may experience some disagreeable situations through the home environment. You may receive some inheritance or be mentioned in some way for financial promotion. Avoid being too free with your money and refrain from expending all your income. This is a period in your life when your financial affairs may cause you unusual stress. It is therefore, necessary that you watch your expenditures and that you curb any tendency toward extravagance. It is likely to bring unexpected pressure on your material goods and place obligations upon you that are depleting. You may find, should you be engaged in litigation of any kind, difficulty in arriving at a settlement; therefore do not involve yourself in legal matters. Some irritation regarding finances may be encountered through inheritance and it is advisable to make adjustment wherever possible while under this aspect. Trusted friends may seem unreasonable at this time and you should avoid being too critical. Romantic interests may prove disappointing and you may subject yourself to disparagement unless you are particularly cautious in your contact with people, especially so, if you are interested in dealing with the public, or in any public ventures. Avoid arguments where your heart affairs are concerned; otherwise, you may cause estrangement, bringing worry and disillusionment in its train. In your business affairs, it would be wise for you to curb the tendency to go to extremes in finances. It is not a period during which you should make changes in your home life or in your business. Be circumspect of new friendships and do not be overly-confident in any affairs involving finances.

This is a steady and persevering influence. You should do much to put matters on a firm basis and endeavor to improve your financial standing. Matters, particularly those connected with the home and social life, that have been uncertain or unsatisfactory should be adjusted to your liking during this vibration. You may form friendships with older people and come into closer contact with your everyday associates in the commercial world. Your mind will now be firm and tenacious and you will be capable of taking advantage of opportunities. It is a propitious period in which to make investments of a sound nature that have not a speculative aspect. You are now under restricting conditions. It would be wise for you not to take life too seriously. You are likely to have many obstacles placed in your path, and you may find it difficult to surmount them. You may be anxious over the health of some older people connected with you, and may find it generally a depleting influence. You can greatly overcome this condition by guarding your physical condition and paying strict attention to your diet during this aspect. You may feel depressed and moody and should associate yourself with cheerful companions. Sleep a great deal during Saturn's reign. Financial conditions may prove trying, and a general slowing up in all matters may be experienced. It is, however, a propitious period for attending to routine work and much may be accomplished by you in this direction. Heart interests may cause you worry and annoyance, and you may tend to magnify conditions. Be cheerful and keep yourself occupied mentally and physically.

This is a fortunate influence. This will make your mind more buoyant, give you confidence and in every way bring a pleasant, cheerful outlook upon life. Your emotions may be stirred to extremes and you should guard against flights of fancy, particularly where heart interests are concerned. You may find yourself greatly moved into the expression of the more spiritual interests in life, such as psychology, philosophy and religion, and the reading of elevating literature will greatly aid and stimulate you. Prosperity of a most unusual kind is likely to come into your life; in other words, a boon may be looked for. It is certainly the time when fortune is smiling at you and it may fill your cup to overflowing. You may take some long journey or voyage at this time which will benefit you in many ways. Your mind will take on a serious mood and you will therefore be capable of handling any ventures with thought and contemplation, which will greatly add to your good fortune. You may feel the desire to improve your entire surroundings and this is the time to do so. The higher nature in you will broaden in every way. This is a very good influence, but the activity of this vibration quickly passes. You must do everything in your power to grasp opportunities that may arise, through your own efforts. You will, during this vibration, be much more courageous, more enterprising and far more confident in your own ability, than at other times. It will give you, however, an adventurous spirit and you may come in contact with people who will stir you both mentally and physically. You will give way to your feelings and, if you take a journey, you may meet the one person in the world who may be able to help you or benefit you. That in itself does not mean that you should go off in search of somebody, but whatever is destined to come into your life, may come in under this aspect. Financial matters may take on a very active turn, and you may at this time make some money. The action of Mars being rapid, it is sure to cause you to have a very adventurous period. If you are in any way connected with the public or political life, this is the time to forge ahead and try to attain your desires. Caution, however, is the keynote for you during this period. Your understanding will become broadened and you will be in a position to make the proper choice in your activities.

This is the time in your life when you should use caution in all your undertakings. Avoid being impulsive in any way and any matters of importance should be delayed until after the passing of this influence. Particularly is this true if you are connected in any way with business affairs. It is not a propitious time to sign contracts or to deal with the public unless you can govern your impulses and avoid friction. You are very likely, under this influence, to invite enmity and it would be wise for you to practice self-control. Use "Caution" as your motto and you will overcome this dominating influence. Do nothing which may involve you with the law, as you are particularly susceptible to difficulties from this source. Do not enter into religious arguments or disputes, as this may bring you some form of mental worry and suffering. Your judgment is not at its best and you may be at cross-purposes with your social and business associates, so keep away from these conflicting influences until the passing of Mars. Any journeys which may be necessary should be delayed until this influence is over. Love affairs may cause you mental anxiety and worry, but this being merely a temporary condition, do not put too much stress upon it. Pay particular attention to your health and do not expose yourself to any physical danger. Guard particularly against colds in the chest, and difficulties with your feet.

It is a favorable time to ask the aid of those who may be in a position to help you. The occasion for taking unexpected journeys may present itself and a foreign journey or dealings with foreign affairs would prove beneficial. Business affairs should afford you the opportunity to make the best use of your associations. In romantic interests, happy conditions should manifest themselves and it is a favorable period in which to consummate marriage. In the home life, more settled and prosperous conditions may prevail. Your mind will become inspired to better things, and if you have an opportunity to do public work, you may gain some honor and preferment through it. If you receive at the same time the aspect of Uranus this Jupiter influence will greatly modify it.

You are now under unfavorable conditions and you may experience a rather trying time. You are more than likely to suffer through opposition of others, and may have some serious disappointments. It is certainly not the time in which to enter into or make contracts of any kind or sign any papers, but be particularly careful in your dealings with the law. Litigation of any kind during this period will prove unsatisfactory for you. You may find it difficult to meet conditions financially and you must learn during this aspect to curtail your expenses to meet your income, otherwise you may find yourself rather deeply involved. In affairs of the heart you may find that people to whom you have been greatly attached may disappoint you. It may be that you may meet someone and find yourself very much tied up with them and later find that it has all been a mistake. Be circumspect of all people with whom you may have dealings, particularly those who may be of vital importance to you. It is not the time to try and gain social advantages because you are not as magnetic as you are at other times and therefore not as attractive. Watch the health, particularly the chest and shoulders and the nervous system as well so that you do not become ill. Everything can be overcome, it merely requires judgment on your part and care in all your dealings. You may have a strong desire to travel and care should be exercised in the selection of the place or direction, and also the people with whom you may come into contact.

You may come into contact with those people who may have a permanent effect upon you, and mold much of your future during this aspect. You may expect honors and preferment from friends. New interests may enter your life and you should make every possible attempt to further them. Your ambitions may at this time be realized where the help of powerful friends can be utilized. In the management of your business dealings and other interests, your mind will be more stern and austere and you may feel at your best, and in harmony with the universe in general. Business will prosper and success is certainly apparent while this condition lasts. Your love affairs will take on new light and it is an auspicious time in which to arrange for the future. New interests or renewals of old friendships that enter in the life at this period may tend to bring you more happiness than at any other time and it would be wise for you to further your affairs in this direction. Financial conditions may improve and gains and success attend you. However a great deal is dependent upon your methods during the course of this vibration. The religious, political and philosophical side of life will interest you to a great degree—foreign journeys and contacts will be beneficial. If you have children some help and honor may attend you directly or indirectly through this source. Real estate and able solid investments may prove to be financially profitable.

This is not a beneficial aspect. You may now have opportunities to assume greater and more responsible positions but meet with obstacles and difficulties both through business and social affairs. You are very likely to meet many people older than yourself, who will in some way prove troublesome to you. Your mind will be more conservative, concentative, and persevering, but you must avoid depression and melancholy people. Keep your mind optimistic. It is not the time to further new interests, especially those affairs that have been lying dormant. Be calm and await favorable aspects. During this aspect you may find that a great many foreign interests will occupy your mind and you will take a journey or desire to do so, but are likely to meet with disappointments. This aspect will give you firm ground for improvement both in your beliefs and in your home surroundings through lessons learned and if you can benefit through experience this period will be an epoch maker in your career. Affairs of the heart may greatly interest you but some obstacles to complete happiness ensue, and if you are married you may not have the greatest congeniality from your partner. Love affairs will prosper but you are very likely to be unhappy because of difficulties. Lawsuits and contentions that arise should be postponed until you are under more favorable influences. Should your enterprises in any way bring you in contact with the general public, you are more likely to meet with ups and downs than at any other time. Be philosophic and occupy your mind with constructive reading.

This is a beneficial aspect. You may now have unexpected opportunities to assume greater and more responsible positions both through business and social affairs but you must proceed with caution because of Saturn's depleting influence. You are very likely to meet many people older than yourself who will in some way prove of benefit to you. Your mind will be more conservative, concentrative and persevering and you will feel the need for change but do so only after the greatest caution. It is an excellent time in which to further your interests, especially those affairs that have been lying dormant, but completion is unlikely. During this aspect you may find that a great many foreign interests will occupy your mind and you will take a journey or desire to do so. This aspect will give you firm ground for improvement both in your beliefs and in your home surroundings; also a foothold for financial betterment for future developments. Affairs of the heart will benefit you greatly, and if you are married you may expect congeniality from the partner. Love affairs will prosper and you are very likely to be happy in any affairs of the heart but have some difficulty in your path. It is an auspicious time to marry but the success of it depends upon your ability to cope with obstacles. In any enterprise where partnership plays an important part further these interests to the utmost but begin no new enterprise for immediate undertaking. Law suits and contentions that come naturally will prove favorable to you but cause annoyance. Should your enterprises in any way bring you in contact with the general public you are more likely to meet with success if you can overcome stubbornness and delay. Make the most of your conditions.

You are at this time under influences which make it essential for you to handle your affairs carefully. This is a limiting period, requiring more effort than usual to overcome obstacles. It would be wise to defer any important matters until some future time. New thought and new ideas may be upsetting, so avoid as much as possible changing your present views. Do not take on radical and hindering beliefs and also be careful of your expression in the discussion of religion. Close adherence to the Divine Intelligence, with understanding of the efficacy of prayer, will do much to help you over this upsetting period. This is not a propitious time for dealing with interests of importance. Your judgment is not at its best and under this cross vibration, you should avoid ventures where the element of risk plays an important part. Your affairs may prove to be disappointing and you should avoid intimacy with new friends. Be discreet in your actions and avoid undue criticism. Love interests are likely to cause you some unhappiness. Do not take yourself or life too seriously. You may experience delays in your schemes or in cherished ambitions, and the more important issues of life. Avoid quarrels with those closely connected with you, as you are less magnetic during this period and you are not apt to attract people. Loss of friends and relatives is likely to occur. It is not a favorable aspect under which to further affairs in general, but as Mars is fast in motion, and this year is a particularly good one for you, any friction would be of short duration. Important changes or travels, especially by water, should not be undertaken at this time, and you should exercise your judgment and avoid throwing discretion to the winds. You should be most careful in all of your actions at this time, especially in your mental attitude toward others, as you are very likely to suffer disappointment and be affected by those closely connected with you. This vibration may separate you from loved ones in some manner. It is not an auspicious time in which to undertake any commitments, particularly those pertaining to business ventures. You are apt to suffer criticism from the general public and from those intimately concerned with you. Your mother's affairs may prove a source of annoyance in some way, and it would be unwise to further matters that have been lying dormant and awaiting completion. Rather busy yourself with routine matters and let well-enough alone. As this is a most trying influence, affairs of the heart can bring you nothing but disappointment, as you are likely to be in opposition with your better nature and therefore much less magnetic. Losses are bound to accrue to you. Avoid arguments, and in every way govern all your activities, by using common sense and giving every matter, regardless of how trivial it may seem, your utmost attention. This is an unfavorable aspect and is likely to bring you sudden difficulties, unexpected delays and upsets. Your magnetism will be at low ebb and thereby cause you to attract to you the more undesirable elements, and recognition from people in high office may cause difficulties. This condition brings sudden gains and losses in business and if you are an employee you may expect increase in salary and be disappointed at the last moment, so do not anticipate. It is unfavorable for handling affairs in general as the mind is very quick and active and hasty in difficulties; therefore refrain from attempting new interests. It also tends to make you impractical and you require perception in handling affairs. Interests in general take activity and enthusiasm but difficulties are apparent. Do not further matters to the utmost as you are likely to be over-enthusiastic and ideas may prove detrimental to you later on. The affairs of some elderly man closely connected with you may bring upsets at this time. Your mental condition will be greatly stimulated but you require rest and quiet. New friendships and acquaintances and heart interests may cause annoyance. A great majority of marriages will be consummated under these influences but with difficulties. Females in particular may make some very interesting friendships but the unexpected is likely to be encountered. Use discretion and faith and you can overcome any trying situation.

Encourage those people with whom you may come in contact and make the most of a very brief good influence. You may, however, be a trifle aggressive and the desire to do too many things and scatter your energies should be checked. Any journeys taken at this time are likely to prove more fortunate than at other times. It is a particularly successful influence for people who are connected with the public in any way, or with newspapers, politics, writings, etc. It is a good period in which to make contracts or agreements, as you are less likely to meet with opposition than at other times. It is not a favorable time in which to take risks in financial matters. You may feel greatly inclined toward excess in pleasure of all kinds, so govern yourself accordingly. This influence may separate you from friends, due primarily to your own belligerent moods at this time, so avoid antagonizing those people whom you regard, or hope to regard, as friends. Romantic interests may prove disappointing and you may subject yourself to disparagement unless you are particularly cautious in your contact with people, especially so, if you are interested in dealing with the public, or in any public ventures. Avoid arguments where your heart affairs are concerned; otherwise, you may cause estrangement, bringing worry and disillusionment in its train. In your business affairs, it would be wise for you to curb the tendency to go to extremes in finances. It is not a period during which you should make changes in your home life or in your business. This is a very good influence; an important one in which you are very likely to be strengthened both in your character and in your will and desire nature. You may meet with people much older than yourself and your mind will be steady, more capable of handling the titanic influences that may greet you during this period. You should do all in your power to place yourself in positions of trust or where the future may be secured. This aspect is auspicious for business; your mind being sincere, you are capable of handling matters of great importance. In the home life you may experience better times, and your health should improve. There is a tendency toward your being particularly attracted toward speculation and to have strong gambling tendencies which if handled carefully might result in gain for you. You may have a keen desire for pleasures and if partaken of wisely they will stimulate your mind and make you much more magnetic. You are at this time particularly sensitive where the love nature plays an important part, and you should exercise great care, so that the desire for gratification does not overcome your better judgment. You will probably be more at ease and experience a feeling of friendship with the world in general. Not only will your love affairs take on new life but success will attend you in affairs of the heart. If you are married you may expect much better conditions through your home life. Dealings with the public, also business ventures where tact and diplomacy are the vital essentials, will bring you marked success and you should strive to interest yourself in social affairs, meet people, go about and make yourself generally acquainted and any functions that bring you directly or indirectly with the masses are sure to end in ultimate success for you.
If You Were Born Between Jan. 21st and Feb. 20th

Indicating favorable and unfavorable periods from 1928 through 1932, inclusive

This is a rather trying period for you. You are likely to be depressed and given to moods. Conditions of a disturbing nature may make themselves felt, and you may find it necessary to put forth greater effort than is customary in order to achieve or accomplish adequate results for your labors. You may experience some disturbing conditions through friends or associates, and should be particularly cautious in your everyday relations. If so-called barriers present themselves, remember that all people are human and are subject to idiosyncrasies, and make allowance for them, as under this vibration you are very likely to magnify conditions and cause yourself needless worry. Guard your health and watch your diet, also the health of older people connected with you in your domestic life. If conditions arise that are beyond your control, you must realize that what is, is best, and that as long as you are doing the best within your ability and are conscientious the law of compensation will mete out your reward. Take no unnecessary risks financially, and make no changes that can possibly be avoided. New friends made under this influence can not be especially relied upon, and some difficulty may arise through them. Think well before severing any existing ties. Have a great amount of faith and keep in mind the fact that you can make your life what you will, and that while the stars incline they do not compel; you are the master of your own destiny.

You are now under unfavorable conditions. Matters will seem to go wrong and unpleasant events will succeed in making their presence felt. This planetary condition causes anxiety of mind and the dread of things to come, thereby causing unsettling conditions and hindering success and activities. There may be losses through relations or trouble concerning them. Your health is very likely to cause you to suffer some peculiar nervous disorders unless you absolutely govern yourself and avoid impulsive actions. You are apt to rush headlong into disputes and arguments, particularly those pertaining to religious beliefs and those involving finances, bringing the greatest difficulty since they may seem to be abundant and still the outgo may greatly exceed the income. As this is a period of so-called malign influences, matters of importance should be postponed. Foreign interests may hold your attention, but no particular benefit may result. A foreign journey at this time would not meet with the desired success. It is certainly not advisable to accept or contemplate any proposals of marriage during this period as only disappointment can accrue you as a result unless Jupiter also is aspecting you, in which event some benefits may arise through the vicissitudes of environment. You will have to dominate the mind, particularly where financial matters and the affections are concerned, by the sheer force of your personality and better judgment, since, through understanding, situations are solved.

You should not take things too literally, nor disregard your health at this time. It is not a propitious time to make changes, as they may not prove advantageous. You may meet new friends but no marked benefits can be hoped for, although you may experience some pleasure through them. You must particularly guard against deceit or under-handedness through this source. Your love interests are apt to keep you in state of uncertainty and misunderstandings are likely to occur.
